workers. Their response is particularly remarkable when one considers that they have been continually handicapped in their efforts by differing opinions, draft, board, by taxes and food shortages in the statements emanating from government officials, and by delays in getting information from federal agencies.

Dr. Rutanen then pointed out the recent trend of abandoning educational courses in favor of technical courses as a result of pressures set up in an industrial civilization.

Assuming that education is their goal, educators should insist that higher education is not a luxury to be enjoyed in spare moments of a more training in the technique of living a matter of easy gain and endless amusements," said Dr. Rutanen.

What is the function of higher education in our present-day civilization? Only by constant reference to instruction to the world after the war and by providing facilities for study in philosophy, art, language, literature, religion and science as distinguished from technology, can the universities in this crisis continue to be centers of faith, respect and new truths and the source of knowledge and the effort of training centers for those who are to be responsible for preserving and improving our social order.

Does all-out war mean the all-out abandonment of cultural training? Should we return to the "three R's" and leave our colleges and universities for the duration?

Dr. Rutanen, president of the University of Michigan, set forth his ideas on the function of higher education in war-time in a formal address to the newspaper editors.

Every professor fully understands that there must be a shift in emphasis in college and university programs during war years. The curriculum must be supplemented by technical subjects and other professional courses.

War calls must go through this Thanksgiving
Please do not make social Long Distance calls
War goes right on, despite Thanksgiving. And messages essential to the war effort will crowd the wires as on other days.
War-loaded Long Distance lines cannot carry the usual flood of social calls this Thanksgiving.
Therefore, please make only the most urgent Long Distance calls on Thanksgiving Day, and keep those calls as brief as possible.

"UNCLE SAM" WANTS YOUR GAS REFRIGERATOR TO LAST!

IT'S vital to victory to make what you have last! Your silent gas refrigerator will preserve food better and give even longer service if you follow these simple instructions.

DEFROSTING SUGGESTIONS

1. Frost should be removed periodically to keep refrigerator operating at peak efficiency.
2. Frequent defrosting will make it easier to remove ice trays and prolong the life of trays by preventing the damage that often results when trays are forcibly dislodged with tools.
3. Your gas refrigerator has less work to do at night. Take advantage of this by defrosting in the late afternoon or early evening, so that refrigeration can be started before you go to bed.

CLEANING SUGGESTIONS

1. The outside finish may be cleaned with a damp cloth. Occasionally it may be necessary to use a small amount of mild, smooth white soap and warm water.
2. Clean off any grease or oil which gets on the outside finish or on the rubber door gasket. (Grease or oil destroys rubber).
3. To clean the interior of the refrigerator wash the porcelain finish with a cloth wet in lukewarm soda solution. (1 teaspoon of baking soda to 1 quart of water).

CORRECT USE OF REFRIGERATOR

1. Don't overcrowd.
2. Place the food on the shelves so that there is room for air to circulate around it.
3. Do not cover refrigerator shelves with paper or oilcloth.

New Price Ceiling On Fuel Oil

New price ceilings on fuel oil were announced Nov. 17 by the OPA for lower Michigan to prevent what OPA officials termed "a critical heating oil shortage."

On tank wagon deliveries the new ceiling prices are 7 1/2 cents a gallon for number one fuel oil (domestic heating oil) in quantities of 100 gallons or more. Less than 100 gallons will be 3 1/2 cents a gallon.

President's Proclamation

"It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord." Across the uncertain ways of space and time our hearts reach those words "for the days are with us again when, at the gathering of the harvest, we solemnly express our dependence upon Almighty God."
