

NEWS OF MEN AND WOMEN IN UNIFORM

PICTURES WHICH APPEAR IN THIS WEEK'S RECORD

The three servicemen's pictures which appear in this week's Record are the grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Huebler of Northville Road. Jack W. Huebler served with the Navy, and at present is taking his basic training at Sampson, New York. He was one of this year's graduates from Plymouth High School. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huebler reside on Perry Road, Plymouth.

Sgt. Donald J. Huebler is at present studying radar at Norman Field. He entered the Navy in January 1943 and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huebler reside on Perry Road, Plymouth.

D. Huebler, a Marine, entered service January 1943 and at present is serving in the air warning service in the South Pacific.

V. D. Huebler, a Marine, wants to take the type writer at his leisure to write a few lines to all of you there and to thank you for seeing that I get the Record. Which I, as many other boys here in the PTO and South Pacific, enjoy receiving.

It is swell getting the low-down on the present locations of several of our service men. I must say as for me, the first part of your paper I give the once over is the column for boys and girls in service. I find out where lots of them are and how they are.

Some is good news and some bad, but by the good grace of our Lord, the good news is plentiful.

I think, and I hope it stays that way.

Well, as for me, I am in Germany and more or less sweating it out coming back to the good old U. S. The sooner the better.

Named for His Majesty's gallant Australian ship CANBERRA, which was sunk by enemy gunfire in the Battle of Savo Island on August 9, 1942, the U. S. S. CANBERRA went through 18 separate engagements between February 14 and October 13, 1944, materially helping to avenge the loss of her Australian predecessor.

Nor was she "out of action" entirely by the Japanese torpedo whose launcher was crashing down in flames. Even after that, her anti-aircraft gunners continued to shoot down Japanese planes, and she served commendably, while torpedoes 2,000 miles to an island repair base, in what came to be known as the "Steamlined" Boys' Group of the Battered Remnants of the Blue Fleet.

Captain Alexander K. Early, USN, of Washington, D. C., commanded the U. S. S. CANBERRA from the time of her commissioning until shortly after her return to Boston for permanent repairs, and he was awarded the Navy Cross for his part in saving the damaged ship and bringing her to port. Soon, the reconditioned cruiser with the latest guns, radar and other equipment, will sail once more from Boston, this time into peaceful waters.

She is now under the command of Captain Russell M. Ihry, USN, of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Monrovia, California.

Serving aboard the U. S. S. CANBERRA at the time she was hit at Formosa and during her subsequent voyage back to Boston was Lloyd Coleman whose home is 4014203 Neeson street.

This is the fifth annual Girls State to be held and the girls were sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, the Northville Women's Club, and the Northville Mothers Club, respectively.

Johnnie Tuck was chosen as reporter for the Connecticut Colony of which she was a member.

Yours truly, Cpl. A. GADOLINI

P. S. They gave me a rating. I guess they are trying to bring me into staying in this army. No dice.

Pvt. Pete Spagnuolo was home for the weekend from Fort Sheridan, Illinois, visiting his folks.

M. and Mrs. John Spagnuolo of East Main street and his brother, T. J. Joe Spagnuolo, who is in the Army Air Forces, are members of the Deck Force on his ship.

Pvt. Orville Lyke recently inducted into the service is at present stationed at Sheppard Field, Texas. Orville graduated from Northville High School in 1941, and is the husband of the former Diana Matthews and the father of Gerald Aiken. His parents, the Burly Lykes, reside on Base Line road.

Mark Yandell whose home is in North Carolina and Guernsey, son of Maryland, stationed in Dearborn at the Naval Training Base, were again week-end guests at the Gross home on Nine Mile road. The young men who have often come here spent most of this visit assisting their host in painting the exterior of the Gross home.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Balko on Base Line road is a happy place with the arrival of both their service sons, Sgt. Harold and Lt. Elmer from overseas.

Sgt. Nagel Poeta has been transferred from Camp McCoy to Fort Benning, New Mexico. Nagel returned to the States in July from seven months overseas.

Camp McCoy, Wis.—Arrival of Sgt. Donald J. Lanning Northville at Camp McCoy's personnel center for redeployment was announced here today. Sgt. Lanning has served with 843rd Air Eng Sqdn. in England. He is the son of Louis Lanning of Northville and arrived home early this week.

Staff Sgt. Robert M. Those who saw believed there had been a terrific plane crash. Residents generally who felt the explosion imagined there had been an earthquake. Sgt. Hunter says the bomb weighs about 400 lbs. and that he has now learned enough about it to know that by its means, either the world itself or future wars must cease to exist.

The American Legion Digest

This column is edited and paid for by the Lloyd H. Green Post No. 147 American Legion of Northville for the information of the men in the service. Questions from Servicemen will be welcome and answered in this column.

The American Legion was convinced by wounded overseas fighting men of World War I, and its first foundation cause was held by members of the American Expeditionary Forces in Paris.

This history of the origin of the American Legion is familiar to old-time Legionnaires, but the story will bear retelling for the information of eligible veterans of World War II who can not be expected to be familiar with it, but who have every right to be curious about it.

It was midsummer of 1918, at U.S. Army Base Hospital No. 2 in Paris, France. Ambulances were carrying every few moments with new loads of wounded. Sergeant William Patterson, limping from a leg wound that was almost healed, was out for a walk. He stopped under the shade of a tree to rest, and was seated by another soldier patient of the same hospital who had a mending machine gun wound in his knee.

Sergeant Patterson's hand rose to a quick salute, for the other soldier who had greeted him was an officer. It turned out that he was Major Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., of the First Division.

$9,000,000,000-a-year demand for houses will mean jobs in steel, as well as in lumber and other things.

Needed: 5,000,000 refrigerators. Result: Jobs making steel for them.

New Rails for the railroads' postwar program. More jobs in steel!

What's the Chance of a Postwar Job—in Steel?

HOW MANY jobs will there be in the steel mills for returning veterans and war workers? No one knows exactly. But this much is certain:

Plans have long been made to meet quickly after Victory the tremendous pent-up demand for goods—and it will be out of production to meet this demand that jobs by the thousands will come.

Consider a few of the facts. The steel industry, face, right now, an accumulated demand for more than 600 articles of iron and steel that have not been made for civilian use since 1942—including an estimated 23,000,000 radios,

5,000,000 refrigerators, 3,000,000 washing machines.

Postwar building is expected to run to 9 billion dollars a year. There will be an immediate need for at least 7,000,000 automobiles to replace those junked since the war began. The rebuilding of European countries will open a tremendous market for American steel.

Over and above this, will be the demand for steel in new products—planes, deep-freeze units, air-conditioning equipment, television receivers, and hundreds of other devices grown out of war discoveries.

And all this will result in countless jobs—for demand for goods makes jobs.

Now that Victory has been won, the steel industry and other industries will put into operation their plans for the jobs and opportunities all of us want.

Who Makes the Difference?

The American Legion knows that when one has taken the oath in the armed forces, he ceases to be a free agent. He no longer has the right of independent personal decision. He must go where he is sent and do what his superiors decide he must do to fit in.

It has frequently happened that a soldier, sailor, marine, aviator and student for overseas service, and well trained for duty, is retained in the United States in the role of teacher, teaching others how to save their own lives while defeating the enemy in battle. Would anyone declare this "training contract" to be less patriotic or less important than that of (for instance) the soldier assigned to dock duty far from the fighting front but also doing a necessary work in unloading cargo freight at some overseas port?

As the air forces test pilot who flies a new and untried airplane five or six miles into the stratosphere in an experimental flight performing a less hazardous or less patriotic mission than another who has been past the three-mile limit on a routine

Biggest Overseas Organization

The decision of The American Legion was that the important thing was a person's willingness to serve honorably and well, and that there be no difference between the service at home and service overseas as the basis of eligibility for membership.

This decision was approved by the overseas service men and women of World War I. Indeed, for the following World Wars these were the results.

Although not an overseas veterans organization, The American Legion numbered approximately twice the total membership of the largest national organization whose membership was confined to overseas service.

(b) There were five times as many disabled veterans who held membership in The American Legion as compared to the total membership of the largest national organization composed exclusively of disabled veterans.

There are no problems peculiar to the overseas veteran that The American Legion does not and can not understand. It may be noted that every national commander of The American Legion in these war years of World War II was an overseas veteran—and most of them in post-war as in overseas service.

Leaders Are Overseas Men

Let us check back through these 1000 war years and see who those national commanders of The American Legion were, and the measure of their overseas service.

Milo J. Warner, national commander 1940-41, as a regular army captain commanded a battery of the 26th Field Artillery in France, saw action in the battles of Champagne, Meuse, Alsace-Moselle, and Germany, and at Ia Clartel. He was returned to the United States for a long period of hospitalization.

Lynn G. Stumbaum (1941-42) saw 13 months of overseas service with the A. E. F. He enlisted as a private, 355th Field Artillery, was commissioned in France.

Ruth Waring (1942-43) enlisted as a private in the Tennessee National Guard, and rose to major. He retired in 1943, but in 1947 helped to organize the 2nd Tennessee Infantry, and as commander of the first battalion went to France as part of the

captain who served through the Meuse Argonne battle.Lesson Service Follows War ServiceUnlike some of the veterans organizations, The American Legion requires the possession of documentary evidence to prove that honorable wartime servicehad been completed. Usually this evidence is an honorable discharge from the armed forces.

Mr. and Mrs. John Colton of Plymouth were Friday visitors in the Ronald Lyke home.

Mrs. Beverly and James Eve-spent the week-end with their grandmother, Mrs. Oral Lyke of Detroit Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lyke

spent Saturday evening with friends in Manchester and visited

Sunday at the Rev. Stuart home in Dearborn.

There are no "memberships

at large" in The American Legion. In the Legion belong to a particular post of a particular community or a particular group.

The member does not find himself compelled to join the battle and is not obliged to do so.

Your choice of a Post

Your original membership in

The American Legion will, more than likely, be in a Post composed of people you have known long time. They may be other residents of your home town or have also worn the uniform while performing honorable service in the armed forces.

In these cases the membership may be in a Post composed of veterans of your regiment or division

or squadron men who have shared your experiences in camp and in battle. In some instances the Post you join may be composed of persons with a common business, trade or professional background and you will have known your associates in the Post before you join.

There are two facts to membership in The American Legion

that merit attention.

The first of these facets mirrors

the question, "What have you done?" and the answer must have been that you served honorably in the armed forces of the United States or as an American citizen served in the armed forces of one of our Allies, wherever you were sent or stationed, or you won't be in the Legion.

No "Honorary" Memberships

(The American Legion does not have and never has had any

"honorary" memberships. Wearing the emblem of The American Legion is assurance that the wearer has documentary evidence attesting to his actual service in the armed forces; there will be nothing about his service that will be in doubt.

The American Legion lives less in the past and more in the future with the conviction that where we stand and what we do in the present will have much to do with our welfare and that of our country in the future. And in the future doesn't mean just the next generation. It also means

one year, five years, ten years

from now.

One Army One Navy One

Legion

The American army is one

army, at home and abroad.

The American navy is one navy—the crew in the flattop of the coast of Formosa and the crew in the navy yard back home to which the flattop may return

for repairs from its battle wounds.

The American Legion brings together in one veterans organization those who served our nation. The Legion separates no brothers who saw service.

We know of cases where two or more brothers enlisted in the armed forces at the same time and place, but found that demands of the service sent one overseas and kept the other at home. Limited when they enlisted but separated by the dictates of war, they can again be united on the same basis of equality they enjoyed at the time of enlistment

through membership in the American Legion.

You'll Feel "At Home".

in the Legion.

Wherever you served in the armed forces—overseas in Africa,

Europe, Asia or the islands of the sea; on a battle wagon on the far seas, flying the "hump"

or on bombing missions over enemy territory; or at home in some camp, shore station or airfield, you will feel at home in the American Legion. Our eligibility basis recognizes the honorable service of those in the uniform, and blames no individual because he could not select as a brother the place where he was sent to serve.

If history repeats itself (as we are confident it will), that fine

sense of fairness which has made the overseas American soldier, sailor, and Marine beloved by those he has met in every land

where he has served, will manifest itself after World War II as it did after World War I, and overseas veterans' membership and disabled veterans' membership in the Legion will again

attract more numbers than do any other organization.

a distinction between classes of service though neither class had any choice in the matter of selecting where they should serve.

Employment of Handicapped

Both are an inducement for industry to hire handicapped veterans and a protection to both industry and the veteran; 23 state legislatures have now enacted second-injury fund statutes which in general require employers to pay women's compensation only for specific second-injury injuries.

The fund pays the additional costs of permanent total disability resulting from the loss of a hand, arm, foot, leg or eye, following a previous loss of one of these members or organs.

The fund is usually financed by payments of fixed amounts by an employer or his insurance company in the case of death of an employee saving no dependents. Freed from the fear of heavy permanent total disability charges in these cases, employers are much more willing to employ handicapped workers.

According to records submitted by the department of labor, the cost of maintaining second-injury funds is small; recent studies show handicapped workers are actually more efficient than normal employees and have a lower accident frequency.

Employers had been reluctant to hire these handicapped veterans lest they suffer second injuries, become permanently and totally disabled and exact employers increased workers' compensation charges.

States which have established these second-injury funds include Arkansas, Idaho, Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Utah, Arizona, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Maryland, Oregon, Tennessee, Washington and Wyoming. Wisconsin, North Dakota, Ohio and West Virginia have equivalent arrangements while California, Connecticut and Pennsylvania have such legislation pending.

Questions and Answers

Q.—Can the mother of an illegitimate child file an application for family allowance, if a soldier is the father?

A.—Yes, the mother may file an application for the child, but she must either have a court order declaring the soldier to be the child's father, or she must have a statement from the soldier admitting parenthood. She must also have a certified copy of the child's birth record. The mother herself is not entitled to family allowance.

Q.—Can a dishonorable discharge be changed to an honorable one?

A.—A former officer or enlisted man or woman may request a rehearing or review of his case before a five-member board in the war and navy departments. The discharge may be corrected in accordance with the facts. However, these boards may not change the sentence of a court martial.

Q.—Is there an artificial hand available that looks like a hand, and different from the ordinary "hooks" which are most common?

A.—Yes, the navy has developed an artificial hand, made of plastic, that looks like a hand and eliminates the necessity of wearing gloves. It has the consistency of pure rubber and is tinted to match the individual skin. It is operated by a one-pound cam mechanism hidden inside the hand, spring controlled and made of duralumin and permits natural movement of the fingers. Mechanism is operated by a tiny cord running up the arm and around the shoulders, controlled by action of the shoulder muscles.

Q.—I was in the regular army before the war and was discharged due to injury in December, 1940. I have since been working in a war plant and I have a pretty good business opportunity. Do I come under the G.I. Bill of Rights or have I waited too long after my discharge to apply for benefits?

A.—As long as some of your service was after September 16, 1940, you are eligible for G.I. benefits. Assuming you had either a dishonorable discharge, you may still apply for benefits, since the law requires they must be claimed and secured within two years after discharge, or the end of the war, whichever is later.

Q.—When a soldier's wife receives maternity care under the EMIC government plan, must the application be filed with the Soldier's Relief payment from the war department?

A.—No, the application should be filed with the state health department through the personal physician or the hospital.

Q.—May a young man marry while he is a cadet in the U. S. Coast Guard Academy?

A.—The navy department says that cadets are not permitted to marry until they have graduated from the coast guard academy.

Vets, Wives and Babies
Can Get Medical Care

Following through on a recommendation made by Congress, the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, announced that wives and babies of recently discharged service men, under certain conditions, are now eligible to receive medical and hospital care under the Emergency Maternity and Infant Care Program.

A service man's wife may now apply at any State Health Department for care for herself and for her baby after her husband's honor discharge from service, provided that at any time during her pregnancy, he was in the fourth, fifth, sixth or seventh pay grades of the service or was an aviation cadet. The same holds true in case the husband or father is promoted a prisoner of war, missing in action or dead.
