A Normal Life for Children Is Aim of Training School

"Salvage" is the philosophy of the Wayne County Training School, according to Mrs. Aimsworth, Child Welfare Director of the school. The school endeavors to train the mentally deficient child, while maintaining a normal childhood life for them.

The school was established in September 1926, by Wayne County. It is situated at 2305 Sheldon Road, and covers 1000 acres of park-like ground. There are 40 buildings, farms, greenhouses, dairy, and other features besides administration, class buildings, living quarters and recreational facilities.

Headed by Dr. Robert H. Haskell, Medical Supervisor, the staff now employs 247 persons, including 25 teachers.

The departments of the school include: Child Welfare, School Psychology, Research, Vocational Supervision, Permanent Recreational Director and Language.

With 144 boys and girls on vacation, there are now 208 boys and 366 girls at the institution.

Children are admitted through recommendation from the Probate Court. Public schools, the court and child care agencies refer children to the Training School. The youngsters are between the ages of eight and 15 upon admission, and having IQ's of between 50 and 80, have been unable to progress in the public schools, even in special classes. An administrative board of the Board of Supervisors of Wayne County, is in immediate control of the school.

Each case is reviewed with reference to background, school record, and test results, before the child is admitted.

The school teaches the same courses taught in the public schools, but at a slower rate, with the children divided into smaller groups. The children are not separated into classes in the way public schools are, but goals are set and worked toward, rather than promotion.

The boys and girls are given standard mental tests to determine their abilities before they are admitted. They are placed in their work according to these test results.

No special teaching or psychological methods are employed but the teachers must have patience and a sincere interest in the work and in each child.

When the children are 14 years of age, they are given vocational training in accordance with their academic work. This prepares them for a normal life after they are discharged.

Each worker at the institution is hired according to his ability to teach the children what they do. In this sense, all the workers are teachers. It is through working with the staff, that the boys and girls get their practical vocational training.

Children live in groups of 50 in cottages supervised by a cottage mother and four helpers, arranged to give the children 24 hour supervision. There are also recreational directors, which are college students who are working during vacation months. They are headed by a permanent recreation director. The boys play in the same baseball leagues that the surrounding community groups play in. There are swimming pools, playground, equipment, picnics, etc. to amuse the children. They are given treats and special treatment on some occasions.

Children are allowed one week of vacation after their first year.

and two weeks each year thereafter. They may go home for week-ends every three months after the first year. Visitors are allowed once each month. More frequent visits upset the regular living schedules of the youngsters. The child's background is often reflected in his school behavior.

Children remain at the school for an average of three years. When they have reached the sixth grade level, they are no longer considered deficient, and are dismissed. The school supervises the children after they leave. Boys without families are placed on farms, where they receive constant supervision and regular hours. The girls without families are placed in domestic positions as mothers' helpers, and they work along with the mothers. Children with families are visited, and supervision and help in finding work is given by the institution.

Library to Exhibit Historic Papers

Forty-two of the documents carried on the Freedom Train will be displayed in replica at the Northville library during the next two weeks. At their leisure, library visitors may view the photographic copies of the documents, consult the reference books at the library to check details of the history of our nation, and study the heritage that is America as it is presented through these significant papers and records which are touring the United States.

Guarded by the United States Marines, the Freedom Train, sponsored by the American Heritage Foundation, will be in Detroit on August 20, 21 and 22. It will be in Dearborn on August 29.

The library exhibit has been prepared so that everyone who is unable to visit the Freedom Train may have an opportunity to study these historic papers. An abundance of fact is brought to attention in the chronological arrangement of the documents on display.

First of the documents is the letter Christopher Columbus wrote in 1493 to the noble Lord, Raphael Sanchez, Treasurer to their most invincible Majesties, Ferdinand and Isabella, King and Queen of Spain. The display at the library ends with the Proclamation of the Independence of the Philippines, signed by President Harry S. Truman in 1946.

Between those dates come important papers attesting to the acts and thoughts of the men of American history. John Peter Zenger in 1735 and George Hay in 1789 utilized the might of their pens to defend the freedom of the press. George Washington did not stand alone when he wrote, "to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance." In the course of history other documents and other names testify to the persistence over many years of fight for the preservation of our freedoms.

Such names as Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Paine, Thomas Jefferson, John Paul Jones, Francis Scott Key, Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton find representation in these documents of freedom along with George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

Members of the library staff will be glad to give assistance in finding the answers to any history questions which library visitors may have about the documents, and Miss Rhea Lyon, branch librarian, urged that children be encouraged to take this opportunity to see the display.

Dog Owners Urged to Have Pets Vaccinated

The danger of rabies in the Plymouth - Northville area is serious. Investigation by local and county authorities of the rabid dog killed last week near Schoolcraft and Wilcox reveal that many dogs were probably exposed. The Plymouth Police Department has reported to the Wayne County Health Department the names of more than a dozen dog owners whose dogs are known to have been in contact with the rabid dog. Several of these dogs were bitten and any tooth puncture too small to be found but enough to cause rabies.

Dr. C. D. Barrett, Asst. Director, Wayne County Health Department cautioned the dog owners "The danger of rabies in these dogs that have been exposed will not be over for at least three or four months. Of course, if the exposed dogs were vaccinated before the exposure and not more than one year ago, then the risk of rabies is relatively little, but rabies vaccination should not be relied on 100%. It is good but occasionally may not be effective. The only safe way is to kill any dog that is thought to have been exposed. This becomes a must for any unvaccinated dog known to have been bitten by the rabid dog."

"Again we urge all dog owners not to delay longer in having their dogs vaccinated. It's the best assurance against your dog getting rabies and your family being exposed."

What does your Grocer Owe You?

We think that there are certain principles a grocer must observe if he expects to have the confidence and patronage of the community in which he operates.

We think also that the millions of housewives, who have to spend such a large part of the family income on food, want to feel that the grocers they patronize live up to the principles. It can make a lot of difference in the quality and the cost of the food.

Here, in brief, are some of the things A&P tries to live up to at all times, and if you ever find us falling short of these principles in any way we'd feel you were doing us a favor if you'd tell us about it. We don't think that honest intentions are enough. We believe we owe you a system that makes them come true.

HONEST WEIGHT...

According to our way of figuring, there are sixteen ounces to the pound with "if's," "and's," or "but's." Our scales are in plain sight where you can see the dial, and we have them periodically checked for accuracy. Certain foods are subject to "shrinkage" in weight even after short periods in ice or on their way to the store. This should be our worry and not yours. When we weigh food up in advance for the convenience of self service, we know what this shrinkage will be and we add enough to take care of it. A pound of food must weigh sixteen ounces when you get it, not just when we weigh it up.

CORRECT PRICES...

Plainly marked. As we say honest intentions on our part aren't enough. We must also be accurate and we owe it to you to have a system that guards against slips and errors. A&P prices are plainly marked on the goods or on the shelves and cases or both. A&P cashiers are thoroughly trained to check your purchases quickly and accurately and give you a slip or sales ticket with every purchase itemized.

SINCERE ADVERTISING...

You should be able to read your grocer's advertising with full confidence that the merchandise and prices are correctly represented in keeping with the spirit as well as the law of honest merchandising. If you see broccoli or lettuce or cabbage or hamburger or porterhouse steak listed in an A&P ad at such-and-such a price—that means it's the price of A&P's best broccoli or lettuce or cabbage or hamburger or porterhouse steak.

If, in the case of a product that we carry in more than one grade or size, (like eggs, for instance), we advertise the price, we advertise the grade also so you'll know what you're buying and what you should pay. We advertise to inform you—not to fool you into coming into our stores, and you won't go away disappointed.

FRESHNESS CONTROL...

It's not enough for your grocer to buy good food for his store. If you're to get your money's worth he must keep it good until you come for it. That means he must have a sufficient investment in proper refrigeration equipment. His organization must be properly trained to buy properly for quick turnover. His source of supply must be right from the farm or factory to the store. A&P controls the freshness of the food we sell from the source to you, and you can trust A&P to guard its freshness and quality.

EFFICIENT METHODS...

If your grocer's expenses are too high—if his shelves are stocked with food that doesn't sell—if he employs wasteful methods, you pay the bill. A&P has about ninety years of experience and organization behind its methods of eliminating unnecessary and burdensome costs. We'll go to any expense to improve our methods, but we think that waste is a sin. When we save, you save, and that's why your food will cost you less for the best if you do all your shopping in your A&P store.

These are some of the reasons why millions of women say, "I can trust A&P."

FAIRBANKS-MORSE

Hammer Mills

You can get a Fairbanks-Morse Hammer Mill immediately.

Fairbanks-Morse Hammer Mills grind grain or roughage fast and with low power cost.

Because of their large breaker plates and large screen area, most of the grain is ground first time around.

Large-diameter cylinders give the necessary hammer-tip speed at only 2400 r.p.m. This permits using a larger pulley for greater efficiency.

One of three models will match your tractor perfectly, and combine lowest fuel consumption with greatest grinding capacity.

For low-cost feed grinding, see us... today.

Rural Tele-news

SIX OUT OF SEVEN FAMILIES - 85% of the homes and business establishments within Michigan Bell's rural territory can have telephone service without paying any construction charges. Today's liberalized rural construction plan allows one-half mile of free line construction per applicant beyond existing lines.

SAME WIRES - MORE CALLS - By means of special equipment, one pair of wires in effect becomes six pairs, carrying six separate conversations simultaneously. Michigan Bell has in operation several such experimental lines using this new equipment, known as "telephone line carrier," which may prove helpful in serving rural areas.

PARTY-LINE COURTESY PAYS OFF - Rural telephone service is good service, particularly when everyone co-operates by spacing out calls... being careful to hang up the receiver after each call... not interrupting when others are talking, except in an emergency... and by giving up the line when others have emergency calls to make.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

Our $12,500,000 post-war rural construction program means more and better rural telephone service.
