Congratulations

Our congratulations and best wishes to Northville's new civic officials. No easy job is the task confronting the new mayor, and his councilmen. Probably no more thankless job is known to the race of man than that of being the president of a village. Lots of kicks, plenty of slaps, and few words or acts of appreciation are on the menu of village officials. Whether you voted for them or not they are now our officers, and Northville's government is in their hands. Your help will be appreciated by everyone of these men. Molasses catches more flies than vinegar. Let's all try a little more molasses in our conception of village matters. And we stand at your service, Mr. President.

A solution of the starting pest problem suggested by a director of wildlife restoration work is hunting them for "blackbird" pie, a way of cooking said to make them delicious.

Tra La La

Spring, Spring, the beautiful Spring, tra la, tra la, etc. Oh, yea? Evidently winter and spring got their dates mixed up, or something. The last day of winter was beautiful, and real nice. But came the Spring, season of violets, frolicking lambs and baby chicks, and four inches of snow, blizzards, and drifts arrived. Down went the mercury to ten degrees and we thought that was pretty cold for Spring, but we hadn't seen Easter yet. Easter morning early worshippers cast wondering glances at the thermometer that registered four below. It was cold all day, the mercury hardly climbing over ten degrees. So it was a happy Easter, clear, bright, but cold. Methinks we see some Northvillians down "South of the (Florida) Border" smiling just a wee bit.

Can you remember when Saint Patrick's Day came on Sunday before?

Here's the Why of the Easter Date

We mortals are ever and forever in a quandary concerning certain things that occur about us, and none is more questioned this year than "Why Easter Comes on Mar. 24?" Well there won't be another Easter on Mar. 24 until 2391. The last time it occurred on Mar. 24 was in 1799. The date observed this year was probably the rarest date in the history of the Gregorian calendar which has been used for 350 years. There are 35 days upon which Easter may come.

At a church council in 325 A. D. it was decided that Easter should always fall on the first Sunday following the first full moon that occurs on or after Mar. 21. This makes it possible for Easter to come as early as Mar. 22 or as late as Apr. 25. Easter has occurred on Mar. 22 in 1589, 1693, 1761 and 1818, and there will be another one in 2235. In 1913, Easter will fall on Apr. 25. Some advocates of a stabilized calendar have proposed setting the second Sunday in April as the permanent Easter Sabbath. This would be nearer the date of Jesus' resurrection, which was on Sunday, Apr. 9, in the year 30 A. D.

When M. W. Cochrane, traffic manager in the city of Detroit, recommends traffic lights in the center of the street, and uniform placings, he certainly had we'lls from the country in mind. And when Judge Miller called attention to being nearly bowled over by motorists running right on a green light he said a mouthful. We believe that in making a right turn on a green light the motorist should come to a full stop before venturing into the zone protected by a red light.

Bean Shippers Take Lead

Michigan bean shippers took the lead among Michigan food producers in recognizing the vast possibilities offered by state cooperation in advertising their product. As soon as three other food product groups in the state follow the lead of the bean people, the State of Michigan will match the $um with $10,000.00. It won't be long now before the milk producers, and others will join in the movement of advertising Michigan grown products. May be the apple growers will join in the grouping. The Michigan beet growers have experienced much success in advertising Michigan beet sugar. Among 5000 people interviewed by Dr. Gallup, 81 per cent said, "Advertising leads people to buy things they don't need or can't afford." Surely if it leads them to buy what they don't need and can't afford advertising ought to be more effective urging them to buy Michigan grown products that they do need.

The following paragraph was written by M. H. DeFoe, State Liquor Control Commissioner. Not only because comes from a liquor commissioner who sits where he can best see the whole liquor picture in Michigan, but because it must appeal to your own good sense, we ask that you give sober thought to what it says.

"We reached the conclusion some time ago that every glass or bottle of whiskey sold in Michigan after midnight is at the expense of public morality. After six years of drinking sophistication it is high time for the state to start using a little sense in the matter of closing hours for all types of liquor outlets."

Facts for farmers who at this season will be tapping the sugar maples on the farm-woodlot: One good tree will yield 15 to 20 gallons of sap; 45 to 50 gallons of sap boil down to one gallon of syrup; in 1939, 37,000 trees were tapped in Michigan to provide 17,000 pounds of sugar worth 25 cents a pound and 10,000 gallons of syrup worth $2.05 a gallon with a total value of $215,000, the highest value of this crop since 1927.

As the season advances, the sweet peas can be made to grow longer and more luxuriantly if the plants are mulched with two to four inches of strawy manure.

Even more modern to lengthen out the sweet pea season is to give partial shade during hot summer days. Vandenberg Bandwagon Gains Speed

LANSING—While the Vandenberg-for-President bandwagon is rolling along at accelerated speed, friends of the Michigan senior statesman at Washington are keeping a close watch on his political fences for another six-year term in the United States Senate.

Here is an illustration, told for the first time.

Michigan has a sizeable bloc of Finnish votes. Many of these are in Upper Peninsula counties.

When the Russo-Finnish undeclared war was raging furiously, Michigan citizens of Finnish ancestry were outright sympathetic with pleas to rush guns, ammunition, trucks and other fighting material to the beleaguered democracy.

Sweep by compass for the embattled Finns, Rep. John D. Dingell, democrat of Detroit, went so far as to introduce a house resolution authorizing the United States government to sell 10,000 of the new Garand semi-automatic rifles to Finland for only $1 each.

With Dingell it was a matter of principle, not politics. He just felt that way about it.

Vandenberg Absent . . .

On Feb. 13 the United States senate resumed consideration of a bill to provide for a $20,000,000 loan to the Republic of Finland by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

While congress enacted a strict neutrality act last summer, just prior to the outbreak of the European conflict, such neutrality limitations became operative only when the nations involved officially issued declarations of war. Furthermore, the President invokes the neutrality act through a proclamation declaring the existence of war.

Because American sympathized with Finns just as they did for the Chinese, neutrality acts have been construed by Congress if not openly participated in. The proposed loan to Finland was in the latter classification.

Senator Prentiss Brown advocated passage of the bill, pointing out that it was an advance of credit, and that the money would be spent in this country to purchase American-made goods.

The debate continued, but Senator Vandenberg was absent from the vote. When the final roll-call was taken, the "yeas" included Brown but not Vandenberg who was thought listed as "not voting."

On the day before (Lincoln's birthday) Senator Vandenberg had spoke at a Republican dinner in his home town Grand Rapids. Taking a plane for Washington, he was grounded by a snowstorm in Pennsylvania at 3 p.m. Not until late at night could the plane take off with its party. And the Finnish loan vote was taken at 3 p.m.

Senator Clark of Missouri, also recorded as not voting, remarked after his name was called that he was paired with Vandenberg. "If the senator from Michigan were present and voting, he would vote 'yea.' If I were permitted to vote, I should vote 'nay.'"

When the Michigan senator arrived belatedly at Washington, he stepped off the plane. And with him was none other than George S. Friedman, Finnish consul to Michigan.

Brown on Hatch Act . . .

The idea of March point clearly to the approach of the 1940 election. Congressmen are anxious to establish a record of their actions so that when the campaign is on, they may proclaim "I point with pride" or "I vote with alarm."

Hence some statements are made frankly for public consumption to a certain degree they are obviously exaggerated for political effect.

When the Hatch act was passed last year curtailing the political activity of Federal employees, President Roosevelt said that it did not go far enough. He favored extension of the Hatch act to state employees whose departments received federal aid—grants.

Senator Hatch's new bill was then introduced in the 1940 session. It would effectively muzzle state machines, some of which have not been too cooperative with New Deal senators at Washington.

When the bill came up for consideration last week at Washington, Senator Brown proposed an amendment to forbid contributions to campaign funds by any beneficiary of any tariff, excise or otherwise of any contract with the United States or any of its agencies. This applied even to stockholders, officials and employees of corporations.

Brown recalled the $600,000 contributions of the DuPont family to the Republican campaign in 1936. He refreshed the memory of the Pew (Sun Oil) family's donations of $310,000 to the G. O. P. coffers.

Conspicuous by its absence was any mention of $500,000 advanced to the Democrats by the John L. Lewis United Mine Workers wing of the C. I. O. When Senator Robert Reynolds of North Carolina brought it up later, somewhat gleefully, Brown explained that the Lewis loan had been fully repaid.

Counter-Attack . . .

Actually Brown's move was not in behalf of the Hatch act. It was an obvious counter-attack.

This became evident when the junior senator cited Michigan's corrupt practices act governing political expenditures, and declared that Michigan had adequate protection today to control the situation in Michigan. He even raised the issue of state's rights.

Strangely enough, however, the Brown proposal has historic support. It was advanced by President Theodore Roosevelt in his annual message to Congress on the state of the union on Dec. 9, 1907. "Teddy" wrote: "Under our form of government voting is not merely a right but a duty, and, moreover, a fundamental and necessary duty if a citizen is to be a good citizen. It is well to provide that corporations shall not contribute to presidential or national campaigns, and furthermore to provide for the publication of both contributions and expenditures." Roosevelt advocated a congressional appropriation to fund a party campaign.

It was Senator Brown, unyielding to pleas from the White House, who voted with Democrats and Republicans to defeat the Supreme court "packing" bill. Independent in his thinking he refuses to be a rubber stamp.

And so, the record is being written. It is a foreboding reminder that 1940 is a campaign year.

Michigan's new bill was then introduced in the 1940 session. It would effectively muzzle state machines, some of which have not been too cooperative with New Deal senators at Washington.

When the bill came up for consideration last week at Washington, Senator Brown proposed an amendment to forbid contributions to campaign funds by any beneficiary of any tariff, excise or otherwise of any contract with the United States or any of its agencies. Docking Lambs Reduces Disease

With more than a million Michigan lambs starting out their growth into marketable meat animals this spring attention to docking and castrating not only prevents disease but means better chance for profit at marketing time.

That is the seasonal warning to sheep men in Wayne county from G. L. Cole of the animal husbandry department at Michigan State college.

Several methods are used in docking lambs' tails. County agricultural agents, including E. J. Besemer of Wayne county, have information available on these methods, says Cole.

Another process which affects meat gains and market prices is that of castrating male lambs to be fed for the market. Wether lambs often sell for a dollar or even two dollars more than an uncastrated male.

Regardless of what methods are used, Cole points out, a sheep man can get full value from lambs only if the two processes are followed.

Strikes Cause More Idleness

According to the report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics issued Feb. 10, the number of strikes decreased 10 per cent in 1939 as compared with 1938, but the number of workers involved showed an increase of 74 per cent over 1938 and the number of man-days idle an increase of 97 per cent over 1938.

The increases in 1939 in the number of man-days idle were due largely to the bituminous coal strike in April and May and the Chrysler strike in October and November.

Preliminary estimates of strikes in 1939 indicate the Bureau of Labor Statistics states, a total of about 2,500 strikes involving 1,200,000 workers and 18,000,000 man-days of idleness, compared with 2,772 strikes involving 688,376 workers and 1,148,273 man-days of idleness in 1938.

The influence of strikes on wage increases has been very slight judged by figures supplied by this Bureau. The average hourly earnings were 66.2 cents in December 1939, about 2 cents higher than in December 1938. Average hours worked in December 1939 were 38.6 as compared with 37.3 in December 1938, an increase of 1.3 hours. Average annual rates of wages changed but little in the three years 1937 to 1939, the averages for identical plants in 13 industries being 49.3 cents in 1937, 49.5 cents in 1938, and 50 cents in 1939.

While the country, as a whole, showed an increase in payrolls, the mining industry, an industry in which labor is highly organized, suffered a decline in employment between mid-November and mid-December 1939. Working time was reduced from 288 to 183 hours per week in anthracite mining and from 214 to 282 hours in bituminous mining. As a result, average weekly earnings in the former dropped 36.2 per cent to $17.15 and in the latter dropped to 10.1 per cent to $24.82.

Construction activity as measured by permit valuation for all types of building in cities reporting regularly to the Bureau of Labor Statistics was 2 per cent higher in December 1939 than in December 1938. It is significant to note that, while residential building increased 5.0 per cent, nonresidential work decreased 41 per cent.

When the census enumerator comes to your home or place of business for the 1940 census which is now getting under way, you will be asked to answer many questions. Just as a little inducement to encourage answers the Federal officials may rely upon a statute which provides a fine of $100 or 60 days, or both, for refusal to answer the questions put to you.

Chapman spent Monday in Toledo, O., witnessing the exhibition of paintings by celebrated Venetian Masters which has been held in the Toledo Museum of Art during the month of March. Among the artists represented are Titian, Tintoretto, Bellini and Carpaccio. This exhibition is spoken of as one of the greatest showings of the old Venetian painters ever assembled in America and it has attracted large numbers of art lovers throughout the month. Dondero Receives Honorary Degree

Dr. Stewart W. McClelland, president of Lincoln Memorial University

sty at Cumberland Gap, Harrogate, Tenn., this week presented to Rep. G. A. Dondero, member of Congress for the 17th district of Michigan, a diploma of honor in recognition of his work to lay the groundwork in preserving the memory of Abraham Lincoln. Others to receive this honor this year are Carl Sandburg, the author, and Raymond Massey, the actor.

The diploma, which is a beautiful etching, has within its border arrangement portraits of Abraham Lincoln and General O. O. Howard, and pictures of the White House, Lincoln's birthplace, and the various halls and dormitories of the Lincoln Memorial University.

This university was founded as the result of the request of President Lincoln to General O. O. Howard that if he did not survive, he wanted something done for the mountain people of that section.

"Advertising Saves Me Time, And Saves Me Money"

"I've heard that someone has said that Russia gets along without advertising. Well, so did Ancient Egypt, but I'd rather live here now, and read the Advertising. . . I'm not trying to be funny. First of all, it isn't true that Russia gets along without advertising because I have seen advertisements of the Russian Government and Russian Travel Agencies in this country. But that's not important. . . Advertising does a lot for me that I couldn't do for myself. It tells me usually which products are good. When I see an ad for a breakfast food, I generally know what that food is and its characteristics are; and I can tell whether the price is right. That is so true and so important to me and other women that even potatoes and onions today are being packaged, branded and advertised—they are of selected quality and size, are clean, and come in accurately measured quantities in standard packages. I have confidence in advertised products because I have found them to be reliable. So, I buy without hesitation, and that saves me time. . . As for price, I have found that advertised goods sell on a quality-price basis. For the price, the advertised product usually offers as much, and sometimes more than the unadvertised product of similar quality. I say, without hesitation, therefore, that Advertising saves me money, too."

News from Walled Lake

By C. E. HUTTON
Perhaps the most important local event of the week will be the Firemen's Ball, to take place Saturday evening at the school. Its importance is not based alone on its status as a social highlight, but equally upon the fact that its proceeds will make possible the purchase of a long needed fire truck chassis for the district to replace the antiquated piece of machinery now in use. Given the chassis, the men of the fire department will contrive their time and effort to build up its superstructure into a modern fire fighting apparatus. This will take time, but with the labor contributed to the cause, it will also save the people about 60 per cent in the total cost of the completed unit.

Saturday night's dancing party will of course be open to the public. Patrons are promised a thoroughly enjoyable evening. Two well known dance bands of seven and five pieces each will provide first class music. There will be refreshments.

Ticket sales are in the hands of Kent Telford and Harvey Sigmund. Don Riley and Frances Gidley are in charge of refreshments and checking, while Melburn Saranburg and John Ryan, comprise the decorating committee.

Orlind G. Owen well known Northville business man, was a Walled Lake visitor Monday. He extended me congratulations on the arrival of the new Hutton daughter, and gave me a clear "Thumbs up" what I call real filiation.

The Walled Lake High School Band announces its readiness for presentation of an "all request" program Friday evening at the school. The organization now numbers over 60 members, and provision is under way, through the effort of the Music Patrons' club and other groups to provide the band with adequate equipment, including instruments and uniforms. Proceeds from this concert will go to that fund. Progress of the band under Frank Bach has been outstanding. The group has appeared in many out of town engagements and has finished in high school band competitions.

The program Friday includes numbers such as Lenko's "Cossack Invocation and Dance", "Overture Hongroise" (Skorucka), "Under the Double Eagle" (Wagner); an excerpt from the Peer Gynt suite of Grieg; "Stars and Stripes" (Souza); "Dorkey Serenade" (Prum) and others.

John Hess, Walled Lake business man, has purchased the gasoline station at Maple and Pontiac roads from Bertram Brasseur. The transaction was completed Saturday. Mr. Hess will continue the business under its present policy of complete super service.

Kon. Harry F. Kelly, secretary of State, will be the principal speaker at the father and son banquet, sponsored by the Challengers class of the Methodist Church School, Friday, Apr. 12. The banquet will be held at the Walled Lake school.

WINS HONORS

That a well-carried-out spray program is a prime essential in the production of high grade fruit is vividly revealed in the honors which have come to Les Anderson of Summer Hill, Lake County, Ill., who has received the Master Award for having the cleanest orchard in the State. Inspectors found a total of only 11 per cent defects giving Mr. Anderson a score of 98.9 per cent. Another Hardie owner, V. V. Clark of Bristol, Ind., produced an apple crop that graded over 90 per cent U. S. 1, which reflects the well-planned program of spraying and care followed by Mr. Clark.

N.H.S. Students Hear A. J. Elliot

The N. H. S. students were honored Mar. 25, by the visit of A. J. Elliot, field secretary of the Chicago Y.M.C.A.

To the students, Mr. Elliot would like to be called "Dad Elliot." Dad Elliot spoke on "Honesty in the Walk of Life." He said that honesty and integrity were necessary to get the right slant on life. To illustrate his talk, he gave the students a few examples of some of his fellow classmates. It will be arranged to have "Dad Elliot" come again to N.H.S. to have private conferences with the students who feel they have a difficult problem with which to cope. "What you are to be, you are now becoming" was his way of emphasizing the importance of one's outlook on life.

EDITORIAL NOTES

My, what lovely, warm, spring weather! Have any of you gotten spring fever as yet? Maybe a good share of you have been remarking how "spring has a bit with a bag!"

In spring, a young person's fancy turns to thoughts of love and romance. It seems as if the eleventh and twelfth grade literature classes have been taking advantage of this fact. The girls have been writing themes and the fellows have answered them. You really should read them.

The weather of the past week would dampen anyone's spirits. But don't fret, children, there will come a day when true spring weather will arrive. Even though the weather is bad, there have been romances and maybe I have a little spring fever, I can't think of a thing to write this week. Oh, by the way, I'll see you at the Carnival!

Around the School

In case you're hesitant about coming to the Carnival we feel sure that when you hear about the grand prize of a radio, you will be sure to attend. A Delco radio is so given away.

Flash! Students have finally decided that they like to write themes. Oh, so you don't believe it—well, it's been recently discovered that when they get their dander up, they can really scribble. The subject is the good and bad (mostly bad) points of the opposite sex. Some really interesting facts have been turned in and most of the accused are taking the hint. "This topic originated in the eleventh grade American Lit. class, but has been carried over into the English Lit. classes.

The manual training room will have two booths at the N-Club Carnival, one for a game and the other to sell projects that were made in the shop. The projects for sale are: Hot dish stands, leave-a-note boxes, sleeve boards, and foot stools. The money will be used to buy equipment for the shop.

Orders will be taken from people who want their names made to order or who want things that are not in stock.

The Home Economics II class planned and prepared dinner on Wednesday and Thursday, Mar. 27 and 28, for themselves and a few guests.

A former student of Northville High, Berwyn Thomas, entertained a few of the students of N.H.S. last Friday, Mar. 22. Those who attended were: Jean Lyke, Jean Orr, Barbara Simmons, Bob Orr and Elmer Balko. Others were Harold Sheppard and Ray Jacobs. After talking to the music of the turn-of-the-century, refreshments were served. This took place at Berwyn's home on Rutherford drive, near Redford.

At the Carnival, the Hi-Y club will sponsor a pig-ping game. Pig-tures can be taken and developed in less than a minute. A guessing game and two pig-ping tables will also be at the booth. For those who care to have their pictures, to play guessing games, or play pig-ping patronize the Hi-Y booth at the carnival and get your money's worth.

Grade Notes

Hortense, a white rabbit, and her 10 little baby bunnies visited kindergarten last Thursday. We wonder if the Easter Rabbit came, too, because we found some Easter eggs in the baskets we made.

David Lee brought a motin to school. She laid many, many eggs. The first grade, Room 1, made Easter baskets Thursday afternoon. We now have reading clubs. Alice Newton has read the most library books and Eleanor has read the most in hers.

We also have a Circus Health club. We choose an inspector each week who pins badges on the people who have clean teeth, fingernails, ears, and have clean handkerchiefs each day.

As every thread of gold is valuable so is every moment of time. —John Mason

Track Team Organized

An inexperienced bunch of fellows are going out to try to make a name for Northville in track this spring. This is going to be a tough job for they will meet such schools as: Trenton, Van Dyke, Melvindale and Berkley. This group will be coached by Neville T. Walker, who has no comment to make on the team's chances because he has not seen them work as yet.

There have been no definite dates set as yet, but Mr. Walker believes that we will participate in the following meets. May 3, Berkley, Van Dyke, Trenton and Northville in a quadrilateral meet; May 8, Berkley, Van Dyke and Northville in a triangular meet; May 24, a dual meet with Berkley; May 29, a league meet in which all teams in the league participate. This meet will be held at Melvindale.

The following boys will try out for track: Walter Naranowicz, anything; Joe Defino, anything; Chuck Nelson, anything; Bill Washburne, anything; James Dixon, anything; John Costello, hurdles, broad jump; James O'Keefe, 440; Allen Baird, anything; Ray Hartner, pole vault; Elmer Balko, high jump; Whitley Holt, 220-440 mile; Bob Orr, anything; Charlene Hardesty, anything; Bob Boyden, anything; Rex Dye, anything; Gene Reeves, 100-220 shot put; George Hunter, 1 mile; Charles Mankin, high jump; Tom Widmaler, anything; Don Wilber, anything.

SENIOR SKETCHES

Way down in Akron, O., was first placed there Cornelia Spore first placed to him and has been running and singing ever since then. By the way, she started this career on July 22, 1922. Cornelia lived in Akron for about two years, and then her family moved to Youngstown where they lived until Cornelia had completed the second grade. Somewhere Michigan beckoned Cornelia and she came to Dearborn where she went to Salina school until she finished the eighth grade.

The Spore family then moved to Northville on the Six Mile road and Cornelia started school in Northville high as a freshman. During the last four years, Cornelia has been very active in school with her numerous hobbies. Cornelia's nickname is "Corky" and she claims that she knows nothing of how it originated, but that it has been her nickname now for about eight years. "Corky" enjoys drawing, her favorite hobby being claims that sports, dancing, and swimming run it close seconds. Her pet dislike is to have to wait for anyone and it is no wonder as Corky herself is very punctual. Her favorite color is really a gray between red and green but she admits that she favors the red. Corky's favorite food is fried chicken. She is also fond of dogs and horses. Corky has three brothers and one sister to keep her company. She plans to go to Washington, D. C. with her class this year and says that when she finishes school she would like to take up dress designing.

Another student who came to Northville high school last fall as a senior is Clayton Rodgers. He was born Feb. 11, 1923, in Canora, Saskatchewan, Can. In 1928, he came to Detroit and in 1929 started to school at Thomas Houghton Intermediate in Redford. He transferred then to Rosedale Park and Cooke school, but before long he was back at Thomas Houghton, from where he was graduated in 1936.

His high school career began at Redford high, where he attended for one year and a half. Next he moved to Farmington for a year and then to Northville. After a very short life, we have brought Clayton up to the present time. While in Northville he has been a very active member of the Hi-Y club. As a matter of fact he is the very efficient secretary of the club. The Star Scouts, Troop N-1 also have enlisted Clayton as a member.

His hobby is modeling airplanes; his passions are hunting, baseball and golf. After graduation he plans on going to college and taking a course in aeronautics. Now to a couple of his favorite foods. He enjoys very delicious food, roast chicken and cranberry sauce, and his favorite color is brown.

Mrs. Orr now looks at her son, Bob who is a senior at Northville high and remarks, "My how that boy has grown!" From a seven-pound baby on Feb. 1, 1921, he has become a 150-pound boy, 18 years later, who is an active member in all sports at the high school and is mayor of the student council. As for his education, he started in Detroit, then moved to West Point, and is graduating here at Northville. One year of school was omitted for a trip to England with his parents.

He has plans for college for the next few years, but his immediate interests concern the approaching Washington trip.

Arla Reed, one of the newly acquired seniors, was born Feb. 28, 1922. The city she honored was Rochester, where she lived for three years; then she went to Royal Oak to start school. She moved back to Rochester, again and then to Rome. Last fall she moved to Northville for her last year. In April she expects to go to Washington. After graduation, Arla would

THE POCKETBOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

NEWS ITEM: "MODERN FARMERS' CELEBRATIONS IN FEBRUARY HONOR INVENTORS ON 150th ANNIVERSARY OF U.S. PATENT SYSTEM" HERE ARE SOME OF THE RESULTS OF INVENTION IN THE LAST FEW GENERATIONS—

Looser Fleeces Get Best Prices

Just a simple rule of tying up wool fleeces too tightly is costing Michigan farmers not only a portion of their good reputations but is lowering the price each year on the more than 8 million pounds of wool produced and sheared on farms in the state.

In Wayne county, farmers with sheep to shear or fleeces already needed for the wool market can take a tip from C. L. Cole of the animal husbandry department of Michigan State college.

The old-fashioned wool box for tying fleeces is a money loser in Cole's opinion. When wool goes onto the grading table, the grader likes to be able to get his hand into a fleece without too much difficulty.

So wool-buyers recommend that fleeces be tied rather loosely with a minimum amount of twine. This is best done by spreading the wool on a table about four feet wide, with a double strand of wool twine stretched across.

Thus says Cole, place the wool short-side down and roll in all the edges. The twine then may be pulled around the wool and the loose ends wrapped around the fleece in the opposite direction and tied snugly on binder twine of course, should not be used.

The belly wool should be placed in the middle of the fleece and the balance rolled around it. Tags and black-fibered wool from the head and legs should be separated and sold as tags.

Wool separately are practices that pay good returns for the labor involved, in the opinion of Cole.

Sunday dinner: guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lloy were Dr. and Mrs. Charles J. Clark and son Jerry of Detroit.

Like to go to work and later attend the Delmar Beauty school in Detroit.

Her hobby is making scrapbooks, her pastime is sewing and walking. Her nickname is Johnnie and she likes all kinds of food. She also likes horses, cats and dogs. Her special colors are blue and green.

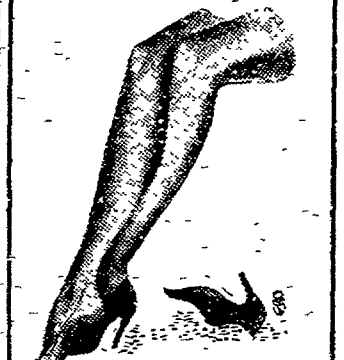

Arla came to N. H. S. last September and during that time she has acquired many friends.
