Adopt Resolution Permitting
Sale of Liquor by Glass in Northville

Acting upon the recommendation of the village attorney, F. J. Cochran, members of the council voted Monday evening to accept the PWA reservoir project, acknowledging the completion date as June 19.

Councilmen were assured that their acceptance vote did not in any way bind them to any demands for payment which the contractor might want to make. No extension deadline date was given the contractor beyond Dec. 15, 1936. Whether or not H. B. Culbertson, contractor, will be held for penalty payment on the over time has not been decided.

"Your vote in this case merely means that you consider the project complete," assured Mr. Cochran.

MAKE 35 ARRESTS
Chief of Police Loyde M. German reports 35 arrests during the month of July, as well as the recovering of two stolen cars.

COCHRANE'S PRIZE BULL IS FEATURE OF MILFORD FAIR

"An aristocrat of the beef breeds will be one of the feature entries in the livestock show at the Oakland County Fair at Milford, Aug. 11-14.

He is Eloquent Bandolier II, the prize Aberdeen Angus bull, belonging to Manager Gordon Stanley Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers. This excellent specimen of his breed is a coming two-year-old and is the animal presented to the Tiger club by William E. Scripps of Wildwood Farms at Lake Orion, with appropriate ceremonies last summer at Marvin Field in Detroit.

Nearly full grown he is the herd sire for the Cochrane herd of registered Aberdeen Angus. From a long line of aristocrats, this bull himself a fine individual can boast of a mother, Eloquent Lassie, who was one of a pair of females to go undefeated in 1930, in livestock shows from coast to coast. She was also three times grand champion in Detroit.

Eloquent Bandolier II was sired by Bandolier of Amoka, who was junior champion bull at the International Stock show in 1932 and was three times grand champion at Detroit. It is expected that several other animals from the Cochrane herd will be exhibited. There are many breeders of fine livestock in Oakland and surrounding counties and the barns and sheds will be filled to overflowing. Some of the best stallions in this section of Michigan will be at the Oakland County Fair.

In addition all the many features found at a county fair will be provided. Horse races, ball games, free acts, novelty acts, stunts, horse-pulling contest, exhibits and a grand display of fireworks three nights. There is no gate admission to the grounds. A 25-cent charge will be made for parking of automobiles.

Hold Hearing Today For Robbery Suspects; German Breaks-up Gang

Because Officers W. H. Roberts and Tremor McDermott were assigned to another case by Sheriff T. C. Wilcox, the hearing for Northville's youthful law-breaking gang, recently apprehended by Chief of Police Loyde M. German, was adjourned Friday afternoon, July 30, until 2 p. m. today.

The hearing will be held today in the Village Hall before Justice Arthur S. Nichols for the eight boys, four of whom are from Northville, the others are from Plymouth, who are charged individually with a series of four robberies, the first of which occurred Sept. 15, 1936, at the Phil Grennan farm, where $75 was taken by two of the boys.

On the night of July 20, three of the boys entered Butch's place on Plymouth avenue, allegedly taking $40. The same night, three other members of the gang robbed the Recreation Cafe of $230. Four of the boys are charged with robbing a tavern on Boyse road earlier in the season.

Ring Leaders Get High Bail
When Justice Nichols set bail for the boys on Saturday, July 24, he placed a $3,000 figure with two sureties each on the two ring leaders of the gang. Warrants for their arrests in Wayne county have been issued for one of the boys on four charges, and on the other for three robberies.

"I'm placing the bond on you two boys at this high figure because of the charges we have on you here and when this county is through with you, you're wanted in two or three surrounding counties on similar charges," asserted Justice Nichols.

The six accomplices were given $500 bonds, or $250 cash. According to Mr. Roberts, Wayne county detective, some of the boys have confessed to as many as four or five robberies within the past four years. One of the ring leaders has admitted that he purchased an automobile from a Howell dealer, later returning to rob the sales room of nine tires. These same tires were stolen from the ring leader by a "pal" after he learned where they had been hidden.

Dump Slot Machines
Slot machines, allegedly taken from beer gardens and restaurants, have been a main source of revenue for this group, several of which, it is reported, have been dumped into the Rouge river or Phoenix lake, others have been recovered from the Rouge River near Newburg.

Working during the past few weeks with Chief German on these arrests have been Mr. Roberts, Mr. McDermott, Chief of Police Vaughn Smith and Captain Charles Thompson of Plymouth.

Slightly different was the adjournment scene in the court room Friday day, July 24. When the boys were given bail, tears in the eyes of witnessing mothers, fathers and sisters were a common sight in the crowded Village Hall. But during Friday's brief court session, an atmosphere of confidence and defiance was prevalent, even to the extent of the suspension of a sister of one of the defendants from the court room while Judge Nichols was addressing the court.

Spectator Sneers
It was during Justice Nichols' talk addressed principally to the mothers and fathers of the village, that the young lady nudged a woman sitting next to her. She was immediately dismissed from the court room by an officer of the court.

"The mothers and fathers of children in this village can thank the officers for the work that has been done in this case. You cannot impress too strongly the seriousness of this thing upon the minds of your children. If a murder had been committed during these robberies, the person or persons in company with the one who fired the shot, would have been held on a murder charge. The accomplices, in the eyes of the law, would be just as guilty of murder as the one who actually committed it," emphasized Justice Nichols.

W. R. C. MEETS
The regular meeting of the W. R. C. will be held Wednesday evening, Aug. 11, in the Legion Hall. All officers and members are requested to be present at this time when candidates are to be initiated.

IT'S 90 DAYS FOR McDONALD SAYS NICHOLS

Redford Man Faces Assault
Charges; Complaint Is Made By Wife

"I was pretty mad," defended Gordon McDonald, Redford, Friday afternoon in Justice court where Deputy Sheriff Davey reminded McDonald of the time he tore up an injunction and threw it in the face of the serving officer.

"And right now I'm pretty mad," asserted Justice Arthur S. Nichols as he sentenced McDonald to 90 days in the Detroit House of Correction after charges of assault and battery had been made by his wife, Winifred McDonald. On July 25, McDonald was alleged to have gone home at 2:30 a. m. to make a plea for the reestablishment of the home which was brought to a stormy end July 3.

Upon Mrs. McDonald's refusal to give him another trial, McDonald was said to have stepped to the door and called, "Come on in, May," and the "woman in the case," whose identity is still unknown to authorities, stood beside McDonald as he struck his wife, knocking her to the floor.

"I wish I could say something good about you. But after living with the investigation of this case as I have for the past week I can't do it. I've found out things about your life you never dreamed anyone would ever know," asserted Deputy Davey, after recounting bigamy and adultery charges brought against McDonald six years ago.

"Can't you say anything at all good about your wife?" queried Justice Nichols as he listened to McDonald's story of unhappy home life.

"Sure, I certainly can say nice things about her," refuted McDonald. "Well, you're pretty late in doing it. So far as I can find out you haven't written or spoken a good word for her," charged the Judge.

McDonald was also accused by Deputy Davey of crashing in the door and breaking the window glass at the rear entrance of his estranged wife's house on the night of July 29. McDonald denied having forced his way into the house, but he said that he broke the glass with his shoulder when he attempted to push the door, which he said was stuck.

"Well, I hope you're satisfied," muttered McDonald as he looked across the court room at his wife after Justice Nichols gave the 90-day sentence.

SACINAW BOY PLAYS LEAD IN 'STAN' FILM

Robert Armstrong, who plays the leading title role in "Stan," the Standard Oil company's first full-length talking picture, which will be shown at 8:30 p. m., Aug. 12, at the Bailey Station, Northville, is a native of Saginaw, where he was born Nov. 20, 1886. His parents, Minna and William Armstrong, were non-professionals.

When he was still a child, the Armstrong family moved to Seattle, Wash., where he attended high school and the University of Washington law college.

Soon, however, a stage career attracted him more than the legal profession so he decided to cast his lot with a roving stock company.

For the next ten years he followed the stage, appearing in "Boys Will Be Boys," "Shaving," "Honey Girl," "The Man Who Came Back," "Sire Fire," "New Brooms," "Judy" and "Is Zat So?"

2 Port Huron Boys Attempt Kiiken Station Robbery

Two Port Huron youths, Douglas McFrye, 17, and John Langolf, Jr., 16, were caught at 1:20 a. m. Thursday after they had smashed a glass window in the rear door of Melvin Kiiken's gas station, South Rogers street.

Both boys are out on parole, having stuck up a farm bureau in Port Huron several months ago. A stolen car taken from the Gorham Motor Sales of that place was apprehended here by Chief Loyde M. German, who was called to the scene of the break-in by Ralph Bosart.

Young Langolf passed the station just as Earl Montgomery, on night duty during the absence of Richard Loomis who was called from the village by the death of his father, attempted to see aid in covering the two suck-ups.

A radio message brought Mr. Montgomery to the station within two minutes after Tom Carrington, who lives in that neighborhood, had placed a police call to report the break-in.

When the officers ordered the boys to leave the Kiiken station they refused, making it necessary for Montgomery to fire on the boys, not injuring them, before they would leave the station. George Cropp, a roofer at the Carrington home, guarded with the local officers holding a shotgun in his hands.

"The boys are described by Chief German as 'young, but tough'."

DEATH COMES MONDAY TO H. A. DES AUTELS

Last Rites Held Wednesday
from Schrader Chapel;
Masons Assist

After six months' illness following years of failing health, Henry A. Des Autels passed away Monday afternoon, Aug. 2 at his home on East Dundas street. He would have reached his seventy-first birthday Aug. 12.

Mr. Des Autels was the son of James and Catherine Des Autels and was born in Detroit in 1866. In early boyhood he began working for the Newcomb-Randolph & Company as a cash boy and, because of his reliability was gradually promoted to positions of stenography in various departments, remaining in the service of the company for 25 years.

On Aug. 19, 1886, he was united in marriage with Miss Alice Gifford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gifford, at the Charles Homestead, that stood on the North Rogers street hill. Three sons were born to this union: Eugene of Detroit, Louis of Evanston, Ill., and Raymond of Northville. One daughter, Olive, died at the age of 18 years.

For a number of years Mr. Des Autels was employed at the Ford factory until he was recruited by illness to retire.

During his 20 years of residence in Northville Mr. Des Autels had made a wide circle of friends. In his unassuming manner he had contributed many acts of thoughtfulness to the community. With a sense of quiet humor he carried a feeling of good will as he roamed among his friends. In later years as he became less active he found much pleasure in his garden where he cultivated rare roses which he bestowed generously upon friends.

In his youth Mr. Des Autels joined the Twelfth street Baptist church in Detroit and had retained his membership since. He was a member of Northville Lodge No. 186, F. & A. M.

The funeral service was held in the Schrader chapel Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. Kendall S. North officiating. A Masonic burial service was held at 10:30 a. m. (Continued on page 8)

DR. SPARLING REVIEWS HIGHLIGHTS OF TRIP

By C. A. DOLFE
Dr. Harold I. Sparling gave the Exchange's report of his recent vacation trip through Ontario and the Wednesday meeting of the club. His experiences in London, Kitchener, Guelph, Berry, Toronto and Niagara Falls were most interesting and pointed out the beauties of each city and the country side.

"The many stone houses and the reason for using this material was outlined briefly and helpfully. Dr. Sparling reported abundant crops and heard the same complaints as to shortage of help as occurs on this side. He noted that the proportion of people on welfare was about like our own.

FAIR BOARD EXPECTS TOP ATTENDANCE

Demands for Premium List
Come Early, Committee
Heads Report

Following Monday evening's Fair board meeting, the report comes from the officers that at this early date, all things point to the best Fair Northville has ever had. The Fair this year opens Wednesday, Aug. 25, continuing through Saturday, Aug. 28.

The free car events which draw thousands of persons to the grounds each year will be featured again this year. Keeping in step with the high mark set by giving away a Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth last August, the board has again selected these three cars for the gifts which are acknowledged the last three afternoons of the Fair immediately at the close of the stage show and racing program.

Faller Heads, Poultry Department
Already entries have been made in the stock and poultry departments. The poultry section, headed again by A. E. Fidler, has been enlarged and remodelled to take care of the increased number of entries which were predicted last year when some exhibitors had to be turned away because of limited space.

Five large banded displays of choice fruits, as well as plate fruit displays, will be outstanding features at the fruit booth of which Ralph Fidlerman is chairman. From Mrs. P. S. Hammon, head of the women's division, comes the information that the interest in the department is unusually keen. Requests for premium lists have come from all sources.

One of the largest vegetable displays in the history of the Fair is expected because of the wet season which has aided the gardeners to a great extent.

Boosts Horse Show
"The horse show is always an outstanding feature of the Fair. Even at this early date, entries have come from the best stables of Michigan and Toledo," asserted Secretary Floyd A. Northrop.

Mr. Northrop further stated that the five acts selected this year come highly recommended. They will be headed Wednesday by Mary Wiggins, the 24-year-old beauty who doubles for most of the Hollywood queens when their script calls for them to engage in dangerous scenes.

"The whole Fair set-up does look awfully good," declared Mr. Northrop.

ENGINEER BUREAU ADVISES VILLAGE ON WATER FILTERS

A letter received in the village following an inspection tour here by R. J. Faust, assistant director of the State engineering bureau, made in company with Street Commissioner Earl Montgomery on July 15, states that the newly completed reservoir promotes the public health of Northville.

"That iron is being removed effectively from the water is indicated by the lack of staining in the public drinking fountain located at the main corner of Northville," writes Edward D. Rich, director, after studying the report of Mr. Faust's survey.

"The filters," he continues, "apparently did not function right. A sample of the sand from the filters was collected and analyzed in our offices. Tests proved the filter to be unsatisfactory."

Mr. Rich informed the street commissioner of the sand mesh sizes which are required for the different depths.

In this relation, Dr. H. H. Burkett, mayor, stated Monday evening that he recommended the spending of $775 to purchase the right kind of sand for the filters. "I'd rather buy good white sand and ship it in from Ohio and stop all this extra work," he said.

Paul B. Thompson Resigns Saturday From School Post

With the resignation tendered Saturday by Assistant Principal Paul B. Thompson, members of the board of education were confronted this week with finding a qualified man to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Thompson resigned after ten years on the teaching staff here to complete his college requirements for a B. S. degree in agricultural engineering at the Michigan State college, East Lansing.

"It took me a year to make up my mind to resign, but I know I'll never regret containing at this time to work for my degree. All I need on my college course is a full year and one more summer term. I'm interested in the practical vocational field," he explained.

During the years Mr. Thompson was here a shortage in the teaching personnel at the high school made it necessary for him to divide his time between manual art classes and principalship duties.

ASK 'BABY' ROTARIANS FOR IMPROMPTU TALKS

With Floyd Northrop as program chairman, Northville Rotarians at their Tuesday noon luncheon enjoyed a most interesting home talent session. Mr. Northrop called upon three of the newer members of the club to give impromptu talks and each of the trio acquitted himself splendidly.

"Judy" Lapham told how, after 22 consecutive years in the plumbing business, the depression caused him to branch out to become a painter, decorator, carpenter and "what have you."

Con Langfield was introduced as the progressive head of the well known Northville Laboratories. He described some of the trips he makes in quest of business and said that in the coming week he will cover 1,560 miles. Although quite often absent from the local Rotary club, Mr. Langfield said that he usually "made up" in some other city.

Howard Whipple, manager of the Maybury sanatorium farm, gave a brief description of its operations. He said that the farm as a rule produces only what can be used by

WHAT MADE THEM "GO-WRONG?"

The picture of eight Northville and Plymouth young men appearing in court on criminal charges is a sobering and sad spectacle. If some of this number are convicted and go to prison cells, it will be a tragedy that will cast its shadow over many years. Many others besides the eight will suffer. Parents, other relatives and friends will feel the whiplash of humiliation and disgrace. That is a crime for which these young people can never make recompense.

What caused these young men to become arrested on serious charges? It is far easier to raise the question than to answer it. So complicated are the factors that there is no dogmatic answer.

We have asked a number of straight thinking Northville people this question. One of the best answers came from a man in his early thirties.

"I blame the breakdown in public morale that has come in recent years for these boys' troubles—and no one can laugh off these troubles," he said.

The evidence of this "breakdown" in public conscience—or whatever you wish to call it—is all around us. The morals of young people in many cases are at about as low an ebb as they could possibly be. With a large number of young people—and even married people—chastity has become a joke. Lawlessness is on practically every hand—you don't have to leave Northville to find it. Vulgar and indecent language is far too common. Dishonesty in small matters is winked at and is indulged in by people who twenty years ago would not have stolen a penny. For example, we know a young man who has had every advantage of good breeding, home environment, education—both high school and college—and of an outstanding place in the community. Yet this is exactly what an intimate friend of his says of him: "He has every vice."

If this outstanding young man has every vice what of the poor fellow who hasn't had half the chance of this high-trained boy?

If eight boys had been brought up in a Northville court 25 years ago, public opinion would have almost unanimously cried out: "The home is to blame for this disgrace!" No honest and well-informed citizen dare say this any more. Society has become so complex that the minute a boy leaves home he is surrounded by currents of influence that the home may strive in vain desperately to counteract. Today a changed public opinion will let a boy do things and get away with them that would have been unheard of a few years ago. Take the matter of liquor drinking. In the days of the old saloon, no woman, not to say girl, would have risked her reputation to be seen in such a place. Today the strange spectacle of women in drinking places is described by even the "wets" themselves as being vile and unspeakable. Yet public opinion shuts its eyes to these conditions and nobody cares.

Take the public attitude toward gambling. Getting something for nothing has become a mania with thousands of people, yet gambling is a vicious and crushing force that will ruin a large percentage of its followers. The slot machine has been well named "the one-armed bandit."

A boy who becomes inoculated with the gambling germ becomes so drunk with this passion that it is no wonder that he drops all restraint and goes out to steal and rob. But in spite of this increasing damage to character that is being done by the slot machine—what does the public care about it? Nothing. In fact the whole matter seems to be more or less of a joke to the great majority of people.

What brought these eight young men into court? No one influence, but a combination of many. Society itself helped put these boys in their present sad situation. The public, as well as these young men, should be indicted.

GOVERNOR MURPHY'S DUTY

(Editorial in The Detroit News, Aug. 2)

The Civil Service Act finally passed by the Legislature is far from an ideal one. The Legislature had before it an ideal bill, nationally recognized as such, in the one prepared at considerable expense by a public-spirited and able Civil Service Study Commission. But this bill, in some of its most important provisions, was rejected.

The measure finally passed consists of what Governor Murphy was able to salvage of the original after this ideal bill had been worked over by politicians who wanted a bill that would degenerate soon, they hoped, into a sleazily disguised version of the spoils system.

Whether this hope will be realized depends wholly on how the act is administered. It is not an ideal act but it still is a workable act. With ideal administration, backed up by public vigilance, it is capable of giving Michigan a first-class merit system. Indifferently or unscrupulously administered, it will be worse than no act at all.

The question is largely in the hands of Governor Murphy, who has promised to make civil service a success. It has been pointed out that, with the Governor able to appoint Democratic partisans to the Civil Service directorship and Commission, it will be possible to deliver the act at the start into the hands of Democratic spoilsmen.

Present State employees will have to take only "qualifying" examinations in order to hold their jobs, and the examinations may be dishonestly conducted to favor the Democratic employees. The act does not take effect until Jan. 1, 1938. Between now and then the State payrolls may be packed with Democratic party workers, making the Civil Service no more than a means of perpetuating in office a State Democratic machine.

Those are the possibilities, which, if they come to pass, will mean of course the over-turning of Civil Service by the first Republican Administration to take power at Lansing.

However, they need not come to pass. The Governor may appoint as director a qualified personnel expert who will have no use for partisanship. He may appoint to the Commission public-spirited men who will not stoop to inject partisanship in a service intended to be non-partisan. And, in deference to the public wish expressed in the Act itself, he may call a halt on political dismissals, not on Jan. 1, 1938, but right now.

In that case, the Civil Service by the end of his Administration will be too securely established in public esteem for any politician of either party to dare to assail it.

Even an ideal civil service law, unscrupulously administered, may give way to spoilsmanship. The important thing is that Michigan now has at least a workable law, which, worked right, can rid the State of the spoils system and give it a new efficiency and economy in the public service. The public counts on Governor Murphy to make it work.

"What! Handle cooking utensils with white gloves?"

CLEAN!

An electric range user says: "Imagine being able to handle cooking utensils with white gloves! I like its cleanliness—and the indescribable difference in flavor of foods cooked electrically. Also its absolute respect for curtains, walls and draperies. I'm a user for aye!"

SAFE!

A mother writes: "Since we bought our electric range, I never have to worry about leaving the children alone with the stove. If a switch is turned on accidentally, nothing happens... a little heat is merely dissipated into the air. It's a great relief to be able to do away with matches in the kitchen."

PERFECT CAKES

A housewife remarks: "Baking is a joy with my electric range. Results are certain, and I have no failures. My only regret is that I waited so long before owning this wonderful stove!" * * * (See the new electric ranges on display at department stores, electrical dealers and all Detroit Edison offices.)

In TOWN and COUNTRY

4 out of every 5 miles you drive are Stop and Go

Your own driving experience tells you you can't go very far in mileage, town or city, these days, without STOPPING!

Shell engineers, recognizing the high cost of stop and go driving, have developed a way to "balance" gasoline. By completely re-arranging its chemical structure, this process does to gasoline just what cooking does to food—makes it "digestible." Starting, shifting gears, accelerating—your engine gets the full benefit of Super-Shell's high energy content.

It's the "motor-digestible" gasoline that cuts the cost of stop and go!

Try Super-Shell next time. There's a Shell dealer near your home.

THE WAY TO HIS HEART

"It takes a life time to learn your way around your husband's heart," said an old lady as she sat paring peaches and talking to an anxious-eyed young man leaning toward her. "Yes, it takes a life time—and even then you can't quite be sure you know him," she mused as she let her hands drop idly in her lap while her eyes sought out a framed portrait on the opposite wall—kind eyes looking out over a grizzly beard. "Yes, it takes a long time," she whispered.

"Tell me," pleaded the young man eagerly. "Tell me so that I may learn more quickly. John really is such a puzzle to me."

"I can't tell you, child. No one can pass on the experience to another. You must learn for yourself," and the older woman aroused herself and picked up another peach and began paring it rapidly.

"Only living with John year after year will teach you when to be gay, when to be quiet, when to take a firm stand, when to yield in submission. Only time will teach you to observe a tired look, or a worried one and only time will teach you when to ignore these and when to try to relieve. Sometimes he wants most of all to be let alone."

"Every woman ought to be able to watch her husband at work through a whole day to see the petty annoyances that come up, the unreasonable demands of the public. Then at night when he comes slowly home with a line above his eyes she would not meet him at the door with a volley of childish complaints. What if she has had to stay at home with the children all day, if she only knew it, that is play beside the day he has been through and dragging him off to a place of amusement is a fearful strain on his disposition. On the other hand when the wife who allows herself to become so bedraggled by the day's work that she is too tired to "fix up" to go out when her husband wants a "best girl" is walking on equally dangerous ground. Oh, one has to be very wise.

"Ask yourself these questions, my child: 'Do I know when to laugh off a situation and avoid a strained situation? Do I know how to get my own way without making a scene? Do I indulge in self-pity just because life has not turned out as I planned it when it was really for better?' For I understand that a man hates nagging worse than anything (except father) would throw things at him? Do you leave John's practicing until Dad gets home so that he has to listen to the arguments that precede the discordant thumping on the piano? Do you leave a pile of rags for John to shake because you've had such a hard day? Or do you—well, still postpone punishment? Just wait until your father comes—he'll tell you to you? Do you stomp in carelessly or in a manner before John? Do you spoil him and make him selfish by waiting on him or do you encourage the old chivalry of courtship days?

"Most of all, do you make home the best place on earth so that he will feel that it is worth all the sweating and toiling and will say 'It's good to be at home' when he returns to you?"

A long pause followed as each sat thoughtfully. Then the younger woman asked: "Did you know the way around your husband's heart?"

"No, child, but I have thought out much of it since. Men are such grown-up boys—and boys are always a puzzle, you know."

GERAGHTY IS GERAGHTY NO MATTER HOW IT'S SPELLED

To run across a man by the same name while in northern Michigan was the unique experience of Robert E. Geraghty last week while attending the State convention for rural mail carriers in Alpena. The two descendants from old Erin shook hands with characteristic Celtic warmth exclaiming "Well, well, so our name is Geraghty! Sure, and we don't meet a man with such a name often."

The Alpena branch of the family had evidently dropped as many letters as possible from the original name to which the Northville Geraghtys still cling and spells their name "Geraghty" but both agreed that they were from the same original Irish stock.

COUNCIL DENIES CLAIM MADE BY L. LAWRENCE

The village attorney, F. J. Cochran, told members of the council Monday evening to deny Leo Lawrence's claim of $100 damages which he says village employees did to his Fairbrook avenue water cross pond when sewer repairs were made in June.

"There is no evidence that this pond has been used commercially for several years. That being the case, I see no cause for complaint," Mr. Cochran informed the commissioners.

The council voted to deny Mr. Lawrence's claim.

"Remember, my boy," said the elderly relative, "that wealth does not bring happiness."

"I don't expect it to," answered the young man. "I merely want it so that I may be able to choose the kind of misery that is most agreeable to me."—Pearson's Weekly.

Human Interest Briefs From Exchange Columns

Farmington—Farmington's dog, Brown, 61, Farmington, was held temporarily at police headquarters for investigation of the accident. The Dearborn Independent.

South Lyon—At a meeting Monday evening the council voted to call a special election to be held Aug. 17 for the purpose of voting on additional bonds to complete the financing of the sewage treatment plant.—The South Lyon Herald.

Ann Arbor—Change in the age limit for old age assistance from 70 to 65 years has resulted in 99 cases being shifted from relief rolls to the pension rolls in Washtenaw county. Of this number 65 persons received their first pension checks July 20, and will be closed officially on the relief records on Aug. 20, and 34 will receive their first checks Aug. 10. These cases will be closed by the relief office 30 days later. However, no actual relief is provided after the pension payments are started.—Washtenaw Post-Tribune.

South Lyon—The Herald's capable Salem correspondent, Mrs. G. C. Foreman, is in Eastlake sanatorium, Northville, where she has been for about two weeks.—The South Lyon Herald.

Mount Clemens—Though born without front legs and feet, Nubby, 7-year-old dog owned by Albert Baumhauer of Mount Clemens, has little difficulty getting around, Nubby, in learning to walk, developed almost a kangaroo hop which keeps him in an upright position. Nubby's handicaps, Baumhauer hopes, will open up a stage career for the dog.—The Advertiser-Monitor.

Dearborn—His skull having been fractured when he was hurled from his bicycle by an automobile, Herbert Schoen, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Schoen, died Thursday evening July 29. The death car driver Roy W.

Dearborn—Determined to rid the city of the narcotic weed known as marijuana several members of the local police department have been busy all this week searching out and destroying this plant, the growth and possession of which is now banned by Federal law.

Fully a ton of this brain-deceiving weed has been uprooted and burned here. The search is still going on with new patches being uncovered daily. Most of these have been found in the south end of the city, which it was supposedly planted by Mexicans. At least two clusters, however, have been reported as having been found in the vicinity of Ford and Chase roads.

Birmingham—Edward J. Sharpe, 20-year-old 14-mile road, escaped with deep cuts about his face and neck Saturday noon, July 24, when he crashed his 1936 Ford, yellow model, in a farm just west of the intersection of Cranbrook and 14-mile roads while attempting a turn at a low altitude. Sharpe probably owes his life to the fact that a wing of the ship clipped a tree as the plane "padded" to the ground, spinning it around and preventing the craft from plunging into a ditch a few feet ahead. The pilot was thrown out of his seat as the ship was spun around.—The Birmingham Eclectic.

W-A-R

By THEODORE WERLE

If these peoples that proclaim Christ as their God should put aside and concern warfare, little warring would be left on Earth. The "Christian" peoples have been Earth's chief organizers and instigators of wars since Europe emerged. Both by their own act and by the influence of their arts and will upon other peoples if Christ's children came to up and said, "Henceforth there shall be no war," there would be no war. But Christ and his church are too weak. The desire for war, killing, suffering, suffering, in the name of Christ, is too strong.

If I could find a champion willing to stand up to defy war, I would stand up to him. I would stand up to him as one of the best characters in the history of the world. I would stand up to him as one of the best characters in the history of the world. I would stand up to him as one of the best characters in the history of the world.

There should be preaching, talking and writing against it. There should be no more of this kind of thing. There should be no more of this kind of thing. There should be no more of this kind of thing. There should be no more of this kind of thing.

Let the churches carry peace with a will. They have never yet done so. In furtherance of this high purpose, official opposition might have to be ignored. If passports were denied go without. Let the men of peace truly rise above the mundane. Let national boundaries be to them the fiction they are. Let there be a united church a spirit of peace so indomitable that nothing human could stop it. And there will then be no war.

What a rally cry for the non-antagonistic church! What a call for inspired service, for a crusade that could stir all of mankind, as has nothing in six hundred years. What a challenge to lay aside theological bickering in behalf of great human service! What a prize to be gained for Christian unity!

But—when the war came preaching and priests will bless the flags and cannon. Chaplains will give "Christian" burial to the cadavers that once were living men—men who go to the slaughter because they do not know how to refuse—men whose leaders do not dare to follow Christ.

Week's Theatre Highlight Begins Wednesday With Olivia de Havilland and Ian Hunter in 'Call It a Day'; Joe E. Brown Here Sunday

"YOU CAN'T BUY LUCK"

A top-notch cast was selected for "You Can't Buy Luck" coming here Friday and Saturday. Oswald Stevens and Helen Mack are co-featured in the leading roles of this photoplay combining race-track thrills with a murder mystery.

Vincent Harcourt, who gained national fame as Jack Arnold in the popular radio program, "Myrt and Marge," is seen as a secondary lead together with Maxine Jennings, promising young actress.

Playing a prominent part is Hedda Hopper, well-known stage and screen character actress, who has appeared in such pictures as "His Majesty Bunker Bean," "Alice Adams," "Little Man, What Now?" and many others.

Paul Guilfoyle also has one of the main supporting roles as a recent recruit from the New York Police Force, who has been assigned to investigate a series of mysterious disappearances.

Frank M. Thomas, former stage player, appears in an important role as one of the best characters in the history of the world. I would stand up to him as one of the best characters in the history of the world.

"LET HANDS OFF"—The oldest racket of the underworld, the practice of holding up and robbing, is the subject of a new picture, "Let Hands Off," starring picture now playing at the Pennington-Alton theatre.

Old-time gangster, Joe E. Brown, stars in "Let Hands Off," a picture now playing at the Pennington-Alton theatre.

The modern racket drives a truck out on the range. Sighting a herd of cattle he and his henchmen capture the animals, slaughter them on the spot and haul the meat in fast trucks to nearby cities.

Regular bootleg dealers in the big racket have sprung up in a great number of Western cities and towns and are raising havoc with honest cattlemen, Joe declared.

"RIDING ON AIR"

Packed with novelty and "side-splitting situations," Joe E. Brown's latest picture, "Riding on Air," comes Sunday to the local street, presenting the story of a man who gets into a small-town newspaperman who gets upbraided by a stock promoter.

Based on the famous "Elmer" Lane stories that have appeared from time to time in the Saturday Evening Post, the new offering breaks sharply away from the type of vehicle in which Brown has starred in the past. As the one-man staff of a weekly paper in a little Wisconsin town, Brown as Elmer, also takes on the job of being correspondent for a big Chicago daily, and endeavors to help a fellow-townsmen promote the development of an airplane which he flies by radio-beam remote control.

Along with these activities runs his romance with the belle of the town in the face of the opposition of a wealthy rival. And when he wins a five thousand dollar slogan contest and a suave Chicago confidence man comes to town to separate him from the money, Joe succeeds, things begin to happen in the best Joe E.

With the bulky breath of Sunday's 15th day does to clambering stairs is the theme of a delightful comedy drama entitled "Call It a Day." A Hollywood production released by Warner Brothers and showing next Wednesday at the Pennington-Alton theatre.

The subject is appealing. A stage play, "Call It a Day" ran for a couple of years in London. It was more than a year in New York. With the broader sweep of the camera it is much better as a picture than it was behind the footlights.

Big, good-looking fan funk pays the part of a well-to-do Britisher. His wife is Freda Inescort, noted London and Broadway actress. They have been married 20 years and are pretty much in a rut.

Then there's a daughter of 18 or thereabouts—what's the lovely Olivia de Havilland—and another of 15, who's Bonnie Granville, the celebrated "Three Threes" Peter Willes, young British actor is the son of the family. It's a well-settled, affectional household.

But Spring rocks its magic. The husband falls in love—or thinks he does—with an actress, named Maria Ralston. The wife has a proposal from Roland Young, whom she meets through her best friend, Alice Brady.

Olivia conceals an infatuation for a painter, Walter Woolf King, who's doing her portrait. Her brother, Willes, discovers charms in the girl next door, Anita Louise.

POSSY, THE SKUNK, IS ZOO FAVORITE

Newest denizen of the Michigan Insect Zoo in Convention Hall, Detroit, Posy the skunk has already become one of the most popular with visitors.

Posy arrived at the Zoo Sunday, the gift of Jack Smucker of Detroit. Posy is no ordinary skunk. Long a pet, he has lost his unsavory habits. He follows Brayton Eddy, zoo director, about at the end of a leash like a puppy, and he submits to petting with the docility and pleasure of a tabby cat.

Asked why a skunk should be a part of an insect zoo's collection, Mr. Eddy pointed out that skunks eat ravaging caterpillars and other insects by the thousands. Much of their diet is made up of insect pests—among them the army worm now causing serious damage near Bay City.

Secretary of State, Leon D. Case has declared war on certain "unethical" and even "vicious" practices among many used car dealers in Detroit and vicinity.

One large concern has already been placed on probation for six months with the threat that its license will be revoked unless business methods are placed on a legitimate basis.

In many instances Secretary Case has found that used car dealers have imposed excessive finance charges on buyers. Charges have been inflated as high as 21 and 22 per cent of the actual cost of the car.

A "vicious custom" has prevailed between some finance companies and used car dealers whereby buyers have been soaked for certain "reserves" and "special reserves," said Secretary Case. These charges are added to the purchase price and then returned to the used car dealer by the finance company as a "rebate." This "rebate" is of course, paid by the car purchaser who has little knowledge as to what is actually done with this money.

Secretary Case has declared that hereafter used car dealers will not be permitted to accept any notes from customers unless they are plainly filled out in detail and dealers must not "under any circumstances accept rebates of any kind from any finance company."

FORD AGENCY SELLS 400 '37 CARS

TOM EDMONDSON, INC., HAS RECORD 8 MONTHS' SALES;
VOLUME REACHES $300,000

Selling more than four hundred new 1937 Ford V-8's in little more than eight months—13 days to be exact—the Tom Edmondson, Inc., agency has set a sales record rare for new agencies in communities the size of Northville, according to Tom Edmondson. The local Ford dealership was established here less than nine months ago, opening under the present management Nov. 14, 1936.

To deliver 400 new cars in slightly over eight months time means that for every week day in that time an average of two customers drove shiny new "V-8's" through the doorway into useful service. On some days, of course, the number of deliveries exceeded the average.

The first eight and a half months in Northville brought more than $300,000.00 of business, Mr. Edmondson states. This volume is accounted for largely by the sale of new cars, accessories and parts.

Such a high sales record is unusual in the automobile business on many points. In the first place Northville's population is small, and for another thing the agency was not organized until the middle of last November. But what Northville lacked in size and the agency lacked in years of existence was more than made up in the large number of friends of Tom Edmondson and his fellow workers who came to patronize the new agency, and also in the years of experience the men have had in Ford work.

Sales were made to persons from far and near. One purchaser resides in California, but took delivery of a new 1937 Ford through the local agency and then drove several thousand miles before returning home. Mr. Edmondson holds a letter received from this buyer, in which the Californian praises both the service accorded him at the local Ford agency and the performance of his Ford. Other sales have been made to residents of distant states who happened to be in Michigan and wanted to take delivery of a new car at Detroit.

Several of the cars have gone into official service—one with the local police and others with the Secretary of State.

In fact, when you watch the numerous Fords go by, there's more than a chance that you'll see several Edmondson Fords in the procession.

EDMONDSON LAYS STRESS ON GOOD
SERVICE FOR CARS

"Complete, careful service" is the keynote in the service department of Tom Edmondson, Inc. And to accomplish this the shop is equipped with the latest machinery, and only factory trained mechanics are trusted with the task of making adjustments or repairing customers' cars.

Seven men comprise the service department personnel, under the direction of Fred Tosland, manager.

THE 400TH FORD
Who will own the 400th 1937 Ford sold by Tom Edmondson, Inc.?

Although the 400th new car sold by the local Ford dealer has been delivered to the Northville Wayne County Fair association, the eventual owner will not be known until the winner is announced at 5 p. m. on one of three days, August 26, 27 or 28.

His assistants are: James Lee, Clarence (Pee Wee) Bolton, Louis Laffer, Jay Sackett, Frank Lewis and Lynn Lewis.

Pewer repairs and more adjustments mark the change in service work from a few years ago. Manager Tosland declares: "The new Ford cars have many years service built into them, but to obtain continued fine performance, occasional adjustments are required, and only a trained Ford mechanic should undertake such work. Mr. Tosland explains. Even then the trained work must depend upon new scientific aids, such as the Ford Laboratory Unit, to obtain correct adjustments. The Edmondson service department is fully prepared to do mechanical work on the modern motor car.

Lubrication work, car washing, brake adjustments and wheel aligning are also performed in the service department.

The motor block of the Ford V-8 is cast in one piece. Other V-type motors are usually cast in two or more sections.

Henry Ford, founder of the Ford Motor company, has just passed his seventy-fourth birthday.

Ford factories, mines and properties are located in nearly every country in the world.

Two million people have registered at the Ford Rotunda located across from the Administration building at the River Rouge plant.

FAIR ASSOCIATION
PICKS 1937 FORD
FOR FREE AWARD

A 1937 Ford V-8 purchased from Tom Edmondson, Inc., will be one of the three cars to be awarded to visitors at the Northville Wayne County Fair late this month, according to an announcement made in this issue of the Record.

The car selected for a Fair prize is the 400th Ford delivered by the local Ford agency since it commenced business in Northville less than nine months ago. Whoever receives the car will have a Ford carrying considerable local distinction, at least to the local Ford organization.

The car is a standard '60" Tudor in lustrous black enamel. It has safety glass in all windows and the windshield. The four wheel brakes are of the self-energizing mechanical action. Braking action is transmitted from the pedal to wheels through steel cables.

A feature of the '60" Ford is its economical operation. Some owners report 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline. The motor develops ample power for all driving conditions. Approximately 40 per cent of the 1937 Fords produced have been '60's.

SAGA: TENNESSEE TO NORTHVILLE VIA FORDS IS TOLD

From the time he left home fifteen years ago to his present position as a large volume dealer, Tom Edmondson's career has been associated with Ford cars, a study of the local agent's personal history reveals.

Leaving his home in rural Tennessee with two companions in a Model T, Mr. Edmondson came to Detroit in 1922 seeking a job with the Ford Motor company. Taking his place in the line outside the employment office, he waited all night for a chance to present his application. After obtaining employment, he worked six years for the Ford Motor company in the production department, becoming an inspector in time.

Mr. Edmondson resigned his factory job to sell new Fords for a Detroit dealer. Later he entered the used car business in his own name, from which he branched into the new car field in Northville. Tom Edmondson, Inc., received a franchise November 13, 1936, and began business the next day.

"I was more than sold on Ford cars years ago, even long before I came to Detroit to work for Ford," Tom Edmondson narrated. "That trip from Tennessee required three days' travel but demonstrated the complete dependability of the Ford. Today we have a far better car capable of making the same trip in 13 hours. That spells p-r-o-g-r-e-s-s," Mr. Edmondson concluded.

CASE'S EMPLOYEES PLAN
BOAT CRUISE AUG. 31

retary of State, have chartered the Employees of Leon D. Case, social Steamer Put-In-Bay for their annual moonlight the evening of Tuesday, Aug. 31. The boat will leave at 8.45 p. m. from the foot of Woodward avenue for a lake cruise and during the evening there will be a diversified program of dancing and feature acts.

Governor Frank Murphy and many other prominent state, county and city officials will be in attendance.

The Same Old Band

A local preacher, whose education had not been sufficient to enable him to deal readily with some of the words in the Bible that were not in the regular coinage of his speech, came to the words: "At what time ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, dulcimer, and all kinds of music," stumbled badly over three of the words. Coming later to the same words, he gave a sigh, but did his duty, and struggled through them, varying his pronunciation of two of them just a little. Finally when he came to the same words for a third time, he refused to take the hedge, and, lifting his eyes from the page, said: "Brethren, it's just the same old band again!"—Extra, in the Methodist Recorder, London.

COMPLETE TRAINING SCHOOL

The conservation officers training school at Pigeon River State forest, northeast of Gaylord, has completed its third and most successful year. All of the 150 conservation officers from the 83 counties of the State were summoned to school during late June and the first three weeks in July. One week classes were held for groups of 35 officers.

Ruse

Smith disliked having his photograph taken, but one day a thought struck him and he agreed to his wife's request that he should face the camera.

The proofs came back. When his wife saw them she exclaimed, "Oh, Arthur, you've only one button on your coat!"

"Thank goodness," he replied. "You've noticed it at last. That's why I had the photo taken."—Tit-Bits.
