

Strapped to Frame for Seven Years Now Cured and Home for Christmas

King's Daughters Plan Xmas Work

Once again residents of this community go about preparing for the holiday season. No doubt each and every one has placed on the top of his "things to do" list, the notation "help some one in need this Christmastime."

Just such an opportunity is offered through the Northville chapter of King's Daughters. This fine organization annually distributes necessities and comforts to the needy families in this area. If you know of any such, you may help make their holiday a happier one by furnishing names and addresses. Or, you may send contributions for the baskets of food, toys, warm clothing and other items which the King's Daughters present at Christmas time. The clothing and toys may be either used or new, providing each article is in good condition.

Any Northvillian who wishes to aid the King's Daughters in this holiday project may contact Mrs. E. R. Cavell, or Mrs. John Lisenberger.

Meeting in regular session Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jas. Congo, this organization made plans for their annual holiday work, including the furnishing of the welfare-wish for a good Christmas for several worthy families in the community, even a tree to be provided for each. Mrs. Geo. Alexander gave a report on the state convention of the King's Daughters which she attended late this fall.

Grade Pupils Offer High School Concert Dec. 11

Inspired by the holiday season to thoughts of sharing, boy-and-girls of the Northville schools are doing their bit toward helping less fortunate children.

The Sixth grade of the Northville schools put over a project this week which will add materially to funds being raised by the school children and faculty, for the purpose of purchasing pencils, paper and crayons for the school children.

Pupils of the Sixth grade of which Mrs. Ruthie Newton is teacher, put on a "migrant" show on Monday of this week, having selected to do what they can for the annual Christmas. As is the annual custom, the choir alumnus invited to join the show in singing "Spirituals." There was also a short program of songs.

At a regular meeting of the P.E. Teachers' Club, it was voted to contribute a substantial sum to the fund.

The other share-and-share class program being conducted throughout the Grade school here is the Junior Red Cross work, articles having been donated and boxes already packed for that purpose.

Every grade in the school is taking part in one or both of these projects.

Class Will Display Work

Serving as volunteer models for the charcoal sketching class, sponsored by the local Recreation committee, are the Wood twins, Barbara and Beverly, and David Pottinger. Only a few class meetings remain in the current series; they are to be held in the Scout building corner East Dunlap and Hutton, rather than in the Village Hall as hitherto. Mrs. Sober is instructor for this group.

Sessions are also almost over for the class in hat designing taught by Mrs. E. V. Ellison, in the Village Hall on Thursday evenings. Straws and shapes, veiling applications and arrangement of flowers are only a few of the lesson themes, each combined with a talk on the historical angle of the subject. Last week's lesson concerned the art of making a hat block from powdered asbestos. Some seven members have requested an advanced class in hat design, following the completion of this course.

Morrill Singers Here Next Sunday

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom will present the Morrill Singers of Detroit in a choral concert at the Presbyterian Church house on Sunday evening, December 7th, beginning at 8 o'clock. A reception for the singers will follow the concert.

Tickets for the presentation may be obtained at Johnson's Gift Shop or from members of the ticket committee: Miss Elizabeth Wickland, Mrs. Harold Hartley, Mrs. R. Lewis, Mrs. Donald Ware, Mrs. A. M. Voglin, and Mrs. C. E. Woodward.

Several members of the class are making sketches to use for Christmas cards. These will be done on large paper and later photographed and reduced to a suitable size for printing.

Beginning next Friday, December 12th, there will be a public showing of works completed by the various Recreational-sponsored classes. This exhibit will appear in the display window of Schrader's Store and may be viewed from that date through December 15th.

Appropriate for the holiday season and more especially to the Thanksgiving period just passing, is the story of the silver lining which lay just behind the dark clouds that have long darkened the life of a Northville woman.

Friends and acquaintances of Miss Cora Sloan will be happy to learn that she has received a discharge from Maybury Sanatorium, where she had been a patient for the past eight years. Ill with tuberculosis of the spine, Miss Sloan lay strapped to a frame on a hospital bed for seven years and remained a San patient for still another year. However, she has been pronounced cured of that disease and has gone to New Hudson, where she is staying in the home of Mrs. E. Balford. Miss Sloan spent a few days last week in Sessions Hospital, going in for a general checkup. She is now back in her new home, able to get about the house, though still rather frail.

Throughout her long illness Miss Sloan remained bright and cheery, being known as the "ideal patient." Even though troubled herself, she was thoughtful of others in adversity as evidenced by the great amount of knitting she turned out for the Red Cross during the war years.

Any Northvillian who wishes to aid the King's Daughters in this holiday project may contact Mrs. E. R. Cavell, or Mrs. John Lisenberger.

Meeting in regular session Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jas. Congo, this organization made plans for their annual holiday work, including the furnishing of the welfare-wish for a good Christmas for several worthy families in the community, even a tree to be provided for each. Mrs. Geo. Alexander gave a report on the state convention of the King's Daughters which she attended late this fall.

A number of Northville ladies tendered Miss Sloan a birthday dinner party on her natal date, November 27th.

Makes Memorial to School Band

As a birthday gift honoring the memory of his father Ed. C. Langfield, Con. Langfield presented a check of $250.00 to the Northville High School band for their annual Senior Prom.

The check was to be used in any worth project by the club. Remembering that E. C. Langfield was the father of Northville High School band and sponsored it for many years, the club voted to present the check to Ed. C. Langfield in increments for the band.

E. C. Langfield was a member of the Northville Rotary Club and president of the club in 1926. While attending a convention of the International Rotarian Club he saw high school bands that took his fancy. He returned to Northville, organized and sponsored the band for several years. The money will be used as a fitting tribute to the band.

The program will consist of varied and unusual numbers including a wide range of subjects and interests, many of the selectees having to do with Christmas. As is the annual custom, the choir alumnus invited to join the show in singing "Spirituals" will be the second moments.

Will Drill Test Well In Village

Monday evening at the regular meeting the Village Committee reports were heard from Recreation Committee, Chief of Police, Health Commissioner, Village Treasurer, and a cut throat made for the drilling of a test well.

A plot was selected and authorized to drill a 6 inch test well at the site on the corner of Seven Mile and Eaton Drive. The hope being that sufficient water will be found to answer the demand for residential water supply for the village. The site was chosen by the State and county engineers of the State and county engineer's office, and a plot of 15 feet by 10 feet above the water table.

Northville's Yesterdays

ONE YEAR AGO:

One hundred and fifty seven couples took part in the annual Senior Prom presented at the High school gym. Chinatown was the theme chosen for the dance.

The football squad and officials were guests of the Northville Exchange Club for dinner at the Methodist church house.

One hundred and ninety Legionnaires gathered at the Veterans' Memorial Hall for the 17th district annual convention.

The Boy Scout paper drive netted about 4½ tons of paper.

Janet Moody of Clement Road celebrated her ninth birthday with a party.

The Plymouth Rotary Club had invited the Northville Club to a venison dinner at the Mayflower Hotel at Plymouth.

C. E. Langfield sold the vacant lot on the south west corner of Main and Center streets to M. C. Gungell and Harry Himmelstreich.

Joe Brady, District Governor, made his official visit to the local Rotary Club.

FIVE YEARS AGO:

During the recent blackout here, the rules and regulations for proper observance of the black-out were carried out successfully and cheerfully by both residents and those responsible for carrying out the regulations.

One exception: One driver of a car, a local resident, was brought into court and fined for turning on the dome light in his car.

Fellowship awards in the Academy of Certified Therapeutic Specialists to 29 leading homopathic physicians throughout the nation were announced recently by Dr. Alvaro J. Shadman, president of the Academy.

Among those receiving the awards was Linwood W. Snow, M.D., 508 W. Main street, Northville.

Law violation and risk of insurance cancellation hung over the head of the motorist who undertook the storage of gasoline. Commissioner Oscar C. Olander of the Michigan State Police warned:

Much interest was being shown in the local artists' exhibit which was to open at the Library. George Harper, Mrs. F. D. Sober, Miss Rhea Lyon, Mrs. Naomi Geraghty, Robert Reed, Jane Ann Lanning, Rose Marie Edelmann, Miss Jo Ann Young and Charles Yahne were among the exhibitors.

TEN YEARS AGO:

Mrs. Carl Schoutz and her daughter, Marjorie, left for a two week trip east.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lyke were the parents of a daughter, Rose Louise, born Dec. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Zebina M. Hayes observed their 50th wedding anniversary in their home on Randolph street, the same home in which Mrs. Hayes' parents celebrated their 50th anniversary in 1863.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO:

Marvin, George and Henry Guntzeller and Will Schmidt returned from a deer hunting trip with a 39 pound boar as a trophy.

Mr. George Stalffer organized an evening gymnasium class for women at the High school.

Mrs. William Van Sickles' family surprised her with a birthday party.

THIRTY YEARS AGO:

Married Saturday, Dec. 1, 1917, Charles F. Murphy and Miss Edith Ranson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson C. Ceder entertained the "M. Club" at a six o'clock dinner.

A Pure News Letter

... Governor in Michigan rural areas to the European food-saving program, and the "car-savvy" program is very strong," writes a newspaper editor who specializes in agriculture and who is regarded as a leader in his field.

Farmers see the real purpose of the food-saving programs as an effort to cut prices. They feel that prices are too high when compared to other costs.

This editor's frank comment is of timely interest. This week at Washington the Congress of the United States received historic message from the President.

He states in his speech that he "concerned" the so-called "Marshall Plan," whereby 149,000,000 Americans would give a helping hand of dollars and foodstuffs to Western Europe's 270,000,000.

With the President's Message last Monday, the people of the Nation began a great popular debate. As Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg said Nov. 3 at Ann Arbor, "Foreign policy is a lecture subject of frank debate by our citizens. Foreign policy belongs to the people."

It is not the intention, nor try to make up some of the difficulty, of the return of news service between the amount of news Europe has given and the amount we do receive from the outside. The question of food saving, then, is not whether there are shortages of food in Europe, but rather whether we, as Americans, want to try to help to meet the emergency.

uses and approved 25 minutes later. That is speed!

Observers have pointed out that the present position of the governor is a reversal of his earlier stand regarding the commission. Last May he indicated that the corrections commissioner was one of the best in the land. He issued Austin H. McCormick, executive director of the Osborne Association and a noted penologist, to appear before a legislative committee that was considering a bill to set up the Michigan state pen. McCormick declared that Michigan's system was a model.

With his November bill approved overwhelmingly by the legislature, Siger then disclosed that he would ask the legislature to vest power in the governor to appoint commissioners of reformatory institutions.

Siger is reporting the food-saving program, and that "we markets sell as much meat on Tuesday as they ever did."

"Methods used to save food may be justly unpopular. The poultry fiasco is a good example. However, we do expect as promise No. 1, Western Europe will go hungry and cold this winter unless a J. is forthcoming from the outside. The question of food saving, then, is not whether there are shortages of food in Europe, but rather whether we, as Americans, want to try to help to meet the emergency.

He specifically refers to the state conservation department as being a kingdom unto itself, free from political control. Whereas the director now holds office at the will of the commission, under the Single plan he could be re-appointed or fired every two years at a turn of the political tide.

Therein lies the great weakness in the governor's armor. For the past 12 years only one Michigan governor—Harry F. Kelly—has served two successive terms. Every two years, with one exception, a new governor took effect. In the department of agriculture the result was a new director every two years with varying results. This lack of continuity retarded the legislature and farm organizations to take the directorship out of politics and into the hands of men like John C. Charles, Frank M. Johnson, and so on.

Practically the only time the legislature has been able to take action on the food-saving problem has been when the governor has been a Democrat. In 1945, for example, when Harry F. Kelly was in office, the legislature passed a bill to increase the amount of American hemp.

American hemp was increased from a present acreage of about 20,000 acres to 475,000 acres in 1945.

That bill, which was introduced by Rep. L. L. Smith, of Novi, falls short of 27,000 per acre, 20,000, 1945, to be the normal for 1946.

BELL System factories are turning out telephone equipment at the fastest rate ever in order to catch up with the huge nation-wide demand for service.

A lot of folks right here in this community are waiting for telephones simply because we haven't enough switching equipment to serve them—or enough wire and cable to connect their homes with the central office.

The additional equipment we need is "on order," but it must be tailor-made to work with present facilities—all of which takes time to do. Still, we should be receiving some of it before long. And you can be sure that just as fast as we can get it installed and in service, more people here will have the telephones they want.
