Money Flows Freely in Kentucky

News writers say that 306 millions of Federal funds are to be spent in the state of Kentucky for Federal projects. The man credited with getting this Federal "bag-on" is Senator Alben W. Barkley, majority leader of the Senate. The Roosevelt administration is exceedingly anxious for the re-election of Senator Barkley over his chief rival, Governor A. B. Chandler.

The whole prestige of the White House is said to depend upon the Senator's election. It does not take an intellectual giant to see the connection between this burning ambition of the White House for Barkley's re-election and the expenditure of this nearly one-third of a billion dollars.

Does anybody have the faintest idea that Governor Chandler can't beat one-third of a billion dollars spent in his state? For the morose of such a proceeding we refer you to your own conscience.

The Problem of Youth in 1938

In these strange times of 1938, most of us realize that youth is having a time as the old folks. If you want to know just how trying a time youth is having, look over some facts and figures gathered by the American Youth Commission's report in the Time magazine. Here are some of those facts:

Half of our boys and girls drink.
Many of them are planning to get married on $15 a week.

Four out of five live with their parents—a sad commentary on the idea of living on $15 a week.

Of the 20,000,000 boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 24, over 3,000,000 are not employed. Many have searched as long as seven years for their first full-time job.

Right here in Northville none of us can do any finer thing than to see that our boys and girls do not lose hope in these troublesome times. Better days must surely be ahead.

How Civilized Are We?

As you look at it calmly, the two-minute prize fight in which Joe Louis pounded Max Schmeling into insensibility was a pretty gory affair.

How do you account for the fact that probably the vast majority of it all get a bit of excitement out of listening to the broadcast of a prize fight? Yet viewed judiciously, the whole business is in some ways a return to our primitive nature. One has only to read the reports of the sports writers to realize how barbaric a fight may become. For example, one of them speaks of the fight thus:

"Schmeling's disintegration, from a superb physical specimen to a helpless, hopeless, bleeding object required just two minutes and four seconds."

There must be in us all a return to the jungle when we take pleasure in seeing a fine specimen of humanity pulverized into insensibility by one who can strike literally with the power of a battle axe. Or do most of us like to follow a fight because of the instinctive urge for combat which must lie deep within us all?

Certainly Wednesday night's bloody mess is something that even the most hardened sports followers would be glad to forget.

Class Divisions in the United States

President Roosevelt is undeniably still very popular in the United States. However, it seems most unfortunate that his overwhelming popularity is making a class division in our country, a most dangerous thing if allowed to continue.

Fortune magazine, which predicted Mr. Roosevelt's election in 1936 with an error of only one per cent, has just completed a very intensive survey on Roosevelt and Roosevelt ideas. Here are some startling figures. In general his policies are approved by 54% of our people and his personality by 80%. Yet Fortune goes on to quote this startling fact:

"Mr. Roosevelt's still tremendous majority is due entirely to his overwhelming popularity among the poor and the Negroes. He gets little better than an even break in the total votes of three other income groups—lower middle class, upper middle class, and prosperous—with the prosperous strongly opposed."

To many people it will seem most unfortunate that the standing of our President has to depend upon the raising of class lines among our people.

Wandering Thoughts

Only ten weeks to the primaries.

A safe and sane Fourth of July to you!

"Only a brainless egotist thinks his car must pass all others!"

We still say it: The Golden Rule is the only thing that will solve the problems of our country.

Supervisor W. A. Ely must know how to take care of his watch. It is said to have run a whole year without gaining or losing more than a minute.

More and more thousands of people are coming to Cass Benton park for outings. Does your family go there often enough for their soul's health?

The time we have all been expecting may have come. The boom on the stock market last week, added to other signs, indicates that better times may be only a few weeks away.

Summer days are beginning already to wane. We have passed the longest day. Don't delay too long that improvement you planned to make this summer. And see that Mother gets a vacation.

In the first three months of 1938, 3,664 people in New York City were refused automobile licenses because they could not read English. Here in Northville we have seen literally hundreds of drivers pay not the slightest attention to such things as "Stop," "Speed Limit 25 Miles," and such. Can it be that some of our drivers can't read English?

COMMENTS ON ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH

BALTIMORE
"Masterpiece of Distortion"
From The Sun (Dem.)

Mr. Roosevelt delivered himself of a rousing campaign speech on Friday night. In its subtle appeal to the emotional and unthinking, in its cloak of arrogant self-righteousness, in the garments of simple modesty, in its distortion of the news and attitudes of opponents, it was a masterpiece. Naming no names, he tore into Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., of General Motors with the kind of ferocity that delights the bulk of those who constitute the Rooseveltian army. You would not suppose, hearing Mr. Roosevelt, that a private employer had the right to renege when his business declines, precisely as Mr. Roosevelt has repeatedly promised to dismiss public employees when there was no work for them to do.

You would not suppose that Mr. Sloan individually and General Motors are taxed by Federal, State and local governments for relief. You would not suppose that there is a system of unemployment insurance designed to meet the fact that employers must sometimes dismiss employees whether depression occurs under Mr. Hoover or under Mr. Roosevelt.

BOSTON
"A Wake to Possibilities"
From The Herald (Rep.)

In brief, the President appears to realize that the long drawn-out conflicts which have marked his administration must cease at the nation is to succeed in the most important of all undertakings—the reemployment of a maximum number of people by private industry. He has made the most friendly gesture of his second term. If he and his administrators will now accommodate their acts and policies to his words, government, capital and labor can pull together in a united effort to restore prosperity and vindicate democracy. Leadership in such a cooperative movement, came only from the President. The address of last night is some evidence that he is awake to the possibilities.

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

One Year Ago

The Record, this week, is celebrating its 67th birthday—we think.

Northville's flying dentist, Dr. D. A. Brief, made his first airplane trip Wednesday as a full-fledged pilot. Miss Kathryn Marburger returned Saturday from Toledo with a silver loving cup first prize award in the ladies' riding event at the horse show.

A candle lighted altar flanked with palms and large baskets of lilies and Delphinium was the setting at six o'clock, June 30, for the wedding of marriage vows in the St. Paul's Lutheran church by Miss Edna M. Kreeger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Kreeger, and James A. Huff, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Huff, both of this village.

Ten Years Ago

Dr. H. H. Burkart, recently elected president of the Northville Rotary club, Monday noon assumed his new duties as executive of the organization.

The three Stinson planes entered in the Ford endurance race have reached Tulsa, Okla., with perfect scores to date. They stand in third, fifth and seventh places at present, but this is due to the fact that two other entries drew earlier starting places than did the Stinson planes.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Johnson of Sundsvall, Sweden, have arrived to spend the summer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Johnson. The parents of Mr. Johnson state that they had a delightful trip across the ocean. They are highly pleased with Northville and their long anticipated visit to America is just as pleasant as they thought it was going to be.

Dr. E. B. Cavell, local veterinarian, was highly honored last Thursday, when the Michigan State Veterinary association, which held its annual meeting at Lansing, elected him second vice-president.

Fifteen Years Ago

Lyle Lovell and Milton Schnute are members of the Buchanan party to Alaska.

There were just eight persons in attendance at the annual school meeting held at the high school auditorium Monday evening—one woman and seven men.

The teachers for the village school for the coming year have all been secured and there will but two new ones—physical director and supervisor of music and art: Superintendent, A. J. Herfich; principal, Mrs. Roy Larkins; language, Miss Dorothy Whipple; history, Miss Frances Yerkes; English, Miss Althea Yerkes; physical director, Alton Miller; science, D. M. Winn; music, Irene Olson; commerce, Miss E. Lyle Moore; eighth grade, Mrs. B. J. Holcomb; seventh grade, Mrs. Ida Cooke; sixth grade, Mrs. K. H. Babbit; fifth grade, Mrs. A. Zimmerman; fourth grade, Miss Dorothy Dublar; third grade, Miss Hazel Parmelee.

DAIRY HERDS MAKE RECORD
Dairy herd improvement associations in Michigan now number 74, largest number ever on record in the State. New associations include Washburn, Houghton, Sanilac No. 3 and Kalamazoo No. 2. Reports of the activities of the associations compiled by E. C. Scheidehelm, extension dairyman at Michigan State college, indicate farmers are increasingly anxious that their herds earn their keep. With one dollar in three of farm income in the State coming from milk paid, it is important that these dollars be part profit.

What are these associations doing? In April alone members reported they removed 537 head from their herds. Of these 134 were sold for dairy purposes but the remaining 403 found 46 per cent sent to slaughter because they weren't earning their keep.

Udder trouble and Bang's disease accounted for many of the others sold out of herds.

More dairymen than usual pastured rye this spring. They found it cut feed costs. "Of flavor" difficulties apparently were not present when the cows were taken out of the rye fields a sufficient length of time before milking.

Two more trends in the dairy industry in the state are found in the association reports. Building of bull pens is one activity to promote safety and permit keeping valuable bulls that seem to have too much spirit and aggressiveness. Rather than send these bulls to the block, dairymen are building safe pens. Low seed cost for Sudan grass also is leading many additional dairymen to plan more efficient midsummer pasture.

The fruit growers are advised to apply the first spray for the cherry fruit fly immediately.

Mrs. Fred Foss spent the week end at Camp Custer with her son, Paul.

Andrew Gerard, formerly of this place is now a U. S. soldier of the 3rd C. P. O. D. Battalion, 1st Provisional Regiment, Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga.

George Thomas and Arthur Wheeler, Northville, are listed among the men who left Plymouth for Camp Custer last Saturday.

C. D. Kilgour, lately of the Gorton store here, is now a member of the 124th Infantry band, at Camp Wheeler, Ga.

An air-leak in the pipes leading from the springs to the reservoir was the cause of the low reservoir. Supt. Huff has been searching for the trouble for some little time but it was a big task to discover the trouble along a mile of pipe. George Briggs of Detroit, and Miss Nellie Gibson of Northville were married in Detroit, Thursday, June 25.

Charles Blackburn and family have moved into their new home on Dunlap street.

may be made by using 25 pounds mill feed or bran with middlings, 3 bushels sawdust, 2 quarts 4 pound test or 1 quart 8 pound test sodium arsenite in 5 to 10 gallons of water. Bait should be moist but not drippy wet.

VEGETABLE MEET OPENS

Almost anyone who grows or has any liking for vegetables can find a suitable portion of the program of the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Vegetable Growers of America when they convene Aug. 29 for a four-day program in and near Detroit. Michigan has an enviable share in the production of the nation's annual billion dollar vegetable crop.

H. A. Berg, extension specialist in farm management at Michigan State college, points out that the state now is first in potato acreage, peapods, spearmint, and cucumbers for pickles. It is second in celery, late cauliflower, late market cucumbers and late onions.

Educational movies, speakers nationally known, competitions for judging vegetables by junior gardeners, inspection of an 850 acre seed breeding station at Rochester. These are events that will be mixed in with tours of Detroit's vegetable marketing facilities and with entertainment ranging from banquet and dance to a moonlight ride on the Detroit River.

Cooperating in plans to entertain Michigan vegetable growers, junior vegetable growers, and visitors from out of state are A. G. Kettunen, state fair club leader, and H. I. Seaton, extension specialist in horticulture at the college.

County agricultural agents on committees for the event include William Murphy, Mt. Clemens; K. D. Bailey, Pontiac, and E. I. Besemer, Dearborn.

Rose chafers seem to be causing considerable trouble. A spray of calcium arsenate with a small amount of molasses added may help some. Brushing them off into a pail of water to which a cupful of kerosene has been added is the most sure way. This has to be done several days in succession.

The stalk borer that gets into tomato plants, flower stalks, and all plants with hollow or pithy stems should be dug out and killed. There is no satisfactory spray for them. Borers in squash and pumpkin vines should be dug out and then dirt mounded over the injured stalk or vine.

Farmer's Day at Michigan State college will be held July 29.

For the Colorado (striped) Potato Beetle use a spray of 5 pounds calcium arsenate to fifty gallons water or a dust of one pound calcium arsenate to nineteen pounds of lime.

For the striped cucumber beetle on melons and cucumbers use 1 pound calcium arsenate and nineteen pounds agricultural gypsum.

The Annual Michigan Poultry Tour will be July 7 and 8. The tour will leave the Michigan State college poultry plant July 7 and be at the Saline Valley Farms Inc., for their first stop at 9:30 a. m. Things to see here are one and two-story laying houses, permanent multiple unit brooder houses, Jamesway incubators, 30,000 hatching capacity, 3,000 breeders and 1,000 young chicks.

Every procession must end.

AN ELECTRIC RANGE GIVES YOU

6 things more..

look for this extra value!

Women say, "There are six definite advantages in my electric range:

"(1) CLEANLINESS—My electric range cooks with pure heat from a glowing wire—heat as clean as sunlight. My kitchen walls and curtains stay fresh for a much longer period of time, with less frequent redecorating, and cooking utensils remain bright and shiny after long use.

"(2) COMFORTABLE COOKING—My electric range will not raise the kitchen temperature even one degree, no matter how warm the weather. It is a boon during the hot summer months.

"(3) BETTER FLAVOR—Electric cooking has a deliciously different flavor—a natural flavor in foods. Meats and vegetables cook to melting tenderness in their own juices.

"(4) WATERLESS COOKING—The waterless cooking method seals in precious minerals and important food values. No longer need I boil vegetables in large quantities of water, and then pour this flavor-laden and mineral-laden water down the sink, after the cooking is finished. I do not waste the very things I pay for.

"(5) MORE LEISURE—My electric range is time-saving—it gives me extra hours of freedom away from the kitchen. I can put an entire meal in the oven and go out for the afternoon. When I come home my dinner is waiting, perfectly cooked—piping hot and ready for the table.

"(6) MODERN COOKING—This modern cooking method is fast, simple, safe—and convenient. I snap the switch and start to cook. Thanks to the accurate oven heat control, I can achieve the same perfect baking results time after time, without guesswork."

Stop in at your dealer's and have him show you these superior features—and many others—of the new 1938-model electric ranges. He will be glad to answer your questions and explain in detail the advantages of electric cooking.

See the new electric ranges on display at department stores, electrical dealers or at your Detroit Edison office.

Efficient Seeing

Devoted to Eye Welfare for Everyone

SEEING ISN'T BELIEVING

You've seen enough "optical illusions" to know perfectly well that you can't believe all you see. You know that lots of what you see is corrected by your mind before it is used. Look in the sky as an airplane flies by. If banks to make a turn, for the moment, your eyes cannot tell if the plane is coming or going; if it's on its back or right side up. Look in a mirror — you do not see yourself, but a right and left reversal of your image. You lift your right hand, but the image lifts its left hand. It is your mind that makes the proper allowances and interprets this reversal so you can make use of the mirrored image. Your mind may become so habituated to interpreting "distorted" images that it is troubled and upset when it confronts a true image and has to be re-adjusted. We sometimes find this happening when we correct visual distortions of long standing.

MOTHERS OF SCOUTS

Two mothers of Scouts pinned the Eagle badge over the hearts of their khaki-clad sons at the Court of Honor. And then both stalwart sons stooped and kissed the mothers who had spurred them on to this high honor.

A murmur of pulsating sympathy passed through the audience for each knew that back of every good Scout is a good mother. One of these mothers had been left with four fatherless little boys and knew well the price one must pay to do double duty.

In the audience sat another little mother who proudly watched her three younger boys salute as they answered "Eagle Scout" and made their way to the front where awards were given them for earned achievements. These boys too had lost their father in early childhood and had been provided for by the brave mother. Scout ideals have helped this mother beyond measure in steering their courses through the uncertain shoals of growing boyhood.

Those who listened to the Scout oath ring from the voices of these many mothers. "Upon my honor I will do my duty to God and to my country and to obey the Scout law, to help other people at all times and keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight." Those who heard this oath repeated were impressed with its influence upon those boys.

Citizen in the making! Better citizens for having been trained to "pledge allegiance to my flag."

Every mother felt a thrill of pride as she leaned forward to see her own lad in his khaki uniform. Yet, with that pride there was a note of fear. Khaki uniforms suggest soldiers and soldiers mean war. What mother does not shudder at the thought that some day that fine boy of hers may be fodder for cruel guns!

To see her boy grow to manhood clean, strong and honest is every mother's purpose — her fealty great purpose. It is not easy especially in these days. It is not easy to know what to give and what to deny. The most earnest mother may cry out in her defeated purpose "My very love trips up my wisdom."

Boys need sterner discipline than a mother's tender care — and this the Boy Scout movement provides. Boys learn to give and take, to become adjusted to other boys and thus to the world in which they will soon be actors. Mothers are grateful to the men who love boys enough to take time from their busy life to lead the Scouts in wholesome activities.

SOME MORE SALADS

Cabbage Pineapple Salad
3 cups shredded cabbage
1 cup diced marshmallows
1 cup diced pineapple
Few grains salt
Mayonnaise

Combine cabbage, pineapple, marshmallows and salt. Moisten with mayonnaise and mix lightly with two forks. Serve at once on bed of lettuce. Serves eight.

Prune and Cheese Salad
1½ cups cooked prunes
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ tablespoons sugar
1/3 cup pecans, chopped
3 to 4 oz soft American cheese
1/2 cup whipping cream
Salt, paprika

Cream the cheese and fold into whipped cream. Add salt and paprika to taste if cheese is not highly flavored. Seed prunes and put through a strainer, add lemon juice and sugar. Line individual paper muffin cups with cheese about one-fourth inch thick and fill the center with the prune mixture. Place paper cups in freezing tray of mechanical refrigerator and freeze. When frozen tear off the paper cups leaving the frozen cheese cup and serve on bed of lettuce, garnished with mayonnaise. The prune mixture, being rather rich, will not freeze hard, but the cheese will, and will form a cup which will hold its shape nicely.

Novel Meat Loaf
2 pounds ground beef, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 onion chopped finely, ½ teaspoon Ben Hur pepper, ¼ cup milk. When mixed put on a sheet of waxed paper and pat out to an oblong about 8 inches by 12 inches and 1/3 inch thick.

OBITUARY

MRS. THOMAS H. CONWAY

By C. A. Dolph
Mrs. Thomas H. Conway whose death was announced last week was quite unknown to the general run of Northville folk. A bit of history therefore, may not be amiss.

A Mrs. Angie Smith Hueston, she came from the farm home of her father Asa B. Smith, to help in running the Hueston pharmacy. As she was widely known, her assistance aided in developing trade. She was active in social affairs, always had a good time and obtained the same result for her guests.

As Mrs. George W. Fowler, she lived in Detroit and used her social talents to best advantage. She accompanied Mr. Fowler in his many journeys, over the country as a member of the past potentate of Modern Temple and in his varied political activities.

As Mrs. Thomas H. Conway, she was mistress of a fine Chicago boulevard home in Detroit and entertained freely and in excellent taste. Mrs. Conway was born on the Asa Smith farm on the Seven Mile road, east of town and attended the Northville school in the academic department in 1875-76.

She was very much like her father in her views of life, in her keen business ability and her generally care-free attitude. She could see far and decide quickly and her choices were correct in a large number of cases.

A year ago she decided to remodel her Dunlap street home and return to Northville. This would have occurred if disease had not struck its fatal blow. Mrs. Conway's death ends the Asa Smith line and for the first time since the old farm was taken from the government by her grandfather the place will pass to other hands.

Numerous instances of Mrs. Conway's thoughtfulness in cases of illness, distress and when friends lost members of their family are available to those who were associated with Mrs. Conway.

How Glaciers Do It
A party of American tourists in a bus were being driven among the mountains of Switzerland. "Say, where did those large rocks come from?" asked the man next to the driver.

"But where are the glaciers?" was the next question.

"They're gone back to get more rocks," was the weary reply.—Hornet.

CLERK WHO KEPT POST 19 YEARS RETIREES TODAY

Mrs. Pearl Balch Honored at Dinner by Fellow Workers

Fifteen years in civil service plus four years served back in the days of William T. Hamlin bring the post office career of Mrs. Pearl E. Balch to an end as she retires today.

Mrs. Balch first took care of stamp and money order customers when Mr. Tinnham was postmaster and the post office was only third class. Then when the late F. S. Neal took over the postmaster's duties he built the sales up to a point where a second class rating was granted and civil service became the measuring stick for employees. Mrs. Balch came through the test in a commendable manner and with the exception of several weeks last year when sickness kept her out of the office, she has stood by this post through 19 years of service.

Honoring her service of many years standing members of the post office force held a dinner for Mrs. Balch Thursday evening at the home of D. J. Stark, assistant postmaster. A cameo brooch, a gift from her fellow associates, is a token of their esteem and was presented at the dinner table where covers were laid for the following: the honoree, Postmaster and Mrs. F. E. Van Atta, Mr. and Mrs. Stark, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Perrin and Catherine, Miss Marie Schöf, Mrs. Audrey Joki, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gorman, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wendt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Geraghy, Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schnute, Mrs. C. L. Blackburn, Harvey Gunzweiler, Albert Lowry, Miss Ruth Gillis and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lutsenberger.

The return of their pastor and his wife the Rev. and Mrs. Lord who have been appointed by the annual conference to care another year, was received by a demonstration of affection by those present. Regret at the loss of Mrs. W. W. Ruppel was expressed.

In the luncheon which followed the meeting the ladies, assisted by four daughters, Lillian, Marie, Louella, Dorothy, Sherrill, Jean, Cora, and Fern, shared a luncheon. The next gathering will be a summer picnic at the home of the president, Mrs. E. J. Cobb.

A program in the auditorium occupied the afternoon. The Rev. Mrs. Cora Penrell pastor of the church welcomed the groups urging a closer neighborhood among sister churches. Mrs. Roberts as chairman, arranged the following program: Devotions Mrs. S. S. Closson of Plymouth; two duets Mrs. Updyke and Mrs. Hardesty; reading Mrs. H. H. Mersa, reading, Mrs. Ass. Golfers Played on Six-Hole Course Back in Meadowbrook Country Club's Early Days

The story of Meadowbrook's beginning and "how it grew" is told in Sunday's Detroit Free Press by E. L. Warner, Jr., a sports writer who often comes out to the village to check up on activities here. He was out not so long ago to cover the Meadowbrook golf tournament. The "Carnival" brought him out here in January.

Following is his account of Meadowbrook's early days: "Meadowbrook Country Club's first quarters were the old Cochran farmhouse on Base Line road, a mile east of Northville. The club

The Meadowbrook Country club will hold an invitation tournament similar to Red Bull's, Aug. 5-7. Ed Seymour is chairman of the week end event which will be limited to 35 teams.

purchase of 125 acres of the Fred J. Cochran farm soon after its original purchase, Feb. 16, 1918. Original membership fee was $100, with annual dues of $40.

"Willow Park, a one-time British Open champion, was employed to design the course and six holes were ready for play in July, 1917. These were the present second, third, seventh, tenth, eleventh and eighteenth holes. Members usually made the six-hole circuit twice and called it a day. The clubhouse was remodelled in 1917 and additions made from year to year as the club expanded.

The present spacious locker room was built in 1926 at a cost of $40,000, while the $130,000 stone and brick clubhouse with its broad veranda was constructed in 1928-29.

"In the early days some action was necessary to make the members patelize the dining room, so the fireproof passed a rule that no longer could golfers bring their lunches with them to munch in the club. The club was not directly accessible at first from Detroit, as Base Line road often was impassable. Members had to go to Northville via the Seven Mile road and then reach Meadowbrook from there.

Fifty-five additional acres were purchased from Cochran in 1920 and the 18-hole course was completed under the direction of Harry Cobb, a turf expert from Chicago. The lengthy twelfth hole was redesigned by Donald Ross in 1923 and several minor changes were made in 1936.

Securing enough water for the course was an important item. William H. Aston dean of the Detroit District, green champion, told of a well digger who was employed to dig a well. The digger refused to dig a well where water might be found so Aston and the late Dave B. Daffield, a four-time club president, picked a spot near the fourth green. The shaft was sunk and water struck the first time. Now four flowing wells feed the youth lake by the fourth green for a water reservoir.

Harry C. Buckley was the club's first president while others of the original 23 incorporators were L. A. Bablitt, Edmund S. Beard, Ralph N. Dyar, George B. Yerkes, Fred Wardell, Mason L. Brown, Garin Denby, Clement C. Yerkes, James M. Tenham, Ralph F. Hotten, Robert C. Yerkes, Nelson C. Schrader, H. R. Reid, S. P. Conkling, John D. Mackay, S. W. Curtis, H. M. Campbell, Jr., W. L. Livingston, Alfred C. Marshall and Cochran. Most of them were Detroit or Northville business men. None are now members of the club and many are deceased.

From 1923 to 1936, the club had only three presidents: T. Frank Ferguson, Duell and Frank E. Kenney each serving four years. "Dave Kay was the first professional. He served for a few months in 1916 and was followed by Andrew Robertson, Don Sutherland, Jack Arundel, Al Watrous, Stanley Hancock and Frank Spregel. Ernie Snare formerly Watrous' assistant at Oakland Hills, took over the post this spring. He is a son of Bert Snare the veteran Oakland Hills greenskeeper.

Watrous holds the course record of 65 while the competitive mark of 69 was made by Hancock in 1924. Vaughn Salter established the amateur record of 67 and Mrs. Stewart Hanley and Mrs. Harley Hughes snare the women's mark of 78 set in the 1933 State championship. "Bert Cox is serving his first season as club manager. Clifford J. Rugg, one of the best left-handed golfers in Detroit, is the president as well as the reigning club champion."

NORTHROP ACCEPTS ROTARIAN GAVEL

Floyd A. Northrop was installed as president of the Rotary club for the next six months at the regular Tuesday meeting at the Presbyterian church house. The gavel was handed over to him by Superintendent R. H. Amerman, who has been president for the past year.

For the first time in the history of the local Rotary, the club will have two presidents, Charles Schoultz will be the executive for the second half of the year.

In summarizing the work of the past year, Mr. Amerman praised the cooperation of all members. Every committee had functioned perfectly, he said. Outstanding achievements of the year were done for Crippled Children, sponsoring a pack of Cub Scouts and assistance of Northville young people in attending college through the student loan fund. The past year has seen the club reach its largest membership in its history, 30 being on the roll.

With the meeting of July 5, the new officers will take charge. Leslie G. Lee succeeds Fr. Joseph G. Schuler as secretary, while John Lutsenberger continues as treasurer. The program will be in charge of E. M. Bogart.

Fraser-Forshee Vows Repeated
in Detroit Home

The fireplace, banked with roses, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Forshee on Tyler, avenue, Detroit, was a lovely setting for the four o'clock wedding of their granddaughter, Miss Virginia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philo Forshee of Ann Arbor, and Merle Fraser, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Fraser of Northville.

The bride entered the living room on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was a floor length white dotted marquisette. She wore a halo of net which held in place a three-quarter length veil. Her cousin, Miss Eleanor Brown, was her only attendant. She wore a floor length gown of yellow blocked organza. They carried armfuls of white carnations, snapdragons, babies' breath and pastel delphinium.

Ray Wagner was Mr. Fraser's best man.

The Rev. Harry J. Lord, pastor of the Methodist church of which both Mr. and Mrs. Fraser are members, read the service.

Mrs. Forshee, mother of the bride, was gowned in navy blue lace and wore a shoulder corsage of dainty pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore an eyelid twin, enhanced by a shoulder corsage of white and yellow roses.

About 45 relatives were present from Ann Arbor, Belleville, Plymouth, Northville, Flint, Pontiac, Detroit and Dearborn.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Fraser was feted at a miscellaneous shower June 18, given at the home of Mrs. Fren Humm.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser will make their home on North Rogers street.

Miss Johnson Is Feted

Mrs. Alex Johnson was feted Saturday by a group of Detroit and Northville friends. The occasion was the celebration of her birthday anniversary.

A buffet supper was served to 12 guests at the Johnson home. The honoree was given a linen tablecloth and a birthday token, from the guests.

Record Completes Another 12-Months of Public Service

A poem from a reader brings home the point that The Record is a year older with this issue. It has been a good year. The paper has gone into more village homes than ever before. Too, more copies are being sold from Northville news counters than was the case this time last year.

So with one more candle on our cake, we enter another year which will mean 52 more issues that will record the doings of villagers and tell of the growth of Northville enterprises and undertakings, successes and failures.

Happy Birthday

YOUNG AND OLD MAKE UP CROWD AT FIRE SCENE

What all the excitement was about.

When the firement first arrived there was the colored fellow who had to be taken from the second story by ladder. He must have been saying, "Gee, you all bettin' hurry an' git me outa 'heah afore ah busts into flame! Dis am one 'black cloud what don't aim to but out wit' conflagration!"

Volunteer firemen were rushing about hauling hoses from trucks to hydrants, hampered and helped by spectators. Sparks from the fire zig-zagged skyward in a feeble effort to outshine the twinkling stars.

Windows in the building peered forth a thick black cloud of smoke, and they looked like dragons heads about to shoot out their long tongues of flame. In spite of its nearness to the fire, a streetlight in front of the building kept burning until the whole factory was a blazing outline of brick and empty window frames.

There were probably more persons watching the fire than there are in the village of Northville, and it would have been a fine place for some local politician to get in his own "freside chat." There were frequent remarks telling how the fire should be fought—as usually happens. And when the seven or eight streams of water were all playing on the fire, it looked something like some of the lighted fountains seen in parks.

People were saying, "It's about time the old wreck burned up. Wonder if it's gonna' burn up Butch's old place? Kinda like to see that long 'n' here. Say, I didn't know so-and-so and what's-her-name were gon' together. But that's them, ain't it?"

Lots of people were sitting on the embankment that leads up to the Pere Marquette railroad, and several hundred were standing along the tracks. "Sposin' a train should come along," said someone. People looked up and down the track and forgot about it. Those standing on the bridge that arches a roadway leading back of the tracks to the depot and gasoline tanks of Sinclair and Standard were the holders of ringside seats for a free-for-all. Two or three fellows wearing uniforms of an indoor baseball team started mixing it. There were rumphouse, rabbit punches, straight jabs, elbow smashes and general wrestling with no holds barred.

The whole crowd moved from one side of the roadway to the other. The fire was forgotten momentarily. One fellow in trying to swing at another cracked his thumb against the cement of the bridge. A tall fellow in the midst of the swinging fists lost his shirt. Another one came out with a good-sized cut under his eye.

Someone in the crowd said, "I guess Northville has had more big fires than Plymouth." They seemed to resent it. "Don't imagine they'll ever rebuild it," prophesied another. "With more wind from the North it'd probably have burned down half of Bealton," added an overvalued gent who looked as if he had just finished milking the cows.

Sitting on the bank a group of young persons were watching the fire. One of them remarked, "Let's go up to Walley Lake to the dance." "Naw," retorted a companion. "I'd rather stay here," said a girl. "This is free! Besides who's got any money?" They stayed.

The owners of the three houses nearest the fire were busily engaged in keeping their homes wet with their garden hoses. They didn't say much, but it was easy to see they were anxious. Some of them had been "updown" when the fire broke out. When they arrived home they were nervous. Entering the house they turned on all the lights, and they came outside and Honoring Mrs. Anna Dean, her daughters, the Misses Louise and June, and Howard Dean of Albion, Calif., 20 relatives and friends from Detroit, Farmington, Flint and Northville gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fry East Seven Mile road, Wednesday evening.

Miss Ione Palmer left Tuesday morning of this week to spend the summer at the home of her sister in Glen Ridge, N. Y. She is motoring through with Mr. and Mrs. George Cheekettes and son, Wilber of Farmington who will attend a wedding and visit with relatives in Westfield, N. J.

A mattress fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Earhart Randolph street, was quickly extinguished at 3 a. m. Saturday. Firemen were called to the scene by Mr. and Mrs. Earhart who were just returning home and had discovered the blaze. It was put out by the time the firemen arrived.

Following a custom established ten years ago the Rev. Dr. R. M. Traver, Baptist minister, will fill the pulpit of the First Baptist church, Royal Oak, for the first four Sundays in July. The pastor the Rev. Charles G. Dayton, changed his vacation in order to obtain Dr. Traver for the summer Sundays. The services are to be broadcast over station WEXL.

A group of workers from the Baptist church enjoyed an outing Friday afternoon and evening at the summer home of Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Traver at Watkins Lake. Boating, swimming were diversions following the picnic dinner. Attending from here were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Amerman, Edythe and David Amerman, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Winter, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Materson, Mrs. M. Nagy, Mrs. Jessie Matlberg, Miss Lottie Livingston and August Clark.

Another historical light has been thrown on the Center street picture, taken in the '80s and run two weeks ago in The Record. The frame building, sheltered by two horse chestnut trees, was the former home and millinery shop of Mrs. Saluda (Tid) Granville, mother of Mrs. B. W. Hewitt. Mrs. Granville used to buy her stock from Detroit, making the journey by horse and open wagon, on long before the days of the railroad. It was Mrs. Hewitt's grandfather, a man by the name of Gardner, who owned the Harry Clark farm and who gave the clock in the Methodist church tower to the village.

Flags Will Be Displayed Throughout the Village July 4; Royal Oak Student Writes Emblem's History

Flags will fly in the breeze July 4 in the village, as they will throughout the nation. Timely is the article, "Our Heritage—the Flag," written by Helen Cooper of the Royal Oak high school, who recently won first honor with her essay in the D. A. R. Michigan contest. She is now qualified to compete for the National D. A. R. prize of $100.

Mrs. D. P. Yeates, a member of the Sarah Ann Cochran chapter, has given The Record permission to reprint Helen's article.

Flag, noun—a piece of cloth, commonly bunting, usually attached by one edge to a staff, and used as an ensign, standard, or symbol of a nation, state, or city.

This, the dictionary's dry definition, sounds weak, futile, pitifully lifeless when compared to the visions in each of our minds at the word "flag." Many and varied are the pictures conjured up by this magic symbol: the "rocket's red glare and bombs bursting in air," the sweep of cavalry at the blast of a trumpet, the roar of crowds with column upon column marching in perfect order down the street, and to some the flag silhouetted beautifully against the blue of the sky, floating serenely a-top our nation's capital—the country at peace and the flag reflecting its serenity.

Great is the heritage of the people of America. Our gifts of "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," our rights of free speech and racial equality, all have been given us with no struggle on our part. As a symbol of our heritage, our flag stands before us in the full significance of each star, each stripe—the red, the blood of our forefathers shed in the struggle for liberty; the white, the purity for which we strive in our government; the blue, a piece of God's own heaven comes to make our flag holy. Great is our heritage, great our flag and deep our love and respect for it.

Far into the past goes the history of our present ensign. The early colonies when first rebellion from England, took as their symbol a flag of thirteen alternating red and white stripes, each representing a colony, with England's Union Jack in the upper position. Although it had not been ordered officially, this design was accepted and was flown above General George Washington's headquarters in 1775.

No one flag was adopted by the colonies; each had its own design until the first flag act was passed on June 14, 1777. At that time Congress resolved that "the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white on a blue field." Congress in its official act referred to it as representing a "new constellation"—significant of its meaning from the very first.

The traditional figure of Betsy Ross as the originator of our flag is no longer recognized by most historians; she now takes her place in the many unproved romantic legends of our country's past.

In 1785 at the entrance of Vermont and Kentucky into the union, our flag was enlarged to fifteen stripes and fifteen stars—it was this flag that so bravely flew over Fort Mifflin during the War of 1812, and so inspired Francis Scott Key that the "Star-Spangled Banner," our national anthem, was composed.

Proving too unwieldy as the nation grew to add a star and a stripe for each state, the original thirteen stripes were again adopted, with a star to be added for each new state. In 1816, by an order of President Monroe, our present flag was adopted, with forty-eight stars for our forty-eight states.

Out of our deep respect for the significance of our flag have grown many traditions concerning it. These traditions, designed to show our greatest respect to the flag, must at all times be adhered to. When the flag is to be displayed, it should be during the hours between sunrise and sunset—it should, always be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously. When flown at half mast, the flag is hoisted to the top before it is lowered to its position, and then again before it is lowered for the night. On Memorial Day, the flag is flown at half mast during the morning, and at full staff during the afternoon, symbolizing death and the living nation.

The flag of the United States is always given the place of honor at the top or in front of other flags displayed, unless they be of foreign countries—when custom demands that they be treated equally. In displaying the flag in any position whatsoever it must always be placed with the union uppermost and to the observer's left. As true respect forbids it, the flag is never used for drapery, walls, tables, chairs or cars or other vehicles—burning is used in its place.

When used to cover a casket, the flag should be placed so that the Union is at the head and over the left shoulder. It should not be lowered into the grave or allowed to touch the ground.

The flag of the United States is never dipped in salute to anyone.

When a flag has served its lifetime and is no longer a fit article to receive the homage it deserves, it should be destroyed in private, preferably by burning—the final act of reverence.

All of the many rules may be gathered under the one heading—"Respect for our Flag." Such feeling is reflected in Henry Holcomb

Bennett's poem, "The Flag Goes By," when he says:

Hats off!
Along the street there comes A blaze of bugles, a ruffle of drums;
And loyal hearts are beating high;
Hats off!
The flag is passing by!

OLD TIME FOURTH REVIVES MEMORIES

mumty's trotters and paces were on hand to make things interesting. The town took justifiable pride in its baseball team, called the "Circle N's." They really were a swell team, too, and had the following of just about the entire village populace.

It took a pretty good club to get the best of such a battery combination as Earl Stimpson, catcher, and Ray Johnson, pitcher, supported by fellows like Don Ball, "Lefty," "Cy" Stimpson, Reed Jackson, Doc Turner, Roy Cray and a number of other equally stellar players. A little later on, Jay, another of the illustrious Stimpson brothers, proved to be one of the team's most brilliant hurlers.

Oh, yes! We used to have a parade, too, on the Fourth. I cannot recall whether it occurred in the morning or afternoon. But it was something, and no fooling! It depicted the days of the early pioneers, enemy Redskins, cowboys, and on down through the progress of the current era, including the latest in horseless carriages!

To cap the climax, there were, of course, the fireworks! Rockets, roman candles, pinwheels, colored fire and sparklers, to say nothing of the terrifying explosives, such as salutes, bombs and big firecrackers. All this was augmented by the variety of ammunitions with which most of the youngsters were equipped, including torpedoes, cap guns, dynamite canes and the like. But the finish—the grand finale—of the whole day's affair was always the balloons! There would be many balloons during the day, but never such as the ones sent up at night, as the finish of everything. They were extra big ones, three times as big as any to be seen during the day. Maybe there would be six or eight sent up, one after another. And as I used to watch each dimly lit, tissue paper bag rise slowly and drift away into the night, I would "slowly wend my weary way" homeward, and until I, too, was wafted away, on the wings of sleep I'd follow in imagination the course of those enchanted orbs which I was thoroughly convinced would, take their place among the stars.

ABANDON 8 MILE ROAD ENTERPRISE

the north side. The paving of the West Eight Mile road west of Taft road will involve extending the south side. The land for the extension has been donated by property owners on that side of the road.

The job of paving the West Eight Mile road between Taft and Napier roads, has been let to the Thomas E. Currie company of Detroit. Mr. Norton said The Currie company submitted the lowest bid, he added, of all concerns bidding June 22, on the job with the State Highway Department. The State Highway Department, he said, will name a contractor to handle the entire construction of the pavement job, "probably next week." Construction on the paving will begin immediately after that, Mr. Norton indicated.

Paul Holland, another road commission official, said previously he expected actual construction to start on that portion of the Eight Mile road by the middle of July.

The abandonment of the project which would have continued the Eight Mile road through Northville came as a complete surprise. Detailed plans for the road have been drawn up by the road commission draftsmen, and Mr. Holland recently said that all that was holding up actual start of the work was a more or less technical delay in receiving final State and Federal approval. The road was to have been built as a cooperative Federal-State-County project, and that is the situation with regard to the paving of the road between Taft and Napier roads. Surveys had already been made through the village and households had been notified in cases where their homes would have interfered with the route of the road. There was considerable irritation on the part of a number of persons upon whose property the road would encroach.

Belle Covert Students Gather in Cass Benton Park for Annual Tribute to Teacher

pupils the teacher voiced her feelings:

My Garden of Yesteryears
Memory of it reaches into the past,
Back to youth with its loves and its dreams
When troubles which wandered along day by day,
Went unnoticed by youth in its teens.

May I tell you about the mystical aides
Of my garden of yesteryears?
Will you roam with me o'er the backwood path
Which youth's golden springtime endears?

There are many paths, o many paths
That I cherish in memories dreams.
But I reach out most often toward the ones—
Working back to the old school scenes.

There are flowers of various hues
and kind,
In this memory garden so dear,
When your smiling faces brought flowers to me
Of kindness and love and cheer.

As down the paths of sunlit hope
You skipped with its courage rare,
And oftentimes in my thoughts, I was with you
When you didn't know I was there.

For I loved you joy and I loved your smiles,
And somehow—I loved you too,
For you gave me the finest thing
you possessed
You gave me your friendship true.

But the road wasn't always smooth and sweet
There were sometimes heights to scale
There were problems great to be overcome
But our motto was "never fail."

And often you lifted the burden of care
Smoothed the pathways of sorrow or pain
And just as you've cheered many hearts on the way
Your life's journey has not been in vain.

God grant you peace, through each coming year
As the milestones pass, one by one,
And may you be filled with memories
dear
Of the loving deeds you have done.

My heart holds a treasured memory
dear
As I walk down the sunset aisles
And with the thoughts that wander along with me
Are guided with love's sweet smiles.

And in this heart there's a room
well filled
With gems both tried and true,
And your names are all written down within
On the leaflet reserved for you.

So my boys and girls of the yesteryears,
Are my boys and girls of today,
With a long-long path of loving thoughts
Reaching back o'er the sunlit way.

That's why I am happy and glad
today
That life's journey still closely entwines—
Our various paths as we meet to renew
My garden of memory chimes.

And we're glad in maturer years to meet,
May the brightness never grow dim in this garden of yesteryears for us
As our eyes scan the sunset rim.

And should the years passing quietly on
Our pathways widely part—
May the happiness you have given me
Shed its peace within your heart.

And when there's a parting of the ways
Down the dim lit shores of years
Let's be glad that thoughts that we've stored up
Are rich in memories dear.

For down through the years they have sweeter grown
Memories old, but still new
For we're living them over again
today.

Fishing Season Opens at Walled Lake; "Biting Is Good," Writes Columnist

By CHARLES E. HUTTON
WALLED LAKE—Fishing season at Walled Lake opened largely promptly at 12:01, Saturday morning, under favorable conditions, favorable as to weather, that is.

One could hear the "crack" of oarlocks and the "lapping" of water against fully manned rowboats, as they put out to some favored fishing spot, shortly after the stroke of twelve, midnight.

Only a few came in at daybreak, but instead their floating population was being steadily increased, until it seemed there would be but little room left for another it. It is estimated that at least 300 fishermen dotted every "biking" looking locale of the "lunny" lake. Saturday morning it has since been said that biting was good, and still is, due to exceptional weather. I wouldn't know. I just work here.

The last few days have definitely proved one thing. The abnormal summer population and activity of our village is entirely the result of the weather. The few warm days of last week brought about more life, so-called, herabouts, than we had seen this season.

But Saturday afternoon and since, has seen a return to normal, for the most part, with only a moderate amount of road traffic, and a sub-normal amount of resort activity. Business, herabouts which depends on the weather for a fair return on week end business has experienced an unusual setback thus far this season. It is a fact that every week end to date has turned cold or rainy.

One of the chief sources of news for this column is now idle, for the summer, and it seems a bit strange. No activity at the schoolhouse. That is, regular activity. The school is never really dormant. C. A. Hoffman, the superintendent, seems always to be on the job. As a matter of fact, it must take just about all his time to carry on a yearly program, as extensive and complete as the one in effect. I anticipate that before long, perhaps before the beginning of another school semester, we will be carrying the news of another important step in the development of Walled Lake Consolidated schools. If we do, it will to a large extent, be the result of the Mr. Hoffman's never ending efforts in its behalf.

Other than the actual physical development of the school, one of the important milestones in its administration has been the acquiring of the North Central Association rating. We know of other schools in larger communities nearby which have yet to attain this degree of educational perfection.

The best piece of news I've heard during the past week is in regards to the organization of the Grandmothers' club. This is to be a national organization which will have as its chief project the establishment and perpetuation of peace. I believe they will take up where their grandsons leave off and actually do something worthwhile toward such an end.

The Walled Lake Civic Welfare club is to stage something unusual in the way of entertainment on the evening of July 13. They have titled their affair a "Moonlight Festival" to be held at "Taylors-on-the-Lake." The event, in the form of a miniature, carnival, will feature a bathing beauty contest with prizes for the most beautiful beauties. There will be a slight charge for admittance to the grounds—the grounds being the spacious lawn at the residence of J. L. Taylor (on the lake).

Boy Way's gas and oil station was robbed for the second time this year, Monday night when thieves broke through a rear window and helped themselves to four storage batteries. It's getting so now that there are specialists, even in the fine art of stealing.

SELECT JOBS THAT ARE FUN, WHITE

ones walking hours, even part of one's leisure time, is given over to the work he undertakes, because of this money is not the sole compensation for toil—you must like your work, have fun doing it.

Admitting that all persons should not go to college, Mr. White said that all persons should go as far in school as is necessary to cultivate their talents and become useful citizens.

"If education isn't far has not developed in you an eager curiosity and has not freed you from the bug-a-boo of small souls (an evening at home) then it has been time mispent. Education is preparation definitely for service—service that is most satisfying to the individual and of greatest use to society. He continued.

In presenting the class to Superintendent R. H. Amerman, Principal G. V. Harrison, congratulated the members on their fine spirit of cooperation during the year. He also quoted a senior's attitude on leaving the school for life work. In doing this he read portions of an editorial written by Margaret Walker, editor of the Orange and Black. The diplomas were given by Mr. Amerman.

Preceding Mr. White's talk of the evening, Margaret Nagy and Marie Becker gave their valedictorian and salutatorian speeches. Doris Tewksbury played a piano solo; Jean Cole and Cecil Giles each sang two vocal numbers; Lucille Lapham played the processional and the recessional. The Rev. Harry J. Lord of the Methodist church spoke the invocation and the benediction.

Furniture Plant Walls Razed by Flames

—Courtesy Detroit News.

A member of the Detroit News staff taking an evening off to visit in Northville with Harper Britton went back on the job in true newspaperman's style Tuesday night when he found an $80,000 fire raging at the outskirts of the village. Borrowing a camera from M. C. Gurnish, he got a picture of the tragedy which leaves only the walls and window frames standing against the sky.

of Bealtown was without electricity Tuesday night and telephones in that section of the village could not be used Wednesday. Two or three telephone and light poles will have to be replaced the ones which became charred as the fire continued to burn.

John Johnson, a negro janitor and driver, who slept in the building, was taken from a second story window by a fireman's ladder after he had helped take out files and office equipment, the only articles which were salvaged.

The fire throws 20 employees out of work. The Marchanos have not been able to talk of plans for the future yet. "We're stunned. Nothing is saved. What will do, I don't know," said Mrs. Marchano Wednesday morning after a sleepless night.

Historical Background
By C. A. Dolph

The original building was built by the Granville Wood Pipe Organ company in 1884. In 1892, the old Globe Furniture company came into possession of the property and enlarged it into its present size. Refrigerators were made in this building and continued after the main factory of the Globe Furniture company across the Rouge was destroyed by fire April 30, 1899.

After the fire, orders for the church furniture and special work were made in the newer building. The fire of April made it impossible for the Globe company to go on and the real owner of it—the American Sealing company—refused to rebuild. After the receivership of the old Globe, new companies were formed to take over various parts of the remaining land and buildings.

The Globe Furniture company took the refrigerator factory, the American Shade Cloth company, the site of the Main plant and the American Bell and Foundry company, the
