"These are Times that Try Men's Souls"

The following selections from "The American Crisis" by Thomas Paine were written in 1776 when the cause of America seemed desperate. They are as pertinent to today that even President Roosevelt used Paine's opening paragraph in his Washington Birthday radio talk this year.

These are the times that try men's souls: The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly:—"Tis dearness only that gives everything its value. Heaven knows how to set a proper price upon its goods; and it would be strange indeed, if so celestial an article as FREEDOM should not be highly rated.

We did not make a proper use of last winter, neither could we, while we were in a dependent state. However, the fault, if it were one, was all our own: we have none to blame but ourselves.

I have as little superstition in me as any man living, but my secret opinion has ever been, and still is, that God almighty will not give up a people to military destruction, or leave them unsupported to perish, who had so earnestly and repeatedly sought to avoid calamities of war, by every decent method which wisdom could invent. Neither have I so much of the infidel in me, as to suppose that He has relinquished the government of the world, and given us up to the care of devils...

Tis surprising to see how rapidly a panic will sometimes run through a country... Yet panics, in some cases, have their uses; they produce as much good as evil. Their duration is always short, the mind soon grows thru them, and acquires a firmer habit than before. But their peculiar advantage is, that they are the touchstones of sincerity and hypocrisy, and brings things and men to light, which might otherwise have lain for ever undiscovered. In fact, they have the same effect on secret traitors, which an imaginary apparition would upon a private murderer. They sift out the hidden thoughts of men and hold them up in public to the world...

Loose fell all that kind of a yoke, which a man ought to feel, against the worn-out principles that are held by the Tories. A noted one, who kept a school at Auburn, was standing at his door, while a pretty child in his hand, about eight or nine years old, a most gay fellow, but after speaking his mind so freely, he thought was ashamed, finished with this half-set expression, "Well, give me peace in thy day..." A general parent would have said, "If there must be trouble, let it be my day, that my child may have peace." And this single reflection, well applied, is sufficient to sustain every man to day...

America did not come into existence by accident, but it was the result of a combination of circumstances. We do not know the purpose of it, any, and it is no wonder that we should err at first setting off. From an excess of tenderness, we were unwilling to judge an act, and trusted our cause to the temporary defense of a well-meaning militia... I have always considered a militia as the best troops in the world for a sudden exertion, but they will not do for long campaigns... I can't in the least imagine a friend to those who have fully stood, and are yet determined to stand the matter out. I can't act upon a few, but upon all, not on This State or That State, but on Every State; in, and help us lay your shoulders to the wheel; Let her have too much force than too little, when so great an object is at stake. Let it be told to the future world, that in the depth of winter, when nothing but hope and virtue could surging, that the city and country, alarmed at one common danger, came forth to meet and to repulse it. Say not, that thousands are gone, turn out your tens of thousands; throw not the burden of the day upon Providence, but "shew your faith by your works." The God may bless you. It matters not where you live, or what rank of life you hold, the evil or the blessing will reach you all. The far and the near, the home counties and the back, the rich and the poor, shall suffer or rejoice alike. The heart that feels not now, is dead. The blood of his children shall curse his cowardice, who shrinks back at a time when a little might have saved the whole, and made them happy. I love the man that can smile in trouble, that can gather strength from distress, and grow brave by reflection. 'Tis the business of little minds to shrink; but he whose heart is firm, and whose conscience approves his conduct, will pursue his principles into death. My own line of reasoning is to myself as strait and clear as a ray of light. Not all the treasures of the world, so far as I believe, could have induced me to support an offensive war, for I think it murder; but if a thief break into my house, burn and destroy my property, and kill or threaten to kill me, or those that are in it, and to "bind me in all cases whatsoever," to his absolute will, am I to suffer it?

There are cases which cannot be overdone by language, and this is one. There are persons too who see not the full extent of the evil that threatens them; they solace themselves with hopes that the enemy, if they succeed, will be merciful. It is the madness of folly to expect mercy from those who have refused to do justice; and even mercy, where conquest is the object, is only a trick of war: The cunning of the fox is as murderous as the violence of the Wolfe; and we ought to guard equally against both... I dwell not upon the vapours of imagination; I bring reason to your ears, and in language, as plain as A. B. C., hold up truth to your eyes.

I thank God that I fear not. I see no real cause for fear. I know our situation well, and can see the way out of it... Once more we are again collected and collecting; our new army at both ends of the Continent is recruiting fast; and we shall be able to open the next campaign with forty thousand men, well armed and clothed. This is our situation; and why will not know it. By perseverance and fortitude we have the prospect of a glorious issue; by cowardice and submission, the sad choice of variety of evils—a ravaged country, a depopulated city, habitations without safety, and slavery without hope; our homes turned into barracks and bawdy-houses for Hessians, and the air-and-sardeau.

The second and third graders received a letter from Mrs. Angel Murphy of the officers' reserve corps at Fort Sheridan, Ill., stating that she is having a fine time in spite of having to do her share of taking three years' training in three months.

A car belonging to Lillian Cassie was stolen Sunday night, while parked on Main street. No report of it had been received on Tuesday, although County and State police were investigating. A headlight assembly was stolen from the car of Rex Tuttle, Sunday night, while it was parked at East Shore Tavern.

REMEMBER
WE'RE AT WAR!

Then look twice at this startling map... see how enemy planes might drop in by America's back door!

"It can't happen to me. I'm in the safest spot in the world. I live in Northville."

If that's what you think you'd better learn this little geography lesson. And learn it quick.

Look at the map again. Follow the arrows from Norway. They make it terribly clear that a Berlin bomber, using Greenland as a stepping stone, could drop its load on Northville as easily as on New York.

And military experts say that this is just the course an enemy air attack would probably follow. For while the Atlantic coast is fairly well protected by an arc of newly acquired bases, America has a wide open back door through the wilderness of Canada. That door leads straight to Michigan's defense industries—industries that feed war material for the entire world.

Yes... and your home is alongside. Now perhaps you know, as you never did before, why you should be eager to lend your money for war bonds.

Lend that money freely. Buy all the stamps and bonds you can afford. Then buy more.

OBITUARY

Mrs. W. H. Corrin

Death claimed Mrs. William H. Corrin, 70 years a resident of Northville, Sunday morning, May 17, at the University Hospital, Ann Arbor.

She was born 80 years ago in Canajoharie county, N. Y., coming to this place as a girl.

June 18, 1902, she was united in marriage with William H. Corrin in the home where she has lived for 40 years.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Corrin is survived by her sister, Miss Margarette Van Valkenburg of Northville; two brothers, Charles J. of Northville, and Louis of Chelsea.

Mrs. Corrin's chief interests were her home, her friends and her church. A member of the Baptist church, she was baptized May 2, 1876 and was a continuous member from that date until her death. She had been a member a few days over 60 years and in years of membership was the senior member in the fellowship.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, May 19, from the Baptist church, with the Rev. Howard R. Chapman, officiating. Before the funeral her body lay in state in the Costello Funeral Home. Burial was in the Rural Hill Cemetery.
