Explanation Made for Word "Realtor"

The word "realtor" is a professional title given only to members of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and its constituent state and local boards.

Adherence to a strict code of ethics in all business dealings with other realtors and with the public is a fundamental requirement for becoming a realtor. A realtor is a real estate broker but all real estate brokers are not realtors. All brokers in Michigan are licensed under the Michigan Corporation and Securities Commission, who prescribe to a code of conduct which must be observed. The term, "realtor" is a copyrighted word which only members can use.

VOICES WITH A SMILE - Many Michigan Bell operators have attended meetings recently to hear themselves talk - in wirerecorded conversations with other girls who took the part of customers. They've learned that the tone of their voices often can make a big difference in the quality of telephone service. Perhaps you've already noticed an improvement in your service as a result of these meetings.

WORKING DOLLARS: Americans in all walks of life, who invest their savings in telephone securities, make it possible for us to give you more and better telephone service. Their money is used to expand the telephone system . . . increasing the value of your telephone by providing more telephones that you can call.

MORE JOBS - Twelve years ago, only one-tenth of the telephones on Michigan Bell's rural lines were dial. Today, more than two-thirds of the rural-line telephones are dial. And yet Michigan Bell now employs more than twice as many operators as twelve years ago.

Schrader hurler Lloyd Dion effectively handcuffed Bloom's Insurance last Thursday night and hung up a one-hitter, the lone hit being a double off the bat of Ray Doolin in the fourth inning. Dion fanned eleven batters and walked one. The only other man to get on base for Bloom's was Chuck Mankin, who reached third on a two base

A strange disease of little pigs that makes them shiver, jerk and sometimes "dance" is worrying quite a few farmers.,

What causes the condition is somewhat of a mystery, the American Veterinary Medical association says. It strikes newly born pigs. Some of the affected animals, merely shiver and tremble. In other cases, the pigs may not be able to keep their feet still, resulting in an involuntary "dance." The latest report, by Dr. H. C. H. Kernkamp, a research veterinarian peated the first frame by striking at the University of Minnesota, indicates that the disease, known as myoclonia congenita, is still almost as baffling to scientists as it was when first described in 1922.

Many Vacationers Like Escape to Make-Believe

Tourists can experience the spirit of the old west with a visit to dude ranches and western resorts like this Nevada western village playground. Children will love such adventuring in days gone by, so count your kids in your vacation plans. Motorists to such spots might find more detours and construction delays en route than last year, but highway construction underway is not prevalent enough to cause any real hitch in travel plans. Railways and bus lines have improved the quality of their equipment, and schedule makers have kept the vacationer in mind by granting more daylight sightseeing time. Airlines have offered re-duced rates in family fare plans. Resort operators have been feverish about tearing down old buildings, putting up new ones, and making additions to those still serviceable. Pennsylvania alone reports that its hotels and inns have spent more than $3,000,000 on such projects. The price of gasoline fluctuates widely across the nation. This is caused by various state taxes. Local conditions affect price differentials. The most important of these is the relation of supply to demand. Although there are not many price wars to-day, there are sharp competitive changes in price. Vacationers by train will find rates slightly higher this year than last. The airlines claim they can stretch a two-week's vacation into three weeks by cutting travel time. AS1 94 4 1. 2 1 211 A 194 . May 1 1 1 1 1

REBLUEING

Rebekahs, neighbors and friends who remembered me with gifts. flowers and cards during my recent illness. Mrs. Bessie Goodale.

IF YOUR galvanized screens are getting along in years, you might be finding rust spots on them when you go to put them on the house this spring. Left alone, these unsightly spots will spread and eventually, of course, will destroy the screen. First thing you'll want to do is remove the rust, which can be accomplished through the use of a rust-removing preparation, on sale in your hardware store. Another way of removing the rust, if you prefer, is by scouring the screens with a paste made of scouring powder mixed with kerosene, after which they should be wiped off with turpentine. As far as preserving the screens against further rust is concerned, you can take your choice between a special screen enamel or a good spar varnish thinned down so that it will not clog the mesh. You can thin it to the correct consistency, by mixing two parts of the spar varnish with one part cause of the mesh. Instead of painting with a brush, which is more likely to cause clogging, you might want to try applying the mixture with a piece of lintless carpeting, tacked around a block of wood.

You first brush the varnish on to the nap of the carpeting and transfer it from there to the screen.
