Instruments are less than half the telephone shortage story

★ BUY AN EXTRA WAR BOND NOW

MORE than 90,000 people in Michigan are waiting for telephones today. While we are constantly installing service as present users give it up, still the "waiting list" grows.

We'd like to fill all orders immediately. But we couldn't fill half of them even if we had all the instruments we need. For the shortage of cable and switchboard facilities is much more acute than the shortage of telephones.

When materials, men and manufacturing facilities are available again we propose to launch a vast expansion program that may cost up to $120,000,000, if the necessary investment funds can be secured. That program calls for building new central offices, enlarging present offices, and installing new cables and central office equipment.

All of that will take time. Even after the war, it may be more than a year before all orders are filled. However, you can be sure your telephone will be installed in its proper order, just as quickly as possible.

Christmas Around the World

From the snows of Iceland to the heat of Guadalcanal—here's the way our soldiers, sailors, and marines spent Christmas last year. It was an unusual sort of Christmas for them, but they made the best of it.

Their destroyer may be far out on the sea, but these naval officers didn't let the day go by unobserved. Even their grim "tin can" has a holiday appearance with a wreath and evergreen sprays.

Above: American members of the famous Korbin group sit down to their 1943 Christmas dinner in Northern Burma. The turkey was dropped by planes. Right: American doughboys in Naples, Italy, as they bargained for Tule wits.

Notes: Two members of the W.A.C. celebrating their 1943 Christmas in England, on the side of a G. I. to help pass time. Below: Nurses and patients in an Iceland hospital worked together to decorate this cheery ward.

DETROIT EDISON LINES

Concrete Tiddlywinks... To conserve iron and steel for the war, the Detroit Edison Underground Lines Department now builds manhole covers of reinforced concrete, a hollow spider web of steel. The concrete covers substitute successfully for the all-steel covers formerly used, and stand up all under heavy traffic loads. Each concrete cover represents a saving of about 150 pounds of iron and steel.

NECESSARY EVIL... Paper work we have always with us. But the mass planning of war swells paper work to a flood tide, and the extra work behind the scenes sometimes reaches a fantastic amount. In order to get the required materials to serve our customers, Detroit Edison has had to file 12,111 individual applications with the WPB. The thousands of restrictive orders caused by the war require a reference set of 17 volumes to keep the Company up to date.

APPLE TREAT

Our Home Service Department invites you to try this tempting dish: Apple Oatmeal Crumble. 4 large cooking apples, 1/2 cup dark corn syrup, 6 tbsp. shortening, 1/2 cup all-purpose enriched flour. Grease a two-quart casserole. Peel and slice apples very thin, and place in casserole. Cover with syrup. Combine flour, oatmeal, soda and salt, and either cut or rub in the shortening. Sprinkle over mixture in casserole. Pat down very lightly. Bake in preheated 350° F. oven for 40 minutes. Serve hot or cold with cream or top milk. You save coal, transportation and manpower when you save electricity.

TURN OFF THAT LIGHT!... Detroit Edison street lighting is usually furnished to communities at a fixed annual rate. If you occasionally notice street lights burning in the daytime, this is done so that patrol men can check for burned-out lamps. On dark winter mornings, we keep street lights on somewhat longer than usual, as an added protection for children going to school. There is no charge for the extra electricity used in either of these cases. The Detroit Edison Co. Serving more than half the people of Michigan

Santa Claus trekked all over Guadalcanal island on Christmas day to see that none of his boys were passed up. He's near the end of his trip judging from his light pack.

The Farmer Buys War Bonds

by O. B. Jessness Chief, Division of Agricultural Economics University of Minnesota

FARMER Brown does not have to ask himself whether he ought to buy War Bonds. He knows that every citizen with fair income should lend part of it to the government to help win this war. The real question which Mr. Brown and all his fellow farmers must decide is how large his investment should be. The simplest and best answer to this is "buy all you can." But what are some of the points which a farmer needs to weigh in deciding what that amount is in his particular case? Farm income certainly is one. Most farmers are receiving considerably larger cash incomes because of the war. Some of the increase may be needed to pay pressing debt. Higher taxes will take some. But most of it ought to be set aside in War Bonds for future use. Part of the current cash income received from wheat and other machinery and equipment. War shortages prevent farmers from buying machinery or building freely. Less money can be spent for these purposes now, but more cash will be needed later, or because of this. Each farmer ought to figure the amount which this money can best be used later for the money which prudent farmers will set aside for this use is War Bonds. Farm homes will need new equipment as well. Electricity has recently been installed in many farm homes and more will get this service as soon as possible. Firms saved up now can be used later to buy things to add to the comforts of the home and to ease the drudgery of farm work. War prices will not last forever. The future will bring years of low prices or bad crops as well as good years. Some of the present income will come in mighty handy in times of low return. Farmers also are saving for educating their children for old age and for the proverbial rainy day. Each family should think about all these needs and set aside money to meet them. There is no safer place for such savings than War Bonds. Should debts be paid before Bonds are bought? Each farmer must answer for himself. Due and pressing debt should be paid. If necessary, long-term debt should be reduced to a point where it can be carried. After that, available income better go into Bonds. Your own conscience will tell you when you are using debt merely as an excuse for neglecting to do your share in buying Bonds. What about buying land? Can you handle more land profitably? Is it worth the price asked? Can you pay for it out of earnings when prices drop? A speculative boom in land may get out of hand. Better buy Bonds than speculate in land. What about the farmer who says "I prefer to keep my hands in my pocket? Stop to think, brother. How smart is that? Do you believe it good business to have idle dollars lying around? If they are laid away somewhere, they may get lost, stolen or destroyed. Put them to work and make them produce a return for you. War Bonds are the safest investment available. They are backed by the same government as the dollar. One is as safe as the other. While farmers buy Bonds intending to hold them, the E, F and G Bonds ordinarily bought by individual investors can be redeemed for cash if need arises. Unlike the heavy bonds of the last war, these cannot be sold on the open market and, hence, will never sell for fewer dollars than they cost. Farmers have done a good job in buying War Bonds. They can make an even better showing if each one will buy all he can. Remember, you help yourself as well as your country. U.S. Treasury Department

Three Wise Men Of Ancient Times Relics at Cologne

Biblically we know very little about the Wise Men who came from the East bearing gifts to the Christ Child and, having adored Him as the King of the Jews, returned to their own country.

It is generally accepted that there were three Wise Men because of the three traditionally mentioned gifts: church tradition has identified these as Melchior, Caspar, and Balthasar; Melchior, King of Arabia, brought a casket of gold, Caspar, King of Persia, brought myrrh; and Balthasar, King of Ethiopia, brought frankincense. These gifts are considered symbolic of what Jesus was to become - gold for a king, frankincense for a high priest, and myrrh for a great physician. Collectively, the Wise Men received the gifts of charity and "spiritual" wealth, perfect faith, truth and meekness.

When they returned to their own country, the three Kings reputedly sold their possessions and went about preaching the Christ-King. Legend continues that they were martyred in India for their faith.

The bodies of the Wise Men, transferred to Constantinople in the fourth century by the Empress Helena, mother of Constantine, were enshrined at Milan for a while after the first Crusade. Frederick Barbarossa authorized removal of the relics to Cologne where they remain to this day deposited within the magnificent Cathedral of Cologne.

Christmas Elf Concerned With Well-Being of Cattle

Jule-Nisse was not exactly a Danish version of Santa Claus. He was an elderly little old man who lived in the attic and was primarily concerned with the well-being of the cattle, keeping them quiet and contented, caring for them if the stablehands neglected their duties.

Nisse's name and association with Christmas probably stems from his legendary tenancy of houses where peace and contentment prevailed. 'Tis said he either avoided homes where contention ruled or played all sorts of gremlin-like tricks upon the occupants thereof.

Danish youngsters, mindful of Nisse's long memory and watchful eye, put themselves upon their good behavior as Christmas approaches.

Nips Are Still Paying for This

Three years ago, on December 7, 1941, millions of American families were sitting down to their Sunday dinners, when the incredible news flashes broke: the Sabbath calm: Hawaii had been attacked by a huge air armada! The Pacific fleet's great base at Pearl Harbor was wrecked and burning! Our largest battleships had been sunk! Thousands of soldiers and sailors had been killed. The Japs would soon land a large force and capture the islands, almost unopposed. Hawaii was the only real obstacle between the Japanese war machine and the Pacific coast. What did it mean? What fearful days were ahead?

So people thought, scarcely daring to put their fears into words, in those dreadful hours only three years ago. As more complete and reliable reports came in, the proportions of the disaster diminished a little. The Japs had not landed—in fact, they did not follow up their first smash. Losses in ships, planes and men were not quite as devastating as at first surmised. A wave of patriotic determination swept over the land. A sudden stiffening of purpose and bitter indignation at the Jap sneak attack replaced the first panic.

A Time of Peril.
Yet the situation was serious enough. Pearl Harbor was a naval and air base was practically out of commission. The navy's full report, issued almost a year later, gave the following summary:

One battleship, the Arizona, had been sunk, four others, all of the 30,000-ton class, had been severely damaged. Three others had been hit. Three destroyers, a large ship and a mine layer were also damaged as severely. Damaged, three cruisers, a supply tender, a repair ship and a floating drydock were also struck by Jap bombs, with varying degrees of damage. (By the time of this report, the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor, most of these vessels were back in action.) All told, there had been 38 ships of the Pacific fleet in the harbor when the Jap bombers attacked.

We Enter Two-Front War.
So we were at war with the Axis Germany and Italy declared war on the United States two days after the Pearl Harbor treachery. In the United States, a flurry of preparations began. The draft was swiftly stepped up. Factories were geared to war production orders, mobilization of everything followed. But many months passed before the chance to strike back came, before the naval victories of Midway and the Coral Sea and the counter-offensive in Guadalcanal.

By the autumn of 1941, Japan had abandoned hope of further conquests, and was digging in to prepare for a bitter line of defense. The third anniversary of Pearl Harbor finds Japan fighting desperately for her life.

enced enough independent voters to demand a change at Lansing. The farmers have been laughing in the middle of the year like it. They prefer a business-like continuity of policy in the state department just as they like to have in running their own business.

At the recent annual meeting of the Michigan State Farm Bureau at Lansing, State College East Lansing farmer delegates arrived by the hundreds. Officers were armed with resolutions from their home bureaus—some 300 resolutions, in fact.

By the time the resolution committee had studied numerous proposals and delegates had been given an opportunity to express their opinions, the following resolution was adopted unanimously:

"We renew our insistence, voiced in resolutions adopted at several previous annual meetings that the state department of agriculture be removed from politics in order to provide a continuity of administration of the laws with the enforcement of which this department is charged. We feel that this would afford the best service to producers and consumers of Michigan farm products."

ment of a new commissioner of agriculture each time the political party in control of the state government is changed we favor the establishment of a bipartisan state agricultural commission which would choose a state commissioner of agriculture and exercise general supervision over the conduct of the department. The general set-up of the state conservation commission might well be used as a model on which the new relationships in regard to the department of agriculture could be formulated by the legislature.

The history of the bipartisan commission idea goes back several years.

When Murray D. Van Wageningen was governor he had a commission bill introduced in the house. Unfortunately farm groups had not been fully convinced. A Detroit legislator, serving as floor leader, sponsored the measure. The combination was not conducive to favorable action.

Rep. Maurice Post of Rockford introduced a bill whereby the state department would be supervised by the state board of agriculture, the governing body of agriculture, created for the Michigan Agricultural College, now Michigan State College.

The Michigan State Grange publication introduced a bill to have the commissioner of agriculture elected by the people. She felt that the commissioner should be a member of the state administrative board.

With three conflicting bills before them legislators could not make up their minds. And when the new commissioner of agriculture arrived to look over the problems and see what should be done.

In the 1943 session of the legislature the Michigan State Farm Bureau supported a house bill introduced jointly by Representatives Rodesier and Town, which would have created a bipartisan commission consisting of five members.

The term of office was six years. Of the members first appointed by the governor, two were to serve two years, two for four years and two for six years. The commissioners were to exercise general supervision over the department.

As in the case of the conservation board, the agricultural board would employ a permanent director of agriculture. The 1943 bill provided for a salary of $7,000 per year.

Compensation of the commissioners would be limited to $15 a day with a maximum of $225 a year.

Stanley Powell, legislative counsel for the farm bureau, reports that the 1943 bill was received with general favor by state legislators. However, legislation was being limited generally to war-time matters and action on the bill was delayed so long in the session that its sponsors decided to await a more opportune time.

This particular legislative reform is favored by Mr. Powell for several reasons. His father, Herbert E. Powell of Ionia, served as commissioner of agriculture for three terms from 1921 to 1932. And it was the chief of Powell's conviction, at the conclusion of this service, that Michigan agriculture would be better off under a bipartisan commission than under the prevalent political turnover.

With staff service removed, inefficiency of patronage, the commissioner's chief office at the will of the holder. That subject, the commissioner to pressure from the governor himself and also from the governor's office. Such pressure may be good; it may be bad.

That the Michigan State Farm Bureau again will advocate this reform during the 1945 session of the state legislature is taken for granted by Mr. Powell, legislative counsel. Michigan legislators will not have to go far to study a bipartisan commission. Wisconsin adopted this system a number of years ago and the farmers there are said to be thoroughly in accord with it.

Calendar for December and January. DECEMBER: 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21. DECEMBER: 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31. JANUARY: 1, 2.

GREYHOUND will warm your heart to know that a service man or woman will be able to take that precious trip home—maybe a last furlough before sailing—because you planned your year-end travel in advance. You can help give the armed forces first call on seats when they need them—and be more comfortable yourself—by traveling early in the month, and by choosing mid-week days. It's wise, also, to take less baggage, and to be at the terminal well before departure time. Greyhound is going its utmost to keep wartime travel moving smoothly—and your continued good-natured cooperation will help buses serve more people better.
