The Northville Branch of the American Red-Cross has arranged for a Bloodmobile Unit to be at the Veterans Memorial Building Thursday, July 29, from 1:00 to 5:00 p. m.

Conduct Hearing on Local Zoning

A special hearing, called by the Village Commission, was held at the Village Hall Monday evening, with a fair sized crowd in attendance. The session was conducted to give Northville citizens a chance to voice their opinions as to whether or not lot 183 of Assessors' Plat No. 2 be changed from an R-2 district (2 family residential) to a C-2 district (commercial area).

The property under discussion is that area commonly known as the Northville fairgrounds. The meeting was adjourned until a formal written application for the re-zoning change be made to the Village Commission.

The next regular commission meeting is Monday evening, July 19, at which time a legal opinion will be rendered on the 3-2 commission vote concerning the proposed change to Ordinance 123. This proposed change made at an earlier meeting, would allow a trailer community to be established on South Center during a racing or fair season with five days prior thereto or subsequent thereto. It would be subject to the state laws regulating camps of that nature.

Many of Northville's streets are being re-surfaced. Main Street, from the Ford plant on up to Rogers Street was finished this week. Also completed was the intersection at the Fishery Road and Rogers Street. Center Street, from Main to Dunlap Streets has been completed for some time. All this work was done by the Wayne County Road Commission.

George Jerome and Co., consulting engineers of Detroit, are working on portions of Beal, Church, Verdes, and Gardner Streets. They report that cement curbing and gutters have been laid on Church and Beal Streets and that they are about to lay a base aggregate of gravel followed by a two-inch bituminous surface. They expect the entire job to be completed by August 2 in time for the opening of the racing season.

Youngsters Urged to Read During Summer

Urging parents to encourage their young children to read during the summer months, Miss Louise Hetherington, director of work with children for the Wayne County Library, said "By making reading a part of their summer recreation, children will retain reading abilities which they developed during the school year. Since books are the background of learning for all school work, ability to read well makes classes easier and school days pleasanter."

Summer reading lists were distributed to school children through the Northville library in June and Miss Rhea Lyon, branch librarian, said that the library staff will be glad to assist children and parents in selecting other interesting and suitable books for home reading at any time.

Miss Ruth M. Knapp, R. N. Public Health Nurse will attend a two weeks refresher course in School Health Service in Public Nursing from July 19 to 30, at Wayne University. Miss Knapp will live at the Grace Hospital Nurses' Home.

Congress Passes 900 Laws; Largest Fund is for ERP

When weary members of the 80th Congress shut up shop on Sunday morning, June 20, they had put close to 900 new laws on the statute books, but had failed to pass about 12 measures for every one that did go through.

During the two sessions of this Congress, a total of 11,876 bills and resolutions were introduced—3,496 in the Senate and 8,380 in the House. Of all bills, committee hearings were held on about one in every five.

Early figures released by Chairman Tabor of the House Appropriations Committee show that the second session of Congress reduced the budget estimates on appropriations by $2.7 billion—from $35.4 billion, to less than $32.7 billion.

Biggest single piece of business handled in the second session was appropriations for the European Recovery Program and other foreign aid, which finally approved after a battle between Senate and House, the appropriation bill carried funds totaling more than $8 billion, to be available until April 2, 1949.

In its closing hour, Congress rushed through two bills giving a salary boost of $370 to each of 850,000 classified civil service employees, and a flat $100 raise to all postal employees.

On the last day, too, it approved legislation continuing the federal-aid highway program through fiscal 1949 and 1951. The measure authorizes appropriations of $450 million in grants to the states for each of the two years, on a 50-50 matching basis.

Presidential vetoes had following in the 1948 session. Following its enactment of an income tax reduction over the veto, Congress likewise drove through two major bills in the field of Social Security which had failed to win presidential approval.

One, of these exempts independent news vendors from coverage under the Social Security Act, the other nullified a Bureau of Internal Revenue order extending Social Security benefits to 750,000 pieceworkers, salesmen and similar groups, and granted increased benefits to an estimated 3.5 million people, including dependent children, the blind and the needy.

Also vetoed, and promptly passed over the veto, was the Federal Security Agency appropriation bill which transfers the U. S. Employment Service to the Federal Security Agency.

Other important legislation that finally found its way through the Congressional hopper included extension of the functions of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation through June 30, 1954; provision of a charter for the Commodity Credit Corporation; the peace time draft; rent control; increased postal rates; and federal grants to states and local government units for water pollution control.

Bitterest battle of the closing sessions was on the public housing feature of proposed long-range housing legislation. Though reported favorably by the House Banking and Currency Committee, the Taft-Elender-Wagner bill was tabled by the House Rules Committee.

The House then passed the Wolcott bill, containing no provision for public housing, but this measure died in the Senate. The only housing legislation on which Congress acted was a bill which provides, through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, a secondary market for veterans' home loans.

Among other measures which got nowhere in the 80th Congress were several which ranked high on the presidential list of recommendations. These included universal military training, federal aid for education, national health insurance, minimum wage legislation, inflation controls and the St. Lawrence Seaway project.

These bills, however, fared no worse than some 10,000 other measures that died somewhere along the Congressional production line.

Had any considerable percentage of these rejected measures been approved by the lawmakers, it is likely that the taxpayers of the country would have taken a real beating, for a tremendous number of them were spending proposals of one kind or another.

For example, about 2,000 of the bills were legislation for veterans and mainly along generous lines. There was also a proposal to cancel Finland's debt to the United States—one to establish a Department of Peace in the executive branch, and another to set up a federal commission to promote physical fitness.

Hundreds of bills were introduced which, individually, called for relatively small expenditures, but which in the aggregate would have run into real money.

Such measures included proposals for the creation of states above, and the issuance of special stamps, and coins, dedicated to the honor and glory of states and their heroes.

There was a proposal to provide a country home for the President of the United States, and one to call a convention of California Indians. What of urgent importance the Indians have to talk about is not made clear, but it is presumed that the cost of the pow wow would show up in the tax bill.

Included in the mass of legislation requested by members of the 80th Congress were nearly 200 proposed amendments to the Constitution, many of them highly controversial and of considerable significance to the nation.

Among these were the equal rights and anti-poll tax proposals; an amendment limiting the President to one 6-year term, and another limiting him to two 4-year terms; a proposal providing for three Vice-Presidents of the United States; and one to lower the voting age from 21 to 18.

Investigate Farmers' Gas Refund Claims

Secretary of State, F. M. Alger, Jr., was advised today that Dr. C. F. Leverenz of Chicago, who was charged by the Department with making a false application for refund of gasoline tax was fined $400.00 and costs of $100.00 by Judge E. A. Weston in circuit court at St. Joseph, Michigan on June 21, 1948.

Leverenz, who owns a farm near St. Joseph, was accused by the Gasoline Tax Division of the Department of State of using the gasoline for highway purposes instead of for farm work as he had claimed in an application for refund of tax.

Routine investigation of the Leverenz claim by E. J. Dickerson, Department of State field investigator disclosed information leading to the conviction.

The Department of State, after investigation of claims, refunds approximately $3,000,000.00 of highway funds annually, 70 per cent of which is for gasoline used on farms. To protect state highway funds Mr. Alger has insisted on a thorough checking of claims in 1947 this activity resulted in a saving to the State of more than $300,000.00.

Statistics are available on 6 pairs of daughters and dams which show that the daughters of this bull averaged 429 pounds of fat and 13,030 pounds of milk testing 3.29% as against 362 pounds of fat and 10,810 pounds of milk testing 3.35% for the dams. All records used in making these comparisons are adjusted to a mature, 2X milking, 305-day basis.

Sire of this bull was King-Bessie Ormsby Kildare and his dam was Wacots Princess Ina.

Sutter's Mill
Sutter's mill, where gold was discovered January 24, 1848—just 100 years ago—was a complicated thing to be built by primitive tools and materials. The historic site is on the American river, 45 miles above Fort Sutter, Calif. It was in the tail race of this mill that James W. Marshall, an eccentric carpenter who worked for Sutter, found the glittering yellow particles that started the California gold rush.

Help Offered for Tired Housewives

"Tired" housewives may find some relief for their feeling of exhaustion from suggestions offered by Irma Gross, head of the department of home management and child development at Michigan State college.

First, advises Miss Gross, there really are several kinds of "tiredness" and the remedies are different for each kind. So before you plan a vacation from your family as the answer to your situation ask yourself what is making you so tired.

One reason, of course, is overwork or lack of rest. It is true physical fatigue. Few household tasks use up enough energy to cause this kind of tiredness. Work such as doing the family wash without modern equipment, carrying large amounts of food, moving furniture, or constant lifting and caring of children can cause you to be overtired.

Quite different causes result in two other kinds of "tiredness". One is fatigue caused by just plain boredom. If you do the same jobs such as dish washing or dusting in the same way year after year and have no interest in the tasks you can become tired from the monotony.

The third kind of tiredness comes from mental conflict. Housewives who have more to do than they think they can accomplish, who have constant interruptions, or who may be worrying about something, such as family illness, have a tired feeling because of all the conflicts they face.

Rest and sleep help all kinds of tiredness and are the only way of fighting physical fatigue. To overcome boredom, introduce interest in your housework tasks by trying new methods, or trying to "beat your own time". If it's worry that's making you tired, decide what is bothering you most and try to remove it from your situation.

Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Cavell of Griswold Road and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Broad of Detroit spent last week with the Cavell's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Eaton at their summer home in Greenbush, Mich.

Lucerne - For a quite festive weekend, away from the state capital, what we need is a place of our own up in the North Country, I said, pulling out a state highway map.

The Missus took a look. "See this patch of green," I pointed to the point. It stretches from Kalkaska to Harrisville. It blankets the AuSable State Forest to the west and the Adron National Forest to the east. Here the North begins.

"Right in the center of this green, east to west, is the town of Lucerne. And just to the north is the AuSable river, famous for trout. Pines and hardwood. Loas of fresh air. No dust. No automobile traffic. Solitude day and night. Yes, that's the spot for us."

And so we signed a land lease with the Consumers Power Company which owns much of the river land west from its Mio hydro-electric plant. That was four years ago.

Our wa-tine cabin furd had financed purchase in 1947 of a mobile home on wheels, a snug 14-foot long trailer. Since we spent occasional weekends there, it had seemed a shame to fence in the 40 acres and to put up signs.

From the high bank is a commanding view of a scenic river bend. Three springs provide cold water in great abundance. Very, a dream place for a quiet weekend.

We arrived late Friday in great anticipation. Thirty minutes later an automobile from Pontiac pulled up to a birch grove west of the high bank. A tent soon appeared, and with it two men, a woman, boy and a dog.

"I've been camping at this spot for years," enthused one of the men. "Beautiful view, ain't it?" "Four more kindred souls seeking peace in the North Country, I surmised. So I invited them to stay.

Saturday morning, after I finished up cleaning up the rubbish left by deer hunters the winter before, two fly fishermen appeared in an ancient car. Where glass windows had once been fly roos stuck out. Parking the car carelessly at an angle, the men descended the bank carrying a basket filled with bottled beer and there camped for the day.

By twilight the parade of automobiles, bringing more fishermen and sight-seers had worn a deep rut in the road by the trailer. The missus closed the trailer windows. "Too much dust," she said.

"I'm not sure I heard her. The campers' dog was howling for food. And someone had left a car radio going full blast. Then the fishermen with "rubber doughnuts" appeared. Laden down with creel and equipment, they descended the bank to the AuSable amid farewells of their families. Straddled inside the "doughnuts" they would float down to the Red Oak bridge, two miles downstream. Our guests explained they "always" pushed off from this spot.

Other tourists arrived with canoes or boats. "Where can I put this boat in the river?" was the query. Like a traffic cop presiding a busy street, I volunteered detailed instructions to each guest. "Drive down the trail to the first bend. Park your car there. Carry the canoe down the footpath to the river's edge. A swell place."

Indian Trail Lodge on Kellogg road to furnish lumber. The easiest way to deliver it was by boat, ferrying the supplies across the stream from our camp, and all with automobile horn-signals and put-putting of an outboard motor. Our Sunday guests included a fellow who took possession of a deep trout hole near the springs' outlet. Well by actual count, more than 60 persons - men, women, children and pets - swarmed over our leased land in one weekend. Fly rods to the left. Canoes to the right.

It suddenly dawned on us that a lot of other folks had traveled to the spacious North Country, too, in quest of solitude and relaxation. It also dawned on us that we were vastly outnumbered - a good 30 to 1 - as to enjoyment of this popular AuSable camping and fishing spot. The place fairly shouted, "Don't fence me in!"

Well, we don't intend to. Who are we to dispossess so many people of their pleasure? Anyhow, we're too tired!

GROUP ENTERTAINED AT TRAPP HOME

Saturday evening Dorothy Trapp of Farmington Road entertained a group of friends at her home. Cards and dancing were the evening's diversion. Attending the affair were a group of friends from Detroit, Farmington, and Gullport, Miss.

AN OPEN LETTER TO DR. L. W. SNOW:
Dear Sir:

As you have found it convenient to hold up our name to public and private ridicule, we are faced with the necessity of stating our position in the matter which faced the Village Commission Wednesday evening July 7.

We are unalterably opposed to racing and to anything which contributes to its advancement and particularly we object to a trailer camp in the village. Our first-hand experience with trailers on our lot last year enables us to speak with even more vehemence than would otherwise be possible. However, at this time, we are faced with the presence of racing across the street and the contemplated presence of a trailer camp next door to us, our very deep desire is to, at least, remove ourselves from the immediate vicinity where we are so evidently a mist. Under these circumstances, we felt within our rights, after repeated and annoying visits from a real estate agent, who inferred that he had been sent by the Driving Club, to contact you as one of the active members. At that time we stated that if the Driving Club was interested in our property, we would only be interested in dealing directly. You, sir, assured us that would be done, and asked our price. We quoted the one which you made public, and you said you would call a meeting of the Driving Club to discuss it. At the same time you also made an offer to set us up in a trailer camp operation, but our experience convinced us that we were certainly not interested in that. As no more was heard by us from you, we assumed you were not interested at any price, until you made the misleading public statement that our motives in opposing the trailer camp were subject to question because we were "trying" to sell our property to the Driving Club.

At this time you made a very obvious attempt to cross our opposition off the record by making us an offer for our home. We beg of you, sir, let yourself not be deceived, as we do not deceive ourselves. We realize most completely that we have perhaps forfeited our last chance to remove ourselves from an utterly impossible position at an attractive figure. But, difficult as it may be for you to understand, there comes a time when honor and standards far outweigh any potential financial gain.

A home has been ruined by a nuisance in the guise of "public benefactor" and its occupants refuse to fall in line and march under the direction of a leader so used to setting the tempo and tune that he cannot conceive of anyone seriously wanting to create discord.

Let this be understood by all who read: though we may be situated as we are in discomfort for a long, long time, nothing has given us greater joy than to oppose you and the things for which you stand.

Yours truly,
(Signed) GEORGE & GLADYS WEISS.

Steel Farm Trailer

This two-wheeled farm trailer has an all-steel frame on which any type of body can be placed. Welded fabrication on the trailer frame eliminates bolts which work loose and cause rattles or break-downs. The tongue in this trailer is attached in a way that avoids trouble in service. It was designed at Colorado A & M college.

Johnson Grass Control
Termed Community Job

Johnson grass control is a community job because it requires the attention of everyone in the neighborhood, according to Purdue University. Watch for new bunches of Johnson grass that start in clean fields. Kill them by pulling or hoeing before deep roots are formed. The grass spreads both by seeds and root parts and is scattered by water, in hay, by cultivator or wind.

Farm Safety Week Set for July 25-31

Michigan will join the rest of the nation in observing Farm Safety Week, July 25-31. Fred Roth, farm safety specialist at Michigan State college, says that farm folks have an extra stake in safety precautions.

Farm Safety Week will highlight the need for cutting the number of farm accidents and preventing thousands of needless deaths and injuries.

In proclaiming the week officially, Gov. Kim Sigler of Michigan pointed to the 175 people who were killed accidentally last year on Michigan farms and the hundreds more who were seriously injured and endured suffering.

The goal of the 1948 observance, Governor Sigler said, is the elimination of specific farm hazards, and the long-range aim is to make every American farm and every American farm resident safe as possible.

It is estimated that 30 million safety hazards exist on American farms. Practicing safety isn't a week-long affair either, Roth points out. He believes that the elimination of unsafe practices and hazards is an activity that the family can take part in 52 weeks a year.

August 9 Deadline for Filing Lump-Sum Payment Claims

August 9, 1948, is the deadline for filing lump-sum payments to be made where the death of an insured wage earner occurred outside of the United States after December 6, 1941, and before August 10, 1946, according to Robert G. Mish, manager of the Dearborn Office of the Social Security Administration.

Normally such payments must be claimed within 2 years from the date of death. Survivors of military personnel and the survivors of civilians who worked on such Pacific bases as Wake Island and the Philippines, or who died in Japanese prison camps, as well as survivors of those who died in friendly or neutral countries, have until August 10, 1948, to file a claim if they have not already done so.

Mr. Mish stated that claims for lump sum payments based on deaths which occurred outside the United States and which have been previously disallowed because of the 2-year filing limitation, may be reopened by contacting the nearest social security office.

The Dearborn office of the Social Security Administration is located at 14246 Michigan Ave., and is open Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
