

GENERAL
HUGH S.
JOHNSON
Says:

Washington, D. C.

SHORT OF WAR

On the most debated questions in the public's mind, the President's speech on the state of the Union didn't say much that he has not said before. It is far more significant in what it did not say. One thing it did not say were the words "short of war" in promising aid. Many of our most belligerent unofficial armchair strategists who also began advocating aid but stressing "short of war" have now also dropped that qualification, and some want war right now.

The President followed these only in dropping the words "short of war," which he was so careful to include in his campaign speeches. Nevertheless, he did indicate that definitions of "acts of war" in international law are "cut" so far as he is concerned, since the Axis Powers have disregarded these laws. In this he is probably right, but most of the opposition to his proposals has not rested on purely technical acts of war, which are not physically acts of warlike aggression—like trading the destroyers. They have questioned our taking neutrality of offensive acts if foreign waters that would automatically engage us in war-like crashing a blockade, with a naval convoy.

On the whole list of questions in this category, the message is resoundingly silent. Are we to repeat the Johnson act forbidding loans or money to defaulting nations, or the Neutrality act which keeps our shipping and our people out of danger zones? Are we to permit shipments of contraband of war in American vessels or convoys to prevent the Germans from the implied threat of naval action against any belligerent blockade of them?

All that part of the message, its silences as well as those questions, remain to be cleared up. With its main part, all off and greatly speeded arms production and defense, the whole country will follow him. Some of it has been ahead of him for years. It is just possible that the unexpected opacity of the other part is a matter of necessity or prudent timing controlled by something that is happening or intended abroad, and which Harry Hopkins is going over to explore. On the main questions of immediate policy we must wait and see. The message is not revealing.

MONETARY REFORM

Nothing more necessary and constructive than the Federal Reserve anti-inflation recommendations has come out of government in a long time, and nothing more hopeful than the President's apparent acceptance of them at least in part.

Mr. Roosevelt was "cold" a cluster of schemes to increase deflated prices by monetary with my eyes, creating the nation's currency.

Among them was the authority granted to the President to debase the value of the dollar by buying gold and paying for it as much as twice as much as it is worth, and to buy silver also for much more than it is worth and issue dollars against that phony price at a still higher figure. Another, more difficult to explain, was the plan and practice of spending billions more money than government had, paying for it by bonds sold to the banks (rather than to individuals) and letting the banks pay for the bonds simply by crediting the amount with the price of the bonds. Without going into too much detail, the tendency of this is exactly the same as printing bills of creditable money unless some limit is put on the bank's power to use this swiftly increasing mountain of credit exactly as though it were actual money deposited by their customers from their earnings or sale of goods. It expanded the amount of "bank" money to fantastical heights just as printing truck loads of fat paper money expands the currency. The effect of either kind of expansion will sooner or later be to make the people afraid of the value of money and start an upward spiral of prices or downward spiral of the value of money, which is the same thing and both are "inflation."

Briefly, the Federal Reserve recommends putting a limit of a complete stop to all these authorities and practices and also to put a limit to the amount of our vast gold hoard that can be used as a basis for further increases in the volume of either bank or actual money. None of these authorities was used in full and none actually produced the real inflationary effects for which all were designed; but the danger of those effects exists.

It never has been controlled before but it must be controlled this time. It isn't, it will double or treble the costs of living, of government and of war itself. If that is permitted to happen, in view of the tremendous debt we have and the even greater expense we face, it could possibly bankrupt this nation and it certainly would increase the burdens on our long suffering people to the breaking point.

What is at stake here is a matter of scores of billions of dollars, perhaps more than the cost of two or three world wars.

Rep. Dondero initiated a move to obtain this improved mail service Sept. 16, 1940, at the request of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce. Prior to the inauguration of this service, Oxford business men stated that they could get a response from Chicago more quickly than they could from Pontiac.

A Record reader has received a letter recently from a friend who is a librarian in Norbury, England. In part it says, "Actually, there have been no bombs nearer than about two to three hundred yards, and within this distance on either side of us, four have been dropped in three nights. So far the house has not suffered. Incendiaries fell in front of my neighbor's shelter, Sunday. I should think that within a quarter-mile radius from White Thorn, 25 to 30 bombs have dropped so far. It is indiscriminate bombing; there are no factories and no railroads near. The only thing which we can attribute it to is direct, art, attempts to hit two gun positions, but only about two of the number mentioned could be accounted for in this way."

The Farmers' Corner
By E. L. BESMER
County Agent

All vegetable growers in the Detroit Marketing area are invited to a meeting in the Cass Technical High School auditorium, Detroit, at 2 p.m., Jan. 29.

The meeting is of vital importance to the vegetable growers because of certain marketing problems that will be discussed by the speakers and by the growers themselves.

A family group meeting for all families interested in the Agricultural Outlook and the Family Living Outlook for 1941 will be held Jan. 31 at the Wayne high school. The meeting begins at 7:45 p.m. with movies of county activities. Miss Julia Pond, Home Economics Specialist, Michigan State College, will discuss the Family Living Outlook.

R. B. Gunn, Agricultural Economist, Michigan State College, will discuss the Agricultural Outlook for 1941.

Both speakers promise some very interesting predictions for the coming year. Everyone interested is invited.

Wayne County and Michigan farmers this spring will have a good opportunity to get a new start in foundation seed potatoes at a price considerably under that of last year, according to H. C. Moore, potato specialist at Michigan State College.

Reason for the lower price this year, Moore says, is the larger seed crop, both in the state and throughout the nation. He stresses that with many fields of common stock badly infected with blight and disease last year, it is important that Michigan farmers get in on the purchase of state's crop of certified seed. In former years, Michigan tillers have waited until late in the season, only to find the supply sold outstate in many cases. That is why Moore is urging early action in placing orders.

Plan on attending Farmers' Week, Feb. 3-7, for one or more days.

"As many dairy calves are hurt by underfeeding," asserted extension dairyman E. C. Schellenbach at a meeting held at Wayne high school on Jan. 16. A good rule to go by is never to feed more milk, either whole or skim, than ten per cent of the calf's body weight.

County Agent Besmer says that the dairymen present got such a big kick out of some of the new wrinkles mentioned by Schellenbach, such as metal-mesh elevated floors for calf-pens, use of nipple pails for "problem" calves. Some collegiate calves were even mentioned.

Aside from such semi-fads the discussion was built around the tried and true practices of feeding, quarantining, care and management that make for economical steady growth in calves.

A bulletin on calf-raising may be secured from the county agents office in Dearborn.

Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

BY PRESTON ROBERT ALLEN

Washington, D. C.
BRITAIN WANTED U. S. TO GET
IRELAND TO GIVE UP BASES
Confidential conversations have been taking place between the British and the state department for some time aimed at getting Irish to leave bases for the British.

In these conversations the British have wanted to place the United States in the unique role of either persuading or building up and building over the bases. Just how the United States handled it, the British didn't much care.

But in talking to the state department
the British pointed out that if they took Irish bases by force, there would be a burst of anti-British feeling from Irish all over the United States, particularly New England.
Thus, the British felt, would be extremely bad just at a time when Britain particularly needs American support.

The British also pointed out to the state department that they were in a difficult position of having to bring food to Ireland at the risk of having the ships sunk
and with no protective co-operation from the Irish whatsoever.

Therefore, the British foreign officer urged the state department to use its immediate and vigorous good of ours with the Irish government.

The state department, however,
has been going along with the British with great enthusiasm. Informal gatherings revealed that the Irish minister in Washington, Robert Braine, is very friendly to British naval bases, and so is the Irish government, at least until the recent bombing of Hull or German planes.

This has changed Irish public opinion considerably, and it is now possible that U. S. forces will return to Ireland.

SHORTEST OF SHEET BRASS HAMMERS OFFENSIVE PROGRAM
The serious shortage of aluminum is a factor behind the recent price increases and the price increase of raw materials, but it is not planning the defense program.

Another is the lack of sheet brass,
out of which shell casings are made.

As in the case of aluminum, defense chiefs are busily working the brass shortage. But it is to grate that experts admit privately that it may be necessary to curtail consumption for civilian purposes in order to meet the steadily rising military demand. In fact, brass may be one of the first materials to be cut back in the military priority list.

Cause of the shortage is twofold:
1. Lack of demand for sheet brass facilities. Zinc is an essential part of brass, which in turn is essential in manufacture of all munition explosives, from bombs to small ammunition shells for the heavy artillery.

2. Lack of sheet brass
smelters and the socialized control
of zinc production.

At present the United States has some 230000 primary and
smelters and the socialized control
of zinc production.

Thus, their combined capacity is a 6000 tons-per-month sort of American and British defense requirements already specified.

Meanwhile, our own steel needs
and those of the British increase daily. To meet this, brass manufacturers are busily expanding their plants and facilities and also leasing property to them out of existing buildings.

But this will be too late unless they can get more sheet brass.

In addition to deal with this increasing situation, the Defense Department on several weeks ago
granted a "certificate of necessity"
to a large zinc smelter at Amarillo,
Texas, for an addition to its plant.
That will help when the plant is finished. But even then it will be far from enough.

Independent producers charge that the zinc delay is caused by the same factor which has held up aluminum, namely—monopoly.

They assert that the big operators don't want new competitors in the field and operate undercover to carry out through strategically placed influences in the Defense commission.

UNDER THE DOME
Thanks to careful advance planning
by Floor Leader Alben Barkley
and Senate Secretary Edwin Halleck
the convening of the senate was the smoothest in the memory of veteran employees. There wasn't a single bitch.

Tennessee's new Rep. Percy Priest, of Nashville, who performed the extraordinary feat of ousting an incumbent Southern Democrat who had won the party nomination, was the most photographed rookie on Capitol Hill. "And the least photogenic," quipped the new congressman.

Most active glad-hander at the opening was bulky, 68-year-old Sen.
David L. Walsh of Massachusetts, who easily re-elected, sat in his wide seat hand-pumping everyone in sight. Most conspicuous absence was Sen. "Cotton Ed" Smith.

Miss Betty Armstrong and Miss Nina Weker are new operators at the Michigan Bell Telephone company.

More School Aid

6. Delinquent state aid that will guarantee every boy and girl a full

school year and every teacher a full pay.

7. A sufficient appropriation to provide retirement pensions for non-teaching employees of our school systems.

8. "Full recognition should be given to the financial requirements of the University of Michigan, the Michigan State College, the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, and the State Normal Colleges."

(At Michigan State College the last legislative appropriation for classroom facilities was in 1929, and student enrollment has tripled since then. The college board has asked for $250,000, explaining that state funds are needed imperative to provide adequate room for instruction purposes.)

9. "Needed appropriations to place five state institutions for handicapped and juvenile delinquents on a standard of human decency and safety."

10. To overcome the "lack of adequate library facilities in many sections of the state," the legislature should make "an appropriation large enough to resume a reasonable library program."

Tourist Promotion, Parks

11. To institute a long-range program of advertising Michigan as a state, the state should double the present appropriation for tourist promotion from $100,000 to $200,000

annually.

12. "Acquire frontage on the Great Lakes in the southern part of the state, so that parks may be developed more accessible to the large population centers."

Telephone Pioneers

• The badge which telephonists and women with 25 years of service may wear.

THERE always have been pioneers in the Bell System, and there always will be. Not only among veteran employees but throughout the organization there is a pioneering spirit that pushes steadily on to new frontiers of efficient telephone service. Today, the nation's defense calls for unusual foresight and pioneering. Telephone needs created by our increasing military establishments and new defense plants must be met. The traditions and experience of the Telephone Pioneers are valuable influences in the training of fresh forces to insure a continuance of good telephone service.

Chemistry Class
Tours Ford PlantAlso Visits the Rotunda,
Steel and Glass Buildings
Are Inspected

Monday, Jan. 20, the two chemistry classes with W. H. Hensel and E. V. Ellison took a trip which included the Ford Rotunda and the Rouge plant.

While waiting for the bus that would take them to the Rouge plant they were able to look around the Rotunda which cost three million dollars to build and is now a show room for Ford cars and trucks.

This building has a theatre which shows different phases of the automobile industry. Several other things that caught the eye were large revolving domes with lighted scenes which picture the different minerals, metals and fabrics being manufactured.

When the bus arrived, the group was taken over to the Rouge plant, which is the largest single industrial center of its kind in the world and employs 37,000 men. To keep this plant in perfect condition, 5000 janitors are needed at the cost of a million dollars a month. The Rouge plant uses enough water a day to supply the needs of Detroit, Chicago and Cincinnati.

As they rode through the plant on the way to the steel building they saw the tool and die shop, and the largest welded tank in the world. They also saw what is jokingly called the graveyard where all the old cars are kept prior to being converted into steel. From the steel building they went to the glass-making building. They also saw where the glass was ground, polished and how they removed it from large tables.

The last building visited was the rubber building where they saw how the fabrics of tires are made and how tires are treated to the size by which we know them.

Out-County Institute
Meets at Northville

The Out-County Institute will be held at the Northville High School on Feb. 12. All Northville schools will be represented. Guests are expected to attend. Reservations can be made at the Redford, Royal Oak, Clinton, Hamtramck, and Northville.

Approximately 75 visitors will enter into the discussion groups. The speaker at the business building will be the noted citizen A. Deaderick of Royal Oak who is an organizing authority on the role of business in today's world.

Debate plans concerning the status of the budget and the discussion group leaders have not as yet been completed.

Monday, Jan. 20, the two chemistry classes with W. H. Hensel and E. V. Ellison took a trip which included the Ford Rotunda and the Rouge plant.

Boys' and Girls' Basketball Teams Add Two More Court Victories

(Courtesy Orange and Black)

Two more basketball victories have been added to the Northville high school record. Last Thursday the girls defeated Melvindale, and Friday the boys won from Trenton. The girls basketball team won their last game by trouncing Melvindale 29-10. The Melvindale girls were somewhat taller than the Mustangs, but with the fine ball-handling and accurate shooting the Mustangs made a team that the Cardinals could not beat.

Guarding Is Good

Captain Ruth Parmenter was high scorer with 21 points. Marilyn Cawley, Maxine Coe, Jane Behan, and Yvonne Taylor again played a fine game with their good guarding, and keeping the ball out of Melvindale's territory. There were number of substitutions for the Mustangs, giving all of the girls a chance to play. Three Melvindale Cardinals left the game because of injuries.

Another villager, Charles Altman, sustained injuries the extent of which are not known at this time.

At 11:40 a.m. Wednesday, when his car skidded on the pavement as he turned on the Base Line road from Center street, His car went into the ditch, crashing into a tree, causing a $200 property damage.

Peter Perini also skidded into the ditch of the Cass Benton Park entrance at 10 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 18. He was not injured, but his car was damaged.

Another motorist ran off the street at 5:15 p.m. Jan. 17, near the Ford factory. The car rammed into a Detroit Edison pole, breaking it off at the base. About $150 of damage was done to the car.

The police report two accidents for Jan. 11 when two drunken drivers damaged their cars. One of the drivers was from South Lyon and has been fined for reckless driving. He hit the end of young Joe Penner's car at Wing and Dunlap streets. Penner's car suffered into the car belonging to John Litschberger. More than $200 worth of property damage resulted.

The other drunk driver decision pending further investigation was a villager who was driving on the west side of Main street at the Pulley Service station. He ran down into a car driven by a young man from Yuslanski. The car he was at least $200 too

ROTARY (Continued from front page) Individuals or groups with reference to pre-determined ends. The propagandist avoids scrutiny and criticism while a scientist (searching for truth) welcomes criticism. Propagandists which concern us are those which affect public opinion on matters of large social consequence — often to the detriment of large sections and even the majority of the people. Seven Devices of the Propagandist 1. Name Calling — Giving an idea a bad label is used to make us reject and condemn the idea without examining the evidence. 2. Glittering Generality — associating something with a name — is used to make us accept and approve the thing without examining the evidence. 3. Transfer carries the authority, sanction and prestige of some highly-repected act reverred over to something else in order to make the latter acceptable. 4. Testimony consists in having some respected or noted person say that a given idea or program or product or person is good or bad. 5. Plain Folks is the method by which a speaker attempts to convince his audience that he and his ideas are good because they are "of the people," the "plain folks." 6. Card Stacking involves the selection and use of facts or falsehoods, illustrations or distractions, and logical or illogical statements in order to give the best or the most possible case for an idea, program, person or product. 7. Band Wagon has as its theme, everybody — at least all of us — is doing it — with it the propagandist attempts to convince us that all members of a group to which we belong are accepting the program and that we must therefore follow our crowd and "jump on the band wagon." ABC's for the Study of Propaganda 1. Ascertain the conflict element in the propaganda you are analyzing. 2. Behold your own reaction to this conflict element. 3. Concern yourself with today's propaganda associated with past conflicts. 4. Don't let your opinions be very own. 5. Evaluate, therefore, with the greatest care, your own propaganda. 6. Find the facts before you come to any conclusion. 7. Guard always finally against ominous words.	Kroger Country Club BUTTER 33c 90 SCORE LB ROLL MEDIUM EGGS doz. 22c
