There is to be a re-reading of the boys and girls in the kindergarten, beginners and the primary departments. Clarence Davis, now has the assistance of Rufus Jones in his large class of high school boys. Mr. Jones is an experienced teacher of the Bible. This class will have Sunday breakfast at the home of Mr. Davis, before coming to class.

11 a. m.—Worship We shall have the rare privilege of hearing a noted missionary, from India. Mrs. E. Graham Paikar comes from the field at Fatehgarh in northern India and will address us upon the issues in that great empire. The pastor will conduct the service and the junior congregation will have a sermon upon "The Monkey and the Crocodile."

7 p. m.—Senior C. E. society The topic will be "Church Work — God's Work." Isaiah 2 Ephesians 5 25-27 The monthly meeting of our teachers and officers was unusual. It met last Monday evening with Mrs. and Mrs. Walter Couse and was in the nature of a supper meeting. Some 12 couples attended the husbands going with their wives. In addition to the business transacted a fine social evening was enjoyed. The only drawback was the illness which kept Mrs. Eaton from being present.

Our Lady of Victory Church The winter schedule is now in operation for the time of the two Sunday Masses. They are held at 8:30 and 11 a. m.

On the second Sunday of October all men and young men of the parish will receive Holy Communion. Confessions will be heard Saturday night from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. Sauer Kraut Supper The sauer kraut dinner will be served at the church hall on Tuesday, Oct. 11, beginning at 5 o'clock. The menu will consist of roast pork, mashed potatoes, gravy, buttered beans and carrots, sauer kraut, both cooked and raw, apple pie, rolls and coffee. The price to adults is 60 cents.

Christian Science Churches "Are Sin Disease, and Death Real?" will be the subject of the session sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, Oct. 9. The Golden Text (Jeremiah 30:17) "I will restore health unto thee, and I will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the Lord."

Among the Bible citations in this passage (Isaiah 32:2-4): For the Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our lawyer, the Lord is our King, he will save us. Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to."

Health Authorities Warn Students To Stay Home until Slight Illness Symptoms Are Gone To Avoid Spread

By C. E. HUTTON WALLED LAKE—The township health officer, Dr. E. J. Lansday, has sounded a timely appeal to the parents of school children of the local district, which, if heeded, should do much to ward off possible epidemics of contagious ailments during the school year. Last year's experience in coping with the problem of preventing the spread of contagious diseases should clearly demonstrate the value of parental cooperation with school and health authorities," said Dr. Lansday. Children who contract colds, sore throats, or other minor infections should be kept at home, even though their condition may seem of minor nature. A report of all such ailments should be made immediately to the school physician. Examinations should be made by the physician of school nurse before the child returns to school. Due to the fact that so many children ride to school in buses, medical examinations after the child arrives at the school are unsatisfactory, because if they carry disease germs, they expose other children on the buses.

Minor illness is not taken seriously enough by many people," continued Dr. Lansday. "After all, the responsibility for prevention of contagious disease among school children is largely with the parents, more than anyone else. It is recommended that all children be vaccinated for smallpox and immunized against diphtheria."

Dr. Lansday said that in certain foreign countries, where compulsory health measures prevail, smallpox and other like diseases no longer exist. Considerable laxity in State and county health laws still exists in this and other states, according to Dr. Lansday who believes this to be the principal reason for the prevalence of many communicable diseases.

Well building contractors, now's your chance. Bids are now being received, and will continue to be until Oct. 23, on the construction of an addition to the Walled Lake high school building. This will be no chicken feed job, either, as the plans call for a combined gymnasium and auditorium, six or eight class rooms remodeling of the old gymnasium into a cafeteria and shop, new offices and a few other items.

The first Parent Teachers meeting of the year is scheduled for Oct. 20, at the school and will be of considerable importance. Outlines for the year's work will be made and committees appointed by the president Mrs. Lloyd Cope.

The Association held a reception for the school faculty last Wednesday night which was well attended. An informal program was presented and refreshments were served.

About a dozen of our village men, streaked northward to Tawas county over the week end in quest of duck shooting thrills. The local 302 office had a ready supply of duck stamps before the season opened. They tell me duck hunting is quite a game. You disguise yourself as a tree or a brush heap or something and lay down on your back in some marsh or swamp in ambush sort of and wait. My imagination brings up an odd picture of some of our hunters crouching around on their filthy party centers of gravel, with hats and knees just touching, in an over all semblance of a Christmas tree in a bunch of cattails while waiting the blood-curdling blurt of stry wildfowl. Oh boy, Great stuff!

Now comes the prophetic regarding open and shut winters, if you get what I mean. It's something we face up annually. You remember. Wasn't it last year that the size and the kind of winter hinged on caterpillars — their color — and the length and color of corn silk? Anyway Doc Moxer has recently declared his reliance on the sun crossing the line. It seems that the three days just before or just after the sun crosses the line are certain criteria of the weather for the next three months. It so happens that those three days — whenever they were — were the brightest and mildest of the fall up until that time. So there you are.

Only I haven't as yet been able to find out just what line the sun was supposed to cross. I mean that I'm still wondering what line it was that Doc watched the sun cross. Anyway, I hope he's right. There seems to be no Florida trip in the offing for us this winter.

The other night during the intermission at Northville's P-A theatre presentation of the operetta featuring feminine star Shirley Temple I fell victim to a yestering. I was peering in one of the most comfortable and aggravating forms. I saw somebody across the aisle whose face I recognized, but whose name was beyond me. My first glance was full at him and his at me. We looked and stared and — you know how it is — that faint air of recognition passed between us without any outward indication. He caught a slight smile as it was about to break, while I, thinking it would then sort of kept my neck working up and down in a feigned effort to get rid of an imaginary kink while changing focus to a spot nigh up on the wall. . . . When the second show started, and it was dark, I tried to sneak in a furtive glance over his way in an effort to place him — and caught him doing the same darn thing to me. . . . We both slunk down in our seats and pretended to get deeply engrossed in

The picture. But from then on un- home town paper what the present population of Northville totaled. He figured it was around two or three thousand. As long as I can remember I've connected that estimate with my native habitat. Must be thirty years or more since I first wondered about it. . . . As I said to Orlov's the other day and called for a hamburger, but that dapper, respectable chamber of commerce can't tried to sell me a club membership (merchandise) and I guess something about getting the surrounding areas Northville minded. Was asking the prey of this, eur' or shouldn't I have mentioned it?

Our man Charles E. Hutton, Walled Lake, has been the target of much criticism from the Northville high school set this past week. Hutton brought it on himself by his rationalization of Northville's win over Walled Lake two weeks ago on the hilly (and we mean hilly) athletic field in the resort center.

Some of the young racers have not followed Hutton's column these months that he has been writing for The Record and do not know what Hutton likes best to wiggle himself out of a tough spot and do it with much yardage of the King's English.

Well, Walled Lake was in a tough spot. It's been these many years that Northville could go Walled Lake's way and come home with the big score. It was hard for Walled Lake to take Hutton admits this week that the situation is getting worse. Last week Keego Haroor, raised all over the Walled Lake men. Even Hutton can't blame that on the hilly field, because the win was made on Keego Harbor's stamping ground. "I suppose I could say that the foreign field intimidated our men but to tell you the truth, I'm not going to mention that game. If the losses continue, I'm going to have to think up some new excuses for them," he confided this week.

found her popularity with the masculine members of the freshman class dropping to a zero point when it was made known that she labeled them a bunch of sissies following a tackle workout she gave them the afternoon of the Walled Lake game.

"A bunch of sissies, are we?" muttered the hopeful freshmen Saturday morning when they went to Plymouth to meet the team of that place.

The more they thought about being called "a bunch of sissies" by a feminine substitute coach who can stand no taller than 5 feet 2 inches, the more they fumed. Whether they fuming did it, or whether they really learned something about teaching from Coach Ludwig, we can't get them to say. Anyway, they left the Plymouth second team players feeling sorry for themselves Saturday morning, returning to Northville with a win to match the one they over Walled Lake by the first team.

STUDENT COUNCIL DANCE TONIGHT

New Records To Be Used on Turntable from 8 to 11:30

The N. H. S. Student Council plans another dance to be held tonight in the high school gymnasium from 8 until 11:30.

Mayor Jack McCrumb and the Council reassured by the success of the same type of dance held two weeks ago announced that several new records have been purchased and will be played on the school turntable.

Chaperons will be: Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Stalker, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Mollenau and Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Smith. Admission to the dance is 15 cents a person.

SAILING SENIOR SEES SEA SERVICE

"Sailing! Sailing! Over the bounding main." At last I've come to port at dear old N. H. S. after leading the life of a deck swabber for about two months.

The good ship Mamie became my home on the twenty-eighth of June where I stayed until the Northville Fair. Then to help in the senior booth I came back again but returned for the remainder of the summer which came to an end September sixth.

The Mamie made regular trips into Lake Erie, Lake Huron, Lake St. Clair.

It was a great experience for a boy who has sailing blood in his veins. The work was fairly hard, but the day finally came to an end. Some of the work which we had to do was to paint, whitewash, sand and varnish the cabins, scrub the decks, calk the deck and bulwarks, and worst of all, at least I thought so, was to polish brass.

The regular routine was to get up in the morning at 7 o'clock, have breakfast and be working at 8:00. At 12:00 we would have lunch and then we would work until 5:30 when we could have supper.

There was rarely a time when I sat down to eat that I didn't enjoy my food. Working out in the fresh air and around water really gave me an appetite. For breakfast we would have ham and eggs or pancakes, for lunch potato salad, cold meat, vegetables, and dessert of cake or cookies. The final meal would be a round of steak potatoes, and dessert of pie or cake.

After our last meal we could use our time as we wished. Sometimes we played horse shoes, roved around in a boat, played cards or told stories.

There were three other sailors on the boat but the one I liked most was an Irishman named George Calvan. He was born in Ireland and had a real fish brogue which made his stories very funny when he told them. He was sixty years old and almost as strong as when he was thirty. Others in the crew were Bob Ocho and Bill Simkins, the cook, Bob lives in Marquette during the winter and hopes to become a light-house keeper (not a light house keeper). He was in the Coast Guard for ten years and could tell many stories about it. As for the cook he and I never got along very well because he was so bull-headed. He was born in Toronto and thought that was the only city on earth.

FACULTY WHO'S WHO

Mrs. Sterling Eaton, a former teacher and resident, has resumed her position, this year, as kindergarten teacher in the grade school. Mrs. Eaton was graduated from Northville high school in 1925. The following year she spent in Oberlin, O., where she attended a girl's school. Having decided upon teaching as a career, she entered the Michigan State Normal college in Ypsilanti and continued until graduation when she began kindergarten work in Northville in 1927.

Much of her time outside of school is spent with her daughter, who constitutes one of her major interests.

Editor's Note...

Season tickets for football are now on sale throughout N. H. S. They may be purchased from any member of the Student Council or members of the football team.

The tickets sell for 35 cents a piece and are good for the three home games; the one with Melvindale to be played at the park today, the Trenton game to be played here Nov. 4, and the all-famous Plymouth game which will be fought on our gridiron Nov. 10. Without season tickets the game price will be 15 cents for all Northville students and it doesn't take much of a mathematician to figure out a bargain like this one. Adult tickets are 50 cents per season or 25 cents at the gate.

You all know that the council buys equipment and pays for the officials for all the athletic encounters of the year out of the proceeds taken in by the sale of the various tickets. Let's all buy a season ticket and help ourselves as well as the council out by endorsing their efforts to finance the teams of Northville.

N.H.S. PLAYS HERE IN LEAGUE OPENER

With prospects of the hardest game on the schedule, Coach H. B. Smith and his men seem ready to die for the dear old Alma Mater.

Northville has been put through very stiff drills including blocking, tackling, and pass defense. Juno's passing arm seems more accurate than ever. In addition to this the team's moral has been raised ever since the victory over the Walled Lake team, two weeks ago.

Melvindale will bring a heavy team which is not unusual. Their line will average about 186 pounds. But it will be remembered that Walled Lake also outweighed us, and you and yours truly know what happened in that hectic game. Melvindale lost several players by graduation including their star, Dranz.

This game will be the battle of the century so don't miss it. It'll see you at Cass, Benton!

SENIOR ACTIVITIES

To decide on senior activities for the coming year, the members of the senior class met in Edward C. Mollenau's room at 3 p. m. Thursday.

At this class meeting, the seniors discussed plans for the future. Probably the most important were the Prom plans. The date has not yet been definitely decided but will probably be held on the Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving. But before this however there may be another dance. This one will probably be held some time in October.

Various Christmas card companies have sent samples of cards, paper ribbons, etc. for the seniors to look over and decide which they will sell. Faith Liebetrau heads this committee with Marjean Ledard and Catherine Stevenson to assist her.

Another project is the sale of hot pads. These hot pads have a decorative silver finish and are to be sold for a price to be decided later by the committee of which Mary Hester Gow is chairman, Ruth Leavenworth and Betty Jane Gillis are to take care of the details.

Each year it is customary for the seniors to have their pictures taken and in the past it has been done by the Camp Studios. It has not been decided which company will get the contract, this year Louise Alexander, Helen VanSickle and John Gibson will interview the representatives of the various companies.

Bill Scholtz announced that he had new had samples of the name cards. The prices range from 75 cents a hundred up and the first ten to put in their orders will be given a certain number of extra ones without charge.

The candy sale which has been in progress for about two weeks is a success financially according to the committee.

In addition to this Mrs. Eaton has recently developed the hobby of gardening and collecting antiques. She is also a musician of considerable talent.

NORTHVILLE SCRUBS DEFEAT PLYMOUTH

Freshmen and Sophomores Down Traditional Rivals, 32-0

Showing promise of being football heroes in the future, the local freshmen and sophomores whitewashed the Plymouth freshmen and sophomores by the score of 32-0 at Plymouth, Saturday morning.

From the time that Ross Kucked off until Bongiovanni made the final touchdown, the entire team was in there fighting.

In the first quarter Northville got six points as a result of passes by Holcomb, an attempted truck play, a pass by Harmer, and running by Holcomb. The score remained the same until soon after the beginning of the third period when Holcomb received Plymouth's kick-off. Then with gains by Holcomb, Polack, Nafrawicz, Bongiovanni, and a pass from Holcomb to Hartnett, the local lads got another touchdown. Nafrawicz made the point after the touchdown. The score now was 13-0. Before allowing the third period to end, the Northville fellows decided to get another six or eight points so Norton received Plymouth's punt and carried it for a couple of downs. Nafrawicz recovered Hartman's fumble and on the next play bucked the line for another touchdown. The score was 19-0 as the attempted extra point failed.

This score didn't last long because after receiving the piskin he passed it to Holcomb who crashed over for another score. Norton dropped a kick over the bar to make the point after touchdown. The score, being 26-0 against them Plymouth got the ball, then lost it by a fumble. With three and a half minutes yet to play Dye sneaked in to take White's place. Northville got the ball but lost it on downs. For the final point Bongiovanni received Plymouth's kick and carried it over the line making the final score 32-0.

The starting lineups were: Northville QB - Wikke, Holcomb RB - Jones, Hartnett FB - Wise, Nafrawicz LH - Smith, De. RE - McAllister, Parker RT - Elmgrove, McCluskie RG - Stevens, Ross C - Ellsworth, Beasley LG - Green, Larson LT - Spratt, Hubbard LE - Hunter, Norton N - Norton.

The commercial classes under the direction of Mrs. Kathryn Giltner and the manual arts classes guided by Merle Wheeler are continuing to make rapid progress on their programs at the present time. Sixty people are enrolled in Miss Giltner's typing classes. They are all trying hard to keep their fingers from flying the wrong way and a key is beginning to learn which key to punch and when to punch it.

The senior girls who have enrolled in the secretarial practice course have been assigned positions in the general office under the supervision of Mrs. Doris P. Yerkes, Jr. are found Betty Carlson, Gail Hornung, Helen VanSickle, Maxine Perkins, Virginia Forshee, Helen Bramer and Margaret Zeyt. In G. V. Harrison's office are Wanita Miller, Mary Hester Gow and Betty Carlson, efficiently perform their duties as secretaries. Marjorie Rowe gets plenty of experience working for E. V. Ellison, who has charge of the apprentice training plan; Faith Liebetrau sells books and school supplies in the bookstore where she works under Leslie G. Lee's supervision. The others taking this course are distributed among the other teachers for whom they record grades, take letters, or assist in any clerical work which the teacher may have.

CLASS NOTES

The manual arts classes under the supervision of Mr. Wheeler are well started in their activities. The seventh and eighth graders are squaring up stock and cutting chambers.

In the bookkeeping class there are 37 students who are learning that work piles up if one doesn't do it every day.

At the Southeastern Michigan Potato Field Day the following ways of preventing fire-banded injury to the potatoes were advanced by Arthur Bell of the Agricultural Engineering Department:

1. Wrap shaker roos and other metal parts where the potatoes come in contact with stems of old tuber tubs.

2. Put potatoes in canvas lined baskets.

3. When picked in crates place the potatoes in the crate rather than throw them in.

4. Do not heap the crates if they

The Belleville Fair drew a big crowd both nights. Several valuable door prizes were given away each night. Features of the entertainment were Ford's Mountaineers and Chevrolet's 30 member Glee club.

The habits of agricultural and home produce were excellent. Poultry flocks should be culled at once. Take out the pullets with white shanks and all birds that show grey eyes. Grey-eye color seems to be linked up with range paralysis and blindness. Also remove those having poor head shape and light body weight. It takes about 90 eggs per year to pay for the feed cost, thus, only the good producers should be kept.

Dairy Testers Meet Oct. 17. Cow testers of the Lower Peninsula will attend an annual state conference at Michigan State college opening Monday, Oct. 17.

Plans for the conference are being completed by A. C. Baltzer, college extension chairman, under whose direction the work of Michigan's dairy herd improvement association has been expanding steadily to a new record for recent years.

Initial sessions of the annual conference will open at noon the first day. Close of the program is scheduled for noon on Wednesday, Oct. 19. Speakers will include Dean of Agriculture E. L. Anthony, Extension Director R. J. Baldwin, Eric Carl Weaver, C. F. Huffman, E. C. Scheidegger and A. C. Baltzer.

Problems of efficiency of dairy herds are increasingly important this fall, Baltzer reports. There are nearly a million producing dairy cows in the State, based on the last accurate survey which showed 913,000 dairy animals two years or older.

Although feedstuffs have declined in price and Michigan's homegrown feed supplies have been more plentiful this past summer, dairy markets in some sections of the state have offered less revenue for dairy farmers. The most successful dairy men, Baltzer points out, are those who have high producing cows, fed on rations low in cost and with herd management designed to hold labor and other costs down low.

Dairy herd improvement associations are employing 62 testers in the Lower Peninsula. In the entire State approximately 36,000 dairy animals are on test. Information gained through the testing includes butterfat percentage, estimated total milk and fat production, with recommendations on rations.

to the child - that is grand endowment for any baby. Truly, if a normal baby is exposed to such an environment, the early grades of school will show the child has prepared itself normally and naturally to read in school.

We oldsters were taught "reading, 'rithmetic" and "rithmetic" as ends in themselves. Today, educators know that the three R's are stools with which the child builds its education. No way has been found whereby the schools can educate a child who cannot read. Reading disability frequently starts in the home but in the school handicaps (and many times "glasses" have nothing to do with them) are there, it is your duty to know it and see that they are removed before the child has a chance to "fall" in school. Failure in school is too often the forerunner of more complete failure in later life.

The baby's life is in your hands - do take care.

Mosher's Dogs Give Center Street Show
 A free show in Northville this week, played to capacity houses and pedestrian traffic was forced at times to take to the streets to pass the crowds gathered to witness the spectacle.

The performers were ten Irish setter puppies owned by Ken Mosher and the showplace was the south window of the Central market where the playful pups slept contentedly and went through their show routine. Mr. Mosher acted on a request that he show the entire litter publicly before disposing of them.

At this writing the troupe was reduced to eight through delivery of two to new owners. Another awaits a wee bit more maturity before going his aristocratic way to Fifth Avenue, New York City. But eight pups can set you on a good snout as the crowds testify. Four baby buggies were in front of the pups' stage at one time.

Playing sleeping or doing nothing the young setters make an appealing picture. So far the group has not taken advantage of an illustrious pedigree to go "high hat" or appear bored by the attention shown them. All are registered and considered good stock.

Eaton Proposes Candidate Change

to the entire state of Michigan so permit a condition to exist whereby two or three big counties can join together and defeat the will of all the rest of the state. Real republicanism stands for representative government. We will be taking a long step forward if we will give to the voters a right to which they are entitled to the nomination of all candidates for high state offices.

Since my return from Grand Rapids I have been flooded with requests to take steps to make some change in the system of nominating candidates. These requests come from good republicans who intend to support the present state ticket. Not only have republicans requested but a number of my democratic acquaintances have approved of the suggestion.

I had prepared a legislative resolution during the last session for its very purpose but under conditions prevailing at that time I regarded it as a waste of time to try and secure its enactment. But conditions are such now that I believe the legislature will approve it if it does not then I will initiate it by petition of the people."

'Marihuana Is Sure Road to Insanity,' Says Albert Carter

Mr. Carter is the most vicious of all drugs. Marihuana attacks the brain and a continuation of marihuana smoking is a sure road to insanity. Often only one marihuana cigarette will turn the victim into a murderer. Fortunately in Detroit and the rest of Michigan, marihuana is being rapidly exterminated. It grows from only the seed and not from the roots thus making it easier to exterminate. This fight can best be waged said the speaker by having every community make sure that none of this weed is being grown in its territory.

The speaker was introduced by Luther Lapham.

Preceding Mr. Carter's address Superintendent Russell H. Amerman told of the meeting at Detroit last week of the Gruppled Children's Society, which was attended by several local Rotarians.

Guests at the meeting were: E. S. German of Wayne and Russell Daines and Cass Lin'con of Plymouth.

SHORT WAVE

By THEODORE WERLE

The miracle that is radio has an unfulfilling thrill for me. It is never more miraculous than when the voice of a European statesman discussing the problems of his nation comes easily and clearly into my automobile while I am comfortably moving at a mile a minute along some Michigan highway. It serves a magnificent purpose when the artistry of a singer, an actor, an orchestra performing anywhere on the face of the earth, can inspire peoples anywhere else—especially in the remote tucked away places.

While listening this morning to reports from Europe on the preparations for the the death stroke for European economy which Hitler promised to deliver on October first, it came home to me that radio could serve this country as not another thing on earth.

We of this nation pretty generally feel that the war nearly pulled down on the heads of the peoples of Europe is no war of ours. We are all agreed that our place is out of it. Those of us old enough to remember 1914 and the subsequent years recall that all of the United States at the beginning of that war felt as we do now. We can recall too, that the mania for war, the mania impulse and desire in men to kill other men spread to us from overseas like a slow poison. It is true that we were provoked by the Germans on numerous occasions, and we were provoked by the British. A boatload of supplies and a handful of sailors, who, we insisted, had the right to expect unscathed passage through battle lines at sea, seemed to us, in our war mad state, reason enough to set our nation full tilt toward disaster. We didn't call it that then, after the poison had slunk through our veins, but those few courageous souls did call our entry into that war by its right name, were interned in prison camps as enemies of the country. Our present economic state—by no means a happy one—is an aftertaste of that madness.

If there is any antidote for the poison of the war mania, I don't know what it is. Yet it seems to me that the truthful presentation of what war is where it is fought, might be of some value. The civilian population sees marching boys in ratty uniforms, hears martial music, and listens to speeches about courage and honor. These are not war. Knitting sweaters, reducing sugar consumption, waving farewell wells—these are not war. How dreadful, how brutal, how cruel a modern war really can be no one knows. There are hints of what it can be, in the news and pictures of doings in China and Spain. But when all of white-marked angels in a determined warfare of mutual extermination the horror of the reality will outrun the imagination.

Perhaps short wave might be able to help us stay sane. A corps of American sports announcers doing their valuable best to describe the details of a battle in terms of the human elements engaged, might not go so well with the dinner, but might keep many Americans in line for their dinners at home, and that's something that war won't do.
