for the Record

by G. H. C.

More and more in recent years there appears to be a renewal of religious faith throughout the Christian world. It is to be seen in the larger number of men and women who attend church—in the big cities, and in the villages like Northville. It also is to be found in the apparent determination of the Church to play a stronger role in shaping national and international policy on matters affecting the welfare and future of mankind.

No greater manifestation of man's quest for an answer to the problems of day-to-day living has ever been seen than the crowds that attend Evangelist Billy Graham's revival services. Since 1949 he has preached to 12 million people and brought 20,000 of them to various stages of Christian commitment. Obviously, Graham's personality and technique in pleading the cause of Christianity have had much to do with his success, but it cannot be denied that his message is falling upon the ears of men and women who are filled with fear and skepticism induced in our complacent Western civilization by events of the past fifty years. During this period, nations separated by thousands of miles of space, and thousands of years in learning and capacity for understanding, have been made close neighbors by radio and television communication, and air transportation at speeds faster than sound. This, and the fact that it is now possible for all living civilizations to commit suicide with atomic and hydrogen bombs, and the even more deadly cobalt bomb whose effects will last for 3,000 years, explain the moral groping and uncertainty which are a potent factor in the current rise of religious interest.

It is not only Evangelist Billy Graham, who is preaching the message of Christianity effectively, however, for on the home front in Northville, and in thousands of other towns and cities, the churches have risen to meet the need for instilling greater regard for moral values in both young and old members of their congregations. The Methodist church throughout the state will observe its "Spiritual Life Mission" from Oct. 12 to Nov. 7, to stimulate interest in the teachings of Christ, and to make the Christian philosophy a more potent force in the world today. All churches are trying to interest the youth of the community because they realize that they will be our future leaders. In Northville, the Presbyterian church this year has commemorated its 125th anniversary by enlarging the capacity of its Sunday School rooms to take care of many more children.

Perhaps these evidences of Christianity at work in our midst may seem pitifully small against the pressing problems of today's world. Nevertheless, they are a step in the direction of developing a quickened sense of good and evil. Their full impact and meaning can be appreciated only if we realize that they are being repeated over the years in countless churches throughout the civilized world.

Halloween Plans Near Completion

Plans for observance of Halloween have been nearly completed with most of the civic organizations joining in the program. Features of the observance will be a parade of toddlers and the first six grades at 6 p.m., a football game at Ford Field and following these two events a dance and refreshments for older children, with cash prizes to be awarded.

The younger children are to meet in costume at 6 p.m. behind the Community building, if weather permits, for the parade. They will march down Main St. two blocks and circle around back to the Community building where cash prizes will be awarded for various classifications of costumes for the different age groups. There will be treats for all. In the event the weather will not permit a parade, the judging will be held and treats will be handed out at the Community building. Parents are asked to pick up the children at the Community building by 8 o'clock.

At 7:30 p.m. there will be a football game between two junior high school teams, the Kats and Rams. A trophy will be awarded the winner and receipts will be used to buy new equipment. Following the football game, children in grades seven through 12 will go to the Community building for a dance and refreshments. More cash prizes will be awarded for those who can do such dances as the "Bunny Hop" and the "Mambo." Tickets have been distributed at the school, and costumes may be worn.

Local high school students will decorate windows in the business district which will be judged by the high school students the night of the party. Prizes will be awarded for the best decorations.

Second Hometown Bargain Days To Be Held Nov. 5-6

Encouraged by the reception of the first Hometown Bargain Day Oct. 1, when shoppers from 11 communities visited Northville stores, members of the Retail Merchants Assn. again will offer numerous bargains on Nov. 5 and 6.

The second "Hometown Bargain" program has been increased to two days because sponsors of the initial one-day sale found that many regular customers were unable to take advantage of the Friday date.

As with the first bargain day, prizes again will be offered, and a coupon will be printed in both the Record and The Shopping Guide to be published next week. A drawing will be held Saturday evening, Nov. 6, and winners will be notified.

Carl Johnson, president of the merchants' association, emphasized that winners will not have to be present at the public drawing to be eligible for one of the many prizes. All that will be necessary is to drop one of the coupons in boxes to be supplied by participation merchants.

"We hope to impress upon all those living in Northville and nearby communities," Johnson said, "that Northville is a good shopping center, and that Northville merchants have made every effort to provide a wide variety of articles in every line, at bargain prices."

Sponsor's Halloween Program
The Women's Society of the Methodist church is again sponsoring the United Nations Children's fund Halloween Trick or Treat program. This fund provides milk, food, and medicine for the needy children of the world. People of Northville are asked to cooperate by being prepared for the children, who will call Saturday afternoon, with their canisters.

POLITICAL DRUMS began beating in the Northville area last week as various candidates for office started rounding up votes. Several receptions were held for Cong. Charles G. Oakland, 17th District, like the one shown above at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bryan, 726 W. Main St. Below, Rep. Oakland hands out literature, potholders and matches to a passerby on a Northville street corner.

W. E. Forney Is Painfully Hurt In Car Mishap

Unable to see the traffic light at Main and Center Sts., W. E. Forney, 65, of 673 Thayer Blvd., was seriously injured Sunday morning when he walked into the side of a car driven by Edward Seitz, 128 Rayson St.

Forney, a well known Northville resident and a coal dealer here for many years, is in Sessions hospital with a fracture of the right side of the skull and numerous abrasions on the body and head. His condition is reported good, and he has not been unconscious at any time, hospital attaches said.

Seitz, according to the police, report, was driving north on Center St., saw a green light and started through the intersection. Forney stepped from the curb and walked into the right side of the car, according to the report.

Fred Casterline, owner of the Casterline Funeral home, heard the impact from his car across the street in front of The Record. He picked up the injured man and took him to the hospital.

The accident is the second to occur at the intersection since new traffic lights were installed some weeks ago. Both Mayor Claude N. Ely and Commissioner John Stuhenvall said that a request already had been made to the Wayne County Road commission, which installed the lights, to have them changed so that pedestrians could see them without stepping from the curb.

Seven Wells In Northville Area Producing Oil

Seven oil wells are now producing in the ten-month-old Northville field, and an eighth is expected to come in within the next few days, the state conservation department said Tuesday. The newest well to come in is on the Walter L. Newton farm at 5631 W. Seven Mile Rd. It was brought in Sunday, and is expected to produce approximately 200 barrels per day—the same as the other wells in the vicinity—after the usual process of cleaning out the bore.

Others now producing are the LeMaster No. 1 on Napier Rd.; the Kehrl-LeMaster No. 5, one-eighth of a mile westward; the Nerreter No. 1 and No. 2 on Chubb Rd. between Seven and Eight Mile Rds.; the Balko No. 1 on Eight Mile; and the Dolan Bros. No. 1 just south of Nerreter No. 1 on Chubb Rd.

Two other wells are producing gas, three are closed but capable of producing gas whenever production hurdles can be cleared and two are "resting" and expected to produce oil in the near future. One of these is the Springer-Williams well across Chubb Rd. from the Nerreter wells.

Since the LeMaster discovery was completed in January, 44 drilling permits have been issued for work in the field. Out of the total, 11 wells are now being drilled and 12 have been completed as dry holes. Work has not yet started on the remaining eight.

The field is three miles west of Northville.

Civil Defense Demonstration Called Success

Northville's first civil defense demonstration was pronounced a success Monday night by Northville Director Oscar Hammond.

Wayne County Civil Defense Coordinators Wyatt Barnes and William Sibert, here as official observers, also staid they were well satisfied with the results.

As the "air raid" siren sounded at 7:20 p.m., police and auxiliary officers began blocking roads leading into the Village, and all motorists were directed to pull over to the side and stop. Pedestrians immediately sought shelter, and only a few cars which did not meet the road blocks were found to be moving.

Generally, residents of the Village complied with published instructions for the ten-minute period of the alert. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carlson, 701 Fairbrook, aged 92 and 86, proceeded to the basement of their home and checked the lights and water, but reported later that they had forgotten to take a flashlight and pliers.

Children in the Otis Tewksbury home, 350 S. Wing, got behind heavy chairs and stayed there until the alert ended.

School Study Group Begins Second Phase

School boards of all districts in the Northville-Novu area will call meetings within the next two weeks to lay plans for Phase Two of the school study which has been going on since last spring. Mrs. Martha Milne, spokesman for the joint study group of 36 residents of the area said that Phase Two will concern "What Do We Want?"

This section of the 14-month long study will contain anticipated school needs for the area, building, curricula, and whatever else it is deemed desirable to include for the future.

Chapman Meeting Held
Initial discussion of the second phase of the overall project were discussed last week at a meeting held in the Novi Community building, William Templeton, of the Chapman school district, gave a resume of a meeting already held in his area, and presented various details that were brought up. It was at this meeting that the decision was made for all school boards to call meetings in order to facilitate the gathering of necessary information for Phase Two.

The Northville School Board and district members met last night Wednesday, October 27 at the Northville Grade school. The Putnam School District has called a meeting for tonight, Thursday, October 28, 8:00 to be held at the home of Mr. Andrew Burgess, 25805 Beck Road. The Durfee School District will meet on Thursday, October 28, 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. Paul Beard, 41261 Eight Mile Road.

A 45-page report covering Phase One has now been distributed by the Oakland County Board of Education. Some of the highlights of the first fact finding report are outlined here by subject. The report has been divided into five sections: "What Is Taught?" "The Financial Story," "How Many Students?" "Available Facilities," and "Auxiliary Services." The curricula of the three grade schools, Novi, Northville and Chapman, differ very little. They all present the following—Reading, Penmanship, Spelling, Communications, Social Studies, Arithmetic, Science, Health and Safety, Music and Art. The Northville High school is the only high school in this area and has been on the approved list of the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools since 1940. Full-time students are expected to carry 40 hours of credit per year.

198 Tuition Students
The study area has a county equalized valuation for 1954 of $13,181,598. The average current operating cost per student (exclusive of capital outlay costs for plants and equipment) of all schools (1590 students in 3 schools) is $280.82, ranging from $170.16 to $283.72 for the various districts. The cost in local taxes per membership child for 1953-54 ranged from $72.05 to $174.22. There were 198 tuition students in the Northville-Novu Area; Northville receiving 176, Novi — 18, Walled Lake — 3 and Farmington — 1.

The enrollment for all schools, all grades in the survey for 1953 is 1590. The total estimated enrollment for all schools, all grades for 1960 is 2580 (this does not include any abnormal concentrated growth as it is projected on an average percentage basis). The centers of population are shown as Grand River at Novi (Novi Village), Austin Drive Area of Walled Lake, Novi Heights, Trainor-Ville (Nine Mile and Beck Roads), Willowbrook Village (Ten Mile and Meadowbrook Roads) and the village of Northville.

There are 58 classrooms being used in 4 public school buildings at present with a total pupil capacity of 1687 (1953-54). Transportation facilities include 8 buses (1 leased), a station wagon and private transportation.

Mrs. Arthur Pohl has sold her home on Seven Mile Rd. to Mr. and Mrs. Nesselink. Mr. Pohl is spending the winter in Orlando, Fla., where she will be near her brother and two sisters.

State, Federal Candidates Intensify Campaigns As General Election Nears

Political drums began thumping with increased tempo this week as candidates for various national, state and county offices intensified their campaigns prior to the general election next Tuesday.

Several of the major candidates have scheduled visits to the Northville-Plymouth area, or already have made appearances here. These include Martha Griffiths, Democratic candidate for the congressional seat now held by Charles G. Oakman; Oakman, Probate Judge James Sexton; and both of the gubernatorial candidates, Republican Donald S. Leonard and the incumbent, G. Mennen Williams.

Teenagers Steal Automobile Here

Three teenagers from Plymouth and Wayne have been turned over to the Wayne county juvenile authorities following their apprehension on a charge of stealing a car belonging to Othol Baggett, 319 Randolph St.

The car was taken from the driveway of Baggett's home at midnight and the three youths were caught in Livonia at 1:45 a.m., Monday by patrolman Ed Campbell and Robert McIntyre.

The trio, one of whom is 15 and the others 16, told Sergeant Robert Campbell, former resident of Northville and now a member of the Livonia police force, that they had attempted to steal another car belonging to Richard Keen, 211 N. Rogers, but were frightened away when Keen came out of the house. They then stole Baggett's car, according to police, and drove to Livonia where they were seen by Campbell and McIntyre at a tavern.

Vandals, Thieves Ransack Homes In This Vicinity

Vandals and thieves who have been operating in the area from the Washtenaw county line to Southfield are being sought by state police of several municipalities.

Several instances of homes being ransacked have been reported within the past month, including that of Mr. and Mrs. John Riley, 19821 W. Hill St., where intruders broke several windows and smashed a few doors during the family's absence.

State police found that a window in the storm door had been broken, and the screen slit. A pane in the kitchen door had been smashed to gain entrance. Telephone wires had been cut to forestall any calls for assistance in the event, officers surmised, that the intruders were surprised, while ransacking the house. The knob on a bedroom door, which had been locked, had been knocked off.

Apparently the thieves were interested only in money, for while the home had been thoroughly searched, nothing was taken except a barometer.

State police also were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Crusoe, on W. Nine Mile, who returned home one evening to find a man in the house. They immediately locked themselves in a bedroom and telephoned Northville police. Since they live outside the Village, however, state police were called, but by the time they arrived the intruder had fled.

Two gold watches and a pistol were among the things stolen, officers said.

In Southfield township, burglars practically denuded a model home which was not guarded at night. Completely furnished, the owners discovered that furniture, drapes, rugs, clocks had been taken.

Officers still are searching for thieves who some time ago broke into new houses at Willowbrook village, on Ten Mile Rd. east of Meadowbrook, there, the owners reported that even freshly planted shrubs had been dug up and carried off.

Auxiliary police have since been employed to guard against a recurrence.

Democratic Rally Set

Gov. Williams and several candidates for federal, state and county offices will take part in a Democratic rally at 8:15 p.m. Oct. 30 in the Smith school, Lincoln and Simpson Sts., Plymouth. Northville voters have been invited by the Plymouth Democratic club to attend the rally.

Tomorrow, Sen. Homer Ferguson, Republican incumbent, will be in Northville from 10 to 11 a.m. He will be accompanied by Rep. Oakman, and the two will spend the hour meeting people on the streets and talking to them in person.

Tuesday, Oakman was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Northville Rotary club, and answered a number of questions propounded by his opponent, Mrs. Griffiths, the preceding Tuesday.

State Rep. Rollo Conlon will speak tonight at the Community building on his proposed amendment for the allotment of 2 cents of the 3 cent sales tax for school funds. As this proposal will help voters decide whether to approve this amendment.

Meanwhile, throughout the nation, observers are divided on predictions that the U.S. Senate, the House of Representatives, or both, will have a Democratic majority in the next congress.

Democratic Victory?

Thirty-nine of 50 Washington political writers see the Democrats with a majority in one or the other of the houses of congress, basing their predictions on economic considerations.

Republicans, however, claim that under the Eisenhower administration, the total of unemployed has shrunk from 4,450,000 to slightly more than 2,300,000, and that if Republicans turn out in force they will present the President with a cooperative congress.

As usual, the ballot box will provide the ultimate answer.

P & A Reopening Set For Nov. 3

Northville motion picture fans will be able to see three recent pictures as their first movie fare in three years when the P & A theater reopens its doors Nov. 3.

Mgr. Sam Stremich announced Tuesday that the first feature will be "The Student Prince," starring Ann Blythe. The picture will be in Cinemascope and full color.

The second picture, to start Nov. 7, will be "The High and the Mighty," with John Wayne and Claire Trevor, also in Cinemascope, while the third, to start Nov. 10, will be Jack Webb's "Dragnet."

The theater will operate seven nights a week, and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays will have continuous shows from 3 p.m. until 11 p.m.

Bobby J. Bryan of Plymouth paid a $15 fine and $15 damages to the car of Carol Joanne Dion of Walled Lake following an automobile collision at Main and Griswold streets.

The Phoney Prophets

Going the rounds from coast to coast these days is a little jingle which reads:
"It must make a pessimist feel like a bum,
"When that predicted decline keeps declining to come!"

As it is so often the case with verse, light or otherwise, there's more truth than poetry in it. And today's facts and figures bear out the truth of this one, to the consternation of the prophets of Gloom and Doom.

We are experiencing the development of a dynamic and expanding economy which is not only strengthening our national defense against potential enemies from within and without but is also promoting a higher standard of living for all Americans.

We are benefiting from the greatest tax reduction in history—annual savings totaling $7,400,000,000 with nearly two-thirds of the benefits going directly to individuals.

More than 62,000,000 people are gainfully employed; wage rates and disposable personal income are at all-time highs.

That predicted decline sure does "keep declining to come!"

An Important Election

It isn't "just another off-year election" coming up on November 2. It is one of the most important elections in many years.

On that day the voters of this nation will decide, among other things, who will represent them in Congress. And that is a matter of the utmost importance.

It is a good, healthy thing for the country that voters everywhere are concerned about the qualifications of those who will represent them in Congress, as well as about state and local issues.

But, it must be remembered that in almost every state you must be registered before you can vote.

REGISTER — and VOTE!

Your Vote Counts!

Local issues, state and national issues—and, because of our world leadership, world issues—will be decided at the polls on November 2.

Whatever else you may do on that date, VOTE!

FIRST! In this important year of decision, don't be a vote slacker!

Many elections have been settled by margins of one vote per precinct, or less.

A single vote certainly does count—and it might be your vote!

It is true that practice makes perfect in most cases, but does not apply to people who talk too much.

The underdog gets plenty of advice and sympathy—but nothing that will help him get from under.

Nowadays if a man makes half enough to live on he has to be paid twice as much as he is worth.

Judge James H. Sexton Lauded As "All Judge"

By Carl Muller

A one-man inquiry was made recently into the background reputation, work, personality and personal life of Probate Judge James H. Sexton.

The inquirer has been hearing for 25 years a lot of talk to the effect that "Jim" Sexton approached the ideal of the unobtrusive, helpful, able and hard working officeholder — was the type of man to whom the word "politician" in its opprobrious sense could have never been applied.

Having only a nodding acquaintance with Judge Sexton, the researcher first talked to attorneys. These are some of their comments:

"Jim" Sexton? He is 'all Judge'. He knows probate law inside and outside and upside down. And on the bench he is always thinking of the law, never of any advantage to himself."

Another lawyer—"In addition to being a good Judge, and an impartial one, 'Jim' Sexton is one of the kindest men on two feet. He is the kind of man you would like to go fishing with. Being a kindly and a conscientious man, he often inflicts hours of torture upon himself trying to decide what is the right thing to do in mental incompetency cases and such."

Started Career in 1923

All of the lawyers commented that Judge Sexton was a "gentleman," helpful especially to young lawyers.

But so much for what the attorneys think.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

How God's infinite love for man redeems man from sin by destroying sin and revealing man's divine, sinless nature, will be explained at Christian Science services Sunday. The Lesson

Sermon is entitled "Everlasting Punishment."

Among the passages from the Bible will be read the story of the Prodigal Son, including his forgiveness and his welcome back to his father's house, as told in Chapter 15 of Luke's gospel.

The following selection on the overcoming of sin will be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary

Baker Eddy (327:9-13):

"Evil is sometimes a man's highest conception of right, until his grasp on good grows stronger.

Then he loses pleasure in wickedness, and it becomes his torment.

The way to escape the misery of sin is to cease sinning. There is no other way."

The Golden Text is from Psalms

(130:7): "Let Israel hope in the Lord:

for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plentiful redemption."

200 Persons Honor 30 New Citizens At Annual Northville 21er's Banquet

Thirty new Northville citizens who will be eligible to cast their first votes Nov. 2 were honored last week by 200 persons who gathered in the dining room of the Lutheran church for a banquet and the award of citizenship certificates.

Sponsored by the Northville Coordinating council, the banquet is an annual affair intended to impress upon those attaining voting age and those who have become naturalized, the responsibilities of citizenship.

Dr. McCluskey Speaks
Mrs. Samuel Geraci, president of the council, acted as mistress of ceremonies, and introduced the guests and speakers. Dr. Howard W. McCluskey, of the University of Michigan, spoke on "Democracy and How It Works"; Northville Mayor Claude N. Ely presented citizenship certificates to four naturalized citizens; and Mrs. William Cansfield presented the awards to the 26 Northville young men and women who have passed their 21st birthday.

The entire program was tape recorded, according to Mrs. Geraci, and will be used by Dr. McCluskey in adult education classes throughout the middlewest.

The four naturalized citizens are: Mrs. Rachel Hills, Mrs. Helen Hay, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McKinney.

Sounds Keynote
John Poulis, Jr., who attended last year's 21er's banquet, sounded the keynote of the affair by saying:

"It is difficult to express how a 21er feels on such a memorable occasion. Last year at this time I attended the 21er's banquet not fully realizing the added responsibilities that had been placed upon my shoulders when I became 21. But during the course of the evening, the spirit that prevailed, clarified my position and duty as a citizen of our nation.

"This banquet brings out many things. It shows that Mrs. Geraci and all of you have made the ideal of citizenship a reality, it shows your interest and need for us—the younger generation. To the 21er and to me, this banquet is a new birth. We are minors no longer, we are now adults. It is through your efforts that we are ready to step in line and voice our opinion.

"It is up to us now. You have done your part to fulfill our civic responsibilities. Yes, it's a great thrill to stand in line beside your parents and to have the privilege of having your vote count.

"On behalf of the 21ers, I would like to thank the parents and all of you for the lesson we are learning here tonight. "Generation after generation has said, well, this old world is yours now, son. It's not in too good a shape, but it's home. When our time comes we hope to say: well, son, this old world is yours; Cherish it as we have, take part in the government as we have, for there's NO PLACE LIKE HOME."

PROCLAMATION

As Mayor of Northville I do hereby proclaim the period from October 20, 1954 to November 11, 1954 as AMERICAN LEGION WEEKS—or "AL WEEKS".

During that time I ask all citizens in this community to note well the record of accomplishment established over the years by The American Legion through its local, state and national organization.

The American Legion has performed valiantly in the fields of Community Service, Rehabilitation, National Security, Child Welfare and Americanism. It has earned its spurs as a proven friend of the veteran, the community, state and nation.

It is fitting and proper that the Village of Northville salute The American Legion on this occasion and help this great veterans organization celebrate "AL WEEKS" Oct. 20 to Nov. 11.

I ask all members of this community in addition to our civic service groups to help in the observance of "AL WEEKS". I join with The American Legion in extending an invitation to all eligible veterans to become Legionnaires during this American Legion Weeks enrollment for 1955.

CLAUDE N. ELY,

Mayor, Village of Northville

Woman's Club to Visit Historical Museum in Detroit

A field trip to Detroit will be a feature of the November program of the Northville Woman's club, Mrs. Charles Yahne, program chairman, announced this week.

Members are to meet Nov. 5 in the Hall of Citizenship of the Detroit Historical museum at 1:30 p.m. for a guided tour of the building.

The women will spend one and a half hours seeing many historical objects, such as documents, flags, clothes, manufactured products and dioramas as a great city. Club members will enjoy especially walking down the reconstructed streets of old Detroit over the wooden blocks and looking in windows of long ago. Two old Detroit streets have been so constructed in the basement of the building.

The original plan for the club to meet in the library at 12:30 before the drive to Detroit, has been discarded, according to Mrs. Yahne, and all members who are driving to Detroit Nov. 5 will go without a preliminary meeting at the library. But, she warns, everyone must be in the Citizenship hall at 1:30 to participate in the guided tour.

Club members should allow plenty of time for Detroit traffic and for finding a parking space in a busy section of the city. The museum is located at 5401 Woodward Ave.

Anyone who does not have a ride, may obtain one by calling Mrs. Douglas Bathey, transportation chairman, at 348.

Among the many callers at the Kirkey home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Clemens and son David from Dearborn, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Grace and son Donny from Lake Orion, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Leach and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Norman Jr. from Garden City.

Clarkston Tames Mustangs By Score Of 19 To 13; Holly Is Next

Girardin Runs 50 Yards For Northville Score

Northville High school's Mustangs showed much improvement over the previous two contests, but Clarkston's fired-up squad proved too tough, and the Mustangs went down to their second straight defeat last Friday, 19 to 13.

Tomorrow, the team will tangle with Holly here at 8 p.m., in an effort to get back on the winning track.

Pass Scores Touchdown

The Mustangs spotted Clarkston two touchdowns and an extra point before they could get started. In the first quarter, Quarterback Yahnke passed 48 yds. to Right End Carman for a touchdown, and Johnson kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter, Pat Thompson to a handoff from Yahnke on the Northville 40 yard line, swung around right end, and raced 40 yards to the goal, Johnson missed the try for the extra point, and Clarkston led, 13 to 0.

Northville narrowed the gap when the Mustangs worked the ball to the Clarkston 15, and Bell passed to Schultz for a score. Schulz missed the extra point.

Runs 65 Yards

Following an exchange of punts, Thompson cut through the Mustangs on the Clarkston 35, and raced 65 yards to score. Johnson again missed the extra point, and the half ended with Clarkston on the long end of a 19 to 6 score.

A few of those ever present fumbles ruined Northville's attempts to get into scoring territory. A ten yard run by Girardin for a touchdown was called back because of the backfield in motion, and when the Mustangs worked the ball to the Clarkston one yard line a fumble ended the drive.

Later in the fourth quarter Bell hit Girardin on a screen pass, and the fleet halfback rambled 50 yards to score. He made the extra point on an end run, but the Mustangs were unable to push across another tally and the game ended with Clarkston the victor.

THE NORTHVILLE RAMS butted and scrambled to a 62 to 0 victory over a Novi school gridiron team at Ford field Saturday night. The visitors were completely outclassed by the Northville 12 to 14 year olds who scored practically every time they got the ball. A team of Bently boys will be played later, and the Rams will take on the Cats, also of Northville, in the annual tilt Halloween night.

Wild Life Notes...

LANSING—Some permits were still available early this week for Michigan's December 1, any deer season, but they were going fast.

Out of a total of 81,000 available permits, state workers said 2000 remained available for area D, 4000 for area B and 12,000 for area A.

A Dunbavin Butcher, director of fisheries and game, the state of Victoria, Australia, is currently taking a three-month view of Michigan conservation work.

Only one forest fire, burning 18 acres, was reported in Michigan last week.

A total of 948 fires have burned 3629 acres of state forests and grasslands this year. The state reports covered all lands except federal forest acreage.

"The Michigan Deer Story," the state conservation department's 27-minute color-sound film, is proving almost too popular.

C. J. Tinker, in charge of the department's film loan section, says the 30 available copies of the film are booked up solidly to Thanksgiving.

Clubs, schools and other civic groups are asked to be patient about requests for the film. The picture was completed this summer and shows development of the state's whitetail herd, its range and current problems.

State fisheries workers have asked for more funds to carry on their fight against the sea lamprey in the Great Lakes.

Recent heavy rains in Michigan have produced a good crop of mushrooms, free to anyone who cares to pick the tasty growths.

Managers of southern Michigan state parks report that many persons have been hunting the woodland delicacies during recent days.

But conservationists urge extreme caution in using mushrooms. Several books are available showing poisonous and non-poisonous types.

Northville Loses Baseball Playoff

Rained out for five straight weekends, Northville's entry in the Inter-County Baseball league finally went to bat Sunday, but for the second straight year bowed to the Detroit Auto club in the championship playoffs.

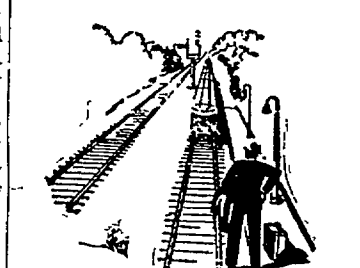

Northville downed Wyandotte, 4 to 3, in the first game to reach the finals, blasting the visitors at Cass Benton park. At the same time, Auto club was defeating River Rouge by a 9 to 8 score.

The two winners then met at Riverside Park later in the afternoon, and Northville came out on the short end of a score 6 to 0 score.

Sponsors for the Northville club during the season were: Braders, Ely Fuel Co., Schrader's, Cavalcade Inn, John Foulis Bar, George Miller, Dodge-Plymouth, Rathburn Chevrolet, Gamble Store, Northville Recreation.

Steve Folino was the team's manager.

The Professor Says

Dr. William G. Mather, professor of rural sociology at Pennsylvania State College spoke the truth when he told the National Council of churches that the measure of religion can be no more be gauged by church membership

"than the counting of a number of people in an area is a measure of health." Church membership has been made a very easy matter by churches who have modernized their methods by setting the scripture requirements for membership and inviting in anyone who wants to be a member. The real church is composed only of sinners who have repented of their sins and put personal faith in Jesus Christ. By the very creative act of God they have become the new creations of God (see II cor. 5:17) and their desires were changed. ONLY PEOPLE WHO HAVE BEEN BORN OF GOD SHOULD EVER JOIN ANY LOCAL CHURCH. The church was never intended to be a Community society to include all the people who have a splattering of goodness. The genuine church is an exclusive organism made up of people whose hearts have been changed by the Holy Spirit. A people who love Jesus Christ and seek to honor Him by living in subjection to Him. The world has no place in this church and the church is not at home in the world. Are you united or are you merely uniting to a church?

Miss Grace Tremper

Although she's 80 years old, Miss Grace Tremper, 124 E. Dunlap, still is noted in Northville for her cheerfulness and a lifetime devoted to the service of others.

Always active in Methodist church circles, she has won an enviable reputation for friendliness and her helpful hands. When Northville was smaller, she knew everyone in her church, but now so many of her friends have passed on that she knows few of the present congregation.

She was born at West Bloomfield, east of Walled Lake, in 1866. Her father died in 1892, and having no brothers or sisters, she was left to take care of her mother alone.

For six years she was employed by the Northville Record, setting type. Then her mother became an invalid so she had to stay home and care for her. As a means of earning a livelihood, she took in boarders. Her mother died Christmas day, 1928.

One of the vivid memories of her life was a trip to Quebec which was sponsored by a Detroit newspaper in 1908. One of 40 winners in a contest, she went on the trip with 39 other girls and remembers it as the most eventful event in an otherwise uneventful life.

Still in good health, she remains active in the church, and one of the circles of the Methodist Women's Society for Christian Service is named after her.

She has never had much in the way of worldly goods, but she has always worked hard and is beloved by all those who know her.

Coordinating Council's First Year Activities Recited by R. H. Amerman

A check of the records of the Northville Coordinating Council reveals an enviable list of accomplishments in the community dating from its inception, Russell Amerman, Superintendent of schools and one of the founders of the council reported last week at the annual Citizenship banquet. The activities of the first year are particularly interesting, he recalls.

The first indication that groups and individuals in Northville were interested in forming a coordinating or community council was contained in a letter written by the superintendent of schools, dated November 20, 1939, to Dr. Howard McCluskey at the University of Michigan. In this letter he suggested to Dr. McCluskey that the Northville Rotary and Exchange clubs were interested in organizing a council and would like to send a delegation to Ann Arbor to meet him and consider the possibilities of forming a Northville chapter.

The records reveal that on Feb. 16, 1940, this delegation did meet with Dr. McCluskey and Alvin Zander at the University of Michigan. The members of this group were Dr. H. S. Willis, superintendent of the William H. Maybury sanatorium, Reverend H. S. Lord of the Methodist Church, William H. Cansfield and R. H. Amerman.

On March 6, 1940 Roger Zinn, from the University staff, met with a group in Northville to discuss the aims and objectives of a community council. They concluded that two projects should receive prior consideration. One would be recreation program and the second a young voters' recognition banquet.

The next entry pertained to a visit by Alvin Zander on March 7, 1940 with Amerman.

"By the last of April things really began to happen," Amerman said, "because on April 30, 1940 an organizational meeting was held in the American Legion Hall, with Roger Zinn representing the University of Michigan."

Local representatives included: Mrs. Levi Eaton, Mrs. E. M. Bogart, M. C. Gunsell, W. H. Cansfield, G. V. Harrison, Ward Masters, Mrs. H. H. Johnston, Reverend T. W. Smith, Maynard Travio, R. H. Amerman, Mrs. R. E. Geraghty, Dr. W. H. Johnston (chairman), and Mrs. K. A. Kitchen (Secretary).

They agreed to hold the citizenship recognition day in the fall.

On June 4, 1940 Mr. Zander met with the group to draw up plans for a summer recreation program. Twelve members were present at this time and they decided on the details of the recreation program.

On August 6, 1940 the group met again with 23 members present. Business consisted of planning for the Citizenship banquet. And again on August 14 another meeting was called with 14 in attendance.

Oct. 29, 1940 proved to be the climax of the first year's activities of the new Council. This was the date of the first Annual Citizenship Recognition Banquet for young voters. Highlights of the evening were:

238 people were in attendance at the dinner held in the Presbyterian Church house, together with 40 21ers.

Dr. W. H. Johnson was chairman.

Dr. Reverend Howard Chapman delivered the invocation.

Carl H. Bryan, Mayor, extended words of greeting to the honored guests.

Mayor Edward Jefferies delivered the address of the evening.

"SELF-HELP"

Increasing sales and expanding its market have been foremost objectives of this cooperative during the past three years.

Through the mediums of advertising and publicity "Milk as a Beverage" has been promoted as never before in the greater Detroit market with gratifying results.

Creating new markets and strengthening old ones is a "self-help" project instituted by the members of this organization as a cooperative means of protecting farm income by the same methods as are used in successful private industry. It is a demonstration of forward thinking on the part of farm cooperative membership.

Above is pictured a giant spectacular electrical display at one of Detroit's heaviest traffic intersections (Woodward Avenue and Seven Mile Road). Greater Detroit is "milk conscious" as a result of the promotional program carried on by the producers' organization.

Dairy farmers are able to carry out such a project by means of a strong cooperative.

Northville Girl Studying In France Writes of Her Impression of Paris

Quite an exciting event has happened to me since I last wrote you. Charles Rohan-Chabot called me up last week and asked me if I would like to spend Sunday in the country. By the way, his family is one of the oldest and highest nobility of France. He said we would have to cook our lunch etc. and I thought it would be so much fun. Remember, Charles is the young man the Daytones in New York said they would have look me up?

At 9:30 in the morning we took off with two other male friends of his. I thought we would probably drive a few miles outside of Paris, but instead we drove to Normandy, which is about a two hour drive. The man who drove used to be a pilot in the war and he really pushed the car along. There are no speed limits at all people can drive 70 miles an hour in the heart of the city if they choose. But I wasn't scared, he was an excellent driver and since everybody drives like madmen why get bothered? There are fewer accidents than in the U.S. Odd isn't it?

The weather was beautiful and I so enjoyed seeing the countryside. The roads were in good condition, much to my surprise. Some how, I expected to see something equal to cow paths, but I do think they are even better than some of ours. I know I haven't seen a road as bad as eight mile. Normandy is west of Paris, I don't know exactly where and I must get a map so I can tell you exactly where it is. This province is noted for its apples and cider. Le Harve is included in this territory, too.

After taking a side road for a few miles, we entered a quaint village by the name of Breteuil-sur-Indes. The houses are extremely picturesque. Suddenly, we stopped in front of a huge iron gate with two copper crests on each side. That was the entrance to his little country home! It was a Chateau! You have never seen a mouth quite as far open as mine. The concierge hurried out of his little house to open the gate and we entered the most beautiful grounds. We drove through a winding road with immense trees on either side and then crossed two little rivers. There are nine rivers on the estate.

Then, suddenly, we came to a clearing, a lawn equal to that of Mt. Vernon, and on the left standing on a hill was the castle and on the right was a huge pond, with trees and statues. It was simply beautiful. We drove through more woods to another circular clearing with paths leading to where I do not know. Everything was symmetrical.

We turned to the left and arrived at the entrance to Charles' country home. The butler was there to greet us. He took us on a tour through the whole building. You have never seen such beautiful furniture, silver, crystal and paintings. I was simply amazed.

Beautiful Chateau

The hall was immense, all marble floors, and beautiful mirrors. To the right was a huge staircase in white stone. But straight ahead were two beautiful carved doors which opened into the main living room. The ceiling was painted in colors graduating from pale yellow to rich brown. In the center was a bird. The whole room was decorated in different shades of brown. On the walls, which were covered with some kind of beautiful wood, hung brown velvet tapestry with a background of silver threads.

When you stood a certain way the material looked yellow, another way silvery. The chairs were upholstered in the same material. I wish I could draw some of the furniture. Tables with fragile legs, so thin you could hardly see them, others had intricate wood carvings. I cannot begin to describe them.

In the next room to the left of the main room there are beautiful dutch paintings covering the walls. Charles, who has done the planning and much of the work for the complete restoration of the chateau, has concealed lighting in the ceiling. At night they shine on the paintings. It is really unique because you do not notice that there is anything shining on them. There are no reflections at all. That room has little furniture as he uses it for dancing when he gives parties.

Again to the left, through another door, is the library. This one is in an almost Williamsburg green with bookshelves on each wall. I've never seen such a fabulous collection of books. All were leather bound editions—volumes and volumes.

Charles showed us one which was a diary of Louis XV. A warm fire awaited us and we sat around and had tea. Over the fireplace was an enormous portrait of one of the Rohan-Chabots. I think it dated back to the 1700's. There were innumerable photographs of his mother who was a beautiful woman in her youth, more ancestors and relatives. There were even statues of them.

Twenty Bathrooms

Now upstairs to the second floor. I wish now I had counted the bathrooms—there must have been at least 20, probably more. All the bedrooms were planned in two's, Monsieur and Madame, with an adjoining bath between each. The bathrooms were simply huge, about as large as my bedroom at home. I just cannot remember how many bedrooms there were. All of the Madame's beds had exquisite canopies.

On the third floor were more bedrooms. He showed us one bed he had upholstered himself. He is the most talented person I have ever met. He makes furniture, paints, does everything imaginable. As I have said he has designed and planned this castle according to his fancies. However, it is very authentic. He also showed us a clock which hung over one of the beds. You pull a cord and it chimes the hour of the day. The whole chateau was filled with original things like that.

On the fourth floor were the servants quarters. You walked down a long corridor with rooms on either side—just like a hotel. He showed us rooms full of furniture and paintings that he hadn't used or refinished yet. One closet was full of authentic clothes to be worn by the servants. Rows and rows of coats, vests etc. Then on the fifth floor was an attic and it was filled with trunks of stuffed birds.

Partly Destroyed

I don't know too much about the history of the chateau. It must have been in the family for at least a couple of centuries. Parts of it were destroyed during the war, — the enemy burned the floors and destroyed many of the paintings etc.

Charles spoke French most of the time for the benefit of the other two men and as he spoke rapidly it was difficult for me to understand — consequently, I missed much of the history angle. We then ate a marvelous lunch in the main dining room. When you talked or laughed you could hear the echo—perhaps that will give an idea of the size of the room.

The floor was of many different colors of marble and the table was beautiful. Really an antique. All the crystal and silver bore the family crest Conde, I think the name of the chateau was Conde-sur-Indes. I'm not positive.

Tours Grounds.

Next came a tour of the grounds. All of the paths were covered with moss with a canopy of trees overhead. And such beautiful avenues of trees, you would look and look but you could never see the end. Everything was so perfectly planned. The only things you could hear were the birds and the babbling of the streams. It was wonderful and such a pleasant change from a city. We picked flowers—Oh, what creations! I have never seen such delicate shades of reds, blues etc. One section of the gardens was divided according to colors, one part graduating from lavender to blue to deep, almost black purple. Another, yellow to orange, crimson to maroon. We picked dozens and he gave me five beautiful bouquets. Madame was thrilled as she loves flowers.

We went back to the house to fetch some guns. Charles thought I should have a try at shooting ducks! On our way to the part of the woods where the game was, we stopped at a charming little cottage. It was perfectly round, one room, but so quaint and romantic. It stood on a crest, overlooking a stream. Underneath was the kitchen. That place, I think, was my favorite. No lighting just a fireplace and candles. So peaceful. One of the men shot a duck and Charles gave me the feather. I didn't get a chance to shoot as the ducks flew someplace else. We waited for an hour but no luck.

Recreation Center

We saw the stables which have been converted into a recreation center. He has recently had an old carriage house remodeled so that now there is a huge room with modern kitchen. Upstairs are the guest rooms, I've never seen anything like it. I think that one building alone was almost as large as the Theta house in Ann Arbor. And the linen room — piles and piles of mattresses, sheets, blankets — enough to furnish a small hotel. We had tea and cider at the house and then we left. What a wonderful day.

We are able to understand much more French and can now have more interesting conversations. We talked much about the war tonight and Madame told us some of her experiences. In the second world war she saw and suffered much. She said the winters had never been so cold and it was below zero much of the time. There was no heat and little warm clothing. For four years she had to wait in line, sometimes three hours, to get a little bread or meat. They never had butter or meat or any of the luxuries of peacetime. Even after the war things were still the same. She said people used to gather and dream of the time when they could have a cup of coffee or a glass of wine. It is quite interesting, but so hard for me to grasp. Before we left the table she said she hoped she would die before another war for she felt she had given enough of her life to that. It is just sickening. I hope there won't be another one, but if there is, I guess it is something you take and somehow you keep on living and waiting to live which to me is completely incomprehensible.

There was just an automobile accident right outside our window. The ambulance came, I hope no one was hurt. Isn't it odd that just after telling you there never any accidents in Paris, one should happen right in front of our house?

Gay

SWEETHEART, -Tex.—Reaching casually into a feed sack, Rancher W. B. Wetzel, Sr., put his hand right on a snake in the bag. Wetzel held on for dear life—until he had squeezed the life from a full-grown snake in the sack. The snake turned out to be a nonpoisonous chicken snake, however.

The GREEN THUMB

by Paul Newton

What could be a nicer gift for a "shut in" than some winter flowering bulbs? Watching a plant grow and burst into bloom gives far more pleasure than having a plant in full bloom which soon fades and dies. Amaryllis bulbs are ideal for forcing.

The amaryllis hybridizers have come a long way in producing bulbs of outstanding performance, size and color. Nondescript bulbs costing around a dollar are to be shunned. The better bulbs cost from $1.50 to $3.50.

These bulbs last for many years under good care and can be forced year after year, in contrast to the paper narcissus, and daffodils which can not be used as forced bulbs more than once.

Choosing a Bulb

Heredity more than size is a factor in determining the success to be had with an amaryllis. There are good strains and poor strains. Your best protection is to buy from a reliable dealer. In helping you to make your selection, you will often find that the long necked, slimmer bulbs are the most desirable.

In case you are ordering bulbs and have a choice to make; the Royal Dutch Hybrids, the Ludwig, van Meeuwen and van Subergen are some of the best imported strains. The Howard and Smith hybrids, originated and developed in California, are considered the best grown in the United States.

Growing Requirements

These bulbs can be grown in several media such as sphagnum moss, vermiculite, bulb fiber, but for best results use a soil mixture which is rich, light and porous. A suggested mixture is one half good compost and the other half equal parts of loam, sharp sand and peat moss. A one half cup of fine bone meal is added to each 8 inch potful of this, and to the whole add a tablespoon of tobacco dust, which has food value and kills root aphids.

Planting Directions

Choose a container which is 3 inches larger across the top than the width of the bulb. A 3-inch bulb requires a 6 inch pot. All containers should have a hole for drainage and provided with a saucer.

The roots should be spread out evenly and the bulb should be held in the pot so when the soil is added and pressed down around the roots, the bulb will be resting on the soil with only its lower half covered. An inch space should be allowed between the top of the soil and the rim of the pot for watering.

After planting is completed, set the pot, up to the rim, into a pail of water and let it soak for an hour or so. Drain the pot and replace the settled soil.

The potted bulb should be placed in an out of the way place where there is dim light and a temperature around 65. Check the soil from time to time and if it feels dry water until whole pot is moist again. Avoid allowing water to stand in the saucer.

Flowering

It will be from 2 to 6 weeks before an ivory-like tip on one side of the scaly neck appears. Then move the pot to a light window, and after the stem appears and growth becomes more rapid encouraging it by placing the pot in your brightest window. After the blossom appears if the pot is put in a cooler place in the room the blossom will last much longer.

Care After Blooming
Cut off each blossom as it fades and when the last one wanes cut the flower stem close to the bulb. There may be some leaf growth at the neck of the bulb. This should be left for food storage and the bulb set in a cool, subdued light corner to discourage any more leaf growth. Later when danger of frost is past these bulbs can be set out of doors and given weekly feedings of soluble fertilizers or liquid cow manure.

They should be placed in a cool portion of the garden where they will get the early spring sun. These bulbs can be brought doors after the foliage dries back and forced year after year.

About Bad News

There are depressing items in every issue of the newspaper. Will the entire day's mental horizons be clouded by the news of accidents, deaths, dire calamities striking homes and nations? It is hard to think and work normally with a heartache. Should the pitiful tragedy of a youth's suicide be erased blantly from our minds?

The tide of death, accidents and

suffering daily sweeps over the whole world, and much of it is reported in the newspapers and broadcasts. Should we harden our hearts toward the suffering of others in order to keep intact our reserves of calmness and concentration on the day's work?

There are many who take refuge from thinking about the world's suffering by crawling into the dark caves of Fatalism. They say: "Everything is planned. The death of that child under the wheels of an automobile was scheduled by Fate. So, why worry about it?" That kind of retreat from the discomfort of sympathy is an open door to slovenly disregard of human life. It breeds carelessness and indifference that multiply disasters.

We should weep for the bereaved. Our hearts and helping hands should go out to the unfortunate. We should deplore frightful damage to property and loss of life in a hurricane, rather than gladly celebrate the fact that "it didn't hit us." The child struck by the automobile was our own little one. The youth who lost courage to go on with life was our young brother or son. Truly, humanity is ONE FAMILY.

There is no calendar hung on the walls of Heaven fore-dating the particular events of Nature and human lives. But there is an All-Wise One who knows it is good for human souls to suffer, with the tragic victims of disease and accident; to build up the wound of those who are hurt.

Consider the goodness of the Samaritan contrasted with the soul-shriveling badness of those who publicly proclaimed their goodness but felt no sympathy for a beaten and wounded wayfarer—a stranger.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

A REPORT FROM THE CAPITOL
by Gene Alleman

Michigan's Tourist industry, biggest and best in history, is looking for another pot of gold. That was the reason that Michigan Tourist Council decided to ask the legislature for another $100,000 next year to advertise the state's attractions.

"We can't compete with other states which spend more money on promotion," said Chairman Robert W. Budd.

Michigan ranked third as a tourist state three years ago, behind New York and California. Now it has slipped to fifth, with Pennsylvania and Florida moving up.

Budd said Michigan is paying out the same number of dollars as before, but they don't buy as much advertising.

Last year, the Council received $331,000, but turned over $100,000 to the four regional tourist councils. With another slice taken our for administration, the state office is spending $146,000 for promotion this year.

Budd said tourists spend millions in Michigan each year—most of it taxable. This turns back money to the state treasury in liquor, sales, cigarette and other levies.

Legislators in the past have heard requests for more advertising money with an almost phenomenal lack of enthusiasm. They threaten to cast the council into oblivion and turn over the function to local Chambers of Commerce.

But, 1955 will be around Jan. 1 and the election will be history for another two years.

CHILDREN ARE BEING politely asked by State and Federal governments to drink more milk. Federal authorities have released $1,500,000 to the state this year to expand the school milk program and the kids are being asked to help.

Under the old arrangement, the schools received a 1-cent rebate on each bottle or milk sold. The new money gives the schools 4½ cents back.

In Michigan last year, school children drank 60,000,000 half pints of milk.

"The biggest problem will be to make the expanded program available to all schools on an equal basis," said Dr. Clair L. Taylor, superintendent of public instruction.

Newest idea for selling more milk, paid for in part by the Federal Government: Install milk vending machines in schools.

A YOUNG LAWYER who gambled in politics and lost is gambling again.

He is William B. Elmer, the second Democratic member of the Michigan Public Service Commission, which regulates utilities—telephone and power companies, truck and bus firms and railroads.

Elmer started in state government as a lawyer appointed as assistant attorney general. He resigned to become a Democratic candidate for Congress from the Sixth district, embracing Ingham, Livingston and Genesee counties.

He lost that gamble when the constant campaigner, Don Hayward, a Michigan State College professor, nosed him out in the primary.

Elmer was off the payroll again. Gov. Williams then appointed him to fill the vacancy on the commission created by the resignation of John M. Veale of Mt. Clemens, who also quit to run unsuccessfully for the Congressional nomination in his district.

REPUBLICANS HOPE Donald S. Leonard will be governor. If he is, Elmer will be off the public payroll again in the make-over of the executive and administrative phase of government. If Williams stays, Elmer still faces confirmation troubles with the Republican Senate.

Republicans have a prediction: It's off again, gone again Elmer.

POLITICAL BATTLES over prisons have become major pre-occupations for legislators and Gov. Williams.

They started with the first Jackson State Prison riot in 1952 and have raged since, both sides hoping for peace in the cell-blocks and setting up self-saving excuses if the lid blows again.

Key points of past skirmishes are pretty well known—the blame-fixing after the riots, the surveys, the demands for more prison space and the reluctance of lawmakers to spend unmitigated money.

The next will be fought over a plan developed by the corrections commission, all appointees of Gov. Williams.

It envisions a long-range multi-million dollar building program. A new 1,200-man prison, a separate reception center, a new woman's prison and other things.

Start looking for the first shots in the 1955 session of the legislature.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE CONGRESSMAN OAKMAN

CHARLES G. OAKMAN
17th District
REPUBLICAN

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

(To the People of the 17th District)
During my first term in Congress, I have had the unique experience of serving on two very important Committees of the House of Representatives - Banking and Currency and Public Works.

The House Public Works Subcommittee on Roads drafts the legislation dealing with all phases of the federal highway program. In view of the President's "grand plan" for a $100 billion highway building program during the next ten years, this assignment now looms as one of the most important jobs in the 83rd Congress, (the Congress YOU will elect on November 2nd). The legislation when enacted will provide five million Americans with jobs for ten years.

Also, as a Member of the House Public Works Subcommittee on Rivers and Harbors, I hope to be able to assist in getting favorable action on the legislation to provide for the deepening of the connecting channels of the Great Lakes in the Detroit River, Lake St. Clair, St. Clair River and the St. Mary's River. This legislation is necessary if we are going to get the larger ships that will use the new Waterway, which the 83rd Congress authorized, from Montreal to the mouth of the Detroit River.

In my first term in the Congress, the St. Lawrence Seaway became a reality. In my second term, I hope and believe we can get the legislation to provide for these vitally needed connecting channels.

Regardless of the results of the general election to be held in every one of the 48 states this November 2, President Eisenhower's Administration will continue in office for another two years. The President would have little chance of carrying forward his program - which is the program of the people who elected him - without a Republican majority in both the House and the Senate.

With confidence in your judgment, with pride in the accomplishments of our President and the 83rd Congress, and with great faith in even greater strides forward in the future, I seek your endorsement at the polls on Tuesday, November 2nd.

Sincerely,
Charles G. Oakman
