No cake for Mary?
Governor Harry E. Kelly, at his desk in the executive offices of the State Capitol, turned to photographs on the wall of his six children.

"Can you imagine what would happen if those six children of mine were permitted to cut up a cake, each one taking as much as he or she would like?"

The governor paused to chuckle. And so did Rep. John Espie, chairman of the house ways and means committee, and Senator Don VanderWerf, chairman of the senate finance committee. They had been discussing the pressing problem of state finances with the governor. His simple parable illustrated the situation in easy-to-understand words:

"Well, Brian and Harry, the twins, are 13; Jean is 14; and then there are Larry, 10, and Roger, 8. These youngsters like cake, of course. They're healthy and hungry. I save a good-hunk what would happen if these five kids of mine each cut a slice of the cake and let Mary, the youngest, who is a mere 3-year-old, to take care of herself. There wouldn't be much cake left for Mary!"

It is the governor's observation that the problem of state finances is pretty much the same as the citizen's problem of household finances.

In a way, the State of Michigan is a "family." It has a problem of stretching its income to meet its needs. Sometimes it goes into debt. Sometimes it saves money for rainy days, such as those everyone expects after the war.

Here's the state financial problem, simplified in terms of a family:
Income for the present fiscal year (ending July 1) is expected to total $62.4 millions. Expenditures will total $33.6 millions. Thus the "family" may expect to have between 20 and 25 million left over by July 1—a tiny sum to help pay for some postponed improvements which, of course, are now figured, under present inflated prices, to run a good $80 million. (Chairman Espie says $60 million by last year's conservative estimate and are stated prices, to run a good $80 million.)

(Chairman Espie says $150 million are needed to fill the state's needs.)

Watch Your Kites, Boys, Please

Spring is the traditional season for kite flying. When the youngsters—chiefly boys—thrill the tugging of kite strings in the blustery March winds, some of the hazards of kite flying are obvious, particularly to adults, but they may not be to children especially those of kite-flying age.

A good kite pilot always picks an open space for take-offs. He flies clear of trees, wires, etc. He avoids "crash landings" on roofs.

And because metals are good conductors of electricity, and a kite with a metal frame or metallic cord might come in contact with an electric line, the boy is urged to build his kite frame only of wood, and to use only cotton twine for kite string.

He is also cautioned against climbing poles to disengage a kite caught in the wires, or climbing a tree if it is caught in the branches. Falls as well as shock may result.

How Old Will Your Car Be When the War Ends?

Plenty! Advance reports show so many revolutionary ideas in the making that in a few years' time cars will look entirely different than the present-day models.

And as to performance — the post-war car, it would appear, will offer the ultimate.

So... do you really need a "new used car" today? How much will it be worth after the war? Wouldn't you really be better off to keep your old bus a little longer.

You'll save money if you let us keep your present car rolling 'til victory... and buy a new-style car after the war.

As teletype operator, he receives and transmits official messages from this station to other Air Force stations. The Corporal has served in the European Theater of Operations for 21 months, serving at P-51 Mustang, P-51 Lightning, and P-47 Thunderbolt bases. In addition to his regular duties, he was among those of the Light Air Force selected to attend an RAF Technical Warfare Instruction School, and received the highest final grades in his class. Spencer received his technical army training at Camp Murphy, Florida, Radar School, and San Bernardino, Calif., Radar School. He is also a graduate of the Midland Radio & Television School in Kansas City, Mo. Miss Dorothy O'Woodin, daughter of Mrs. Rose Woodin, of Teversal, Devon, England, and Corporal Spencer were married last July in Scunthorpe, Lincolnshire, England. Spencer was formerly employed by the Ford Motor Company in the valve plant in Northville. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Spencer, live on Sunset street in Northville.

I haven't been receiving the Record for the last three or four weeks so I thought I'd drop you a line and let you know. I have a new address, now that I'm out of the hospital. My new Company number is 27 instead of 123.

I'm feeling fine now and hope my friends back home are too.

I ran into Frank Deffro, Dick Green and Red Stenckle a few days ago. It sure was a surprise to me. I never expected to meet anyone from Northville in a big place like this. Will close now for it's show time.

Dick Ritchie, (Red).

Jack Zeller, General Manager of the Detroit Tigers, is cooperating with Allan & Locke Northville Ford Dealers in an effort to obtain baseball bats for Sandlot and High School Baseball Teams in Northville, and companying them in their efforts.

Boys, Mr. Zeller, will furnish Allan & Locke with a pad of passes good for any Tiger game except Opening Day and Sundays and Holidays. One pass should be given to the donor of one usable bat. These passes are for the reserved seats in the lower deck grandstand, and when the pass is exchanged at the ticket office, it will only be necessary to pay the tax and service charge which amounts to 35¢.

There is a shortage of bats for the local High school teams and also for our local sandlot groups, and those willing to bring in their bats anytime between March 26th to April 2nd to the Allan & Locke Sales room will be given the passes named.
