Name 5 Business Men To Head Merchandising Program for Northville

Gene Alleman, Civic Association Dinner Speaker, Urges Merchants to Cooperate to Build Local Trade Center

A committee of five business men was named to plan a merchandising program for the community at a dinner meeting of local merchants held Tuesday night in the Methodist church house. V. M. Philpott was named chairman of the committee, which includes Mrs. L. B. Holmes, C. B. Turnbull, Orton Owen and V. R. Bassler.

The merchants ate at the simple supper served by Methodists women and then heard a talk on community trade-building given by Gene Alleman, field manager of the Michigan Press association. Mr. Alleman also presented two reels of motion pictures taken on a tour of Michigan made by visiting editors.

Alleman Urges Cooperation
Mr. Alleman urged the merchants to cooperate in a program of building trade for the entire community. He cited many instances where small communities have become market places for large surrounding areas. He advised cooperation as the keystone of any successful trade program. The speaker also quoted examples of the contemporary style of only in this country but in the world," writes Mr. Prior.

The summer before last I visited another very modern school at Villejuif, just outside of Paris, also in recent months." Mr. Prior, who asks that Mr. Alleman tell him how the persons who use the building here feel about its success.

Eliminates Faults

After a visit through the local school, Mr. Prior was of the impression that many of the faults of that body. The committee has been instructed to plan for the next six months.

Attendance Is Large

Orton Owen was chairman of the meeting, reported to be the largest gathering of business men held recently. Present were Carroll Nolte, treasurer art history and appetite; Harry Sedan, Ed Campbell, M.

Building Well Laked

In answer to Mr. Prior's query,

"We have found, however, that the painting job inside the building has not held up." The workers are of the opinion that the paint was applied too soon, before the plaster was thoroughly dry. Others who have inspected the defect believe that the paint itself is at fault. It has become chalky and can be wiped off," reports Mr. Amerman, who says that the Austin Paint company and H. B. Culbertson, contractor, have assured school officials that the deficiency will be corrected during the Christmas holiday.

F. J. COCHRAN HEADS JOB SEEKERS' CENSUS

Death claimed William Wain, former village night watchman,

Sunday evening at Sessions hospital, following a heart attack suffered

Sunday afternoon. He died at the age of 68. For the past two years he had been in failing health.

Last rites were held for Mr. Wain at 2 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 10, from the Castner Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Harry J. Lord of the Methodist church officiating. Burial was made in Wayne.

Mr. Wain was night watchman here for 10 years; his duties at this post ended in 1934. For more than 30 years he was employed at the old Scale factory in this place.

He was born Nov. 2, 1869, the son of the late Thomas and Sarah Wain.

Surviving Mr. Wain are his wife,

Edith E. of 326 Cadet street, and a brother, Corbin of Milan.

DANCING BAILEYS TO HOLD DEMONSTRATION EXHIBIT

Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey of the Bailey Dancing School of the village, will give a dance demonstration at 7:30 p. m. Friday, Nov. 12, in the high school gymnasium.

The exhibition, which will be open without charge to the public, will stress the importance of coordination, balance and relaxation over individual steps. Mr. Bailey, in his talk, will analyze the dancing of today.

SEEK SECOND INVESTIGATION OF DEATH SITE

Commissioner E. N. Hines Listens to Plea for Traffic Safety

Charles R. Locklin's recent interview with members of the Wayne county road commission, including E. N. Hines, has led to the reopening of the investigation of Northville's accident trap at Novi, and eight Mile roads.

It was at this corner, Oct. 11, 1936, that John Mandl, 21-year-old Plymouth boy, lost his life when his car skidded on the wet gravel and rammed into a fence. The site has been the source of innumerable car crashes, four occurred within one week last December.

In order to open this blind corner and make it safe for travel, W. B. Chace, who owns the corner, Robert Yerkes, home at that corner, and the Manning-Locklin Gravel company, have offered the land that they own there to the county to be used in reconstructing the highway.

It is Mr. Locklin's opinion that the modern style in architecture is extremely beautiful in its simplicity and design, there were numberless things about it which made it very highly regarded by critics of the church," said Dr. Thomas W. Smith, local Presbyterian pastor, and Exchange member, will keep in an address at the Rotary Club Tuesday noon. Dr. Smith made a stinging indictment of Northville before the public and the road commissioners, the former will be fixed said "The low moral tone here before more lives are lost, this is due to the men who ignore the winter when the site will be more church."

Dr. Smith was one of four Rotarians who spoke on the topic, "A Typical Day in My Business or Profession." The other speakers were William E. Forney, Neil Handford and D. H. Van Hoe.

If Northville had to depend on the men for church activities here, it would be necessary to close the church doors, said Dr. Smith. In his own church for example, he said he had 20 windows on his balcony but he took a poll of the total number of people in attendance in all the five Northville churches on a recent Sunday and said that there were only 600 in attendance in all of Northville's five churches, from a total population of 40,000.

Fisher had been hunting in the camp land at the rear of his residence at 1535 East Lake Drive, and was returning for lunch when the accident occurred. He had reached the rear of the garage of a next-door neighbor and was passing to the left before going to the house.

The gun slipped from his hands as he was about to rest it against his ear to take a shot. The discharge entered his abdomen. Fisher walked to the house, where he was seen by his wife, who assisted him inside. The local physician ordered him rushed to Providence hospital, Detroit, where he died later in the day.

Fisher was a dispatcher for the Detroit Street Railway, and resided at 1924 Hayana, Detroit.

WITHHOLD ALL FINDINGS IN GRIER MURDER

Ontario police, who are investigating the mystery surrounding the shooting and death of Miss Helen Grier of Battle Creek and Pontiac Thursday, Oct. 28, in the wilderness cabin of Dr. A. A. Holcomb of Northville, have not released their findings to date.

Vernon Spencer, Wixom dairy farmer, is held without charge at Sainte Marie, Ont. He is the alleged companion of Miss Grier at the cabin where they awaited the opening of Canada's moose-hunting season.

An inquest into the death of the Pontiac stenographer is scheduled for this week.

SMITH CONDEMNS LOW VILLAGE MORAL CODE BEFORE ROTARIANS

Business Men Cite High-

The Northville community suffers morally when it turns its back on the church," said Dr. Thomas W. Smith, local Presbyterian pastor, and Exchange member, will keep

50 FORD MEN FROM GERMANY VISIT FACTORY

Interpreter Tours Local Plant with Guests from Foreign Offices

Northville's industrial Ford factory was the object of a tour of inspection made to the public at 2 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 9, in the grade school by some 50 Ford dealers and their friends from Germany.

The group was conducted through the recently completed factory building here by Edwin M. Flaherty of the Ford Foreign Office.

As none of the members of the visiting party could speak English, an interpreter from the Rouge plant at Dearborn accompanied the men.

Following the tour, here, the men were taken to inspect the plant at Plymouth.

According to Carl H. Bryan, of the Ford factory, the men from Germany are in this country for only a short time.

Before Dearborn has been their headquarters.

At the Northville Library, Mrs.

Carl Bryan and Mrs. B. E. Larson

were held attractive displays of children's books arranged during book week days. The theme this year is to be in books of imagination, those which the child reads for the joy of finding a new world.

Books to be included in the display are Off to Philadelphia by Margaret Alice, which is a story of the number of students who became of the crossed condition.

A similar situation exists in the grade school where an equal number of students have been created.

The grade school in China, which is now being attended, takes the name of the Chinese government.

We can still find a home in China," asserts Mr. Bryan.

A COLLEGE FOR NORTHLVILLE

Speaking before the Michigan Press Club at Ann Arbor last week, Dr. Alexander M. Ruthven proposed a community college for every city, large enough, as a new development in education.

Such colleges, he suggested, would be for adult education and would not be a substitute for the present system of education. As teachers of such colleges he proposed that some of the instructors be from colleges and universities near by, perhaps some from the public schools, and others from the alumni of various colleges living in the community.

Why not a college for Northville? Certainly there are hundreds of adults here whose education is not completed—possibly in many cases only started. We have all often thought it ridiculous that a person in his early immature life could get a complete education for life by spending four short years on a college campus. We have worshipped too much at this shrine of belief that education was completed when one had secured his bachelor of arts degree.

Education as Dr. Ruthven pointed out, should be continuous, all through life. In fact, the education we get from colleges simply teaches us how to think and how to deal with facts. To think than one can store up in four years the education of a life time is not wise.

Take the mere matter of how much we know about ordinary things. The other day we were walking around up in Oakwood Heights and asked a friend of ours to tell us what kind of a tree we were looking at. He said he didn't know. The writer guessed it was basswood, but he didn't know either for sure. Now, why shouldn't an educated man know the trees of his own locality? Here we are twenty miles from Ann Arbor where there is a school of forestry. If we had our community college for old folks here, the U. of M. forestry professor could come to Northville once a week and teach us how to learn the trees of this community. He might even teach some of the farmers how to plant some of their wasteland into valuable trees or reforest or to other varieties. This matter of trees is just a suggestion of how much we all need to consider our eyes uneducated. Take the matter of airplanes. There are dozens of boys around Northville who know a lot about the technique of building airplanes. They can consult their fathers and make them feel foolish when it comes to talking about airplanes. A community college could give these with a mechanical bent a chance to learn some scientific things about aviation and to really become educated along this line of endeavor.

Adult education is the coming thing. Those of us who pretend to be half-educated should be the quickest to admit that we should be better educated. If we leave our education to ourselves it is liable to be a hit and miss matter. The stimulus of an organized community college might work wonders for us. Dr. Ruthven's prophecy of a college for Northville and other cities like this may be more far reaching than we think.

LABOR CANNOT BE VOTED EN BLOC

Last week's election in Detroit is another convincing reminder that the so-called labor vote cannot be delivered en masse by anybody—not even the smart alec Mr. Homer Martin of the C. I. O. The defeat of Mr. O'Brien by an overwhelming majority shows that individual laboring men and not high-powered leaders control their own votes. As a well known Michigan editor says, "There are a great many members of unions who are good citizens, first and good union members second." In other words, as the Detroit election showed in stunning fashion, the intelligent members of labor unions cannot be "told" how to vote.

By the same token it can also be said that it is getting increasingly difficult to "deliver" any group vote. The man who thinks he can "deliver" the Catholic vote or the Presbyterian vote, or the school teachers' vote, or the farmer vote, or the "dry" vote, is badly mistaken. People are increasingly voting on issues and doing their own thinking. For this we are all glad. If Detroit had voted as the C. I. O. told it, we should be having a sick Detroit right now.

THE VICIOUSNESS OF BOYCOTTING

The other day someone in Northville said, "they ought to boycott that place of business." Interested as to the dogmatic reason for such a rash assertion, we asked the reason for the boycott. As far as we could figure it out, the only reason was that this certain business man didn't do what some other people thought he ought to do. As a matter of fact, what he did was done honestly and conscientiously and for the best of the community. Why in the name of all that is right and reasonable should this be boycotted for following his own conscience?

Very fortunately, we hear very little in Northville about this boycott business. The principle of boycotting is vicious, un-American and certainly on a low level. Whoever resorts to boycotting sooner or later finds the boomerang sailing back at his own head. What we all need is a bigger dose of good will towards each other.

EATON SUGGESTS PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES

Editor Elton R. Eaton of Plymouth knows his politics. So it is interesting when he suggests three possibilities for Republican presidential candidates. Here they are in the order, he gives them: Alexander J. Groesbeck of Michigan, Mayor LaGuardia of New York City and David Lawrence, editor of the United States News. The Major might have done a great deal worse in picking candidates.

NORTHLVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

1 YEAR AGO

Two Protestant churches of Northville, the Methodist and the Presbyterian, have received gifts of $1,000 and $500 from the estate of the late T. G. Richardson, according to the will made out by him prior to his death, June 28.

R. T. Baldwin, Northville Record editor, was the victim shortly after 5 p. m. Wednesday from a .22 caliber rifle which was shot from the boy Scout shooting gallery in the Elks buildings on Main street.

Final rites were held Sunday from the Saenger Congregational church for Miss Elizabeth Wirth, 74-year-old Record correspondent for the Saenger column, who died Nov. 6 after an illness of several months duration.

Fifty additional men have been added to the Ford factory pay roll within the last ten days, bringing the total number of men working in the old plant and in the recently completed building to 400.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Van Atta have received word that their son Ward, a senior in Michigan State college has had the honor of being elected to the honorary fraternity Tau Beta Pi.

5 YEARS AGO

Attorney George B. Verkes died at his home in Detroit at the age of 59 years.

Mrs. Jenrie Cousins has opened a dress shop in the building formerly occupied by the Mother's Lunch on North Center.

On the way to Northville to perform an operation, Dr. A. J. Foy of Detroit met with an accident but was able to continue his journey and carry out the operation.

Dr. H. S. Willis and Dr. D. H. Stoyne speakers at the Melvyn Laboratories as oration held in the Hotel Statler, Detroit. Dr. H. B. Davis a humorist after.

George A. Donato was elected president of this district.

Edwin Astor and Robert Astor, twice tried to be the valedictorian in high school, both having equal grades.

15 YEARS AGO

Northville now looks like a real town again. It is a pleasure to go there; it is a pleasure to stay there. A. H. Miller has retired, having been master since 1912, to serve the public in the same kind of manner as his father did.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Eggers entertained the members of the high school football team at their home Wednesday evening.

Don P. Verkes, Jr., has returned from a Detroit hospital.

A group of high school students met Monday evening at the home of Capt. H. H. H. and organized an orchestra.

20 YEARS AGO

Among the names of Northville boys who are on the honor roll of war service, are James Dubuar, Raymond Des Autels, Lloyd Green, C. P. Murphy, Peter Perkins, Theodore Partruff, George S. Simmons, Ed. Salow, Chas. Lanning, Tracy

he likes to hunt," observed the food professor.

We had a few minutes wait at my home while I changed clothes into the house to this four-legged tank of frightful enthusiasm. Every post, every table, every chair beckoned in virgin sweetness to this diabetic maniac. The prof, like the good huntsman he is, tried not to see until confronted by a smiling but firm housewife who reached him a bucket and mop.

In the field, when the car door was opened, out rushed this paragon of the point. He was gone. The prof called the horse, No. 20. Apologetically, to me, "Guess he likes to hunt."

We saw him once several hundred yards down a lane. "He's on a point," hissed the proud master as he dashed away in the dog's direction, me after. When nearly to the point, the prof settled into a high-legged, stalkers' stride. Motored

I did likewise, puffing for breath; gun poised, tense, concentrating on the point. Cautiously nearer, foot by deliberate foot: "Can you see the picture?" The dog jumped forward. We cocked our guns. Up flew a sparrow. We uncocked our guns. Once again I saw this fierce field-hound when I was attracted by the frightened cackling of a hen pheasant to my left. There along a fence row this dog was chasing the bird, pouncing on her as she tried to rise in flight. She got away. "He liked to hunt."

At some distance I saw a rabbit making for a brush pile. Hunting alone I should have got that bunny at the brush pile. But, not this time. Jack suddenly came tearing along on his way from nowhere to nowhere. He passed at high speed between bunny and brush. He deviated not a fraction of a degree from his mad course. Not so the bunny.

After a fruitless afternoon with this out-of-hand demon, I headed back to the car while the professor made one last swing around. Soon I heard his voice calling his dog, and soon the dog came to the car. He recked to the heavens. He had found a skunk and the skunk had "pointed" him.

"Don't you think he ought to run along home?" I suggested. "Why might get killed?" protested the prof.

"Wouldn't that be a blessing?" thought I.

Michigan potato growers who produced the second largest crop of any state in the nation in 1937, are expected to see the results this winter of the new federal marketing program which is prohibiting interstate shipment of bulk potatoes.

These animals are from owners who are testing their herds and all meat cattle offered have records on cans, and in some instances better yet, records on sisters of the sires and grand-sires.

Cooperative buying of a bull by two or three neighbors reduces the cost for each owner and offers better quality to all.

For the fifth year the average milk and butterfat yield of 946 Michigan Dairy Herd Improvement association cows hits the remarkable yield of 3105 pounds milk and 337 pounds butterfat.

TRACTOR STUDY
Fifty-three Michigan farmers co-operated with the Farm Management Department, Michigan State College, in a study of tractor costs in 1936. The average yearly cost of using the 1-plow tractors, were $2164 for 508 hours of work. The operating cost, which was the actual cash outlay and care, made up one-half of the total cost. The fixed cost which was depreciation, inefficiency and shelter, accounted for the other one-half.

AIDS POTATO GROWERS

Michigan potato growers who produced the second largest crop of any state in the nation in 1937, are expected to see the results this winter of the new federal marketing program which is prohibiting interstate shipment of bulk potatoes.

Fred P. Hiltz, Cadillac, is one of three vice-chairmen selected by a committee representing growers and handlers in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota.

In Wayne county, and in other potato producing counties in this and the other three states, the marketing orders were made effective Oct. 19. Announcement was received by E. J. Besemer, agricultural agent for this county.

Federal and state inspectors are checking interstate shipments to enforce the orders. Potatoes less than one and one-half inches in diameter and not meeting requirements of U.S. grade 2, are prohibited from interstate shipments.

To finance the program there will be fees on carlot and truck shipments. They will not exceed 50 cents a carlot, 25 cents for a truck carrying 200 sacks or less, or 50 cents for a truck carrying more than 200 sacks in interstate trucking.

The federal agricultural adjustment administration is considering purchase of this year's 25 million bushel surplus. Diversion would be to livestock feed, starch, flour and other purposes. There also is a buying program to use the potatoes for relief supplies.

H. G. Wells, Noted Lecturer And Writer of England, Is Luncheon Guest Saturday In Northville

A distinguished luncheon guest Saturday, Nov. 6, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Peat of South Center street, was H. G. Wells, noted writer and lecturer of England.

For this occasion, covers were laid for the following guests: Harold R. Cook, Mrs. Donald Dixon, all of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kitchen; Mrs. Orlow G. Owen and Mrs. H. C. Duerson, all of Northville.

Mr. Wells, who is lecturing at the present time in this country, is accompanied on his tour by Mr. Peat's brother, Harold R.

Woman's Club Hear Far East Problems Discussed

Mrs. Oscar G. Starrett of Detroit, for 15 years a resident of China, brought to the Northville Woman's club and guests an intimate picture of both China and Japan at the meeting Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Starrett traced the history of Japan explaining that from time to time Japan was deprived by the western nations of what she considered her rightful spoils of war. Furthermore, the speaker felt that the western nations had put an unfortunate tool into the hands of Japan by not allowing China to govern foreigners according to Chinese law, to collect her own custom and other deprivations.

Japan, following the precedent set by other government powers, now says: "China has not a unified government; we must help her to put her house in order."

After possible boycott of Japanese goods, Mrs. Starrett suggests that it would work handicap upon innocent silk farmers and equally innocent United States textile workers. She urged strongly, however, a government boycott of implements of war and, lacking that, an individual boycott of goods produced by those firms supplying arms.

Close contact with Chinese friends gave Mrs. Starrett authority in the statement that the Chinese want our moral support but not our military support. In conclusion she reminded her hearers that these are all injustices which the western nations have the power to remove. "Let us do our part," she urged, "in waging peace."

Other numbers on the program were three vocal solos by Mrs. M. J. Koldyke, accompanied by Miss Barto Connors and current events by Mrs. C. H. Biran.

Organist Guild to Meet in St. John's Church

The Michigan chapter of the Legion of Dr. L. E. Sedgwick, a staff member of the American Guild of Organists, will present its monthly program at 8 o'clock in the First No. 16 in St. John's Church on Sunday evening.

The first program began in 1911. It has been opened with the singing of the Hymn of the Month, organ or piano, followed by a short study prepared by the collector of old church hymns.

At the time that will be the turn of Great service, followed at the request of the church president, the American Order of Orpheus, and the program concluded with the singing of appropriate texts.

A social hour during the program will be held in the Northville Library for their weekly club meeting.

Five Club Women to Conduct Round Table Today

A round table with the discussion centered on the topic "Women in Michigan" will be the program this afternoon when members of the Women's Club meet in the Northville Library for their weekly club meeting.

Mrs. C. E. Woodruff, Mrs. L. M. Eaton, Mrs. C. M. Chase, Mrs. J. P. Andersen and Mrs. A. W. Hahn will conduct the study.

Adult education reports will also be given this afternoon before the close.

Bridge Club Members Are Guests Thursday at Condit Home

Mrs. L. I. Condit, 2301 Cambridge Drive, was hostess Thursday afternoon to the members of her bridge club at dessert-bridge.

Included in the group were: Mrs. Theodore N. Kampf, Jr., Mrs. H. S. Willis, Mrs. W. D. Davis, Mrs. D. E. Miller, Mrs. H. C. Duerson and Mrs. N. McLoughlin of Detroit.

Frances Sutton, maid of honor, and Mr. Broin of David H. Sutton's best man.

This event will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4, in the Hotel Mayflower, Plymouth.

Mrs. W. H. Yerkes will be hostess today to the members of the Five Towns' club. She will have a number of additional guests honoring her house guest, Mrs. E. J. Frost of Boston, Mass., among them: Mrs. Frost, Mrs. A. D. Galtry of Caro, Miss Margaret Cody, Mrs. Charles Allen of Columbus, O., and Mrs. McLean.

Auxiliary Dinner to Honor Mrs. Charles F. Murphy

Walled Lake News BY CHARLES E. HUTTON

TEAM IS VICTORIOUS
Although playing only four of its six scheduled Southwestern Oakland County League games, the Walled Lake high school varsity football team has tethered the 1937 league championship to its already well weighted victory belt.

Clarkston forfeited its game with the local lads two weeks ago, because of injuries and lack of players. Last week, Holly followed suit. On the face of things, the takenen might feel like the big fellow, whom others were afraid to tackle, and so be inclined to do a little cheating. Such is not the case, however, but rather, a feeling of emptiness pervades the victory. The boys would much rather have emerged the victor by right of conquest. Incidentally, such a manner of title winning is bound to start time worn "cry" that Walled Lake is playing out of its class, and has no real competition.

This is not so, or at least, should not be, one considers the schools included in the yearly schedule. The league includes South Lyon, Keego Harbor, Brighton, Milford, Farmington, Clarkston, Holly, and Walled Lake. Each of the towns is larger than our village. With the exception of perhaps two each of the school represented has an enrollment as more tongue wagging with the large, or nearly so, as Walled Lake.

Full credit for the consistent success of Walled Lake's athletic activities should go to one man, the person of Harold W. Hurch, the coach. The reputation of his teams from year to year maintains a constant interest in the student body. This means an enthusiastic response for team material at the beginning of each season. Hurch has the uncanny ability to select the most promising players from the list of candidates who report to him. He has the further expertness to mold into shape team units which make for inspired play. He continues to instill into them throughout each game a fighting, aggressive spirit which often carries them to victory by the strength of its own tenacity. His teams have proven their right to championship calibre against non-league opponents which are members of higher class leagues, such as Cranbrook, Northville, Orion, Rochester, Clawson and the like.

Coach Hurch seems to be the answer to Walled Lake's success rather than the class of league to which his teams are assigned.

P. T. A. REACHES NEW HIGH.

One of the largest attended regular meetings in the history of the Walled Lake Parent Teachers association was held last Thursday night at the school as a result of the current membership drive of its organization.

PARIS EXPOSITION HONORS NORTHLVILLE

Grade School Picture is Displayed in American House at Fair

The new Northville grade school building has been causing quite a stir in the architectural world since its completion a year ago.

As an example a picture of the building is now on exhibition in the "American" building at the Paris Exposition in France. Many pictures of the school have also appeared in architectural manuals all over the world.

One of the better architectural magazines here in the United States has devoted five to six pages of pictures and floor plans of the building.

Superintendent R. E. Amerman stated that he has had many letters of inquiry about the building from architects in other states. He also told of having a group of persons from Iowa who had driven through and seen the new building, stop and ask to be ushered through the rooms.

Many improvements have been made on the looks of the outside of the building since the beginning of school this fall. Trees and shrubbery have been planted in front and along the walk.

Mr. Amerman also stated that having so much attention shown to this building was considered a great honor to be bestowed to a small town such as Northville.

PICNIC IS ENJOYED BY NINTH GRADE

By IDA MARIE WALKER

The freshman class was entertained at a wiener roast last Wednesday afternoon and evening by Mrs. Dolbert Pareis and Mrs. W. J. Borchardt at Farm Crest.

The students had a grand time and wish to express their gratitude to Mrs. Pareis and Mrs. Borchardt.

The freshmen left the school Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 in cars supplied by the students and Mrs. Pareis. Sam Aldea's truck came in very handy to carry many freshmen to the roast.

When they arrived at the ranch, they were shown into a large room which was decorated with the heads of many animals and drawn pictures and a collection of Indian relics. A fire was burning in a large fireplace at one side of the room. A violinist was playing at the end of the room. The performers laid their instruments and busied themselves in the middle of the room and began to dance.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Amerman, Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Elson, H. B. Smith, E. C. Molena, Miss Estelle Griffiths, Miss Bertha Miller, Miss Kathryn Glitter and Miss Margaret Cassidy were present.

When the afternoon was still young, four of the freshmen students declared that it was summer, so they went for a swim. Ruth Frank, Sue Shukster, Douglas McCluske and Harold Shepard found the water very wet.

After warming up in the ranch house, the wiener roasters were called outside to roast their weiners. Then a large fire was going and some tables had been put up. On the tables were cups, spoons, napkins, relish, mustard and coffee. It must have tasted good for it soon disappeared. Then all returned to the house to dance again.

The freshmen soon learned all the new dances, for Tom Gillispie was doing the "Big Apple."

Later on two of the girls decided that the old dances were still the best. So, they rounded up two fellows, with husky voices, and after much shouting for quiet, they organized two circles for the square dance. The dance began and there was much scuffling of feet, swinging of partners and many dizzy heads. When the two circles were finished, there was a scramble to the kitchen for drinks and many a cool place was sought.

While this reporter was recuperating by the window, after the dance, the window was suddenly opened and a well known head appeared.

"Oh, there you are, Arthur. We thanks.

Editor's Note

Well, here we have the last football game of the season staring us in the face. I don't think it's necessary to say that we wish the boys all the luck in the world, and that we'll be out there cheering for them tonight, even if we DO freeze to death, like we nearly did last week.

Our own specially grown orchard goes to Bill Schoutz this week, because the socks he wore to the game were so hot that the only way we got the least bit of warmth was by looking at them.

The O. and B. staff has finally come to life. For proof cast your eyes upon our new column, "Piffle About People." The editors would like to announce that any contribution will be greatly appreciated.

All the luck in the world, and that we'll be out there cheering for them tonight, even if we DO freeze to death, like we nearly did last week.

Our own specially grown orchard goes to Bill Schoutz this week, because the socks he wore to the game were so hot that the only way we got the least bit of warmth was by looking at them.

The O. and B. staff has finally come to life. For proof cast your eyes upon our new column, "Piffle

About People." The editors would like to announce that any contribution will be greatly appreciated.

All you scandal mongers get busy now and dig up some dirt.

Your Nervous Child May Be A

Crashed Genius

An article in The American Weekly, the great weekly magazine with the November 14 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, discloses facts explained by Professor Joseph A. Gerfes, noted educator, who tells how many brilliant minds could be saved if schools paid as much attention to high-strung, easily stupied ones.

of today, are in use here. In doing all this, we're trying not to lose sight of the true and tried methods of the past, especially the tool subjects, including reading, arithmetic and spelling — we still consider these vitally important subjects," affirmed the superintendent.

The grade school, as well as the high school, may now boast a full schedule of music. Drama is finding a place in our program, particularly in the grades, where the gymnasium has a newly erected stage which will make school programs possible," continued Mr. Amerman.

Good citizenship, in a Scouting sense, entails a positive return to the community through constructive activity.

"The Scout Creed of good will and fairness to all irrespective of race, color or religion guides the Scout citizen along the road of understanding and tolerance; Northville is in fair condition financially, although we still haven't reached the point where we can afford everything we need for educational advancement. I hope we can continue to merit the cooperation of the public for its generous patronage which helped to make the event a success. They also appreciate the fine cooperation of all those who gave their time and services.
