Employees of Maybury Build 13 Northville Homes Since June, '35

In All, 21 New Houses Have Been Built by the Cooperative Neighbor Plan; Builders
Depend on Private Loans

A group of Maybury employees, joined by a few friends, have practiced the good neighbor spirit associated with old time "barn raisings" to construct 21 new homes in Northville and Livonia townships since June, 1935. Thirteen of the buildings are in Northville.

Leader of the group is Don Nutton, who possesses a fine home on Frederick street, No. 11 in the series constructed by the cooperators. Mr. Nutton has had considerable building experience and usually assists with the planning of the home, laying out the ground and directing the work. His work at Maybury is carpentry, and his extra curricular activity or hobby is an off-shoot of regular work for five days of the week.

Build in Spare Time
Every one of the 21 homes has been built in the men's spare time during week-ends for the past three years. A typical crew includes 15 men. In the full spirit of cooperation, no one receives pay, except eats and drink served by the host whose home is being put up for his services. As a result, the fortunate home owners have been able to get better homes for fewer dollars.

The gang does not undertake the whole job of construction. Excavating and construction of the basement is usually left to a private contractor, but, then, the house raisers' step in to put up the frame work, the roof, the siding, roofing, gables and gables, complete the job except for plastering, heating, electrical work and decorating. This, too, is left out to specialists.

Construction Goes Along
The gang makes short work of the construction. While it is true that three or four months may elapse from the time ground is broken until decorating is completed and the family moves into the brand new home, major construction is accomplished in one two or three week ends, according to Mr. Nutton, and Ralph Altenberg, whose home on Laurel road in Livonia township was the first to be built by the group.

The men enter a project with the idea of building it as well and as quickly as possible. As experience has been gained through successive ventures, speed has resulted. Many of the men, green horns at first about building, are quite expert now. In some cases, the crew has transformed a pile of lumber into a houghed-in home while the owner has worked one shift at the sanatorium. One such owner was surprised to discover that the men had built on a portion not included in the original plans. The addition came from salvaged scraps of material.

Through this friendly cooperative plan, many families have come to own new homes long before they could afford them in the usual way. Several have been able to start with a small cash outlay, augmented by private loans. To quote Mr. Nutton: "Many of us would not have new homes today if we had to wait until we could hire them built for us."

"Good Risks"
Financing has been the largest problem confronting both the group and individual members. FHA restrictions prevent that method of financing, and members have had to depend on private money. None of the contracts extend over 10 years, and private borrowers consider them good risks. When more money is available, new projects will be undertaken by the group.

Bridget, former belonging to the Nuttons, is a veteran of all the bounding and sawing of the three years. Bridget has been on every job, and is as indispensable as the workmen's tools.

Names of owners and locations of the homes built since 1935 are: Ralph Altenberg, Laurel road, Livonia (Continued on page 5)

Scarlet Fever Case Prompts Epidemic Warning in Village

A warning comes today from Dr. Russell M. Atchison, village health officer, which is designed to ward off an epidemic of scarlet fever in Northville.

There is already one victim of the disease in the village. She is Jean Freydl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Freydl of 257 Hutton avenue. Jean is a second grader.

Dr. Atchison seeks the cooperation of parents and teachers in checking the disease by making sure that all children who have sore throats are examined immediately by their family physician. He further asks that children who have sore throats or colds be kept home from school until the ailment is completely cured.

From Mrs. Starr Bray, school nurse, comes the report that when the school convened Wednesday, following the holiday recess, there were 30 absences noted in the grades. "Not all of these are the result of sickness, some just overslept," she comments.

A check on the first floor rooms in the grade school Thursday morning, revealed that there were 18 children absent. Mrs. Bray is working with Dr. Atchison in an attempt to keep a scarlet fever epidemic from sweeping the village.

KROGER TO DELIVER
Delivery service has been added for customers of Kroger, according to Roland Widmayer, manager. The store has been assigned phone number 9140.

M. C. GUNSELL BEGINS HEALTH 'CHAT' SERIES

Starting with advice on good health rules for the new year, M. C. Gunsell is this week initiating in The Record a series of health talks one to appear each week.

Based on a recognition of the physicians success in keeping people in the best physical condition, Mr. Gunsell's "chats" will seek to stress the importance of relying more upon doctor's help in averting illness.

"If we can in any way lead people to a better living and greater health under their physicians guidance, then the success of our health messages is insured," Mr. Gunsell states.

The Record's Editorial Platform for 1939

No. 1 - 100 New Homes for Northville

With the conviction that now is the time and Northville, the ideal spot for building new homes, The Record takes as its chief goal for 1939 the development of new home construction in this section. It hopes to see 100 new homes built in the area served by the local post office.

Impossible?
Not at all.

Not if the progressive people of this community organize to inform their own neighbors and persons forced to reside in less desirable communities, including Detroit, of the practical advantages of starting new home construction early in 1939 in or near Northville.

For those who are already acquainted with the beauty of our wooded hills, the great park system extending south from the village gates, the fine school system, Christian churches, excellent shopping district, good highways, efficient village and township governments and low land costs, no selling job will be needed, except to impress them with the urgency of building at once. Beyond those who are informed are hundreds of prospective residents waiting to hear the story of Northville's many residential advantages. To them we must tell and sell Northville.

This, in our opinion, is Northville's big opportunity in the new year.

Every person with a spark of civic interest can have a part in our 1939 crusade to get 100 new homes for Northville. To put it over will require the helpful services of many minds and hands. We invite your criticisms, your suggestions and above all your cooperation. Those who answer our challenge will themselves help to build a bigger and better community, and bring better living to all who occupy the new homes.

Let's go Northville! One hundred new homes. One hundred new home owners. One hundred neighbors. Hundreds of new customers for our stores. One hundred fortunate families realizing the goal of new homes. It can be done!

Raleigh Schloring To Open Season's Series of Lectures

Talking on the subject, "Education in Nazi Germany," Raleigh Schloring, a professor of education and supervisor of directed teaching and instruction in the University High school, Ann Arbor, will open the second annual lecture series at 8 p. m. Wednesday, Jan. 11, in the high school auditorium.

Mr. Schloring has lived for two years in Germany and his children have attended school there. His talk here will be based on his observations while living in Germany.

Mrs. H. S. Mallory, originally scheduled to appear Feb. 8, on the lecture series, will not talk in the village under the sponsorship of the Teachers' Club. She will, however, be a guest speaker in the series of the Mothers' club.

Sponsored by the Teachers' club, the series this season boasts a schedule of lectures by John H. Mayskens, Jr., 25; Professor H. C. Curtis, Feb. 22; Bennett Weaver, March 8. The final lecture of the series has not been definitely arranged.

Tickets are on sale for the entire series by members of the sponsoring organization for $1.25. Individual tickets will sell for 25 cents.

VILLAGE BUSINESS WAITS TWO WEEKS

Nichols and Shafer Hold
Down Council Table
Alone, Tuesday

Village business was at a standstill Tuesday evening Jan. 3 because the mayor and one councilman do not make a quorum.

The village clerk, Mrs. P. A. Alton, was on hand to write down the transactions of note but there were none that could be recorded.

Mayor Arthur S. Nichols and Commissioner Floyd Shafer formally listened to a request from Albert Schloring of the Bowling Alley who wants to add pool and billiard equipment to his bowling and lounge facilities in the Recreation Club.

Mr. Schloring was invited to appear before a full commission Monday Jan. 16 when the matter can be considered.

Then, there was the matter which involves E. E. Williams, the Culbertson Construction company and the village. It seems that Mr. Williams did $943.60 worth of work on the water reservoir project. Now he wants his money (it's been one year, he says, these two long years or more), but the Culbertson suit which is pending holds up payment.

Mr. Williams has been invited to meet (for the second time) the full commission which is scheduled to be in session Jan. 16.

Leland V. Smith, who has the refunding of paving taxes at heart, was present Tuesday evening. He plans to return again in two weeks to see what events will take place in the handling of such claims for villagers who are seeking advice on their individual settlements.

MISS IDA ALTMAN CONTACTS READERS

Miss Ida Altman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Altman, who assist in The Record office two or three days a week during the month of January is authorized to collect subscriptions which are in arrears and to accept payment on new subscriptions.

Miss Altman will call on a number of villagers this month to give them a chance to pay up their subscriptions or to sign them up for the first time. There are several persons in the village who periodically want her to call on them for this purpose. She may notify The Record office and she will contact them immediately.

Miss Altman has been attending the Michigan State college East Lansing, for the past two and a half years. She will enroll in February at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, to major in journalism. During her senior year in the Northville high school she was editor of the Orange and Black page. In addition to working on the subscription list for The Record this month, she is writing for the society and local pages.

NOTICE TO FOOD HANDLERS

Dr. Russell M. Atchison, village health officer, announced this week that all food handlers are requested to have their examination papers returned to him no later than Monday, Jan. 9.

Northville To Hold Second Annual Ice Carnival in January

Neil Hannaford Is General Chairman of Winter Sports Event Which Is Expected
To Draw Keen Skating Competition

Northville's picturesque Ford Pond will be the scene of the second annual ice carnival sponsored by the Civic association sometime this month or early in February, according to an announcement made this week by Neil Hannaford, chairman of the 1939 winter event.

The initial carnival, held Sunday, Jan. 2, 1938, drew a large field of competitors from among the Michigan skating association members and from the young villagers.

Use the Same Setup
We'd have the same setup as we did last year. I'm going to contact Captain Ross of the Michigan Skating association and tell him we can't have the carnival this Sunday as originally planned, but that we're making arrangements to have it sometime this month - or early in February," asserts Chairman Hannaford.

As yet a local committee to work with Mr. Hannaford has not been appointed, it is understood, however that Northville merchants will be asked sometime during the week to help with the arrangements.

Event Draw Thousands
Last winter, the banks of the pond were lined with some thousands of spectators who witnessed the races and feature exhibitions. There were prizes for children between the ages of 8 and 10 years. There was a race for home men and one for the 1st team of the village.

John Van Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Allen, was a member of the high school swimming team. She showed her title by popular vote of the high school assembly. A question to appear over this week's edition will be: Will the girls' team win the title?

Donald Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lee, was a member of the high school swimming team. He showed his title by popular vote of the high school assembly. A question to appear over this week's edition will be: Will the boys' team win the title?

LEON V. YERKES, 45, DIES HERE TUESDAY

Members of the Northville Woman's club are reminded that there will be a regular meeting today (Friday) in the library. Mrs. Harvey Merker of Detroit will present a most interesting program, speaking on her travels in Norway and Sweden and illustrating her talk with colored moving pictures.

Because this is such an unusually good program the members may bring guests to share the pleasure of Mrs. Merker's talk.

Members are also reminded that the plan for next year's program will soon be brought up for discussion and they are asked to be thinking of their choice of study.

Butter Cookies Sparkle for Festivities

DELECTABLE and fragile cookies shaped like the stars of the Milky Way add a sophisticated touch to any festive occasion. As much fun to make as they are to serve, butter cookies solve the problem of the hostess anxious to entertain her guests graciously and economically. Practically all home-made cookies can be developed from a simple basic recipe. Butter gives a distinctive taste and a crisp quality which can be obtained in no other way. The foundation recipe for all butter cookies is given below.

1 1/2 cups flour
1 tsp baking powder
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/4 tsp vanilla
1/2 tsp salt

Cookies may be shaped in various ways—there are rolled cookies, drop cookies, sliced or ice-box cookies and cookies which are spread in a pan and cut after baking. The flavor may be varied by the addition of chocolate or other flavorings and all sorts of decorations can be applied with nuts or candied fruits to add flavor. The pastry tube can be used to add delicate trimmings.

Good cookie makers know that certain rules are followed. They are sure to have a good product. Cream butter thoroughly before adding other ingredients, have ingredients cold and combine them quickly; chill the dough for at least 1/2 hour before rolling it; work with about 1/4 of the dough at a time and on a cold board with little flour; dip cookie cutter in flour each time before using and deposit cookie on baking sheet. Bake in a fairly hot oven on a lightly buttered baking sheet.

Hobbs, Northville Lecture Series Speaker, Uncovers Antarctic Fake

A century-old account of one of the most repulsive Antarctic exploring cruises of all history was declared a fake today by University of Michigan geologist Professor William H. Hobbs, who spoke here last winter on the lecture series.

Speaking before the Association of American Geographers meeting at Harvard University, Professor Hobbs called false the story of the Antarctic explorations of James Weddell of the British Royal Navy alleged to have taken him farther south than anyone has ever gone on such a course and the Weddell map of the South Atlantic Islands.

In exposing the hoax Professor Hobbs said that the narrative of Weddell had all the life and color which characterized that of a not-pious explorer within the opposite polar region whose story was also proven to be pure fiction.

Unlike his later imitator, Weddell, "got away with it" for 104 years, the geologist explained, and thanks to the British Admiralty a vast expanse of the southern hemisphere is still known as the Weddell Sea.

This sea which Weddell claimed to have penetrated in open water has since been found to be perpetually covered by a dense pack ice the point of which was known to exist at the time and is recognized as a wholly untrue story.

U. of M. Benefits by 6 PWA Projects
The initiation of the largest building program that the University of Michigan has ever known highlights the events of the past year on the Ann Arbor campus.
Made possible by six PWA grants totaling $2,522,253, the program will provide for three men's dormitories, one dormitory for women, a new student health service and additions to the University hospital dental building and the heating plant.

To the Federal grants, which amount to 45 per cent of the total, the University is expected to add $3,082,750, or 55 per cent, making a total of $5,605,000. The University's share is provided for the most part by issues of bonds based on the revenues of contemplated buildings, supplemented, however, by certain accumulated reserves in some cases and by a gift of $236,500 from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, of Battle Creek, which covers the University's share of the cost of the addition to the dental building.

In academic activities the inauguration of a new policy whereby the University and the teacher's colleges of the State cooperate in providing facilities for graduate study and the introduction of a new degree, that of Doctor of Education, were re-

Fitzgerald's Message to Legislature Reveals Definite Stand on Labor Front

The citizens of our State have charged us with the duty of leading them to solid ground. I know I may expect your cooperation and that of every State officer, as you may expect mine, promised Frank D. Fitzgerald in his message to the sixtieth Michigan legislature this week.

The highest forces in the land are labor, agriculture and industry. Each is dependent upon the other. So closely are they interlocked, that when one falters so do the others. When industry ceases, labor becomes poor, and the farmer's market is destroyed. In the same manner, adversity follows when agriculture or labor fails. The profiteers, tourists and resort business men who so large a segment of our population relies for a livelihood, fall off when there is unemployment and depression. Public revenues descend and the schools and essential public services are endangered.

Labor, agriculture and industry must march forward shoulder to shoulder, plowing a straight deep furrow toward prosperity. They must pull together — for when they top all that, not directly engaged in these pursuits, are left stranded. Business men, city and country, must join in the march.

Labor

Turning to the labor question, he said: "The most potent weapon working in favor of the right to collective bargaining is the right to strike."

The people want peace and prosperity and order. To that end I recommend the enactment of an effective labor relations act. It should be placed in the simplest possible terms. It should be stripped bare of the excess verbiage which in other companies' statutes, that all may understand precisely what it means. It should contain the following provisions:

1. A staggered term of office for labor relations board, composed of five members. They should be men of broad vision and responsible intelligence. Their cost, no matter what it may be, will be nothing as compared to the cost of unnecessary labor trouble. The governor should have the appointing power subject to the approval of the senate, but he should be required to select one from each major labor union or representing industry, one representing retail business and one of his own choice. The governor might do well to name a farmer or a housewife as his appointee. Farmers and mothers suffer too when there is labor disorder. The board will devote itself to mediation and labor problems.

2. The present department of labor and industry would be reorganized by appointing one commissioner to administer the workmen's compensation act, plant inspections and so forth. He would be assisted by necessary deputies. The labor relations board would have general supervisory control over the labor commissioner and his department.

3. Sit-down strikes and disorders of a similar character would be declared specifically illegal, and proper penalties should be prescribed for those inciting such disorders.

4. Strikes should be placed upon a sound orderly and legal basis. The potency of the strike weapon would be increased by the enactment of a law providing for the full, legal exercise of its power.

5. Strikes could be called by recognized officers of recognized unions — with not less than three of them concurring in the order. They also could be called by three representatives named by a bona-fide vote of the employees of any plant.

6. Strike orders would be filed with the labor relations board, and they would become effective 10 days after the filing. During the 10-day period the board would seek to mediate and adjust the differences between employees and employer. Employees would remain at work during that 10-day period.

7. In case no settlement could be reached, the two sides, employer and employees, could petition the governor to appoint a special commission for further mediation. This would keep men at work, in cases where they preferred to work until a settlement. In case of no joint petition the strike would become effective after 10 days, and would continue as a legal strike until such time as settlement was reached. It would be incumbent upon employers to rehire, and not discriminate against, workers participating in a legal strike.

8. Any strike not called by recognized union officials, or by elected representatives of the employees, would be illegal. Workers participating in illegal strikes would be viewed as employees who had not worked for work. They would lose all standing in the eyes of the State and their employers.

9. Lockouts would be prohibited, except in cases where the entire force of a plant participated in a so-called wild-cat, or illegal strike.

10. The principal reason for mass picketing — that is, picketing by imported pickets — is fear on the part of labor that efforts will be made to break a strike by force. Under the program I propose, orderly strikes would be legal, and it would be illegal on the part of employers to use force to break them. Therefore, the reason for mass picketing would be removed. The law should limit picketing to employees of the struck plant.

Peaceful and orderly picketing would be solely to advise the fact that those participating in legal strikes believe their employer is unfair. Peaceful and orderly picketing should be defined as that which does not bar entrances, or exits, and which does not interfere with the rights of the people by obstructing public thoroughfares. Picketing of any other sort would be declared illegal.

11. That the 10-day notice of intention to strike might not work against employees confronted with an emergency situation, the labor relations board would be empowered to immediately order any employer to restore conditions to their former level, pending the outcome of mediation. This would permit men to work under the same conditions as before until they actually went on strike — received remedy. Penalties could be provided for employers refusing to comply.

12. In the case of utilities, dairies, food establishments, delivery services or other enterprises whose cessation would be injurious to the health of the people, it would be mandatory that a special commission be named by the governor, assume the task of mediation if a moment's interruption in the production of such goods would be injurious to the health of the people.

13. Labor must be protected against exploitation by unscrupulous employers. It should be enacted to punish either employers or labor groups attempting to force workers to join any organization. Membership should be purely voluntary.

14. Those to represent the employees of any plant in collective bargaining should be chosen by a bona-fide secret ballot.

15. There must be sincere responsibility on both sides in labor controversies. To promote this labor organizations should have the right to voluntarily register their responsible officers.

16. Employees likewise, should register the agents designated to bargain with employers that erosion and delay may be prevented.

Finances

Finances, which were much in the campaign limelight, were taken up next by the governor. "The treasury is deep in the red. Heavy drains upon it in the past two years have thrown it far out of balance. In addition to the actual deficit, we are faced with overdrafts which we must pay from future revenues, such as $10,000,000 appropriated for relief, $6,000,000 appropriated for institutional building but which is not now available; the restocking of the State's liquor inventory to replace goods which were sold and the proceeds spent."

Extended payrolls and other expenditures have dropped Michigan from a fiscal standing at the top of the list of states to the bottom.

One of the first things to be done is an administrative cleanup. There must be a combined, cooperative effort by all State officials, department and institutional heads to cut millions of dollars from State payrolls.

Governor Fitzgerald took a stand on civil service. "I believe firmly in the merit system in State government. I shall oppose vigorously any attempt to undermine the principle of civil government."

"There are more than 18,000 persons on the State payroll. I am convinced there has been a tendency to overload and that the number is excessive. Civil service can be of vast help not only in promoting efficiency through permanency, but by providing a constant gauge as to the personnel needed to perform the essential duties of government. Parts of the act have been flagrantly violated. I refer to the section prohibiting vicious political solicitation of campaign funds and designed to prevent loading payrolls with political workers. Those things will not be tolerated from now on."

I believe thoroughly in keeping the penal institutions and allied activities far removed from political influences. According to reports submitted to me the administrative costs of the corrections department are needlessly high. I recommend that your committee study the situation to determine where coordination or consolidations can be employed to remedy this fault."

Taxes

Taxes were next to be considered by Governor Fitzgerald. "There should be no new taxes. We must begin at once living within our income. A debt retirement fund may again establish a systematic pay-as-you-go plan. Present sources of revenue are sufficient to do this and still maintain efficiently all State functions. We may be helped to some extent by an increase in the sales tax, through improved business conditions and more efficient administration of the law."

"That there may be less confusion in State accounts, I advocate the return of all accounting to the place it belongs, namely to the auditor general."

Education

Educational policies upheld by the governor were frank. "A pay-as-you-go policy means, first of all, money in the treasury for essential purposes."

"The adequate education of our children is an essential public service. I advocate changes in the school laws which will safeguard us against invasion of the rights of children. I propose that you increase State aid for schools to $45,000,000 a year, for each of the two next fiscal years. I urge that you set this money aside in a special fund, earmarked as definitely and firmly as are highway or conservation funds, so there may be no borrowing nor tampering."

"I recommend that the legislature initiate a constitutional amendment to the 15 mill tax amendment, permitting school districts which are unable to meet school needs to nullify the 15 mill limitation by a majority vote. The constitution now requires a two-thirds vote. I suggest also that districts be allowed to issue 15 instead of five-year bonds to finance buildings."

"I recommend, also, the initiation of an amendment to take the superintendent of public instruction out of politics. He should be appointed by an elective board."

Farming

Focusing attention on the farmer, Governor Fitzgerald said: "The farmer, under the governmental experiments now afoot, has almost lost control of his acres. He is no longer master of his own domain."

"He must regain his place in the sun. The creation of markets for his products will most speedily restore him to his independence. Michigan is fortunate in that its agricultural products have the quality essential to good marketing. It is my recommendation that Michigan agriculture get its share of the benefits of advertising."

"A more equitable share of revenues from racing should be allocated to county fairs, 4-H clubs and Smith-Hughes organizations."

Welfare

"A welfare reorganization measure, embracing the meritorious features of the bill rejected by the voters in the November election, should be enacted. Consolidation and simplification of welfare activities, to bring about greater efficiency in administration is highly desirable, that a fuller share of welfare funds may go to the needy rather than into payrolls. The objectionable provisions of the bill which was subjected to the referendum should be removed — particularly those denying local authorities proper authority in the matter of passing upon the eligibility of applicants. There should be adequate provision for separate and peculiar treatment of welfare activities in certain populous municipalities. Funds for direct relief should be set aside and earmarked. Because of the possibility of fluctuations in relief demands, an appropriation based upon the best obtainable estimates of prospective needs should be made, with additional emergency authority granted to the State administrative board. At the end of each fiscal year, any amounts left in the earmarked relief fund, should be applied to increase old age assistance payments."

Health

"As part of the State's welfare service, a system which will provide adequate health service to all the needy should be authorized. It is my recommendation that a percentage of all welfare payments be set aside for health service. The fund should be allotted to local relief units on a per capita, or other suitable basis and should be included in the general welfare act."

In regard to the liquor question, he said: "It is regrettable that the State is in the liquor business to the extent of being a retail distributor and a purchasing agent. I do not view this condition as healthy. I favor a plan under which the State should act purely as a clearing warehouse, a tax collecting agency and an enforcing arm. Retail sales should be made through established retail merchants who are paying taxes. I believe that with proper adjustments, greater revenues could be derived if State liquor business were sold."

Mid-Winter Crop of Rhubarb Earns Rich Profit for Macomb Growers

(Editor's note: Clarence Church, named in this article, is related to Harold Church, manager of the Nowell's Lumber and Coal company in this village.)

Rhubarb, "pie-plant" to many housewives, turns in a sizeable income for truck farmers in the Utica section, according to a story appearing last week in the Utica Sentinel. Approximately $500,000 will be realized from the shipment of the unique annual winter farm product, forced rhubarb, when the season begins about the middle of January. Tardiness of Michigan's winter season has postponed the opening of the season about three weeks.

Motorists who have traveled in southern Macomb county during the winter months last year may recall having seen low sod and straw structures back in the fields with a thin pipe pouring smoke from the dark interior. These are the "forcing houses" wherein Uticans raise their lucrative winter crop.

Rhubarb roots must be frozen solid before they are put into forcing houses, and this season freezing weather came so late that in some cases the freezing was not thorough. Some growers, especially those in the southern part of the area near Warren, had to reopen their houses to refreeze the roots.

The total value of this year's crop of rhubarb should be in the neighborhood of $500,000, according to Clarence Church, of the local firm of Church & Church, rhubarb-consignment representatives. Opening price last week for fancy rhubarb, 50-pound case, was $12.50. Current quotations are about $11.00 for fancy grades and $8.00 for choice.

Forced rhubarb growing is an infant industry. It is held by those who have seen the growth of rhubarb forcing houses in Macomb county in the past ten years, and it is almost exclusively a Utica enterprise. Nowhere in the United States is the plant grown so extensively for winter forcing as in the southeastern section of Macomb county. The $500,000 value represents income to the truck gardeners of the neighborhood in the season of the year when, normally their income would be at the low point.

Michigan Leads in Benefit Claims

The Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission completed the year 1938 leading all states in paying job insurance benefits. In the matter of rapidity of payment, efficiency in processing claims, and in obtaining employment for the jobless, Michigan's record was unequalled by any of the 29 states paying benefits at this time.

The record submitted to Governor Frank Murphy by Executive Director Abner E. Larned, who took up the duty Jan. 1, of Works Progress Administrator of Michigan, showed: Amount paid in benefits $39,800,000; number of checks written, 2,950,000; individuals receiving checks 337,376; average per check, $11.50.

The balance in the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Trust Fund in the United States Treasury at the end of December was $37,000,000. This amount represents contributions made up to the end of September, 1938.

Contributions from employers for the last quarter of the year are not due until January 25, 1939. The pick-up in employment that started in August and steadily continued is expected to result in additional payments of between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000. This will increase the balance of the Michigan Fund to $49,000,000, all of which will be available only for the payment of future benefits.

The record of the Commission is considered remarkable because of the fact that Governor Frank Murphy advanced the benefit payment date by six months, making benefits available to the jobless last August.

Payment was instituted at a time when industrial employment had reached the low ebb of the recession that manifested itself toward the close of 1937.

In addition to paying benefits to those who established eligibility, the Commission was called upon to find jobs for the unemployed. The most recent figure shows that 64,000 applicants were placed in jobs.

Remarkable accuracy in estimating in advance the amount of benefits that would be paid, and the number to receive them was shown in the statistics gathered regarding the writing of checks. Careful study of conditions as far back as March and June 1938 indicated that $40,000,000 would be disbursed to those entitled to benefits.

The statistics were the basis of intelligent preparation for handling the load scattered throughout the 83 counties of Michigan. To give the best service to the jobless and to employers seeking to place men and women available for work, 35 offices were established in the State.

Quick-Witted Jeff Davis Proves Right to "King of Hoboes" Title

JEFF DAVIS is the proud owner of a unique title. Everywhere among the wandering fraternity he is hailed as King of Hoboes.

King Jeff, duly elected King for life, won his title by demonstrated powers of leadership, and by enterprising and resourcefulness that would give credit to any recognized American captain of industry.

But let King Jeff give one good example of how by keeping his eyes and ears open he makes profit for himself.

"When I hear a woman say she is 'worn out' because she has just finished her washing, I follow her, see where she lives, and sell the address to a household washer dealer," he says. "I do the woman a big favor, and I make money for myself and the dealer. What could be fairer?"

Forty-five years on the road, six trips around the world and 101 coast-to-coast journeys convince King Jeff that he knows the itinerant clan like a book. "A hobo will work a tramp won't—and a bum couldn't," he says. "Under no circumstances can a tramp or bum become a member, hence their hostility and abuse. But the time will come when we have the biggest washday ever! When that clean-up takes place the last of our tramp and bum critics will be washed away.

Popular Gambinis Make Return Film Appearance in New Vehicle, 'Road Demon'

"ROAD DEMON"

Those lovable Gambinis, who made their screen debut as a family in "Speed to Burn," are due for a "robust return engagement," Jan. 6 and 7, at the Penniman-Allyn theatre, with the opening of "Road Demon," second in 20th Century-Fox's new Sports Adventure series.

On the bare possibility that there may be one or two readers who have not yet had the pleasure of meeting the Gambinis, we hasten to explain that they are those smelting pot-citizens down the block (any block) or around the corner (any corner), who run the little delicatessen, or maybe it's a fruit store. There is Papay Gambini, played by the incomparable Henry Armetta, and Mama Gambini, played by Inez Palange, and the kids. The Gambinis like music spaghetti and the simple life — yet somehow their life is far from simple.

In "Speed to Burn" for instance, Papay Gambini without quite realizing how, somehow found himself part owner of a race horse — of all things! And now in "Road Demon" the Gambinis have gone and got themselves a big piece of racing car — and Papay Gambini can't even drive a small truck!

A plot suggests "Road Demon" has to do with automobile racing — specifically, with the annual race at Indianapolis.

"DOUBLE DANGER"

Teaming two of its most popular players, Preston Foster and Whitney Bourne in the star roles, of "Double Danger," RKO Radio promises a fast-moving and suspense-packed mystery to film-fans. It will be shown here Wednesday, Jan. 11.

The plot hinges on the activities of two smooth and resourceful crooks of the Ratfies variety. Foster is ostensibly a writer of mystery stories, who gets the basis of his plots from a police commissioner. Miss Bourne is also a friend of the official, who is, he thinks, nearing the end of a long quest for a mysterious jewel thief.

While neither Foster nor Miss Bourne are aware of it, the commissioner has narrowed his suspicion down to them — and he invites both to his country home. At the moment, Foster has possession of the famous Konjor diamonds, which he has stolen from Miss Bourne, who in turn cleverly pilfered them from a leading jeweler.

The commissioner hopes to trap "The Gentleman," but the scheme becomes entangled with the fact that Foster and Miss Bourne fall in love. The romance, which at first proves a stumbling-block to the commissioner's plans eventually solves everything for him in a satisfactory manner.

With its unique story basis and its novel depiction of ingenious crook methods and even more ingenious crime detection methods including the use of infra-red photography to trap a safecracker at work "Double Danger" offers plenty of thrills and excitement for theatre-goers.

Both the popular Foster and the swiftly-climbing Miss Bourne have suave roles. In support are such well-known character players as Samuel S. Hinds, Donald Meek, Paul Guilfoyle and Cecil Kellaway with Arthur Lake and June Johnson carrying a secondary romance. Lew Landers directed.

"LEATHERNECKS"

Richard Cromwell wanted to be a professional baseball player. He was trained to be a portrait painter. He became an actor.

The popular star, who will open next Wednesday, Jan. 11, at the Penniman-Allyn theatre in the Republic picture, "Come on, Leathernecks!" came into pictures by coincidence. A major studio had tested more than 500 professional actors for the role of a country boy in "Tobacco David," and couldn't find anyone to fit the part. Cromwell went to the studio one day to see upper hand every time the two quints tangled. Detroit's widest margin of victory over the Ontario team was in 1935 when the Titans chalked up a 50 to 12 win. The closest game ever played between the two was in 1934 when Detroit nosed out the Canadians by a score of 32 to 26. The Brazilians have scored a total of 349 points to Western Ontario's 173.

The Canadians are conceded little chance of upsetting the U. of D. team on its own floor. However, there is always a first time and it is for that reason that Coach Lloyd Brazil has been warning his squad all week against over-confidence. The Titans encountered more trouble than they expected with Assumption college this year, and Brazil believes that it was over-confidence more than anything else that caused Detroit to play its worst game of the season against a team that was supposed to be one of the weakest on the 1938-39 cage card. "Don't let this happen again," Brazil warned his squad yesterday, "because the second time it might prove very disastrous."

The Western Ontario five has been polished to stop the scoring spree of Bob Calihan, Detroit's star center. Last year, Bob scored 11 points against the Canadians to be high man of the evening.

HORSE GOES TO SCHOOL

Allegan — This city boasted an education-seeking nag and surprised school officials recently. When janitors came to work one morning, they found a horse roaming in the first floor of the high school. The spectacle brought many a laugh and a job for the janitors. Oh yes, the day before the horse was found was Halloween.

U. OF D. BASKETBALL COURT WILL BE SCENE OF FAST GAME, FRIDAY

Back from its second road trip of the year which included only one game, that being with the University of Wisconsin, the University of Detroit's streamlined basketball team will resume activity on the home floor Friday evening against the Canadians of Western Ontario. One of the oldest rivals on Detroit's schedule, in view of the number of basketball games played between the two schools, Western Ontario will come to the Motor City Friday evening in quest of its first victory in nine games played with the Titans. In the series of contests which date back to 1932, Coach Lloyd Brazil's cagers have held the

Everyday Cooking Miracles

BY VIRGINIA FRANCIS

Director, Hotpoint Electric Cookery Institute

Wouldn't you say that two layers of cake and a half dozen tarts would be a pretty fair turnout from an hour's work? And since 35 of those 60 minutes were probably spent doing something else besides cooking—for that is the time during which the electric baked cake, I think we will agree that the young lady "has got something there."

What she really has is such a justifiable dislike for long, laborious hours in the kitchen that she does as many cooking operations as possible, and invariably adopts the easiest way of doing things. She also has a modern Hotpoint electric range, and it is this dependable piece of equipment that enables her to cook complete meals and even pieces of baked products successfully and without concern. An electric dish washer does the cleaning up so there's really little to do after closing the oven door but forget what's baking and do the things that women usually do in a few precious spare moments.

Watch Cakes Slide Away
 It seems pretty "soft," doesn't it, but just you put pencil to paper and have a little patience. Plan to get one piece of equipment at a time, possibly starting with the range, or refrigerator, and adding the dish washer, mixer and other time-savers later on. It won't be long until you can be watching the old cakes slide away!

But the cake and tarts under consideration at this particular moment are no ordinary cake and tarts. The cake is flavored with grapefruit juice and rind and is of the tall, tender, melt-away variety. It is

Grapefruit Cake
 1 cup butter - 3/4 cups cake flour
 3 tbsp. grated - 1/4 tsp. salt
 grapefruit rind 1/2 tsp. soda
 2 1/2 cups granulated sugar - 3 tsp. baking powder
 4 eggs and 1 egg yolk 1/4 cup grapefruit juice

1. Cream butter and grapefruit rind. Add sugar slowly and beat well. 2. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. 3. Sift together dry ingredients and add alternately with grapefruit juice, beating thoroughly. 4. Pour 1/4 of batter in each of 2 greased layer cake tins, reserving remainder for tarts. 5. Bake at temperature of 355°. Time: Approximately 35 minutes.

Cake, Jam Tarts
 1. Line 6 muffin tins, cups with over-pie crust. 2. Place 1 spoon of your favorite jam in each shell. 3. Place grapefruit batter over the jam to fill the cups 3/4 full and bake in oven. 4. When ready to serve, whip cream.

FURNITURE MEN TO SEE LATEST HOME FASHIONS

Buyers Will Attend National Market at Mart in Chicago Jan. 9-21

When the home furnishings fashions for 1939 make their debut at the industry's great national market at the American Furniture Mart, Chicago, among those on hand for the event will be Nelson Schrader of Schrader's furniture store.

"We attend the national markets primarily to see the new merchandise, get a line on what the leading factories are doing, and insure that we obtain the best value for our customers," Mr. Schrader explained.

However the shows are helpful to us in many ways. Model rooms reflect the current trend in interior decoration; other exhibits provide new ideas for store arrangement, window displays and special promotions, contacts at Chicago with furniture men from other cities often develop new merchandising ideas. Market attendance helps keep us up-to-date with the industry and provides us with last minute information on new things for the home which we can pass on to our customers."

The Chicago exhibition is the "largest home furnishings show on earth," the displays of furniture, lamps, floor coverings, bedding, major home appliances, and accessories filling sixteen floors of the huge Furniture Mart each floor a full city block square.

"Advance word from the Mart is that Swedish modern designs will again be featured this year," Mr. Schrader said. In styles which blend with period settings. Native peasant styles such as Swedish, Swiss, Danish, Mexican and French Provincial styles as well as Early American and Colonial patterns will also be popular. Eighteenth Century English styles will follow the simplified designs used by Sheraton, Hepplewhite, Duncan Phyfe and the Adam Brothers."

Larry Reed: Don't worry, Walter. I happen to know that Charlie is getting you a lot of great publicity.

Chas. Butterworth: Yes sir, look at this terrific plug I got you in Winchell's column.

Walter O'Keefe: Read it.

Chas. Butterworth: All right, here it is. Quote: "What radio performer has been where with who, in which restaurant, when?"

Walter O'Keefe: That's about me, eh?

Chas. Butterworth: Yes—and what's more it's syndicated in 200 newspapers.

Hollywood Mardi Gras, NBC-Red Network, Tuesdays, 9:30 p. m., EST.

Bottle: Make-up will do wonder for you Mr. Baker. Lipstick will bring out your lips—one good eyebrow pencil will bring out your eyes and rouge will bring out your cheeks.

Phil Baker: That's right, Bottle, but what about my teeth? What will bring out my teeth?

Beetle: One good sneeze!

Bottle: Beetle, you massage your shoe shine, you Turkish Bath.

Phil Baker: Bottle! Why Turkish Bath?

Bottle: Oh Mr. Baker, that's where the rub comes in.

Bottle: I understand Louie the Lug just tumbled in on the restaurant business and is getting ten cents for every plate of soup that is sold. Can you imagine fifty million people eating soup?

Beetle: Boy, what a racket!

The Great American Trouper, CBS, Sundays, 7:30 p. m., EST.

FITZGERALD'S MESSAGE TO STATE LEGISLATURE

 tion stores were abolished. Hundreds of thousands of dollars could be saved in decreased payroll, rent, maintenance and so forth. However, the question of revenue should be a matter of secondary importance. The primary function of State control should be to promote decency and temperance.

"The present staggered, non-political State conservation commission should be continued. The present appropriation for advertising the recreational and scenic advantages is $150,000 a year, of which $50,000 is dispensed by the State, and the rest, on a matching basis, through the tourist and resort organizations."

I recommend that the appropriation be increased to $200,000 a year, half to be allotted to the State, half to the tourist and resort organizations.

In conclusion, he pointed out: "Workmen want to go back to work, and they want to stay at work. They do not want interference. They do not want persecution. They do not want will o' the wisp leadership which tears up their pay envelopes and tosses them to the winds. It is the duty of this government to give workmen the things to which they are entitled. They shall have them."

"The aged, the needy and the afflicted must have the security of sound budgeting, that their needs may not be swamped in a sea of excessive spending. The education of our children, the welfare of the farmers, protection of homes against tax confiscation, the re-establishment of confidence in business and industry—all these are our changes. To them, we must devote every ounce of our energy and thought. We must provide cash service instead of word service."

Gabbie, Gabbie
 "Some men," said Uncle Eben, "are smart enough to talk by the hour, but haven't sense enough to keep from saying 'pumpin' dat kin run 'em in five minutes.'"
