WITH NORTHVILLE'S MEN AND WOMEN IN THE SERVICE

PICTURES OF SERVICEMEN IN THIS ISSUE

Pvt. Robert Sears, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sears, and at present is stationed in Texas.

Pvt. Wayne Thompson, AAF, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson of Bass Line Road.

Wayne has just graduated from a specialists course in the power operated turrets and gun sight. He is now in the Central Fire Control for the B-29 super bombers at Lowry Field, Colo.

Once again hello to you and all the folks back home. I am now many thousands of miles from the States but the wonderful memories are right here with me. It is very easy for me to close my eyes and see Main Street, the school, and very vividly all the old gang. I have not received the paper for a number of weeks now and I certainly miss it. However, I realize that is not your fault.

There is a very pesky fly that is making repeated attacks upon me. Between him and the heat I am having difficulty writing this note. I wish I were able to tell you some sea stories but truthfully nothing very exciting has happened to us yet.

We have reason to believe the Jap fleet doesn't suspect our presence here or I am sure they would realize the uselessness of opposing the mighty A's and would immediately surrender.

We are all very proud of our ship and very anxious to prove to the nips that this confidence is well deserved.

Let me take the liberty of cautioning the folks back home that there is still a war going on. If all of you could spend a few hours listening to and looking at some of these homesick kids out here, I am sure that extra bond wouldn't seem quite enough. The boys know their job. Please don't forget yours.

If we all put forth our most complete effort we can certainly shorten the time until Northville's greatest reunion. Good luck to all and a special thanks for the paper.

Encl. Al Bowens

Team Engine Advanced promises to be the most interesting phase of training I will receive, that is, if I complete the course. Some of the training planes were formerly commercial transports and I think they are pretty neat looking ships.

I have been receiving the Record for over a year now and I want you to know I appreciate getting it. Charlie Winter from Crawfordville Ind., also sends his thanks. He reads the Record when I'm through. It started as a joke. He read an issue of the Record and then started talking about Northville and the inhabitants. He had no believing he lived there. Now he reads every issue with genuine interest. Please send the Record to my new address. Thanks again, Alvin Shepard.

After spending his leave with his family, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Costello of Merriman Road, Lt. Col. John Costello flew back to his base at Childress, Texas, Monday.

Several Northville men have arrived at Camp Wolters, Texas, Infantry Replacement Training Center, to begin training as Infantrymen. They have been assigned to a battalion stressing heavy weapons. Included in the group are Robert Alvin Vogtlin, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Vogtlin, 723 Grandview; Alonso Edward Bates, husband of Leila Metta Bates, 495 Cadet St.; Henry Morgan Strange, husband of Martha B. Strange, 10124 west Seven Mile Road; also at that camp is Glenn H. McClellan, 19345 Westmorg, Farmington.

Ruth Leavenworth, Yerkes St. leaves July 12 to begin her training at Hunter's College, N.Y. in the WAVES. Ruth has been employed at Kelsey Hayes.

After serving 15 months with the Canadian Women's Army Corps, Pvt. Ruth Baxtresser of Northville was granted a release from that organization to join the Women's Army Corps of her own country. She is now training at the Third WAC Training Center at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. The 20-year-old woman soldier, too young at the time for service in the WAC, crossed the border, enlisted and served for over a year with the women of the Dominion. As member of the motor corps, she drove English jeeps and trucks and, as extra duty, appeared in the "Canadian Army Show" which toured the country. A graduate of Cooley High School, Detroit, she continued her education at the Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio, voluntarily interrupting this training for service in the war. Pvt. Baxtresser is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baxtresser who have lived on east Nine Mile road for the past two years.

Order Fuel Oil Now!

Order your fuel oil now. Fill your tank as full as your coupons will allow.

As soon as you get your ration coupons CALL us. Place your order early, to avoid waiting when cold weather starts.

Why?

Manpower and transportation problems have curtailed our service. Right now we can spread deliveries and assure you of oil before cold weather. Later, if orders all come at once - we may not have the facilities to deliver oil on a "rush" order when you really need it.

So order your fuel oil right away. Now. Today!

NOTE: With your Ration Coupons you received a "Ration Calendar and Delivery Record." Keep his folder. You will need it for budgeting your oil consumption next winter.

Gas Fights for Freedom Too

Every shell fired at the enemy requires a number of heat-processing operations in its manufacture. And gas, that quick, clean, automatic, easy-to-control fuel, is widely used by industry for this important war production job. Everyone is asked to remember that the same fuel that is used in our homes for cooking purposes, provides the heat that helps to produce shells needed by our fighting men. We must SAVE it wherever possible. We must all do our part to keep our war plants humming until victory is won.
