Next Dramatic Offering Is "Boyd's Shop"

Once again the Ann Arbor Dramatic Season will present to Michigan audiences an American premiere when the curtain rises June 4 on St. John Ervine's Irish comedy, "Boyd's Shop."

Whitford Kane, talented and bewinged Irish actor, will play Andrew Boyd of the title role. Probably nowhere in the theatrical world could an actor be found to be more suitably cast for the part of the settled tradesman and church warden.

It is said that when Mr. Ervine's feet are on his native heath, his heart is in the right place, too. This Irish comedy, which returns as a dramatist to the scenes of his youth, and he makes admirable use of his knowledge of Northern Ireland.

Boyd's shop is authentic, from the jars of oranges which lean significantly against its counter to the domestic local color and local politics that enliven the dialogues in the living room beyond.

Helen Tremblaine will play the part of Agnes Boyd, Hiram Sherman is admirably fast as Dunwoody and Horace McNally makes a striking and appealing John Hasket. Grace Mills will play the part of Mrs. McCullough, the township gossip and the role of Carrie, the old household retainer, will be portrayed by Carrie Bradwell.

The play will run at the Mendelsohn Theatre, Tuesday through Saturday evenings at 8:30, with matinees Thursday and Saturday at 3:15.

Why Not a Budget Cut?

Not a single responsible Michigan State official has been heard to speak one word about the possibility of effecting a cut in Michigan's "regular" budget, now running just under $90,000,000 a year, as distinct from the activities which are paid for by the $124,000,000 state grants-in-aid system.

The state's deficit will be approximately $81,500,000 on July 1. No one can be sure how much additional income the state might receive annually when and if it adopts a modern centralized tax collection system to handle the twenty-seven different forms of revenue it now receives through fourteen different agencies.

Much available light has been shed upon this whole subject in recent weeks and the press of Michigan is discussing the problem from all its angles.

But it would seem that one logical way in which to attack the examination of the deficit would be to combine the possible increased revenue that may be received from existing sources with a modest 5% cut in the budget appropriations for fiscal 1942 and 1943.

The spenders will have only themselves to blame if public opinion forces the latter step to be taken, but in five years or less the present deficit could be wiped out if our revenue collection system were made efficient and a strong beginning were made to reach the roots of the waste in the conduct of our state's business.

With the customary energy and snap typical of Ivan Peat, Northville racing enthusiast, the new construction and renovations at the fair grounds for the August racing meet are moving along in fine shape. Recent inspection by national racing authorities and prominent persons speaks increasing interest and a desire to have things right. An innovation in grand stand admissions, energetic promotion, and increasing interest in racing circles means a great meet at Northville August 3rd to August 24th.

Isn't it funny that aliens only think seriously of citizenship in the U. S. A. when they are afraid they'll have to fight for the old country, or Americans rule that their jobs belong rightly to American citizens. Any alien earning a living here five years, and not becoming a citizen, should automatically be asked to return to his native land.

In view of the national and world outlook, a local businessman states that any young man out of school would have great opportunities if he should apprentice himself in the tool and die industry. Present shortage, increasing demand, and the call for trained men in this vocation becomes greater day by day. Think it over, boys.

"I Have Found A Better Way" . . .

Over the entrance of a Detroit factory there is a motto inscribed which reads: "I have found a better way." One of the very desirable modern household appliances is manufactured there. We always look at that inscription when we infrequently drive by that factory. It fascinates us. It depicts the spirit of American industry. Think of the things we have in daily use today that didn't exist at the start of this century.

They tell me . . . I have never seen it . . . that inscribed on the Commerce Building in Washington, D. C., there are these words of Lincoln: "The patent system added the fuel of interest to the life of genius." These things came to our mind when we heard someone say lately that we were inventing ourselves out of jobs. It's the old story of the reaper and the binder replacing the scythe and cradle.

A man has an idea. He perfects it, and gets a patent. The men who know how to produce step in. "Money is needed." Men are needed to manufacture. The problem of sales enters. Delivery and servicing are natural follow-ups. All these necessary services take men, money and brains. If the product has merit, it becomes popular and the general public gets the benefit. These combined abilities and brains "have found a better way."

In spite of the fear that technology will, or is, displacing employment, it remains a fact that one person out of every four in this country is employed in industries that did not exist 70 years ago. These jobs have been created by genius . . . by inventors . . . and developed by various other abilities. We frequently think of the city of Midland, Mich., as an outstanding example of what the mind of a single man can accomplish. This city would be a small insignificant village were it not for the Dow Chemical company . . . the direct result of one man's inventive genius.

So it goes all over the country. Thousands of factories, millions of families, all gaining their livelihood from the results of men who "found a better way." Most of us do not like to be disturbed in our daily routine. Nothing should ever be done to smother the inventive genius of man. Nothing should happen that will remove the challenge to American youth to go ahead to greater heights. There always is a "better way." There must always be people who work to find that way.—Exchange.

Now that the government has embarked upon the long waited for readjustment program, the next step must be to make sure that the money is well spent, and the taxpayer gets dollar for dollar value. This is doubly essential based upon comparative costs in other nations, of wages, hours, and standards of living, that effect construction costs but not fighting prowess.

Nation Needs Trained Mechanics

for trained workers—men who incidentally command good pay—government has done comparatively little to rehabilitate the idle thousands on public relief and the idle thousands inside prison walls to fill jobs such as these.

The state social welfare commission is reported to be fully cognizant of the need of rehabilitation for family heads in these areas of northern Michigan outside the industrial reduced-the-relief appropriation and you can't spend money you haven't got.

The prison situation appears to be somewhat different. There is an interesting story—one that is off the beaten track. It is the story of Michigan's forgotten men—the 7,500 inmates of our prisons.

When citizens commit a wrong against their fellow man, justice decrees they must be punished. Minor offenses bring a jail sentence or a fine, major offenses bring incarceration inside prison walls.

In Michigan's three prisons—Jackson, Ionia and Marquette—are 7,500 men.

They are serving time ranging from a year to life. Approximately 950 out of the 7,500 are "lifers."

What do these 7,500 men do? Are they kept busy at useful tasks? Are they given an opportunity to rehabilitate themselves to maintain their vocational skill?

Here is the answer: Out of approximately 6,500 prisoners who may be eligible to ultimate parole or release, only 1,500 are given employment in prison industries.

Today there are 200 prison inmates already paroled by the state for good behavior and conduct, who are denied the privilege of freedom because they cannot find a job outside.

An Old Question
The question of prison-made goods and where they should be sold has been many state legislatures.

Until 1935 the state of Michigan permitted prisoners to sell products of state industries in the open market. It was what the Michigan furniture industry considered to be competition with private industry—sale of prison-made furniture to state institutions—that led to adoption in the legislature of a new law.

This law permitted the state to purchase its products anywhere presumably at the lowest price according to specifications. Only under these can be sold in the open market for private use.

In New York and 12 other states it is compulsory for state departments and institutions to purchase such equipment, as could be manufactured to meet specifications from state prisons. The argument is that the state uses its own agencies to reduce its own costs, and all this in the interest of the taxpayer, of course.

Michigan prisons maintain the following industries: Jackson prison—Bridle twine factory, brush shop, canning factory, metal stamp plant (license plates, beads, etc.), print shop, tailored factory, textile plant and shoe factory.

Ionia prison—cotton garment plant, furniture factory and soap factory.

Marquette prison—Tobacco plant, brick plant, and snow fence factory.

William H. Burke, manager of the Michigan state industries, points out that Michigan is one of three states which confine prisoners to industrial activities to a small field such as state institutions and departments on a non-compulsory basis.

Out of the 490 men who have been employed at the Jackson prison textile, 200 have just been laid off due to lack of state orders, said Burke. The other 290 are in the idle state.

These men go back into their cells, idle and unproductive. In the meanwhile, state purchasing agents are buying textile goods elsewhere.

The state requiring men to have jobs before being paroled is sound. But at the same time it fails to provide that these men prepare themselves while in prison to assume their places again in society. Our prison program has been negligent in this regard. Require prison inmates to do something that will teach them the habits of industry, make them self-supporting and you will improve their attitude toward society.

Burke lauded the state corrections commission for establishment recently of a trade school at Ionia reformatory in cooperation with private industry.

Michigan manufacturers have been critical of prison industry. The low cost of prison labor, 10 to 25 cents a day, is an emblem of "unfair competition," they say.

But in the meanwhile thousands of prisoners are in idleness, supported by society itself and denied the privilege of learning and practicing a useful trade.

Here is the old problem. Shortage of skilled labor in private industry and the constant rise in cost of government merely puts it into sharp focus once again.

Now He, Too, Is Gone With the Wind

Seated before the typewriter in his New York home, Howard Rushmore writes his own exclusive story telling just why he resigned as movie critic of the Communist publication, the Daily Worker. He refused to criticize the motion picture, "Gone With the Wind," in his review, and as a result was forced to quit his post. Rushmore's article exposed the "pressure" brought to bear by Moscow on the Communist newspaper.

THE FORD WAY OF DOING BUSINESS

The Ford Motor Company was founded by a working-man for working-men. Its present officers began as employees of the Company. It was the first company to pay a minimum wage, beginning in 1914, at the then astounding figure of $5 a day. That was double the prevailing wage of the time. The Ford minimum is now $6 a day for all employees engaged in production work. And from then, the wages rose to $10.80 a day, with the average wage $7.25, exclusive of salaried employees.

The Ford Motor Company was the first large company to establish the 8-hour day—also in 1914. And the 40-hour week was inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company in 1926, years before any such laws existed.

The Ford Motor Company employs men without regard to race, creed or color. It is common knowledge that working conditions in the Ford shops are the best that science and constant care can make them. A square deal, a just wage and stabilized employment for a large proportion of our employees—and as fully stabilized for all as conditions will permit—enable our men to retain their personal independence.

In consequence of these policies the Ford Motor Company has one of the finest bodies of employees in the world. The larger proportion are mature men of long service with the Company—sober, decent family men. Hundreds of them have been with the Company for more than 25 years—thousands for more than 15 years. Their health record, home ownership and citizenship records are good.

All this is reflected in Ford products, whether cars, trucks or tractors. The work is honestly done. Materials are the best that can be made or procured. Less profit to the Company and more value to the customer is known throughout the motoring world as "Ford's way of doing business."

Ford Motor Company was the first to make a motor car within the means of the average family—quitting the manufacture of what was then the largest selling model in the world to do so. Its chosen field in all the 30 years since that time has been the average American family—for which it has consistently provided car facilities which formerly only the wealthy could buy.

It is the policy of the Ford Motor Company to share the benefits of advanced methods and management with workers and public alike. Increased wages and employment over a period of many years have resulted in

A 300 per cent increase in the built-in value of the Ford car and a 75 per cent reduction in its price.

NHS Wins Game from Melvindale

Bob Orr Is Winning Pitcher in Baseball Contest Played Thursday

The Northville Mustangs won a close game last Thursday, May 23, when they defeated Melvindale 3-0. The players most responsible for this victory was Bob Orr who pitched himself a shut out and held his opponents to two scattered hits. Bob struck out six men while only walking one. Hegeus, the Melvindale pitcher, also pitched good ball. He allowed three runs and two hits, striking out three and walking five. Both infields were almost all-right, making only five errors, three of these made by Melvindale. Elmer Balko and Fred Robinson made the two hits for Northville and the Newsome brothers made the hits for Melvindale. Melvindale had two pinch hitters, Alfred Bettel for Korico in the seventh and Deluca pinch-hit for Miller also in the seventh. Both boys were easy-outs. Northville had no errors. Northville has four games yet to be played. So far they have won five and lost two in league competition. Northville has a fighting team and they have shown good sportsmanship in all games whether they win or lose.

N. H. S. Golf Team Loses to Ferndale

The Northville Golf team was defeated last Wednesday by the score of 8-4. The team was composed of Bill Washburn, Bob Boyden, Douglas McCluskie and Bob Ross. A boy from Ferndale was medalist with an 82. The match was played at the Plymouth Hills Golf Club. The team will match their skills against Redford Union next Monday.

Mr. James A. Huff's sixth grade, the pupils are making Chinese pictures for geography. They are also making transportation projects for science.

ST. JOHNS (MPA)—A sow owned by Harry Ballinger of Bingham recently had a litter of 20 pigs. Last August she gave birth to 16, making a total of 36 pigs in two litters in less than a year, thus tying a previous record set by a brood sow in Lapeer county.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Well, it seems as if the class of 1940 is being pushed into the background. It is of little significance now for you see, the whole school is humming about the student council election for next year and the class of '41 has taken the limelight. Nominations were made last Wednesday and there were some very able candidates on the ticket this year. Mervyn Cavell and Louis Eaton, who will both be seniors, ran for mayor. Ruth Frank was Maxine Coe's opponent for secretary. Maxine will be a junior next year. Joe Defino and Frank Eaton were up for treasurer. They are both to be seniors. We will give you the election returns next week.

The Junior-Highers are also thinking about their Junior Student Council election. This, however, is a week off.

But don't fret, seniors. Even if the time is soon to come when you will have to leave N. H. S., don't think you won't be missed for, even though I, myself, am a senior, I think you will.

Grade Notes

The mothers of the kindergarten children were entertained for Mother's Day by the children. Punch and cookies were served and each mother was presented with a corsage.

Conrad Burkman has a shell collection on display in the kindergarten room. They were brought from Florida by his grandparents.

Jim Clark celebrated his birthday in kindergarten Tuesday morning May 14, serving cake and milk.

Bob Church and Jay Alexander are new members of kindergarten while sitting in Northville.

Miss Beulah Miller's room had a picnic at noon, Wednesday. Shirley Carlson had a birthday and brought a cake.

The pupils have been learning about farm machines and their uses. They made some booklets of farm pictures and animals.

Miss O. F. Renk's second grade children went on a bird hike last Tuesday and kept track of the various kind of birds observed. Reports were given during the language period on the following day. They also read about the Tulip Festival in their weekly readers and three children from the first grade who went to Holland this year came in and told them about it. They were Pat Austin, Phyllis Star and Mary Ann Karchnick.

Jocelyn Turay from Miss Selma Jarvis' room has moved to the country.

The third grade has been writing letters to their former classmates who have moved away. They have received answers from Russell Frid and Dawn Shoeridge.

The pupils took part in the operetta as tulips, cowboys and sunflowers.

Mustangs Lose to Trenton

Northville Drops to Third Place in School Baseball League

The Northville Mustangs took a loss on the chin, May 21, when they were defeated in baseball by a strong Trenton team, 6-3.

The errors that were made by Northville marked their defeat. Ray Barner pitched for Northville, but he could not find the plate and when he did, they greeted him with his Fred Robinson kept up his daredevil base running by stealing a couple of bases. He also made some fine fielding plays. This defeat caused Northville to drop into third place. Trenton moved into second place and Berkley retained the lead.

Beef Tenderization Plant For Kroger Stores Opens

Top: Lester Hehl, Kroger's Detroit meat operator, explains details of the firm's new Tenderay beef plant to W. W. Rogers, branch manager. Overhead may be seen batteries of long, tube-like sterilizers which are an important factor in the tenderizing process. Lower left: Miss Dorothy Palmer, pretty Kroger employee, visits the plant to learn from Hehl where tender steaks come from.

Following the opening of Detroit's first Tenderay plant, Kroger stores in this area served from the firm's Detroit branch now are being supplied with beef tenderized by a process discovered and developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research.

The Tenderay process was developed by Dr. M. D. Coulter of Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh while working under a Kroger fellowship and in cooperation with scientists from Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and the Kroger Food Foundation. It was explained by W. W. Rogers, Kroger's Detroit branch manager.

Study of the problems of meat tenderization was initiated six years ago by Albert H. Morrill, president of the Kroger company, and preliminary study was carried on under the direction of C. L. Arnold, Kroger Food Foundation director. About four years ago the problem was transferred to Mellon Institute where a Kroger fellowship was established.

As explained by Dr. Coulter, the new tenderization process hastens the natural breakdown of the normally tough connective tissue in beef. This is done at relatively high temperatures and humidity in an atmosphere kept free from mold spores and bacteria by rays of sterilizers developed by Westinghouse scientists. It was pointed out that while lamps alone, without the other component parts of this patented process, have no tenderizing effects on the beef, they are essential in protecting the meat during the process.

Three rooms, constructed under the direction of Dr. Coulter, comprise the Detroit tenderization plant. Each has an automatically controlled air conditioning and refrigeration unit, each is kept at a different temperature and humidity, and two of the rooms are equipped with batteries of sterilizers.

In the first room beef is held for two to three days at relatively high temperature and humidity. Next the beef is moved to the second room for chilling at a temperature just above freezing. By tenderizing just above freezing, tenderization has been completed. Finally it is moved to the third and largest room for storage to await transfer to retail stores.

The Detroit processing plant will supply Tenderay beef to Kroger meat markets in southeastern Michigan communities. The plant has been in operation for several weeks on a test basis to correct any possible mechanical difficulties prior to its official opening.

Operated by trained technicians, the new plant brings to the community a laboratory process which is said by authorities to be the most important development in the history of meat processing. The Kroger company plans to open several more Tenderay beef plants in other midwestern cities this year, Kroger officials said.

YERKES

for the college baseball team, winning for the University of Michigan both seasons. These athletic events were frowned upon by the faculty, for at that time, the college had no organized athletic program to offer to students. He learned to throw curves with "walnuts" that fell from an old tree in the farm house yard—these he threw, at a hole in the barn.

Goes Professional
Mr. Yerkes had a short career as a professional ball pitcher (Spaulding's Baseball Guide shows his fielding average to be .1000), playing with the State League at Lansing, for a year. He also played with the Detroit Athletic club, after regaining amateur standing, and gave an exhibition at the Chicago Fair in 1893. Members of the club were John Kelsey of the Kelsey Wheel Company, and Judge Add, along with other prominent Detroiters.

In '91 and '92, he coached the Northville high school team. None other than Harry German of Carleton, former village mayor, was the pitcher for the team.

Pitching wasn't Mr. Yerkes' only athletic interest—he was quite a jumper in college, going as high as 12 feet, 5 inches. Not once was he beaten in the shot, put or broad jump. He still likes games—shuffle board and horse shoes.

Children and Grandchildren
Five children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Yerkes, four of whom are living: Margaret, Donald, Jr., Aletha and Ruth. Margaret is Mrs. Winfield Holden of Detroit. She has three children and two grandchildren, including Winfield, Jr., Mrs. John C. Berkefeld and John C. Jr.

Mrs. Harold R. (Aletha) Smith of Detroit, has two children, Martha Townley and David Yerkes. Mrs. John C. (Ruth) Burkman lives in the village. Her children are Conrad John and Carolyn Ann.

Assisting with the receiving at the Yerkes home Tuesday evening were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Holden, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burkman and Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Yerkes, Jr.

Presiding at the tea-table were Mrs. W. H. Yerkes, Mrs. C. C. Yerkes, Mrs. Edward Frost, Mrs. Allen Bradley and Mrs. D. P. Yerkes, Jr. Guests were present from Northville, Detroit, Adrian, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Oak Park, Plymouth, Milford, Farmington, Gro. Pontiac, Farmington, Cleveland, O., Boston, Mass., Buffalo, N. Y., Battle Creek and Traverse City.

Book Entertainers for Edgewater Park
Here's good news for entertainment-seekers. The Great Calvert, acknowledged America's greatest aerial wire attraction, has been booked as the free act at Edgewater Amusement Park, West Seven Mile Road, near Grand River and Telegraph, during the week after Decoration day, beginning Monday, June 3.

This act which is performed on a wire nearly a hundred feet above the ground without nets or other safety devices is declared to be the fastest of its kind, an act that shines with brilliancy and that holds every audience spellbound.

The Great Calvert will be presented free for the entertainment of visitors to Edgewater Amusement Park at 8:30 and 10:30 p. m. during the week of June 3, with an extra matinee performance Sunday, June 9.

DOG IS CONDEMNED
ST. LOUIS (AP)—"Laddie," a valued collie dog owned by Miss Martha Carlson was "condemned" to death by Justice J. L. Smith recently after testimony on the dog's department was taken in court. The collie was "paroled" at a similar hearing last year.

A report comes from Rogers street that the Harry Rackham garden is at its height of beauty.

EVERY HOME IS BUILT AROUND ITS WINDOWS

Sponsor of Famous World's Fair Home Points Out Importance of Good Windows

By W. Wadsworth Wood
Director, National Small Home Bureau

New York City — Few people, when they build a new home, seem to realize the importance of windows. Yet every home is built around them. This is literally true in two different ways. First, the frame of your house is actually built around its window openings. Take a look at a house under construction some time. Notice how the framing lumber around every window opening are doubled.

Windows Determine Wall Space.

Second, the arrangement of your rooms, the arrangement of your furniture, is all done around the windows. Available wall space is largely determined by windows. On the outside the architectural harmony is largely determined by the placing or grouping of windows.

Thus you see how important windows are just from appearance alone. But appearance, important as it is, is only half of the story. Here are some of the other things that a good window should do:

Keep cold air out. Keep warm air in. Keep cool air in. Keep hot air out. Keep insects out. Keep dirt and dust out. Work freely under all conditions without rattling. Provide ventilation when open. Be watertight when closed. Let light in. Give clear vision out. Add beauty to your home. Harmonize with your style of architecture.

No other architectural feature in a house must perform so many functions.
