Washington, D. C.
BRITISH INVASION
The British are coming to Washington at a rate that almost amounts to a second invasion. Even in 1812, when the Redcoats burned the Capital, their force was scarcely more impressive.

Actually there are 430 representatives of the British government in Washington today—130 members of the embassy staff, 230 members of the British purchasing commission and British air commission. The figure includes everyone—clerks, clerks, messengers and chauffeurs.

The British embassy, and chancery post, is the largest diplomatic establishment in Washington, but it is not large enough. An annex has been added to care for an overflow of coding clerks and officials of the office of economic warfare.

Meanwhile, the two British commissions occupy space in four other buildings. They started out in modest quarters in the Hibbs building, expanded to the entire top floor of the Willard hotel, added further space in the Adams building, and most recently have taken over Andrew Mellon's old apartment building at 1785 Massachusetts avenue to accommodate the air commission.

These are the British in Washington alone. In addition, the New York office of the purchasing commission numbers 1,000 persons, plus 500 inspectors who travel about the country testing the wide assortment of articles, from ships to airplanes, which are being purchased in the United States.

U. S. RUBBER SUPPLIES

Should congress ever decide to investigate the National Defense commission it would unearth some appalling delays in the securing of the nation's raw materials—particularly rubber.

Real fact is that a fundamental difference exists between the defense commission and Jesse Jones regarding future rubber supplies. The commission believes that the production of synthetic rubber should begin immediately, and wants to give a subsidy of $100,000,000 to American rubber companies. The subsidy would be necessary to offset the price of natural rubber, which sells for 18 cents to 20 cents a pound, whereas synthetic rubber would cost about 25 cents.

Six Synthetic Rubbers.

To this end, the defense commission has been negotiating with various rubber companies, and the following are ready to co-operate if a subsidy is granted:

DuPont, which produces Neoprene. This company is by far the most experienced in the field, and its product has the highest production.

Follow These Rules When Addressing Christmas Cards

In ADDRESSING Christmas cards, many questions are bound to arise with regard to correct form. The following tips on addressing Christmas cards will, therefore, be welcomed by all who have cards to send.

Christmas greeting cards fall into two general classes, formal and informal. If you use printed or engraved cards for formal use, the title Miss, Mr., or Mr. and Mrs. should preferably appear above the greeting. For instance: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell wish you a Merry Christmas, rather than "A Merry Christmas from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell."

Whose name should come first, the husband's or the wife's? Generally, the husband's name comes first. On informal cards, signed in ink, it is quite proper to sign "Bill and Shirley," or Bill and Shirley Adams, depending, of course, upon how well you know the acquaintance.

A married woman, whether her husband is alive or not, should be addressed with "Mrs." prefixed to her husband's full name. Every card sent out should bear a Mr., Mrs., or Miss prefix. Failure to do this prefix is an unpardonable breach of courtesy.

Do not address a divorcee by her maiden name, unless such name has been established by legal procedure.

John Robertson may be a business associate of yours, to whom you want to send a Christmas card, but you do not know his wife. What shall you do in a case of this kind? It is quite proper to send your card to Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson, although, on the other hand, it is equally proper to send the card in his name only. It adds a little of the personal touch to learn the home address and send the card there, although directing the card to a business address is quite proper.

Some question as to the propriety of sending out Christmas cards may enter the minds of the family in mourning. By the same token, some question may arise as to the sending of Christmas cards to them. If the bereavement is very recent—within a month—it may be better for the family to omit Christmas cards. And cards to be sent to the family should be selected with considerable care.

Books on Theatre Listed for Fans

To Remember at Midnight by Michael Foster — Ann Parrot's mother was a second-rate vaudeville girl; her father was a ham baritone. That was why Ann had to make good as an actress. There is drama in the story of her success.

Up the Years from Bloomsbury by George Arliss — This is a sumptuous and humorously-told account of the experiences that went into the making of George Arliss as a character actor.

I Wanted To Be an Actress by Katharine Cornell — The warmth and charm of the personality of this first lady of the stage shines through her autobiography. It is instinctive and essential reading for all theatre-goers; but it has wider scope as a fresh and straightforward self-portrait of one of America's outstanding women who, of course, still vividly living her career.

Other books include: My Own Story by Margaret Dressler; Show People by Perle; Broome Stages by Diane; The Theatre by Maugham; Niinsky by Romola Niinsky.

These books may be interchanged through the Northville library. Mr. and Mrs. John W. Dickey attended the Cass last Wednesday, seeing the Lunts in "There Shall Be Stars" and their directors.

DeKay School News

Editor—Robert Holman
Reporters—Leonard Wilson, Charles Holman

All is hustle and bustle at our school as we prepare for Christmas and the tea and program that we are having at our school at 2:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 20. Everyone is making gifts for his parents and making decorations for the school room and tree.

Our Christmas vacation starts Friday night, Dec. 20. We will return to school Monday, Dec. 23. Then we'll be off one day during the week for New Years.

Several children have been absent this week with bad colds. We wish to thank the members of the school board who gave us a Christmas tree, lots of candy, nuts and oranges.

Farmer's Week Set for Feb. 3-7

Dates for the nation's greatest winter gathering of farmers, the twenty-sixth annual Farmers' Week program at Michigan State College, are Feb. 3 to 7, inclusive, it is announced by E. I. Anthony, college dean of agriculture and general chairman of the program.

New plans for serving the great crowds are forming. Since last year's program the college now has use of the new auditorium. All-encompassing programs will be held there with exhibits set up in the basement for potatoes, small grains and horticulture.

This then leaves the ballroom in Demonstration Hall available for a turkey and baby chick show. That arrangement in turn, opens up all of the Demonstration Hall tankbank for a more complete farm machinery display.

Those who have attended in recent years and haven't been able to see the great evening educational and entertainment programs will have better opportunity to get in this year. These programs are scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday nights in the new field house. Educational programs are planned by the artistic music and drama department to take care of any second overflows.

Banquet night for crop growers, short course alumni and livestock men will be Wednesday, instead of the traditional Tuesday schedule. Sugar beet day will be held Tuesday instead of Thursday. Remaining traditions to be maintained include holding dairy breed association meetings on Monday and conducting the finals of the state drama contest Friday. The latter are to have a new setting in the new college auditorium.

Departments are busy planning the week's features, according to R. W. Tenny, short course director and program chairman. Committees plan to complete the pattern of the event and announce details soon.

Christmas Tree Industry 'Aims to Please'

A highly developed industry, Christmas tree production aims to satisfy all types of customers. Here a workman after bundling his trees, according to size and grade is sawing the bunts to even lengths. In cities where ceilings are high, as in old communities, taller trees are desired. For modern low-ceilinged living rooms, only medium and shorter sizes are ready market. The most popular kind of Christmas tree is the fir. It is generally preferred because it tends to hold its needles longer than any other evergreen tree. Spruces, pines, hemlocks and red-cedars are also used as Christmas trees.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMENT

by
GEORGE A. DONDERO
Member of Congress, 17th Michigan District

Walter-Logan Bill

The Walter-Logan Bill, H. R. 6324, to provide for the review of decisions and regulations of administrative boards by the courts of the United States, is now before the President for consideration.

The House, by a roll call vote, has agreed to the Senate amendments to the bill, the vote being 176 to 51 with all Michigan Republicans voting to concur.

The Walter-Logan Bill, was one of the major measures to come before the House during the current session. Briefly, the bill provides for uniformity of procedure and appeal in the administrative agencies of our government.

Under the provisions of this bill, if a citizen is substantially affected by an order or regulation of an administrative agency and wants to appeal to an unbiased court, he shall have the right to do so. It would make the decisions and regulations of the various boards, bureaus, commissions, and other agencies subject to judicial review by the courts.

Review would be allowed on the grounds and according to the procedure set out in the bill. The purpose of the legislation is to provide a proper degree of regulation for administrative agencies and bring their activities under the Constitution and require them to conform to principles of due process of law. In short, it is intended to entitle every person to his day in court and to equal protection under the law. That is the intention of the proponents of this bill.

Detroit calls through private dealers or state stores were less than the state percentages, while purchases by the glass rose to 41 per cent instead of the 30 per cent state average.

Also of interest is the continuing demand for hard liquors, and the lagging consumption of beer on the basis of pre-prohibition figures. Experts have a real problem on their hands, not only to determine a proper method to control social abuses but to maintain popular consumption of their product.

The distillers, too, have had a perpetual headache. The Michigan situation, if so determined in court, was apparently just the annoyance of many.

Voluntary Control

It was seven years ago that the Eighteenth Amendment was repealed and the liquor distillers had yet to solve the problem of stabilization through voluntary control. Faced with a certainty that a repetition of liquor abuses, or lack of proper control, would invite the ultimate return of prohibition, leading distillers sought to impose self-regulation. They proposed for themselves a code such as Will Hays for the motion picture industry, or Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis for organized baseball. Dr. Weston Sturges, Yale professor, was selected to be director of the Distilled Spirits Institute.

The Institute sought to police its own affairs. The Michigan situation, wherein distillers are said to have made draft payments for the questionable (if not mythical) "privilege" of selling their products in Michigan, became just one of the numerous worries. However, also agreement among the distillers disrupted the liquor control plan. Dr. Sturges resigned. A price war recently broke out in New York City and Chicago. The U. S. Treasury department, successor to the defunct federal alcohol administration, is threatening to invoke powers against unfair trade practices, while the Federal Trade Commission is swinging a club against so-called

This proposed legislation has been pending in Congress.

It is contended that a Federal Mine Inspection Law would reduce the number of mine disasters and gain. I addressed letters to President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull, and the then Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, calling to their attention the threatened dumping of Canadian apples in the United States and asked that steps be taken to protect the interests of American growers. The total predicted growers of apples movement is 650,000 bushels in August, acting in cooperation with

E. A. Beamer, Commissioner of Agriculture for the State of Michigan.

Wrap up a THRILL in this Year's Holly Wreath!

SUPPOSE, come Christmas morning, you took your wife to the front door, pointed out through the holly wreath — and there let her see a brand-new Buick standing at the curb!

A thrill? You bet — for the whole family!

Out of the question? Not at all. Look:

We're not suggesting that you add the cost of a new Buick to your Christmas budget.

But you probably will be buying a new car soon and we are simply proposing that you buy it now, a few months ahead of time — and make this a holiday long to be remembered.

We're suggesting that there's no time like the present to get back of that big FIREBALL Eight — no time like right now to start piling up gasoline-mileage economies that run as high as 10% or 15%.

There's no time like holiday time to dress up yourself (and family) in smart, fresh Buick aerodynamic styling, or to introduce your brood to the roomy comfort of this Buic-Coil-cradled traveler.

You can do that — if you act promptly.

A trial ride to give you a hint as to what

Buick can do — a little figuring on your present car's worth (at today's trade-in values, not next spring's) — a little working out of convenient terms — and you'll have a FIREBALL to celebrate this Christmas!

How about it? It's one thing your wife would never expect — and just about the finest gift any man could give his family!

Here From Britain

Tenth Grade
The tenth grade English class is making book reports for the month. Tuesday we had a test on unit five in our science workbooks.

The school is planning a Christmas program in which everyone in the school is participating. The program will be held Friday afternoon in the auditorium. Also, every room is to have a Christmas tree. This is possible because all of the students in the rooms are to put in a penny or as much as they want to buy the Christmas tree. The decorations for the tree will be loaned by each student.

The commercial arithmetic class is learning to read meters.

"We are starting a 4-H club and there seems to be many that are interested."

Friday night the class went to Redford on a theatre party, and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

Ninth Grade

The ninth grade English class has been studying a Christmas play. The cast is made up of Carl Brammer, Margaret Ann Hill, Betty Clarke, Bernice Spirkowski, Wilma Chaffey, Harold Hanson, Orville Wendland, John Klaesner, Rex La Plante and Mabel Isenberg, a sixth grader, who will play the part of the fairy.

There are a few girls in our class that are intending to take up 4-H work. Two or three will take sewing while the others are planning on taking cooking.

A ninth grade theatre party has been planned for Friday.

Eighth Grade

The eighth graders are learning how to write telegrams and night letters.

We have finished the fourth chapter in our mathematics book. On Dec. 10 we had a science test and on Dec. 11 we had a history test.

For the Christmas program today, the eighth graders are going to sing one Christmas carol and one Christmas song.

Fifth and Sixth Grade

Mrs. Wick visited our room last Thursday to hear the radio program that was put on by the English class.

In the class we made Christmas greeting cards.

We are planning a program for today. Rosemary Segula and Mary Lou Charlton are in charge of it.

Third and Fourth Grades

We have learned some Christmas songs and two plays for our part of the Christmas program.

We have made posters for our room of the Shepherds and the Wise Men.

We have drawn names for our Christmas party. The fourth grader boy, is going to decorate the box for the gifts.

Our room sold $1430 worth of Christmas seals. We are going to receive a flag for our room as a prize.

Kindergarten and First Grade

The kindergarten and first graders are learning to make their alphabet.

Jools Ann Meyers, Joyce Holme, Shirley Fletcher and Emily Barker have been absent this week.

The children in the primary room have been practicing for the Christmas program.

Camel Distributes Gifts To Children in Syria

Christmas gifts are presented by a camel in Syria. The youngest camel which accompanied the Wise Men is called the Camel of Jesus. It performs the task each year of distributing presents.

City of New Orleans Likes Its Fireworks In Christmas Season

Christmas without firecrackers just isn't Christmas down in New Orleans.

"If anybody hasn't got no firework he mighty po," say the Creoles gaily. "The more the fireworks, the better the Christmas on the lower side of Canal street."

While other people are shooting off fireworks on July 4, New Orleans is still having its annual heat. Outside air temperatures are out of the question.

With noisy July 4 festivities out of the question, it was easy to begin celebrating Christmas instead, with the firing of skyrockets, Roman candles and firecrackers. Once started, there was no stopping it.

Shooting starts several weeks before Christmas, and every night the tumult increases. Parents consistently caution their children to save the firecrackers until the twenty-fifth, because they won't get any more. The boys and girls refuse to believe this prophecy, but feel that Providence will not allow them to go crackleless.

Even the almost penniless have firecrackers, but the more wealthy win the envy of others with their rockets.

Enthusiasm is not limited to the young boys, but is shared by the entire family. Boys and girls parade up and down the streets at night, making a racket with trumpets and "instruments" they picked up on the way. They ring doorbells, then run away with joyful laughter. The sky is lighted up with rockets and firecrackers beat a constant staccato.

The fun begins again the next morning, with greater enthusiasm than ever. Although a boy may have bankrupted himself the day before, firecrackers have taken a great drop in price. He must have a new supply because they are cheap.

Now the juveniles grow restless. Whole packages of firecrackers go off at one time. Boys and girls are skyrocketing eggs down. As many come up on the street, some able bodied boys even play with them.

The second evening after Christmas the streets are strewn thick with burned pieces of fireworks, but the air is clear. The acrid edge of gunpowder is again replaced by the perfume of Christmas roses.

Sugar and Water Stops Fall Of Christmas Tree Needles

It's easy to stop the fall of Christmas tree needles. Saw off a portion of the tree's base—enough so the fresh wood will be exposed. Set a shallow pan of water beneath the base of the tree, in which the base should be immersed. A teaspoonful of sugar should be added to the water. The water provides needed moisture, and the sugar nourishes the needles, giving them strength to hold on longer.

This Christmas, give her a promotion.

Make her a Manager. Give her a servant.

That is the easiest way to please your Wife or Mother. Give her an electric appliance that will help her "get the housework out of the way" quickly and easily. Do that and you give her what every woman wants—more leisure time and strength for the other important things she really wants to do.

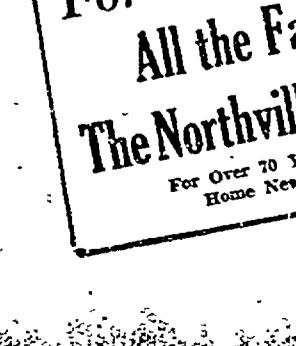

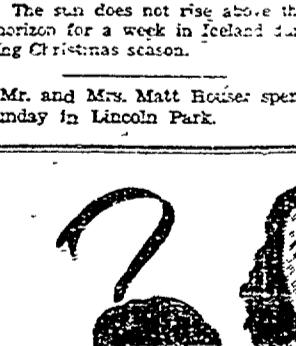

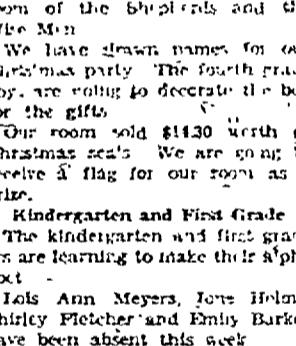

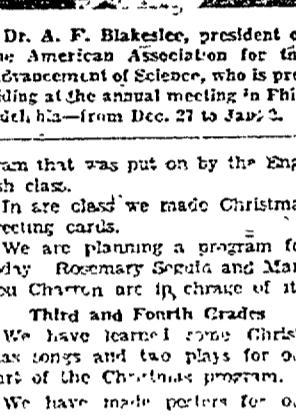

Your gift of an electric range means more than good meals and a modern kitchen. An electric water heater brings more than hot water. These are important. But the thing your Wife or Mother wants more than anything else, and the finest thing you can give her this Christmas, is—

the Priceless Gift of Freedom from Drudgery

And no matter what appliance you choose as her 1940 Christmas gift you can be sure that she will really mean it from the bottom of her heart when she says: "Oh! Just what I've always wanted."

It emphasizes that machinery cannot be set up overnight to produce emergency rubber. Stenosis is really aroused, may appeal to the White House if it doesn't soon move Jesse.

HOOVER VISITS CAPITAL

Although Herbert Hoover constantly shuttles back and forth about the country, he sedulously avoids Washington. The ex-President has a phobia against Washington under the New Deal.

Hoover's last public visit was last winter, when he appeared unannounced before a congressional committee in behalf of a loan for the then embattled Fins.

He spent the entire day here sub rosa last Sunday.

Hoover stayed at the swanky home of William B. Castle, under-secretary of state in his regime and one of the most active appearance advocates in the country.

Hoover spent most of his time conferring with Castle and some old newspaper friends about his plan to force the British to open their blockade so that food can be shipped into Nazi-occupied Europe.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Lovely Louise Atwill has had two husbands, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, former chief of staff, and her present actor-husband, Everett Atwill. She says the closest other call she ever had to matrimony was with Herbert Hoover. She and Hoover were attending a wedding of two friends in Paris several years ago when the priest got them mixed up with the bridal couple and was about to unite them.

Isaac Thomas Cunningham, he came to North Bradley at the age of five years.

He was married Sept. 24, 1883, in Billings, Mont., and his wife, Christine, survives him. Three children predeceased him in death: Ernest, Orilla and Martin.

From Billings, Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham moved to Coleman, Mich., where they made their home until 12 years ago. Mr. Cunningham was in the hardware business there, later moving to Detroit. He had retired from business activity five years ago.

Funeral rites were held at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 15, at the Castelaine Funeral Home, with the Rev. Dr. T. W. Smith officiating. Burial was in North Bradley.

Besides his wife and daughter, he is survived by three grandchildren: Pat, Mike and Phyllis Herbert.

Harry Nicholds

Harry W. Nicholds of Detroit, a member of the Northville Horse Show committee, was a victim of a heart attack Thursday, in Chicago. He was 59 years of age.

Mr. Nicholds was a pioneer in the automobile parts industry. He came to Detroit from Cassopolis early in the century to open his first auto supply house in 1908 on Grand River. He invested all of his small capital in buying up the output of supply houses and contracting for that of newly formed factories. It was his effort which resulted in stabilizing the new industry and in bringing the price of replacements and small luxuries within the reach of everyone.

He is survived by his sons, Robert, a polo player of national fame; and Harry W. Jr.; his wife, Mrs. Bertha Savage Nicholds; and two daughters, Sarah and Mrs. Barbara Van Vliet. His mother, Mrs. Minnie Nicholds, and a brother and sister, Mrs. Katherine Fitzpatrick, and Thomas Nicholds, live in Detroit.

Funeral rites were held at 11 a.m. Monday, Dec. 16, from the William R. Hamilton company, Detroit.

Burial was at Novi.

James E. Orton

Death claimed a longtime Northville resident Dec. 16, when James E. Orton, 79 years old, died at Ypsilanti.

A retired farmer, he was the son of the late Mary Ann and James Orton, born in Linton, Can. He came to Novi with his parents when he was 10 years old, later moving with them to the northern part of the State. As a young man, he returned to this vicinity, buying a farm site on the Eight Mile road. Thus he sold several years ago when he bought a home at 519 Horton, where he has lived through the years.

He is survived by his wife, Rosa L. Funeral service was held at 1 p.m. Tuesday from the Castelaine Funeral home, with the Rev. Dr. Howard R. Chapman and the Rev. Harry J. Lord officiating. Burial was at Novi.

1940 Tree Sales*Top Six Million

Greatest use in the history of the Michigan State College federal-state nursery was recorded in the spring and fall of 1940 when more than 5,200,000 trees were sold at cost to farmers, schools and communities and more than 1,200 sold to the same groups by the State Land Board.

Although farmers pay nominal charges for the small trees, the school planting groups each can obtain up to 5,000 seedlings

free from the State Department of Conservation.

Where schools are using the plantations for demonstration work and school grounds, farmers are planting windbreaks, for posts and poles and Christmas trees and lumber to check soil erosion by wind and water.

Ten counties along the west side of the state, according to Forester

Skoog, planted 50 per cent of the trees last year. They sought tree supplies to cut down wind erosion.
