

BOARD OKAYS APPRENTICE PLAN FOR 1938

Miss Griffiths Receives High School English Appointment

Members of the Northville Board of Education approved the apprentice plan Monday evening which is, in the opinion of Superintendent R. H. Amerman, "the finest undertaking the community and school can back."

In explaining this, Mr. Amerman said: "It will do so much for the boy who can't go to college. It will do for the boy and girl in agriculture, what the Smith-Hughes plan does for the boy and girl in agriculture."

Under the apprentice plan, which becomes a reality July 1, with E. V. Ellison heading the enterprise, a boy will work 20 hours each week for some business concern in the village for a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour. He will spend an equal number of hours in school, studying related technical subjects. This program, carried on for two years, will entitle the boy to a 2,000 clock-hour apprentice diploma.

The State department, pays for three-fourths of the salary of the instructor, leaving only a slight expense for the school district. The plan has been growing by leaps and bounds, reports Mr. Amerman. It was adopted three years ago by three schools in the State. Next fall will see 35 schools pushing the plan.

Already six business men, including proprietors of grocery stores, gas stations and a printing office, have made known their willingness to take on a boy under the apprentice program.

Mr. Ellison, who has taught manual training here during the past year, has been released from that appointment and will take over the full time supervision of the new project. Another teacher will have to be employed by the board to fill the vacancy on the staff.

In order to cope with the large freshman class entering high school in the fall, Miss Estelle Griffiths, third grade teacher, has been assigned to teach English in the high school. Her new assignment, together with the leave of absence granted Principal Selma Jarvis, makes it necessary for the board to place under contract a half time principal who will teach half days in the upper grades. Although no one has been definitely named for the place, it is understood that a man will be given the post.

Mrs. Sterling Eaton, nee Ida Rose Cavell, has been given a contract to teach kindergarten next year. Mrs. William Chismar, the present kindergarten teacher, will be assigned to a first grade room next year.

STEENCKEN WINS IN SINGLES; DOUBLES GO INTO FINAL PLAY

John Steencken is the first tennis player to hold the cup put up this year in the men's singles division of the tournament. Last week he eliminated Aleo Milne in straight sets to win the final match.

The cup, which was donated by Del W. Hahn, will be held by Steencken until next year when he will have to defend it against all challengers. In the tournament this year there were 31 entries in the singles. Play was delayed several times in the competition through bad weather and inability of players to get together to play their matches.

Of the eight teams which started in the doubles tournament, following the completion of singles play, four teams still remain in the running for the cup and title. Hahn and Milne have reached the finals in their bracket and are waiting for the teams in the other bracket to finish their matches. The other finalist team will be one of three: either Shipley and Murphy, Potter and Murphy, or Casteline and Morris. Play is expected to be finished this week end. This cup will also be a challenge cup.

RETURNS TO FLORIDA
Mrs. William Bayle Brown has returned to Florida, where she will stay for at least another two weeks. Mrs. Brown returned to Northville a short time ago after wintering in the South.

Dr. W. D. Bayley Fills Presbyterian Pulpit Next Sunday

Dr. W. D. Bayley, who spoke to the high school assembly, April 15, will be the guest speaker at 11:05 a. m. Sunday, June 12, in the Presbyterian church. His topic is "Making a Monkey of Yourself."

In his talk at the school a few weeks ago, Dr. Bayley illustrated with a blackboard talk, the dangerous effects on the brain which comes from drinking alcohol. He has entertained and instructed more than a million high school students and has given 4,000 lectures.

"At present he is being held in Detroit to address luncheon clubs and churches," a Canadian writer pens. "It would be hard to find anyone better qualified to rebuild a foundation for an intelligent understanding of the alcohol issue." Dr. Frank Gody, superintendent of the Detroit schools, comments: "I am delighted that Dr. Bayley has returned."

Dr. Bayley will fill the Presbyterian pulpit Sunday in the absence of the Rev. Dr. T. W. Smith, who is visiting in Illinois.

E. N. HINES, ROAD COMMISSIONER, DIES

Pioneer Began Campaign for Good Roads After Bicycle Ride

Edward N. Hines, who devised the gala opening of the Seven Mile road 20 years ago and called it "Northville on the Map Day," died unexpectedly Saturday afternoon, June 4, at his home in Detroit.

Known as the good roads pioneer in both the United States and Canada, Mr. Hines had been a member of the Wayne County Road commission since its beginning and served as its chairman continuously for more than 15 years. During this time, the first mile of concrete road in the world was built and to him goes the credit for developing machinery and methods for building concrete roads at as low a cost as possible. Mr. Hines' commission was the first to use the "belt finish," now in common use, wherever concrete highways are built. This group also promoted the use of the mechanical finishing machine and the mechanical center safety-line strapping.

While talking of the work done by the commission, Mr. Hines was known to comment "No device or method developed by our organization ever has been patented or copyrighted by us, although others outside of our organization have attempted to do so, infringing on our previous use. They have been given freely to the world in the interest of better and cheaper road construction."

Mr. Hines' early courtship days, the story is told, were responsible for Wayne county's exceptionally fine highway system. It seems that he didn't like the kind of road he had to travel when he took his girl, Clara Margaret Steers of this village, for a bicycle ride. That was way back in 1888, since then he has spent a portion of his time in the promotion of improved highways in the country, together with related activity with bridges, grade separations, sign-boarding, parks, public comfort stations, free planting, roadside decorating, tourist camp sites, superhighways and safety work.

Just two years ago, the parkway drive came officially to bear the name, Edward N. Hines drive. It was just 40 years ago Thursday, June 2, that Mr. Hines married his bicycle partner, Clara Steers. The two of them pedaled a blue tandem bicycle over the bumpy road to Detroit—their honeymoon trip. When they took a boat to Buffalo, they took the bicycle with them so that they could pedal to Niagara Falls and through Canada.

At the time of his death, Mr. Hines was president of the Speaker-Hines Printing company. He entered the printing business in 1889. He was born in St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 13, 1870 and had made his home in Detroit since 1879.

Last rites for this pioneer were held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the William R. Hamilton chapel, Detroit. The Detroit Commandery had charge of the service. Burial was made in Woodlawn cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Hines are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Ralph Thomas of Grosse Pointe; a sister, Mrs. Lizette Goddy of Detroit; and three grandchildren, Ted, Sally and Ralph Thomas, Jr.

Randolph Street Taxpayer Complains about Dancers

Complaining about the noise made late at night by a dancing school on Randolph street, Miss Ruth Roberts sent a letter Monday evening to the village commission asking the members to take steps to remedy the situation.

Mayor Arthur S. Nichols turned the matter over to the committee of the whole for future study.

It wasn't just the dancing school that Miss Roberts found annoying enough to complain about, but the glubbers on the west of the Robert street who have some chickens which have been running loose in their yard, ruining their garden. She asks that something be done about this, too.

"For five years, we've had to listen to laughing, screaming, lecturing from the dancing school two nights a week until late hours. The only income we have comes from the apartment house and our tenants can't sleep because of the noise. We've been taxpayers for 18 years and we'll lose our home if we can't rent our apartment, which we can't if this din continues," she asserts.

Another night disturbance was brought to the attention of the chief of police Saturday. A complaint came because some of the youth of the village were driving motor scooters through the streets after midnight, keeping persons from sleeping because of the noise the motors make.

Mr. Montgomery warned the proprietor of the enterprise that the machines were not to run after 9 p. m. if he wished to keep the motors from being confiscated by the village police department.

MAYOR A. S. NICHOLS UPHOLDS ATCHISON

Mayor Arthur S. Nichols and members of the village council up held Monday evening, the stand Dr. Russell M. Atchison, health officer, has taken the past several months in his efforts to see that every creamery of Northville conforms to the State health regulations.

Following Dr. Atchison's inspection checkup, which necessitated the calling in of State inspectors before cooperation could be received from one village creamery, complaints were made by the owner of Mayor Nichols, charging Dr. Atchison with "unfairness."

Before members of the commission and the group of persons who attended Monday evening's session, Mayor Nichols read counts from the State health department against the creamery. The report revealed that last September, the creamery was able to total only 5 1/2 of the State's 20-point requirements. The next month a second check was made by the State, this time the creamery managed to total 10 1/2 out of the 20. When the State threatened to shut down the creamery, Dr. Atchison said that he would give the place a thorough check every two weeks to see that standards were maintained if the owner's license were not revoked.

Dr. Atchison appeared before the councilmen Monday evening to state that all the counts against the creamery had been corrected, but that it was necessary to close the place down before it could be done. "I want to congratulate you for saving the lives of persons in the village by seeing that pure milk is sold in the village. I want you to know that the commission will stand by you," he stated.

DROWNINGS CLIMAX HOLIDAY OUTING

Two Detroit School Boys Meet Death in Lake

By C. E. BUTTON
Monday, a day which for weeks had previously been planned as one of the brightest of the year for 60 boys and girls of the Catholic central high school of Detroit, came to an abrupt and tragic ending shortly after noon, with the drowning of two school members, William McCarthy, age 17, of 18451 Greenlawn, and James Nanny, age 17, of 13141 Fairfield, both of Detroit.

The group under the supervision of the Rev. J. MacIntyre, of the school, arrived at the lake early in the day for its annual outing, and had enjoyed a variety of entertainment which had been provided for the occasion.

Three of the boys decided to land at about noon. The two included Charles Kester, 18 years old, and the two drowning victims. According to a story told by Eugene Pierce, proprietor of the amusement park, the Kester boy decided not to accompany the other boys in the canoe, saying he had a "hunch" not to go out with them. He left the canoe at the end of the 500 foot landing.

When the boys in the canoe had paddled another 500 feet farther out, both, who had claimed to be good swimmers, dove in about 10 feet of water. A brisk 25 mile wind quickly carried the canoe out of reach. It was later learned that neither boy could swim well, and it was thought that both became frightened.

Kester, on the dock, heard the shouts of the panic-stricken youths, but thought they were fooling. However, Graner Mason, a life guard, who heard the cries for help, started the boys in a power boat.

He saw them floundering and saw one boy go down before he could reach them. He threw a life preserver to the other lad, who failed to grasp it. Mason then reached for him, caught him, but could not hold him.

STEAL INDIAN PENNIES

A collection of Indian bead pennies, said to be the property of Edmund Yerkes and Del Campbell, was taken early Thursday morning when the offices in the Lapham State Bank building were entered. Some small change was also taken from Dr. J. K. Eastland's office. The only office not broken into was that of the telephone company. Chief of Police Louis M. German was investigating the case Thursday.

Norton Hears Councilmen Table Request for License

In a crowded council room made-up of spectators who were curious to learn just what would be done about John Norton's tavern license when he asked for it a second time, Mr. and Mrs. Norton listened Monday evening while the village clerk read Norton's letter to the commissioners, asking that they reconsider his request.

Immediately following this reading, Commissioner Floyd, Shaffer made a motion to lay Norton's request on the table. He was supported by Commissioner George Hicks. In the vote, only Commissioner Carl Schoultz favored Norton. Commissioner Orlov G. Owen voted with the other council members only, with the understanding that Norton's license be considered at a later date.

Neither Norton nor Mrs. Norton voiced any comment at the meeting on the council action. Along with his letter, he placed at the disposal of the commissioners a petition signed by property owners and lessees. Among the signers were the names of Carl Moore, J. J. Anderson, Otto Schoch, Joe Vroman, Tracy Ely, Jean, Allen and Laura Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Smith, Doris Wick and Elmer DeKay.

"I'll have a license before long. I'll have it regardless of the conditions here," asserted Mr. Norton Wednesday morning. His tavern has been closed since May 1, because the council has refused to renew approval for a license, principally because it is located in a residential district.

EXCHANGITES HEAR 'FAIR' WEEK PLANS

By C. A. DOLPH
The members of the Northville Wayne County Fair Board had a talking good time Wednesday afternoon when they met for their annual pre-fair program.

President Elmer L. Smith of the board was introduced by club president Van Allen and then called on all members to indicate what might be expected when the gates were opened in August.

Mr. Smith led off by telling of present financial standing of the fair, a situation which especially emphasized the mortgage debt, which was down to $3,000. He said that it was the intention of the management to operate the midway with outgambing. Improvements are already started and include the painting of buildings and fences and race track railing.

Mrs. R. B. Dowling and Harry B. Clark expressed the belief that the Horse Show would be a fine exhibit and excellent in every way.

L. C. Stewart outlined the forthcoming entertainment attractions and ventured to predict better ones than last season. H. H. Hamilton was expecting the racing card to get a larger number of horses.

State Representative Elton R. Eaton explained the State money and its application and how nearly it came to being lost and now it was recovered.

The new secretary, D. B. Bunn, had the shortest address of any of those called and used only one-half minute to tell of his experience.

As a fine conclusion to the program, Mr. Lendens who supplies entertainment was present with a pianist and two black face comedians. They gave a short sparkling dialogue that sent the crowd away in good humor.

Past Presidents R. G. Yerkes and E. E. Brown were welcome guests.

LOYLE GERMAN TAKES VILLAGE POLICE POST

Plans Campaign Against Motorists Who Violate Traffic Laws

Loyl M. German, who resigned the chief of police post last October to accept a position with the State conservation department, received the re-appointment Monday evening from Arthur S. Nichols, village mayor.

This appointment was made and accepted at the regular session of the commission in the Village Hall. Commissioner Orlov G. Owen made a motion to accept Mayor Nichols' recommendation for German's appointment. He was supported by Commissioner J. W. Perkins and by other members of the council in the vote.

German was scheduled for the police chief appointment a month ago when Mayor Nichols took office and announced the other recommendations for public office, but immediately following Nichols' appointment, German sent word to the council that he could not take the post. With German's withdrawal, Mr. Owen suggested Richard Loomis, night watchman for the position. Other council members would not consider another name until it was learned definitely whether German was to be reconsidered at a later date.

You are the chief of police. All persons waiting for the police department are under your supervision. I charge you to conduct this job. I want you to be a creditable village officer and to the community. Nichols told German after the council had approved his recommendation.

Chief German, who took up his police chief duties for the second time Wednesday morning said that the first thing he hoped to do was to clean up the traffic situation. Explaining his statement he commented that he was going to slow the motorist school program. This exists down and they're going to stop it. He will be followed by a style have to respect the stop signs show in the auditorium. Along with the work E. V. Ellison's men.

Street Commissioner Earl Montgomery has been acting police chief since German's resignation last fall. An application from Walter Moore for a place on the police force was read by the clerk, Mrs. P. R. Alexander, and was filed by the council for future reference.

VISIT SCHOOL

A big advertisement in a recent paper struck us forcibly. It read "Visit School Now."

The school year is nearly over. It may be our last chance. Some children act shy, as if they did not want their parents to visit their school, but down deep in their hearts they are proud to have the kind of parents who take an interest in what is the big thing in their life right now.

To see their child among those of his own age is often very enlightening to a parent. Is he adapting himself well to his schoolmates? Is he dressed like the rest of them so that he is not embarrassed, does his hair need cutting, does he look as well-nourished and developed, does he need "brushing up" in school work in which the parent could help at home? Many questions like this occur to a parent who is seeing his child comparatively among a lot of children.

It is time to know the teachers, too. We owe more than we know to the training which they have practically taken out of our hands. Let's visit school before it is too late.

CHILDREN AND GARDENING

"Come and see my buds," they're up! A little four-year-old led us to the backyard where a row of glads were sticking their green noses through the soil. This was the child's first garden and the wise mother had given him buds to plant, which were easy to handle. What if they weren't right side up? Nature intended to that and they came up.

Now that school is nearly closed gardening may become an interesting activity for the child provided he has a feeling of ownership. Small sets of garden tools make it a game. If there are several children in the family lively rivalry may spur on the interest to keep the weeds out. Trust a child to eat with relish the vegetables he has planted and cared for in his own garden.

Too much supervision, too, will spoil the fun. Responsibility and initiative are among the best crops he will raise.

AFTER THE TULIPS ARE GONE

The problem of what to do with the tulip and daffodil bulbs after they are through blooming is answered by a gardener thus:

Dig up the bulbs and transplant them in some inconspicuous corner of the yard. They may be put very close together and will not take up much space. (The nurseries refer to this practice as "heeling in.") The bulbs are then watered and allowed to go slowly dormant. Do not cut the yellow leaves from the bulbs until they are completely brown for they are storing food in the bulbs for next year's blossoms.

You may then plant your summer garden in the space where the bulbs were and do not need to wait until the unsightly foliage of the bulbs has died before you can use the space.

A reader gives us this method for making furniture look like new: 1. tablespoon each olive oil and vinegar in 1 quart of hot water. Wash furniture and polish with dry cloth.

Walled Lake's School Election Is Event in 3 District Precincts

By CHARLES E. HUTTON

WALLED LAKE—People of the village and surrounding area within the Walled Lake school district will be principally interested this week in the annual school election, scheduled for Monday, June 13. The election, to be conducted according to State procedure, will take place in the three district precincts with polls at the Walled Lake, Commerce and Union Lake schools.

Close to a thousand voters have registered, indicating a keen interest in the school district's first election of this kind. Five candidates for the two vacancies on the Walled Lake Board of Education will be listed on the ballots. They are Mrs. Clara Stoffet and E. V. Mercer, incumbents; James W. Adams of the Commerce precinct and J. Norwood England and Russell B. Cowan of Westacres and the Union precinct.

While representation on the board of the various points in the district is to be desired, it is felt by some that the present board should be retained for the time being, because of the extensive expansion program now under way, which has thus far been commendably handled. It is thought that the present board should be continued until plans how under way are completed. Strong support of the Westacres candidates is anticipated by residents of that area, which has a voting population of about 300.

This is the time of year when much attention is directed toward school activities. Another two weeks will complete the semester, with graduation as the high point in this climactic period.

The largest senior class in the school's history will receive diplomas June 14, when 49 members bid farewell to their high school alma mater.

Honor students are closely akin, insofar as scholastic rating is concerned. Marian Gardner, with 28 A's and 2 B's has a rating of 3.965. Jean Stoffet comes close, with 3.865. Lois Penn (daughter of Fred Penn, formerly of Northville) finished with 3.750. Vera Mae Adams is fourth with 3.714. Vera Philp concludes with 3.678; Nancy Ayer (daughter of Ray S. Ayer Detroit News "Roadside Philosopher") is sixth, with 3.500. Shirley Post has a rating of 3.428, Robert Lang is next with 3.333 and Charles Cox completes the list of nine, with 3.107. Other graduates are: Laverne Power, Helen Payler, Dorothy Kreza, Florence Potts, Patricia Scott, Betty Thorsburg, Bob Philp, Joe Porter, Freda German, Helen Fieteler, Raymond Seelye, Frances Murray, Roland Green, Dorothy Witt, Peggy Averill, Roger Bernin, Eileen Wellfare, Florence Pennell, Clair Button, Fred Lee, Jean MacDonald, Doris Youngbauer, Douglas Graham, Vera Graham, Stephanie Vocarska, Lucia Pennell, Harold DeGroot, Edna Dno, Margaret Dunn, William Knapp, John Forbush, Don Peterson, William Ellenwood, Fred Rickman, Marion King, Irene Kovacs, Rose Gilson, Frances Richardson, John Richardson and William MacDonald.

11 a. m.—Worship service. The pastor will preach upon "A Good Supply."
6:30 p. m.—Young Peoples meeting.

Friday, right after school, all juniors and intermediates are asked to meet at the church for a rehearsal of the Children's Day program.

Tuesday, June 14, is the date of the workers' conference. This meeting will be held in Cass Benton park. All teachers and officers are asked to meet at 6 p. m. at the church. Bring sandwiches, one passing dish, dishes and silverware. Coffee will be provided.

Chief Purpose of Education.
"One of the chief purposes of an education is to produce the well balanced and fully developed man or woman."

Arthur G. Wimmer was stricken suddenly with a heart attack, Saturday night, at his residence in Mrs. Gladys Buffum's residence, to St. Joseph Mercy hospital Sunday for treatment as the result of a prolonged physical ailment. He will be confined for several days.

Mrs. Minnie M. Hutton visited recently, Miss Jessie Hutton of Flint, last week.

And before I forget it the concert by the Walled Lake Methodist choir, Friday night, was very much worthwhile, even if I do say so myself, who shouldn't being the director. I must admit much disappointment in not seeing any of my out-of-town readers there, especially when I told you about it last week. Not even the reviewer of The Record was there, either. There's loyalty for you. But we did have an audience, even so. And they said they liked our program.

Rotary Club and Guests Enjoy Picnic in Cass Benton Park

Threatening clouds cleared away and the sun shone upon more than one hundred merry-makers at the annual picnic of the Rotary club Tuesday evening when their families and other friends were their guests.

The usual bountiful picnic dinner was the big feature, with succulent baked ham, succulent baked beans, salads of all varieties and an array of cakes, each rivaling the other in goodness. Dinner was served cafeteria style, each heaping his plate to his own choosing, many returning for "encore." Preceding the dinner preparation and serving of the dinner were: Mrs. Don P. Yerkes, Sr., Mrs. Charles Schoutz, Mrs. Luther Lapham and Mrs. Harry B. Clark, with their husbands assisting. Don Yerkes was general chairman.

Directed by N. C. Schrader, youngest member, and D. H. Van Hove, a variety of games were played, including board games, baseball, horse shoe pitching, and even a "husband holler" contest in which Mrs. Leslie G. L. Schoutz demonstrated her husband's vocal training by carrying off first prize.

The occasion was more significant in that it happened to be the birthday anniversary of three who were present, Mrs. M. C. Gussell, Mrs. A. L. Keuhn, and Philip Baldwin. The youngest guest present was Philip, the six-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Keuhn.

Among the guests of the club present were: Mrs. Flora Babbitt, Mrs. Charles T. Thompson, Mrs. E. C. Langford, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Burkman, Mrs. N. C. Schrader, and Miss Betty Schrader-Ernest Keuhn.

Atchison, Miss Betty Van Hove, Miss Doris Tewksbury, Miss Dorothy Richardson, Miss Margaret Walker, Arthur Mitchell, Miss Hazel McKinstry, of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Miller of Clyde. Beasley-Walker, Bowers-Denne Exchange Vows in June Rites

MISS WALKER BECOMES BRIDE IN CHURCH CEREMONY

Miss Earlene Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Walker, became the bride of Ronald W. Beasley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Beasley, all of Northville, in a ceremony read Friday evening, June 3, in the Methodist church by the Rev. Harry J. Lord.

The bride and bridegroom exchanged their vows in front of the church altar which was flanked by lighted candles, palms, ferns and large baskets of early summer flowers.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of white lace over satin which had a fitted bodice, long sleeves that came well over the hands. The skirt ended in a train. A strand of pearls at the soft neckline was the only ornament worn.

Wide bands of lace trimmed the tiered tulle veil which extended beyond the length of the train. This was held in place by a lace cap, with a halo arrangement of the tulle completing the costume. Her bouquet, all of white flowers, was of gladiolus.

Attending Mrs. Beasley was Miss Doris Beasley, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a frock of peach floor length chiffon and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers tied with streamers to match her costume. The dress was accented by a small hat of the peach chiffon, made with a small veil.

Bridesmaids were Miss Nanna Meikjohn of Detroit, dressed in blue chiffon, Miss Virginia See-bolt of Farmington, dressed in pink chiffon, Miss Lily Nash of Plymouth, dressed in green chiffon, and Jan Ray Riley was the flower girl. She wore a yellow frock.

Fred Walker, brother of the bride, was Mr. Beasley's best man. He was Earl Marr of Detroit, Fred Lee of Walled Lake, George Beasley and Herman Toussaint, both of Northville.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Sherrill W. Ambler, with Miss Evelyn Ambler singing "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me."

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Walker held a garden reception for the couple at their home on Horton avenue. The bride's table was set in the middle of the lawn centered with a bouquet of roses and daisies. Blush tapers further lighted the setting for the two wedding cakes of the bride and bridegroom. The cake of the bride a five-tiered one was cut by Mrs. Frank Schoutz of South Lyon. Miss Fred Lee, aunt of the bride, cut the bridegroom's cake for the 140 guests. Assisting Mrs. Walker at the reception were Miss Grace Butler and Mr. George Hicks.

Large garden baskets of mixed flowers were used in the lawn appointments arranged by Mrs. Henry Hills.

Guests were present from Detroit, Adrian, Brighton, Royal Oak, South Lyon, Pontiac and Northville. For her short motor trip over the week end, Mrs. Beasley travelled in a navy costume with which she wore white accessories.

Jane Cowl Brings Climax to Ninth Series of Dramas

When Jane Cowl appears as Lady Violet Wyngate in the revival of "Rain From Heaven" at the Ann Arbor Dramatic Season on Tuesday evening, June 14, the Middle West will have the opportunity of seeing Sam Behrman's most important play interpreted by a star and a cast who will bring to life a group of lifelike human beings whose destinies are completely tied up with present day problems.

At Lady Violet Wyngate's lovely country home near London, there congregates for a week end in the Spring a house party which includes a young American aviator-explorer, Rana Eldridge, recently arrived in England; his brother Hobart, a rich American, ambitious to establish himself with England's ruling class; a Rhodes scholar; Hobart's wife Phoebe, his young daughter Joan; and her fiancé, a Russian pianist, who conceals the fact that he is partly Jewish. Lady Violet has added to these guests Hugo Wilkens, a German music critic and a cultivated man of letters—a man exiled from Germany because of his outspoken opinions and a slight strain of Jewish blood—and a Russian of the old regime, Nikolai Jurin, who ekes out an existence teaching Russian to English-speaking Hobart's wife Phoebe, is a restless American woman given great latitude by her husband and it soon becomes evident that she and Wilkens have met in Germany some years before and have had a short affair from which he has quickly recovered and she has not.

Mr. Behrman has shown us, through individuals and their character perceptions, the whole substance of life. As one of the New York critics so aptly said, "It employs the genuine spirit and quality of high comedy for purposes that are earnest and important and contemporary."

In Miss Cowl's support will be seen William Post, Jr., as Wilkins, the journalist, and Carl Benton Reid as the American industrialist Hobart; while the part of Rana, the explorer, will be played by Judson Laure who played this part in Miss Cowl's previous production. There will be two newcomers in the cast Hathaway Kala, the daughter Joan and Eugene Sigaloff, the Russian emigre.

During the Commencement week, June 14, there will be three matinees, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday at 3:15. The prices for Miss Cowl's engagement are somewhat higher for the general public though they remain the same for subscribers. Seats can be reserved for out-of-town-ers by calling Ann Arbor 8300.

Followers of Home Talent Like Drama Club's First Presentation

By Virginia

Two of our prejudices made a turn-about face Thursday night after attending the first performance of "Here Comes the Prince," directed by the very exciting Mrs. Frank W. Hawkins, with the cast made up entirely of the members of the high school drama club which came into being only this semester.

In the first place, we've always been more or less snooty about being royalty vehicles. The drama club picked one that was good, it had enough plot to keep first-nighters awake and interested. Some of the lines jarred forth laughs from even the cynics and we always have them with us, even on first nights.

Then this idea of having a man dress up in women's clothes and pitch the voice several degrees above normal never went over, but this time we liked it. If we just could have kept our eyes riveted above the hair line, we'd have passed Marvin Schoutz just any day as a dumb blonde, who knew only her cooking—but, Marv, those legs and socks kept us up with reality.

Just to be consistent about the whole affair, Mrs. Walker dressed up in the prince's regalia and did much snapping, together, of heels and hand-kissing. She had a naturalness about her stage presence that seemed to put the rest of the cast at ease. When she really came out in a dance frock for one of these final scene clutches, she looked most attractive and we continued to like her act.

The all-haughty Bette Findlay did a splendid interpretation of her role after she interpreted her first scene nervously. She had the part that gave her a chance to wear some stunning outfits—that red dinner dress, for instance.

Doris Tewksbury in her role of the overly-ambitious mother wasn't particularly likeable to know, but she did put her character over and after all that's what matters on the stage.

Given Jones gave us a surprise—

we didn't think she could look like a granny, let alone play the part, but she did, and to the extent of stealing more than one scene. These foreign accent scripts always had us stumped, but not Bary Jane Boelens—she did it up all very natural, even though she didn't have so many speeches to make.

The Boelens family had another entry in the cast in the person of Albert, the goose bird lover. Here was another case of looking the part and really having an understanding of the character. His interpretation was as outstanding as anything given in the performance.

Dignity characterized the roles of Art Mitchell and Sam Alden, and both boys were equal to their scenes. Art worked under a handicap throughout the play—his love was somewhat misdirected, but he bore up bravely.

Eber Lester just about didn't get in the play at all, but when he did come on the stage for his few lines he got along all right. And mighty nice he looked in his tux. As a prince, he was a comforting person to have around.

The stage setting was the most attractive in the way of home furnishings that we've seen on the school stage these three years that we've been reviewing village talent affairs. (Although this was the club's initial appearance, there was evidence of sincerity in the undertaking, consequently the scenes were given with an ease and naturalness that is often lacking when high school students perform.)

After the final curtain Friday evening the cast and members of the club, who were not in the play, held a dancing party in the school gymnasium. It was all very exclusive, with no out-siders. Mrs. Hawkins was feeling proud of her actors and was thanking them for the bouquet of flowers and the perfume they'd given her just to show that they did appreciate all the evenings she had given over to them.

WPA ASSURES VILLAGE TWO PLAY SUPERVISORS

Following a visit from a member of the WPA office Tuesday, Northville's playground project for the summer is a little closer to becoming an actual enterprise.

The WPA investigator from Dr. W. H. Johnston's office practically assured Supervisor R. H. Amerman two playground directors. If this goes through it will be up to the village to supply a general director or supervisor. It is understood that Mrs. Eber W. Lester and Mrs. Robert Geraghty are contacting a number of clubs and prominent citizens in an effort to have a summer activity like that which Plymouth has well under way.

BURIED MOTTO DISCOVERED

Fenton—While Adam Richter was tearing up the kitchen floor at his farm home near here, he found between the floors a motto printed by hand on a sheet of cardboard, bearing the words, "Love Not Sleep, Lest Thou Come to Poverty." The card was signed by William Owen and was dated 1860.

Only Experts

"What are you doing here?" said the haughty chairman at the Disarmament Conference in Geneva.

"Excuse me," replied the soldier, in a frayed uniform. "I thought I might be useful—I went through the whole war in the front line."

"Get out. This is a meeting of experts. An unheard-of intrusion," Nebelspalter.

SIX HOUR DAY TO BE INAUGURATED

Periods To Be Lengthened Fifteen Minutes Each Next Year

Principal G. V. Harrison has announced that a new system will be installed next year in the high school.

Instead of the eight 45-minute periods which are now the rule, there will be only six periods lasting one hour each. Part of this hour period will be spent in supervised study. This will take care of the time lost by having less study periods.

In addition to this, a home room system will be tried out. The senior high school will be divided into regional groups of about 35 students. Each of these groups will have a home room, where they will keep their books. This will lessen the crowded condition of the high school auditorium, which is now being used to hold all the books. These regional groups will be supervised by one teacher. The students will get permits from their home room teacher, instead of the principal, when this system is begun.

REDFORD UNION DOWNS SCHOOL GOLF TEAM

By EBER WARD LESTER

Last Thursday afternoon at four o'clock the Northville golf team arrived at the Redford Golf Links to battle it out with the Redford Union boys, but we are sorry to say there wasn't much of a battle because the opponents were merciful and took the game 12 to 0.

Maybe part of this defeat was the fault of A. J. Boelens because he was unable to appear on the course to shoot his below par game. Ben Duguid and Harold Sheppard, both shot an 87 while Larkins came through with 88 and Myers with a 92.

OPERETTA MOVIES SHOW HIDDEN TALENT

By LOUISE ALEXANDER

Did anyone happen to wonder why all the cheer so excited last week? Well, here's the reason—they previewed the movies that were taken of the operetta cast. You see, the school purchased some film in order to keep fragments of this production to inspire students in the future. There was a colored roll taken for the school by Neil Harnan and one in black and white which Cecil Gies filmed.

You really should know something about these pictures. The star of stars is none other than Douglas McCaskie, who stole the show by executing a hula dance that would make a Hawaiian shudder. Other attractions include that hot-headed Charles Altman who shocks his sword into Art (Bums) Mitchell and Cecil Gies and completely through poor Martin Breitmeyer. (He was a nice lad, too.) Helen Winter and Wally Garchow go into their act, but the shot of Wally and his friend Sue Shaker, taken without their knowledge, is a rare find, if you know what I mean. We can all see why Wally is a good track man now the way he took off when he noticed the camera. Fred Johnston and Yours Truly emote a bit for the advancement of drama, and the only thing that saves it is the fact that my head is turned away from the camera so Fred's flashing smile is not detracted from.

The rest of the film has close-ups and long shots of the entire cast, so when these films and others are shown in the assembly in the near future, be sure to see them.

She then went back to Big Beaver for about a year and a half. After traveling back and forth between Northville and Big Beaver, she managed to complete her senior year here. Louise said she has no hobbies or pastimes, but really she has. Louise went on the Washington trip and ever since her pastime has been dreaming of a certain little red-headed elevator boy.

Editor's Note

Most of us have gone through our first six or seven semesters of high school without much thought of what lay ahead. Our immediate future is wound up in tomorrow's vacation and then more school. So when our senior year rolls around and we begin to hear talk about commencement, class night, and the like, we suddenly realize that this is our last year of an orderly regulated life of comparative ease. This year when the doors of the red brick building swing behind us, we'll be on our own.

We won't be re-entering for another year in the fall—and that thought leaves rather an uncomfortable feeling in the pit of more than one senior's stomach. What are we going to do next year?

Whether we realize it or not, we are looking forward to an entirely new life—one so different from what we've always been accustomed to that it rather stuns us for a moment. We are about to enter a world of success for few and failure for many, a world of sorrow—with the quest for happiness always the staff that guides us on. The friends and bonds we've acquired during school will be in need often, and the small bit of knowledge and experience in dealing with people—our own kind as well as many others—will be called upon much in the first few years of our struggle to glean from life some small measure of contentment and peace. The learning we've been taught to accept—the advice and wisdom we've shrugged away—will all come back to us during the long days and years of the future that lie ahead of us.

Are we going out to meet that future with crossed fingers and the hope that we'll be lucky in new undertakings—or are we going out with the confidence that we have gotten the most out of our education and are ready for whatever comes along—a failure in some things, perhaps—but in all—ultimate success?

N. H. S. ADDS FOUR COURSES NEXT YEAR

Principal G. V. Harrison Announces New Classes

Three of the new courses being offered to the Northville high school students were announced last week by Principal G. V. Harrison. They are as follows: A class called descriptive science is open to members of the junior and senior classes. The course is to be composed of one semester of chemistry and the other semester will deal with the study of physics. This will be different from the straight studies of chemistry and physics in that the students will not have any laboratory periods and all experiments will be done by the instructor in form of a demonstration. The class will be taught by William H. Henschel.

Another junior-senior subject will be sociology. The central theme of sociology is the effect of social life upon personality. To the high school student, especially, personality is a most fascinating and important subject. The nature of social life is made clear through a significant study of its major institutions, which include: The family, the community, play, education, work art and religion. It has not been decided who the teacher for this class will be.

The third new course is for sophomores juniors and seniors and is business mathematics. This subject is recommended for students who intend to take bookkeeping and are weak in mathematics. In this way, bookkeeping will become a junior course after next year. This is not the same as the class in general mathematics and can follow this course. Mr. Harrison will be the instructor.

It is also possible that there will be a course in beginning journalism and creative writing which will help prepare students for future work on the Orange and Black staff.

SCHOOLING OFFERED TWO SENIOR GIRLS

Benjamin B. Lovett, the head of the educational work of the Ford Motor company spoke to several of the senior girls Monday, presenting an interesting proposition for them to ponder over.

Henry Ford is starting a new school in the Ford hospital and two senior girls from the small towns in which a Ford factory is located will be invited to attend. Tuition is free, including board, room, books, and all other necessary materials. The course runs for five months and deals mostly with home arts.

The course is designed for those girls who either do not intend to go on to school after graduation or cannot afford to.

Girls interested in going to this school should hand in their application to Principal G. V. Harrison.

The Observer

This gal hails from Farmington. She is a brunette with blue eyes. Her hair is usually arranged in curls, but now and then it changes. In our estimation, she is about five feet, four inches tall. She has honored N. H. S. by coming here and is an active member of the sophomore class. Keeping track of a certain sophomore president is her pastime. Dancing and horseback riding are her hobbies. Blue is her favorite color, which she looks well in. If you haven't any idea of whom this is, just keep on thinking.

Bobby Breen Heads Musical Vehicle, "Hawaii Calls," Sunday and Monday

"PRISON NURSE" the Republic Picture starring Henry Wilcoxon and Marian Marsh, coming Friday and Saturday, June 10 and 11, to the Fenniman-Allen theatre, is an accurate and realistic portrayal of prison life, and the problems which those in charge of prisons have to face.

Both sides of the question are shown—that is, the treatment of prisoners, and the responsibilities of the warden and his aides.

When an epidemic breaks out in the prison following a disastrous flood, the regular physician cannot handle all the sick cases. A young doctor, Henry Wilcoxon, who has been convicted of a "mercy death" as called in to help. Three nurses are also sent to the prison to aid with the inoculation of the inmates. One of these girls, Marian Marsh, falls in love with Wilcoxon. She eventually is able to help him clear his name of the charges which sent him to prison, and he is freed.

"Prison Nurse" was directed by James Cruze from a screen play by Carl Felton and Sidney Salkow, which was based on a novel by Louis Berg, a noted doctor.

"HAWAII CALLS"

The semi-tropical beauty of the Hawaiian Islands forms the background for "Hawaii Calls," Bobby Breen's latest musical starring vehicle, which comes here Sunday and Monday, June 12 and 13.

With the exception of scenes taking place aboard a passenger liner on its trip from San Francisco to Honolulu, all the action of this colorful screen play transpires amid the luxuriant settings of "The Islands." Many of the best known spots of this great Pacific Empire are seen in the film, including the famous Waikiki Beach, Honolulu's beautiful resort hotels, its picturesque orient-al quarter and the fern-covered areas of the island of Oahu. The latter are dominated by the Paia, towering precipice 600 feet in height, over which the ancient King Kamehameha once drove an opposing army to destruction on the rocks below.

Late in the story of this action-filled picture the island of Maui is the scene of a banquet or native feast, with garlanded throngs of merry-makers partaking of a banquet, consisting of a pig roasted underground, sweet potatoes and an assortment of purely Hawaiian delicacies, while dancing girls underline to the music of native musicians.

The cast of "Hawaii Calls" is exceptional including as it does such popular screen figures as Ned Sparks, Helen S. Cobb, Gloria Holden, Warren Hull and Juana Quigley. Mamo Gari, Pua Lani, Aggie Auld, Birdie De Bolt and other native Hawaiians are also seen in important roles.

During the progress of the screen play the silver voiced Bobby Breen sings half a dozen tuneful songs including two written especially for the picture by Harry Owens whose "Sweet Lullaby" is one of the popular hits of the day. There are "Hawaii Calls," theme song of the picture, and "Down Where the Trade Winds Blow," Raymond Paige and his orchestra take a prominent part in the picture.

"THE COUNTY CHAIRMAN"

Starring Will Rogers in the title role, 20th Century-Fox's screen adaptation of George Ade's unforgettable humorous classic, "The County Chairman," opens Wednesday, June 15, at the Fenniman-Allen theatre. Kent Taylor, Evelyn Venable, Mickey Rooney, Louise Dresser, Berton Churchill and Stepin Fetchit are featured.

The Farmers' Corner

By E. I. BESEMER, County Agent

C. B. Dibble, insect control specialist, Michigan State college, advises that early spraying or dusting of tomatoes for the green tomato hornworms is advisable. The small worms are quickly killed by a small amount of poison while even comparatively large amounts of poison have little effect on the large worms.

As a spray use 1 pound calcium arsenate, 25 gallons water, 1 gallon skim milk—the skim milk acts as a sticker. For dusting use 1 pound calcium arsenate and 19 pounds gypsum.

The Federal Crop Insurance corporation will insure the 1938 crop of wheat. Any farmer growing an acreage of wheat may insure for 50 or 75 per cent of his normal average yield. The premiums are paid in wheat or its cash equivalent. Wheat is stored in designated warehouses to be held to pay losses incurred. The wheat will be insured against losses from unavoidable causes. Wheat farmers will soon receive a letter concerning wheat insurance and a county representative of the Federal Crop Insurance corporation will call.

Two 4-H Community gardens have been started, one at Taylor Center school, and the other at Stark school. There is ground available at both places for more boys and girls. If you want a garden at one of these places write the 4-H Club Agent at Dearborn.

Seek Potato Agreement

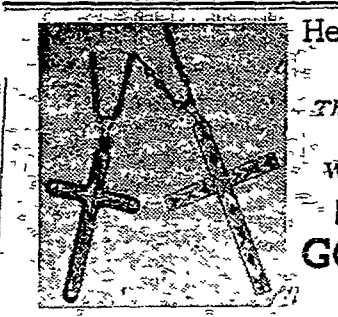

Three public hearings on a proposed potato marketing agreement are to be held in Michigan this month at Gaylord, Monday, June 13; Stanton, Wednesday, June 15, and at Lapeer, Friday, June 17. The proposed agreement is designed to regulate shipments interstate and to prohibit shipment to those falling below a No. 2 grade or less than 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Producers recently met in Washington, D. C., and requested the Federal Division of marketing and marketing agreements of the A. A. A. to obtain an agreement which would be effective this year in controlling the marketing of the crop. Michigan would be one of the 17 late producing states involved in one agreement. Another would involve counties or entire states producing early or intermediate potato crops commercially.

To Survey Two Counties

Part of the land classification survey sponsored by the Michigan State College Institute of Conservation and the Soil section of the college is to be centered this summer over the 2,000,000 acres of Marquette and Dickinson counties. F. Schneider of the college soils department has set up headquarters at Grinn, Mich. He is to be joined by John Stone, senior soils student, Chardon, Ohio, and periodically by J. O. Veatch. Delta county was surveyed in similar fashion last summer. This land resource survey is to be used as a guide in improving use of the lands now in farms and in planning future development of the forest and outcrops for agriculture, forestry and recreation.

FATHER WILL ALWAYS BE WAITING

No matter what highways I travel—Sorrow and pain, I may bear, But whatever the store is in future Father, will always be there.

There will always be lamp-lighted windows, To brighten the highway of life, And whatever the prayer for the future There will always be strength for the strife.

For father will always be waiting To lend us a helping, strong hand When the dark clouds hang in the valley And the shadows darken the land —Grace Springer Miller 49-50p
