Christian Science Churches
"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" will be the subject of the lesson sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, Oct. 13.

The Golden Text (Psalm 68:20) is: "He that is our God is the God of salvation; and unto God the Lord belongs the issues from death."

E. E. Starkweather and Bill Scholten, who attend Ferns Institute, Big Rapids, spent the week end in the village.

Tickets for the University of Michigan Lecture Course went on sale Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in Hill Auditorium box office, Ann Arbor. The University offers a distinguished platform series featuring eight of the most popular attractions among current celebrities. Headliners will include Dorothy Thompson, Ruth Draper, Leland Stowe, Admiral Yarnell, Warden Lewis Laws, Dr. William Beebe, Wendell Chapman and Julien Bryan.

Appropriate as an opening number, Ruth Draper, famous monologist and author of many outstanding character sketches, will be presented Oct. 29 in her delightful program, "Character Sketches."

Leland Stowe, noted journalist who uncovered the news of Norway's "Benedict Arnolds," is to occupy the second place on the series, occurring Nov. 5 on the subject "Hitler over Europe."

Perhaps no news correspondent in years has made such a sensational scoop as did Stowe in his expose of the Nazi prison population of Norway's political and economic structure.

"The Warden Speaks" will be the subject of the third lecture, Nov. 11, when Warden Lewis E. Laws makes his first appearance in Ann Arbor. As warden of Sing Sing, Mr. Laws has made his institution the most unique and famous of its kind.

Dorothy Thompson needs no introduction to audiences as she is one of the most outstanding, columnists and speakers of the day. She will speak on Nov. 19 her subject being "Current Problems," a subject on which she is definitely qualified to speak.

"Brazil and the Adventure" will be the first illustrated lecture of the series and will be given Dec. 2 by the world-famous aviator, explorer and adventurer, Julien Bryan. This will be followed by two other motion picture lectures.

Wendell Chapman, with A. C. of the Rockies on Jan. 21 and the exciting lecture "500 Fathoms Down" to be given Feb. 25 by Dr. William Beebe. Dr. Beebe is widely recognized in the scientific world and his explorations of the depths of the ocean have won him great acclaim.

As the closing attraction of the course, Mar. 11, Admiral Yarnell, lately in command of the Pacific Fleet, will speak on the timely subject "The New American Navy."

As commander of the Asiatic Fleet, Admiral Yarnell was given a free hand by the State Department to make and carry out his diplomatic policy in the Far East and was awarded the Distinguished Service medal by Congress for his brilliant handling of the complex situations in the Orient.

Season tickets only are now available with single admissions for individual lectures on sale the day before and day of each lecture.

News from Walled Lake

By Charles E. Hutton

The big news of the week is, or should be the same as in the past two issues—high school football. If my round-about information is correct the local lads went afield last Friday afternoon, and returned about three hours later with Milford's scalp securely attached to their collective belts. My chief sources of information either were not there or weren't working, but I gathered the score to be 20 to 0, which definitely is news, inasmuch as it was the first game of the Southwestern County league schedule. The victory augurs well for the ultimate outcome of the season's campaign, in that Milford has heretofore presented some of the most formidable opposition in the circuit for the Walled Lake squad.

Commerce township military conscriptions will take place from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., Oct. 16 at the Civic Welfare community house, "Stone Crest" at Walled Lake, according to an announcement made by Earl V. Garner, township clerk. Registrations for the November election will also be taken until Oct. 26 at the Commerce village office of the clerk.

The faculty of the Walled Lake high school will be actively represented in the Methodist church by the acceptance of Miss. Gilda Herrick, vocal instructor, the leadership of the Methodist choir. Miss Herrick should bring much valuable knowledge and ability to the position which in turn should merit the full cooperation of each member of the organization, as well as the church membership at large.

Funeral service for Mrs. Edna M. Harris, mother of Mrs. M. J. Copeland, was held Friday at Pontiac with burial in Oak Hill cemetery. Mrs. Harris, who was 69, died Wednesday morning at the home of her niece Mrs. Oscar Johnson at Mt. Clemens. Mrs. Harris had spent the summer here with her daughter, Mrs. Copeland. She is survived by two grandchildren.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Gertrude Graves of Leslie. She was a former resident here, and had continued to live in her lakeshore cottage here each summer. Burial was held Thursday.

Anyone needing a Christmas basket this year please drop a card or call Mrs. Joe Reamer, Walled Lake, phone 3774.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reamer announce the engagement of their daughter June to Ernest Jacobson of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Houser attended a party Friday evening in Garden City.

Country Press Sways Opinion Of Its Readers

By WHEELER McMILLEN
Editor-in-Chief Farm Journal & Farmer's Wife

The country newspaper is forever a human document. A man, usually one man, or woman, is the country newspaper. Human beings are its raw material.

That explains the tremendous force the rural press exerts in the life of America.

The editor is a human being writing and dealing with men, women and children. He may be old, young, lazy, energetic, bold, timid, superficial, deep, querulous, constructive, slovenly, business-like, grasping, generous. He is certain to be human. He reacts to praise, to criticism, to the presence of good and evil. I do not, therefore, whether an editor of a country newspaper ever has deliberately supported anything he considered evil for his community.

The editor's recognition of the inherent decency of the country side is highly important to America. He shares the confidence of his readers that the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule have been neither repealed, improved upon, nor modified by modern advances.

The significance of all this flashes clear in the light of a political fact—the fact that rural America determines the choice of more state legislators, more members of the house, more senators, and of more presidential electors than does urban America. The elected rulers dare not be insensitive to the rural press.

Country newspapers do not succumb to false promises. The editors are human enough to share the beliefs of the readers in the Constitution and representative government. The mass hysteria that sways and excites and misleads city people tend to fade into millions before the calm common sense of the countryside.

The great question of the 1940s is going to be whether the United States shall steadily sink itself with the rest of the world into a swamp of international poverty, or whether free Americans shall build a more noble and higher their plateau of liberties and living standards. The country editor and his readers will be on the American side of that question every inch of the way. The direct descendants of the pioneers are on the farms and in the small towns and cities. In their blood is the conviction that they are entitled to both economic and political independence. Their editors are of the same breed of clear-eyed Americans.

Just as long as there is in America the liberty of the press, the country newspaper will express the true voice of America. The country editor will continue to chronicle the births and weddings and deaths of the human beings around him. He will applaud their successes and thus encourage them to further advances. He will support their community efforts—he will be constructive among them. By speaking their thoughts and hopes, he will express their aspirations in 10,000 communities for a freer, more American America.

The Arthur Wilde family of Stockbridge, moved Wednesday into the house at 223 Linden street. Mr. Wilde is the new A. & P. manager. Mr. and Mrs. Wilde have three children, Suzanne, Phyllis and Richard.

But "The Masses" were not so foolish, after all!

LESS LOUDLY NOW, you may still hear an occasional agitator blasting away at the American system of business—which depends on big factories, big networks of dealers, trade-marked goods, heavy advertising, and low prices.

Agitators complained for years that "the masses" were injured by this system, and that we'd all be richer if we went back to the old cracker-barrel days.

But in spite of the complaints, little factories which have made dependable goods grew into big factories. Dealers insisted on having trade-marked goods which their customers could recognize. And the heavy advertising helped to give us our modern newspapers, magazines and radio.

Who built this system? The masses built it, by insisting on crackers they could recognize in the package, on automobiles, soups, soaps, chewing gum, cigarettes, and all other articles that carried well-known trade names.

So the agitators have had to pipe down. They have discovered that "the masses" were not so easy to lead astray after all.

A ROADSIDE PICNIC TABLE

---and Michigan's Murray D. Van Wagoner

Dear Sir:—

DR. JOHN A. ROSS
OPTOMETRIST
PLYMOUTH

A sedan bearing an out-of-state license eased to a stop. From doors and windows a family of six and their lunch boxes literally poured themselves about a roadside picnic table. A brief few minutes found the group joyously tucking themselves around a bounteous picnic lunch. "Stomachs filled, nearby water and greensward kept youngsters happy while mother repacked, and dad reached for his pouch of "Velvet." In friendly chat, our visitor narrated upon the joys of motoring in Michigan — the roads, the maps and information service, comfort accommodations, and asked he, "Who is the father of this roadside picnic table idea, these roadside parks, and rest facilities? Why, we had a whole of a time keeping the kids satisfied for an hour before noon. They wanted to stop and eat at every picnic table and something we appreciate. Who is the father and founder of this service?" And right there is where we spoke a good word for you, Mr. Van Wagoner.

Now that time and circumstance have conspired to make our people government conscious, and your party has literally drafted you to leadership, I am thinking of ten years ago when you were first elected to public office. Not even the most imaginative crystal gazer then foresaw in that humble start the first stepping stone to the Governorship of Michigan and the making of the foremost democrat of our commonwealth. A decade of unselfish devotion to your task and an inbred appreciation of human value has today made you our foremost apostle of frankness, truth and honesty in Michigan governmental affairs.

Through the years of aggressive administration of our state highway system people of all states have risen to applaud and appreciate the highways and roadways you designed for safe travel, rest and recreation. Miles of concrete sweeping through the countryside exemplify every known principle of safe and speedy travel. Dangerous stretches now have banked curves, and three or four traffic lanes. Reflectors, no passing zones, safe speed signs, superhighways, viaducts and crossing protection all speak an understandable language. The toll of slaughter lane stretches has been reduced as much as seventy-five per cent. Truly, hundred of motorists live today by reason of the application of your genius for safety engineering.

In streamlining our state highway department you gave vent to your idea of efficient operation. Your respect for ideals of conduct for employees stressed responsibility, organization and trustworthiness. Where many public officials use the privilege of office to spurn traffic laws, your men find time to serve, yet, comply with traffic regulations whether in metropolis, village or open country.

So often have we heard of your policies reconditioning the lives of men and families. Your respect for men and their problems, and a desire to help always has found time for personal attention, even to vexing or complimentary correspondence. Where humankind can be served, merit or guile rewarded, you have ever sought to help. For many, self-respect and personal integrity have found new root in your encouragement. We recall a young man of our acquaintance. Business almost gone, bank assessments of self and widowed mother due, every known corner cut and pared to the bone — depression at its worst, and you helped bring him and his family through. Today on the up and up, this Christian man and his friends that speak of a great grateful. This is only one of hundreds of tales of opportune rejuvenation of men and families that speak of a great grateful. You like to help the little fellow — ask the postmasters of smaller offices how they appreciate the breakdown of your department's postage purchases. Ask the painter of the yellow lines, the gas station man, the cross roads grocer or the cop on the corner, and large and far there mounts a pyramid of civic and humanitarian accomplishment that staggers our imagination.

Accomplishment in your chosen profession has brought national prominence and honor. You have made the reputation of Michigan highways a national by-word. Yet you have done all this without losing touch with the commonplace, the love of your fellowman, or the grandeur of your vision for the future of our great state. You have surrounded yourself with capable executives — men skilled, yet imbued with the ability to know people and do things for them. The Bluewater Bridge, now a reality; the Mackinaw Bridge yet a possibility; with viaduct, crossing protection, and superhighway you are weaving into the warp and wool of Michigan an even greater desire to make the tourist and resort business the stabilizer of our state economy. You seek to lengthen our tourist season by promoting Winter and Spring sports and by ridding Michigan of ragweed, make our state a haven for hay fever victims. And through these years you have engineered the job of translating millions of state and federal dollars into work and wages without even a breath of scandal or embarrassment.

With all these business and professional associations we marvel that you still find time for the enjoyment of a happy home life with your wife and two daughters. As vestryman in your Episcopal church, a Legionnaire, Rotarian, Exchange, Elk and Mason you have crowded into ten years of public service a life-time of experience bringing you intimately in touch with every phase of Michigan social, economic and political life. So much is this true that today few men are as qualified by experience, ability and record of achievement to administer the affairs of this great Commonwealth. Indeed, we may do ourselves proud by electing to the governorship one from our midst with your faith in people and ability for the intelligent application of democracy. Surely none other is more worthy of the great task of initiating in Michigan a wise and thrifty government where unbound by pledge or boss, homespun economy and a far vision may direct Michigan's destiny in this Union of the States.

With best wishes for your success, I am,

Sincerely,

JOHN A. ROSS.

Farm Fire Loss Curbed by Care

Michigan's open season for rural home fires is about to begin, warns C. H. Jefferson of the agricultural engineering staff of Michigan State college.

In the average year, rural fires in the state cost about $1,450,000, according to figures of insurance companies. This is not a large loss compared with the total building investment of farms and farm homes amounting to $600,000,000. Yet to the individuals suffering the losses a fire often constitutes tragedy in lives or investments.

Defective chimneys get greatest credit for rural home fires, according to Jefferson. With the heating season about to start, a good cleaning may prevent fire.

"Don't burn out the chimney with flash combustion materials such as paper or excelsior," Jefferson says. "Clean it out."

"Clean out basements and attics, for these are the locations in which fire starts often. Don't throw oil-soaked rags into corners during a painting job."

"Don't hasten slow burning fires with liquid fuel, for it's better to shiver a bit than to burn down the house. This practice usually is more dangerous to the individual than to property."

"Spontaneous combustion in barns should be guarded against. Proper wiring of houses and barns is advised, although this is a relatively minor factor in fire loss. Most rural fires start from unknown causes, but care and cleanliness are good preventives."

"YOU CAN'T TELL THE PLAYERS WITHOUT A SCORECARD!"

The cry goes out to the millions in the nation's grandstands. Actually it is echoing a simple but fundamental principle of modern advertising.

Advertising is the scoreboard for intelligent shoppers. It does more than identify a product, however. It tells where this product is available, and at what price. About thousands of products, and of necessities, and conveniences, it gives you accurate information instantly. Information that one individual could not secure, even after the most painstaking and wearying search.

You can't tell the values without reading the advertisements in

The Farmers' Corner

By E. I. BESEMER,
County Agent

Corn Borer
The European corn borer has caused a lot of damage to both sweet corn and field corn. Even many of the hybrid corn varieties are not standing up under the borer attack.

Good farming practices used by farmers will keep the borer population down. The corn should be cut low, under four inches for the borer will winter over in the stubble as well as in the stalk.

When corn is shredded or put into the silo the borer is killed. Fall plowing of infested fields will cut down the number of moths next year. The corn stubble and stalks should all be plowed under before May 15, next year.

Extension Bulletin 19 Corn Borer Control by Good Farming may be obtained from the County Agent's office.

Potatoes
Late blight of potatoes has appeared in potato fields in the past week or two.

Late blight appears first as mottled, water-soaked patches near the edge of the leaf. The leaf soon turn brown and dries up. The affected vines give off a characteristic rank odor.

Potatoes should be sprayed or dusted from the time they are 4-6 inches high every 10 days or two weeks according to weather conditions. Use Bordeaux Mixture or Copper-lime dust.

Once the late blight appears on the vines it may be too late to spray or dust. Fields that have been sprayed throughout the season show little or no blight.

The digging of blighted fields should be delayed as long as possible, until the vines are dead and there is dry, bright weather.

The tubers should be allowed to dry in the field and then placed in cool, dry storage at a temperature of 40° F. or a little below.

Spray Residue
Fruit growers may secure ruling No. 719 "Spray Residue on Fruits and Vegetables" from the County Agent's office.

It states in part, "The maximum tolerance for lead, arsenic and fluorine that may be present as spray residue on apples and pears offered for sale or sold in Michigan are declared to be the latest tolerances allowed therefor by the Federal Security Agency of the U. S. which are as follows: .060 grains of lead per pound of fruit, .02 grains of fluorine per pound of fruit, and .025 grains of arsenic (expressed as arsenic trioxide per pound of fruit)."

Lush To Maintain Open Doghouse for His Friends

From one good use to another seems to be the story of the little log cabin used by the Eaton committee for lieutenant governor as its headquarters during the recent campaign.

Erected by Harry Lush and loaned to the committee for use during the three strenuous weeks previous to the campaign, the little cabin is being removed to the country home of Mr. Lush on the Six Mile road where it will serve as the "dog house" for both Plymouth and Northville.

No, it's not for dogs of the bark-and-bite type, but for those who get "in" with the "dog house" and find that they are in the "dog house" but with no "dog house" to go to.

General Harry has decided to provide a proper retreat to the proper kind of a "dog house" for the very large number of Plymouth and Northville citizens who find themselves every now and then in "the dog house."

He isn't quite sure whether it will be necessary to provide keys for the place, but if the demand should be sufficient and circumstances warrant it, keys will be provided for distribution to those who most frequently find themselves in the "dog house."

Mr. Lush plans to designate plainly the log cabin so that it can be easily found by those in distress.

The Plymouth Mail's "research department" has been unable to find where any other city has ever been provided with such a public convenience so the log cabin will probably go down in history as the first public "dog house" to ever serve the masculine needs of any community in these United States.

THIRD TERM
The objections to a third term for President of the United States are far greater than may appear on the surface. A President can spend huge sums of money in doubtful states to control political bosses and machines. The President today controls no end of patronage and can make appointments to an unlimited number of jobs. This gives a President in office a tremendous and unfair advantage for re-election; if he is unscrupulous enough to use it. Has anyone a notion that any politician will not use every advantage he has?

This advantage is also enhanced by the tremendous political machines throughout the country which a President in office can to a large extent control. The longer a President is in power the greater the machine and the more difficult it will be to displace him and the easier it will be to perpetuate himself in office and become a political monopolist, which is really another name for dictatorship.

When the Constitution was written no one then living could have foreseen the tremendous power within the grasp of a President of the United States and these powers have been increased so much in the last eight years that it would be a very simple step from Democracy to dictatorship during another four years in which Roosevelt could be packed and the Supreme Court itself might be rendered only a tool of a dictator.

If the people do not wake up now and clear the question I feel it will be too late before another opportunity is offered. In the last eight years our government has fallen over all the power of the dictators except the nationalization of industry and the regeneration of farms and labor and these powers are now being sought under Roosevelt who claims that he is the only fit person in the United States. Only the people can retake those tremendous powers from the government. Vote against a third term.

Respectfully,
Fred J. Cochran.

NORTHVILLE VOTERS ARE YOU SATISFIED?

THERE ARE MANY QUESTIONS THAT EVERY VOTER SHOULD ASK BEFORE DECIDING HOW TO VOTE!

• During the last four years the number of unemployed has remained about the same. At the same time our country has been going into the red several billion dollars each year.

• Nations, states, cities, corporations and individuals can only borrow so long, always there is an end. When the limit is reached in a nation next comes inflation.

• For the last eight years has business been regulated, or has it been harrassed. Business almost to a man is demanding a change, and the only way they can prosper is by employing more labor.

• Would it not be wise for this country to give a successful business man the opportunity to remedy these conditions.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

Sept. 4, 1940

My dear Mr. Hardy:
I hope, in observance of National Newspaper Week that due emphasis will be placed on the necessity for maintaining freedom of the press in a democracy. Freedom of conscience, of education, of speech, of assembly are among the very fundamentals of democracy and all of them would be nullified should freedom of the press be challenged.

I have little fear that freedom of the press will be abridged from external assault in this country. The danger is from internal corruption. If our press exemplifies a passion for truth and justice and fair play to all, it will avoid that spiritual paralysis and decay which are the deadly enemies of our free institutions.

I trust, as a result of the forthcoming celebration, that our newspapers everywhere—great and small—will arise anew to the tremendous responsibilities which are theirs.

Very sincerely yours,
FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Mr. William N. Hardy, Chairman,
National Newspaper Week Committee,

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Rudolph Jaska

The 30-year span of life ended Monday, Oct. 7, for Mrs. Rudolph (Alberta) Jaska, at the family home, 1301 Garfield road, where she had lived since 1917. She moved here from Detroit, where she had lived since coming to this country when she was a young woman. Her birthplace was in Germany. Her husband preceded her in death, Dec. 3, 1922. Her interests were centered through the years around her home and her family. Surviving her are three daughters, Margaret Chandler, Edith Moller and Helen Rheume, all of Detroit; two sons, Walter J. of Detroit, and Arnold R. of Northville.

Last rites were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 9, from the Catherine Funeral Home, with the Rev. Harry J. Lord of the Methodist church officiating. Burial was made in Grand Lawn cemetery, Detroit.

Mrs. W. McCutcheon

Funeral rites and burial ceremony were held Monday, Oct. 7, in Battle Creek for Mrs. William McCutcheon of Wayne, mother of George A. Locke of Northville. Mrs. McCutcheon, who was born April 1, 1883, in Port Erie, Ont., died Saturday, Oct. 5, at Wayne.

In addition to Mr. Locke, she is survived by her husband and two other sons, Harry K. Locke of Battle Creek, Albert Locke of Wayne; two step-sons, William and Blaine McCutcheon of Battle Creek; three brothers, Clarence Allen of Detroit, Richard Allen of Flint, and Edward Allen of Zia, Ill.; two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Allen of Geneva, Ill., and Mrs. Mary Allen of Monroe, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wellwood were Monday evening guests of Mrs. B. G. Phipps and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Murphy.

The Misses Jane Lantz, Tisha Brassfield, Eattie Marie Moore and Mrs. Marshall Herrick attended the Michigan-Michigan State game held Saturday at Ann Arbor.

also stated that we are not undertaking a program of rampant experimentation of testing and demolishing that may have been thought up by the state. We are in connection with this matter of work from the state that is made of all schools in the state. Mr. Horn paid Walled Lake the compliment of having done more in this particular field than the average school. The school, he explained, had been selected as one of four types of schools in the state to work on this important phase of education, as it represents the semi-urban-rural type of school that is increasing very rapidly now in the state of Michigan. Other schools selected represent the larger cities, smaller cities, and a rural type of school in a smaller village. Walled Lake schools have done considerable work in other fields of education besides the regular vocational agriculture and home making departments. No radical adventures are going to be undertaken but a sane program of cooperation is going to be worked out by the staff of the Walled Lake school in conjunction with the advice and counseling of the state department.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMENT

by
GEORGE A. DONDERO
Member of Congress, 17th Michigan District

Each State's representation in the U.S. House of Representatives is determined by dividing its total population by 29,712, the number designated in the Constitution based upon the 1930 census. If the division results in a remainder of more than one-half of 29,712, the State is entitled to an additional Representative. These fractional remainders and States having populations of less than 29,712, as well as geographical district boundaries fixed by state legislatures, result in a wide variation in the actual populations of congressional districts.

For instance, the present 12th district in New York city has a population of 91,671, while the 8th district of New York has a population of 79,407.

The 17th Michigan district, according to the 1930 census has a population of 318,146. The 1940 census, recently completed, reveals that the population of the district has increased to such an extent that it is now, in point of population, the largest congressional district in the metropolitan area of Michigan.

The following States have but one representative: Delaware, Nevada, New Mexico, Vermont and Wyoming. Six States have two representatives (the same number of senators): Montana, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota and Utah. New York has the largest number, 45.

The current House of Representatives, classified by political parties, is made up of 262 Democrats, 163 Republicans, 2 Progressives, 1 Farm Labor, and 1 American Labor.
