Questions and Answers on the Zoning Problem

Continuing its desire to be of public service to the community, the Northville Woman's Club solicits questions from the residents of Northville pertaining to the coming ballot on zoning. These questions will be answered by members of the planning commission. No signature is necessary. Today's questions are as follows:

Question—If you now have a small machine shop on the back of your property will the zoning ordinance affect it?

Answer—No. All non-conforming conditions existing prior to the passage of the zoning ordinance are not affected. However, they are at all times subject to existing health and fire codes, and laws.

Question—I live in a section restricted to two family residences. On the vacant lot next to me, which is small, can the owner build only a two family residence?

Answer—The owner of the vacant lot adjoining may build either a two family or a single family residence as he desires, but nothing larger. If, as you say, his lot is small so that all types, shapes and sizes of 2 family dwellings cannot conform, he should discuss his problem with the Village Commission, acting as the Board of Appeals, and they will assist him in working out his proposed two family dwelling, so as to conform as far as possible to the ordinance, and not be a nuisance when built. All dwellings must conform to existing health and fire codes.

Proposed Amendments to Zoning Ordinance Projected by Commission

The Northville Village Commission has voted to place the question of zoning on the ballot at the election March 11, 1946. At present Northville is the only section in Wayne County that does not now enjoy the benefits and protection of zoning. Northville has developed over the past century steadily and desirably due to the foresight and influence of its old residents. However, a Detroit has been out and in and in the people have moved into this area, it becomes important that certain regulations be established to control the use of and building on property in the Village.

Three years ago a zoning ordinance was projected in the Village, but because of the conditions the time was not right to establish the ordinance. Northville because of the war time housing. The Village Commission now feels it is to protect the continued development of Northville, zoning is desirable, and it is the Planning Commission's duty to study the previous ordinance as projected and to adjust same so as to remove or amend all of the objections previously raised, as far as possible.

Candidates for Village Election File March 1

Indications Point to Candidates for Commissioners; President's Place has one Candidate

The atmosphere is gradually clearing in the area of Village politics as pertaining to candidates filing for the election March 11th.

It is generally accepted that the following have or will file by the end of the filing period March 1st. For Commissioners: George Locke Carl Schoutz, Jack Steuben-voll, and Luther Lapham. No candidates have appeared for the office of Treasurer and Clerk where Russell Clarke and Mrs. Alexander as yet have no opposition. For assessor Bert Stark states that he does not feel equal to the task of making the assessment this year, and as yet no one has filed. It is said that at least two villagers may file at the last minute if no opposition appears for that place on the ballot. At this point E. M. Bogart and former Pres. Du Hahn are said to have eyes on the job.

For President petitions were signed for Carl Schoutz, but were not filed. Today petitions will be filed for Forest Dorman for President of the Village. W. A. Ely states that while he appreciates the kindness of the many people who have urged him to run for President, he could not think of such because of the state of his health.

Benefits of Army Career Told by Colonel

Col. Walter Cole, in charge of army recruiting for the State of Michigan, was the guest speaker at the Rotary-Exchange luncheon last Wednesday. The Colonel spoke on the merits of "Compulsory Military Training." In his talk the Colonel referred to confusion of things in general, both at home and abroad, the ultimate result of apathy as a continued national policy. "Who can say," he asked, "that there will not be another war? He thought that commitment and the future safety of the nation demanded a concise policy which would insure a strong reserve in the military forces of the nation. He outlined the possibilities of military service as an attractive life career, that offered much in security, education, pay and retirement. He stated the country should give deep thought to present depletion of the military establishment of the nation.

Col. Cole's talk presented much thought and his audience, a group of some 15 men remained after the program to ask the opinions of the Colonel.

Mrs. Mary Wadsworth attended a wedding anniversary and visited friends at Windsor over the weekend.

M. J. Boelens is now able to be down town but still carries his arm in a cast.

"Greetings from sunny California—and it really has been sunny this winter. The much as I hate to say it, I hope we get some rain soon, because it's needed terribly. It will no doubt start raining soon and continue for a week, or more without stopping. We can expect rain anytime between December and April.

It has been very cold at night lately, and there is lots of snow on the mountains. In fact, some of our friends were snow-bound two weeks ago at Big Bear for three days. Isn't this a wonderful place, though—where you can stand in a summer outfit in the warm sun in February and yet see snow in the nearby mountains? A couple of weeks ago we drove to Palm Springs, and within the 300 miles we had driven through the snow-capped mountains, driving rain, and hot desert sands. Noire, no other place like this country!!!

I sound like I work for the California Chamber of Commerce, don't I? The real reason for this letter is to request the address of Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, in Eagle Rock. We Northvillites must stick together, you know!"

Sincerely,
MARILYN CASADY.

READ "Fabulous Florida"

by JOHN M. CARLISLE

John M. Carlisle, News roving reporter who covered the war fronts in Europe and battles of the 32nd in the Pacific, is now in "Fabulous Florida" which in his own words is enjoying the "wackiest and daffiest winter season" in its history.

Don't fail to read what he says about its hotels, motels, gambling palaces, dog tracks and crazy spending.

Michigan has its own "fun-up" girls this winter.

The war-time GI fad, the age-old recognition of feminine beauty as a masculine ideal, is a colorful and eye-ful feature of winter sports festivals in that spacious part of Michigan known as the "North Country."

Youth reigns at winter sports. There is the traditional queen, some pretty and winsome lass of the community, who receives a gilded cardboard crown at a shining glorified as the "coronation" ball." Some visiting dignitary from out-of-town presides at the ceremony.

Thus Michigan royalty is created amid Hollywood glitter and pomp.

The youngsters like it. And the grown-ups do too.

As a guest of the East Michigan Tourist association, we journeyed on a recent week-end in a chartered bus to winter sports centers in the northeastern section of the lower peninsula. And then to obtain a state-wide round-up of winter sports activities, we wired friends for additional information. Here's the 1946 picture as we see it.

The winter sport boom is fairly new. Grayling's million dollar park is only a few decades old. Capetoe and Silver Valley are by-products of the last depression when C.C.C. camps were located in federal forests. Other recreational developments are, for the most part, still in their swaddling clothes.

While winter sports appeal primarily to youth, they offer a colorful appeal to older people from the viewpoint of spectators. The gay, bright colors of winter sport attire, for example, constitute a tonic for the blues.

Handicapped by Michigan's short summer seasons, resort proprietors see an opportunity to extend the season past fall hunting time into an otherwise dull and unproductive snowbound period.

Our first observation, after visiting a half dozen winter sports parks, is this: sell yourself before you try to sell others.

Winter sports should be justified, in the beginning, as a recreational asset to the local community for use of its own people. The investment cost should be so predicated.

Take Grayling, for example. This sports park, readily accessible by train and highway, was developed and popularized by Grayling merchants and citizens. Without solicitation of Grayling promoters, the state conservation commission appropriated funds one year for the Grayling park maintenance, and it has been doing so ever since. Harry H. Whiteley of Dowagiac, veteran member of the conservation commission, made the motion.

We suspect that some Michigan communities, now trying to promote winter sports, have yet to sell themselves as a community asset. They are jumping into the field prematurely, utilizing press agency of balloons, too often induced by free food and liquor, in the hope of attracting city dollars of wealthy tourists. If the hotel rooms are frigid at night (as was our unfortunate experience at "Mire"), enthusiasm is going to cool—and inevitably so.

At Silver Valley, 16 miles west of East Tawas, the East Tawas citizens are planning a winter sports program that is bound to prosper. The county probate judge, a two-hour volunteer for toboggan duty, filled our toboggan as we dropped down into the chute on a breathless descent.

Cliffside, 12 miles of Cad (the M-55), is also the Silver Valley in the national parks system. Here is one of the finest areas in the lower peninsula, all types of skinned, semi and junior toboggan runs with a tow for carrying toboggans, and a fine community house where lunches and refreshments may be obtained.

Loma has its Barth's Brook Park west of the city on M-24. It has toboggan runs, community house for refreshments, Newaygo county has a winter sports park in "Little Switzerland" with a log community house, toboggan run, skating rink on the lake, snowshoe and ski trails, and fishing through the ice.

And then mention should be made of Petoskey's two ice rinks and toboggan runs; East Jordan's ice fishing; Boyne City's "ice village," largest in the nation; and ice fishing at Holland, Muskegon, Whitehall and Ludington.

In the Upper Peninsula the winter season is most ideal for outdoor sports. While the season below the Straits is at the best about six week-ends in duration, in "God's Country" from Sault Ste. Marie to Ironwood it extends into months.

PRESENT AND FUTURE... "Another glass of milk and I'll be there, pop," says three-year-old junior as he compares muscles with his dad, light-heavyweight champion, Gus Lesnevich. Gus was just discharged from service. He has announced that he will soon book fights.

Ishpeming's rebuilt Suicide Hill, for example, was the scene of a tournament last Sunday, (Feb. 24). It was at Ishpeming that the National Ski Association was born in 1904, and it is here that the 1947 national meet will be staged. Ishpeming has sent more riders to tournaments than any other ski club in the United States.

Iron Mountain's "Pine" mountain, highest artificial slide in the world, will be the scene of a tournament in March. The world record standing jump from an artificial slide—289 feet—was made here by the late Torger Tolle in 1941. Tolle was killed in Italy leading his ski troops.

Ironwood has its own winter sports queen, parades, ice revue, cross country races, down hill and slalom races, ski jumps.

At Sault Ste. Marie ice skating has become a year-round sport, thanks to a community house which offers an artificial rink for summer tourists. Every county in the Upper Peninsula has its winter sports program. Fifteen queens assembled recently at Houghton for selection of the "Queen of the North."

Blount Park, now open year round, has a novel "snow train" pulled by a tractor for transportation of winter sports guests.

Concluding comments: Winter sports can be made self-supporting after the local community undertakes the original investment. With good attendance, use fees are productive of income, and maintenance expense can be met without recourse to government. Short time vacations will pay dividends in health and dollars.

The mass meeting held last week to consider the Edison Electric company's proposition was fairly well attended, but the proposition to furnish juice to Northville and Northville people did not seem to create any favorable impression with the council or the citizens. Supt. Wilkinson figures that it would cost the village upwards of $500 more to light the streets and that 75 percent of Northville have to pay more for lighting their homes than at present. The Edison people would probably be willing to pay $40,000 for the Northville plant.

WHY WE HAVE BEEN ABLE TO REDUCE RATES AND YET
IMPROVE OUR SERVICE

You may wonder why we are able to reduce electric rates, as directed by the Michigan Public Service Commission, even while the cost of living is going up. Our answer is simple. It starts with a will to give you the best possible service at rates that are fair and reasonable. It continues with the cooperation of experienced and efficient employees. It includes planning and economizing on the part of management and engineers.

In addition, the combined savings brought about by a reduction in federal taxes and increased use of electricity contribute to this latest rate reduction.

In short, it is enterprise at work... enterprise with know-how and a goal. The goal is the best electric service in the world at rates that are fair and reasonable.

We have four new health posters which were sent to us by Mrs. Hoencke, our school nurse. Connie Ramshaw and Phyllis Becker made new decorations on the windows.

In our citizenship meeting we elected Robert Vismyak in charge of decorating the boards. Terry Gates is making a new picture for our bulletin boards.

Louis Vismyak, Billy Farkas and Roger Lyko were guests at our Valentine party last Thursday.

Our school was grieved to hear of the passing away of Zolie Vismyak's father.

Mrs. Dickinson gave us our report cards last Tuesday. All of us had pretty good marks.

The boys and girls who received a hundred in spelling for the past month are Terry Gates, Connie Ramshaw, Phyllis Becker and Zolie Vismyak.

Observing of Lent

The great period of fasting, Lent, begins on Ash Wednesday, 40 days before Easter Sunday, not counting Sundays. Lent was originally a period of only 40 hours. It was later increased to 30 days. Pope Gregory added Ash Wednesday to the remainder of that week.

The last seven days of Lent constitute Holy Week, starting with Palm Sunday. Passion Week precedes Holy Week. Mohammedans honor Good Friday as the birth of Adam.

Lent had its origin in a desire to commemorate our Lord's 40 days of fasting in the wilderness, and His temptation by Satan.

While our Lord did not command fasting, His teachings anticipate such an exercise of the soul on fasting days.

ton of Baltimore, Md., last week. As a former Navy serviceman stationed nearby, Mr. Henning was a frequent visitor at the Gross home on Nine Mile Road. Mrs. Ernest Wisler and son, Donald, of South Rogers street recently spent two weeks with Jack Wisler in Atlanta, Georgia. Don had not seen his brother during the four years he was in service, even though Jack's three years were also spent in the same general area — the South Pacific. KNOW YOUR SCHOOLS ARE NORTHVILLE TEACHERS' SALARIES FAIR?

In general, Northville teachers' salaries average $600-$800 less per year than Detroit teachers' yet living expenses in Northville are as high as those in Detroit.

Teachers often refuse to accept a Northville position because they can get from $100-$300 more pay elsewhere.

Do you know that some Northville teachers, who teach from 30-45 children hourly for six and one-half hours per day, are receiving an annual salary of $1600 or $33.50 per week "take-home pay" for 40 weeks after withholding taxes and retirement deductions have been made?

After paying board and room ($20-25 weekly in Northville) there is $13.50 to $8.50 left per week with which to: (1) buy clothes, (2) pay insurance, doctor and dentist bills, (3) contribute to church and community organizations, (4) take advanced training either during the year or in summer sessions, (5) save money to live during 12 weeks in the summer when teachers receive no salary (Employers are unwilling to hire teachers for the short summer period).

And for that financial return Northville teachers:

1. Forfeit one noon hour per week to supervise 125-185 children in the lunchroom, on the playground, and in the halls;
2. Spend time outside of the regular hours stated above to: Prepare Assignments, Keep Records, Correct Papers, Supervise Extra-Curricular Activities, Consult with Students and Parents, Attend Professional Meetings.

What do YOU think of this condition? Your comments and suggestions are invited.

WEEKLY REMINDERS

In answer to my critics, commentators, questioners, and suggesters: Several years ago, because of certain instances in life's journey, I prayed unto God and said: "Lord, I have many talents, and am very successful, in a material way, but these things do not satisfy the hunger of my soul. I long for other things. I long for another talent. It is my desire to be one of thy disciples, Lord, if you can use me, take me and use me. I give my life to you, and it is my desire to go just as far as it is possible for me to go. In the name of Jesus Christ I ask it. Amen."

Following this, I sought diligently, and prayerfully, to know what the Lord would have me do. I read the Bible and many religious books, tracts, sermons, discourses, commentaries, discourses, and treatises, written by church leaders, preachers, reformers, evangelists, and eminent men.

I would travel far and near to hear preachers, pastors, and evangelists who were conducting revival meetings. I would seek an interview with them; ask them questions; tell them of my desires; my resolutions, my covenant, or prayer; ask them what I should do; how I could best serve the Lord; but none of them could answer my questions, satisfactorily, or agree as to what I should do. This caused me to do some real thinking. The more I heard, saw, and read, the harder it was for me to reconcile their teachings, works, and conduct with the Bible and my conscience. I became critical, satirical, and sought an opportunity to do something big; my whole heart, soul, mind and being, revolted against their lightmindedness, their insincerity; I longed to expose their hypocrisy and insincerity.

After several attempts I discovered they would not reason according to intelligence; when truths, they would talk just to make a noise, so as to confuse the issue, and stir up the minds of their followers to heckle and insult a man whose object is to speak truth and expose falsehood and deceit.

In my boyhood days (from my elders, and the neighborhood delinquent children - taught by the example of their elders) I learned many bad and injurious habits, which, in time, deprived me of a healthy body and sent to a sanatorium for a rest cure.

While sojourning in the sanatorium I took an inventory of my past doings, and my future prospects; the sum total of which went into the balance sheet - in red. Now you gave your life to me, but instead of serving me you wasted it; so there is nothing to do but to cut you down.

I argued and argued; checked and rechecked - but the same answer.

Then I tried to "balance" the debit by reasoning into the argument the alibi that I had tried to serve, but could not find what I should do, and no one seemed to know what I should do. But this, also, went into - the red. "Why did you not ask me what to do, instead of seeking the wisdom of men and books?"

After much physical suffering, much reading, and more arguing, I made a proposition: "Lord, if you will heal my body I will again, try to serve you." He did. During my convalescence (while regaining my lost weight and adjusting myself to a new outlook - on life) I again took inventory of my experiences; compared the precepts in the Bible with the teachings and works of the religious leaders; seeking a solution that would sum up into a reconciliation, but all the answers contained a question mark.

They (the religious leaders) seemed to glory in mysteries, which not one of them understood, and then, with their private interpretations, shrouded the Bible with a mysterious cloak from which has sprung the various sects, denominations, parties, organizations, and divisions.

Then I set about to learn, if possible, the answer to the Bible's message. The religious sects had no logical answer; as they each interpreted the Bible so differently, and at the same time each one claimed to be right.

As the controversies were entered around, and about, the Bible, I sought from that source a beginning of my investigation. With a mind free from outside influences; without prejudice, and in the calm of my understanding, why did you not ask me what to do in the Bible? It did not take me long to find the nucleus of a solution.

I soon found that the Bible was made up of writings translated from the writings of other languages, and these writings, in foreign languages, were the product of several different men who had certain information which they wanted to record for the benefit of future generations, and future posterity, and that the information was never intended to be used as a meal ticket, but rather, by obeying the precepts contained therein one might learn how to obtain a meal ticket.

The Bible became to me exactly as its writers described it to be: a source of information with a preface, and introduction, an analysis, a diagnosis, a recipe, a sedative, and an antidote, a "Book of Books" with instructions written for all kinds of people; for those who have not heard; for those who have heard, but have not believed; for those who believe, but do not do; for those who do, but do not know the way of peace which leadeth to the kingdom of God, and eternal salvation.

The Bible said, to me: "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." I asked, and I found; I knocked, and it was opened unto me; I turned aside, as did Moses, and saw and heard; and when I felt the religious leaders of my findings they put forth as much effort to prove the promises in the Bible, as they did, previous to my findings, to prove to me that the Bible was true.

In trying to disseminate this kind of ministry I met with much opposition and enmity wherever I went. The preachers hated me, and were bitter in their attacks upon me. Some, openly charged, while others insinuated that I was a modernist, an atheist, a heretic, of the Bible, an enemy of God, and possessed of the devil. Personally, I was convinced that the message, information, voices, and visitations, that had come to me, were of the Lord Jesus Christ, and that his power had led me to the finding of his truths. But being fairly tolerant, with an open mind, susceptible to reason, facts, and truth; I turned the searchlight of investigation on the things I had received; listened to the opposition, and compared the whole with the Bible, the standard by which the preachers and professors of religion argued their point and measured their deductions.

After a careful analysis I could find no disagreement between what I had received and what the Bible said I would receive, on condition that I follow its precepts, and admonitions. Having settled this investigation to my satisfaction, I began meditating upon the whole, seeking to find some definite proof that the professors of religion were false prophets; and while doing so, a voice came to me saying: "Ask these professors of religion to show you a miracle."

One may ask: How can I know the truth of what you say? Any one will know for himself or herself. They will do all they know of, and keep such precepts and commandments as they are able to, and then, if they do not know what to do, and if they make use of those they will get still others until they all think they will know all things for themselves, the commandments unless they keep such as they already have.

If what I have written is true, then what I have written is true. And what I have written cannot do anyone any harm, for I have not told anything but what there is scriptural proof for. No one would be any worse off than they now are for as it now is, they all teach what they think is right and take, as they say, the scriptures for their guide and teacher. But anyone with intelligence would know that there is something wrong with their beliefs, creeds, dogmas, traditions, and self-made doctrines. Besides, they lay claim to having communion with angels, departed prophets, or with God the Father, or Jesus Christ. They say all such things are done away with and they now work by inspiration - inspiration is not revelation - but if one is inspired of God, and follows out the inspiration he will receive revelations, and not opinions or private interpretations.

As long as inspiration, revelations, and opinions crowd out the Holy Ghost, there will be division among the people; and just as long as the devil can cause division or disagreement, just so long will he keep the people out of the kingdom of God. It does not make any difference what the division or disagreement is about, just so there is not unity.

Whether I am right or wrong, if the people, or a group of people, will abide by what I teach they will be a happy and prosperous people, and the money they now spend to support teachers, preachers, and professors of religious organizations, and that have you, they can keep and use for their own progress and future happiness.

If I am wrong they still would be just as well off as they are now, for, as it is, everything is uncertain with them and they are all asking, or saying: I wonder what it is all about? I wonder what really is in store for us in the life to come? And the answers they have are so numerous and conflicting that if they are all true then that which is to come would indeed be hell for hell is a place of chaos and confusion; that is why so many are saying, we are living in a state of hell right here on earth.

But what I teach eliminates all of that. It creates real love for each other; brings peace and joy into the soul; gives a knowledge of what it is all about; fills the soul with a glorious hope; makes faith a reality; heals the heartaches; does away with poverty and sickness; and last but not least, it teaches, shows, and makes known what is to come, through personal experience. One does not need to ask another, or go to bed in doubt, for the visions of the future will be opened unto him or her, so each one can know for themselves. Continued - Next Week.

Veterans SERVICE BUREAU

EDITORS NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Veterans Bureau of Western Michigan, is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Administration Problems

While the Veterans' administration is still several weeks behind on various phases of its work, it has made tremendous headway during the past two months towards keeping its business current, according to Gen. Omar N. Bradley, director.

This tremendous agency is now handling the insurance, job training, farm, home and business loans, pensions and other features of veterans' benefits for more than 13 million veterans and a potential business of 20 million veterans.

To do this job it is short of office help in medical help and in staff. Its hospitals. Here are a few statistics as of February 1 showing for far behind schedule the administration is on handling its business - out of 500,000 applications for training under servicemen's readjustment act, 91,176 are in training; 233,81 have been declared eligible and the balance are pending; on 20 surplus, the department is about 20 days behind and is now handling direct premium payments on 1,078,712 policies with 10,337,738 policies being paid by all times; there are more than 2,000,000 disability claims on file with 1,507,000 adjudicated; 1,033,000 allowed and 438,000 pending.

This office has received scores of letters asking when they will receive pensions, when they will receive substance checks. To all such inquiries we can only advise patience, since we believe the VA is doing all it can under the circumstances.

Questions and Answers

Q. I have a brother in the army in Italy. He has been overseas 13 months. His parents are 65 years of age and have no one at home with them. Would it be possible to get him discharged because of his parents' age and health? If so, where would I write for permission? - A reader, East Lake, Minn.

A. As a reader for a "Model" discharge must be filed by the soldier in his own handwriting. It must not be typed or prepared by anyone else. It must be signed by the soldier, and the signature must be witnessed by two other soldiers. It must be filed with the commanding officer, who will forward it to the proper authorities for consideration.

Q. Where would a veteran find out the details as to where work of service-connected cases are able to make application for their portion of the pension when they are permitted to join their families? - Mrs. L. W. Omaha, Neb.

A. The war department has all such applications filed in one place with the soldier who filed the application with his commanding officer. I would appreciate receiving information concerning civilian occupations which may be comparable to assignments held by others, while in service, particularly that of a doctor. - C. P. E. Long Beach, N. J.

A. Your nearest office of the United States Employment service will have a list of occupations available. Q. My husband was a World War I veteran. I filled out a blank for pension - December 11, 1945. Do you know how long before I will get it? Will I get $45? How much will my two boys get, one 16, the other 14 years old? - Mrs. P. S. Milburn, Mo.

A. You do not give sufficient information. If your husband's death was service-connected, you might get $50 a month for the first child and $30 for each additional minor child, if not service-connected $35 plus $10 for the first and $10 for each additional child. If you have your claim and given all particulars, the Veterans' administration will determine the correct amount in due time.

Treat Frozen Combs Early to Stop Loss

Fertility Decreased If Males Are Victims

While prevention of frozen combs in the poultry flock is always the best cure, once this condition has been brought about every effort should be made to remove its ill effects.

When roosters are early frozen their ability to fertilize eggs is often greatly decreased or Rose comb roosters often prove more likely to suffer with frozen combs than single comb fowls.

In some cases entirely lost. At any rate, until the comb is completely healed, high fertility cannot be expected.

A more rapid recovery may be brought about if the frozen parts are amputated. Sharp scissors, razor or sharp slips may be used. This cut should be made in the un-frozen portion. No great bleeding, apply an astringent such as tincture of ferric chloride. It is usually necessary to remove the wattles as well as the comb.

Frozen combs and wattles can be prevented by dipping the cockerels in the summer when from 6 to 12 weeks of age, when loss will be negligible.

Before placing a cockerel or rooster in the breeding pen, it should be first ascertained that his comb and wattles were not frozen the previous winter, or that he has completely recovered. In many cases, it may be a wise move to market all males with frozen combs and wattles.

Improved Machinery

Combine can be made into a one-man machine by the installation of an electric harvester control placed on the market by the Gleaner Harvester Corporation, Independence, Mo.

The moving part of the lead screw which is turned by the electric motor. As this screw turns in either direction, a large nut follows it up or down, thus raising or lowering the harvester.

Proposed Zoning

have actually returned the use of the property to that which existed prior to zoning. Should they not so file, their intentions each year their property is subject to being changed to the zoning requirements for the area involved and shall be so changed back unless the Board of Appeals rules to the contrary after studying the conditions and reasons for non-filing for any one year.

Sec. 4.09 has been added to state that all lots now of record which do not conform in area requirement are to be governed as outlined in Sec. 4.08 of Article 11, which has been likewise changed so that the owner of such lots can meet the Board of Appeals and this Board shall work out with the owner an acceptable structure to conform as far as possible with the zoning requirements of that area. This was felt fair, but necessary so that the owner can have his building and at the same time not be permitted to have this building be a nuisance, health or fire hazard to those adjoining. The owner of the lot cannot be refused the right to build a structure on his lot, but he should not likewise, be permitted to create a public nuisance or hazard in so doing.

Article 6.08 has been added to require all multiple dwellings of three or more families, hereinafter erected to have parking space for the occupants' cars on the premises and off the streets. This was felt advisable so as to eliminate possible future congestion on the streets of any one area, should several multiple dwellings be erected therein. The proposed zoning ordinance is on file at the Village Hall in its original form, but it will be amended as stated above and rewritten after passage.
