This column is edited and paid for by the Lloyd H. Green Post No. 147 American Legion of Northville for the information of the men in the service. Questions from Servicemen will be welcomed and answered in this column.

THIS IS THE AMERICAN LEGION

For the past 25 years one of the organizations that has been in the public eye, and in the public prints, has been the American Legion.

The Legion has been praised and damned. It has been über-criticized for its many contributions to the American scene. It has likewise been blamed for a lot of things which never happened.

Newspapers have editorially lauded the Legion. Some have blasted the organization. Some have gone both, alternately, on

The Door Is Reopened

At the national convention of the American Legion held in Kansas City in the fall of 1942, the delegates representing their posts and departments all over the nation voted to open their ranks to the membership of veterans of World War II who had honorably served in and had been discharged from the service, or who determined to remain in the service at the conclusion of hostilities.

The American Legion made the offer, but it never conducted any campaign for membership among the men in the armed forces. It has sent no members-in-organizers to camps or stations either at home or overseas. It has felt that troops in the field had enough to do to carry on their military and naval activities.

However, while the Legion has carefully refrained from initiating such a campaign, it has not failed to carry on other activities in which those now in service are vitally interested.

Inquiries Coming In

While the Legion has not conducted any membership-building activities among the troops, it has had inquiries from many of those who are in the service; inquiries that the Legion has answered and will continue to answer.

It is not surprising to learn that many wrong impressions are held by some. This may be due to a number of things mostly because there had been no reason, prior to this war, for those now in service to feel any personal need of information; also, perhaps, to the American Legion's own reluctance to preach its wares during the time of a conflagration. However, for the benefit of those who may be interested, a series of short articles concerning the Legion, its origin, its history, its record of accomplishments, in one field and another, its opinions as expressed in convention action, and its view of the future, is being prepared. This is the first of the series.

It is believed that the question of whether or not veterans of this war will choose to join the Legion is of interest to the public, to discharged veterans who have not yet made up their minds whether to join any organization of veterans, and to Legionnaires themselves. These appear to provide ample reasons for the presentation of this series.

The information in this series will be available for such veterans as are interested. It will be available for members of the Legion who may be asked questions, for they may find some of the answers already prepared for them in the series.

MY STARS! PROFESSOR, LOOK FOR THE MILKY WAY UNDER CREAMRIES AND DAIRY PRODUCTS IN THE YELLOW PAGES OF THE TELEPHONE DIRECTORY

Michigan's popular concepts of fish conservation and northern resort hotel are headed for radical changes during post-war years.

Fishermen are going to argue long and ardently the merits of those recommendations which come from the Institute for Fisheries Research at Ann Arbor, a division of the Michigan department of conservation.

Open all lakes, except trout waters, to year-round fishing.

Maintain a closed season for only bass, northern pike, whitefish and trout. Any of the first three fish, which are predatory in their food habits, are to be returned to the lake if caught during the closed season.

Remove the size limit on all fish, but retain the present rationing system of daily limits.

These proposals, revolutionary as they are to the traditional thinking of the average sportsman, were voiced by Dr. Albert S. Hazzard, director of the Institute for Fisheries Research, at the fall conference of the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association at Mackinac Island.

Before you begin to fume and fuss, consider the reasons behind them. They represent scientific fact-finding, not guess-work. They reflect the efforts and thinking of specialists, such as Dr. Hazzard, over a period of 15 to 25 years.

The evolution of the conservation movement in Michigan began in the 1870's when depletion of our timber resources and failure of pioneer farmers to utilize cut-over forest lands prompted a conviction that Michigan's natural resources must be guarded and costly waste must be curtailed, if not completely eliminated.

In recognition of the value of fish and game to Michigan's economy, the conservationist first enunciated the concept that the past generations of conservationists have proceeded on a fallacious hypothesis," said Dr. Hazzard.

"Instead of watching the base of our fish life by adding young

fish and fingerlings to the waters,

thereby increased the natural reproductive production; we must look to an increase in food and shelter. Many lakes are so overstocked with small fish that lack of food in the waters prevents fish from maturing.

In many instances fishing

work would be improved if we could devise some method of the fish

hatchery-control, an admittedly difficult accomplishment."

How does the fish scientist

arrive at this conclusion? Listen:

"At Craig lake in Branch county, a 122-acre body of water surrounded by marshes

we conducted a fall census of fish by netting. Fish were marked by clipping of fins. After a winter's season of ice fishing,

which will average a catch of 25,000 bluegills, we again took a population count.

The astonishing fact is this:

Despite the unusually heavy fishing to which Craig Lake was subjected, running around 25,- 00 fish a winter, less than one-

fourth of the legal size bluegills

in Craig lake were removed in any one winter. Actually, heavy fishing has improved the catch of blue gills. It sounds fantastic, but such is the truth."

How can fish life be added to lakes? Dr. Hazzard says that this is a new field of inquiry.

Tests have indicated the merit of depositing farm fertilizers in certain inland lakes where vegetable life is deficient. Other tests have indicated the value of adding mineral elements such as lime to certain inland lakes.

Crushed limestone has been used in these experiments with marked success. Branch piles in shallow water also encourage vegetation.

We are just on the boundaries of fish knowledge," added Dr.

Hazzard. There is so much we do not know."

The second popular concept

at the present time is rearing adjustments.

Swain W. Smith, president of the Grand Hotel and past president of the Michigan Hotel Association, is a present day example of the summer hotel at success. In Michigan, 51 per-

Mountains and Tahquamenon

Falls and is owned by the State of Michigan and controlled by the state department of conservation. Woodland would not be the same without its accompanying hotel, lake and lawn

amenities.

Smith is continuing with tourism, but he wants to do it right. "I would suggest that they operators are not going to have much to do with the state and local governments," he said.

The state should bridge this gap by

ing larger numbers of tourists

CALLING TRUCK 23
CALLING TRUCK 23"

In one minute Detroit Edison truck 23 had completed the emergency call to Craig lake. At 5:01 the switchboard received a call from WQJL.

Truck 23 responded to the call at 5:01 and was enroute to the Craig lake area. At 5:02 the switchboard received another call from WQJL.

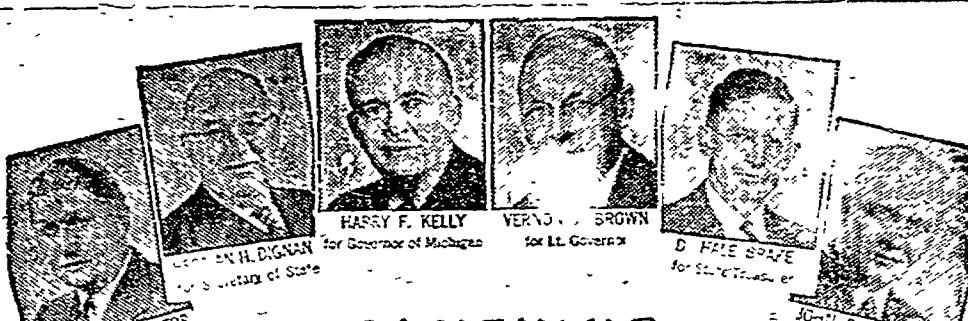

In six more minutes the skilled overhead lines crew of truck 23 was at 5:04 repairing the break in the system so power could resume.

Just 39 minutes after Detroit Edison received the emergency call, power was restored and vital work was moving again.

We are not always able to equal this record for speed. But by means of two-way FM (Frequency Modulation) radio, 49 Edison cars and trucks are always in touch with our central trouble switchboard, permitting emergency crews to be dispatched speedily to the scenes of major emergencies. We are constantly seeking new ways to improve our operation and give better service to our customers.

TELEPHONE POST-WAR PROSPECT

Michigan Bell, anticipating high demand, plans expansion and improvement.

IN ANTICIPATION of favorable business conditions following reconversion, Michigan Bell foresees post-war expenditures of as much as $120,000,000 within a five-year period.

More buildings, cables, central office apparatus, and telephones are needed. But we cannot undertake to provide them until war needs are reduced greatly. Today the armed forces take about all the communications equipment that can be made.

Dependent on business conditions, materials, manpower, and funds, the program is being engineered to:

1. Provide service to nearly 90,000 persons who now can't get it.
2. Expand both urban and rural service to meet anticipated demand, and to restore sets in margin of facilities.
3. Ensure prompt completion of Long Distance calls for the growing number of users.
4. Carry out plant improvements suspended because of the war.

Such a program of additions will be necessary if the Company is to continue to furnish the grade of service the public expects and is to take its place in an expanded national economy.

We shall welcome the day when that program can be started.

SOLDIERS

Pvt. Robert Voglin has finished one phase of training at Camp Wooster, Texas and has been assigned to Oregon State College for the study of electrical engineering. Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Voglin of Grandview. He graduated from N.H.S. in '32 and attended the U. of M. at Ann Arbor and the Detroit Institute of Technology.

A letter was received by his parents from Pfc. E. K. Starkweather the first of the week after a six weeks interval, saying he is safe and well, somewhere in the Southwest Pacific.

It is just about time that I write to thank you for the Record. As you probably know, a fellow doesn't have much time to himself in an Infantry Basic camp. I guess that is about the only excuse I can offer.

I will make this letter do a double duty and thank you for the paper and tell you my new address at the same time. I have been transferred to Oregon State College and will go to school here now in the A.S.T.P. If things go along alright and the Army doesn't make one of its many frequent changes, I may end up as an electrical engineer. I consider this a very lucky break as there will only be about fifteen of us sent from our camp to A.S.T.P. That is a very high percentage cut of 20,000 men.

Time to hit the hay now as tomorrow is a very busy day. We have to be all set to start the semester next Monday.

Thanks again and "Hello" to all my buddies in service.

Sincerely yours,

Bob Voglin
