What else have you got for him... beside those big plans?

There's your son. Proud of him? Sure you are... and you've got big plans for him, too. But plans alone are not enough. A little cash is going to come in mighty handy to a young man starting his career in 1945. Maybe those dollars you put aside now will give him a better start than you had. Maybe they'll help him get the extra training he'll need to be a doctor or a lawyer or an engineer. Surely they'll help him through the first tough time when he's "on his own." He's your son... his future is yours. Back that future with series E War Bonds.

We Need More Servicemen's Pictures

We can use more pictures of servicemen from Northville and the neighboring community. If parents or friends of these men and women will bring them into the office, we will be glad to publish them. The photographs will be returned after publication and any clear snapshot or photo is suitable. If you have brought a picture of a serviceman into the office, please bring it in. We have several pictures here and would appreciate any more that you could bring.

The American Legion Digest

THEY ARE NEITHER TOO YOUNG NOR TOO OLD

One of the popular songs of the World War II period has been the lament of a girl too young to love and a boy too old to be loved. She looked the field over and found no one who might be interested in her. He looked the field over and found no one who might be interested in him. The American Legion is the answer to this problem. It is a place where young and old can meet and find each other. It is a place where young and old can find a home. It is a place where young and old can find a family. It is a place where young and old can find a future.

If you still are in the habit of not having inflation, ponder this:

Michigan state banks are bulging with money. Savings deposits of individuals have soared during the past four years. From June 30, 1941 to June 30, 1945, from $448,760,810.29 million dollars. Total deposits are now 2,103 millions, of which 1,388 millions are invested in government bonds and 425 millions are in cash due from other banks and reserves from federal reserve banks.

These figures, as they have been and are being officially by William Nelson, state bank commissioner at Lansing, attest to the degree of inflation which exists in Michigan today. Add to this the many millions of war bonds purchased and for them. Automobile drivers must bring their cars to a full stop ten feet behind a school bus loading or unloading pupils.

Counterfeit food stamps are blamed for part of Detroit's current meat famine. The 1943 production of corn, oats and grain sorghums is now indicated to be the smallest since 1941. A bumper crop would be required to permit expansion in the numbers of hogs, larger production of poultry and feeding of beef cattle to heavier weights. Michigan peach prospects are good and a better yield than average is in sight.

If you think the 1945 summer is cool, remember 1944 which was the eighth warmest year recorded in Michigan for 81 years. The most snow, 11.6 feet unmelting, fell at Ironwood. The greatest snowfall in the lower peninsula was 87.7 inches at Bloomingdale, Van Buren county. Michigan's weather is reported by 145 observers from all counties in the state.

As free competition disappears from our economy, its place is inevitably taken by government regulation. Complete disappearance of free competition, then, means eventually complete regulatory control by the state with all the dangers that implies to the continuance of the ideals of American democracy.

held by Michigan citizens, and you get a fairly good idea of the tremendous accumulation of buying power which could burst like a tidal wave upon Michigan's retailers after V-Day. It is the present threat of MORE inflation, and it poses a problem to all thinking Americans who don't want to see their investments devalued and possibly wiped out by sky-high prices.

In the average agricultural state, such as Iowa and Nebraska, the wartime increase in individual savings deposits has been moderate, said Mr. Nelson.

Michigan's concentration of war industry activity in part for Michigan's savings boom. I do believe that Michigan farmers, handicapped by the depression, are not cash-rich, but that farmers in other states. Official banks show substantial increases in savings. Farmers are cash-rich.

Nelson pointed to a Babson savings index, national in scope, which showed 50 for the low level of 1933, 100 for the 1939 boom peak, and as of Jan. 15, 1945, the record-breaking high of 1944. China's 100 index of Michigan bank deposits supplied by its department, Nelson said, "Michigan's inflationary trend has been practically continuous since Pearl Harbor."

recall the long depression with bread lines and hard times and are going to pay off their debts now, hold on to war bonds and bank deposits, later. While some people may squander their money foolishly, there is a growing feeling of security.

Officials with charge of the state prison at Jackson, as directed by the state correction commission last week, following Attorney General John D. Edwards' sensational disclosure of maladministration, brought up the authority of the governor's appointive state boards.

The new creation of the correction commission gives the governor specific power to suspend any board for cause established by the Michigan General Statutes.

Edwards, the governor, who was to be heard by state officials pending a hearing of grievance. On the other hand, Edwards is a push for the correction commission hadn't acted. Governor Edwards had done so.

Considerate folks make GOOD RURAL LINE NEIGHBORS

YOU may be sharing your telephone line with more of your neighbors than ever before because so many additional rural families now have telephone service and because war has taken the materials needed to add enough lines.

But if everyone will "pitch in" with a friendly spirit of consideration and co-operation, you and all your telephone neighbors will get better service.

May we suggest that you keep all calls short... that you do not listen in or interrupt when the line is busy... that you be sure to hang up your receiver. One receiver off the hook can tie up your whole line.

Vitamin-Enriched Pork Shown Feasible

Proper Feeding Will Add Vitamins to Pork

By W. J. DRYDEN
Research work at the Washington State experiment station has shown that it is not only possible but entirely practical to increase the vitamin content of pork with selected feeds.

Subsidiaries of vitamin B₁ and vitamin B₂ constitute the most widely spread human nutritional ailment in the United States. Pork is recognized as one of the richest sources of vitamin B₁ among the natural and universally consumed foods.

The experiment showed that corn plus properly used hog feeding will result in pork rich in the vitamin. There is no reason to doubt that other special markets may be developed, according to the vitamin-rich

Feed hogs enriched food.

Pork, because of its enriched vitamin content, has been a popular food product for many years. At the start, the demand may be limited to hospitals and others who are willing to pay a premium for an enriched pork product.

On a fresh basis, the ham and loin were found to contain the highest amounts of vitamin B₁, followed by shoulder, heart, liver, and kidney. The liver has the highest riboflavin, followed by heart, brain, shoulder, and loin.

Jeeps for Farming Will Be Available

In tests conducted at state colleges on private farms and at the factory, the military jeep has been shown to be a most efficient vehicle for most operations.

The jeep, which will do about anything that a light truck and tractor will do, it can be used for delivery purposes, or for plowing or other farm work, such as discing, drilling, logging, harrowing and the various transportation jobs found on the average farm.

Preventing Odors and Garlic Taste in Milk

To prevent the milk showing a garlic or onion taste or odor, it is necessary to follow these rules carefully:

1. Clip the teats with a mowing machine before grass is pasture high.
2. Graze the pasture lightly with young and dry stock.
3. If cows are turned on the pasture immediately after milking and removed four hours before next milking, the trouble will be largely eliminated.
4. After bringing the cows from the pasture, give them a light feed of dry roughage.
5. Keep the cows outside the milking barn until just before milking time.
6. Cool the milk promptly after milking.

"Dreading washday is a thing of the past"

"How I used to dread washday! And all the time I didn't need to, for the all-electric laundry was proving its worth in thousands of homes. Then, just before the war I bought an all-electric laundry. And ever since, washday has been so simple there is nothing to it!"

"To think of the time-consuming, wearying work I used to do that was unnecessary! There was the drudgery of handling the clothes through soaking, washing, rinsing and wringing out, then the jobs of hanging them out to dry, and gathering them in and ironing the lot by hand. And the buttons that were torn off... and broken... and lost! Well, those days are gone forever. Now I simply put the clothes in the washer, and go on about my business while the washer goes on about its business. Later I transfer the damp-dry clothes to the dryer—the only time I touch wetness—and in about 15 minutes they're ready for quick handling on the automatic ironer. My soapy-handed friends are awaiting the day—not so far off now, I fear—when they, too, will no longer dread washday."

Former teachers, pupils and friends of the old East Novi District school are again reminded of the annual reunion which takes place this year on Saturday, August 4, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Lapham on Haggerty Highway. A basket lunch will be followed by an afternoon of visiting and reminiscing.

Mrs. D. J. Cobb of Grace Ave. is enjoying ten days' vacation from her job as saleslady at the Brader store.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Jund and family of Randolph street have purchased the Edward Musolf property on Grace Avenue and will take possession of their new home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Jund and family have moved into the former Dr. F. M. Atchison home on Fairbrook Road which they recently purchased.

Harry Wagnerschlutz and G. V. Harrison were elected to the Board of Control of the Northville Exchange Club last Wednesday.

Another son of the Alfred Parmenters of Orchard Drive, Lawrence, leaves soon for service. Laurie and his wife (Lucille Price) and their small son, Garry, have been living in a home they purchased at Plymouth and are. Other Parmenter boys in service are Alfred, Ray and Robert.

Mrs. G. H. Garfield of Detroit broke her left leg while visiting here with her sister, Mrs. Mina Taylor of Jackson Avenue one day last week. Mrs. Garfield is doing nicely.

Dick Allan was presented with a bouquet honoring his birthday at the Rotary Exchange. Lunch was served Wednesday. Dick also came in for congratulations on his attendance record.

Guests at the Exchange - Rotary luncheon Wednesday were Horace Johnson, Ralph Smith, Ted Covell and Greg Clemons, all of Plymouth.

American Legion

who served in both the Spanish War and World War I, and who were leaders among those who built the Legion.

A generation later, we find many War I veterans also serving in World War II—and some of them have given their lives in battle. They are found among the enlisted men and in the commissioned ranks—in every branch of the service, and in the "battle lines" as well as on the desk jobs.

Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, who was one of the American Legion founders, died on duty in France.

Brig. Gen. Jack McNair, a past national commander of the Legion, was wounded in New Guinea, recovered, and returned to his command.

There have been almost a score of generals killed in action as of this date, and their services stemmed back to War I.

General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and Admiral Earl King, top man in the Navy, were War I officers.

Generals Eisenhower, Bradley and Patton, and other leaders in the European theater, were also War I officers.

Generals MacArthur and Vandenberg, and Smith and Brucker, and others of the Pacific theater, were Army or Marine Corps officers in War I.

The Navy's Admirals Nimitz and Halsey, and Muschler were War I officers. And so were Generals MacArthur, Spaatz, Brett, and Doolittle and others of the Air Force.

These leaders are neither too young nor too old for the service—or for the Legion.

A Familiar Situation

It is astonishing that there are some who will fail to remember that in the family circle, in the church, in business associations, and in all sorts of service clubs, has never been old.

lodges and fraternities—as well as in the armed forces—age and youth get along swell together, and by the combination of the experience of age and the drive and enthusiasm of youth, are able to cooperate for the accomplishment of great things.

It will be the same in the American Legion. Age will give way to youth, which will itself eventually become age and will themselves have taken over the Legion completely.

As the elder partner in a business enterprise gives way to the younger first in positions of executive trust, then in management, and finally in ownership—so will the War I group in the Legion give way to the members whose eligibility has come from honorable service in World War II.

The so-called "old timers" in the Legion know that to be true. They realized it when they voted in convention to open membership to War II veterans.

We Didn't Change to Die

The Legion could have chosen to "die" as did the G. A. R., and had its strength fade, its property dissipated, its prestige dissipated, and its programs for a strong and united America become only dim memories.

But folks don't quit. "Being quit" as early as was the case.

When full beans went out of fashion and men looked younger, they began to "think younger."

Fathers found companionship with their growing and growing sons, in the fields and so on, on the golf course, in the market, in the trade and commerce.

There are a lot of the "elders" with these youngsters, their own sons, and they are not too young nor too old for the service—or for the Legion.

FOLKS By E. M. Brunkerhoff

"They're staying home every night and saving their money for a 'W' bond."

So when the Legion invites the War I folks to come in it does so with full knowledge of what it means. For it has already been through its youth period. It does—generally—remember that youth wants, and it agrees that these wants are the natural outgrowth of youth and should and will be provided.

Youth can't know about age, because it hasn't experienced it. But it has been through a war, and it has learned that numbers, plus vision, can win them their objectives—other things being equal.

Invasion Is Welcomed

The present American Legion, cut out of an original force of approximately five millions in the first World War, fully realizes what will happen when it is "invaded" by the representatives of an armed force totaling approximately fifteen millions.

The youngsters will take over.

The American Legion knows that all the time it knows it when the youngsters come in. With it men and women as well as it does now. But the Legionnaires also knew that an organization which had served God and Country as well as the first war, would have to be able to serve the second war.

Some time in conflict with equal care that both the veterans and the nation should be served, ought to be maintained to continue that service after the present war.

Legionnaires are so proud of America as warriors in battle, the accomplishments of youth, so certain of their devotion to national welfare when the fighting is over, that we have no fears as to the future of our organization and our nation when they shall have become the defenders and protectors of the people as American Legionnaires.

A near-sighted man had lost his hat in a high wind, and was chasing it briskly. Several times he almost had it, but always it was whisked away again. Presently a woman called from the door of a farm house: "What are you trying to do?" "I'm trying to get my hat," the man replied. "There it is, over in the fence corner. Go and get it, and quit chasing that hen around."

The man who says he would rather have a tooth pulled than sit for a photograph means it just as sincerely as a girl means it when she says: "Oh, no, don't call a taxi. We can ride in a street car."

Jasper (in book store): "Have you 'Lamb Tales'?" "New Clerk." "This is a book store. Try the meat market next door."
