for the Record

Northville is losing the services of two men this summer who have done outstanding work here for many years. We refer to Wilson Funk, who resigned recently as Village recreation director, and the Rev. Dr. Harold Fredsell, who is leaving the First Presbyterian Church at the end of this month after serving as its minister since June, 1941.

Each man has contributed greatly to the community through work with its younger people. It is certain that many boys and girls have been influenced and guided in the direction of becoming responsible citizens by their

Dr. Fredsell's work as minister of the Presbyterian Church also has brought him into contact with a large number of local men and women during the 13 years he has lived in our village. He has lived and preached the Christian philosophy as he interprets it against the complex social pattern of our twentieth century way of life. 'His friendly and cheerful manner, and his willingness to ssupport the individuals and the causes in which he believed, have been an inspiration to his congregation, and to others who came to know him well. No better testimonial to his success can be found than the large membership of the church he is leaving, and the sincere regrets of his many friends in the Northville area.

Mr. Funk's boundless energy and enthusiasm for his work with local boys and girls led him into a pattern of 'living which often involved 12 and 14 hour days, and almost always some activity on Sunday when the parents of the young people he was with were enjoying a "day off". That he stuck with the under-paid job as long as he did is indication of his belief that a healthful youth recreation program is a necessary community activity.

Dr. Fredsell's new position is with the Presbytery of Detroit, as director of church extension. In this position he will be responsible for promoting the growth of the Presbyterian Church throughout the Detroit area, a job for which he is well fitted. We are sure our readers will join in thanking him for his past services to this community, and in wishing him happiness and a large measure of success in his new work.

Atthis stage of the Army vs. McCarthy proceedings many observers will understand the feeling that prompted President Roosevelt's famous remark "a plague on both your houses" to John L. Lewis a decade or more ago. Though we have been critical of Senator McCarthy in the past, and still feel that his investigative methods are subject to criticism at times, the hearings have made it obvious that the Army has not been without fault. The quicker the proceedings are brought to an end the better it probably will be for the country at large.

Predictions of rearly United States intervention in Southeast Asia are building up to a quickened tempo. We are told that very soon an "educational" campaign will be begun to condition the American people to the necessity to enter the Indonesian war on the side of the French. That the Administration believes there is need for such a campaign is proof in itself that the average American will want to be shown very concretely the justification for entering this war, at the risk of precipitating World War III.

How great this danger may be is outlined by Walt Lippmann, the respected Washington columnist whose in- purchased last December. terpretation of international affairs is highly regarded everywhere. Lippmann says:"The interventionists have an gation, Comm. Earl C. Reed reunlimited objective-namely the overthrow of the Red Chinese regime." If he is correct, and should we undertake such a war, the risk of bringing an another World War is

It is our opinion that President Eisenhower should speak out and tell the American people all the facts of life as quickly as possible.

Just what form of government will be finally approved, Roach was not certain. He personally favors the city manager type, with its demonstrated greater efficiency and economy. The charter committee, however, will decide that matter, he said.

Happy Birthday

Meeting in Philadelphia on June 14, 1777, the Continental Congress adopted a resolution declaring that "the Flag of the United States shall be of thirteen stripes of alternate red and white, with a union of thirteen stars of white in a blue field, representing the new constellation".

Tradition says that the first Stars and Stripes was made by Betsy Ross, of Philadelphia, at the request of George Washington. A contemporary description said that the stars of the flag "represent a new constellation rising in the West".

Not a legal holiday in any of the states, June 14 is, however, marked generally throughout our land by schools and by patriotic organizations as the birthday of our national emblem, in exercises which feature the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Freeing Atomic Energy

The Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy recently began hearings on a bill which would alter laws controlling the production of atomic energy with the aim of freeing the atom for industrial development, Co-sponsors of the bill are Senator Burke, Hickenlooper, Iowa Republican, and Representative W. The bill is one in which every American should have a keen interest. The greatest tragedy concerning the development of atomic energy is that none of this vast potential has been put to use for the benefit of mankind. Thus, there is no reason why industrial development of the atom and widespread use of this new source of energy for peacetime purposes cannot be begun. Proper secrecy in atomic energy must, of course, be well guarded in the interest of U.S. security. On the other hand, the United States can demonstrate to the world a form of moral leadership which will win this country friends in every corner time without any help from you. of the globe by putting some of our atomic energy knowledge to use for the benefit of humanity.

Overworked Words What are the most overworked words in the English language,

Of course, advertising men have improved on the use of the word somewhat. Nowadays they say: "New! New! NEW!"

As for "Only", that word used to have some significance in the days when a pound of coffee was "Only 33c". Now it is used with every price, no matter how astronomical—"Chair, only $89.95"; "House, only $27,995"; only $1,055,499.95".

"New" and "Only" are still used copiously; so much so that they have become meaningless. However, to many radio listeners and television viewers, the words that beat like a drum in their ears on practically every program, ad infinitum, ad nauseum, are "But first—' and the other does not have life, even though they may look similar and have many things in common. It occurred to me that people who are trying to live the Christian life without having been "Born of God" are like the telephone pole trying to bear leaves and fruit. They make such a mis-erable failure of it because they do not possess the spiritual life essential to fruitbear-ling. As one white-haired elder has said so frequently, "You must have the life to live before you can live the life!"

According to the examination heart is bad (Jeremiah 17;8-10) and your soul is dead toward God (Eph 2;1). What you need is life and you can acquire this life as a free gift by re-ceiving Jesus Christ as your Saviour. SERVING something tall and cool to drink on a hot summer afternoon or evening? You'll be smart if you make a nourishing beverage, not just a calorific one.

It's amazing how much in the way of vitamins and minerals can be packed into tall cool drinks by way of fruit juices, milk, ice cream and sherbet. These will give you more of a pick-up than just a beverage with sweetening and flavor.

Pleasing Perfume Gives You Charm

Whether you dress for day or evening, don't forget that a pleasing fragrance gives you a delightful feminine air that spells charm and glamour. When used careful ly, a lovely fragrance can enhance your self assurance and poise to such a degree that your popularity can go up several notches.

The selection of a fragrance is important, but this should be no fragrances than cold. If you don't have a fragrance for summer, select one which you find delightful. Avoid the too exotic or heavy types and stick to refreshing floral scents.

Avoid Over Use

A little fragrance is a desirable thing, but more than that is worse logne weren't meant to be used in an overpowering fashion.

As a matter of fact, you should be just barely aware they're used. If you can use a scent that seems ing. to come and go rather than be a constant part of you, so much the better.

A good perfume should probably be dabbed just on the ear lobes. A cologne may be used on ear lobes and the lower arms, from wrist to elbow.

"Stretching" Perfume

When you do get a nice perfume which is probably expensive. as good ones are, you'll want to make it go as far as possible. Is there such a thing? Yes.

Here's a clever trick which can make it go a long way. Add one or two drops of your favorite scent to a quilted cotton square tucked in your bra, handbag or dress pocket. This will lend a pleasing air all the day long.

This little trick will save your clothing, too. Some perfumes applied directly to the fabric leave a stain. They may also become rancid in the clothing before it's washed or cleaned.

Perfume Is Cooling

If you feel poised and assured with perfume, you can also feel tooler. Many smart women are tucking in stick cologne in their purse to apply to hands and arms after they wash, during the day. This gives a cooling and pleasing

This can be prevented by a little advance care in picking your flower

The tems should be pounded about inches with a hammer, then, out immediately into a pail of cool water for several hours, so that the stems can absorb as much noisture as possible. Some plants nay bleed at the stalk when picked. This sticky fluid should be viped off as stems are put into the water, so it will not act as a sealer and prevent the water from being drawn into the stem. Some flower heads are heavy and have a tendency to bend over. This can be prevented somewhat, by bunching them and wrapping them with a newspaper around the stems. Then, as they stand in deep water to harden they are in an upright position to arden and will remain that way.

If spiky flowers, such as snapdragon, stock or delphinium, have straight stems, and curved-ones are desired, soaking them over night at an angle (with flower heads leaning over the edge of the pail) will solve the problem.

Flowers having a milky substance in the stem will fade quickly unless this is retained. This is done by searing the end of the stem with a match or lighted candle after it has been cut. Oriental poppies, hollyhocks, heliotrope, milkweed and dahlias ome into this "milky" category.

Reviving Wilted Flowers Some times when flowers have wilted, they can be restored by the "shock treatment". First, the blooms are protected by inserting they are usually revived.

WORK ON AN OIL WELL on the Charles Rogers farm, one and one-half miles south of Salem is being pushed by the Scott Drilling Co. of Clare. Unlike the majority of drilling rigs in the Northville area, the Scott outfit is a pretentious affair, with a towering steel derrick, gleaming, immaculate engines and other equipment, and well kept, freshly painted crew quarters. Both the owners and employes take unusual pride in the operation, and crew members are provided with attractive but serviceable dark green uniforms, each with his name over the left breast pocket. The drill is of the rotary type, capable of drilling to a 15,000 foot depth. Oil has been found in the Northville area, however, at only 4,000 to 5,000 feet, and the Rogers well is now down approximately 2,000.
