partment's method of fisheries research at Ann Arbor suspects it to be the sober truth. As reported in this column last October, findings of Dr. Albert Hazard, and other scientists tend to prove that the natural limit of food in lakes controls fish population. Since the food supply is limited, if fish are not removed from the lake, they will become stunted, too small for legal catches. Result: Fishing is poor.

Are Michigan's inland lakes under-fished and over-populated? This whole idea, radical and unorthodox, caused many legislators to wag their heads in doubt and outright incredulity in 1945 when a bill adopted by the state senate arrived in the house of representatives for committee deliberation.

The measure would have given the conservation department discretionary power to remove size and creel limits, if and when lake and stream conditions exist public for more than a decade.

And yet the conservation department, instead of fisheries research at Ann Arbor, suspects it to be the sober truth. As reported in this column last October, findings of Dr. Albert Hazard, and other scientists tend to prove that the natural limit of food in lakes controls fish population. Since the food supply is limited, if fish are not removed from the lake, they will become stunted, too small for legal catches. Result: Fishing is poor.

This whole idea, radical and unorthodox, caused many legislators to wag their heads in doubt and outright incredulity in 1945 when a bill adopted by the state senate arrived in the house of representatives for committee deliberation.

The measure would have given the conservation department disciplinary power to remove size and creel limits, if and when lake and stream conditions exist public for more than a decade.

According to old-fashioned concepts, fishing should be better if the longer fish were left undisturbed to grow up. Actually the opposite is true at Grousehaven State Park, since all nine lakes are in streams, but not more than one lake to any county. Then if results should be gathered to sustain the new beliefs, the legislature might consider extension to other lakes and perhaps to the entire state. So went the experiment.

Lending support to the research conclusion is the fact that fishing in nine Ogemaw county lakes at Grousehaven, newly acquired by the state, has been exceptionally poor. This condition was a surprise to sportsmen, for the lakes had been closed to the public for more than a decade.

Instead of fishing being better when Michigan service men come home, the opposite may be the case. Less fishing under present restrictions may have encouraged over-population, whereas increased fishing, perhaps liberalized as to size and creel limits, may actually make fishing better. It's a funny world.

Land inflation. Michigan farm land prices are already inflated, and war veterans are warned against the threat of postwar mortgage foreclosures when farm income drops. Karl T. Wright, farm management research specialist at Michigan State College, warns that farm prices probably will continue to rise until several years after the war. In the acre rose from $43.52 in 1914 to $69.38 in 1920 — a jump of 70 per cent. In this war, farm land prices have risen from $32.02 in 1939 to $47.41 in 1945, an increase of 52 per cent. The climb is continued at about 1 per cent each month.

Farm income. The cool late spring was one of the gauntles familiar to every farmer. And yet the federal state crop reporting service declares that the wheat yields should be 25 per cent above the 1944-45 average; oats 26 per cent above average; fruit crops less than half as large as last year's with the peach yield about average for ten years, although 35 per cent less than last year. It could be better, but it could be worse. With prices generally up, farmers will continue to have money in the bank.

The Michigan State Library Service announces it will establish small libraries at four Michigan State parks this summer: Higgins Lake, Bay City, W.W. Hayes and William Mitchell. That the state liquor control commission may be tightening up with drastic penalty for law violators is indicated by the six months' suspension of the de luxe Penobscot club, skyscraper rendezvous in Detroit. Governor Kelly, Mrs. Kelly and the "Kelly kids" prefer privacy of their summer cottage near Gaylord to the formality of the new summer residence provided for by the state at Mackinac Island. The Lapeer State Home and Training School was founded 50 years ago when John T. Rich of Lapeer was governor. Travel notes: More tourist travel in the Upper Peninsula is forecast for this summer by George Bishop, secretary of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau. Reason: Relaxation of gasoline restrictions. Half of the present number of Pullman cars and one-tenth of railroad coaches will be taken out of civilian use starting in August to transport troops headed for the Pacific war fronts.

Military training. A recent Gallup poll of public opinion reports that farm prices probably will continue to rise until several years after the war. In the acre rose from $43.52 in 1914 to $69.38 in 1920 — a jump of 70 per cent. In this war, farm land prices have risen from $32.02 in 1939 to $47.41 in 1945, an increase of 52 per cent. The climb is continued at about 1 per cent each month.

Young Folks Like Top Hat Canteen

Another Top Hat Canteen party was enjoyed Saturday night by nearly eighty young people of high school age. The date previously set for this affair was well in the future, but boys leaving soon for service caused a special demand for an earlier meeting.

Music was furnished by the Recreational orchestra and the decorations were top hat signs with "Teen Age" sayings. Sandwiches and cokes were the refreshments of the evening. Mary Ellen Babbitt was general chairman of the Senior Christian Endeavorers who put on the party. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Taft, Fred Casterline, Emily Santer, Marjorie Chase and Mrs. Osie Allen.

Winter Care of Tools Important.

Now is the time also to see that tools are properly put away, that they are free from soil. The spade and hoe can be sharpened ready to use when spring sowing time comes. If there is any indication that fertilizer or insecticides or fungicides will be scarce, the fall and winter months are good times to lay in a supply, for there is little or no demand for them now and they may be readily available. Put them away for use when you need them.

So the home garden program is to be a continuing program. Right now it is a patriotic effort to help raise the food on the home front so that most of the commercial vegetable raisers' produce can go to the war areas.

Even after organic matter has been worked into the soil, it is very desirable to apply more as a top dressing immediately.

Although good compost may be too rich for use straight in growing plants to harvest, it should not be considered as a fertilizer. It is most valuable for improving the physical condition of the soil for growing seedlings for transplanting, for covering rows of small seeds, for working into small areas of soil that are especially unfavorable, and for preparing small plots for special purposes.

Even after organic matter has been worked into the soil, it is very desirable to apply more as a top dressing immediately.

Edison Plans for Veterans

Plans for the return of 1200 Detroit Edison employees on military leave from the Company have been completed. James W. Parker, President, announced to day, "and we are most anxious to welcome them back."

Our men recognize three simple facts," Mr. Parker said. "Veterans do not wish to be segregated and treated as a group apart; each veteran is an individual in his own ambitions and hopes; while immediate reemployment is vital to him, he is more concerned with the years ahead.

In a message to each employee in the service, the company is now advising that he will be restored to his former position or, if qualified, to the position to which he would have been raised by promotion had he not been away. His wage rates will increase raises granted to his job while he has been in the service.

If the man's position has been discontinued, the company will endeavor to find another position of the seniority status and pay benefits & immediate vacation with pay & sick leave benefits will automatically be restored.

Other benefits such as additional insurance and hospital and surgical insurance coverage for the family, will be available to him if desired.

The company has selected James F. O'Brien and assigned him to the employment Bureau as veterans' coordinator whose full-time job will be concerned with restoring veterans to their former jobs and assisting them in solving any individual readjustment problems which may arise. Mr. O'Brien has a long background of service with the company and is a veteran of World War I.

He can't ask you now!

• • • He's an American hero. After fighting bloody battles in the Pacific, he was home on leave two years ago.

• • • We can't let him and all our other fighting heroes down. Remember, last year we had two War Loan Drives by this time.

• • • You may remember seeing his picture. His name is John Basilone, Marine Gunner Sergeant. He traveled all over America, urging every American to buy more bonds.

• • • We must meet it—we will meet it—for the hero of Iwo Jima, for victory, for pride in America.

• • • He said: "You don't know—you can't know—how much it means to the boys out there when they hear the folks back home have just put another War Bond Drive over the top."

• • • They gave him the Congressional Medal of Honor and offered him a commission. He didn't want it. "I'm a plain soldier," he said. "I want to stay one."

• • • Well, he stayed a plain Marine—like Joe and Bill and the fellows down the street. He can't ask you to buy bigger bonds during the Seventh. He was killed a few weeks ago on Iwo, just after he had led his assault team to the edge of an airfield we needed desperately.

• • • The Seventh is our personal call to arms—two drives in-one. That's why our quota is large.

• • • We must meet it—we will meet it—for the hero of Iwo Jima, for victory, for pride in America.
