

ROOSEVELT WINS TRIUMPH

Democrats Sweep 46 States

PRESIDENT'S PLURALITY IS 10 MILLION

Roosevelt Surpasses Popular Rating of 4 Years Ago; Gets 523 Electorals

G. O. P. LOSES SENATE ONLY TWO STATES; MAINE AND VERMONT, SUPPORT MAN FROM PRAIRIE STATE

With President Franklin D. Roosevelt carrying 46 states in Tuesday's general election, the democratic party experienced the largest sweep in the history of the United States.

Roosevelt marched through the Kansas ballots to claim nearly 25,000 votes over the State's favorite son, Alf M. Landon, while Landon found favor in only two states—Maine and Vermont—giving Roosevelt all but eight electoral college votes.

Roosevelt's plurality of 7,000,000 four years ago is surpassed by his present plurality of more than 10,000,000.

At the same time the democrats were making such an overwhelming victory for the nation's highest office, they were also gaining strength in the Senate by adding 11 from the Solid South to their 47 carryovers, while the republicans added only one senator to sit with their 11 holdovers. Only 42 seats are needed for a Senate majority, as returns are nearly complete, the democrats have rolled up 75.

The Senate defeat is a blow to the republicans who lose veterans Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island, Warren B. Gurnea of New Jersey, Lester J. Dickinson of Iowa and Robert D. Carey of Wyoming.

From Nebraska comes Senator George W. Norris, a republican deserter who preferred to run on an independent ticket. Minnesota sends Farmer-Laborite Ernest Lundeen to the Senate with Roosevelt's support. Since Congress disbanded last summer the republican seats have been reduced from 23 to 14.

The House of Representatives has been caught in the democratic sweep. Returns for the House are coming in slowly but the republicans lost their 103 representation early in the vote count. The democrats are sure, at this time of 327 of the 435 members—another new record for the party.

MRS. ELLIOTT, 85, DIES AT SAFFORD HOME SATURDAY

Mrs. Esther Elliott, for 60 years a resident of Northville, died Saturday evening, Oct. 31, at the home of her son, Chief of Police William H. Safford, where she had made her home for a number of years.

Mrs. Elliott (nee, Esther Quinn) was born in Warren, O., July 5, 1851. To her first marriage two sons were born, William of this village, and Horace S. of Redford.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt upset the election straw vote counts by taking Michigan and Kansas, along with 44 other states, while Maine and Vermont are loyal to Alf M. Landon.

CHIEF GIVES CARMACK TICKET FOR SPEEDING

Reporting his first arrest for speeding in many months, Chief of Police William H. Safford sent a written notice to the village council Monday evening, confirming the charge he had brought against Fred Carmack, Novi, whom he had arrested recently for fast driving in Northville.

According to the Chief's report, Carmack was fined and placed on three month's probation.

EATON LEADS DESPITE DEM GRAND SLAM

Northville, Plymouth Voters Loyal to Mail Editor in Fifth District Race

While the county the State and the nation at large marched Tuesday to the polls to give the democrats the largest vote ever recorded, a Plymouth republican, Elton R. Eaton, Plymouth Mail editor, came through the ballot box in the fifth legislative district victorious by a 2,000 margin over his opponent, Eugene R. Handel.

In a press statement Mr. Eaton commented upon his victory, saying: "To secure such a vote in the republican ticket in the face of the greatest democratic landslide since the beginning of political parties is indeed something one has a perfect right to be proud of. As election board workers checked over the ballots and found that not only hundreds, but thousands, had split their tickets in order to assist in the election of at least one republican on the ticket, and to know that this splitting of tickets was 'most predominant' in localities where the publisher of The Mail is best known, one cannot help but feel most grateful for such an expression of good will."

"Our views and ideas on public questions and problems have been expressed freely and frequently in the editorial columns of The Plymouth Mail. Apparently the voting public approves thoroughly of our opinions on problems of the day," continued Mr. Eaton.

Miss Reber comes to Northville with commendable credentials from college instructors. While in school she was a member of the variety debate team, took part in oratory and extemporaneous speaking; belonged to the Home Economics club, the Spartan Women's League, the Judiciary Board of Associated Women students; and was secretary of Omicron Nu, the national Home Economics honorary society. In her sophomore year, she was granted an honorary scholarship at the college.

Upon the completion of her college to go to the Merrill Palmer school in Detroit. She declined this to accept a position on the Monroe high school faculty this fall. Serious illness during the summer months made it necessary for her to give up the Monroe place.

"Aunt Ida" Hendryx and Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald Are Principal Figures at G. O. P. Old Time Flag Raising Party

"Aunt Ida" Hendryx, Northville's oldest woman republican voter, was a surprise figure at the flag raising ceremony, sponsored by the Young Republican club which tied in with Friday's Halloween Harvest Festival activities promoted by the Civic association, when $100 was raised for the Boy Scout building fund.

Aunt Ida shared honors with Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald when Old Glory and the Landon-Knox banners were raised before more than 300 villagers and visitors who attend this old time celebration, the only such occasion held in the state during the campaign.

For the second time in her life, 81-year-old Aunt Ida talked into a microphone to read an original flag eulogy as the Colors were hoisted atop a pole erected in the Main and Center street parking lot.

"I always carry the poem in my purse and it's a good thing too, because I didn't know I was going to be in the ceremony until I was called from the woman's club room that afternoon," asserted Aunt Ida, who (Continued on Page Eight)

MRS. C. M. ZIMMERMAN RESIGNS SCHOOL JOB

Miss Doris Reber, Michigan State Graduate, Granted Teaching Contract

Northville's school board has accepted the resignation to be effective Nov. 13, submitted last week by Mrs. Claude M. Zimmerman, high school home economics teacher since 1935.

In Mrs. Zimmerman's letter to the board she asked to be released from her present contract so that she might spend the winter in California with her parents—Mr. and Mrs. Mark Morse of Carson City. They will leave for the coast, Nov. 15.

Already board members have taken action to fill the vacancy and a contract has been granted to Miss Doris Reber of Petoskey, who was graduated last June from the Michigan State college, East Lansing, with a B. S. degree in home economics.

Miss Reber comes to Northville with commendable credentials from college instructors. While in school she was a member of the variety debate team, took part in oratory and extemporaneous speaking; belonged to the Home Economics club, the Spartan Women's League, the Judiciary Board of Associated Women students; and was secretary of Omicron Nu, the national Home Economics honorary society. LEGION MEN REVIVE ANNUAL ARMISTICE DAY VILLAGE DANCE

Reviving the Armistice Day dances which were popular in the village for a number of years, the American Legion comes forward this week to release the committees, which are working for the dance Wednesday evening, Nov. 11, in the high school gymnasium.

Claude Ely, chairman of the decoration committee, says that he'll use patriotic colors and banners together with fall flowers and autumn foliage in making the hall festive for the occasion. Begote Stephens, Harry Bolton and Mr. Carlson of South Lyon are Mr. Ely's committeemen.

Lyle Alexander was assigned the job of hiring the dance orchestra. He has selected Chick Miller's Cavaliers, popular rhythm makers who have been heard on a number of occasions at parties in surrounding suburbs, as well as in Northville.

According to Merrill Sweet, publicity chairman, William H. Safford, chief of police, will be asked to give police protection service that night at the school parking lot. Orlov G. Owen's Boy Scouts will have charge of the checking booth. Mrs. Wilbur H. Johnston, heads the Auxiliary refreshment committee.

During the evening, a washing machine will be given away.

ROTARY CLUB HOLDS LANGFIELD MEMORIAL

F. Foreman, R. T. Baldwin and O. Goldsmith Pay Tribute in Speeches

With Fred Foreman as the chief speaker, the weekly meeting of the Northville Rotary club Tuesday was made a memorial service for Edward C. Langfield, charter member and past president of the club, whose sudden death last Friday brought grief to Northville people. Other tributes were given by Richard T. Baldwin and Oliver Goldsmith of Plymouth.

Opening his talk on "Flowers," Mr. Foreman said "Ed. Langfield has left us all a wonderful record. Among other things that he taught us were the joys of friendship. The rewards of friendship are so great that I wonder that men do not take more time to cultivate their friends."

The flowers of life are of two kinds, continued the Rotary speaker, the tangible and the intangible. The first can be seen; the others are unseen. Tell us a number of incidents that the giving of flowers at the time of illness and death brought comfort. Mr. Foreman continued: "Flowers are in beauty but above all they are messengers of love and goodwill. Sometimes we stumble and fall in trying to give our expressions of sympathy, but 'flowers' make no mistake."

"The intangible flowers grow and bloom in the heart and make life worth living," added the speaker. "It is your business and mine to go to the heart of a man and give him sympathy and helplessness. It is the little things that count and that bind men together in the bonds of friendship." Mr. Foreman concluded his address was most impressive.

Mr. Baldwin eulogized the life of Mr. Langfield as that of a "four-square" man whose chief qualities were those of friendliness, honesty, loyalty and love of the beautiful in brief remarks. Mr. Goldsmith paid a touching tribute to the deceased Rotarian. Called upon by President Wm. E. Forney, Bruce Turnbull, (Continued on Page Five)

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Northville Record)—Nelson Schrader, giant junior from Northville, is seeing a great deal of service with Michigan State's football team this fall at left tackle. Schrader has been showing the left tackle position with Howard Zindel, the All-American candidate, and Harry Spearman.

Schrader has been making all the trips with the Spartans this fall, travelling to Milwaukee, Pittsburgh and Boston. Next week the Spartans will go to Lawrence, Kans., for their last game away from home this fall. Temple University plays here next Saturday in a game that promises to be one of the best here in several seasons.

Schrader, weighing 225 pounds, is the heaviest lineman on the squad. He won't minor, "S" last year but this fall seems to be on the way to a major letter. He is a very popular member of the squad.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL TO E. C. LANGFIELD

Pay Final Tribute to Vice-President of Northville Laboratories

Last rites were held at 2 p. m. Monday, from the Langfield home, 501 Fairbrook avenue, for one of Northville's most prominent citizens, E. C. Langfield, 67, vice-president of the Northville Laboratories.

Death came to Mr. Langfield Friday morning at the Highland Park General hospital where his condition was considered critical following a heart attack suffered Monday as he was returning to Northville from Detroit where he had been a fullbearer at the funeral of a friend.

With his death the Northville Rotary club loses a charter member, its second president, and the chairman of the international service committee. Ever since the Denver convention in 1926, he had been the official delegate of the club at the international meetings. He attended Rotary International at Ostend, Belgium; Detroit and Atlantic City, N. J.

Constantly eager to have Northville's school keep in step with all educational advances, he was a member of the board of education from July, 1927, to July, 1929. The youth of Northville knew him as the father of the school band. It was through his efforts that this musical group was organized in 1927 and much credit for the honor the band won throughout the State went to him. He personally managed the band and traveled with the group for a number of years. Final tribute was paid him Monday when the last attended his funeral.

Born in Prussia, Germany, he came to this country when he was 12.

BAND FATHER DIES

A lover of boys, E. C. Langfield, founded Northville's band when he was secretary of the board of education. A lover of flowers, it was his honor to present bouquets to fellow Rotarians on their birthday anniversaries. During the 22 years of his residence in the village, Mr. Langfield vice-president of the Northville Laboratories, entered actively into civic and lodge affairs of the community.

With a strong 7 to 3 vote, the township voted to adopt the primary system for the nomination of its officers, instead of the caucus method which has been discarded in practically every township in the State.

Like most local voters approved of amendments one and two which provided to make it possible for any officer of the law to offer any person asked outside a dwelling house to the court as evidence and which would permit counties to restrict their power to contract debts and limit U. S. tax rate.

The two amendments, three and four, which threatened to slash the school budget exempting foods and personal property from taxation, were killed here. Returns from the state are coming in slowly on this point, but incomplete tabulations indicate that the amendments may pass.

LYON FIRM SENDS LOW LOCKER BID

Locker bids for Northville's new $35,000 grade school now under construction were received from four companies Monday evening by members of the board of education. Low bidder was the Lyon Metal Products company with offices in Detroit. Subject to PWA approval, this bid was tentatively accepted, according to a press release by Superintendent Russell H. Amerman.

DEMS TAKE PRECINCT 2 BY 3 VOTES

Fitzgerald is Local Favorite by 1079-593 Counts; State Goes to Murphy

HEAVY VOTE TABULATED AT BOTH POLLS—REPORTS IN LATE WEDNESDAY

Although Michigan swung into the democratic column in almost every instance at Tuesday's election, republicans in Northville township kept a slightly less than 5 to 3 lead in precinct one and less than a 3 to 2 lead in precinct two, losing only one candidate—Landon—to the democrats—who carried off presidential honors in the second precinct by a three-vote margin.

Registration in the township reached a new high last week with 2,700 names on the books, but the actual turn out for voting was 973 in the first precinct and 836 in precinct two.

With a strong 7 to 3 vote, the township voted to adopt the primary system for the nomination of its officers, instead of the caucus method which has been discarded in practically every township in the State.

Like most local voters approved of amendments one and two which provided to make it possible for any officer of the law to offer any person asked outside a dwelling house to the court as evidence and which would permit counties to restrict their power to contract debts and limit U. S. tax rate.

The two amendments, three and four, which threatened to slash the school budget exempting foods and personal property from taxation, were killed here. Returns from the state are coming in slowly on this point, but incomplete tabulations indicate that the amendments may pass.

Despite the fact that the State has favored Frank Murphy rather than Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald in the gubernatorial race, Northville gave him a 9 to 5 lead over the Roosevelt-endorsed high commissioner to the Philippines, Luren D. Dickinson held a firm margin here over Leo J. Norrski, his opponent for lieutenant governor, only to lose in the State's contest.

Orville E. Atwood maintained a lead over Leon D. Case in the fight for secretary of state. David H. Crowley was the favorite over Raymond W. Starr for attorney general. (Continued on Page Five)

LOOKS LIKE SECOND VICTORY FOR E. A. DONDERO, ROYAL OAK

Despite the unprecedented rush of votes to the democrats, Congressman George A. Dondero, Royal Oak, has kept a steady lead by more than 853 votes over his democratic opposition, Draper Allen.

At 10:30 a. m. Thursday, Dondero's office reported that five Wayne County precincts were still out. They are precincts which are normally republican, it is understood.

Although Dondero lost Oakland county, he gained enough ballots in Wayne county to offset the loss.

With reelection practically assured, Dondero goes back to Congress for a second term where he consistently plugged away for an adequate old age pension. Twice he has gone on record by vote to increase by one-third the amount of federal aid to the states to take care of his program.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE ROOSEVELT LANDSLIDE

The overwhelming victory of President Roosevelt at the national election Tuesday is called a "landslide." That is the wrong figure of speech—his victory is so cataclysmic that it should be termed a "tidal wave." It certainly swept all before it and literally stunned the leaders of both parties, paralyzed the prognosticators and left the "poll takers" high and dry in a tree, wondering if they will ever again be so silly as to get so serious about straw votes—just what did they mean, anyway?

What means this tremendous victory for the New Deal?

At this time no one can tell. Thoughtful men and women will wish they knew what might happen. Some things are clear.

Rightly or wrongly "the voice of the people" is not always "the voice of God." President Roosevelt has been given the greatest amount of power ever placed in the hands of an American president. The power that has been put in his keeping is so overwhelming and complete that it must be sobering to him and surely sobering to that vast host of Americans of all parties who have seen the dangerous foreign trends in our government affairs. How Roosevelt will use this power only history will tell. Some predict that the president's second term will be a conservative one. That would be some comfort to those who still believe in the constitution and in the American form of government. Yet he made no promises during the campaign and if he chooses, for example, to resurrect some form of the NRA, who can say what will happen? But suppose that he does turn conservative, to make his name secure for history, who can keep in leash all the mixed forces of liberalism and radicalism—call the roll of the forces that gave the president this great victory—and who can predict what will happen if these forces unite to oppose a conservative program? There are plenty of things that can happen.

The next four years will be years of great difficulty in the nation and in the world. Without the united help of all factions and all great leaders, no president, no matter how magnetic, will be "big" enough to lead us out into the highway of peace. Class hatreds have, in this campaign, been stirred that will not be easily downed. No one can envy our president in the great task that confronts him. His is a truly herculean problem and all true Americans will hope that he will take the right paths to a solution.

Notwithstanding the great New Deal victory, the tremendous national debt was not voted out on Tuesday. That still remains. It can't be laughed off or forgotten. If the budget is not balanced what will happen in the event of some serious emergency? Of course this is of no concern to that vast army of men and women whose only interest in government is in a pay check or a job but it is of mighty interest to serious minded people who know the possibilities of inflation or of repudiation of our obligations. A nation as well as an individual can go bankrupt. Witness Germany.

Well, maybe we see it too seriously. The bright side is that this is still the greatest country on earth. Although there are many forces of unrest at work among us, we all believe that the majority are God-fearing men and women who will help bring about the goals of right living and happiness for us all. We are all Americans and as such we shall all do our part to make this the land of opportunity for the humblest. If our leaders will bring to their side a non-partisan group of students of government and make this next administration one of law and not of men, the way ahead should be bright.

WILL THERE BE A NEW PARTY IN 1940?

Following the events of the campaign just closed, it is not at all a wild assertion to make that the president of the United States chosen in 1940 may be picked from one of two or more new parties. Two of these new parties might be conservatives and liberals. Certainly the evidence points that way.

The campaign of 1936 was not between republicans and democrats as we have known them. It was between New Dealers and anti-New Dealers. President Roosevelt, in fact, rarely used the word democrat. For him it was always the New Deal. As another matter of fact, to help the New Deal he actually wrecked the democratic party of Minnesota (where he had his candidates resign in favor of his candidates on another ticket). So far from democratic promises of 1932 did the president stray that he was denounced by two former democratic presidential candidates and a host of other old-line democrats. "He has taken the democratic party from us," summarizes their bitter comment. Where will this vast number of Jeffersonian democrats be found in 1940? Certainly not with Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Farley.

The assumption that the fight in 1940 will be between conservatives and liberals is reasonable. And with the lines more sharply drawn than they were this year, the conservatives would have an excellent chance to win, for heart, away from the foreign voters of our great cities, this country is still conservative. Roosevelt's overwhelming election came through the help of all manner and types of radicals and liberals but don't forget that among his millions of voters were millions that in the final analysis are conservatives and not liberals, even though they may get a pay check from the government. If the fight has to come between conservatives and liberals, let it come! With the old parties broken down, the battle will be a real one and may the right win!

EDWARD C. LANGFIELD

In the sudden death of Edward C. Langfield Northville loses one of its foremost citizens. Men of his unusual ability, high character and tremendous energy are rare and the impress they leave on their community is lasting. His outstanding virtues not only made him a splendid success in business but gave him a position of great influence in the community.

While building a successful business, Mr. Langfield took time for the idealistic side of life, in a way that few men do. I never knew a finer father or husband than he, said one who had known him all the years he lived in Northville. That tribute alone would make him great in community life for the man who does his job best and best for his family is a man whose influence is immeasurable. That quality of loyalty that made him the beloved head of a splendid family also made him a most loyal friend. He proved the immortal words of Emerson: "The only way to have a friend is to be one." Such a friend was "Ed" Langfield for the little friendly things—such as the giving of flowers and vegetables from his garden—that he had done for his Northville friends and others elsewhere were countless.

Mr. Langfield's boundless energy and love of the beautiful gave Northville its remarkable band. Truly he was, while a member of the board of education the inspiring influence that brought about the formation of the band of young folks whose music has become so widely known. In the local Rotary club, this love of the idealistic side of life found expression. Whenever the birthday of a member rolled around, it was "Ed" Langfield who was called upon to place the little bouquet on the lapel of the one honored. He never allowed this little ceremony to become commonplace but, with appropriate language and fine feeling he made the presentation stand out like a cameo.

The same loyalty that Mr. Langfield gave to his friends and community he poured out in large measure through many years to his church. The devotion to the church he attended in earlier years in Detroit caused him to remain a member of that church, even though the commuting back and forth must at times have required sacrifice. He wondered that through the years members of this church came out to Northville to pay their tribute to their loyal friends and co-workers, Mr. and Mrs. Langfield. Their hospitality was boundless.

Northville will cherish the memory of this sturdy citizen who has added so much of real wealth to the community life in the 22 years he lived here. In the death of Edward C. Langfield we have all suffered a great loss, even though not all of us knew personally this remarkable man. His influence will live.

FR. COUGHLIN IS "ON WAY OUT"

All commentators on the campaign and the election are practically agreed that Father Chas. E. Coughlin's career is taking a downward trend. For weeks his influence has been slipping and the vote cast for Lemke, the candidate of the radio priest, was far below what it was predicted weeks ago that it might be. The vote was hardly a factor in the outcome. It would be not at all surprising if Fr. Coughlin gave up entirely the political field, in which he has made such a muddle. This is the prediction that some are making. There is little question that his loss of influence started with his intemperate speech at Cleveland when he criticized the president.

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

1 YEAR AGO

Residents all over Northville woke at approximately 1:05 a. m. last Friday morning and wondered variously if the dog were scratching leaves, if there were Halloween pranksters about, if they were ill, or if there could possibly be a slight earthquake. Although the next morning those who thought it might be an earthquake had their guesses confirmed, no damage was done in or around Northville from the three distinct but minor earthquake shocks recorded in southern Michigan.

Approximately 100 persons attended the annual birthday party for the past matrons and charter members held by Orient chapter No. 77, O. E. S., on Oct. 25. Maurice Lapham announces that the Pontford store will be closed for the first three days of next week. The building of the addition on the rear of the present store and the re-vamping of the interior of the entire store will be completed during these three days.

Northville, with numerous other towns surrounding Detroit, has put in application as a possible site for the erection of a proposed veterans hospital, according to a report given by H. H. Burkart, village president, to the council Monday evening.

5 YEARS AGO

Northville, together with the entire state, marked the passing Wednesday afternoon of one of humanity's greatest benefactors—Wm. H. Maybury, for whom the tuberculosis sanatorium located just west of Northville is named. Mr. Maybury died Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the sanatorium farm from the effects of the disease against

Homemaker's Corner MRS. EDITOR

(Mrs. Editor's note—Friends of longed for the sight of his wife, Mrs. Linton have appreciated so much the two previous contributions from her pen that we give them another treat. It seems to us just about the loveliest thing she has written yet.)

THE LITTLE VOYAGE

Of course I had heard preachers and orators speak of life as a voyage, but living all my days in an inland town, where the only water with which I am on speaking terms is a sluggish little creek, zigzagging its way to the river, this particular figure of speech never appealed to me. I did like the sound of the word voyage, however, and I had always like that of my own individual life so far with no great storms like a big event. It was down at the docks, when the boat came in, that I had a sudden memory of that old picture, "From Shore to Shore," which many of us knew and loved in our childhood, and I determined to see if there was any likeness between life and a little voyage. Perhaps even its brevity would make it all the more like life's little day.

Well, like life, the beginning of the voyage was under strange conditions, among strange people and strange scenes. The day itself was like life, with its mixture of sunshine and clouds. The path up the shining waters was like life, sometimes smooth, sometimes ruffled, but

We know at sunset why we needed both clouds and sunshine through the day. Oh, it was so wonderful—that sunset! Away out there on the water the king of the day knew that he had the center of the stage, and he meant to let us know what we could really do in the time of setting. At first, he sank lower and lower, in a dignified manner, and then, suddenly, he dropped like a bomb, and a bank of soft blue clouds so like the water you couldn't tell where clouds left off and water began. He got busy with his paint brush and palette as soon as he was out of sight. First, he set a brilliant gold, and then the great blue clouds so deftly and swiftly that we never knew when it all happened. Then he put in a soft rose-colored background for the blue and gold, and gold trimmings on all the little clouds that went flitting across his canvas. Then, growing prodigal with his coloring matter, as if fearful that like our tickets, it might be good for one day only, he threw out great bands of pale pink and pale blue across the water line. Suddenly he flashed out between these two bands of wonderful coloring, then, as if fearful of applause, he dropped quietly out of sight. He needn't have been afraid, for the people who loved him and his wonderful painting did not want to stop it all with noisy applause. So many in that throng had missed all the glory of it! And that was like life, too.

It did seem for a little time after the sunset that the rest of the voyage would be little worth while, but this was a mistake—just like dreading the turning point, for after the dusk crept up, there were the wonderful light houses to guide us on our way, and a feeling of fearlessness which made the thought of home, and rest, very alluring.

Standing on the deck in the sweet dusk, head just level with the strong heart, which has throbbled true for many a year, with the one I love best of all my little world on either side of me. Ah! it was lovely to be quickly up to the docks—and know that the little voyage was safely over.

If only life—the last half of it, and the landing—could be like that!

"Eternity is not an everlasting flux of time, but is a short parenthesis in a long period," John Deane.

IT NEEDN'T HAVE HAPPENED

(The Tunkhannock, Penn. Republican and New Age of Aug. 17, 1916)

We once knew a man who was too stingy to take the newspaper in his home town and always sent over to borrow his neighbor's paper.

One evening he sent his son over to borrow the paper, and while his son was on his way he ran into a large swarm of bees and in a few minutes his face looked like a sun-burnt squash.

Imagining the agonized cries of his son, the father ran to his neighbor's, and in doing so ran into a barbed wire fence, cutting a half-foot of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $400 pair of pants.

The old cow took advantage of the hole in the fence, got into the corn field, and killed herself eating rotten corn. Hearing the racket, the farmer's wife ran out of the house, upsetting a four-gallon churn full of cream into a basket of kittens and killed the whole flock. She slipped on the cream and fell downstairs breaking her leg and a $19 set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the cream into the parlor and ruined a $40 carpet. During the excitement, the daughter, dressed with the latest fashion, took all the family's savings with her.

The moral is that every man should be a subscriber to his home paper.

"That's right—also by an over-supply of hot air!"

"I AM THE AMERICAN FLAG"

By "Aunt Ida" Hendry

Born during the Nation's infancy, I have grown with it.

My stars increasing in number as the country has grown in size.

The domain over which I wave, expanding until the sun on my flying folds now never sets.

Filled with significance are my colors of red, white and blue.

Red stands for love that will dare and do.

The blue is for all that is good and true.

The white with all wrong and evil shall cope.

The silver stars are the stars of hope.

These represent the strength and courage of American manhood.

The love and loyalty of American womanhood.

I symbolize the soul of America.

Typifying her ideals and aspirations.

Her institutions and traditions.

I reflect the wealth and grandeur of this great Land of Opportunity.

I represent the Declaration of Independence.

I stand for the Constitution of the United States.

I wave exultantly over the schoolrooms of the Land.

For education is the keystone of the Nation and the school room is my citadel.

I am the badge of the Nation's greatness and the emblem of its destiny.

Believing in me, my people sing in praise and poetry the things for which I stand.

Insult me and millions will spring to my defense.

I am the American Flag.

MELVINDALE PLAYS NORTHVILLE HERE

Ineligibility Causes a Weak Backfield, Passing Attack Team Judged Similar

Northville meets Melvindale at the park at 5:30 p. m. today. Melvindale has always been a great rival and the game should be a close one. According to Coach Elliott Barr, this week's backfield will be weak, but he has been informed that Melvindale has a similar weakness. Our passing attack has been weakened more than anything else by the losses due to ineligibility.

We have a good line especially at the ends and tackles. Our defense should be as good or better than usual. Our offense will be altered but slightly due to backfield changes. Coach Barr feels that Northville should win.

Senior Who's Who

BETTY JEAN CLARK
Betty would make even the modest violet seem brazen, for she was very reticent to talk about herself. She finally admitted, however, she was born—on a farm March 23, 1920—near Northville. Before she entered the Northville high school she spent eight years at a country school. She is taking a commercial course and would like to attend Cleary college. Dancing and attending the theatre are her favorite pastimes.

JUNE LENNE
Miss Lennie, June to you, is one senior who doesn't mind talking about the past. She told me readily that she was born in Detroit, July 2, 1919. At the age of four, June decided she wanted to live in Northville, so she persuaded her family to move here, where she has lived ever since. Some of her many hobbies are swimming, dancing, hiking and the theatre. Her favorite subjects are French and office practice. Football and basketball are her favorite sports.

At her high school, June plans to attend a school of cosmetology.
LILLIAN FRITZ
Lillian is a Northville maiden as she was born here Oct. 11, 1919. She has attended the Northville school all her life. Lillian is a petite, little brunette but her size isn't going to prevent her from finishing high school in three years. Her pastimes are skating, movies, basketball and sewing. She has been on two dance committees. She is taking a commercial course and plans to attend Cleary college.

THE OBSERVER

On this dainty piece of femininity I could write a book. She is really a choice morsel to describe and it seems I'm not the only one who likes to talk about her. This blond high school sophomore is without a doubt the object of a certain college sophomore's affection. Oh! Oh! I can't start on that subject for fear of embarrassing the dear girl. She has a voice that is a cross between a first and second soprano. Every day she is seen in a different garb but always very attractive. The way she handles her little '34 Ford sedan has established her a reputation that makes her driving much easier. Everyone very kindly gets out of her way when they see her coming. At the present she has all the symptoms of being "heartily" interested in a dashing young junior lad who is new in these parts this year.

You may have guessed who she is by now. Think hard!

CLASS SETS PRICE FOR PROM TICKETS

The price of the tickets for the senior prom, Nov. 27, will be $1.25. This was decided upon by the class at its last class meeting. The invitation committee was appointed by Bruce Turnbull, the senior's president. James Hochkins is chairman and Lucille Strimmons and George Westphal are members. The decorations are to be unusual and very striking. Scott Cole, the decoration committee chairman, announced. He hopes the prom will be a financial success, as well as the social success.

Library Girl Relates Sufferings at Hands of Cold and Students; Books Never Published Are Asked for Daily

By ALICE EATON

You dear students have no idea what we library girls go through. Especially since we have been having most of the books faces lifted just for your benefit. Practically every day something like this happens:

Student Seeking Book Knowledge: Do you have "My Memoirs" by Princess Whoozit, in?

Me (After trip back to bookshelves): It's not in today.

S. S. B. K.: Tsk, tsk. Do you have "Wild People I Have Known" in?

Me (After another trip to shelves): No, it's not in either. Most of the books are being repaired.

S. S. B. K.: Well, is "Lorna Doone" in? I think it's about some movie actress.

Me (I begin to catch on, and yell from the shelves instead of coming to the desk again): No-o, but have you read

S. S. B. K. (In a tone of patient exasperation): Would you, by any chance, have "Life With Teacher"?

Me (To myself): Grrrrr. (To S. S. B. K.): That's out, too.

S. S. B. K.: For the juvvenike, what do you have in?

Me (Although fainting with exhaustion I have enough energy to throw things at the hapless departing form of S. S. B. K.): Blankety-blank! etc.

And that isn't all. These wintry days the library is as frigid as the frozen Arctic snow-fields. Once my teeth chattered so hard I couldn't hear what book a girl wanted.

Then there are the people who ask for a good book—any kind of book as long as it's good. No, I haven't any favorite authors. So I bring out half the library and they don't like any of the books.

Also—library girls cannot sell things from the bookstore! If all the times I've told people that were laid end to end, they might possibly convince ten students, but I doubt it. "Oh, can't you sell it? Well, well. And they look at me as if they thought I could sell it if I wanted to and was holding out on them."

The matter of fines for overdue books—somehow Mr. Lee doesn't seem to like it when we let people with fines take out books—huh! huh! I know one bright freshman lad who got around that. When I wouldn't let him have books, he got someone else to get them for him. Then afterwards, chortling with glee, he would tell me all about it, and gloat wickedly.

Gentle, readers, please, please, bring back one-period books and magazines before the end-of-the-period bell rings. It's kinda confusing for the girl who comes for the next period, and may make the girl leaving late for class, which teachers frown upon.

But I wouldn't have you think I was complaining about my job for worlds!

DEBATING GROUP DEFEATS BERKLEY

Northville Gives Arguments on Negative Side; Judge Speech Delivery High

Northville's debate team defeated the Berkley team last Friday in the season's first meet which was held at Berkley.

The Northville team took the negative of the question. Resolved: "That all electric utilities should be governmentally owned and operated." This question is being debated by high schools all over the country.

The debate was judged by Dr. Russell Courtwright of the speech department of Wayne University, whose decision was given to Northville's debaters because of the superior delivery of their speeches.

E. L. Johnson, debate coach, started Alfred Corbins as first speaker, Nancy McLoughlin as second and Scott Cole as third.

This was Northville's first debate in five years and was a special victory, owing to the fact that Berkley has defeated several years previous to this season.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Oct. 23 the Girl Scouts had a riotous scavenger hunt starting at 7:15 p. m. and ending at 8 o'clock. The girls were divided into groups of four each, who were given lists of things to get. They chased all over town trying to track down such elusive objects as a red hair, a policeman's signature and a tree. A gallon of cider was to be awarded to the group who got the most articles, but two groups tied and everybody drank the cider. After the accounting of the quartets, the girls ate much candy, apples, sandwiches, cake and cookies.

Everyone was supposed to arrive in costume and many did wear the outfits. One of the girls had a hunter's cap beautifully decorated with a wreath of paper flowers and a triangle scarf tastefully edged with curls; another wore a purple, red and green costume; and another a full dress suit! Altogether, it was one of the most successful Halloween parties the Scouts have had.

And is sure to make a hit with the audience. "You're a Cuckoo" is a farce containing a young married couple, a man and his sweetheart, an old maid aunt, and a tough detective. The third play hasn't been decided on yet. Besides the actors there will have to be a stage crew, and an advertising committee so many of the juniors will have a chance to display their talents.

The senior class is selling Christmas cards and order to make money. The order committee has decided to make 50 gallons of cider to sell. The class made $500 on the sale of hot dogs at the football game. The seniors are to sell lunches in the cafeteria during the cold months. They are going to have their pictures taken soon so that they will have them before Christmas. The prom is to be the night after Thanksgiving, and plans are being made to send posters to other schools for advertising purposes. Tickets to the prom will be $1.25.

Inquiring Reporter

What do you think about our high school girls trying to improve upon nature by wearing gobs of make-up?

Edgar Jolly: I think nature did a poor job and they have to use make-up in order to pass.

George Westphal: Girls that wear a lot of make-up think they are improving on Mother Nature, but they aren't. Make-up is all right outside school, but in school—NO! because we students have to look at them all the time. Girls that use make-up admit that they aren't good looking or they wouldn't use it.

Eber Lester: Poor Mother Nature! To think she has to be treated so cruelly by some girls that slap a lot of make-up on their faces to try to make themselves look pretty. It really disgraces them and the school, too.

Billy Hanson: Make-up is all right in its place but its place isn't two inches deep across a girl's nose or cheeks.

Lawrence Way: Make-up is all right in the right proportions but there are only a few girls who know the right amount to use.

Albert Boeckens: It looks all right in its place, and the best place is in the case.

Bruce Turnbull: If a boy won't go with a girl if she doesn't wear make-up, he certainly won't go with her if she does.

Charles Bishop: Make-up on some girls makes them look better and make-up on others—well, you can draw your own conclusion.

Hochkins and Schenitz: Patrick is O. K. in its place but that belongs on a horse. It's O. K. to a certain extent but some go too far.

Lawrence Farmer: I think it is all right for the girls to put on make-up, but some go too far.

Bob Bray: I wish to high heaven they would throw all the stuff in the ocean.

Mr. Johnson: I certainly object to gobs of make-up, but if the girls can actually improve upon the works of nature, "I say more power to her."

Scott Cole: A certain amount of so-called make-up is O. K., but when a large per cent of Northville's weaker sex come to school looking like a Totem Pole you can count the average fellow out.

Mr. Barr: I think the country will be better off when the finger-halls get out of the red.

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 356): "The Science of being furnishes the rule of perfection, and brings immortality to light. . . . God is the parent Mind, and man is God's spiritual offspring."

MRS. ELLIOTT, 85, DIES SATURDAY

(Continued from page 1) sons, William and Horace S., one stepson, J. W. Elliott, one stepdaughter, Mrs. A. W. Miller of Detroit, three grandchildren, Mrs. Margaret Moore, Mrs. Kathleen Long and Mrs. Ethel Ferguson and three great-grandchildren, Billy Long, Duane Moore and Chas. Ferguson. Geo. H. McVay, a brother of Detroit, also survives.

Mrs. Elliott had been a resident of Northville for about 60 years and was affectionately known by many as "Grandma Elliott." One of her outstanding characteristics was her alert activity almost to the last. No matter how old she was, she was never making her way to her accustomed pew in church or from attending its various activities. "Faithfulness" was the term used to describe her.

Only last week she went to the home of a friend who was ill in spite of her own frail condition which she admitted when she said in parting: "This is probably our last visit on this side."

The funeral service was held Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 3, from the Snider funeral parlors with her pastor, the Rev. Harry J. Lord officiating. Interment was made in Rural Hill cemetery.

Palbearers were: One grandson, Charles Ferguson, and five nephews, Donald McVay, Kenneth Fitch, Vern McVay, Edward Fitch and Ross Hawn.

The members of the Women's Relief Corps attended the funeral in a body.

"AUNT IDA" HENDRYX AND FITZGERALD ARE G. O. P. FLAG RAISERS

Saturday morning when she was asked to predict the outcome of Tuesday's election, she said, "I'm a republican and it's hard for me to see the election going any other way. I've always voted republican—my father voted for Abraham Lincoln."

Following the raising of the banners, Dr. L. W. Snow turned the mic over to Governor Fitzgerald, the principal speaker of the day.

During the evening when all the festivities were under the sponsorship of the Civic association speeches were given by democratic figures, including Casper J. Lange, Dr. Allen, Lester, Moll and Attorney Lockwood of Detroit. All of these men, together with republicans Henry Behrendt, Fred Castator, Philip Mirth, William Griffin and John J. O'Hara, contributed to the Scout building fund.

FRED COOPER, 74, DIES

Last rites were held Tuesday, Oct. 27, for Fred Cooper 74, who died Oct. 24 at the home of his son, Harry, Gregory. The funeral was held at the Novi Baptist church and burial was made in the Novi cemetery.

For more than 50 years, Mr. Cooper had been a Novi farmer. Besides the son, Harry, is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Glen Shults, Walled Lake.
