GASLESS SUNDAYS
It begins to look as if gasless Sundays might not be so necessary after all—if certain bare-knuckle reforms in the oil industry are put through by new National Oil Administrator Ickes. For instance, the tanker system.

When an oil tanker comes from the Gulf of Mexico up the East coast, it may stop at Charlevoix to discharge part of its oil, then at Norfolk, then at Baltimore. It discharges a certain amount at each port where its company distributes or refines oil.

Simultaneously, a tanker belonging to another company will stop off at exactly the same ports. Thus the tankers of three or even four different companies may be feeding the same cities at the same time.

If, on the other hand, one company served one section of the country, or if one tanker delivered oil to all the companies in each port instead of only to its own distributor, there would be measurable speedup.

Also, there are four different types of high octane gasoline being refined in the United States. All these varieties are not particularly necessary, one type being sufficient during the emergency. Concentration on only one type of high octane gas also would considerably increase gasoline output and distribution.

There is plenty of oil in the U. S. A.; it is only a matter of refining and distribution.

Note—The anti-trust laws have prevented the oil companies from cutting competition of this kind, but the government oil administrator should be able to do what the oil companies can't.

But LaGuardia, who made his own terms when he took his defense post, is still in charge of national morale.

SECRET OF CONVOYS

Most people don't realize it, but the existence of secret convoys leaving the United States for England is known to Nazi Germany. However, learning just when the shipments will reach England and the route they will take is another story.

Getting through is a long trip, the departure of a ship for England is relatively simple. All Nazi agents have to do is to wait for the watermarks to wash out of the British flag. The type of codes being used are extremely simple.

Or if an American vessel is leaving for the Red Sea, the papers signed by the crewmen are left in the port of destination. This is repeated by two or three ships in a row before he leaves, and because exchanges are paid off the ship never reaches certain areas.

Once a British ship is loaded, however, the latest secret is kept on its route and time of departure. Usually the ship keeps the shore as far north as the Canadian town of Halifax. There it may wait for days or even two or three weeks for a convoy to be made up.

When it finally leaves for the hazardous voyage across the Atlantic, orders are given to the ship's master by radio. Nothing is true to radio. A small boat puts out from the commander of the convoy carrying sealed orders to the master of each vessel.

No other orders are given, and no radio messages are exchanged during the trip except in case of attack, because radio messages might be picked up by Nazi patrol planes.

American ships, on the other hand, follow a regular, well-advised course and constantly send out radio messages informing the world of their position.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Supporting the plan of Chief of Staff Marshall to lower the age of army commanders, war department officials quote the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who fought in the Civil war. To Lady Pollock, during the Spanish-American war, he wrote: "A general of 45 and a private of 36 are old men."

The committee department has set up a separate British empire unit, headed by W. Walter Butterworth, former state department official in London. His job is to establish closer commercial ties with British dominions and colonies.

After Gen. Allen Dulles, the army's efficient judge advocate general, appeared in the comic strip "Hap Hopper," he received a letter from an old boyhood chum saying: "I have been wondering where you were for 40 years, and now at last I located you through the Sunday papers."

Twenty-six years ago Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin Roosevelt told a friend's baby son, around the old Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Saviers boy, much to the amusement of Judge John L. Vassar, who later nominated FDR for President. The other day, on the anniversary of the incident, the baby—Charles Duran Malins of Flint, Mich.—was inducted into the army.

Rural Electrification Administrator Harry Slattery is proud of having strung wires in Alaska and the Virgin Islands. Also, he is making a survey in Puerto Rico.

For Such A Day

Thursday 68 boys and girls received diplomas from Northville High School... a thrill that comes but once. Whether sad, glad, anxious or reluctant all of you turned a new page. As you of '41 graduate your homeland is un-bombed and beyond the range of bursting shells but not outside the range of a new and very definite vision of duty and responsibility.

Thousands in cap and gown must now prepare to espouse a cause long thought adequately defended and entrenched. Smoke and clouds hidden below the horizon challenge your purposes and procedure. You stand at the threshold of a world where 90% of its people are at war. Where sparring antagonists seek a strange hold. Truly you have graduated under conditions of unusual anxiety. Many of you boys will serve in the armed forces of your country. World circumstances over which you have no control necessitate and produce action and reaction, defense and offense, war and peace, prosperity and depression. To some of you further preparation is necessary. Others find themselves already on the road to careers in business, in government, and social activities. Each of you have an individual problem that is your first challenge.

We of other days acknowledge that a changed and startled world faces you. Some of you because of confusion and persuasive doctrines may believe liberties and immunities long cherished in our country may be lost in heavy odds held by tyranny, ignorance and paganism. In the light of reason and your new found horizons make intelligent appraisals. In question fail not to remember that freedom and the American way gave you birth and the privileges that are yours today.

For while it is a tense world, the very elements that give it tension and have torn it apart are responsible for giving you many opportunities. Unemployment does not face you. Actual jobs are waiting out in defense and allied industries. There is the military career, the skilled trades, and the general opening of employment to welcome you. That was the big thing in the middle of record years worried about finding a job. Yes, you can find jobs, but dare we say that in this year in a job is doableable it will be harder. Encourage your son if you're a take it and make it attitude. Encourage. Then too, the discontinued a part of the U.S. Post Office Department, savings, and savings institutions offer a safe foundation. A challenge to do more than ever before.

A candidate for the next president of the United States will be chosen on November 4th. Let's hope he is a statesman who will be able to settle international disputes and help us to live in peace. Let's hope he is a leader who does not let others defend him. Let's hope he is a leader who is a true family man and a good citizen. Let's hope he is a leader. There is no hope for us if we have no leader. Let's hope the beacon light of democracy is guiding us.

So graduates of the Northville High School in the class of 1941... and work to your hearts' content. Help shape a better America, a new democracy and a new world. Find work for your heart and head in a supreme effort to restore high human ideals. Can you do it? We know you. We have faith that you can.

Miss Hegge and Mr. Langford Speak Vows Saturday in Candlelight Service

At a candlelight ceremony Saturday evening, June 14, in St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Ann Arbor, Elizabeth Hegge, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Hegge of Northville, became the bride of George Robert Langford, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Langford of Ann Arbor.

The Rev. Heinz Lewis said the service before an altar decorated with white peacock feathers. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Many yards of white net fashioned the full hoop skirt with its long train worn by the bride. The borrowed requisite of the bride was the veil and cap, Miss Hegge wearing the beaded white bonnet hat belonging to Mrs. Thomas K. Burt of Ann Arbor, and the long veil of white muslin worn this spring by the former Ann Vedder at her wedding.

After a motor trip to Canada and the East, Mr. and Mrs. Langford will be at home July 1, at their Lake Brighton for vacation. Mrs. Langford wore a brown and white printed crepe with a powder blue tweed coat and cream-colored straw hat.

Mrs. Langford is a member of the University graduating class of 1941, belongs to College Sorosis. Mr. Langford, who is purchasing agent for the Economy Baler company with his father, attended Kenyon College and received degrees from the University literary college and School of business administration. He is a member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity.

The bridesmaids were Signe Hegge of Northville, a sister of the bride; wore yellow Marquiseette and a grosgrain hat with a bouquet of deep apricot roses, olive delphiniums and larkspur. The five maidsmen in bright blue marguerite had bouquets of yellow roses, daisies and larkspur. The dresses were alike and had bishop sleeves and grosgrain sash girdles.

GRADUATION

(Counted from front page) for candy; the first date; old age security; buying a lot in the cemetery. Thus he did to show that each age has its problems, its satisfactions.

He cautioned the graduates to remember that "it's smart to be good," a slogan originated by Gene Beck, now head of ASCAP and former director of Ziegfeld's shows.

Mr. McPaul is with the public relations department of the Industrial Bank, Detroit. He has made himself known to radio listeners through his programs, "Little Known Facts about Detroit," and "Your Pronunciation."

He is a graduate of the University of Michigan. After several years of high school teaching, Mr. McPaul joined the faculty of the University of Detroit. He has also been associated with the Springer Motion Picture corporation.

The seniors were presented for graduation by Paul Gerold V. Harrison. In behalf of the board of education, the diplomas were given by Sept. R. H. Amerman. The proceedings, and recessional were played by Dorothy Steininger. The Rev. E. E. Rossow, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, pronounced the invocation and the benediction. The salutatorian and valedictorian addresses were given by Frank Eaton and Edward Brown.

Two musical numbers, Meyerbeer's Coronation March and Dvorak's Humoresque, were played by the sophomore quintet composed of Harold Martens, Louis Eaton, Robert Eaton, Douglas McCuske and Robert Ross.

The following seniors were ushered at commencement: Maxine Cee, Robert Strenich, Edna Westphal, Walter Fox, Carrie Carlson, Marjorie Pankett, Evelyn Harrold, Judy Clark, Leo Hills, Meyer Lewis, Bob Beasley, Bob Hunter, Carter Church, James Pend, Don Barnard and Howard Rodgers.

The junior president, Maxine Cee, and vice-president, Robert Strenich, led the seniors to their places.

U. S. Senate Is Setting for '41 Class Program

Seniors Show Enthusiasm for Washington with Class Prophecy

The announcement that the seniors had for Washington when they returned from their visit there in the spring, didn't lessen as the weeks of school crawled by.

If anything, the seniors think more of the place than ever. This was evidenced Tuesday evening in the high school gymnasium where the members of the class held the program which they planned themselves.

Using the United States Senate (imaginatively speaking) as a setting, they carried on the class unfinished business to a logical point of adjournment.

Welcomed by the present Mayor, Lynn Carl, the seniors' business was conducted by the vice-president, Bill Wadsworth, Frank Peterson and Betty Schwell, while political balances were kept things in hand.

Barbershop singers (senior boys of the Glee Club), Douglas McCuske, Robert Anderson, Louis Eaton, Sprague Lester, Bob Borden, Alvin Barnard, Robert Ross and Robert Baker sang familiar songs.

The class chaplain was given by Chandler Parker and Mary Ellen Burgess, showing that through the years all the seniors had made their way to Washington for recognition and address.

The class toll which never fails to make more than one uncharitable squirm a bit, was read by Betty Holtzinger, Baumgardner and Douglas McCuske. Just to be on a safe side, the Beday and Immigrant had cotton robes fashioned like one in green and one in red.

Girls that told many a senior secret were given out agreeably but manfully by Jane May, Betty Silveira, Harry Ritchie and Ruth Puryear.

Pictures of the Washington trip taken by one of the seniors, E. V. Edison, were shown by Jane Belon, Elmer Whiter and Joe Debie. Carl was too confidential to be disclosed by the seniors, but a number of the girls can be seen in the photo. Doug, the new Post, Mr. Martin Walker, Louis Nava, Marilyn Clark, Dean Frank, Alice Webster, Helen Bell, Jean Yester, May E. Hart and June El.
