WAYNE COUNTY RECORD

The Northville Record is exhibiting this week facsimiles of front pages from its files showing four stages in the development of the paper through the 71 years of its existence. The first facsimile is of the Aug. 28, 1869 edition, which is the oldest paper in the files of The Record; earlier papers in this year were destroyed by fire several years ago.

Next is the Oct. 5, 1894 issue, followed by the issue of Oct. 1, 1920; and Oct. 7, 1938.

Cooperating in the observance of National Newspaper Week, the Northville Library has four old editions of The Record on display in the reading room. Other old editions have been placed in the window of The Record office, where miniature replicas can be read with a magnifying glass. Persons interested may see the other papers in The Record office. The originals, yellow with age, can easily be read.

Newspaper Week Focuses Attention on Press Freedom

The Northville Record Joins Papers throughout U. S. in Observance; October Is Famous Business Month

Democracy Is Theme

The Northville Record, along with daily and other weekly newspapers of the United States, is focusing attention from Oct. 1-8, on the press, joining in a nationwide observance of National Newspaper Week.

Designed primarily as the answer to a growing realization on the part of newspapers that they have suffered a loss of both prestige and revenue for lack of an adequate and unified public relations program, National Newspaper Week also is cloaked with tremendous social and patriotic significance.

Its basic theme is: "The Press Constitutes the First Line of Defense in the Battle for the Maintenance of Democracy."

The most effective way in which the public can express its realization of the importance of the free American press is to read it more intelligently, to risk upon preserving its freedom, and to accord it the prestige it has earned.

Heads Novi School

H. W. Medler, superintendent of the Novi school system announces that three new subjects have been added to the high school curriculum.

Novi Enrollment Totals 200 Pupils

Three New Teachers Join Grade and High School Faculty

Novi's village school, limited this year to students from its immediate district, has started its year's program with an enrollment of 200 with three new teachers on the staff.

The over-crowded condition of the system, board members feel, has been improved by the dropping this year of students from two outside districts.

New members of the staff are Capt. H. W. Medler, Arden Deibert and Mrs. Marian Schwarmann.

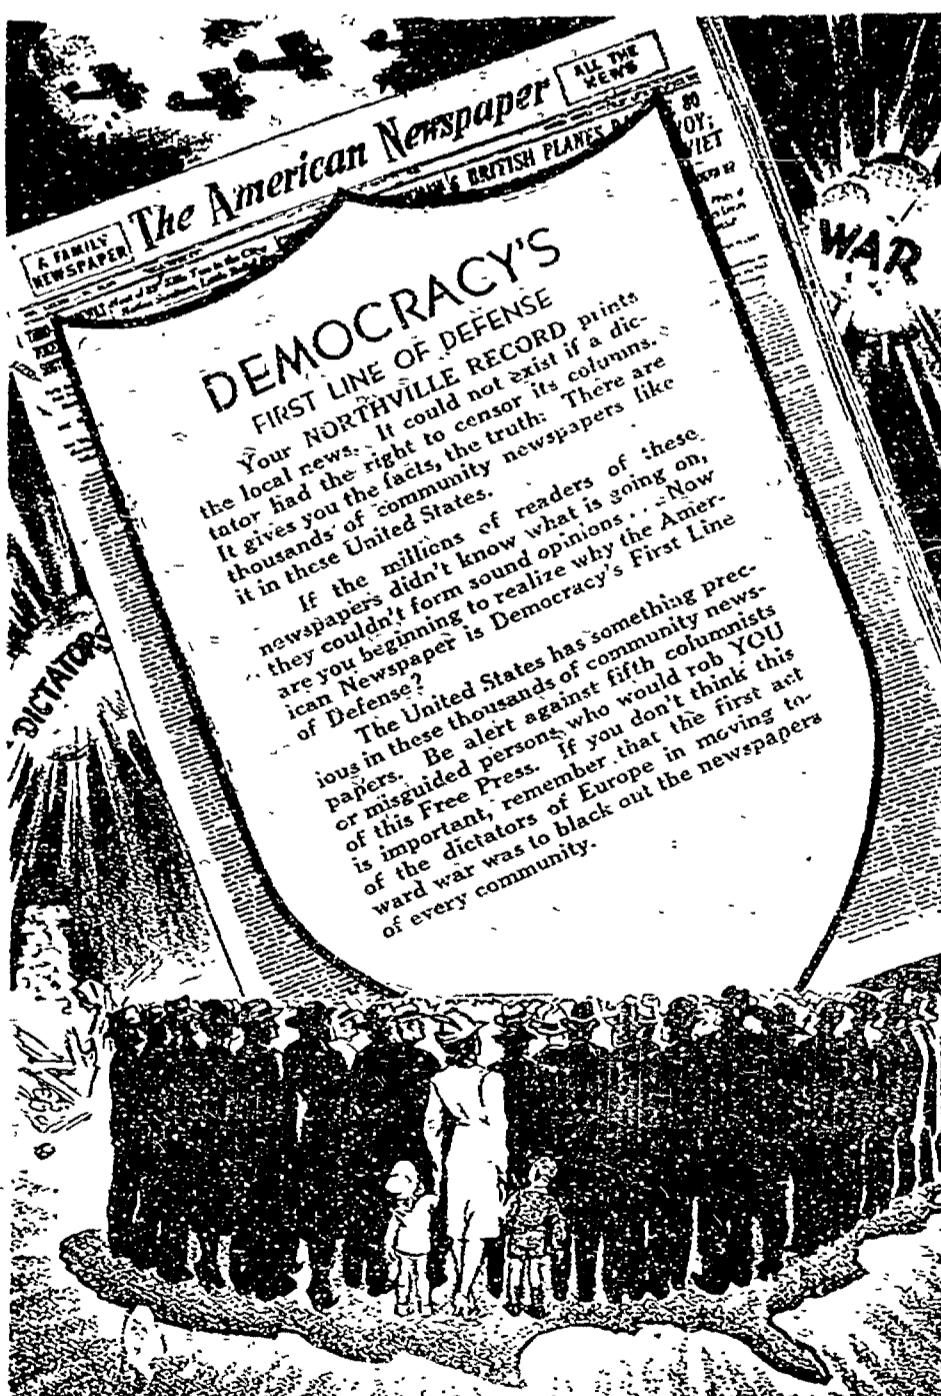

Mr. Medler, formerly of Alma, received his life certificate from the Central State Teachers college and his bachelor's degree from the Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti. His graduate work has been done at the University of Michigan. In 1935, Mr. Medler moved from New Hudson.

The Oldest Paper in Wayne County Outside the City of Detroit

Just after the death of the flowers
And before they are buried in snow;
There comes a festival season
When nature is all aglow.

• The Country Paper Speaks . . .

I am the oldest business in this town;
Old mills have been abandoned; I persist.
Old houses, old hotels of great renown
Have gone their ways, but I, I still exist;
Upon my lacy pages there appears
The story of this place throughout the years.
I told of youth and war, of girls who wed,
Of rich and poor alike, of thief and sage,
And how they lived—though most of them are dead
While ageless I am of the present age;
Man's varied acts have always been my text—
What happened long ago, and what comes next.
Though I am old, in truth I still can say;
Nothing can be so nearly up-to-date:
Both yesterdays and tomorrow's survey—
Of ne'er-do-wells and those of high estate.
I lived because I served, and still shall live
Because, of all I have, to all I give!

Bristow Adams.

Oct. 16, 1940, is the day that 125,000 young men of Michigan will register for the draft. It is also the last day in many counties to register for the November election. In Northville and Novi townships the last day to register is Saturday, Oct. 26.

• Tooting Our Horn . . .

The last person we wish to speak about in the columns of The Record is ourself. We hate to blow our own horn, or we would rather tell about you, and blow our horn for what you are doing. We aim not to hinder; to command, not criticize; to print news, not gossip; to abhor scandal, and in kindness forget unpleasantries as far as possible; and be kind throughout in all we say, how we say it and what we do.

It is easy to talk and say many things, but to print them places them in record for posterity. Let's regard the sunny days. Let's leave the sunshine, and forget the shadows. Let's live and let live. Let's try to bring happiness, to soften sorrow, and invite time to mercifully heal the heartache. The Record aims to face the ign, so that the shadows will all fall behind us.

This is "National Newspaper Week." This week dailies and the weekly ones aim to reveal to our people the services and activities of your newspaper. We have no hang up to any of our thing services. We deal in the things of heart and home, of you and yours, and all of us in the infinite things of life. Let you and I in black and white, all working, all smiling, and trying to offer a word of cheer and a kindly comment. Our staff is only a few, our aims are to bring to you a clean paper, each week filled with news that is fit to print, wholesome and clean. We never want you to blush when you see The Record on the reading table. Call at all the names you wish, good, bad or indifferent, derogatory or praiseworthy, we are pleased to have it called. We are thankful for your helpfulness, your kindness and charity in forgiving and forgetting.

Can we help you, say so. Can we speak a word of comfort, or commendation, that we aim to do, not to tear down, gossip, or spread unfounded rumors, if we know it. Better be silent where you don't know. Someone has said better be silent and thought a fool than open your mouth and prove it. This has its counter part in a small-town paper where we all aim to live and move together, and share our abundance of happiness and pleasure with our neighbors.

We could blow our horn, yes, tell of our taxes paid and unpaid, the newsprint used, the payroll, the investment of all the many things tangible that flow from The Record office, but we won't. Suffice it for us to say that today, you and I may breathe a prayer of thankfulness for the guarantee that is still ours in the Bill of Rights that still allows America the privileges of a free press, freedom of worship and speech, and freedom of petition. A free press is the bulwark of democracy, and we will know no black outs in Northville or America as long as a free press espouses freedom and justice to all. In our small, humble way we want to do our part as we are given to see our duty.

Congressman Dondero was surprised to read in The Record that he did not vote on the Compulsory Military Bill. He desires us to correct this statement, which we are glad to do. Our information came from the Michigan Mirror which listed Mr. Dondero as not voting. Mr. Dondero voted against compulsory military training.

This business about the snake in the flag used for wind-shield stickers is all the bunk. Just another case of cockeyed hysteria, and super abundant unpatriotic patriotic effervescence. State police investigated the story, and found that the plates for the flag were made years ago before the Fifth Column was known, and the shadow interpreted as the snake is only a depth giving factor in the plate.

Observers believe that Van Wagoner's chances for election are bound up with Roosevelt's totals in Michigan. And democrats are saying as "Mah, man goes Vermont."

In the World War there were 337,646 persons listed as draft dodgers. There was that so many, when we remember that 24,224,000 men were registered.

The NEWS at ANY COST!

The facts which are the American Newspaper's ammunition in its daily battle against vicious propaganda, cost you mere pennies a day to read. But they cost millions of dollars to gather! They represent correspondents all over the world; cables strung across oceans; costly machinery and the employment of highly skilled labor. The newspaper you take so for granted is the materialization of that Free Press for which men have fought and died! It is a factor in the economics of Northville and community. To support and maintain it is to guarantee forever our American democracy.

A Free Press Constitutes the First Line of Defense in the Battle for the Maintenance of Democracy

News from Walled Lake

By CHARLES E. HUTTON

Walled Lake High School gridironers start to the end of a season.

It required the entire first half of the game for Coach Hursh's men to conquer. Friday, with the sweet nectar of victory in a well-fought battle with Bedford Union on the local field. The final score of 13 to 0 in Walled Lake's favor had the pleasant ring of bygone days for the home varsity, in that it recalled the highlight championship years when opposing teams failed to cross a goal line from the over the line after running 33 yards down to Union's five, but completed only five of 15 passes attempted, while Bedford made five out of seven in the final period. Defense play was handled effectively by Fletemier, Woodworth, Teeds and Colstock.

Considerably peped up by their first victory in over a year, the Latemen will journey to Milford this Friday for the first game in the Southwestern County League schedule.

THE PRESS FIGHTS YOUR BATTLE

There Can Be No

BLACKOUT

of DEMOCRACY while the American Newspaper Counter-Attacks Propaganda With a Barrage of Well-Aimed

FACTS!

As custodians of a Free Press, we the publishers, editors and staff members of The Northville Record enlist all our forces to fight for recognition of this vital issue: A Free Press and Democracy are inseparable. Violate one and you crush the other. Silence one and you destroy the very foundation of the other.

We have tasted one bitter fact from the cauldrons of totalitarianism into which have already been poured millions of live sacrifices: dictators don't begin by using the sword to delude their people; they first use the pen, making the columns of their "news" papers the mouthpiece for their ill-directed lies and empty promises.

But such delusion is not for those of us who are honestly, fearlessly, whole heartedly American. Thanks to a Free Press, the American people are the best informed in the world. Freedom of the press is guaranteed to the people by our Bill of Rights and this free government shall not perish as long as the people maintain a Free Press!

Stand with the publishers of America's newspapers in the battle for democracy. With a Free Press as your most powerful weapon against dictatorial despotism, there shall be NO SURRENDER for America and Americans.

Nieman were honored Thursday evening at a reception given by Methodist church members and friends. Dinner was served, followed by an informal program.

The Civic Welfare club had its regular meeting Wednesday noon at Stone Crest, with Mrs. Garry Thompson and Mrs. William Vreeck as members of a student council. One student each was selected from grades seven and eight. The Freshmen and sophomores elected two and three members respectively. Those selected were: Marcelle Hayes, Priscilla Oliphant, Betty Clark, Carl Brimer, Jean Mihura, Joan Medier and Harold Drouillard. The representatives met for the first time Friday to complete plans of organization.

Jacqueline Goodrich continues her studies in art work this fall at Cass Technical School, Detroit. During her entire schooling and particularly in high school she indicated an unusual talent in sketching and water color. She plans to specialize in commercial design.

The varsity football squad accompanied by members of the faculty will see the University of Michigan-Michigan State college game at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Local industry is hummimg again with the introduction of the new model automobiles on display at the three garage dealers of the village. L. B. Miles has an attractive display of a popular Ford model in his showroom, while across the street can be seen Buick, Olds and Chevrolets as shown by J. L. Tisdell. Around the corner Robert Southern is presenting the Chrysler, Plymouth and Hudson lines. All report more than ordinary interest taken by the local public.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid Tuttle have returned from a month's visit to California and intervening points.

Larry Gilliam reports an increase in sales of household equipment, particularly in oil burners and electrical appliances.

The local post office has noted a heavy demand for duck stamps during the past week.

Tom Harmon's spectacular runs against California in last Saturday's opening Michigan-California game recalled to the minds of some of the old time fans hereabouts similar feats as accomplished by Harry Vreeland of the Walled Lake Products company. Vreeland was an all-city and all-state runner star when he attended Northwestern high school in Detroit.

The thrilling adventure of climbing Africa's Mountain of the Moon with exciting motion pictures and an amazing word description by the captain, Captain Carl Wellman, will open the fall program of the World Adventure outdoor lecture course at the Detroit Institute of Arts, Woodward at Kirby at 3 p.m. Sunday Oct. 6.

Novi High School and Grade Notes

Thursday, Sept. 26, seven students were elected from the student body to represent the school as members of a student council. One student each was selected from grades seven and eight. The Freshmen and sophomores elected two and three members respectively.

Those selected were: Marcelle Hayes, Priscilla Oliphant, Betty Clark, Carl Brimer, Jean Mihura, Joan Medier and Harold Drouillard. The representatives met for the first time Friday to complete plans of organization.

The fifth and tenth grade boys did a fine job in repairing the old bicycle racks and building a new one. The racks were numbered and now each bicycle owner has an individual section assigned to him. Thanks, boys, that is certainly much better. Also thanks to the board of education for making the improvement possible.

The sophomores are looking forward with friendless glee to the freshman initiation scheduled to take place Friday. The formal reception will be held in the evening. Nearly 100 students a day are being served with milk for their lunches. The tenth graders are sponsoring the projects and are doing a fine job.

Maxine Marr is out of school for a few days because of a throat infection. We all hope that she will be back with us soon.

Reporters for the high school notes are: Betty Brooks, Margaret Ann Hill and David Hanes.

The seventh graders have finished a heavy demand for duck stamps during the past week.

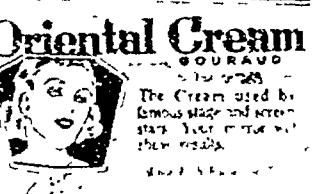

In history they have learned about the Aztec Indians. Marcelle Hayes is the class representative in the student council. Russell Ortwin is captain of the football team.

Edgar McDonald is the reporter for the seventh grade.

Friday, a committee tagged the Clean Up project in the fifth and tenth grades. Some were not on the athletic board.

The girls organized two basketball teams. Dorothy Hart is captain of the girls' team. Edith Olson is captain of the boys' team. They chose God Bless America" as their class slogan. The girls' class song for football is "I'm a Red Devil". Fredell is captain of the Red Devils. Richard Glavin is captain of the Red Wings. We will be back in touch with the progress of the football team.

Fluorescent lighting is so new and there are so many fixtures on the market, so many claims being made, that it is hard for the inexperienced buyer to know what to buy. At present fluorescent fixtures are more expensive than other types, and special auxiliary equipment is needed to operate them, so that getting your money's worth is especially important.

One way you can be SURE of getting proper fixtures is to insist on certified Fleur-O-Liers. This is not a fixture made by any one manufacturer. It is the brand name used by over 17 companies on fixtures built to rigid specifications for your protection... specifications carefully drawn up by Mazda Lamp manufacturers and checked by Electrical Testing Laboratories. Look for the label—the mark of certified Fleur-O-Liers. It is your assurance of quality and dependability. Corresponding fixtures for industrial use are identified by the name "R. L. M. Fluorescent."

Our experienced lighting staff will be glad to give you full information about this revolutionary new lighting. Call your Detroit Edison office. There is no charge or obligation. The Detroit Edison Company does not sell Fleur-O-Liers fixtures or fluorescent lamps. See your electrical contractor or lighting fixture dealer. The Detroit Edison Company.

Beauty Reaches All-Time High in New '41 Chevrolet

Completely new styling along with numerous mechanical improvements to make the new 1941 Chevrolet, now on display at all dealers', a worthy successor to the car which have earned first place in public favor year after year. The greater size and roominess of the new models, as well as their sleek new beauty, are apparent in the Special De Luxe Sport Sedan, shown above.

At (2) is shown the spacious interior of the same model's rear compartment, and at (3) is its front compartment, showing two-spoke steering wheel with horn-blowing ring, new sliding-type sun visors, and smartly re-styled dash.

One of the major changes is substitution of concealed safety-steeps (4) for the running boards of other years, an improvement adding to the car's beauty without sacrifice of the safety and convenience which running boards provide. At (5) is the six-blinder Chevrolet valve-in-head engine for 1941, in which many refinements have been made. Horsepower is increased from 85 to 90 without affecting economy; and cooling, lubrication and carburetion are all improved. In circle is the new switch which reverses the ignition current polarity each time the starter is operated, indefinitely prolonging the life of distributor points.

FINANCIAL PREPAREDNESS

When a nation rears great demands are made upon the telephone. Defense work of government and industry requires expanded telephone service at once. Continued rapid service is vital, and your Telephone Company is equal to this emergency of national defense because of its traditional policy of preparedness. It is ready with experienced men and women; ready with a reasonable margin of facilities for growth. And being a part of the soundly financed Bell System, it is ready to obtain capital funds to pay for additional buildings, switchboards, cables and poles, whenever and wherever needed.

Conservation Department Doesn't Like "Sky Shooters," Usually the Amateurs

"Don't be a sky shooter!"

The appeal goes out from the conservation department's game division as duck hunters opened the 1940 season at sunrise, Tuesday.

A "sky shooter" is the most popular individual along the borders of any duck marsh. He is the one who wastes powder and shot in his eagerness to blaze away at ducks that are coming in but still out of range and who succeeds usually in scaring them away.

It is the amateur duck hunter who is the principal offender according to department game men. The veteran holds his fire until he knows the ducks are within range. The veteran knows his gun's capabilities, knows that the average fowling piece — a 12-gauge full choke gun handling number six chilled shot — can be depended upon to kill at distances up to 40 yards. The veteran does not demand too much of his gun.

The 60-day open season on migratory waterfowl ends Nov. 29. All duck hunters must obtain federal duck stamps — on sale at post offices — which are affixed to small game licenses issued by the conservation department. All money collected through sale of stamps is turned over to the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service for improvement of waterfowl hunting and

Pontiac Editor Is Rotary Speaker

Presenting a most vivid picture of the romance of the American Press, Harold A. Fitzgerald, editor and manager of the Pontiac Press, brought to Northville Rotarians Tuesday one of their most interesting discourses of the year.

Mr. Fitzgerald defined news as "happenings in which people are interested." He contrasted the time element in the presentation of news in 1781, when London papers carried the news of the surrender of Cornwallis to Gen. George Washington, 49 days after the event, and then doubted the fact, with the landing of Lindbergh in Paris, when published in 50 nations and in 21 languages. He referred to the Battle of New Orleans, which was fought after the signing of the Treaty of Ghent. Next, he said, is the "most perishable commodity of all time." Then by interesting incident after incident he revealed the true basic nature of the printed word, of the place of photography and the relative prominence of various types of news photos and newspapers. He referred to the battle of New Orleans, which was fought after the signing of the Treaty of Ghent. Next, he said, is the "most perishable commodity of all time." Then by interesting inci-

Gun Club To Hold Allegiance Rites

Dinner Wednesday, Oct. 9, Will Mark Patriotic Ceremony for Members

With Max Fank Lampert of Detroit, a member of the National Gun Association scheduled to be the guest speaker, the Northville Gun Club is making quite an occasion of pledging its allegiance to the flag in a formal ceremony at a dinner at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 9, in the Legion Hall.

To swear in the members of the club, H. Driver of Detroit, who holds a number of records in the Detroit Pistol team, will be on hand.

Pledging allegiance in this manner is a suggestion which comes from the National Rifle Association headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Mayor Carl H. Bryan will present the club's charter to the group and the entertainment for the evening will be provided by the American Legion. Headed by Mrs. Roy W. Covell, the women of the Methodist church will serve the dinner.

Chapman Discusses Press and Church

Giving a sendoff to National Newspaper Week Oct. 1-8, the Rev.

Dr. Howard R. Chapman spoke

Sunday morning from his pulpit at the First Baptist church of the "Freedom of the Press and the Church in a Democracy."

Saying that both the church and the press seek earnestly to instruct and educate, he said that the press at its best promotes the welfare of the community, the nation and the world.

In Dr. Chapman's opinion, the freedom of religion will go if freedom is denied the press. "They will stand or fall together," he affirmed. "By the same token if the church should first lose its freedom of worship, then it will not long before the press will be freedom," he continued.

Dr. Chapman traced the freedom of speech and written word as far back as 500 years B.C.

bringing the rights of the press through the modern age as given in the Constitution of the United States.

He contended that readers of the newspapers today were looking to the press to give editorial comment and instruction on current problems. "If the press would discuss through its editorial columns

the men in the present election campaign, we could vote more intelligently," he said.

He linked the obligations of the press with those of the teacher and interpreter. In upholding this standard, Dr. Chapman asserted that the press must with as many difficulties as does the church in maintaining its responsibilities in the discharge of its duty.

My Wife Has Something to Say.... About the "Detroit Free Press"

Dear Sirs:

My wife is after me, again. In my second letter to the Detroit Free Press I tried to appease my conscience, soothe my critics, and smooth over a few rough spots among my sins of omission. But now My Wife has Something to Say Too, and How! Say, when I had dodged her barrage of oral rolling pins and ran for cover I fully realized the fury of a woman's tongue. Yes, she wanted to know if Eleanor Roosevelt and Jack Van Coevering weren't in the Free Press, too, along with other celebrities, and why didn't I say so?

Right then I knew why men jump at the chance to grab off cabins like the Eaton Headquarters Cabin for a livable doghouse. Those sins of omission and commission that glorify the doghouse as a sanctuary are equally as expensive as a trip to the furrier after you forget and leave your shoes or something in the hall way. Wearing sack cloth and ashes I herewith tender my verbal fur coat and promise on my honor a lily white existence and the privilege of censorship of my public and private correspondence.

My wife is right. Our First Lady of the Land, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, has made herself a real factor in the social, political, and home life of the nation. To such an extent is this true that the other evening while extolling the President of the United States as the founder of all that is good and true, Murray D. Van Wagoner, democratic candidate for governor, referred to the President as Franklin Deleanor Roosevelt. In "My Day" varied interests occupy the First Lady and here, where people contact her, she reveals a woman's intuition in interpreting the life of the country. Here we find the world's greatest column of praise for daily contacts and conversations ever presented in black and white. Here the associations of the First Lady are stripped of fad, fancy or high society and made to show the genuine grandeur of personality. Here often hidden and unsung kindnesses are revealed and gentle words fine utterance and commendation. The home, the child, and a thousand and one thoughts of homey virtue find words of encouragement. Truly, Mrs. Roosevelt has immortalized herself by ease of expression and the genuineness of her praise and appreciation. Here the glory of the commonplace holds its own in a world of great events.

And what's more, with this domestic course in the Detroit Free Press, I find where I used to lie abed in the morning now I am pushed out for a 7 o'clock reading hour of these columns before breakfast. "Just so you won't blow off again without knowing what it's all about," says Wifie. And along with my morning vita-minnies I get a full exposition of "My Day," another dose of "Iffy," who has already "Risen to Remark" and a long dissertation on the virtues of Jack Van Coevering and what he is doing to keep ducks from being shot before breakfast.

And what a great guy that Iffy is! We know folks who swear that Iffy, the Three Spark Plugs and Rudy York won the pennant. Just like a five man team against the world. Iffy on the mound playing and iffing for the others can humble the Cincinnati Reds, they contend. And who will contradict them? Looking at those four hairs and a power bump on Iffy's dome, at the two thoughtful wrinkles on his brow supported by octagon rimmed spectacles, and wind swept undergrowth of foliage over mouth and chin, that parts to allow a newsy nose (swollen from being caught in doors and windows) to protude in triumph, who would gainsay this challenge, "M'hearties." Shrieking "Leggo my whiskers! Drat ye, I'm about to explain, Back When . . .", the old maestro lifts young and old into his journalistic chariot to roll along the horizons of Tiger Lore and baseball romances of all time. Yes, Old Iffy, drat your wrinkled hide. I darn near missed my car every morning last week, and all because of you. You rise to Remark, I rise to read and then hang on a strap while re-reading en route to the daily grind.

Why the women folks feel so kindly to dumb animals (except their husbands) is I think all because of that Chapper, known for his conservation writings, Jack Van Coevering. Drat it, why can't he include husbands like me in his conservation pleas? Keeping ducks from being killed before breakfast seems a lot more important than me having to roll out to read about it. You're all wrong there, Chapper, but I can't do anything about it. So we won't quarrel. But Jack, my friend, you are doing a swell job in telling Michiganders about sound wild life policies and conservation as we view it in Michigan. Not long ago the Conservation Department was called the Conversation Department. Today, probably no other department of our state government is more appreciated. None have done more in this change in public opinion than your own kind self. Keep up the good work!

And now kind folks you know that every woman really likes to see what she buys . . . feel of it, and talk a little about it. Well, my wife believes there must be something in the works of Dr. George W. Crane after all (Sort of cooled off now, her own sweet self again). So she wants a few samples . . . Maybe you would like them, too . . . So here we are . . . But remember if you like it call or write the Free Press and tell me too . . .

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane, Northwestern University

The late Houdini amazed people by being able to stay under water for as long as four minutes. If you are interested in his secret, be sure to read today's case for you can soon hold your breath two or even three minutes.

CASE H-III
Bob S., aged 21, is a life guard at one of our beaches.

"It's too bad human beings can't swim under water longer," he stated. "If we could just take a lung full of air like a whale, and then make it last us a long time, we would rarely drown."

"Dr. Crane, I can hold my breath under water for a little over a minute. Are there any methods by which I can increase that time?"

Diagnoses

Yes, there are three good methods and they should be of interest not alone to swimmers but to short-distance runners like the 30-yard and 100-yard dash men.

The first man in a normal breath inhales about one pint of air, or 50 cubic centimeters. But his total lung capacity of movable air is 3700 cubic centimeters or nearly a gallon.

If we take one deep breath and hold it, we can usually go from 30 seconds to 50 seconds before we need another breath. But if we rapidly inhale—or a dozen times and then hold the last breath, we can add nearly half a minute to our time.

Because we have aerated the blood and stored-up a temporary surplus of oxygen, we can feel the symptoms of this over-supply by the resulting drowsiness and dizziness.

You may even faint from such a process, as when you stop and blow on a smoldering fire.

When we feel the need to take a new breath, it doesn't mean we have used up all the oxygen in the air inside our chest. It simply means that the film of air next to the lung tissue is full of carbon dioxide.

There is still plenty of oxygen in the center of the lungs.

What we need, therefore, is to stir the air inside our lungs and bring fresh oxygen against the lung tissue. How can we do this? In two ways.

In the first place, we can balloon out our cheeks by pushing air from the chest up into the mouth and out the Eustachian tubes that lead to each year. You will even feel the carbuncles click when you do this. By such shifting of the air, you help it up.

A second, and even better method, is to force air back down your esophagus into your stomach. This has another advantage for there is always an air cap or large air bubble in the dome of the stomach.

It may have almost a pint of fresh air in it and serve as a second reservoir or "spare tire" as it were. By belching with your nose and mouth closed, you can release this fresh stomach air and move it into the lungs, as when you blow on a smoldering fire.

If you will just try this experiment while reading this case today, you can prove these facts. The urge to take a new breath will immediately be lessened if you belch with nose and mouth closed.

These facts undoubtedly are Houdini's secret. He never told me his method, but I am sure he has discovered it. When I was in medical school I not only figured out the above solution, but proved it to my own satisfaction.

A man with a good-sized chest and diligent practice can reach three minutes without great trouble.

Some men and women can swallow air at will, so they can additionally fill the stomach with several hundred cubic centimeters of fresh air just before holding their breath.

But everybody has an air cap in the stomach, as you can see on an X-ray plate of that organ. You swimmers can use the above facts to great advantage.

Swallow air, you can until the stomach is full. Blow the deadly air for at least a dozen times. Fill the lungs with the deepest possible breath and hold it. Then keep belching from time to time and balloon out the cheeks with air. You can usually double your best previous record inside of a few minutes practice.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane, Northwestern University

Here is a man in a good job who is dissatisfied because he has read that there is a "one and only" line of work for which each of us is best suited.

He has not only figured out the above solution, but proved it to my own satisfaction.

Case M-131: Leroy J. 28, is employed as a factory foreman. He has been referred to you for little about "love for our work."

"With our pay check we can buy the sources of inspiration and pleasure which we crave in order to be happy adults. We can take our sweetheart to a movie, or buy an automobile for our family. We can go on a vacation trip, and join a lodge or social club."

Moreover, though you may not be fitted for secretarial work today, if you refuse to be dissuaded, you may become a speed typist in a year and make yourself well adapted for such work.

You are not predestined for any one job in life. We obtain the happiness of life. Supplemented with our love for our family, we should be normally delighted with life. It isn't necessary to become so enamored of your job that you sit down and compose love letters about it, or shout its virtues wherever you go.

The answer to this weird question is this: "Find the job you now own, and give it your heart efforts. But keep your eyes open meanwhile for better offers."

But an intelligent adult with normal sense organs can become adept at any kind of work if he is willing to pay the price in study and technical training. Much of a physician's success results from his friend's patient from uncertainty. The medicine may be simply sugar pills, but the patient's belief does the trick.

In vocational guidance, the same situation is often true. Our clients are often asked, "What is your wife's or doctor's profession to tell them? This is your field of work."

Reassured, they concentrate on the new job and succeed. But they could also have succeeded in a dozen

So now, with everything sweet again, and this letter off my chest, hope with me that the hired girl doesn't get the bee on me and make me write about any more of those Free Press celebrities. Gee, wouldn't it be tough to have to extoll the virtues of all those folks like Ruth Alden, Josephine McLean, Jean Pearson, Betty Bingham, Joseph Fort Newton, Leo Donovon, Todd Rockwell, Ward to the Wise or Maybe the Voice of the People. Those and more, too, of the Free Press Columnists have their fans by the thousands.

But really and truly I am still very anxious to include Dr. Crane in my daily Free Press reading. Thousands others, like me, have been inoculated with a desire to read Dr. Crane in the Free Press. I recall in Columbus, Ohio, a survey showed Dr. Crane first among women readers (64.1% read it) and third among male readers (60.9%).

So you see, Dr. Crane rates tops there, and will here, if given a chance, even as I now rate at home once more (or do I?).

Sincerely,

John A. Ross, Optometrist.

Letter Perfect

Well here we are back again with sunburned towels from so much sprinting at the football game (we just couldn't help yelling after last week's rousing editorial).

The ever present saddle oxfords and mooseman mode of the Indians from many moons ago, are still blinding brightly along the nail of Pedometry (our own Latin version).

Pork pie and convertible corduroy coats are popular as are the convertible coupes.

"But, boys, don't feel left out because according to our crystal ball whose prophecies usually come out sunny-side up you will be wearing single breasted, four button, lapelless coats, with bright checkerboard shirts. Gay fedoras will be adorning your brand new permanent. Silver our numbers, if we don't have to look twice at the cover of Esquire to make sure that we're not in Vogue. It's rumored around that the Highland Regiment is thinking of changing from pleated to flared skirts for style's sake."

Mr. and Mrs. Dayton suns were hosts Saturday evening to a few friends at dinner-bridge.

Senior Sketch

The fellow I am going to try to describe is one of these tall lanky persons who comes close to the six foot mark or maybe hits it. He first reared his head for a war whoop on Oct. 24, 1922, and the town he disturbed on that eventful day was Brighton. While still a little tot, if you can imagine it, he moved to Northville and started his school career here.

He takes his sweet time every morning coming from 118 Randolph street but never seems to be late, how he does it we will probably never know.

One of his characteristics is to pull one of his dry jokes off his batch of many, on an unexpected person. Oh, yes, we laugh at them, too. His pet peeve is staying home and taking care of his brother, not Tom, but the younger one. His ambition this year is to go hunting and bag him self some rabbits. Later on he plans to go to college and get more education; I don't know if he can stand the strain but we'll let him go.

Although he has traveled around Michigan and to Florida, he wishes to go to California just a dull life! Do you know Bill yes, Bill Widmer, I think he had better take up more sports. Football and basketball doesn't seem exciting enough for him.

Among the daily occupants of Tumus P. Biddle's bus is a member of the class of '41 (she hopes) known as Virginia. And who lives in West Point Park. She attended Persson school until she entered the ninth grade when she began coming to Northville.

The main ambition of Virginia is to become a better pianist; but her main interest right now is the outcome of the World Series and she's out there rooting for the Tigers.

She has quite an unusual hobby which is wood burning and metal tapping and she has turned out some nice pieces of handicraft. She also enjoys reading the comics (kid stuff).

Virginia has hazel eyes and brown hair and her favorite colors are blue and red. Of all the nice things there are to eat Virginia enjoys eating spaghetti the most. One thing that she dislikes, though, is concertina people.

After graduation Virginia plans on taking a business course.

Because of the district convention being held Oct. 9-10, the regular meeting of the Allen M. Hart from Beloit Corp. will not be held Oct. 9, but will be held Wednesday evening, Oct. 23, with a posture supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

The annual Industrial Aid and Tax Free Picnic follows on the supper.

EDITORIALS

On Wednesday last, the sixth hour classes were interrupted to excuse the members on hall duty to a special meeting where Prin. G. V. Harrison and William French presided. There, the problems and duties of the officers were discussed.

In case you haven't realized there ARE problems. There's the case of a student who comes out of the assembly waving a permit and walking as slowly and as hard as he can on his heel plates, which resound to his delight all through the school. Then there's the cases of students coming out of rooms without parents and going through their lockers. Of course, there is always the problem of diplomatically squelching the disturbance of the beloved strummi who come back to the scene of their crime. Through all this, the student on hall duty has to do his assignments.

So next time you go through the halls, try to cooperate. It always helps.

Three Girls To Be Chosen in December by Senior Class

This year, as in the past five years, the D. A. R. is sponsoring a Good Citizenship Pilgrimage.

One girl from each school will participate in a state contest and the winner there will be sent expenses paid to the D. A. R. National Congress at Washington, D. C.

The virtues to be considered in choosing a winner are as follows: dependability which includes truthfulness, loyalty, punctuality; service includes cooperation, courtesy, consideration of others; leadership, consisting of personality, self-control, ability to lead; and patriotism which is unselfish interest in school, community and nation.

Three girls are chosen in December by the senior class and one of these is chosen by the faculty. Questionnaires will be sent to the successful candidates and judged by three personally disinterested people.

The girl who receives the majority of votes will be the winner.

Last year's state winner was Archdeacon Godoshian, an Armenian girl of Pontiac, and who was given the honor of presenting the bouquet to the President General. Also two alternatives are chosen. The girls receiving this honor were Anne Garby of Marquette, and Fannie Henderson of Cailliac.

Aleene Matthews represented Northville last year.

Junior High Notes

The junior high school has elected its Student Council. Betty Tyler of the eighth grade is the new president, with Joe Feber a seventh grader, vice-president. Treasurer is Shirley Lyke, from the eighth grade.

The new alderman from the eighth grade to the junior high Student Council is Pea Ely, and from the seventh grade, Florence McCloskey.

No secretary has been elected to the Student Council as yet.

What was What Is An Adult?

If you want to be included in this year's "Blue Book" be sure and order your Christmas cards from the Seniors.

You've probably noticed by this time that a certain redheaded soubriquet, called "Red," has had his day. True, he's retired. He, too, like one of Hitler's Henchmen, to add to our proof of his statement, very often goes from stop to stop in the hall, like his leader, and, "Hal Hitler." His reason for living this life, according to Laurent, is "It's a lot easier to comb hair. There's not enough of it to pull out."

Those aren't the important facts, though. Let's see, I should say, maybe another. I found out recently that our two local farm boys, Dennis Hoenzinger and Tom Duncanson, are quite interested in antiques and redolent wares.

Miss Hoenzinger is still in the summer, and that Jeanne Lantz, McCollum, went to Washington, D. C., to visit their mother.

Arriving by train they found the Aunt had an interesting tour planned for them. They visited the Washington Library, Mount Vernon and several other places of importance.

On the return trip they made the acquaintance of a woman and a boy who were of special interest, because they were refugees from China.

The train ride was a very enjoyable one.

In questioning some of the students it was learned that during the summer, at least, that Jeanne Lantz, McCollum, went to Washington, D. C., to visit their mother.

Miss Jane Lentz's art students are making belts of wood and leather shoe strings. They have cut four pieces of wood into various small shapes fastening them together with the leather shoe strings. These attractive belts will soon be worn by their owners around school.

At the pep meeting Friday, Alfred Heister tried out for cheerleader and appears to be a good prospect. Good luck, Al!

It's beginning to look like the end of the first marking period is drawing to a close because the Typing II class have been typing out report cards.

The assembly program was opened Wednesday, Oct. 2, with a selection by the saxophone sextette. Charles Yahne was in charge of the program.

Various members of the student body told us about different clubs and organizations.

Louis Eaton spoke to us about the Student Council; Jean McCollum about the Latin club; Janice Corel represented the French club and Mac Cavell the N-club; Chandler Parker, Journals, and Frank Eaton, Hi-Y. Miss Walker explained to us about the Music club; Bob Hunter gave us the facts about the Biology club. Maxine Cox talked to us about the Junior and senior activities.

More music by the sextette was heard at the end of the program.

The first dance of the season drew quite a number of N. H. S. students and also many from the neighboring towns (our old rivals, Plymouth, sending quite a few "Jitterbugs").

We saw several of the alumni who just simply couldn't resist a N. H. S. "Jam Session."

The "Blue Barons" played the music and if we do say so they were pretty good, especially on those fast pieces.

Refreshments of ice cream and cookies were served. They also played games. The amount of money in the treasury is 60 cents.

THE MELODIES YOU LOVE IN

"Moon Love," "Goin' Home," "You Are My Song of Love"—certainly the simplest melodies of these songs appeal to you!

But their melodic appeal is even greater when played as they were originally, "Crime from Tchaikovsky's 'Sixth,'" Dvorak's "New World," Schreker's "Unfinished," by the Victor Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles O'Connor—these are included in the eight great symphonic melodies in this album (G-15) of four records.
