

UNDERWEIGHT PUPILS BENEFIT BY MILK FUND

Mothers' Club Pays $106 To Back School Project This Year

Note 12-Pound Gain

A fourth grader gained almost 12 pounds (11½) between October and May, the months when she was on the "free milk list" and was getting a half-pint of milk a day at the school.

Gain Is Shown

She is just one of the 58 free list children who received this nourishment each school day—and all—except one—showed a gain in weight. Some gained only four pounds, some five, others seven and still others hit the 10-pound gain mark and over.

Some $168 were expended for the milk fund project this year, reports Sup't. R. E. Amerman. "Of this amount, $106 was contributed by the Mothers' club, marking the third year that the organization has taken the lead in the project. The other $60 was donated by the school to be used specifically for milk for undernourished children," Mr. Amerman explained.

Villagers Contribute

Mrs. Willard Ely, president of the Mothers' club, says that $106.60 was donated by the villagers at large through the milk bottle medium. More than 60 milk bottles were placed in vantage points in the business district during the winter months by a committee headed by Mrs. M. J. Koldyka, Mrs. E. B. Cavell, Jr., and Mrs. Gerald Taft. "The public has really been very generous in responding to this extent," she said. "We could never have undertaken the project and seen it through without this support," affirms Mrs. Ely, who says that there is more than $30 in the milk fund to get the project under way next year. It is probable that milk will be served before October of next year.

Drink 5000 Half-Pints

"Over 5000 half-pints were served to the children during the school year," comments Mr. Amerman. "We appreciated the cooperation of the Mothers' club. It was a lot of work to distribute and collect the milk bottles."

Some $27 of the milk fund were taken in by the sale of tickets for Mrs. H. S. Mallory's lecture late in the spring. "When Mrs. Mallory learned that the lecture was a benefit-milk fund project, she contributed her time," asserts Mrs. Ely. Mrs. Robert Lloyd had charge of the ticket sale.

SCHOULTZ AND LARKIN ENROLL AT BOYS' STATE ON COLLEGE CAMPUS

Bill Schoultz and Richard Larkin joined the 800 Michigan boys who are making up the Wolverine Boys' State at the Michigan State college which is now in session until June 23.

The two Northville boys went to East Lansing Thursday with Charles Schoultz and A. C. Carlson. The Rotary and Exchange clubs are sharing the expenses for one of the boys and the Lloyd H. Green post of the American Legion is paying the second boy's expenses.

Eight hundred boys from every county in the state are assembled in East Lansing. The group has been divided into cities and counties, the whole to comprise the Wolverine State. For the next 10 days the boys will conduct the affairs of Wolverine, elect their own governor, state and county officers, establish courts, law enforcement agencies and legislative bodies. In addition to this program, the boys will be given athletic and recreational means.

MERCHANTS DEFEAT OLYMPIC TEAM, 6-2, IN SUNDAY GAME

Northville will play Saline at 3 p. m. Sunday, June 18, in Cass Benton Park.

In a game featured with the not pitching of Lefty Westfall, the Northville Merchants took the measure of the Detroit Olympics Sunday by the score of 6-2 at the Olympic diamond.

Rain fell throughout the game, hampering the base runners considerably, but otherwise not marring the stellar play put up by both teams. Northville suffered the most from the heavy going on the paths as this team had more men on bases, and on three occasions had men thrown out at the plate on long throws from the outfield, leaving others stranded. With Westfall at the top of his form, the Olympics were unable to get a man past first base until the eighth. The first man in the eighth walked, Lefty fanned the next batter, then got their lead off man on a weak tip to pitcher. The next batter hit to the same spot, Lefty flipped, going for this, one way off balance, his throw was wide, putting two on. The next batter then hit to short for what looked like an easy out, but Bishop uncorked a wild throw, past first and two runs scored, marking a perfect day for Westfall.

"With conditions as they were, it was a wonder there were not more errors committed. Both teams may be commended for their playing. All the Northville boys gave a good account of themselves. Ray Westphall's catching was outstanding. Deal and Atkinson did good work too," comments Manager Dave Hay.

Dr. Chapman will preach again July 30, when the services are held in the Presbyterian church. Mr. Lord will preach in that church, Aug. 6 and 13.

The Rev. Dr. T. W. Smith of the Presbyterian church will bring to a close the summer schedule by preaching in the Baptist church, Aug. 20, 27 and Sept. 3.

Field Secretary, E. J. Soop, Talks to Rotarians

E. J. Soop of Royal Oak, field secretary of the University of Michigan Extension Service, was the luncheon speaker Tuesday at the Northville Rotary club.

President Floyd Northrup called on Sup't. R. H. Amerman to present Mr. Soop, who spoke in a most delightful and entertaining manner on the subject, "The Stamp of Circumstance." By specific instance and experience Mr. Soop reminded his audience of the responsibility we have for our conduct as representatives of groups, nation, school and other organizations and groups we may belong to. Our conduct often is the measure of others judging not only ourselves but others of the community, or nation.

Offer Cooperative June Sales Event

In a unique merchandising setup, Schrader's, Northville's furniture dealer, and Freydl's, quality merchandisers, are cooperating in a plan combining the sale of cedar chests and a free gift of merchandise. "All you do to get a choice of the free merchandise at Freydl's is to buy a cedar chest at Schrader's and then take your pick of the house at Freydl's. Turn to the attractive quarter page advertisement in this issue of The Record and know the particulars."

74 CAST VOTES IN WALLED LAKE JUNE ELECTION

Cox Is Re-elected; Adams
Gets Post Held by W. H. Glover

There's No Contest

By C. E. HUTTON

The annual election of the Walled Lake School district brought a total of 74 voters to their respective precincts, Monday, to return J. C. Cox to the board of education, and to elect James W. Adams of Commerce, to the board membership, replacing William H. Glover, board secretary for the past six years, whose term expires this year.

Mr. Glover did not seek reelection for the coming year, because of his increased business responsibilities. He will open his new recreation hall enterprise this month, and will continue his connection with the Walled Lake and Commerce Lumber and Coal company.

Both candidates for board membership were elected without contest. At the organization meeting of the board, following the meeting Monday evening, E. V. Mercer was elected president, the office held by Mr. Cox for the past four years. Mr. Cox was elected secretary, and Mrs. Cara Stoflet, re-elected treasurer.

The other trustees are Mr. Adams and Claude B. Lawrence.

Give Financial Statement

A financial statement of the Walled Lake schools issued to the electors at the school meeting indicated a sound financial condition for the district, which has a valuation of over $5,000,000. Total receipts for the year just ending were $110,932.89, while the total expenditures amounted to $104,523.12, leaving a balance of $6,409.77.

The W. A. board, which applies to the building and alteration program now in progress lists total receipts to date of $53,073.73, and expenditures to date from this account of $30,184.22, leaving a total cash balance on hand of $22,889.51. About $30,000 yet remains to be spent to complete the present building program, which will proceed at once with the closing of school activities this week.

In addressing his remarks to Laura Marie and her classmates—many of whom have been her Sunday School classmates as well as her schoolmates—Mr. Lord gave four keys for success in living.

The first key—high school education—the students now hold in their hands. Discipline, reverence and religion were the other keys. Physical, mental and spiritual discipline were stressed as Mr. Lord told the seniors that the time had come for them to impose their own disciplinary measures.

"Reverence, as I speak of it now, does not necessarily mean reverence to God—although that is of great importance. Right now I'm speaking of reverence in the light of the highest that is within yourself—trying up to it," he stressed.

In speaking of the key of religion, Mr. Lord said that it was up to every senior to discover God for himself.

Take Part in Service. The class procession and recreational were played by Peggy McCullough, the Rev. Dr. Howard R. Chapman and the Rev. Dr. T. W. Smith gave the invocation benediction and scripture, Leslie G. Lee's vested choir was heard in two numbers. Mrs. G. V. Harrison presided at the piano.

Plans have been made to hold the next three Sunday morning services, July 9, 16 and 23, in the Methodist church, with Dr. Chapman preaching the first two times, and the Rev. Harry J. Lord of the host church, preaching the last sermon in the Methodist church services.

Dr. Chapman will preach again July 30, when the services are held in the Presbyterian church. Mr. Lord will preach in that church, Aug. 6 and 13.

Exchange Is Host to Fair Board

Directors of the Northville Wayne County Fair were the guests of honor at the Exchange club luncheon Wednesday noon at the Methodist church house. E. L. Smith presided during the program and called upon the members of the board to tell of their plans for the coming fair.

Secretary Dayton B. Bunn was the first on the list and told briefly of the improvements and suggested that each director speak for his own department. L. C. Stewart said that the attractions would be better than ever. Many acts, local contests, two bands, fireworks, runners, the bell games all will make a great combination. Harry Clark spoke of the prospects of the horse show and foretold a larger entry list than ever before. He attributed the strength of the Northville Fair to the unflinching support of the businessmen of the community. H. R. Richardson told of reconstruction at the gates and the improvements planned in the sanitary conditions. Nelson Schrader saw a bigger and better show, and Mark Seeley promised not to lack anyone up. D. J. Stark said the concession and exhibit space was sold out and he was trying to find more space to sell. Glenn Richardson saw improvements and a fair capping anything heretofore given. Bill Forney spoke of construction work proposed, and Mayor Nichols bespoke the cooperation of the village council in every way possible. Said the Mayor, "The fair is the greatest advertisement Northville ever had."

They're Ready for July 4 Celebration

Andrew Torok and his Drum and Bugle corps wore their new uniforms for the first time in public Memorial Day when they took their place in the line of march. The organization is preparing now for the July-Fourth festivities to be sponsored by the Lloyd H. Green post of the American Legion.

Father-Daughter Relationship Highlights Baccalaureate

Youth, which so often is sentimental, found that sentiment characterized the baccalaureate service Sunday evening, June 11, in the Presbyterian church house. Youth found it to be fitting and proper in fact, youth like it—and so did adults.

It just so happened that the Rev. Harry J. Lord, pastor of the Northville Methodist church, gave the address of the evening. Sitting directly in front of him was Laura Marie, his only daughter, a member of the Class of 1939. Daughter, following the footsteps of her mother, is the valedictorian of the class. Years ago, Mrs. Lord was the valedictorian of her class at Morenci, and to make it a smart family threesome, Mr. Lord was valedictorian of his graduation class in Adrian.

In addressing his remarks to Laura Marie and her classmates—many of whom have been her Sunday School classmates as well as her schoolmates—Mr. Lord gave four keys for success in living.

Graduating Class Hears
Armless Business Man Cite Opportunities

Ignores Handicaps

Eighty graduates of the Class of 1939, their parents and school patrons listened last night when Thomas P. McAuliffe, Detroit, gave the commencement address in the Penman-Allen theatre.

Although armless, Mr. McAuliffe refuses to admit that there is any handicap other than a mental one. This he stressed as he gave encouragement to the members of the largest graduating class in the history of the Northville high school.

Book To Be Published

Mr. McAuliffe, who is a contributing author to the Cripple Child Magazine, Rehabilitation Review and Outwitting Handicaps, has written a book to be titled "No Handicaps" scheduled to come off the press this fall.

At present, Mr. McAuliffe is secretary to William E. Dowling, chief assistant prosecutor of Wayne county under Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea. He is assistant director of the Junior Intelligence Bureau, which is a youth organization for boys between the ages of 10 and 18, founded and dedicated to the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

Draws from Experience. Mr. McAuliffe drew from his wide range of business and avocational experiences (as a newspaper man, lecturer, manager of base ball, football and basketball clubs) to drive home his theme of the evening. Just as did the Exchangees when he spoke to them about two years ago so the seniors accepted his sound philosophy and words of wisdom which he gave to them before taking their diplomas as a symbol of entering the "world-at-large."

I Saw the King . . .

"I saw the King." Someday those words, spoken by thousands of Americans following the visit of His Majesty and Her Highness, The King and Queen of Great Britain, will be fond memories, cherished and relived. Mind, soul, lyric and pageant will memorialize the events of that visit.

Dispatches describing the trip of the King and Queen across America, visiting two great countries, say the Queen never stopped smiling. The King also responded with many smiles. America was won with a smile. The affection of Canadians and Americans, alike, was won with smiles. The Queen is a very beautiful woman, but if her beauty had been garbed in coldness and rigidity, it might not have counted for much. As in our daily life the one who responds with a smile to those who greet him, comes about as close to the heart of us humans as is possible.

Somebody, somehow just thought of the old man, the one and only, Dad himself and started this Father's Day. Probably being left alone and doing just what the muse suggests, might be a real thought for the day.

A Little Speck . . .

In addressing the Rhodes Scholars of Oxford, Sir James Barrie made this dramatic statement: "The beginning of all you are lies in you—a little speck that is to grow while you sleep, while you are awake; and that in the fullness of time, according to whether you control it or it controls you, is to be the making of you, or is to destroy you."

The speck of success! It is in every man. If he permits it to control him he will be but the dwarf of what he might have been. If he controls, expands and unfolds his speck of potential power he may become a giant of achievement.

Rembrandt expanded his speck into the genius of a master painter. Lincoln made his speck grow into an immortal statesman. Every leader makes the best of the speck of success within him. Those who do nothing about it never arrive.

A man's destiny depends upon what he does with the little speck that lies within him—Silva Lining.

Busy factories make jobs . . . jobs alone make security

If you wish to be happy for an instant, take vengeance; if you wish to be happy forever, forgive. These words of Lacordaire, suggest something that we would like to whisper softly in the ear of every member of the graduating class of the Northville High School. A key to a more abundant life lies cloaked in those potent words. Think it over.

Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal. —1 Cor. 13-1.

Rags Is Dead . . .

Sorrow gripped the home. Silence was more pronounced than for many a moon and food was hard to swallow—the weather was warmer. . . a drawn expression found exemplification in a slower step; and silence, and more of it, for Rags was dead. During a short few years a ragged, affectionate puppy, having faults, but clothed in charity, affection, loyalty and forgiveness had made himself a member of the family. Nor was the sorrowful demeanor anything to be ashamed of; no a thousand times, no. More should we have lost in admiration and appreciation of our good friends had their reaction not been so. For Rags, had earned a place for himself. As a loyal companion and sympathizer; uncompromising, uncensoring, forgiving and forgetting, ready to respond to every gesture of friendship and attention, Rags was a member of the family.

We thought of Sen. Vest's "Eulogy to a Dog":

"Gentlemen of the jury: The best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful.

Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps when he needs it most.

"A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads.

"The one absolutely unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous is his dog.

"Gentlemen of the jury, a man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground when the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side.

"He will kiss the hand that has no good to offer, he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince, when all other friends desert, he remains.

"When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies, and when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death."

And what is your honest opinion concerning the milk control bill?

Walled Lake News.

By C. E. Hutton

Nearly 600 people attended the baccalaureate service for the 1939 graduating class, held in the new gymnasium auditorium, Sunday evening. They heard an inspiring address by the Rev. Frank N. Miner of the Walled Lake Methodist church. Music was provided by the high school orchestra and the Methodist choir.

An audience of almost equal size attended the school music festival program Monday evening, which presented singing and instrumental numbers by each of the lower grades, selections by the school orchestra, the junior band and a short program by the senior band, conducted by Frank Bach. Highest praise was heard for the work of all groups, particularly the high school band, which continues to amaze the people of the community with the excellence of its work and its rapid progress during the three years it has been organized, under Mr. Bach's direction.

Another program of extraordinary merit was given Friday evening by the Methodist choir, in the church auditorium. The concert consisted of an unusually high standard of sacred music, and gained the commendation of all who attended. Mrs. Whittney Smith, an unusually gifted soprano, who is a member of the organization, received much praise for her solo work, as did Miss Barbara Thayer, playing the marimba.

The Methodist Ladies Aid was to hold its annual home coming meeting Thursday of this week. Former members of the community and of distant points were expected to attend. The affair was to be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Parris, starting with dinner at noon. ## Reception Held in Novi Follows Marriage Vows Read in Indiana

The nuptial vows of Miss Irene Kemper and Earl Chester Holmes, both of Novi, were read Wednesday, June 7, in the Methodist parsonage at LaGrange, Ind., by the Rev. H. E. Weaver.

For her wedding, the bride selected an afternoon frock of light beige, with a V neck, puffed sleeves, and full skirt. With this she wore a white picture hat and matching accessories. Her flowers were yellow roses, forget-me-nots and white snapdragons.

Her attendant, Miss Nelda Crum, also of Novi, wore a gown of blue shades, which deepened into purple. Her corsage was of blue iris, forget-me-nots and snapdragons.

Kenneth Puckett was Mr. Holmes' best man.

Returning to Novi, a reception was held that evening in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. James Taylor of Walled Lake road. Large baskets of garden flowers made the rooms attractive with flowers in pink and white colors predominating. Two large white wedding bells hung from arched dog-eared. ## The RECORD SHOPPER

Northville's merchants have joined hands this week to make it almost impossible for Dad's Day to slip by unobserved in every home in the village. Long a believer in the promotion of a Dad's Day to the extent of putting the occasion on an equal basis with Mother's Day, we're passing on some hints that may help the daughter and wife in their efforts to make the dear man realize that he's truly a sort of king in his own rights.

For those who find it difficult to make speeches of sentiment, let the Holmes Gift shop help. There's a card that can send sweet phrases straight to his heart. And for the dad who has a mania for keeping his papers fastened together "system-like," buy a Staple Master — he'll bless the giver.

He'll seldom admit it, but he does take pride in his clothes. Braders have attractively boxed ties just special for this day. The Lewis store is making much of sport clothes — slacks and shorts. Freydl's are all for letting the man have a decent shirt — maybe more than one.

Let the man — if you really love him — have his tobacco and pipes — and not just on Dad's Day — make it a 365-day pleasure. Look over the line at the Northville Drug company. What man doesn't like to eat and few there are who don't have a weakness for sweets. Sally Bell is making water-cakes and short-cake biscuits. That will make him happy all week. Gussells know their men. They know that all Old Spice shaving mug will start the day off just right — they, too, believe in letting the man have his smoke — there must be something to it. And Blake, the jeweler, has come to the aid of fathers — he has belt and buckle sets, lighters, collar holders — all just like father likes.

Valedictorian, Salutatorian Speak for Graduating Class of '39

PEAK OF FOUR-YEAR CLIMB IS REACHED

Valedictorian Compares 'View' with that of Roman God with Two Faces

Note: Laura Marie Lord, valedictorian of the Class of 1939, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Harry J. Lord, writes her speech of honor which was given last night at the commencement exercises.

Four years have gone—the four years of high school, long indeed though they seemed as we looked forward to them, but brief and rich in experience as we look back upon them. For four years we have been climbing the mountain of knowledge; for four years we have been working toward the summit known as Commencement. Tonight we have reached that peak, only to discover that it is but the top of a foothill and that higher mountains loom ahead. It is truly the commencement of our lives. During the past we have been shielded by the protecting walls of our high school, but now we are entering life in earnest with high hopes for future success.

As we pause tonight at the height of our present achievement, our view might be compared to that of Janus of Roman mythology, the god with two faces, one which viewed the past and the other which looked into the future.

Facing backwards, the past appears before us in retrospect. We realize that it is not to us that the laurel wreath belongs because we have climbed the mountain thus far. Let us not make the mistake of the young man who stood looking down from the mountain-top and called to his fellow travelers to see the great shadow he cast upon the valley below, ignoring the sun and the mountain which made the shadow possible.

Likewise, we could never have reached this summit of the mountain of life without the efforts and sacrifices of those who made our education possible. We would pay tribute to those pioneers of past generations who laboring in many fields of human endeavor, lifted mankind to a higher plane.

We cannot express our indebtedness for the patience and encouragement of our teachers who have sought to guide us into this fine heritage of the past. It is they who have inspired us when the path was rough and the way difficult. We have received many things in our upward climb which would not have been ours without the sacrifices of our parents. They have worked to give us the opportunities which are now ours.

We are also indebted to our friends and fellow students for their comradeship and their share in making our school days pleasant.

The only reward we can make is to invest well in life what we have received, with hopes of success. We will always carry with us the lessons we have learned from them, and thus fortified we should not fail.

As we think lingeringly of the past, we, as Janus, are also looking ahead. It remains with us to show in the future whether or not the years spent in developing our minds were profitable ones and whether or not there has been development of character that will stand the tests of the future. The deeper and fuller we have prepared, just so much greater our advantage and possibility of success. We have everything before us, and our ambitions are high. Every one of us wishes to be a success although we travel different paths. One great man has said, "The demand upon us is not that we succeed, but only that we try, and to try manfully every day and all day long is inevitably to attain in the end a supreme success."

In these words lies a definite challenge for each of us. May we, the 1939 graduates of Northville high school, accept this challenge and continue to climb until we have attained that supreme success. We would be strong! "We are not here to play to dream, to drift, we have hard work to do and loads to lift." We would "shun not the struggle but face it, for God's gift."

Tourist Travelers Seek Michigan Fun

Increased tourist travel in Michigan during 1939 is indicated by the traffic records established this week at the Straits of Mackinac. Ferry crossings are an important barometer used by the Michigan state highway department to gauge tourist travel.

State highway commissioner Murray D. Van Wageningen, pointed to a 15.5 per cent increase in the number of vehicles transported during this Memorial Day week end as compared with last year. The week end included the five days Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Five ferries operating on a summer schedule for the first time this year, transported 5,185 vehicles during the five-day holiday week end. This compared with 4,486 vehicles for the same period a year ago.

EDUCATION MAKES FIRM FOUNDATION

Student's Outlook Broadened Each Year by Study of New Courses

Note: Helen Harper is the salutatorian of the Class of 1939. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Harper. Thankfulness for the opportunity of an education is the keynote of her speech.

We, the graduating Class of 1939, extend our greetings to you who are here to witness a great event in our lives. Perhaps some of you don't quite realize just how important today is to us. Up to now our actions have been thoughtfully planned and guided by those who wish to see us succeed in life.

Our parents and teachers have carefully helped to mold our characters, knowing that we will remain pretty much the same in character through life. Each year our outlook has broadened, our interests multiplied. From history of the past events we learned to interpret and spiritual. These are the essentials that school life into the future; literature has given us the basis on which to build our lives honorably and intelligently. As a man who builds a bridge must be sure first of a firm foundation, so we must have a firm foundation of knowledge and the strain of heavy traffic, just so must our foundation be strong to meet the floods and the traffic of life.

It is for us now to build there-upon the structures of our lives, each according to his ambitions and individual gifts and in the building we shall remember to incorporate a desire for service, a will to make this a better world in which to live and always a remembrance of you who sent us forth.

And so with a warm sense of thankfulness as we look forward from this point of preparation to whatever lies before us—we, the graduating class of 1939 salute you.

Miss Peggy Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Walker, Jr., has returned to her home, Happy Acres, after a year as the Grier school, Birmingham, Pa.

Dignity Is Surprise Note in Class Night Program

Characterized by a little more dignity than has been true of such programs in the past four years, the seniors presented the Class Night program Tuesday, June 13, in the high school gymnasium.

Nervously Charles Bishop was master of ceremonies, doing a rather good job (despite his admitted nervousness) of introducing the members of the class who came before the general public to perform. That the class has plugged away at doing things of note during the high school years was evidenced in the history edited by Lucille (piano-playing) Lapham and Julia Modes.

The two class song birds, Helen Winter and Wanita Miller, soloists, pleased all the mamas, papas and teachers by singing "God Bless America" and "An Old Love."

Musically A piano duet, which somewhat dazed the audience because of the manner of its rendition, but which had the members of the class practically in the palm of their hand. Maxine Perkins and Path Labeau, Dick Ambler, Charles Altman, Keith Avey, Robert Reinbow, and Dick Larkin harmonized (after a fashion) on two numbers.

Feetingly There isn't a senior who sits through the annual reading of the prophecy, will and the gittatory who doesn't get somewhat red-faced and mutter to his fellow-victim, "Is nothing private and sacred in my life?" It seems that seniors have by brace themselves for this bit of humor all revealing which brings out the skeletons, so to speak. The prophecy was given by Laura Bolton and Clara Christensen. Janet Stewart gave assurance that her dress-designing career (which begins in the fall) will get her places by appearing in a quant — yet chic — cotton of pink and blue. She, with man-about-town Warren Bogart, gave the class will. Young Bogart had his father's business at heart — not letting a chance slip to give the gum sales a boost when opportunity came. The even created the opportunity. Through the generosity of his soul, he willed an old pair of shoes to just any fellow-foot sufferer. But what about the red and green socks which were fashion highlights on the basketball court?

And the gifts — that sting — were given out by Helen Brander, Helen Harper, Wanita Miller, Gail Hornung and Mary Hester Gow.

Fashionably We can't write fairs to the class night story, without commenting upon the cotton frocks worn by the girls. In every class there are girls who manage to be outstanding because of the appropriateness and good taste which mark their frocks. But few are the classes in which the girls so consistently manage to select dresses which are so correct in color and style as was evidenced ed when the senior girls marched in Tuesday night. A note of simplicity and quaintness prevailed — making it the most consistently best-dressed group of senior girls in the past four years.
