"So they say it can't happen here? Well, it is happening here, and it is happening right now!"

The "Country" Editor pushed aside a sheaf of galley proofs. The week's newspaper had not gone to press yet. It was after the holiday rush.

"And what are you alarming over this week?" we joshed in good humor.

"Just this," he replied with a glint of determination in his eyes. As he pointed to a copy of a daily newspaper on his desk. "Pure and unadulterated socialism, it is. The President's fact-finding plan for settling wage disputes between management and labor proposes the most dangerous and revolutionary idea to come out of Washington in a decade.

"Now let's look at this plan, and see what it would do to American business. When management and labor in an industry are unable to agree upon the workers' wage, the government would intervene and appoint a fact-finding panel. This panel would have the legal right to inspect books of industry and to find out whether the company's profits were sufficient to warrant an increase in the workers' wage.

The UAW-CIO, you will recall, is now holding out for 30 per cent wage boost on the contention that the profits of automobile corporations are sufficient to cover the extra labor cost without any increase in price to the consumer. The issue is ability-to-pay.

The new directive of the U. S. Department of Labor says that if the panel finds that a company has ability to pay higher wages, the raise may be made effective at once. The company may apply six months later, or a price increase if it can prove that the wage rise has wiped out a certain margin of profit.

"What is the inevitable result of all this? Just one thing. Government control of profit. The government would fix the profit margin. The stockholder would get a fixed rate of dividend. The worker would get a share of the profits through increased pay.

Thus, you arrive at the first stage of state socialism: socialization of industry through control of profits. The next thing is inevitable, too. When profits are set by bureaucratic decree, then incentive for economy or efficiency is killed and the investor loses the incentive to risk his capital in the hope of getting higher earnings. That spells the doom of the free enterprise system. It dries up capital at its very source.

"Under the same principle of ability-to-pay the next step is also inevitable. Production would drop. Unemployment would follow. And then, the triumph of planned economy, nationalization of industry itself, whereby the government becomes the employer, perhaps through subsidized corporations. Along with this sure system of distribution—manufacturer, jobber, wholesaler and retailer—would be knocked into a cocked hat.

"A national economic council at Washington would fix prices, wages, profits and production. It would set the hours of work. Labor unions would have nothing to bark at. The government would decide everything. It would guarantee full employment for all.

Under the threat of national enslavement by our enemies in war, our government recently increased its control of our economic life. It became the largest landlord and the greatest owner of manufacturing plants in the country.

Legion Commander

John Stelle, ex-governor of Illinois, will serve as commander of the American Legion during 1946. With hundreds of thousands of veterans of World War II joining the Legion it becomes the largest organization in U. S.

It is a no stranger that was applied unemployment, that was accomplished. What the Roosevelt administration had consistently failed to do—provide jobs for everyone. We abolished one serious evil unemployment, or turning to another, and worse one, war.

Now faced with the prospect of a planned society in which the worker's wage and the stockholder's profit would be fixed by governmental decree, I am willing to concede that we should continue to have planned intervention in business enterprise. But I would like to have regulation by an impartial referee and not outright control by an economic dictator.

The Country Editor paused for a moment.

"I don't forget one thing more," he added. "Small businesses do not have the profit reserves which the big corporations possess. Small business cannot pay labor the wage scales possible through mass production economies. If government fixes wages for big business on a sliding scale, small business will be gradually strangled and finally eliminated. The margin of profit of a small business, as it usually is, is a country newspaper, for example, will know this. To meet the basic minimum of ability to pay, a yardstick for the small business is the cost of production. It is the end of the free enterprise system of manufacturing plants in the country."

finality, and then smiled. "I'm thankful for one thing, though," he added. "Congress is in session at Washington. You see, the President's plan is still a plan. It hasn't become a law yet."

A young woman with aspirations to be a singer, went to a vocal teacher for a tryout. The professor sat down and played a selection while the ambitious singer poured out her choicest assortment of notes. When all was over the professor swung around on his stool and said: "Ach! Never have I heard such a voice! I lay on der vate keys and I play on der black keys, but you sing in der cracks!"

Better Rural Service for More Rural People

You'll see two specific results come out of Michigan Bell's 5-year $13,500,000 rural expansion and improvement program:

First, it will make telephone service available to more rural folks. Second, there'll be a general improvement in rural service.

Thanks to new scientific devices and new construction methods, we are going to be able to reach into rural areas which have been too remote to serve in the past. Also, our liberal free line-construction allowance, and small monthly payments where construction costs are involved, will make it possible for more people to have telephones.

On the improvement side of the picture, we plan to build more rural lines and thus reduce the number of parties per line. Wherever practical, we are going to install dial service to increase the speed and convenience of telephoning. And we also are studying other ways of making rural service more valuable than it has ever been before.

We're glad our rural program is under way again. We had started it long before the war, but civilian telephone expansion had to be curtailed during the war. Now that we have begun to get the materials and manpower we need, we are going to push the job just as fast as possible.

There's a long list of attractive reenlistment privileges in the new Armed Forces Voluntary Reenlistment Act of 1945. The ability to keep your present grade is only one of them, but this privilege expires on January 31.

There are plenty of other reasons why many thousands of men have enlisted, and more thousands are enlisting every day. You'll certainly want to know all of the opportunities open to you. Oh "Leaping Lena" ain't what she used to be. One more bobby-soxer and Lena would give up with a well-earned wheeze and a sigh. Likewise, homes wired for yesterday's electrical needs are inadequate for today's electrical living. Yet many home owners have become accustomed to inadequate wiring—to frequent blown fuses because of an overloaded circuit. Making sure that your home wiring is up to date is your assurance of being able to use the electrical appliances you want in your home when you want to use them—where you want to use them. It means having your home furnishings arranged to suit your taste, with outlets always convenient. It also means that it should accommodate a new frozen-food cabinet, electric range, automatic laundry, electric dishwasher and many other electrical appliances. And, of course, if your plans for tomorrow include a brand-new home, adequate wiring is an "A-1" item to check in plans and specifications.

This is one of a series of advertisements prepared in cooperation with the electrical contractors in your area in the interest of insuring adequate wiring for every home. When you build or remodel, be sure your home is properly wired. For wiring recommendations, call your local Detroit Edison office.

LYKE-ODGERS

St. Paul's Lutheran Church was the scene Saturday evening of a beautiful candlelight wedding of Phyllis Lyke to James Odgers MM 2/c. The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. Rossow. Baskets of white flowers and red roses, lighted candles and palms flanked the altar, and Mrs. Florence Miller sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Miss Selma Schutte presided at the organ. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, J. B. Lyke, wore a gown of white tulle and a sweetheart neckline. A fingertip veil was caught to her head with a tiara and she carried a bouquet of white roses and white snapdragons. Her only adornments were a string of pearls with ear rings to match which were a wedding gift.

The bride's matron of honor was Mrs. Alvin Kalleen, who wore a gown of aqua blue satin and net. The groom's best man was Alvin Kalleen and ushers were Norman Witt and Lawrence Lyke.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Lyke chose a navy blue dress with a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Odgers wore a yellow dress with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the parish house. The young couple are spending the remainder of the honeymoon with their parents and friends in Northville and Belleville. Both are graduates of Northville High school, class of '43.

HERANVAL-MARLOW

At a beautiful candlelight service Saturday evening, Dec. 22, in the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Walter Hauke, at Walled Lake, Charlotte R. Heranval of Los Angeles, California, became the bride of Jack N. Marlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Marlow of Detroit.

Rev. A. F. Nelson of the Methodist church performed the double ring ceremony before the fireplace which was banished with palms, ferns and Christmas decorations. The bride entered to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March and was given in marriage by Walter Hauke. She was attired in a suit of gold wool with which she wore a corsage of red rose buds and carnations. The groom was in the uniform of the U. S. Marine Corps.

Shirley Gaunt of Walled Lake and Kenneth Charland attended the couple. Miss Gaunt wearing an orchid suit with a yellow corsage. The groom's mother was attired in grey, with a corsage of red carnations. Following the ceremony, a three course wedding supper was served to thirty guests, friends of Mrs. Hauke serving.

WRITES FROM SOUTH

A note received from Mrs. Willard Ely formerly of Church St., now residing with her husband and son, Kurt, in Dana, Fla., reads:

"The weather here is so lovely it's hard for us 'Michiganers' to realize it's so near Christmas. We sat on our porch last night and watched the eclipse of the moon. Today the temperature is 80. We have our antique shop opened new and the sign is being put up today so we should be in 'full swing' for the season. We are four miles south of Ft. Lauderdale and three miles north of Hollywood and on the Federal Highway so have plenty of traffic going past.

We see Dick and Sally Harnmester real often and Ted and Gladys Rheiner are here in Dana, also. Say 'hello' to our Northville friends and very best wishes for a Happy Holiday Season."

Tire-Tube Method Of Post Treatment

Life of Fence Posts
Extended Thirty Years
Fence posts of durable wood can be made to have 20 to 30 years of life, or even more, by the simple method of tire-tube treating. By this method the bark is peeled for a distance of 4 to 6 inches from the large end of the post, to provide a smooth, clean surface.

A section of old inner tube about two feet long is slipped over the peeled surface and bound in place. The post is then laid on a rack with the large end about two feet or more higher than the small end. In a short time the preservative, contained in the tube, will begin to flow into the sapwood of the post, forcing the natural sap out at the small end. When all the preservative has flowed from the tire tube into the wood, the tube is removed and the post taken from the rack.

The length of time required for the preservative to flow will depend upon quantity used; condition of wood, season, and other factors, and will vary from 2 to 24 hours. The preservative can be cut with creosote or mixtures of creosote with other suitable oils.

Grading Potatoes by Specific Gravity Test

Cornell Points Way to Mealy Potato Culling

By W. J. DRYDEN Farmers may stop stamping their potato bags guaranteed to be mealy, and thus secure a premium for quality potatoes.

Specific gravity, based on the dry matter content of the tubers, is the basis of this test, which makes it possible to sort the mealy potatoes from the ones which are less mealy or soaker.

All potatoes sink in water. By adding salt to the water, the water becomes heavier and the mealy potatoes float. There are the mealy and soaker ones. By having a solution of salt in water of a certain strength, the mealy potatoes will float and the good ones will sink.

Prof. Ora Smith determining the specific gravity of potatoes as outlined in this article. The method is simple and may be applied to the home, farm or commercial handler of potatoes.

size, each with a different concentration of salt solution, it is possible to separate an entire lot of potatoes of mealy, slightly mealy, mealy and very mealy potatoes.

For a quick differential, two solutions are cited. Potatoes that float in specific gravity 1.078 (22 ounces of common salt to 114 parts of water) are definitely not mealy. Those that sink in 1.078 but float in 1.082

Handy Band Cutter

Julia, her father called from the head of the stairs. Yes, father. Did I hear a smack down there just now?

If you did you're a wonder. I've been listening for one all evening, but without results.

2200 ounces of salt in 11 pints of water) are slightly to medium mealy. Those that sink in 1.082 are mealy. This would vary somewhat with the variety.
