First Grid Battle Scheduled Today at Walled Lake

Coches Names Probable Line-up for Northville; Accident Benches Kimmel, Fast, Halback

Play on New Field

The football season opens for the Northville high school at 3:30 p.m. today when the squad, crippled by the loss of its fastest man, meets the Walled Lake team on the Walled Lake field.

With a team slightly heavier in weight than last year, Northville had a scrimmage game Friday afternoon at Cass Benton Park which caused the benching of Halback, Don Kimmel, senior, who has been a member of the team for two years. Kimmel broke his collar bone in the game, an accident which will likely keep him out of the field all year.

Sept. 2, with Coach Harry B. Smith and Assistant Coach Neville Walker in charge. More than 40 boys reported for practice.

Today's starting line-up will probably be: Bob Ross, center; Frank Borgovanni and Bob Vogtlin, guards; Stan Davis and Bill Widnaler or Scrague Lester, tackles; Ray Hartner and Jim LaRue, ends; Jim Funke, quarterback; Jack Holcomb and Sid Vinod, halfbacks; Harold Fritz, fullback.

This year, the boys of the football team have had a physical examination to determine whether the team is physically fit to play football. Cards help keep track of football equipment. Signatures of parents are needed so that the team can take the physical examination.

Pre-game news from Walled Lake reveals that the original turnout of football candidates, numbering about 40, has rapidly increased to a final army of close to 100 in the past few weeks. Nearly 60 hard-working aspirants for varsity positions have been going through their paces under the eye of Coach Harold Hutch, while over 25 junior high boys are trying to place on the Walled Lake squad supervised by Earl Emerson, assistant coach. Hutch concentrated this week on a starting line-up for the Northville team.

Play is expected to take place on the new field at Walled Lake.

Land Of Milk And Harmony...

The fabulous lands of ancient times were those that were mentioned as being rich in milk and honey. Agriculture was the one great source of wealth in those days; talk of milk and honey emphasized that fact.

Centuries later, it was America that set the pace in creating industry—the making of goods—as an even greater source of wealth and human well-being.

Today, as a result, the United States is rich both in agricultural produce and in manufactured goods. And to begin with, as far as farming goes, it is a land tremendously rich in milk, though honey isn't as important as it used to be. This country produces about 50 billion quarts of milk a year.

That's a lot of milk. Much of it is processed to make cheese and various other dairy products. In the process, vast quantities of "waste" are left over.

At that point, industry has stepped into the picture. In late years, research workers have found hundreds of ingenious ways—we almost said "wheys"—of turning this former waste into useful industrial products. Plastics, fibres, paints, finishes, cosmetics, films—the list of things made from milk is rapidly approaching a point where it can be called "endless." Two great occupations in this country—agriculture and industry—are becoming more interdependent each year in this and many other ways. Today 20 percent of milk by-products have a sales value; the future will undoubtedly see this figure rise to new highs for many years to come.

And to the extent that this economic interdependence increases and is appreciated to the extent that the industrial scientist can find uses for excess farm products— isn't it reasonable to assume that we'll be moving along towards the day when this country can reasonably be called a "land of milk and harmony?"

What a sad coincidence that while all Michigan members of Congress voted against the compulsory military training bill and pinned their story on the enlistment scheme, that Michigan should be on the bottom of the list of states in number of enlistments.

A Stranger In Our Midst...

Who is this Keyes? What, Who, and How Come. Billboards, a handsome young bachelor and who paid for those thousands of billboards a-voyage the state. Where did the money come from? Well, someone paid for the billboard, but who?

Well, here is the low down. Here is the story. Bill Keyes with three degrees, medical, dental and the law, was elected to his first political office last year, winning a place on the Dearborn city council. As a councilman he has a record for voting against most of the proposals of his colleagues. He was born in Columbus, Ohio, in 1896. He has a dental degree from the University of Toronto, a medical degree from Wayne University and a law degree from the Detroit College of Law. He also owns and operates a private hospital. He practices all three professions in Dearborn, majoring on the medical side of his three way training. He ran for coroner of Wayne county in 1938, but was unsuccessful. He's a good looking bachelor in his forties.

Leaders! If there ever was a time in the last million years when we needed leaders, it is now, now when there is chaos about us. If ever we bring order out of that chaos, it will be through leadership—large and small—coming from the business and professional stratum of our population. Here is the Great Chance—Walter D. Pitkin in the Rotarian Magazine.

The newspaper, in its endeavor to serve the community in which it exists, by publicizing the events scheduled to occur, often ignores mention of its own accomplishments. The public will be reminded of this during the week of October 1-8 of this year. You will read and hear a great deal relative to the "press," the "fourth-estate," Peter Zenger's Trial, you'll probably also be reminded of the fact that this year marks the 506th anniversary of the development of printing from movable types, likewise, the 250th anniversary of the publication of the first newspaper in America (The actual anniversary of the first newspaper in America was September 25, 1690.) This was Benjamin Harris' Publick Occurances, published at Boston. When the emphasis is properly placed and when it is placed between October 1 and 8, we believe you'll find that the newspaper IS an interesting "creature." The State and National committees for the promotion of the event have been named and before long, you'll be reading much more, not only IN the newspaper, but ABOUT the newspaper.

It certainly does our heart good to see the way Earl Montgomery and his boys are cleaning up the vacant area back of North Center street. What a wonderful parking place it will make, and what an improvement over the old junk heap area that it was. Keep up this good work, boys, and every civic-minded citizen will rejoice with you. If you haven't seen this nice piece of work, just step around back some day. It will surprise you.

Feeding Young Stock Everyone knows how feeding influences production, how hens must be given the right kind of feed in sufficient quantity not only to take care of body needs but also sufficient for the production of eggs. This same thing is more true with young stock as deficient or insufficient rations may affect the egg production for life. A number of experiments at the different stations have clearly demonstrated this point. One experimental station in particular found that deficient rations reduced the rate of gain, reduced the mature weight of the bird, delayed sexual maturity, reduced the number of eggs laid by the pullets, reduced the number of eggs laid by the hens the second year and reduced the size of eggs. These are vital factors influencing profits and obviously young stock should be fed well so they may mature normally and develop in profitable pullets.

Housing the Pullets It won't be long now before pullets are housed. Here is a method which has worked satisfactorily for many years and we wish you would try it. As your pullets mature, keep housing the more advanced ones, leaving the others on the range. With the more advanced pullets in the house you can supervise them more closely and feed them according to growth. With the undeveloped pullets on range they will have more room, eat better and perhaps you can push them along with mash faster for faster growth. With this method you can have a more even bunch of pullets and a more uniform growth.

With the high school student body now numbering 343, the school now becomes a Class B school in athletic competition, being 18 over the Class C limit. This change probably will not effect athletic schedules during the regular playing season. Mr. Carpenter said, inasmuch as competition with Class B schools is required only in tournament games. Records disclosed that all increase in student enrollment over 1939 was 178 for the three units, 113 at Walled Lake, alone.

They are Ralph Foreman, president; Douglas Chesser, vice-president; Leonard Wilson, secretary-treasurer; Lois Thomas and Clyde Lash, health officers. SUPERBRED COWS LEAD Not in numbers but in production, the superbred cows in Michigan's dairy herd improvements associations are in the lead, according to a special summary compiled by A. C. Baltzer, dairy extension specialist at Michigan State College. Out of the number surveyed, about 60 per cent were grades and 40 per cent purebreds. Production records credited the purebreds with an average of 8,379 pounds of milk containing 53 pounds of butterfat. This product was worth $132 in a year, less a feed cost of $58. For the grade animals the milk yield averaged 8,026 pounds of milk, 41 per cent test and 332 pounds of butterfat. This was worth $132 in a year with a feed cost of $53. Two of the animals were more than 17 years old, one a grade and the other a registered animal. Mrs. Thomas Gillick and Mrs. Marnie Mullop were Detroit visitors Monday.

WHY I WROTE AN OPEN LETTER TO THE Detroit Free Press

Since writing my open letter to the Detroit Free Press I have been besieged by letter writers, phone callers and personal inquiries regarding the idea and purpose of my letter. So many people have rated me openly as touching the borders of insanity, or of playing the role of a meddling, but benevolent King Midas that I feel constrained to explain the Why and Wherefore of that communication.

Hundreds of telephone calls and letters have flooded my office with inquiry, commendation, suggestion, criticism and reprimand. We have been chided and reminded on almost everything, but most especially have we been berated for not remembering Walter Lippmann in our constellation of Free Press Stars. Frankly we never knew a writer had so many staunch friends as have resented our failure to mention Mr. Lippmann. Undoubtedly Mr. Lippmann is one of the most widely read commentators in our contemporary journalism. Caustic, pointed, and bold, we feel that no writer is doing more to awaken public thought to the challenge of the hour than is Walter Lippmann. His column is a stimulating breakfast menu for thousands of wide awake and thoughtful citizens. Here, again the Detroit Free Press has corralled a real journalistic giant.

As a former student and associate of Dr. George W. Crane, it has been my unique privilege to acquire first-hand information in reference to the real worth and effectiveness of his educational newspaper column, "THE WORRY CLINIC." This helpful service column we believe offers a great boon to hundreds of our good people who daily seek to enhance the abundance of their life.

Dr. Crane is doing more than any other one individual I know to add to the sum total of happiness and success, and to lesser human misery and woe. He is teaching young people to acquire sane and healthful attitudes toward life, helping young and old alike to rid themselves of many outmoded superstitions, instructing young couples who are contemplating marriage; giving courage to the weak; the self-conscious and the down-trodden. Dr. Crane is taking would-be suicides and helping them to acquire a new lease on life. He is instructing inharmonious couples in proper techniques which will add to their happiness and success; teaching parents to successfully train their children; in short, giving helpful advice to men, women, boys and girls in all walks of life. Following are the highlights of a cross section of some of the characteristic cases to which Dr. Crane gives personal attention.

CASE X. Here is the case of a young woman whose husband was suddenly killed in an accident after only six months of marriage. She fairly worshipped him; so feil it was absolutely hopeless to try to continue on without him. Suicide, she thought, was the proper solution — but Dr. Crane was able to get her promise that she would defer this act for at least "three short months." Today she is happily married to another, and says if it didn't sound "almost sacrilegious" she would say she is even happier now than before. CASE W. This has to do with a well educated young man who possessed many characteristics necessary to the success of an executive. But he simply did not know how to handle people — couldn't gain the respect of those under him in his new position, and was definitely headed for the "firing" line. He came to consult Dr. Crane.

The results are that today he is one of the up-and-coming young business men in Chicago. He not only has the respect and admiration of those under him, but is actually the envy of some of his superiors as well.

CASE B. This case deals with a minister who complained of having to "preach to empty pews" on Sunday mornings while the majority of his parishioners were out playing golf, or away for a week-end of fishing. This minister corresponded with Dr. Crane and now his church is well-filled the year around. People come not only to hear him preach, but also to get his wise counsel and advice with many of their personal, marital and business problems.

CASE O is in reference to a plucky little fellow of eleven years of age whose mother and father were on the verge of separation. Bobby loved both parents equally well, and simply felt he would not stand being separated from either of them. So he wrote Dr. Crane a very earnest letter, telling him as best he could all about the entire situation. He did as he was instructed by Dr. Crane, and today Bobby's parents probably are still wondering how Bobby turned the tide; for Dr. Crane worked it so that Bobby would get all the credit.

CASE F has to do with a timid salesman who just couldn't get up sufficient nerve to call on his prospects. A letter of personal advice and a psychological bulletin from Dr. Crane changed this timid soul into an extroverted, lively salesman.

CASE G deals with a young physician who was struggling along trying to build up a clientele. He said that the university which he attended had taught him all it could in regard to medicine, but relatively little if anything regarding what is commonly termed "human nature." He was at a loss, therefore, in the matter of gaining the good will of people about him and thus building up a practice. The consultation with Dr. Crane set him thinking aright in this regard, and today this young doctor is definitely headed toward success.

Suffice it to say that Dr. Crane is constantly dealing with problems of people from every station in life; rich and poor, literate and illiterate, young and old. Nor is Dr. Crane an armchair philosopher! He is a successful business man, the author of a textbook which has had adoptions in over 275 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada, a nationally famous lecturer; and last but not the least, the successful, proud and happy father of five splendid children.

That Dr. Crane returned hope and inspiration to thousands of people weary of puzzling and struggling in the current of life's strange circumstances, leads me to believe that here among us are hundreds, yes, thousands, who need and long for such help. Help that often means success or failure, an existence of dreary drudgery or inspired happiness. Even today fifty thousand personal letters solicit and fifty thousand personal replies each year bear evidence of a growing demand for reliable, confidential, and definite help in personal problems. Each communication meriting individual and personal attention offers uncontradictable evidence of a great work solely needed, amply appreciated, and surely worthy of our commendation; and the immediate sponsorship of the greatest in our midst.

Sincerely, DR. JOHN A. ROSS, Optometrist.

M. S. C. FOUND FLY-SPRAY It took an influenza epidemic to bring forth today's widespread use of insect sprays. Back in 1918 when the epidemic was rampant, Dr. E. H. Pettitt of the Michigan State College entomology department sought some way of curtailing flies which were believed to be carriers of the disease germs. He developed a pyrethrum and kerosene mixture which was safe and effective to use in spraying livestock to rid them of flies. Since then this mixture has become almost universally used throughout the United States for fly control.

Fluorescent lighting is increasing in popularity by leaps and bounds. One reason being that you get DOUBLE THE LIGHT for the same amount of electricity. But fluorescent lighting is so new, and the demand for it so great, that the average buyer is bewildered when he sets out to buy the proper fixtures. There are so many fixtures on the market, so many erroneous and exaggerated claims being made for fluorescent lighting, that it is not surprising to find incorrect applications...

Our experienced lighting staff will be glad to give you full information about this revolutionary new lighting. Call your Detroit Edison office. The Detroit Edison Company does not sell fluorescent fixtures or lamps. See your electric contractor or lighting fixture dealer. The Detroit Edison Company.

A short business meeting will follow the dinner.

The production program of the Oakland County Chapter, American Red Cross, has been resumed following a short vacation during which volunteers paused for the first time since the beginning of war relief work in September of 1939. The fifth quota of the chapter has been accepted by Mrs. H. Robinson, volunteer service chairman, Mrs. F. S. Strong, Jr., vice chairman of volunteer work, and Mrs. C. W. Kay, production chairman. The quota, the largest accepted by the chapter, consists of women's and girl's dresses, skirts, boy's overalls, pajamas, convalescent robes, knitted articles and other useful types of clothing. While a number of these garments are on hand, many more will have to be completed to fill the quota by Dec. 15. The Royal Oak workshop has completed quotas efficiently and with speed during the past year.

“Fireball” Is Name Given Buick Engine

When Buick engineers described the improved Dynaflex principle involved in the 1941 engines, by which, as a result of combustion chamber design, the fuel charge is compressed in a ball around the spark plug, they gave a name to these new high powered, high compression engines.

They called it “Fireball.”

For, in fact, that best describes the action within the cylinders when at the top of the compression stroke, the explosion occurs. Dense type pistons, which are a Buick development of the past three years, are so shaped as to compress the gas charge into a ball, affording complete and controlled combustion and eliminating the center explosion that usually takes place on the opposite side of the piston, causing detonation.

As a result of the fireball design, Buick engines are able to use high compression without detonation and thus obtain maximum performance and economy from a given amount of fuel.

It is the fireball design is the key component in Buick's new “V”-type engines, which also bring an increase in compression ratio and a further increase in power output with greater fuel economy.

Industry Ready to "Keep 'em Rolling" for Defense

Graphic illustration of the way in which one of America's greatest industries gears its activities with the United States Army for national defense is found at Little Falls, Minn., where the greatest peacetime maneuvers in the history of the country are being held Aug. 24-25. To "keep them rolling," Chevrolet, one of the largest suppliers of motor transport equipment to the nation's armed forces, has set up through one of its dealers, the Bert Boston Motor Co. of Minneapolis, a complete parts and service headquarters in the military reservation at Little Falls. More than $10,000 worth of parts is maintained at this depot, where three service representatives are on duty 24 hours daily to service Chevrolet equipment in use. The $5,000 troops in actual combat maneuvers will use 1,180 Chevrolet transport units, including officers' cars, reconnaissance cars, hundreds of trucks adapted to special uses, and military ambulances.

Upper left in the photo shows arm transport crewmen servicing an ambulance. Upper right is the Chevrolet parts and service headquarters tent, where service certificates are always on duty. Lower left is Lieut. Col. R. F. Rosberg, of the Minnesota National Guard Quartermaster Corps. At lower center, an officers' car used by the major-general in command of the Little Falls encampment is being serviced. Lower right is an interior view of the Chevrolet parts tent, showing completeness of stock.

Advertisers Live in GLASS HOUSES

WHAT they promise in their advertisements, and what they deliver in their merchandise, are right there for all to see.

If they deliver what they promise, they make friends and steady customers. If not they make enemies, lose patronage and finally go out of business.

Those are the cold, hard reasons why honesty is the best policy—especially in advertising.

But the real fact is that advertisers as a class are hungrily jealous of their good names. The trade-marks of manufacturers and the published recommendations of merchants are only accorded to products which they can offer you with confidence and pride.

You can trust the ads to lead you to sound values.

Darkhorse Candidate Wins Primary rank and file. In the latter process the unknown may be given an opportunity, but it is usually for a reason known only to a select few. But in the state primary the darkhorse is the equal of the favorite.

At least his chances of winning are as good as his rivals.

"Keys for good government," emblazoned on a myriad of newspaper advertisements, billboards and direct mailing pieces, did what no party convention would have done for the Dearborn neophyte. The boys at Lansing are still scratching their heads and wondering how it could have happened!

One answer is: It could take place only in a primary election.

And so, if you aspire for state office, take comfort. If you deplore the breakdown of party organization and party responsibilities, read the new and weep.

LANSING—Riding on a wave of surprise slogan, "Keys for Good Government," Dr. Eugene C. Keys, a darkhorse candidate from Dearborn, provided a surprise feature of Michigan's primary election this month.

He led a field of nine men for the Republican nomination of lieutenant governor.

Virtually unknown among party leaders, Dr. Keys is today the coveted subject of attention by outside politicians. Republican members of the State Senate are wondering "who" is next to Dr. Keys and how they may fare in the next legislative appointment to committees. More than one senator is planning a trip soon to Dearborn, perhaps to visit Ford's Greenfield Village and then to "drop in" casually for a chat with the new state figure.

The Republican nominee has the distinction of being a three-in-one professionally licensed physician, dentist and lawyer, all at the same time. His popular-price medical clinic at the automobile town in Wayne county is envied by rival owners for its profitable operation. And yet Dr. Keys has never been a member of the state or county medical societies.

Because of the apparent cost of Keys' primary campaign, more than one Lansing observer has wondered how it was being financed. From the friends of the Dearborn physician-dentist-lawyer comes the assurance that Dr. Keys, a business success, has paid the bills himself. He made a vote appeal of the statement that he was independent of any group and hence was not pledged to factional commitments.

Among his opponents whose Lansing background include many years were the following: Felix H. H. Flynn, Cadillac, a state senator and president pro tem; Arthur Woods of Detroit, many-term state senator; E. W. Egan of Plymouth, a state representative; former sheriff of Kalamazoo county and air executive secretary to Governor Grosbeck; James Thompson of Jackson, past chairman of the Republican State Central committee and former commissioner of agriculture under Governor Fitzgerald.

True, Dr. Keys was elected one year ago to the city council of Dearborn. But that is a long way from the halls of the office of lieutenant governor, a position sought by the 1939 legislature which made it a $5,000-a-year job. The sudden death of Governor Fitzgerald had demonstrated the possibilities which this office offered, automatically elevating Loren D. Dickinson into the governor's chair. Because Mr. Dickinson is 81 years of age, it is inevitable that interest will center to a great degree on his running mate for lieutenant governor. This is not to state that the governor isn't in the best of health; in fact, his physician pronounces him to be sound physically for the office's responsibilities. It is merely recognizing the fact that life is more uncertain at 81 than it is at 42, the age of Dickinson's opponent, Murray D. Van Wagoner.

the rise of the new Fitzgerald and Murphy. Each is 43 years of age. Will the magic name of Fitzgerald and Murphy attract voters for the Democrat in November? On the basis of the primary vote, such appears to be quite possible.

In the coming weeks the personal popularity of Dickinson and Van Wagoner each one a powerful leader in his own party, will be put to a new test. We make no prediction other than this: The campaign will be colorful and interesting.

Mrs. Frances Fitzgerald, South Lyon, was a visitor Tuesday morning in Northville.

Class Notes

The combination classes of Typing II and office practice, taught by Miss Kathlyn Giltner, have been busy lately typing out class enrollments and various other material for the teachers.

Fifteen girls of the Home Making II class spent last Wednesday afternoon in Detroit.

Neville Walker's American government class was very surprised and unprepared when he had a test ready for them Thursday morning, Sept. 12.

The first hour art class has just finished picture posters pertaining to art which contain a little printing which they learned the first few days of art class.

E. V. Elmsley reports two new people who have entered on the apprentice program. They are Richard Bartholomew and Joyce Morley.

Serenity-two high school students took the tuberculosis test Monday, Sept. 16.

Miss Kathryn Giltner certainly had a busy day Monday. She had to hand test several hundred students in fact, that one person's abilities were taxed to the point of fainting.

Tap! Tap! Tap! Listen to those first year typists in Miss Giltner's fourth class. They've been writing a lad has a fur; a lad has a pig; a lad has a run; a lad has a bus.

The newly elected officers were started Wednesday, Sept. 12, by selling approximately 40 bars of candy, and with high hopes of selling more now that the students know the sales have started.

The only difficulty which they encountered during the first day was that they often seemed to lack the necessary change.

Art Breitmeyer is in charge of these sales and two senior students will be selected every two weeks to sell the candy during noon hours.

Those who participate in the sales are given hours which help to take them closer to Washington.

The newly elected officers were started Wednesday, Sept. 12, by selling approximately 40 bars of candy, and with high hopes of selling more now that the students know the sales have started.

The only difficulty which they encountered during the first day was that they often seemed to lack the necessary change.

Travelogue

After vagabonding through the West for a month and a half, William Hensch is back at his desk in the science room, once more. His trip took him to Mexico, up the coast to Washington, and through Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, South Dakota, Iowa and back to Michigan.

In New Mexico, the Hensch family took a first hour trip through the Carlsbad Caverns. It was a two and a half mile trail 650 feet below the ground. The largest cave they were in was 4,000 feet long, 625 feet wide, and 500 feet high.

In California, the Hensch family saw the redwoods. One tree had a diameter of 41 feet and a height of 364 feet. In the pioneer days, Mr. Hensch relates, a cavalry troop was stationed at the Park. Twenty-six horses were stabled in a fallen hollow trunk of one of these huge trees.

Although Mr. Hensch refused to tell what he considered was the most interesting display at the Golden Gate Exposition, he did say that the lighting effects of the fair at night were very impressive.

The travelers saw several large bridges, for example, the Golden Gate Bridge. Many irrigation projects were seen progressing in California, Washington, Wyoming and Montana.

Mr. Hensch purchased many interesting books and pamphlets.

Navy Takes Army Friday, 12-0

Friday, the Thirteenth Proves To Be Unlucky for Kimmel

Friday, the thirteenth was the date of the big Army-Navy game played at Cass Benton Park.

Sid Junod, captain of the Navy, won the toss from Ray Hartner, captain of the Army, and chose to receive. Ray kicked with Jack Holcomb receiving for the Navy. No score was made until the second quarter, when "Flash" Holcomb went three yards to score Navy's first touchdown.

The second half opened with Sid Junod kicking off for Navy to "Curly" Odgers. In the third quarter, Harold Fritz intercepted a pass and ran about 40 yards for Navy's second touchdown. The game ended 12-0, in Navy's favor.

Don Kimmel, wearing the number 13 jersey, had a great misfortune in the fourth quarter when his collarbone was broken. This will be a long time before he is able to play again.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMENT
 by GEORGE A. DONDERO
 Member of Congress, 17th Michigan District

Although much was said a short time ago about the concentration of national defense industrial activities in the central area of the United States, the record of defense contracts up to this date indicates a concentration of defense work on the eastern seaboard of the United States.

Manufacturers in New Jersey have received $193,783,000 in defense contracts. Virginia is a close second with $161,417,000 and Massachusetts is not far behind with $183,013,000. Defense contracts in the amount of $29,637,000 have been placed with New York firms and Connecticut manufacturers have signed contracts amounting to $61,691,000.

National defense contracts for other eastern States are reported as follows:

Pennsylvania	$54,892,000
Maine	30,297,000
Rhode Island	26,201,000
Maryland	7,484,000
Delaware	3,428,000
District of Columbia	1,845,000
New Hampshire	249,000
Vermont	153,000

In contrast to this concentration of defense contracts on the Atlantic coastline, Indiana firms have received $45,261,000 in contracts, and Ohio companies have received $31,456,000 in defense contracts. Michigan, which is conceded to be the center of mass production in the United States and certainly a key State in our national defense preparations has so far received $40,315,000 in contracts.

Other States in the Great Lakes area have been even less favored with national defense contracts. The latest reports for the area show contracts as follows:

Illinois	$11,219,000
Michigan	9,651,000
Minnesota	1,104,000
Missouri	3,622,000
Kansas	945,000
Kentucky	571,000
Iowa	148,000
Nebraska	9,000

Southern States have so far received national defense contracts as follows:

Texas	$28,950,000
Florida	25,270,000
South Carolina	4,967,000
North Carolina	3,547,000
Tennessee	1,679,000
Louisiana	1,110,000
Georgia	1,037,000
Alabama	419,000
Mississippi	7,000

The record of contracts for the mountain and the Pacific States is as follows:

California	$26,594,000
Washington	8,778,000
Utah	1,675,000
Colorado	1,167,000
Oregon	493,000
Nevada	52,000
Wyoming	9,000

If the present allocation of national defense contracts continues, it is apparent that the idea of centering our defense industrial activities in the interior of the country has been abandoned. Defense contracts for the State of New Jersey alone exceed national defense contracts for six States in the Great Lakes area (Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Minnesota) by $60,000,000. Defense contracts in Virginia exceed those for the Great Lakes area by $50,000,000. The same is also true of defense contracts allocated to Massachusetts; New York alone already has more contracts than Michigan and Indiana combined.

Thus, up to the present time, our national defense industrial activities are crowded into a few states along the Atlantic seaboard. This situation is undoubtedly due to a preponderance of laral contracts which must of necessity be confined to States having harbor facilities. Allocation of military contracts may in the future bring up the total of interior contracts.

PLAN NOVY DINNER
 The Methodist Ladies Aid of Novi is sponsoring a public dinner at noon Thursday, Sept. 28. Mrs. Charles Perry is to be the hostess.

Advertising is ROMANCE

You read the ads. As you read, visions come, and a desire for better things.

Do you see dresses? You picture yourself of a summer evening in this drifting white chiffon, softly printed with delicate blossoms.

Hats? Your mind's eye frames your face with a pastel shaded halo.

Foods? A cool, jolly dinner, with exciting news of the family's day.

Sporting goods? A slashing tennis game. A well-hit drive from the tee. A hard-hooked fish and a screaming reel.

Some people say that all enthusiasm should be taken out of advertising. In books and speeches they crusade for bleak little ads that give nothing but thread counts, strength and chemical tests, dimensions and prices. What a pity if they had their way!

Advertising is one of the welcome voices that directs our eyes upward. It has worked wonders in raising our standard of living. Let's encourage it to continue on its inspiring way.
