Musicians

Northville music lovers will have the opportunity of hearing a most unusual inter-community musical program at 8 p. m. Wednesday, May 26, at the high school, in the form of a spring choral festival presented by 70 voices of the Northville-Plymouth Male chorus, the Clarkston Choral club and the Walled Lake Methodist Episcopal choir.

This large combined group is composed of 34 women's voices and 35 men's voices, and will be directed Wednesday evening by Leslie G. Lee of the Northville-Plymouth chorus, assisted by Miss Hanna Strauss, accompanist.

Extensive preparations for the festivals have been made by each chorus during the past several months, which have recently culminated in a series of combined rehearsals at Walied Lake. Plans call for duplicate concerts to be given in each of the towns represented in the group with the opening program here. It will be given at Walied Lake the following night, May 27, and at Clarkston, May 28. The Plymouth concert will take place June 2 rather than May 25, as originally will direct the combined numbers in each of those towns, while Mr. Lee will conduct at Plymouth. Each chorus will also be heard in separate selections. Miss Strasen will accompany at Plymouth, Elizabeth Russell Watson at Clarkston and Dorothy L. McKibben at Watled Lake. Solo voices to be heard will be those of Cecil Gilles of Northville.

SEVENTY-FIVE MILES OF COUNTRYSIDE

Saturday, May 15, we enjoyed a marvelous spring time ride of 75 miles from Albion to Northville. With your kind permission we want you to take the trip again with us. Getting away from city life, from the hum-drum and routine of your work, out into God's great open country and the glory of a matchless Michigan May day is truly a soul-satisfying experience.

Leaving Albion, a splendid college and industrial town of 9,000, in about 12 minutes one reaches Parma and its big viaduct over the M. C. tracks. The next town on route U. S. 12 is the fine little city of Chelsea, set off to the north one mile from the highway. Then in another 14 miles comes the great university city of Ann Arbor. On five miles to Dixboro and toward Detroit. Just outside of Plymouth the motorist swings to the left on the Ann Arbor trail and is in Plymouth in two miles. Then a short four and one-half miles by the Sheldon road—once the Novi road—brings you into Northville by Center street.

The splendid new stretch of highway between Ann Arbor and Jackson enables one to travel 60 miles an hour with perfect ease over the three-lane concrete ribbon. The new road cuts Grass Lake entirely off the highway and one rather misses that picturesque little village. Including a short stop at Parma to see our editor friend, Ray Corless, we made the 75 mile trip from Albion in just one hour and a half without at any time driving recklessly.

Next to the green of "Old Ireland" is there any finer green than that of rolling acres of rich alfalfa now four or five inches high, thanks to the recent heavy rains? And though you get peeved at the dandelions on your front lawn, are there any finer blankets of gold than those thousands of yellow weeds set close together in great masses on the hillsides?

And then your imagination follows to the sea, those meandering little streams that you see along the highway every few miles. Though these little creeks seem like a commonplace to us who know them so well, there are many states that have no such refreshing streams of water. No wonder that poets have sat on their banks and written immortal poems. No wonder when a rich man buys a little farm he asks the broker to find one with a little stream running through it.

Such a 75-mile trip as this demonstrates again in unforgettable fashion the ever-recurring miracle of spring. The distant woods, stark and naked ever since last November, are bursting into new leaf. What would a Californian who had once known Michigan, give for the soul-stirring sight of these glorious maples, oaks, elms and silver birch? The fruit trees are much farther advanced than those woodland trees. The cherry trees are elevated snow banks; the peach trees with their dainty pink are truly lovely; the apple blossoms just "in the pink" have the glory that only an apple tree can give. What wouldn't we give to have the opportunity to roam at this season through Michigan's western fruit belt!

Then, what of the pasture fields? There they lie, sometimes level, sometimes rolling. There the hundreds of sheep and lambs are grazing so contentedly that high blood pressure will surely never be a worry to them. Part of the flock may be lying quietly under the trees—would that mere men, with all his worries, anxieties, distractions, could be like sheep and lay all care and worry to one side! And then the contented cattle spotting the hillsides, their cold noses lost in the meshes of succulent grass, their stomachs full of rich vitamins! Who could paint a finer picture of peace and repose? A lot of men wish they could be like the cattle and never have to worry about meeting a payroll.

A friend writes from the dust bowl of Kansas that they actually dread the coming of spring again this year. He says: "You cannot imagine how awful these dust storms are. Hundreds of people are leaving them forever." We think of this as we pass field after field where a farmer is plowing. There is a glory in seeing soil turn over under the intimate touch of the ploughshare. Maybe you never plowed behind a fine team of horses but we want to say that the humble act of ploughing has some soul-satisfaction to it. The feel of newly-turned earth is better for the soul of man than the touch of Midas.

Seventy-five miles of panoramic countryside—beautiful beyond words, more satisfying than money or material things, lingering in the halls of memory like patchless pictures! And over all the blue sky and floating clouds and the overhanging witchery of majestic elms just stretching their high branches to meet the challenge of a Michigan summer.

We thank you for riding with us through these 75 miles.

JUST A LITTLE SENTIMENT

Touched by the experience, a Detroit man tells us this simple little story:

Driving out Grand River avenue on Coronation Day he turned on his radio just in time to hear the speech of King George VI. Coming to a red light, he stopped his car next to a safety zone where stood a little wisp of a woman. She turned to the open window of the car as the King's words slowly floated out. With her eyes intent, she listened as in great reverence. As the car started on its way the driver heard the woman exclaim fervently: "The King, the King! God bless the King!"

A little British mother, a long way from home but with her heart back overseas with the millions of fellow countrymen to whom the coronation of London stood as a great spiritual symbol.

"I just had to drop a tear as I moved on my way. Some people laugh at emotion but I sometimes think life would be pretty poor without it," said our friend.

WHAT FREE SPEECH MEANS

In two countries overseas the people were not allowed to read about the British coronation or even to listen on the radio to the ceremonies that were heard around the world. The dictator in Italy stopped the publication of all news that said anything about the coronation of King George VI. About the same thing happened in the Irish Free State. Radios were "gagged."

Here in Northville hundreds of people read thousands of columns about the coronation without the suggestion of any kind of restraint. These same hundreds tuned in for hours of coronation broadcast. Not a word was deleted nor was any man, woman or child forbidden to hear a single word of the various broadcasts. The reason: Freedom of speech still remains in this country.

God forbid that our freedom of speech in the United States will ever be curtailed!

A DETROIT FACTORY QUILTS

After 35 years of continuous business a Detroit hat factory has closed its doors permanently. Here is the story:

Two months ago this factory was unionized. After a strike the workers won the recognition of their union with more pay. Following this the management claims that the workers, not satisfied with these gains, tried the "new" labor technique of the "slow-down." The result was that production was slowed to the point where the factory could not possibly compete with its rivals. Hence the firm went out of business and the workers will have to find work elsewhere.

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

1 YEAR AGO

By vote of the council Monday evening, Northville's obsolete book-keeping system is to be replaced with a new set of forms which will necessitate a change in the method used in keeping the village accounts.

After long weeks of falling strength, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hazen, the oldest resident of this community, died Monday morning, May 18, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles T. Thornton on the Nine Mile road.

Street Commissioner Earl Montgomery announced this week that the parking lot on the corner of Center and Main streets was ready for public use.

Three piano pupils of Miss Grace Halverson appeared in a recital, Saturday evening at the home of one of them, Mrs. Miss Laura Marie Lord. The other two participating in the program were Miss Theresa Lester and Miss Clara Christensen.

R. E. Brown, who has been handling the advertising for the Record for the past two months, suffered three fractures in his left cheek bone last Friday. The accident occurred when his daughter, Miss Avis, not realizing her father was standing so close to her, hit him as she was demonstrating a golf stroke in the yard of their Ann Arbor home.

5 YEARS AGO

Discovery of eight stolen and gutted mail bags by Mrs. Charles Lutz near her home on the Powers road, two miles east of Northville, early Saturday morning, changed the complexion of the breaking and entering job which occurred at the Pere Marquette depot on the morning of Tuesday, May 10. Stolen from the bags were parcel post packages, the value of which cannot be ascertained immediately.

Baseball pitchers are numerous in Northville, there being five of them all engaged in playing with semi-pro teams or in the Triple A league. The five are Herman Hartner, Estell Rowland, Harry German, Jack Moore and Harry German Jr.

The Village of Northville will borrow $8,000 for the general fund from the First National Bank of Plymouth, announced Dr. L. W. Snow, village president, following the passage of a motion to that effect introduced to the council on Monday night by Commissioner Ross B. Dusenbury, chairman of the finance committee, at the village hall.

Starr Henrick, now residing in Los Angeles, sends word to his brother, Lee, who is employed at the Caster-line Service station, that he is the proud father of an eight and a half pound son, Leroy Charles, born Saturday, May 14.

Little Marilyn Cavell reached her eighth birthday Thursday and on the evening previous she took "Elmer," her pet monkey, in her arms and made her way to "Uncle Ned's" in Detroit at the WCR broadcasting station. Her little friends in Northville were pleased to tune in and listen to her voice greeting them over the air.

15 YEARS AGO

In order that they may provide room to serve better their patrons and to care for the increasing business of the institution, the officers of the Lapham State Savings bank have decided to remodel the present banking building and work upon the improvement will be started within a few days.

Manager W. H. Safford of the Northville Municipal band is perfecting plans for the summer concert series to be given in this village each Saturday night.

Miss Laura White and Lloyd N.

Morse were united in marriage Tuesday evening, May 11, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. White, North Center street.

Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Snow are located in their newly acquired home on West Main street.

20 YEARS AGO

The Northville council has taken under consideration the much advocated plan of utilizing the maple grove of Cady street, near the school buildings as a public park and school playground, but President Perkins and his helpers are adverse to taking decisive action on the matter unless satisfied that the idea meets the approval of the general public.

Announcement has been received here of the marriage in St. Andrews Presbyterian church, Minneapolis, Minn., on May 9, of H. Eugene Des Autels of this place to Miss Elsie L. Henning of Seattle, Wash. The young couple will make their home at Brule Wis., where Mr. Des Autels has a fine position in charge of the private fish hatchery on the estate of one of Wisconsin's millionaire residents.

30 YEARS AGO

One of the best games of the season was played on the home ground here Saturday between the Northville and the Detroit College of Law teams which resulted in a score of 7-4 for Northville to 2-5-4 for Detroit.

Several new cement walks are being laid in the northwest part of the village.

Charlie Yerkes is moving and repairing his barn and making other improvements on his place.

An oil heater caused quite a little excitement at Will Finham's Wednesday evening. It had been lighted and left in the room and when next discovered the room was black with smoke which nearly ruined the walls and curtains.

CORN DEMONSTRATIONS

Two hybrid corn demonstrations are to be conducted this summer. Four hybrids will be used in comparison with the local variety.

Dewey Meek, a vocational agricultural student of Plymouth high school, under the direction of Riley Lynch, agricultural teacher, will have one demonstration. Fred Miller, a Sumpter township farmer, will have the second demonstration.

Considerable interest has been aroused in hybrid corn and it is hoped that these two demonstrations will give Wayne county farmers a representative showing of what it will do in this county.

4-H CLUB PROJECTS

Rural girls and boys who wish to carry on summer 4-H club projects should get in touch with Miss Margaret Eckhardt, county club agent.

INSPECT BEE WORK

All beekeepers should be interested in the work being done by the State department of agriculture. Burr B. Lincoln, commissioner of agriculture, coming from one of the largest beekeeping counties in the State, has a keen interest in this work. Commissioner Lincoln has arranged to have this work explained by Vester E. Mock, chief apary inspector, over radio station WEAR at 1-1-15 p. m., Tuesday, May 25. Mr. Mock has an important message for the beekeepers of Michigan.

A&P CLERKS PREPARE TO SWING ANNUAL SALE

For the third successive year all A&P Food stores in this section of the country are holding their annual Clerks' Week Sale. A&P has always been greatly interested in the welfare of the salesmen in their stores, in fact, the majority of the executives of the company started behind the counter. It is estimated that almost 70 per cent of the business in the store is handled by the clerks, so that the importance of a well-trained, courteous and happy organization is of tremendous importance.

Realizing this and wanting to give the clerks some recognition, the company holds a Clerks' Week Sale each year. The "specials" and the sales promotion plans are all worked out by the clerks and friendly contests are arranged between various stores with prizes offered for the best results obtained. Enthusiasm is high this year in the local store as the improvement in general business in Northville is encouraging the A&P Clerks to expect a record breaking week. The men are also feeling happier than they did last year when the sale was also a record breaker, as since that time several things have been done by the compary in the form of vacations with pay, sick benefits, shorter hours and higher salaries to make the clerk's job better.

E. E. Isaacson, the local A&P local A&P manager, is taking a back seat and letting Don Chase, Duncan Fry, George Westphal and Merle Fraser, his clerks, do all the planning and execution of the details of the sale. He's very proud of his boys and is expecting to find his sales up near the top of the list when the week is over.

In order to acquaint everyone with the details of the sale, the A&P clerks recommend and secured considerably larger space in the Northville Record this week.

MY IDEA OF AN IDEAL MOTHER

Carrell Jean Carlson
The articles, poems, and songs written about mothers make good reading, and perhaps make us think and appreciate mother more, but they do not express my idea of an ideal mother because I am a very normal little girl and my mother must be a very normal human person, not an angel.

My ideal mother must be one that remembers that, once upon a time, she was a little girl. She would be one able to look back down the road of experience and guide me along the road of life in a way that I, as a little girl, can understand.

She must be able to realize that I am a human being and can understand the language she has taught me and if the "why" of a problem is explained I will be able and willing to obey.

She must be a Christian mother, one who does not smoke or drink, for she cannot expect me to have good habits if she does not set the example.

She must be one I am glad to take my friends to and say, "This is my mother." She must dress plainly, be modest in her make up and get her years, not being an old mother before her time nor trying to look younger than she is, but just be herself. She must be able to laugh and enjoy Dad's and my companionship when the day is done.

She must, although I dislike to admit it, be able to be firm in her judgment as to whether or not I may do the things I desire, meaning no when she says it, yet allowing me to enjoy girlish good times when she knows they will not harm me or my character.

This is my idea of an ideal mother and is my mother.

Carrell Jean Carlson,
Seventh grade.

Ann Arbor—Quarantine of all dogs was extended from three townships and "upland" to the whole of Washtenaw county, this week, in response to an order from the State veterinarian issued this week. The precaution has been necessary because of the increasing number of dogs affected with rabies.—The Washtenaw Post-Tribune.

Plymouth—The Plymouth United Savings bank this week installed an "after hour depository" for the convenience of the merchants. The depository has been built in the north side of the bank wall on Penniman avenue. It will be especially handy for business men who wish to deposit their receipts at the close of their day.—The Plymouth Mail.

Marion—A issue which has for some time been dormant, but under the surface "causing" speculation among those concerned, was brought out into the light Tuesday morning, when stockholders of the First State bank were notified by letter of the intention of the banking department to levy a 100 per cent stock assessment.—The Marquette Times.

Plymouth—Twins were born to two families in Plymouth during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Graham of East Ann Arbor Trail, are the proud parents of twin sons, named Floyd and Lloyd, who arrived May 7.

The other twins, a daughter weighing six pounds, eight ounces, and a son weighing eight pounds, were born to Mrs. Leslie Hanna, 511 Elmwood avenue.—The Plymouth Mail.

Farmington—Deirdre, a wife of Stanislaus in Chautauque, Ontario, in his action brought in an attempt to compel the City of Farmington to grant him a "peddler's" license.

Harry Mannigan of Plymouth completed with the provisions of the earlier peddler's ordinance Monday and received his license to peddle in this city for the coming six weeks.

The license was granted for the remainder of the fiscal year and to renew the license, Mannigan must comply with the requirements of the new ordinance, passed by the city commission a short time ago.—The Farmington Enterprise.

To daughters, whenever they need it most.

Oh "Mom" just has a veritable host of characteristics to make her dear.

On every single day of the year And every hour of every day So let give her credit without delay.

She has the infinite patience that guides us over many a spot. She's the one who tries with care To make us watchful of what we wear.

And how we speak and what we read In fact she really determines the creed.

That affects our particular life's career. That's what makes Mommy so very dear.

THE KIND OF A MOTHER I WANT

To Anne Freeman, Seventh Grade

I want a mother fair and square One who never pulls your hair One who makes you bed each morn One who never raves with scorn

I want a mother who's neat and clean One who never thinks you're mean An understanding one who knows Just what you like when buying clothes.

I want a mother true and fire One who'll tell me all the time The rights and wrongs I do each day. That will win me friends through my fair play.

One who helps me when in need One who always heeds my pleas. I want a mother who's good and kind. Who, the truth, will help me find.

Our goodnight kiss she'll never miss. And all the hurts I've caused, dismiss. The mother I want and the mother that's mine, Are one and the same through all this rhyme.

Walled Lake News

BY CHARLES E. HUTTON

CHOIR SINGS IN FESTIVAL

Everywhere in this issue is published an account of the spring festival which is being held at Northville. The choir of the Walled Lake Methodist Episcopal church is one of the choruses participating in the event. We feel that the festival is one of the most important programs of its kind ever to be presented in the community, and that it merits the attendance of a capacity audience. The singers of three organizations, from four different towns, have worked steadily throughout the winter months to prepare themselves for these appearances, and feel that the coming program will be outstanding and very much worth while.

ATTEND P. T. A. CONVENTION

A delegation of Walled Lake Parents' Teachers' Association members were to leave Wednesday, of this week for the annual State convention of the organization held at Petoskey May 19 to 21. Included in the group were Mrs. Paul Farley, president of the Walled Lake association; Floyd E. Breaker, vice president; Mrs. Breaker and Mrs. Harold Tuck, representing the Oakland County Council of Women.

PLAN JUNE PICNIC

The regular May meeting of the Oakland County Council of Women was held Monday at the Hotel Lindenbrand, Pontiac. Mrs. Glenn Buffmeyer, president, conducted a business meeting, which was followed by luncheon. In the afternoon, the members joined the discussion group led by Hon. Clark Adams, State representative, which meets each Monday to discuss pending State legislation. The last meeting of the council until fall will be held June 15, when the women will be guests of Mrs. Glenn Buffmeyer of Walled Lake, at a picnic held on the lawn of her home. A business meeting and program will take place in the afternoon.

VISIT HOUSE OF CORRECTION

The Civic Welfare Club held a social meeting Wednesday, which included a visit to the Detroit House of Correction, Northville. They were conducted on a tour of the institution. The club sponsored the annual cleanup day in the village on Thursday, arranging for trucks and men to gather the accumulated rubbish of the town. This is only one of the many worthy projects of the club, truly a civic organization with the best interests of the village at heart. As a suggestion for a future project, why not carry on the cleanup idea so as to effect the vacuuming of the business section? It would seem that the ones most responsible for the appearance of these eyesores are completely indifferent about it, and have been, year in and year out. Many comments coming directly or indirectly have been heard regarding the unsightliness of these spots, but nothing is ever done about it. The last meeting of the club until fall will be held at the residence of Mrs. Buffmeyer, with a picnic at noon, followed by a business and social program. Members of the Oak Ridge and Ferndale women's clubs have been invited as guests.

BEGIN FREE MOVIES

Another season of free talking movies is under way, having opened Tuesday night. Business men of the town sponsor these spring and summer performances, with the thought that it provides many people of the rural area with easily accessible entertainment in exchange for patronage and good will. Children have found the "talkies" especially attractive, as have their elders, judging from the large number of cars that pack the Wimmer lot each "free show" night.

P. T. A. SPONSORS BANQUET

Two hundred and fifty mothers and daughters attended the annual banquet in their honor as sponsored by the Walled Lake Parents' Teachers' association in the attractively decorated gymnasium of the school Thursday night. An interesting and varied program was presented following an excellent dinner, served under the supervision of Walter Proctor and C. B. Gifford. The invocation was given by Mrs. M. L. Hutton, followed by community singing led by Mrs. Charles Hutton. The welcome address was offered by Mrs. Paul Farley, who also introduced the toastmistress, Miss Frances Launbaum. Miss Constance Selby gave the toast to the mothers, and Mrs. Lucy Sharriff responded with a word to the daughters. Miss Nina Welch was heard in a musical reading which was followed by readings by Mrs. Dorothy Helke. Telephone solos were contributed by Miss Barbara Thayer and the high school girls' glee club directed by Mrs. Florence Poole, sang several numbers. The principal address was given by Mrs. James Mead of Port Huron. Her subject was "The Perfect Diet." She likened the relationship between mother and daughter to a pact which she called "companionship." She said that while many notes in the dark were faded into two parts, yet they always harmonized. She stressed five principal points in the successful re-education of the diet. They were "playing together," "working together," "dreaming together," and "having a mutual understanding and a reverence and respect for each other. She referred to the companionship of the concert violinist Mischa Elman and his father as an illustration of the successful way in which this manner of relationship was demonstrated.

Christ enters our souls so valuable that the only fitting food for them is His real Body and Blood. How can this give us His flesh to eat? Then Jesus said, "I am the bread of life. I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man and drink his blood, ye have no life in you." (John 6: 52, 53.) To keep body and soul together we must eat; the flesh of our souls for the body the flesh of the Son of man for the soul!

MITCHELL, BOLTON ENTER STATE MEET

Participants Will Run at State Meet Tomorrow in East Lansing

The Northville track team is sending two of its more prominent members to participate in the State track meet which is being held tomorrow at East Lansing in the Michigan State college stadium. The two boys, Keene Bolton and Arthur Mitchell, are sprinters and have excellent records.

Keene began his track career as a freshman three years ago. He has run in both the 100 and 220 dash events and has won many starts. Arthur also went out for track as a freshman and, in addition to the events Keene has been in, he has entered into broad and high jumping.

Keene will run in the 100 yard dash Saturday and Arthur will run both the 100 yard and 220 yard dash. Both boys ran at Ypsilanti last Saturday when the Regional meet was held.

This 17-year-old senior is another one of our genuine Northvillians, having lived here his entire life. Oct. 7 is that memorable date on which he first saw the light of day.

He has played basketball, his favorite sport, four years; baseball, two; and football, one. In regard to his theatrical career, he has taken part in the operetta, "Lalaualla," and "H. M. S. Pinafore," and played the title role in the senior play, "Rashful Bobby." He is also president of the senior class.

As a unique hobby, he collects pennants. And I must mention the fact that he works every now and then for the Northville Electric shop; proprietor—C. B. Turnbull.

His plans for the future are not definite, but he expects to attend Michigan State college.

FRESHMEN'S ANTIKS
Did you ever stop to look at the silly things the freshmen do around this h'ar school?

Here are some of the things you would have seen had your eyes been open. What will be seen promises to be even dippier.

How wistfully Norman Campbell looks out of the window in fourth hour Latin? But then, he's not the only one.

How Marie Angere rolls her eyes at—now don't you really know?

Mary Potter and Elizabeth Lansing doing a spring dance on the old fire escape with the greatest ease? Just like the men on the flying trapeze. What a poet!

James Dixon turning guimant? Well, at least you must admit that he hits a bull's eye every time with that squirt gun of his.

How distrustfully practically every one is wading through Ivanhoe? (Editor's note—Never mind—wait until you get to Tale of Two Cities—or even worse—Emerson's essays.)

Amerman Gives Credit To School Debate Team

By R. H. AMERMAN

The Northville high school can well be proud of its achievements in debate and speech during the year 1936-37. When we realize that Northville had not put a debate team in the field since 1931, its record is all the more remarkable.

It might be well to recall here that when E. L. Johnson took charge of this department last fall that one of his first moves was to enter our school in the newly formed debating league consisting of the following schools: Bentley, Trenton, Melvindale, Belleville, Grosse Ile and Northville.

An inspection of the season's record shows that the Northville team, composed of Ira Davis, Alfred Couvill, Scott Cole, Margaret VanHelle, and Nancy McLoughlin, experienced, was defeated but once during the season. Following the close of the league schedule, they entered the State elimination series where they were finally defeated by Plymouth.

"All credit is due Mr. Johnson and those earnest and sincere young people who labored so effectively in welding a team to represent Northville," Mr. Johnson provided the inspiration, the technique, the training and the willing students absorbed and produced and we are proud of their fine accomplishment. The members of the team will still reap the benefits of this training and experience long after the rest of us have forgotten this year's debate subject.

And now, Mr. Johnson is already at work formulating plans and organizing a team for a bigger and even better season next year. Northville has the talent and under our coach's trained eye, it is being discovered. With this year's fine team as a nucleus, we should have another successful season next year.

COUNCIL CHOOSES NOMINATING GROUP

Committee to Pick Nominees for Next Year's Student Council Positions

The student council has released the names of those students who will nominate candidates for next year's council.

The committee for choosing the names is headed by George Westphall, mayor of the council, and Marvin Schoultz, each class, along with the Orange and Black staff, will be represented by two students. They, with Superintendent R. H. Amerman and Assistant Principal F. B. Thompson, will elect the nominees.

The senior class will be represented by Jane Grosvenor and Bruce Turnbull; the juniors by Cecil Gies and Ed Reed; sophomores by Cecil Winder and Bill Schoultz; the freshmen by Alan Gotro and Mary Frances Batt; and the Orange and Black by Nan McLoughlin.

The names of the nominees will be released next week.

We got a glimpse last Thursday of what school will be like next year. Kind of quiet around the old place without the seniors, wasn't it?

What is this younger generation coming to? Monday Mary Jane Boelen and John Latsenberger, of all people, were publicly asked to leave American Literature class. F. S. They left.

Wishes do come true, don't they, Albert? All the time poor Chuck had the measles, Albert went around saying that he could contract that ancient disease and stay out of school for a time. Now our Albert has the measles. We hope he enjoys them.

We've heard that some dogs are almost human. We wish to add our little bit and say "some humans are almost dog." E. L. J. is as good as a bloodhound for tracking down culprits any day.

Not mentioning any names, but what two junior boys "forgot" all about the Farmington prom last Friday? It seems they intended to escort two young ladies to the dance, but said ladies didn't know anything about it, at least, not until the Monday A.M. the dance.

Believe it or not, our society editor has finally decided upon a name for her column. It has definitely been christened and will henceforth be known as the "Rambling Reporter."

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

Dale Carnegie, the author, lecturer and authority on great people's lives, recently wrote a book that is, to put it mildly, a best seller. The name of it is "How to Make Friends and Influence People" and in it Mr. Carnegie gives advice—sound advice—that can well teach a lesson to both pupils and teachers.

One entire chapter is devoted to a subject, and suggestion, that everyone in the world should be required to learn. As a matter of fact, Carnegie's book could be summed up in these words: "Put yourself in the other fellow's position." Wise words, those. Doing just the opposite seems to be an all too common occurrence about the halls of N. H. S. Students quickly jump to the conclusion that they're being "picked on," while teachers loudly proclaim that the pupils think that they are "privileged characters."

And what does Mr. Carnegie's book have to do with that? Only this—stop, look and listen, before you let loose your grievance to the entire school. Maybe the teacher, or pupil has a fair side, too. We only hope that you read the Carnegie book—you'll be much wiser after you finish than before you began—and we'll bet that the world will seem more interesting, too.

The or, hid this week goes to our track team—small but efficient—who showed that they were willing to go ahead—minus coach—for the greater glory of the school. Good going—and our hats are off to you.

LETTER CORNER

Dear Joan—

It was raining—of course it had to rain—at always rains whenever I want to have a good time. Anyway we got there about nine-thirty in the morning—maybe I forgot to tell you, we went up to Ann Arbor to the Journalism convention. Know more people! Oh, and I saw Marge. Looks simply splendid, my dear, I hardly knew her. We got off at the Men's Union building and waited in the lobby while Pat parked the car. We were literally drenched! But then, so was everyone else. When Pat came back we registered and were given cute little blue tags to tie on ourselves so we wouldn't get lost, I imagine. They informed us we were delegates to the Michigan Intercollegiate Press association's annual convention.

We went up to the second floor and were ushered into the hall room. It was simply packed with people! After hearing a little speech about something (I never can remember what people talk about!) we went out onto a terrace and there was a man talking about "news-writing." My dear! Isn't it a shock to learn how awfully little you know about a subject?

After that we went back into the hall room to hear Bud Shaver interview Wally Weber, the football coach. (You wouldn't believe it, but Bud is nice-looking.) Then we went out for lunch. Darling, the duckiest little college restaurant! They serve the best malted milks! After eating we went back to the convention. A Mrs. Wagner-Tuffy, one of the Washington political writers, gave an awfully good talk. All about parties at the White House and the President's press conference. My dear, did you know Mrs. Roosevelt was deaf? It was quite a revelation to me. Mrs. Tuffy said she was awfully nice, though. We had a thoroughly grand time and didn't get home 'til almost six o'clock.

I'll have to close now—got some geometry that must be done. Give my love to your family.

As Always,
Susie.

JOURNALISM STAFF ATTEND CONVENTION

Five members of the Orange and Black staff attended the Press convention for high school students Friday at Ann Arbor.

The convention is held each year so that the journalism students from all over the State may become better acquainted with newspaper methods.

The students Friday heard talks on different phases of newspaper work and discussed ways of improving their school papers.

Those attending the convention from Northville were: Louise Alexander, Pat McLoughlin, Gwendolyn Jones, Nancy McLoughlin, Margaret Walker and Miss Florence Harper, the faculty advisor.

SPORT FLASHES

By ALBERT BOELENS

It is my opinion that every student at N. H. S. owes his or her personal congratulations to the members of the track team.

You ask why?—You say they only finished fifth in the Regional tournament last week. In its self this does not seem like much to write home about, but when one stops to consider he will find that these boys won fifth place through their own initiative. They were not made to attend practice for they had no coach; but invariably every night you would see two boys practicing in earnest. This fact alone was not so bad, but instead of receiving praise for their hard work, they were only made the target of ridicule. They stuck it out however, and tomorrow they will be repaid. Their entries are in for the State tournament at Ypsilanti.

Keene Bolton and Arthur Mitchell are the two students who deserve our heartiest congratulations.

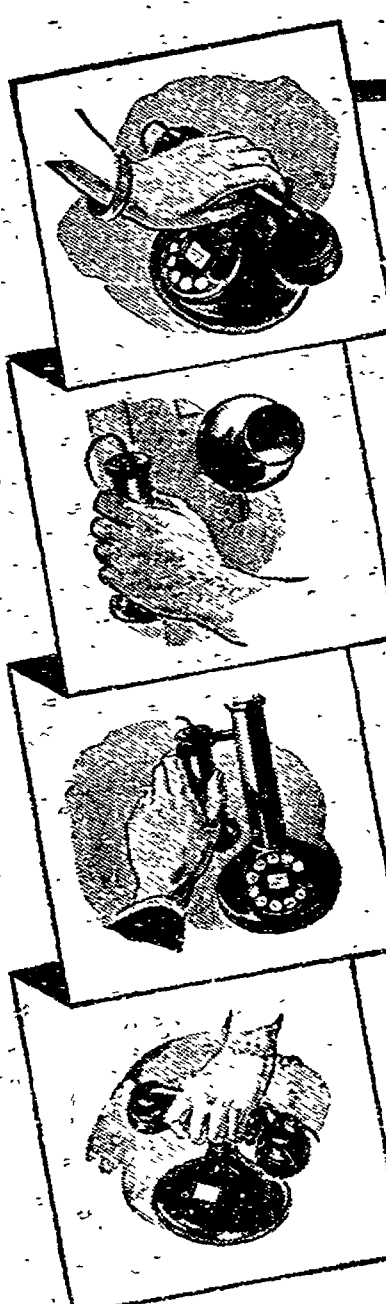

Your correspondent is sorry that this is all he can write—but his journalistic mind has been cramped by the unhappy fact that he has the measles.

A New, Fascinating Story

"Reckless Lady," by Vera Brown, Michigan's Own Author, now in The Detroit Times, tells about a rich playboy who thought her wealth gave her the right to do as she pleased—until a judge spanked her and she caused death and suffering. THE RECORD SHOPPER

It's come to that time of year again when some thought is given to the appearance of the porch and out-door living room. There are at least four months ahead when the family and social activities will become informal, meal-serving, leisure hour fun and entertaining will take place, almost without exception, out-doors.

Mam, a village this week has hesitated to arrange her porch for summer living because, after years of hard service the furniture has lost its attractiveness and in most cases its usefulness.

As it always the Shoppers, privilege an advance showing of new porch articles was witnessed this week in Northville's only furniture store. Last year, because of one or two unfortunate experiences, scoring for crumpled and soiled which could stand the test for comfort was made. This year that pet peeve was forgotten and we concentrated on attractiveness and durability.

Outstanding in these requirements are the Simmons gliders which are styled to complement any purse. Upholstered so to speak, with six reversible cushions made of water-proof ticking in bright colors they boast coil springs and bolsters. Furthermore, they are designed for easy folding and storing during the winter months. A feature which will place the cool-drink hands to the wide arm rest when their gliders may be set without danger of tipping. Back, style wears, other shoes so that when it is moved from one end of the porch to the other, there is no particular strain on the nerves.

Now that a glider has been selected, we found the price so much less than we expected, that the budget will allow the purchase of one or two beach chairs—perhaps we will take one of reinforced heavy canvas in a tasteful shade of blue, painted with white polka dots—this same style is also made up in green, with shadow dots.

This week when we stepped to admire an old hickory settle with matching chairs and table, we noted that a special process had unminuted the wood to the usual wood rots and insect attacks. These pieces are sturdy and tone in with rustic settings, particularly in yards where much care is given to flower beds. They are comfortable without pillows, but cushions in gay plaids or stripes, will add to the picture rather than detract.

force so that the contestants are strictly amateur and always under the control both as to individuals and to teams.

All information as to age, eligibility and scholarship are kept in the office of the director of high school athletics.

The conference was a very helpful one and the members went away well informed and much less likely to crab because of what seems to be an over-emphasis of sports in the local school.

ROTARIANS TAKE 'MAKE-BELIEVE' TRIP
ers in the face of the proposal to give $25,000 for horse blankets for Harry Clark's Northville Horse show.

It was E. M. Boyart's (Vice-president John Garner) task to keep peace among the senators, which he did, swinging a gavel with a powerful hand. Mr. Angore had to do some rapid pencil pushing to record the proceedings in the chamber.

Feeling a filibuster coming on, the Rev. Fr. Joseph G. Schuler (Senator LaPollette) began reading volumes of data on the anatomy of the grasshopper. He was left a lone figure as the senators made their way from the chamber while the four-day filibuster raged.

Going on to Sing Sing for the final stop of the trip, the passengers were greeted by Captain Edward Dennison of the Detroit House of Correction (Warden Lewis L. Lawes) who brought "truth" to light by stating that the "lifers" weren't really bad men. "After all, what's wrong with kumping off a wife or robbing money? You have to get rid of your wife someday and robbery only keeps the tax payers from handing over income taxes," he said.

It brought before the group four of his best behaved prisoners—Mr. Forney, Mr. American, D. P. Yerkes and Mr. Angore—who opened their mouths and gave out sweet music. Conductor Ding Dang emptied his train at Sing Sing, letting his passengers find their way home as best they could.

The program was planned by the four honorary directors of the Rotary.

PEANUT BUTTER, 10, SUCCUMBS FRIDAY AT JOHN NELSON HOME
sick and grew weaker each day. Friday she died. Saturday, she was buried deep down beneath the boughs of a maple tree where little children come and stand so silently, and who can guess their thoughts.

Now when Peanut Butter is mentioned it brings back memories of a kind old car, who never scratched, who had such a wise look in her dear old eyes—she could all but talk. And strange that just three weeks ago, a little granddaughter should come who is marked just like Peanut Butter. Now it is hoped she will grow up to be a credit to her grandmother, but in these days, who can say—CONTRIBUTED.
