FITZGERALD TO DRINK TEA IN VILLAGE

Feminine GOPs Plan Public
Social Event Tuesday for Ex-Governor

His stand on issues of labor, treasury deficits and general State administration policies will be laid over tea and sandwiches Tuesday afternoon when Ex-Governor Frank Fitzgerald attends a social afternoon given in his honor at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday, July 19, in the home of Mrs. Jean Cole, 310 Orchard drive.

Mr. Fitzgerald is leaving his home in Grand Lodge to tell the members of the Northville Women's Republican Club just what his attitude is in regard to important matters of State.

On hand to greet Mr. Fitzgerald at this time will be 84-year-old Mrs. Anna Ida Hendrix, who is one of the oldest women republican voters in Wayne county. It was she who posed for photographers with Fitzgerald two years ago at the time of the political rally.

Come 4:30 o'clock by the village tower clock and the doors of Mrs. Cole's home will be thrown open to all the women of Plymouth, South Lyon and Wayne, who want to hear from Fitzgerald himself.

Men Are Invited
The men of Northville are invited to the 4:30 o'clock session, too. It was announced Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Arthur Carlson, Dr. L. W. Snow, who plans to have his house banneted properly for the gala event, will be Fitzgerald's number one masculine supporter at the tea party.

It has been pointed out that one of the weak links in the republican ranks is the fact that the women are not so active as they should be. "We're hesitant to meet candidates and take part in politics in a man's way tea parties, where women may meet the candidate in their own setting, are designed to rally the feminine voters to the polls," comments one of the village club members.

Persons wanting transportation to the tea Tuesday afternoon are asked to contact Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Maxwell Austin or Mrs. Carlson.

ELECTRICAL STORM CAUSES SLIGHT LINE DAMAGE IN VILLAGE

"It wasn't a bad storm, as storms go," commented R. H. Steininger of the Detroit Edison company. Some 12 hours after lightning, thunder and a steady downpour marked one of the worst electrical storms of the season which raged between midnight and 1 a. m. Monday, July 12, Northville came through the torrent and accompanying claps of thunder better than did the Farmington and Wayne areas. Two meters, Mr. Steininger reports, were burned out at Farmington. Traffic had to be flagged near the viaduct of the Pere Marquette railroad on the Ann Arbor road where a meter was burned. One line was burned in Farmington. This was repeated several times at Wayne, where service was practically at a standstill all night.

Some sections of Northville were without service for a period of an hour or so. On the Taft road, lightning hit a tree, charring it and burning and shattering a light pole. There was a lot of fuse trouble and transformer fuses were blown, continued Mr. Steininger who says that such storms, accompanied by high winds, are the ones which really cause damage to the lines.

GUEST OF WOMEN

Frank D. Fitzgerald

Feminine republican forces of Northville will be hostesses at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, July 19, in the home of Mrs. Jean Cole to Ex-Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald, together with women voters from South Lyon, Plymouth and Wayne.

MRS. MONTGOMERY CLAIMED BY DEATH

To Hold Funeral Rites at 2 p. m. Saturday in Baptist Church

After a long illness Mrs. Earl Montgomery, one of Northville's outstanding women, died Wednesday, July 13, at her home on Thayer boulevard.

Mrs. Montgomery, nee Matilda Livingston, was born Jan. 18, 1895, in Bald Knob, Ark. In 1916 she came to Pontiac where she was married Aug. 6, 1926, to Earl Montgomery and their home has since been in Northville, where Mrs. Montgomery has taken a very active part in church and community life. An intelligent and winning personality, she had a wide circle of friends among both old and young.

Mrs. Montgomery was a member of the Northville Woman's club and a very active member of the Baptist church and in the P. T. A. Her special interest was the children's work and to her effort the Sunday School owes its outstanding organization. To the children of the village she gave her untiring effort to bring to them religious education and many a child owes his spiritual guidance to this capable woman. Her passing is a great loss to the children of the various churches.

Mrs. Montgomery leaves to mourn her untimely passing, her husband a daughter, Joan, aged 10 years; two sisters, Miss Lottie Livingston and Mrs. L. W. Fall; and two nieces, Barbara and Ruth Fall.

The remains will lie in state at the Casterline funeral home until the service Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Baptist church. The Rev. Dr. R. M. Traver will officiate. Interment will be in Rural Hill cemetery.

Training School's Objectives Told by Dr. T. G. Hegge

After spending on an average of only 1 1/2 years in the Wayne County Training school, the boys and girls who leave there go out into the world to become self-supporting. This is what Dr. T. G. Hegge, research and educational director at the school, told the Rotarians at their noon-day meeting Tuesday.

This remarkable showing is made despite the fact that 74 per cent of them have previously shown delinquent tendencies. After their training in the school the figure is reversed and 75 per cent go out to become good citizens. The school, he said, is in no sense a prison or reformatory, but, according to Dr. Hegge, is "all keyed for training."

To equip these boys and girls for actual life out in the world, a large number of vocations are taught ranging from printing to farming, for the boys and homemaking to laundry work for the girls.

Students are constantly going out to take their place in the world and although there are only 700 there at one time the school actually trains 1100 in the course of a year. Many of the boys and girls there are "problem cases" sent out from the Detroit schools. In spite of mental deficiencies these pupils are found to be capable of being trained in a vocation and thus prepared to fill responsible places in the world. During the average residence of only three years for each pupil, the school operates with great intensity and (Continued on page 8)

Curriculum Advances Stressed in Amerman's School Report

"The music department has been extended during the past year so that every child has had an opportunity to participate in some form of musical expression," asserted Principal G. V. Harrison, who spoke Monday evening at the annual school meeting to bring before the villagers a report of the year's activities.

Pupils Study Art

Report outlined by Superintendent R. H. Amerman before he set on his western motor trip, commenced the full art program which was undertaken this winter in the grade school, from the kindergarten to the sixth grade. The recreation room in the grade school was the setting at least once a month during the school year of the programs given by the pupils in each grade under teacher supervision.

Every room, Mr. Harrison pointed out had a class project, which ranged from seed planting by the first graders, to complete transportation units made by the upper classes. Trips, excursions and nature study hikes were taken in an effort to bring the children in contact with life situations. All this was done, with no slight being made in regard to the fundamental subjects of reading, writing and arithmetic.

Hewitt Is Principal

Turning from achievements of the past year to the plans for the coming school year, the addition of the grade school principal was announced. A contract has been given to Frank Hewitt, a graduate of the Michigan State Normal college, Ypsilanti. In addition to administrative duties, he will teach in the upper grades.

In the high school, a course in descriptive science, designed particularly for students in the junior and senior years who do not intend to go to college, will be added to the curriculum. This is a furthering of the extension made last year in the science department which offered the work to seventh, eighth and ninth grades, pushing biology study to the tenth grade and teaching physics and chemistry to the juniors and seniors.

High school students have also made a number of trips to industrial plants and scientific institutions during the school year.

The purchase of a moving picture projector has done much to supplement classroom work. We find that we have been able to get a number of films without charge. This machine also has a loud speaking system which enables us to make announcements in one room that carry across to other classrooms," continued Mr. Harrison, who said that it was the hope next year to enrich the courses for students who will not go to college.

Lengthen Class Periods

Longer class periods are to be used in the high school when school convenes in the fall. The purpose is to give students the advantages of supervised study from the teacher who makes the assignments. A course in sociology and business mathematics will be additions to the curriculum in the fall.

School Budget Is Checked

A question asked of Mr. Harrison by Mayor Arthur S. Nichols immediately after Mr. Amerman's report was given by proxy, indicated the way he would vote when the names of the trustees were brought before the district voters.

"Has the school board given you cooperation in carrying out this educational program and is the group supporting you in the plans you are making for the coming year?" queried Mr. Nichols.

Never have I worked with a school board which cooperated to the full extent this one has. It has made my year's work most enjoyable, responded Mr. Harrison.

Dinner To Honor Dr. H. H. Burkart, Village Ex-Mayor

A dinner Thursday, July 21, to be held at the Northville Riding and Hunt club by a number of Northville men will honor Dr. H. H. Burkart who will begin his duties Aug. 1 at the Atlanta, Ga., Dental college where he has been appointed to the staff.

Dr. Burkart will leave Northville late this month, after turning his practice over to Dr. Richard Kerr, a recent graduate of the University of Detroit.

2 VILLAGERS ASK SOLUTION OF PROBLEMS

Mrs. Carlson, Mr. Frid Question Board and
G. V. Harrison

Two parents, S. J. Frid and Mrs. Arthur C. Carlson took advantage of the crowded high school gymnasium Monday evening to air their pet school peeves before members of the board of education and 258 taxpayers of the district attending the annual meeting.

Mr. Frid voiced his opinion about the 11:15 a. m. lunch hour which is given to the grade school pupils. "Twelve o'clock is the lunch hour in most homes. And another thing I don't like is this business of making the children stand outside the building in the rain until someone gets around to letting them in," complained Mr. Frid.

"Our objective is to run the school and have the hours at the most convenient time for the greatest number of people. This lunch hour may be more convenient for you, but may be inconvenient for your neighbors and most of the people in the community. Again it may not be the thing to do is to let us know how many inconveniences so that we may fit the program to the majority," defended George Stalker, who presided at the meeting in the absence of President E. B. Cavell.

Mrs. Carlson's pet peeve concerns the school books and their destruction. "Books are expensive to replace. I want to know if something can't be done to stop this loss," she asked.

Mr. Harrison took the floor to say that the board was considering the installation of lockers for the high school. "This would do much to solve the problem, which we realize is serious. If lockers can't be installed for the next school year, our plan to have 35 students assigned to a home room where they will keep their books, will lessen, we believe the loss of books. A teacher can do more in this matter of supervision in a home room, than can a teacher in a study hall where there are 180 desks, used by some 500 students," he stated.

Mr. Stalker spoke in behalf of the board affirming the fact that the locker proposition is being studied. "We hope to buy lockers this fall. In fact we have bid now and we have hesitated in accepting them until we are sure that we have the money. We don't want to spend money on lockers that we may need to keep the school open," commented Mr. Stalker.

LOUIS STORE BEGINS REMOVAL SALE TODAY

Heralding their removal to the former Pensford store about Aug. 1, the Louis store has announced a removal sale for the remainder of July. The store is now located at 134 North Center street across from the post office.

The sale is intended to clear summer merchandise preparatory to moving in the new location the Louis store will carry more complete selections and will add new departments, according to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Egge, owners.

GOVERNMENT SEEKS SITE FOR BUILDING

Postmaster Fred Van Atta
Has Specifications for Property

Bids on a site for the new Federal building will be opened in the U. S. Post Office here Aug. 4, Postmaster Fred E. Van Atta announced this week.

Mr. Van Atta has posted on the post office bulletin board the Federal Government's specifications for the site. An advertisement further setting forth the required dimensions and other details will be published in The Record July 22 and July 29.

The government lists the approximate dimensions: "It must have for the new building a corner lot with 100 feet frontage and 175 feet depth or an interior lot with 125 feet frontage and 175 feet depth." The advertisement specifies that the site be "sold or donated" must be a "lot conveniently located."

Postmaster Van Atta, according to the Government announcement, "will supply prospective bidders with proposal blanks and a circular giving particulars as to the requirements and instructions for preparation of bids and data to accompany same."

A sum of $75,000 has been allocated for both site and building for the new post office. Bids for construction of the building will not be let until a site has been decided upon, according to officials of the U. S. Treasury Department procurement division. The site selecting procedure usually takes anywhere from two months to a year, but because Federal officials wish to be in all construction projects with the spending-lending-recovery program, it is generally believed that there is a good possibility that actual construction on the building will get underway by fall. The actual selection of the site is made by officials of the Post Office Department, but the Treasury procurement division makes a second check.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford and Mr. Bogart's only brother, Howard of Owosso, attended the rites in the Wyom church. The hymns that were sung and the text that was quoted were selected by Mr. Bogart, who wrote his own obituary.

FULL HORSE SHOW CLASSES EXPECTED

While large horse shows throughout the country, including the Atlantic City Horse show and the Devon Horse show have had between 13 and 20 per cent drops in the number of entries this year, the Northville Horse show committee has every reason to believe that their concern this August will not be over the number of entries, but over stabling facilities for the horsemens which will compete in the classes.

Another trophy was added to the list this week. It is to be given by Richmond Bepton of California, formerly of Northville, who recently gave a bell to be used in the natural theatre on the coast where the play, "Ramona" is presented.

Secretary R. Edmund Dowling stated Wednesday evening that two additional classes will be featured in the four-day show in August. The gaited division of the show, which is popular among the exhibitors, will be enlarged by the addition of a five-gaited performance class in which riding of a horse to do five (Continued on page 8)

Mrs. Trayoner Dies After Automobile Accident in June

An automobile accident June 5, in which Mrs. Joseph (Dora) Trayoner suffered a fractured leg and other injuries, resulted in the death of Mrs. Trayoner Saturday, July 9, at the Redford Receiving hospital where she had been treated since the time of the collision.

Last rites were held for her at 2 p. m. Tuesday, July 12, from the Casterline funeral home with the Rev. Harry J. Lord of the Methodist church, officiating. Burial was made in Rural Hill cemetery. Pallbearers were Dr. Paul Lovell, B. Bolin, Floyd A. Nafthrop, Ernest Smith, Robert Boyer and Gerald Taft.

For 46 years Mrs. Trayoner had lived on the farm home near Northville. Neighbors who were her associates in a social club, came to her often for advice and counsel.

She was born Dora Swartz in Toledo, O., and made her home there until she moved with her husband, the late Joseph Trayoner, to the Northville farm.

Surviving her are two sons of Northville, James and Albert. Two daughters Della and Delia, and one son, preceded her in death.

MARVIN BOGART, 98, DIES AT FARM HOME

Lloyd H. Green Legion Post
Conducts Military
Funeral Rites

Marvin Bogart, the last survivor of the Allen M. Harmon post of the G. A. R. (John W. Dolph, who transferred his membership to Los Angeles, Calif., is one of the charter members of the post) died at the home of his son, LaBue Bogart in Wyom, after an illness of three weeks' duration at 9:15 a. m. Sunday, July 10. Mr. Bogart, a second cousin of Mrs. Henry Ford had announced at 90 years March 17 and had kept his faculties clear and alert.

The Wyom Baptist church, which observed its 100th anniversary Sunday, July 3, was the setting for the funeral service at 3 p. m. Wednesday for this one who had been a member for the past 80 years. Military rites were the final tribute to this soldier of the blue and were conducted by the Lloyd H. Green post of the American Legion. Burial was made in Wyom.

Fought at Gettysburg

One of the last of the Michigan regiment, Mr. Bogart has told many a school child of the part he played in the early history of this country. He was stationed mid-way up Cemetery Hill in the battle of Gettysburg, after he had enlisted in 1862 with the twenty-fourth Michigan Infantry at Lincoln's first call for volunteers. Pickens' charging men, mowed down all but a few of Bogart's fellow soldiers in the Gettysburg battle. He became a sergeant and served for three years. Following his capture at Chickamauga, he was sent to Andersonville and Libby prisons.

Until last year Mr. Bogart in blue uniform was a familiar figure in the Memorial Day observances in the village, holding an honored position on the platform.

Lived in Farm Home
Marvin son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bogart was born March 17, 1848.

John Dolph Tells Exchange Members About Gettysburg

By C. A. DOLPH
The Exchange club Wednesday was an interesting meeting for the members.

John W. Dolph was present to give a short account of his trip to Gettysburg and of the days in Northville prior to 1904 when he was engineer for the old Globe Furniture company. The men gave him a ringing vote of thanks for his presence and past record.

Two programs for Aug. 2 and 27 are ready for the attention of the group and a special committee consisting of Exchangees Sparling, Church, Brief and Leary will present some facts and figures for Aug. 31.

The chapel will be open to visitors from 2 to 10 o'clock Saturday afternoon and from 2 to 8 p. m. Sunday, new member and heartily welcomed.

District Voters Send Ambler, Cavell, Snow Back to Trustee Posts

300 Villagers Attend Annual Meeting
Monday; Past Record of Board
Members Is Approved

Sherrill W. Ambler, Dr. E. B. Cavell and Dr. L. W. Snow were re-elected to their school board trustee posts Monday evening at the annual meeting attended by more than 300 villagers, 238 of whom were qualified voters of the district.

Not since C. N. Frid and the late Nelson C. Schrader were running for places on the school board six years ago, has excitement reached the pitch of did Monday evening, and even then, there were not 238 voters on hand to give expression in the past ten years, with the exception of the year Frid and Schrader

To correct a statement which appeared in one of the Detroit papers and received some publicity in Northville, the Board of Education announced that when Mrs. Ware resigned from the grade school faculty, she did so voluntarily.

ran only eight and 12 persons have been attending the annual meeting and often it was necessary to go out on the street to bring in enough persons to take over the tellers' duties.

Dr. Cavell, for nine years a trustee, polled 142 votes against Taft's 111. Ambler, a trustee for 10 years, took 195 votes against 63 polled by Mrs. Ware, who resigned three years ago from the grade school faculty. Dr. Snow, unopposed, was given a unanimous ballot of 258 by motion of Supervisor Willard Ely. Dr. Snow became a trustee by appointment last February, when Dr. J. H. Todd resigned. His appointment was only valid until the date of the school meeting.

LEE WILL DIRECT SUNRISE SINGERS

Plymouth and Northville residents weren't fooling this week when they told friends "it's you at the change of dawn Sunday."

A heavy turnout of local residents and others from the surrounding area, neighboring towns and Detroit are expected to attend Plymouth's first annual sunrise services to be conducted at 5 a. m. Sunday.

Although members of the Northville church choral were all invited to participate in the chorus which is to be directed by Leslie G. Lee, the following had attended rehearsals held before Wednesday evening: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Van Valkenburg, Mrs. Chandler Parker, Mrs. M. J. Koldyke, Mrs. Victor Lumley, Mrs. Leslie G. Lee, Miss Catherine Duguid, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bryan, Maurice and Cecil Giles.

The sunrise rites, which will commemorate Plymouth's 100th birthday as a Michigan settlement and the 105th anniversary of the establishment of the first church there, will be conducted on the east side of Whitcomb road in Plymouth's Riverside park.

The services will be featured by an address to be presented by Dr. Merton S. Rice of the Metropolitan Methodist church of Detroit. Dr. Rice is known widely throughout the nation and Michigan particularly for his ability to capture and hold the interest of an audience.

The program will be opened with a call to worship by trumpeters. The invocation will be delivered by Miss Susan Thurman of the United Student group.

The choir will sing "The Heavens are Telling of Heaven" assisted by the two choirs of Mrs. James Sessions Brown Campbell and Mr. Bryan of Northville.

Paul Zeller of Ann Arbor, will present a solo "The Living God" or "O Hara." A scripture reading will be given by (Continued on page 8)

TO GIVE PROGRAM
The Knights of Columbus will sponsor a program at 3 p. m. Sunday, July 17, at the Eastlawn sanatorium. Patrick Walker will be master of ceremonies. Artists to appear on the program will include Miss Betty McDevitt, Joseph Panucci, Bob Brnsley, Miss Helen Guavation, Joe E. Bar, Bob Walker, Miss Ethel Gressle, Miss Peggy Van Camp, Miss Peggy Ann Richards, Donald Vern Miss Shirley Tremblay and a fencing team from Detroit with Al Roney. The public is invited.

HUNDREDS OF BOYS ENTER EXCHANGE MODEL PLANE MEET

New evidence that model airplane building is America's fastest growing hobby comes from a study of results at the "National Championship Meet" held at Detroit July 6 to 9 under the sponsorship of the Exchange Club.

Contestants totaled approximately 700 in contrast to 331 last year, officials said. The group including competitors from this village is the largest number of entries ever recorded in a National meet.

Fred Casterline and Philip Baldwin, both placed in the meet with their gas models.

Although boys and young men predominated as in previous years, the number of girls, especially wives of model enthusiasts, increased materially. The senior division, for boys 16 to 21 was by far the most popular. The open class, for those 21 and over was next. Junior 13 to 16 were least numerous.

Age did not deter Milton Huguley, 16, Chicago. He amassed 205 points in the $200 cash award and the four-foot Exchange club or Detroit perpetual trophy. This was the first year the trophy has been placed in competition.

Interests displayed by Exchange clubs into great the United States this year also include an innovation for the money. More than 65 per cent of all American entrants came from cities in which Exchange clubs sponsor service to aviation as a principal objective. In many communities the service club sponsors elimination meets and coordinate efforts of local outsiders then sent the winner to the National Competition.

Exchange clubs which previously worked for new airports promoted use of air mail. I'd aviation dinners, and air-marked routes and highways, now give more attention to youth and aviation. They feel that model building leads to creation of air-mindedness and a source for potential civil, military, and private flyers. They also regard the creative and disciplinary values involved as primary value.

The view above will be one seen by visitors to the newly remodeled Schraders funeral chapel when it is formally opened for inspection Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. An invitation to the general public by Nelson Schrader appears on page 31 of this issue.

The picture shows the interior of the chapel room, with the family room beyond the door at the left of the picture. This view is from the music room which is at the rear of the chapel.

What Brought the New Postoffice

You all know the news that Northville will have a new $75,000 postoffice. What brings this splendid Federal building to us?

Well, it may be stretching a point but buying at home is actually what brings this fine addition to our village. "Stamp sales of nearly $21,000 last year," says Postmaster Fred Van Atta, "was the big factor in getting the allotment." "Of course," you will say, "one has to buy his stamps in Northville." This is true in general yet there are people who buy quantities of stamps outside of town. Yet if we were as faithful in buying the other necessities of life here as we are in buying our postage stamps, the growth of our village would be very encouraging.

A Cigarette or a Meal?

"If you had to choose between a cigarette and a meal, which would you take?" we asked a young friend of ours who seemed to be lost without his cigarettes.

"Well, frankly, I'll have to admit," he answered, "I would take the cigarettes. I just can't get along without them."

If cigarettes have such a hold on people as this, is one wise to contract such a drug habit?

Just Laugh at Them

We just read this: "Laughter is the chief gift of civilization."

All right, just apply this to the present. We are about to start a long political campaign. Times are pretty tense and there will be plenty of chance for argument and personal antagonism or at least strong difference of opinion. Not bitter argument or personal antagonism is the way to meet this kind of a situation. If you meet it with laughter you will save yourself and others much bitterness of spirit.

Someone has very wisely said: "Laughter is the right answer to many of our difficulties." And long before this was written Solomon, the wise man, said: "A merry heart doeth good like medicine."

You Will Help Pay

If you should take a ride of 50 miles in and around Detroit most any of these summer days you will be likely to pass hundreds upon hundreds of WPA workers or other government employees.

As you look at these men you will possibly think: "What a lot of money this would cost. It isn't going to cost me anything for the government is paying for it." Precisely, there is the place where you would be fooling yourself.

The plain fact is that the theory that the rich pay the cost of the government is a delusion and a snare. Here is something for all of us to think about.

"If everyone had to turn over to the government all income in excess of $5,000 a year, the sum collected would pay only one-fifth of the total cost of government—federal, state and local. In other words the great bulk of taxes are 'hidden taxes'—and they are paid principally by the person of small and moderate means. A loaf of bread, for example, is taxed 54 times."

How much longer are we poor folks going to stand the rising taxes? Some day, sooner or later, they will come out of us or our children or our children's children.

A Boy and His Hobby

It was the privilege of the writer last week to take his 14-year-old son to the national meet of model airplane makers, at the Wayne county airport. We saw a new side of life when watching these hundreds of boys and young men from all parts of the United States and even from other parts of the world.

As we stood on the broad prairie of the airport, seeing dozens of planes taking to the air—some driven by only rubber bands and others by a tiny gas motor—a lot of thoughts buzzed through our head. We thought how awed our fathers and our grandfathers would have been by seeing those figures flying like clouds overhead. As we watched dozens of these boys stretched out on the ground laboring with their tools and materials in putting the last finishing touches on their "snips," we realized that, like everything else in life that is successful, there had been a lot of hard work back of it.

If you could boil down into one word the meaning of all this assemblage of boys from far and near, it could probably be expressed in "purpose." That boy who came from Baltimore, the one from Washington, or that one from Montana, has for months been doing one big thing—getting ready for the national air meet. Hours or even days have been spent in his workshop cutting out the tiny parts and fitting them together, testing out the motor, trying out the balance and finally the trial flights out in the field where there were many discouraging "crack-ups." But at last the successful flight that brought the reward of the long grind of work.

Who knows but what under the grimy shirt of some young engineer-in-the-making may beat the heart of a genius like Edison or Ford who will some day give the world some startling discovery in aeronautics. Of course, few of them will become real geniuses but it is undoubtedly true that the vast majority of these boys will grow up to become better citizens because they have had this purpose in life during these plane-hobby days.

The busy boy with a hobby is usually the boy who is a credit to his parents and to his community.

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

One Year Ago

Placing first in the musical chairs event Sunday afternoon at Arrowhead farm where the third annual gymkhana and horse show was held, was Scott Cole. He won third honors in the jump, and second in the three-gated saddle show. Silver hoarde, the handsome horse that took so many blue ribbons at the Fair Horse Show last summer, again carried Kathryn Marburger to first place honors Sunday afternoon in the good hands class at Arrowhead.

The smallest assembly of school district taxpayers since years back met Monday evening in the high school to elect Dr. J. H. Todd to his trustee post on the Northville board of education.

Merrill S. Sweet, former village councilman, was named Monday evening to head the Lloyd H. Green post of the American Legion for the year.

Ten Years Ago

Workers have during the past few days completed the erection of the steel for the grandstand at the Northville Wayne County fair grounds, and in the next few days carpenters will begin the construction of the roof and seat platforms.

Members of the Northville Knights Templar Commandery, 39, covered themselves with glory during the greatest parade ever staged by the Knights during a national convocation held in Detroit this week. Over half a hundred plumed Knights from Northville were in line.

"Breaking all precedents, the Methodist church has invited the Rev. William Richards to return for his twenty year of service and the district superintendent, Dr. Martin will confer in the recommendation to the conference to be held this fall.

Twenty Years Ago

It is requested that all sweaters now in process of knitting for our own boys be turned in as soon as possible, as a number of outfits are to be immediately needed by several new soldiers. Among the consignment of completed work sent to headquarters in Detroit Tuesday morning were 62 sweaters, and five more were finished which belonged to the local unit.

Another name which goes on Northville's honor roll this week is that of Stanley Kestel of Co. 323, Reg. 8, who has been assigned to the naval training camp at Great Lakes, Ill.

Don Van Sickle and Carl Rorabacher are the latest Northville boys to be sent to Camp Custer. Louie Tolls, youngest son of Mrs. Charles Shipley of this place is one of the new soldiers at Camp Custer.

C. L. Dubuar and F. S. Harmon were elected to succeed themselves Monday night as trustees on the board of education.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Grinnell, on Cady street, was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday evening when their youngest daughter, Iva, was united in marriage to Emory Batton of Farmington.

Milo Johnson started on his annual vacation Wednesday by pitching hay on the Starkweather farm. A new cement walk is being laid across Main street on Wing street.

IN CANADA

By THEODORE WERLE

This is written in Canada while thinking of Czechoslovakia and Germany. The pleasure of a visit in Canada stands out so sharply in contrast to what is reported as taking place between the two European countries, that comment over our used phrase is irrepressible. What a blessing it is to have so fine a neighbor as ours on the North. At the border, the immigration officer struck the note of welcome when he said with a pleasing inflection after examining into my records for wishing to enter Canada: "Going to exchange a few ideas?" It happened that I had been invited to attend a meeting of a Canadian scientific body which was holding its annual meeting in London. The cordiality of the Canadian-American relationships was written all over the program of that meeting. One period was given over wholly to papers presented by members of a Michigan scientific group which had been invited to participate in the Canadian festivities. At the final dinner of the meeting the newly elected officers were presented. The retiring president of the Canadian society, introducing their new president said, "We feel that we have honored ourselves in choosing an American who has long lived and worked among us." There was hearty and sincere applause over the announcement. I felt that the perfect response and the complete unity were revealed when the American president of the Canadian society said with a broad smile, "I sincerely hope that I might find it possible to serve you as well as one of your countrymen." resident in Michigan, is serving that society as its president." The Canadians were delighted, and I felt deeply moved over the great good sense which marks the relationships of the two countries.

When leavened with friendship and understanding a border, such as divides Canadians from Americans, becomes a mark of respect, not of fear. It is an invitation to strive to excel, not in guns, but in good. It fosters wholesome competition, and it offers opportunities for gracious recognition of mutual worth. It is not without its problems, but the problems themselves serve to keep alive and keen that genius for amity which lies between these two great nations.

By the way, I learned from Dr. Clare Brink, head of the tuberculosis bureau of the Ministry of Health for Ontario, what the province is doing in coping with this major disease. They are ahead of us, since the last session of their legislature, in dealing with one phase of the problem in which Michigan suffers, exactly as they do. "It will be well for us to watch the working of their new laws with the thought of applying their principles here, if successful."

Needless to say, I enjoyed my Canadian visit. The courtesies extended me by the scientists, and by the Kiwanis club of London will not soon be forgotten.

Farmers' Day Set for Friday, July 29

Farmers and their families throughout the State are invited by the Michigan State college staff to attend the annual Farmers Day program on the campus and farms, Friday, July 29.

Opening at 9:30 a. m. is a program of demonstrating methods of preventing livestock losses. At 11 o'clock research programs and demonstrations are to be staged by the agricultural departments of soils, horticulture, entomology, crops, animal husbandry, engineering, dairy husbandry, forestry, poultry and by the home economics division.

To open the afternoon, there will be 5,000 who annually attend a pageant depicting advancement in farm and home conveniences. Floats are being set up through cooperation of the home economics and agricultural engineering department for the parade of conveniences in charge of Professor H. H. Musselman.

One speaker, one of the most entertaining and interesting available, is on the afternoon program. He is Dr. M. S. Rice, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist church, Detroit. His subject will be "The Satisfaction of Rural Living."

E. L. Anthony, dean of agriculture, is general chairman for the day, assisted by R. W. Tenny, short course director. Morning events are under the direction of George A. Brown, head of the animal husbandry department.

To start off Brown's section of the events, will be a competition between three commercial truckers who will be judged on rapidly and efficiency in loading a mixed load of cattle, sheep and swine. There is to be a demonstration of trucks unsafe for proper handling of livestock and a parade of livestock trailer conveniences able to haul the family to town while a trailer takes a load to market.

The Farmers' Corner

By E. L. BENSEN, County Agent

The Michigan State Fair is offering premiums for shear grain exhibits. The sheaf or bundle should not be less than 6 inches in diameter just below the bundle head, and snugly tied in at least three places. The premium book will soon be available and farmers should be preparing to make some entries.

Examine your fruit and shade trees for evidence of borers. The borers should be dug out with a sharp knife as soon as discovered.

Shrubs, flowers and vegetable plants are subject to attacks by plant fire. They are sucking insects and are killed by contact sprays containing nicotine sulphate, pyrethrum or derris. Several sprays may be necessary to control them.

WAYNE COUNTY BULL AVINS NATIONAL RECOGNITION

A Wayne county Guernsey breeder, Sam Borin of Detroit, has just won national recognition on his pure bred Guernsey bull, Eloise's Juno of Cowham Farm 199389.

This bull, having five daughters which have made creditable official records, has been entered in the advanced Register of the American Guernsey Cattle Club. Eloise's Juno of Cowham Farm will be known hereafter as an Advanced Register sire. Only Guernseys which meet high production requirements are eligible for entry. The five daughters which have completed official records are Juno's mausie of Cowham Farm 414553, Eloise Daphne of Cowham Farm 414947, Daphne Eloise of Cowham Farm 396723, Juno's Tressie of Cowham Farm 396725 and Juno's Sunlight of Cowham Farm 396718.

Walled Lake School District To Meet Monday To Consider WPA Application

WALLED LAKE—We mentioned a couple of weeks ago that there might be news of considerable importance concerning school activity, even though it is summer, and school is out. The school administration does not, however, discontinue activities with the students and faculty, at the close of the spring semester.

Judge for yourselves when I tell you that we are to have a special school election, Monday, July 18, to vote on the question of bonding the district for $50,000 and increasing the 15 mill limitation tax by 3 mills, spread over 5 years, for the purpose of covering the bond issue.

The school board, after much investigation and consideration, were convinced that in the best interests of the district, an application for a PWA grant should be made with the object in mind of additional construction and alteration of the Walled Lake school building. It was learned that for a limited time, Federal aid might be available for such a project.

We are to have championship out-board motorboat races here, this Saturday and Sunday. It is said that several prominent competitors will take part, and that speed records may be made, if the water is favorable. A full quota of thrills is likewise promised.

The Walled Lake Merchants baseball team will go afield, Saturday and Sunday, when it plays games on both afternoons at Lewiston, 185 miles to the north of us. The Lewiston team is a member of a tri-county league, thereabouts, and holds a reputation as a strong aggregation. The entire local club will attend, including Utley, Sledge and Wacker, pitchers; Helvey, Don Riley, Clare Riley, Tuttle and Hursh, of the infield and Welch, Tuttle, Joslin and Buffmeyer in the outfield. Utility men will be Ramsey, Harris and Meyers. Ralph Coe is the manager.

FRIENDS—This column has from time to time served as a medium of correspondence with an old friend, "Red" Masters. Time, the elusive, seems never to be considered of good intentions. Since the first reference to my friend, the second tenor in our erstwhile quartet of years ago, much has happened. Much, except that proposed "Red Masters Convention" . . . An-

FORMER CHURCH HOUSES SALEM'S VILLAGE SMITHY

Salem's village blacksmith, Burt Haywood, who has been shoeing horses for the farmers of this vicinity for 50 years, is one of the few remaining members of the trade.

He does have a portable outfit which he'll take from farm to farm to service special "customers," but in the main, he insists that the horses have to come to him.
Kendrick Kimball wrote a feature article for The Detroit News-Pictorial June 19. He writes of him: "Thirty-two miles from the Detroit City Hall at a dreamy Washtenaw County crossroads, Burt Haywood, one of Michigan's few remaining village blacksmiths, still labors over his anvil and forge."

For half a century, Haywood has shoeed the horses of Salem village and township in a ramshackle building used as a Baptist meeting house in the pioneer days. Born on the Ann Arbor trail near Plymouth, he learned the trade from his father who established the Salem smithy in the '50s.

Children still come to watch the 67-year-old smith hammer the shoes into shape, plunge them into a tub of water and fit them to the hooves of his four-legged "customers." The scene is romantic and reminiscent of old times. Sparks from the forge illuminate the dark interior of the building. Village graybeards swap yarns from benches and easychairs. Sparrows chirp from the eaves. Modernity's only invasion is the tooting of the automobile horns on Six Mile road.

Salem village, with a population of 250, was a prominent depot for the "underground railroad" during abolition days. Many of its citizens are descended from runaway slaves, who were hidden in barns in the vicinity, and eventually smuggled to Canada. After Lincoln's Proclamation of Emancipation they returned to the surroundings in which they found friendship and help.

Salem's best known resident is "Uncle John," 93. His horse, were slaves, and who fought with the Union forces in the Civil War. "Uncle John" is 93. His horse, Barney, 25 years old, appears regularly at the smithy with his venerable owner.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwan Johnson and son, Edwan Emerson are visiting Mr. Johnson's sister in Lansing.
Homer Coolman and family spent from Friday until Monday at Crook Lake.
Russell Ault and family, accompanied by William Barum and his family of Redford, spent Tuesday afternoon and evening fishing and picnicking at Round Lake.
Mr. and Mrs. Keam and two daughters of Redford have moved into the house lately occupied by George Rexin at the corner of Banks and Arlington roads.

Donald Bellingier, while playing about the Holycross home Saturday, fell and broke his arm. He was taken to Henry Ford hospital for X-ray, but returned home Sunday, and is resting comfortably.
Mrs. Albert Martin is suffering from severe bruises on her shoulder and head as a result of a fall received while alighting from a car Friday, while on her way to her work in Detroit.
Mrs. Frederick Woodlev, proprietress of the grocery store on Farmington road, is laid up with a leg infection.

Clinton Ault and family were guests of friends in Wayne Thursday evening.

DANGER LOOKS IN SUN-GOGGLES

We, in optometry, are carefully studying the effects of various colored lenses on the visual (yes and on the entire physical) system. We have not reached definite conclusions yet but we know enough never to put indiscriminate tints and colors in the lenses we prescribe for our patients. There may be real danger in the colors in those 10c and 25c goggles. For instance we are not certain but we have reason to think there is some connection between the progress of cataract (which no one wants) and the red and infra-red rays of light. Anyway, we don't ever use lenses that intensify or encourage the red part of the light. We don't know for certain yet, but we frequently prescribe red-free lenses for any patients who show any tendency toward a cataract condition.

Again these sun-goggles have lenses which are neither ground nor polished so that there are all sorts of freak lens powers and aberrations which must be careful to the wearer. Why put lenses full of errors in front of eyes already full of errors? So many people have made a fad of colored goggles that they ought to be warned if they are to use them at all. The lenses must either be ground with the patient's own prescription or ground and polished fit-overs supplied by a responsible optometrist.

I remember one man who was tired of not wearing glasses who found he could see better with his sun-goggles. It came out that he did need proper correction and that the supposedly innocent sun-goggles had part of that power in them. Was he surprised? Better have an authority pass on these dangerous playthings!

Peasant Costumes Are Worn at Monday Noon Ceremony of Wheeler-Verner Rites

The Northville Presbyterian church was the setting for high noon Monday, July 11, for the pledging of the marriage vows of Miss Jeanette Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Heberling of 1611 Maryland road, Grosse Pointe, and Joseph Francis Verner, son of Mrs. Christine Verner of 8083 Malvern avenue, Detroit.

The bride was given in marriage by her father at the altar, which was flanked by two large baskets of garden flowers, banked with palms. Mrs. G. V. Harrison played the wedding march and "On Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly." The Rev. Dr. Thomas W. Smith read the marriage service.

A peasant motif heightened the the bride, was maid-of-honor. She, too, wore a druidic frock. Hers was made of light blue and white batiste with a matching kerchief for her head.

A copy of the bridesmaids' dresses was the model for the periwinkle blue frock worn by the flower girl, Mary Nelson, granddaughter of Mrs. William Rawle Brown.

William Verner was his brother's best man. Ushers were George Donnelly and Richard Scheibert of Detroit. Mrs. Heberling wore a dress of navy and white print and a corsage of gardenias. The bridegroom's mother selected an orchid and white dress. Her corsage was like that of Mrs. Heberling.

Following the ceremony, a breakfast was held for 75 guests in the arrowhead farm gardens, hostessed by Mrs. William Rawle Brown. The bride was a protegee of the late Mr. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Verner left after the breakfast for a week's motor trip through Northern Michigan, after which they will be at home in Indian Village, Detroit. Mrs. Verner travelled in a navy and white outfit with red trim.

Mrs. Verner is a former student of the Sapha Arts Academy and Mr. Verner attended the University of Chicago.

Garden Club Members Meet at Silver Lake.

Twenty-three members of the Northville Branch of the National Farm and Garden Club left Northville Monday morning for Silver Lake to be the guests of Mrs. Roy Matheson. Weather cleared up and several members who had remembered to bring their swimming suits enjoyed the water.

Luncheon was served at one o'clock. It was delicious and plentiful as is always the case when the garden women meet. Several of Northville's best pools belong to this club. There were seven visitors.

After luncheon, Mrs. W. B. Walker, Jr. called a short business meeting. It was decided to have another potluck luncheon next month in Cass' Benton park and to invite members of the Plymouth group. Mrs. B. A. Hodge was chairman of the entertainment program. With her happy smiling answers, Mrs. Hodge made the questions pertaining to flowers very easy and also beneficial. A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Matheson for a delightful day beside Silver Lake. Mrs. Joseph Dalton resigned.

Boring-Angell Marriage Vows Fulfilled in Retirement.

Mrs. Lucille F. Angell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin S. Angell of Seven Mile road, and John J. Boring, son of Mr. Hattie Boring of Milford, were quietly married Tuesday, July 12, at the parsonage of the Rev. S. H. Bern, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Romulus.

According to the couple were the bride and sister-in-law and the bride Mr. and Mrs. Charles Angell. After a short trip to northern Michigan, they returned to the home of the bride's parents where they will make their home until their new home is completed.

Mr. Boring is an employee at the Ford Phoenix plant. Miss Angell has also been employed there for the past ten years.

Mrs. Biery Is Honored at Shower-Luncheon.

Mrs. Elden Biery was feted Saturday at a shower-luncheon in the home of Mrs. Harle, Winston. Mrs. Milton Partridge and Miss Bernice Clarke of Plymouth were co-hostesses with Mrs. Winston on this occasion.

The guest list included Mrs. Duncan Fry, Mrs. Edward Baughn, Mrs. Frances-Bacon, Miss Geraldine Ferguson, Mrs. Waverly Squires, Mrs. Ernest Haslam, Mrs. Maurice Tibble, Mrs. Bernice Rayser and Miss Estel Parmenter.

Included in the group were Mrs. Henry Grimsbaw, Mrs. Frank D. Hart, Mrs. David Martens, the Misses Helen and Florence Johnson, Jeanne Atchison, Kathryn Matburger, Ann Kolody and Virginia Anderson.

Merchants' Team Climbs to Second Place in League

The Northville Merchants came out of their slump and trimmed the Belleville team 5 to 0. Playing at Cass Benton Sunday, the Merchants shut out the Belleville swatters with Harold Rankow limiting the opposition to four hits.

Olsen Atchison again came taroquin with hitting honors, poling a homer, triple and single in four times at bat. Harry Geman, Jr., also put on the circuit. Ray Westphal was the fielding star of the day snuffing out several of the chances Belleville had to score by coming up with sparkling stops and good throws.

Travelling out Northville in second place. Next Sunday the local caters meet Ypsilanti.

DISTRICT VOTERS APPROVE MEN ON SCHOOL BOARD

any, speaking for Ambler, warned voters to inspect the records of the present board and let their findings govern their votes. "Ten years ago, the district was complaining about everything. Consequently, a member resigned and in his place a man came to the board who has given his time, money and experience to the school system. He has served during a period when everything was upside down. He borrowed money from private interests to keep the school going and pay the teachers. He has done his work well and has given his entire time to you and the children. He is entitled to the courtesy of reelection," concluded Mr. Murphy, who was active over the week end, along with others, in rallying the Ambler backers.

Mayor Arthur S. Nichols took the floor for Dr. Snow, giving the present board a boost by admitting pride in regard to the work the group has done. "I'm proud of the appointment of Dr. Snow to the vacancy caused by Dr. Todd's resignation. A former president of the village, Dr. Snow is aggressive and a credit to the community."

Ely Speaks for Ware

In nominating Mrs. Ware for a trustee post, Willard Ely asserted, "present conditions are unfavorable and a change is needed. Persons who want an efficient and aggressive woman on the board will vote for Mrs. Ware," he said.

Mrs. Herbert Martens presented the name of Mrs. Carl Bryan in opposition to Mr. Ambler. Mrs. Bryan withdrew her name, saying that she was aware of the honor such a position would bestow but she did not have time for it. R. H. Steinger's name was presented by Mrs. William A. Liebetreau, also in opposition to Ambler. Mr. Steinger also withdrew his name, pointing out that he was not qualified as a taxpayer for the position.

Ambler and Dr. Cavell's terms are for three years. Dr. Snow's is a two-year term.

George Stalker presided over the meeting in the absence of President Cavell who is at Mackinac Island. A full report of the school year will be published in the July 22 issue of The Record.

Tellers for the voting were John Lumberger, D. J. Stark, C. A. Dolph and Carl Bryan.

1889 in Wixom and had lived there all his life. Since he was 16 years of age he lived in the farm home where he built in 1936.

The oldest voter in Oakland county, Mr. Bogart was proud to tell his great-grandchildren that he cast his first ballot for Abraham Lincoln in the first succeeding year, he had never missed a chance to vote the republican ticket.

Love of country had been second only to love of his church, through storm and sunshine his pew in the Wixom Baptist church had been filled with scarcely an absence during his 80 years of membership.

"Clean as a hound's tooth" one describes this nonagenarian who was until two years ago as clear-eyed and steady of step as a man in the forties. Whether this sturdiness was due to the strain of French Huguenot blood that flowed in his veins or to the fact that during all his life Mr. Bogart had never tasted liquor nor used tobacco is a guess to his many friends.

Clan Honored Him

At any rate, his years had not dimmed the magnetism that called together the large number who honored the "patriarch" of the clan on his ninety-fifth birthday.

Two sons survive, Harry of Pontiac and LaRue of Wixom, and one daughter Mrs. Alta McQuire of Wixom. Eight grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren also survive.

Edward M. Bogart of this place is a grandson of the late Mr. Bogart.

The pallbearers at the military service were Claude Ely, Merrill Sweet, Dr. Harold Sparring, Dr. Wilbur Johnston, Milo Chapman and Floyd Howard. The color bearers and the color guard included Luther Lapham, Begole Stephens, Raymond Des Autels, and Mr. Wagoner. Robert McCluskey was the bugler. The firing squad was made up of George Simmons, Charles Schoultz, Martin Kaletsky, Charles F. Murphy, Harold Church, Chris Burgess, Ray Altenberg and Harry Bolton, all members of the Lloyd H. Green post.

Villagers Suffer Bone Fractures

A vacation this summer won't include all the thrills unless a broken bone has been sustained sometime during the season, according to the stories several villagers and visitors are telling these days.

Joe Gallo, playing in Cass Benton park on the Fourth of July, turned one hand spring too many — now he's wearing one of his arms in a sling to protect a broken forearm.

Mrs. Mae King of Kellogg, Idaho, vacationing in Detroit and Northville with her sisters, fell down the steps at the home of her sister in Detroit.

Surviving her, besides her cousins Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hoffman, are brothers, Dr. Rush Banks of Centralia, Wash. and Earl Banks of Novi. Mrs. H. Bogart of Pontiac, Mrs. Della Thurston of Farmington together with several nieces and nephews also survive.

DETROIT NEWS TENNIS TOURNAMENT STARTS JULY 23

Northville is to have its own competition to determine the winner and runner-up in this district in the sixth annual State-wide tennis tournament sponsored by the Detroit News. This tournament will start July 23 at the Cass Benton courts. Both men and women are eligible.

In order to have a tournament it will be necessary for Northville to have at least 32 entries in each division.

The winner and runner-up are awarded medals and then compete with players from all over the State of Michigan at Water Works park in Detroit on the week end of July 31.

Anyone wishing to enter can obtain an entry blank at the Men's Shop or from Alec Milne.

Legion Post Men To Hold Election, Tuesday, July 19

The annual election of the Lloyd H. Green Post No. 147 of the American Legion will be held Tuesday, July 19, at the Legion building.

Polls will open at 8 p. m. All members are requested to be present.

Following is the list of candidates who were nominated at the regular meeting held July 12: Commander, Arthur Carlson; Harold Church and Merrill Sweet, senior vice-commanders; George Simmons and Harold Church, junior vice-commanders; Ray Casteline, Tracy Ely and Harold Sparring, adjutant and finance officer; Lisle Alexander, sergeant at arms; Norton Greene, S. B. Stevens, Huron Blowers and Charles Freydl, historians; Ralph Walling and Chub Smith, chaplains; Carl Bryan and Huron Blowers, Americanism officers; Harold White, Charles Schoultz and Harry Bolton, welfare officers; Dr. W. H. Johnston and Claude Ely, house committee; Claude Ely, delegates and alternates to department convention; Mr. Carlson, Mr. Stevens, Mr. Church, Mr. Simmons, Mr. Freydl and Mr. Bolton.

Policemen Respond To Calls To Inspect "Suspicious" Weeds

Northville's police department has been busy the past seven days inspecting fields of weeds throughout the village at the request of tenants and property owners who have plants which resemble the Marihuana weed.

To date, no such plants have been found in this village, although it was believed for a time Tuesday that a specimen found by Samuel Sibley was Marihuana. Mr. Sibley, who is caring for Mrs. Thad J. Knapp's yard, found a plant growing wild, near which he found a small box, the description given for Marihuana. Inspection by the police department and Dr. R. M. Atchison, village health officer, proved it to be a harmless weed. Such was the description given also to a specimen from the yard of Mrs. Lewis Porter, 524 Carpenter street.

"Most of the plants we've inspected so far have been hemp. It is common for the Marihuana weed to have seven leaves (although they may have three, five, nine, eleven or thirteen) all growing from the same stem," G. W. Glasson of the police force reported upon returning from an inspection tour of backyards.

It was learned this week that 16 Federal birds are coming 900 acres near Pinckney where several fields of Marihuana have been found some of which were under cultivation.

Rev. Harry J. Lord Lays Cornerstone of Galloway Church

The cornerstone of the new Galloway Lake Methodist church near Pontiac was laid Sunday afternoon by the Rev. Harry J. Lord of the Northville Methodist church.

Mr. Lord organized the church four years ago last April, while he was pastor of a Pontiac Methodist church. Mrs. Lord and daughter, Laura Marie, were present at the cornerstone laying ceremony.

Another former pastorate, called Mr. Lord to assist in a special observance the first Sunday in July. He was asked to preach at the seventy-fifth anniversary service of the Rollin Center Methodist church.

OBITUARY

MISS CORA BANKS

Death claimed Miss Cora Banks at 2:15 p. m. Friday, July 8, in the Lakewood hospital where she had been ill for the past four weeks.

She was born in Novi, the daughter of Leander and Emmeline Banks. From childhood she was a member of the Baptist church, where she was active in all church enterprises. Following the death of her parents, she made her home with her cousins Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hoffman.

Services were held at Daniels chapel at 3 p. m. Sunday conducted by the Rev. Dr. Wilson of the Lakewood Methodist church. Burial services were held at the Casteline funeral home at 2 p. m. Monday, July 11. A former pastor of the Novi Baptist church, the Rev. H. A. Huey of Ann Arbor, had charge of this service. Burial was made in the family lot at Wixom.

Surviving her, besides her cousins Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hoffman, are brothers, Dr. Rush Banks of Centralia, Wash. and Earl Banks of Novi. Mrs. H. Bogart of Pontiac, Mrs. Della Thurston of Farmington together with several nieces and nephews also survive.

OKLAHOMA COUNTY FAIR
DATES SET FOR AUG. 10-13
 As July days slip from the calendar one by one, August and Oklahoma County fair time draws near. At Milford, where exhibition has been an annual event for 57 years, preparations are in full swing for the 1938 fair, scheduled for Aug. 10-13, inclusive.

"Bigger and Better," a well-worn phrase as applied to fairs is still the aim of the management, who can point with pride to the 1937 show, and are determined that 1938 will be all that and much more.

Complete change of platform entertainment every day of the fair, with 15 acts in all, will also include brilliant night shows Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, fireworks every night, music, horse racing, pony races, fancy horse show, the finest livestock exhibits in Michigan, horsepulling, stunts, novelties, commercial exhibits, farm implements and a midway.

No gate admission will be charged to the grounds.

Built in 1926;
 Remodeled in 1938;
 —That's Progress

The complete remodeling of the Schrader funeral chapel is a tribute to the progress of the building trade. The building was erected in 1926 and reflected the most advanced thinking of that time.

The decision to remodel the chapel is in keeping with Schrader's desire to offer the best service and facilities possible. It was stated by Nelson Schrader, a new La Salle-Meteor ambulance was added only recently to the firm's motor equipment.

This year marks the 32nd year of service by Schrader's in Northville. Nelson Schrader, Sr., founder of the chapel, held embalmer's license No. 170 in Michigan.

Explain Benefits of Schrader Chapel
 Air Conditioning

Air conditioning of the Schrader funeral chapel will insure ideal temperature for comfort at any time of the year, according to Ward Jones of the Ward Manufacturing company, manufacturers of the conditioning unit installed in the building.

Tests have already proven the effectiveness of the ventilation system in cooling the room. It is possible to reduce the normal temperature of the interior as much as eight degrees, more than necessary on the warmest days. In winter the same system will be used to warm the air and constantly refresh the interior with air drawn from the outside. Air conditioning permits all outside doors and windows to be kept closed, affording greater quiet throughout the interior.

Mr. Jones, who designed and supervised the installation of the unit, is a resident of Plymouth, although his firm is located in Detroit. The company has specialized in designing and building ventilating equipment for homes, stores and offices.

SCHRADER'S NEW ESTEY ORGAN

BEAUTY, COMFORT PLACED
 FOREMOST IN PLANNING
 SCHRADER FUNERAL CHAPEL

Air Conditioning, Lighting System, Interior
 Decoration Aim at Home
 Effect

The most modern materials and equipment have been combined with advanced knowledge of building methods to insure utmost comfort in the new Schrader funeral chapel, according to Thomas W. Moss, architect, who planned the remodeling. The comfort of friends and close relatives was held foremost in the original planning, and the best methods of obtaining this objective were adopted throughout, Mr. Moss declared.

The informal and "homey" interior decorations, the acoustical treatment, the lighting, and use of air conditioning are in line with this policy set by Schraders for the new chapel.

In the chapel, family room and display room, ceilings are covered with acoustical tile, permitting any one in any point of either room to hear clearly, and external street noises are shut out completely by other treatment. Lighting throughout the building is indirect, and in the chapel proper represents the most advanced type. Here the fixtures are part of the ceiling, affording a soft, diffused light for greater eye comfort.

The floor plan itself follows the general aim of achieving comfort and domesticity. Entering a large vestibule from the entrance on Center street, the visitor finds on his right a large family room ideally located and furnished for the comfort of patrons. Light walls and white trim, heavy floor carpeting in rich color and the furniture together have a home appearance. The family room opens directly into the chapel.

As explained by Nelson Schrader, the front door of the chapel building will always be open and a night bell within the vestibule will permit anyone to summon the attendant at any hour of the night or day in emergency.

Private toilet facilities are provided in a room behind the music room. At the rear of the building are the preparation room, the air conditioning unit, storage space and loading doors. The preparation room has also been refurbished and redecorated.

Turnbull Installs
 Modern Lighting
 Throughout Chapel

All wiring and electrical work, including the indirect lighting system, in the Schrader funeral chapel was done by the Northville Electric shop. The lighting of the chapel room particularly reflects the most advanced ideas of illumination. C. B. Turnbull declares: "The fixtures are recessed in the ceiling, and only a flat sheet of specially treated glass which diffuses and softens the light can be seen covering the lamp box. The glass extends approximately an inch below the ceiling. The light seems to be a part of the room itself and there is no distraction or glare as often occurs with older types of lighting equipment."

The chapel room lights are said to be the only ones of this particular type used in this area outside Detroit. Similar lights have recently been installed in the new service building of the Edison company in Detroit.

Electric cooking is the up-to-the-minute cooking method in use today. The modern electric range represents the last word in fine cooking equipment. But what about tomorrow?

Twelve years is the average length of time a family keeps a stove. This means that the stove you buy today will be cooking for you in 1950. If you buy an ELECTRIC range, you can be sure that it will be as modern then as it is now. The trend is to electric cooking: Sixty thousand of your neighbors now cook electrically. Last year alone, 16,000 families in and around Detroit switched to electric cooking.

What are the reasons for this rapidly growing popularity? An electric range offers 6 proven advantages that you get in no other stove:

(1) CLEANLINESS—An electric range cooks with pure heat from a glowing wire—heat as clean as sunlight. Your kitchen walls and curtains stay fresh for a much longer period of time, with less frequent redecorating. Cooking utensils remain bright and shiny after long use.

(2) COMFORTABLE COOKING—An electric range will not raise the kitchen temperature even one degree, no matter how warm the weather. It is a boon during the hot summer months.

(3) BETTER FLAVOR—Electric cooking has a deliciously different flavor—a natural flavor in foods. Meats and vegetables cook to melting tenderness in their own juices.

(4) WATERLESS COOKING—The waterless cooking method seals in precious minerals and important food values. On an electric range, vegetables are steam-cooked. Hand-cup of water is ample.

(5) MORE LEISURE—An electric range is time-saving... it gives you extra hours of freedom away from the kitchen.

(6) MODERN COOKING—This modern cooking method is fast, simple, safe—and convenient. Snap the switch and start to cook. Thanks to the accurate oven heat control, you can get the same perfect baking results time after time without guesswork.

Let your dealer tell you about these features of the 1938-model electric ranges.

See the new electric ranges on display at department stores, electrical dealers or at your Detroit Edison office.

success, said Dr. Hegge. Since the establishment of the institution in 1926 it has become nationally known and is, in fact, the only school of its kind in the United States, according to the speaker.

Dr. Hegge's address proved to be intensely enlightening to his hearers.

Born in Norway, Dr. Hegge secured his education in the Royal Norwegian University. Since coming to the United States he has continued his studies in the University of Chicago, California University and in the University of Michigan.

Leslie G. Lee introduced the speaker of the day.

The meeting was in charge of President Floyd A. Northrop. Preceding the program, birthday flowers were presented by Russell E. Steininger to Luther Lapham Treasurer. John Litsenberger reported that the student loan fund has reached $1,000, all used by Northville young folks in securing an education. M. C. Gussell reported that the Cub Scouts sponsored by the club are making splendid progress.

Mr. Taylor of the Detroit Edison company, was a guest at the meeting.

be delivered by Capt. Edwin Alder of the Salvation Army.

The Rev. Stanford S. Closson of the Plymouth First Methodist church, will discuss "Plymouth and its Churches" as one of the principal features of the services.

He will be followed by the speaker of the day, Dr. Rice. The choir will join in an ancient spiritual song in praise of the Lord of the Heavens and Earth. The voice will be Mrs. Maxwell Moon of Plymouth. A hymn will precede the benediction, which will be offered by the Rev. L. B. Stout, pastor of the Plymouth Central Baptist church.

Levi Davis, Jr. director of the brass quartet which will open the ceremonies.

Signaw. Twelve or 15 head will be shown here by Jack Dyer of the St. Clair Shores Radium Club.

Due to having the show advanced a week, it is likely that Margaret Ann Warden of Cleveland, and Mrs. A. E. Reuben of Toledo, who have been popular exhibitors here in previous years, will return. The early dates in August will not conflict with the Columbus, O., show as has been the case the last few summers.

The presses are releasing the annual Fair book this week, which will be sent to some 800 exhibitors who have sent their livestock, poultry, needlework, fruits, vegetables and grains for exhibition in years past.

EDITH SMITH, 19, STENOGRAPHER, DIES FOLLOWING CRASH

An auto accident at 10:30 a. m. Sunday claimed the life of a 19-year-old Northville Laboratories Inc. stenographer, Miss Edith Smith of Farmington.

Norman Barrons, Jr., also of Farmington was killed instantly in the crash which occurred at Ten Mile and Greenfield roads. Two others in the car were seriously injured. They are Robert Burton, 19, of Twelve Mile road, who suffered head injuries; and Betty Smith, 22, of Farmington, who has a fractured pelvis.

Miss Lillian Sullivan, 24, of 16724 Rosemont avenue, Detroit, driver of the second car is in the Royal Oak hospital suffering from a fractured hip, lacerations and severe shock.

Miss Smith had been employed in Northville for the past year.

HISTORY
By THEODORE VERLE

In the Metropolitan Museum, in New York City one day, I stood in a doorway to the Egyptian room, to let the impression of the whole sink into my memory. Then, as I turned my head to the left to begin the viewing of individual pieces on display, I found that I had been standing beside a life-sized bust of a man. It was done in grey granite, and was as beautifully worked and as smoothly polished as any fine piece of marble. That statue had been carved by an Egyptian artist 2,500 years before I stood enthralled by his handiwork.

That unknown sculptor and I touched hands through the span of twenty-five centuries when I laid mine on the modeled stone, where I know his hand had labored in inspired creative thrust. Brushing so close to him brought Egypt out of legend into something that was real. In that moment I realized, perhaps more clearly than ever, I had before, that men and women labored and lived in Egypt; that children were born, that businesses prospered and failed, that laws were made and broken, that the powerful exploited the weak, that an artist had striven to find in eternal stone, the turn of a nostril, the play of a smile on lips, in short—that human life carried on, in human communities, in the human manner of today. Jealous, kind, generous, selfish, peaceful, war-like—all types of humans lived and left their marks. These things, all, that granite bust said.

One does not ordinarily reach back two and one-half millenniums to find a friendly soul whose aspirations move us to understand. And one may not need to. When I was a boy I found history a burdensome study, until one day I stood before a gravestone in a neglected cemetery in southern Wisconsin. The nearly illegible inscription on the stone gave the date of birth and the date of the death of a man. He had been born in 1788, in Vermont. Suddenly it dawned on me that this man had been an eleven year old boy when George Washington had died. An eleven year old—so old as was I standing by the grave. Why, he might possibly have seen Washington—might even have run along beside Washington's carriage as I had done beside the carriage of Theodore Roosevelt during a visit he had paid in our town. There in that graveyard, history became a living thing for a boy who was trying to understand.

At Ohio State University is a man named Edwin W. Pahlow who must have had experiences in his youth, somewhat like the ones I have outlined above. He is professor of history teaching at the University, and he has written a book called "Man's Great Adventure." The book is the most interesting text book on world history that I have ever seen. The book is so good that I feel no hesitancy about urging it on all adult persons who would like to get a good picture of historical events, quickly and easily. Professor Pahlow knows how to make the past live again. Thereby he does his readers a great service.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMS

HISTORY
By THEODORE VERLE

In the Metropolitan Museum, in New York City one day, I stood in a doorway to the Egyptian room, to let the impression of the whole sink into my memory. Then, as I turned my head to the left to begin the viewing of individual pieces on display, I found that I had been standing beside a life-sized bust of a man. It was done in grey granite, and was as beautifully worked and as smoothly polished as any fine piece of marble. That statue had been carved by an Egyptian artist 2,500 years before I stood enthralled by his handiwork.

That unknown sculptor and I touched hands through the span of twenty-five centuries when I laid mine on the modeled stone, where I know his hand had labored in inspired creative thrust. Brushing so close to him brought Egypt out of legend into something that was real. In that moment I realized, perhaps more clearly than ever, I had before, that men and women labored and lived in Egypt; that children were born, that businesses prospered and failed, that laws were made and broken, that the powerful exploited the weak, that an artist had striven to find in eternal stone, the turn of a nostril, the play of a smile on lips, in short—that human life carried on, in human communities, in the human manner of today. Jealous, kind, generous, selfish, peaceful, war-like—all types of humans lived and left their marks. These things, all, that granite bust said.

One does not ordinarily reach back two and one-half millenniums to find a friendly soul whose aspirations move us to understand. And one may not need to. When I was a boy I found history a burdensome study, until one day I stood before a gravestone in a neglected cemetery in southern Wisconsin. The nearly illegible inscription on the stone gave the date of birth and the date of the death of a man. He had been born in 1788, in Vermont. Suddenly it dawned on me that this man had been an eleven year old boy when George Washington had died. An eleven year old—so old as was I standing by the grave. Why, he might possibly have seen Washington—might even have run along beside Washington's carriage as I had done beside the carriage of Theodore Roosevelt during a visit he had paid in our town. There in that graveyard, history became a living thing for a boy who was trying to understand.

At Ohio State University is a man named Edwin W. Pahlow who must have had experiences in his youth, somewhat like the ones I have outlined above. He is professor of history teaching at the University, and he has written a book called "Man's Great Adventure." The book is the most interesting text book on world history that I have ever seen. The book is so good that I feel no hesitancy about urging it on all adult persons who would like to get a good picture of historical events, quickly and easily. Professor Pahlow knows how to make the past live again. Thereby he does his readers a great service.

pressed in the Act itself, had been attained.

The first four lines of the Wagner Labor Relations Act, read as follows:

The denial by employers of the right of employees to organize and the refusal of employers to accept the procedure of collective bargaining leads to strikes and other forms of industrial strife and unrest.

That Act was passed to bring industrial peace to our country. What it has actually done, however, has been to destroy whatever industrial peace might have existed at the time the act was passed. It was approved by the President on July 5, 1935, and has been operative during the years 1936 and 1937.

What we need is more cooperation between the laboring man, the employer of labor, and business and industry generally before better conditions will return to this nation.

House, I again spoke prior to the showing of the picture in the committee room of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House.

Recently, in cooperation with Rep. Dingell, a film showing the sources of materials used in the manufacture of automobiles was shown to Members of the House and Senators. In announcing the picture, I pointed out that from Maine to California, from Florida to Oregon and Washington, come materials; from forest, farm and field; from mines and mountains, liquids and solids, from below the earth and above it, come materials.

showing agriculture, business, and industry interwoven, inter-related, and dependent on each other. The showing was sponsored to impress upon the nation's lawmakers, the far-reaching nature of the automobile industry and bring about a realization of the wide-spread effect of any legislation adversely affecting Michigan's great industry. It is my desire to keep the laboring men in our section employed and this was the motive behind my interest in the picture. In addition to calling the subject to the attention of the House, I again spoke prior to the showing of the picture in the committee room of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House.
