WINTER SPORTS FOR NORTHVILLE

Congratulations and thanks to the Northville boosters who gave our community some splendid advertising in the recent skating carnival. How would it be to add skiing and coasting to Northville's attractions and thereby make it the winter's sports capital for Wayne county?

We certainly have everything here to make these sports highly attractive. Old timers tell us of the great crowds who used to come from Detroit to enjoy the coasting on our hills. Now with easy transportation, a carnival of skiing and coasting, as well as skating, might easily bring thousands out to enjoy our enviable hills.

SMALL TOWNS HAVE GOOD DRINKERS

Inasmuch as Northville once had an institution for curing alcoholics, a word about the Keeley Institute of Illinois will be of interest.

This institute has been analyzed by the Globe News feature service of Chicago. This report shows that 52.7 per cent of the alcoholic addicts sent to the Keeley cure from Michigan come from towns of 10,000 population or under. This figure shows that the smaller communities are producing more than their share of alcoholics, since towns of 10,000 and under constitute only 39 per cent of the country's population. No wonder that smaller cities are heavily voting "No" on the proposition of selling liquor by the glass.

KEEPING A DIARY

The other day a Record representative phoned several people to find out how many years the Hunter's ball had been given in Northville. No one knew in what year this splendid event was started. What a fine chance for someone to consult his or her diary and check on this date.

It is said that only those who have an orderly mind keep diaries. Of course every new year many people start to make it a habit to keep a record of daily events. But soon find that to write up each day takes time and thought. The result is that in a few days the diary writer gets behind in his recording and finally, failing to catch up, abandons his daily writing. Of course there are in every community people who enjoy making an orderly record of personal and local events. The diary, if they, it must be a habit and not a very haphazard writing but there are times when consulting his diary record helps to clear up some more or less important events. The best diary in the community, we will submit, is the home newspaper.

WHO ARE MICHIGAN'S ECONOMIC ROYALISTS?

There has been much "tarring of the hen" by some of the New Dealers in denouncing some of the so-called "economic royalists." Reading the testimony of William S. Knudsen, head of General Motors, last week at Washington with regard to the present depression, we feel a wondering who Michigan's economic royalists are.

Take Knudsen himself. He is one of the highest paid men in the United States, yet he came to America a poor immigrant boy. One of his first jobs in New York City was helping to fix bicycles. He has literally risen to his present influential position by his own efforts. Is he an "economic royalist" because he is a self-made man who has become one of the nation's biggest industrial leaders?

Consider Henry Ford. He too began life as a poor boy. Northville people are pretty familiar with his history and recall how he started his marvelously successful life in the tiniest kind of a work shop. It was he who gave to the common people the modern automobile. The other day a man asked us, "What would the average man be paying for an automobile had not Henry Ford started making cheap cars?" From that small work shop Henry Ford has grown until now the Ford cars literally run around the world, and the Ford plants that employ thousands upon thousands of people are the wonder of the world. Is Ford an "economic royalist" because he has made this vast contribution to the world's wealth and happiness? Yet attempts have been made at Washington to shackle Mr Ford and to make him change his business methods which have made him an outstanding world success. Ever stop to think what would happen if the many Ford plants would shut down production entirely?

What of the other automobile leaders of Michigan? Does anyone dare dispute the fact that practically every one of them got his start at the bench? What of Walter Chrysler? What of the Dodge brothers? The story of how these men all rose from the bottom is too well known to be repeated.

It would be a fine thing if the United States had a few more economic royalists such as we produce in this state.

DISTRIBUTE, DON'T DESTROY CROPS

We are still hearing from Washington, off and on, of the crazy idea of destroying crops to help out the farmer. To the ordinary, sensible person, any destruction of crops after all the labor and cost of raising them — especially when there are still millions of half-hungry people in the United States — is nothing less than a sin. It is pleasing to record that such an authority on national affairs as Senator William E. Borah, the great liberal, agrees with the common people that such destruction is a sin.

Writing in the Rural Progress magazine, Borah speaks of the action of Congress in the following plain terms:

"This surplus of foodstuffs belongs in the stomachs of American children, millions of whom are undernourished and poorly clad, and in the homes and cupboards of millions of families. It is wicked to penalize the farmers, to put him in a strait jacket, for producing that which the American people sorely need but which we have not yet found a way to distribute. If the American people as a whole could have the necessities of life, there would not be any overproduction upon the farm. Our task of legislation is not destruction but distribution.

"If it is found necessary to draw upon the public treasury in order to deal with the farm problem, I would rather support a measure to buy up and store the surplus and see that it gets to those in need of it, rather than to buy destruction. It has been demonstrated that if the American people as a whole could enjoy a decent standard of living, they would need at least ten million more food producing acres to meet the demand.

"We are told that we are now following the plan, in a measure, of that inspired Hebrew leader who, thousands of years ago in Egypt, undertook to deal with surpluses. But there was no curtailment of production, no reduction of production in Joseph's scheme. Joseph had many strange dreams but he never dreamed of destroying foodstuffs. The central idea of Joseph's plan was production and distribution, at the right time and under the proper circumstances.

"We have a surplus in this country not because of producing more than we need but because a vast proportion of our people have not the means to buy what they ought to have. You can go into millions of American homes, not relief homes, either, and you will find the housewife cutting out the meat supply more and more days in the week, skimping here and there on food, keeping more children out of school because they are undernourished. While that condition prevails in this country, I feel we ought to find some way to deal with the matter rather than by compulsory reduction of foodstuffs."

was knocked to the ice by Bays, who threatened Kelley when he went to the aid of the guest.

Kelley, who claimed to be in poor physical condition as a result of a broken back, about a year ago, said he slipped on the ice as Bays threatened an attack. Kelley said he then drew a .32 calibre pistol and fired, wounding the boy's back.

Questioned at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital Sunday night, Bays denied attempting to strike either Kelley or the guest, Dr. Robert Wollenberg of Detroit. He said Kelley ordered him off the ice, and was leaving when the shot struck him.

Witnesses for both Kelley and Bays corroborated each story according to the prosecutor, who said Monday that much of the testimony would hinge on the question of Kelley's riparian rights, who claims to have rights extending to the center of the lake, and that the affair took place on ice over which he has proprietary rights.

Kelley is booked at the county jail on a charge of careless use of firearms. He was temporarily released after questioning by Morris pending questioning of other witnesses.

CHURCH NEWS

Christian Science Churches - "Life" will be the subject of the lesson sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, Jan. 15.

The Golden Text, from John 1:1-4 is "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. In Him was life, and the life was the light of men."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Matthew, 6:31-33): "Therefore take no thought, saying, 'What shall we eat?' or, 'What shall we drink?' or, 'Where shall we be clothed?' But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science text-

Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. - The Junior Club led by Mrs. Arthur Carlson.

Thursday at 4 p. m. - The Intermediate C. E. led by Mrs. T. W. Smith.

Tuesday, Jan. 18, the Nellie Yerkes Auxiliary will meet at 7:30 p. m. The devotions will be conducted by Mrs. Irma Van Valkenburg.

Wednesday evening, the teachers and officers of our school are invited to attend the training classes provided in the special courses that are set up in Plymouth for the neighboring churches and Sunday Schools.

Attention is called to the two church bells on Sunday mornings with a view to securing more prompt attendance, so that Church School may be opened at 10 a. m. with a full attendance.

The supper sociable held this Thursday evening was well attended and the program gave fun to many. The committee is to be congratulated on their success.

Thursday evening, Jan. 20 Church Night is to be resumed. The pastor will continue the subject "Christ and Human Suffering." This Bible study is open to all.

Novi Methodist Church - Harry J. Lord, Minister - The church service will be held at 4 p. m., with the pastor preaching.

Northville Methodist Church - Harry J. Lord, Minister - 10 a. m. - Worship - 6:30 p. m. - Epworth League - 7:30 p. m. - Union service.

Doctors Discuss Children's Diseases at Club

Eighteen members and 13 guests of the Mothers' Club heard two informative talks Monday evening on "Contagious Diseases in Children" when the group met at the home of Mrs. C. W. Truxell.

Dr. Russell M. Atchison spoke briefly on the duties of a health officer, telling why placarding was necessary and giving general symptoms of the common diseases. He listed precautions to be taken and told what to do if the child acquires one of the diseases.

Dr. Atchison introduced to the group, Dr. J. W. professor of pediatrics at the University of Michigan and of the staff of the University hospital. He spoke at length on diseases, telling how, through the right kind of serums, shots and vaccinations, these diseases can be wiped out to a great extent. In the case of small pox, he pointed out that through vaccination this disease is almost extinct, there having been only 10 deaths in Detroit during the year.

When he was asked about infantile paralysis, he stated that this disease is a "killing force" in this area, saying that there were only 400 deaths in the United States last year, against 7,000 to 9,000 deaths resulting from measles whooping cough and scarlet fever.

Guests at the meeting included Mrs. Leland Smith, Mrs. Tracy Ely, Mrs. G. E. Woodruff, Mrs. Harold Bloom, Mrs. Darrell Noller, Mrs. Robert Coolman, Mrs. Rev. Bailey, Mrs. G. V. Harrison, Mrs. Harry Dierckx, Mrs. W. H. Johnston, Mrs. A. H. Vogt, Mrs. W. H. Hugel, and Mrs. Kenneth Linn.

Accidental Shooting by Hunters Causes Death of Horse. Malignant marksmanship by hunters resulted in the death recently of a riding horse owned by Betty Armstrong, a post-mortem of the animal revealed lead poisoning, induced by careless shot imbedded in the horse, caused it to fall in health so much that it went down and could not get up except with help. After the animal was shot to end suffering, a post-mortem was performed and the presence of the lead pellets discovered. The horse began to fall shortly after the pheasant season, growing progressively weaker until it could not stand. Though not a valuable animal, the horse was a favorite of its mistress, according to Steve Armstrong, her father. The number of shot present in the carcass bears the theory of accidental shooting. Mr. Armstrong declines comment.

EDITOR BOLTON STARTS CAMPAIGN

Committees Start Drive for Palladium Sales; To End Feb. 1

The student council and the Orange and Black staff, who are co-operating this year in editing the Palladium, have plans well under way. Keene Bolton, editor-in-chief, announced that the year book is priced at 75 cents and that the advertising and circulation committees began their campaigns last week.

Ed Reid and Louise Alexander, co-chairmen of circulation, have picked the following members of the various classes to act on their committee: Mary Ellen Burgess, Ida Walker, Jack Holcomb, Frank Barton, Roger Miller, Harry Porter, Arlene Blake, Ben Duguid, Jack McCrumb, Bill Schoultz, J. W. Erwin and Art Mitchell. Students purchasing a yearbook will be obliged to pay a down payment of at least 25 cents when they order their book.

The chairman of the advertising committee is Marvin Schoultz, with Gwen Jones and Peg Walker assisting. The drive for collections on advertising will end Feb. 1. All the merchants in Northville will be solicited before that time.

Leslie C. Lee, sponsoring the Palladium this year, says that he hopes to have some very fine art displayed and the year book will be a success if all cooperate.

N. H. S. GIRLS TO PLAY FARMINGTON, JAN. 18

Thursday, Jan. 13 the Redford Union girls basketball team played the Northville girls.

Last year the girls team won both games, 10-9 and 10-8. Miss Gladys Lidvick coach stated, before the game, "I think the girls will win."

The line up is as follows: Forwards, Rose Brunaske, Mary Frances Pitt, Louise Alexander and Helen Kimmel; guard, Kathryn Marbury; center, Laura Bolton and Jeanne Alexander.

The line up for the second team: Forwards, Ruth Parmenter, Helen Bruner, Ida Marie Walker and Jane Ely; guards, Marilyn Cavell, Virginia Kern, Helen Dixon and Marion Coleman.

The Jan. 18 lineup will probably be the same as Jan. 13. This is the first time that the girls have played Farmington. It will be played there.

WORRIED JUNIORS DISCUSS CAREERS

You have all probably heard that there is to be a junior play, but haven't you often wondered just what the players thought about taking part in a real honest-to-goodness play?

Dates for the play, "Fifty-Fifty," have been changed to Feb. 3 and 4.

Also haven't you often wondered whether or not N. H. S. boasted any future Greta Garbo, or maybe even a Clark Gable?

Well, we decided to satisfy our own curiosity and yours too by asking several members of the cast to tell us just what they liked or disliked about acting and whether or not they were seriously interested in acting.

Don Armstrong: I am not particularly interested in acting as a career, but I do like acting in the junior play.

Louise Marie Lord: I have always liked acting, although I don't intend to make it a career. I like acting because it enables me to portray different characters.

Louise Alexander: As an actress, I'd make an excellent piano player, and I can't play the piano very well, but I think it's loads of fun trying.

Betty Jane Gillespie: I like it. As a career for me, I don't think I would make good but as a pastime for the junior class, it's a lot of fun.

Editor's Note

Now that it's definitely decided that we're to have a Palladium this year, the editors thought that it might be a good idea to enlighten all youse students on this famed year book.

In the first place, it was started way back when some illustrious students of dear old N. H. S. made up their minds to print some kind of a remembrance of their school days. Like everything else, it grew from a small, non-consequential record of school life to something that has grown to a thing of importance in a student's scheme of life. It's more than just pages bound in a pretty folder. It's something to re-read years from now to recall hundreds of pleasant and amusing memories.

This year the Palladium is being put out through the combined efforts of the Orange and Black staff and the student council. It will sell for 75 cents and orders are now being taken by members of the circulation committee, headed by Louise Alexander and Ed Reid. The proceeds from the sale of the Palladium will go to the student council to help rid that body of its debt. Come on, now, let's all get behind this campaign and put it over big.

This week the Orange and Black staff is inaugurating a new idea. Each week we will print a Who's Who on one of the new teachers in both buildings, until we have covered all new additions to the faculty.

NORTHVILLE DOWNS WATTSMEN, 18-9

Melvindale Defeated by Fast N. H. S. Quintet on Home Floor

By TOM MARTINO

The Northville quintet enjoyed sweet revenge over Melvindale last Friday night in what proved to be hair raising at certain intervals of the game.

The game started off as Captain Charles Bishop made two free throws to put Northville ahead. Both teams passed the ball around, but Northville's splendid defense was half for Melvindale to penetrate. Northville took a one point margin at half time, 8-7.

The second half opening and Melvindale tried to shoot long shots, but missed the hoop continually. Northville then ran the score up to 14-7 at the end of the third quarter. Melvindale tried to rally its forces but could not seem to cope with the local lads.

Northville held Melvindale to one basket during the second half.

Captain Bishop did yeoman work in breaking up the visitors' passes, while Ben Duguid excelled in retrieving the ball off the backboard. The center position was well occupied by Eber Lester and Albert Boelens did a good job of pass-receiving and basket shooting. Marvin Schoultz shone in defensive work and Cecil Nurder and Jack McCrumb also shared exceptional honors.

Coach Harry Smith said after the game, "The boys won a well deserved victory."

The lineup: G. Schoultz; G. Duguid; C. Lester; F. Bishop; and F. Boelens.

Northville and Trenton will square off next Tuesday night, Jan. 13, in the gymnasium. Northville won both games from Trenton last year. Trenton has a very good basketball team this year. Last year as you will remember, Trenton gave Northville a very good battle for the first three quarters. Then Northville got a lot of power in the last quarter to pass them by a few points.

Both teams are undefeated in league competition. The game should be a hot and thrilling one, as both teams are well matched.

Piffle About Pippie

After the complaints of last week, you columnist don't dare show his face, but we're off again in the dirt of the week.

We hear that some of our faithful junior girls had great trouble the other night. Can't you take it, Joyce, Kathryn and Janet?

If any of the popular junior crowd wants a birds' eye view of himself, he can always ask Dale Bray what he thinks. He has some lovely ideas!

We wish Walt Myers would make up his mind about his moustache. His theme song is, "It's On, It's Off."

Our orchid this week goes to Ben Duguid for looking so absolutely smooth Monday. Why don't some of the rest of you fellows join the lad? Personally, we don't care for overalls.

Who was the cute gal Alb Boelens was with at the ice carnival? Something new and something different eh, Alb?

This column razzed Bill Schoultz about not having a girl a short time ago. According to latest reports, two junior girls are now competing for his charming presence. We take it all back, Bill.

William Hensch is our idea of a meemie. We heard him tell Louise that the way to get rid of a sore throat was to stay in nights. As if she'd do anything else, Mr. Hensch!

Question of the week. Why wasn't Warren Bogart dancing at the jockey dance?

Answer: Because he wasn't even there.

The Observer

While contemplating on who to observe, the observer finally decided on one of the most popular playboys of N. H. S. We have had a hard time deciding who to observe, seeing that there are so many worthy candidates. Short, slim and handsome the observed one captures all hearts at sight. He is familiarly known as "Chuckie" by members of the fairer sex. He has very dark hair and equally dark eyes of a brownish hue. He is usually seen around school wearing very informal clothes such as sweaters and suspenders. If you still are doubtful of who this gentleman is, just ask Leonard Fritz who calls him "Mag-gots."

Faculty Who's Who

Miss Ruth Cassidy
Miss Ruth Cassidy was born in Governor, N. Y. She was graduated from the St. Ambrose high school last June, she was graduated from Michigan State Normal and obtained a position as teacher of the fourth and fifth grade students of Northville.

She enjoys athletics very much and is especially interested in tennis and bowling. Miss Cassidy would like to become a high school English and speech teacher.

E. C. Mollema making excuses for a certain phone call?

Senior Who's Who

Mary George
Mary was born March 12, 1921, in Kentucky. Her domicile was located in Detroit for Oh so many years. She adopted Northville during her junior year and has been faithful ever since.

She attended Tappan Intermediate and Mac-

Kenzie high both knew her personally, charm and those devastating dimples.

She excels in art and hopes to make it her career. Haven't you noticed the art bulletin board? Reading and writing are also favorite pastimes of hers.

Margaret Hein
The day Margaret set foot in this world was May 5, 1919, in Detroit. She traveled rather rapidly from Pontiac to Pittsburgh and then going to Europe, to spend six years. She came to Northville to enter the eighth grade and is still here. Her spare time is spent in swimming, tennis and dancing. She also likes to read. She hopes to attend a business school after being graduated.

WINTER SPORT OF EVERY SORT In Michigan

Do you prefer ice-boating or tobogganing? Skating or skiing? Winter hunting or fishing? Michigan has them all! Our State, long famous as a summer playground, offers splendid opportunities for many winter sports. It also offers the best of facilities for getting there and getting back—fine railway and air service and excellent motor roads, made doubly attractive by effective winter maintenance. THIS IS MORE THAN A LAMP BULB—

This is a SALESMAN!

A lamp bulb renders two important services... light for seeing and light for SELLING. Gone are the days when lighting was used merely to dispel darkness: Alert merchants today use light as a powerful selling tool. They know that lighting—properly used—is a star salesman. Results are not haphazard: Lighting has boosted sales of gasoline, women's hats, groceries and meats, shoes, men's furnishings, and a hundred other articles of merchandise. No matter what your business, light will help you to move goods. And the best thing about it is that it moves goods so economically.

Light for selling is of two types—(1) Show window lighting, and (2) Interior lighting designed to draw attention to particular displays inside the store. Window displays are a strong outside influence for bringing people into your store. Careful tests have shown that improved window lighting will often increase the number of persons stopping to look at the displays by over 100 per cent at certain hours. Interior lighting can be equally profitable: A small hardware store—to cite one example—was able to increase the attention value of three displays inside the store by 30%, 133% and 257%!

Without charge or obligation, we shall be glad to send a lighting engineer to look over your store lighting. He will give you competent advice on both show window and interior lighting... light to increase your sales. Call your Detroit Edison office.

'Souls at Sea' Heads Theatre Rocking

An intense dramatic, all-out-forgetten piece of maritime history that was an international sensation nearly a hundred years ago, is being brought to the screen by Paramount Pictures in a production of "Souls at Sea." The picture is based on the novel by John G. Saxe and is set in the year 1850. It tells the story of a shipwrecked crew of sailors who are stranded on a remote island and must struggle for survival against the elements and each other. The production is a masterpiece of direction and acting, and is sure to be a major success for Paramount Pictures.

temperance Local option is a return to prohibition and it will read defeat. The writer of this week's letter quotes from a temperance publication to defend her view of the question.

Mr. Richard T. Baldwin, Editor-Publisher, The Northville Record, Dear Sir: Believing that temperance is one of the Christian virtues also good to adults as well as to the youths and those of school age, the writer, an old subscriber and former resident of Northville, earnestly requests you print the enclosed article from "The Union Signal," a journal of social welfare. The data assembled below, through the research department national W. C. T. U., is based on official figures (Federal, State and local) and other authoritative sources. Yours sincerely, (Mrs) Effie M. Root, Box No. 95, R. R. No. 1, Northville, Mich.

Total Consumption: Total consumption of alcoholic liquors from April 6, 1933 to Oct. 1, 1937, was 7,776,247,834 gallons, 666,864, 188 gallons, domestic distilled liquor, 246,222,249 gallons, imported distilled 43,960,929 gallons, and wines (estimated) 224,989,989 gallons. This means 56.4 gallon per capita for the 54 months period. In 1944 gallons per capita per month. An average of 12,528 gallons per year since beer came back. Liquor Costs: During National Prohibition (Clark Warburg) in 1933, and that of at least a billion dollars a year was directed to the liquor traffic to legitimate and illegitimate traffic, on a conservative calculation, has been some $12,477,780,000 (twelve billion dollars) during the 54 months period. To which must be added another four billion dollars in costs of liquor-related accidents, crime, debauchery, disease and inefficiency. Total of more than $16,000,000,000 since beer came back in 1933.

Traffic Accidents: Since beer came back 40,000 drunk-caused traffic fatalities out of a total of 100,000 deaths in 51 months, at the accepted rate of $50,000 loss involved in each drunk fatality, the more than $2,000,000,000 (two billion dollars) waste in which the drunk has been a serious factor. The latest loss through-going in Prohibition credit much higher percentage to liquor. Dr. R. S. Gehring, coroner of Cuyahoga County, Ohio, during his investigation in 50 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents for 15 months prior to April 1, 1937. Dr. Herman A. Heise, studies show more than 60 per cent of such accidents due to liquor. Reports are conclusive that drunk drivers are passing stop signals, etc. Legal and Illegal Sale: Not only are there 437,563 Federal tax paying retailers of beer, wine, or distilled beverages but in addition, according to Government authorities, there is still a huge volume of illegal selling which is keeping several thousand agents of the Internal Revenue Department busy from one end of the year to the other. Return to Labor and Producer: Nothing is said by either brewers or distillers as to their exceedingly small proportionate returns to labor and the farmer. For instance, the automobile industry employs 6 1/2 times as many men as does the liquor traffic for each million dollars of gross receipts. Liquor and the Farmer: Examination of official figures show that less than 3 per cent of the total amount of grain production in the United States is used in the making of intoxicants. In the ten years from 1917 to 1927, under Prohibition (War time dry measures and the Eighteenth Amendment), there was registered an annual increase in consumption of milk and dairy products of 212 pounds per capita. Since repeal, milk production on farms has dropped 1/2 billion pounds says the president of the National Dairy Council. A Government survey indicates a 27 per cent under-normal consumption of milk in 39 leading cities today. Liquor and Non-Alcoholic Beverages: The liquor makers in the trade papers, openly boast they are launching a long-time program of competition with the non-alcoholic beverage business built up into a billion-dollar industry during the Prohibition period. Liquor and Related Evils: Since repeal, gambling has again become big business with an estimated cost to the American people of $5,600,000,000 annually. Prostitution and the social evil, breeding syphilis and venereal diseases, is now spreading with almost prairie-fire swiftness throughout the nation in the wake of the legalized traffic. Drunkenness and Crime: Uniform crime reports, assembled by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, show a tremendous increase in liquor-bred arrests as shown by the following figures: 1932 (Prohibition) 566 cities included, population 20,288,970, liquor-bred arrests: 338,016. 1933 (Legal liquor) 387 cities included, population 25,450,666, liquor-bred arrests 791,970. Comparative increase, 1936 over 1932: population 17 per cent, liquor-bred arrests 121 per cent.

Merrill Sweet Takes Stand for Legislation

(Continued from page 1) desire fulfilled by this law being approved. For the information of local people who may desire to lend their support to the American Legion's program by signing these petitions, Commander Sweet summarized Universal Service as follows: It would help preserve the peace by removing the profit motive for war. Universal Service means that practically all excess war profits would be confiscated by the government, as well as all prices being frozen by government control at the outbreak of war in order to prevent inflation. In the event that war should again come to America if Universal Service was in effect, there would not be more than 20,000 new millionaires created in this country as there were in 1917-18. Equal service for all Under the Universal Service plan, those who serve in the armed forces and those who labor at home in providing the essential materials of war would be on the same basis. Equal rights for all and special privilege for none is the best summation of Universal Service. In the event of war, with Universal Service, both manpower and industry would be drafted to serve to best advantage in protecting this nation. The very presence of this law, on our books, even though it is never necessary to use it, would mean much greater strength to our potential national defense system with the result that it is doubtful if any nation would have the temerity to become involved in war with our country, concluded Mr. Sweet.

Robert Jackson, the trust-busting assistant attorney general, pointed out that a British economist had such the idea of a "sit-down strike" More on gallery 14. "Up to 2-3 years of capital" was a plausible one. Mr. Jackson himself did not espouse the theory. And Homer Warner, president of the United Automobile Workers union, ridiculed the idea that big business had deliberately brought on the recession. As William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors, pointed out last week before the Senate committee on unemployment and relief, "We can't make any money by laying off men and not selling cars." And making money, properly enough, is the prime interest of any business organization.

Neither as it correct, it would seem, to attribute the recession in any large degree to organized labor. During the past year, labor made certain gains. Much of these gains were in the form of increased wages, obtained only after a costly period of strikes. In this connection, it should be emphasized that high wages do not cause business recessions but act as a guarantor against them, because goods cannot be sold unless the great majority of our people—the laboring group—has sufficient purchasing power. And in regard to the cost of strikes, it should be pointed out that strikes stop production and that curtailed production does not contribute to an over-supply market—which, the business leaders assert, was one of the causes of the recession. Further, it should be remembered that labor as much as capital is entitled to increased returns during prosperous time and that it is only fair and reasonable for labor to look after its own interests. Whether or no labor's return is just and whether or not labor's interest is compatible with that of general business and other matters will be dealt with shortly.

General Booth explained that she receives daily dispatches regarding the situation there. "Knowing out of the experience of our work in the Salvation Army in peace or war," General Booth never misses an opportunity to express herself on that subject. In New York she declared that the beneficial effects of Prohibition would manifest themselves for the next 40 or 50 years. Prohibition she held would eventually return to the United States, and would be better organized than before.

ELMER SMITH REMAINS PRESIDENT'S CHAIR

(Continued from page 1) ago when the I. M. S. first organized and Harry B. Clark was president. At that time Mr. Northrop had charge of the livestock division of the Fair. Mrs. Northrop who has been a assistant secretary working with Mr. Northrop, has worked for 16 years in the Fair office. Fuller Resigns: A. E. Fuller, a member of the State Fair board, who for 21 years has headed the poultry division of the Northville show, placed his letter of resignation in the hands of the directors a few hours before the annual Fair board met Monday night. "I wish to retire from all activity. The Fair has grown to be one of the outstanding institutions of the county and the poultry show has expanded with other departments. I feel that I can't give the time that I should to this enterprise another year, as my own work is demanding more of me," explained Mr. Fuller. Fair board directors took no action on Mr. Fuller's resignation, preferring to wait until they learned from Mr. Fuller whether he would accept a position as director and let the poultry show be assigned to someone else. Relected to their places on the board of directors are: Elton R. Eaton of Plymouth, Carme Benton, W. E. Forney, D. J. Stark, A. E. Fuller, E. M. Starkweather, L. C. Sewari, and Harry B. Clark. Mr. Bunn was the only new member. He replaced Mr. Northrop. A financial statement presented to the stockholders by Treasurer Lyke, revealed that the Fair of 1937, which boasted the largest attendance in its history cleared approximately $1,000 more than did the 1936 receipts. In addition, some $700 was spent on the buildings where a great deal of re-roofing was done before the gates were opened to Fair goers in August.

'Recession' May Last Until Late in Spring

(Continued from page 1) have spent it. The same heavy inventories will tend to decrease prices. The government appears to have decided to work toward deflation—that is, lowering, instead of raising the price level—and to war on trusts and combinations which are a high price factor. And the cooperation of labor can be counted on—at least until the worst part of the recession is over—because curtailed business activity is as bad for labor as organized and otherwise—as for industry. Furthermore, the government has indicated its intentions of increasing its armaments, and the building of houses is being encouraged with great energy. Also, certain agreements between the Administration and utility executives are bound to have some favorable effect on business. All of these factors will take up some of the slack in employment, put new money into circulation—replacing a curtailed government spending which hastened the recession—and have the effect of increasing the nation's purchasing power so that it may further cut down the heavy inventories. Whether such a recovery will or will not be sound is another matter. And the recovery, even if it progresses uninterrupted, cannot expect to raise the business activity to the 1933 index of October, 1937 at least until summer. And it may well be next fall before anything approaching the 1933 index of September, 1937, obtains. It is also entirely possible that it may be well along in March or even later before any real trend toward an end of the recession in business is evident. So, the recovery will be just that much slower. But reasonable optimism would indicate that the upward trend should begin some time in February. One is on slightly more firm ground when he switches from prognostication to analysis—and from the hoped-for recovery of tomorrow to the actual recession of today. Such an analysis as many economists have conducted, therefore, make it seem altogether certain, a few politicians and labor leaders to the contrary, that the business recession was not deliberately brought on by anybody. In fact, no responsible statesmen or labor leaders have suggested this rather fantastic theory. It apparently started when

LETTER BOX

Into the editor's letter box this week came a letter from a reader who became "quite worked up" over Theodore Werle's article on "Alcohol" which appeared in the Dec 31 issue. In his article Werle says, "I am convinced that local option is a means for liquor control is a mistake. It merely dumps the problem in our neighbor's laps. No thoughtful adult any longer believes that voting liquor out of a community puts it out. We were once—a large majority of us—so naive as to believe that to repeal the errors of prohibition would be fool indeed. And the gross, overall error of prohibition was in-

A LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Jan 5, 1937 To "Time Will Tell" Your letter which came to the editor's desk, this week will give you space in our letter box column when you send us your name. You are to understand that the signature which originally accompanied your letter will be used when we publish the article. In keeping with the policy adopted by all reputable newspapers all over the country, we publish only letters that are signed, or which are brought to the news desk personally by the writer. In other words, for our own protection, we must know the writer of every article or letter that we print. Upon request, we keep the writer's identity from the public. Sincerely yours, The Record Editor.
