

Northville Takes Firm Stand on Novi Tuition Students

Board members and officials of the Northville and Novi school systems met in private session last week to iron out problems arising from Novi's difficulties in meeting tuition payments to Northville.

Echo Valley Seeks School Entry Here

A group of Novi school district residents from Echo Valley subdivision have decided to attempt the transfer of their property to the Northville school district.

The group, consisting of some 10 families, recently appointed a chairman committee and charged with the duty of carrying out the transfer.

George Lindoerfer, a member of the committee, said this week the committee met Monday to seek information pertaining to the transfer procedure.

He said the group plans to meet again next week. "We want to know what the Novi school program for next year will include," Lindoerfer said. "If we feel the children of Echo Valley will not receive the type of education we feel they should, we will certainly want to change districts."

Lindoerfer added the group also wants to know what the move would cost and what the effect would be. Superintendent of schools Tom Culbert said the move would be a transfer rather than an annexation.

He added that according to the state department of public instruction, the property owners interested in transferring to the Northville district would have to petition the Oakland county board of education.

This step would require signatures of at least two-thirds of the property owners whose land would be involved in the transfer, Culbert said.

The county board would then call a joint meeting with the Wayne and Washtenaw county boards of education, he added. (Northville school district extends into Washtenaw county on its western edge).

The three county boards would decide whether the transfer would be permitted, Culbert said. If the change were permitted and either the Northville or Novi board were opposed to the action, it could appeal the decision to the state board of education, he added.

If the county boards decided against the transfer, Culbert continued, the petitioners could also appeal the decision to the state board.

Plymouth State Home to Hold Open House

The Plymouth State Home and Training School will hold its Annual Open House on Friday. Guided tours of the institution facilities will be available for persons 14 years old or older, beginning at 1 p.m., 2 p.m. and 3 p.m.

The Open House is being planned in conjunction with National Mental Health Week, which is being observed from April 15 through May 15. The theme this year is "Community Action for Mental Health" and emphasizes the role of community organizations in the mental health field.

The institution is located at 1480 Sheldon Road, at the corner of Sheldon and Five Mile roads.

Detroit Plan Faces Fight

Non-Resident Tax Opposed

The Detroit common council last week approved a flat rate income tax on all persons, including non-residents, who work or live in Detroit.

Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh signed the tax measure into law within 20 minutes of the council's 9-0 adoption vote. The ordinance is slated to go into effect July 1.

The tax, which would effect a rate of 1.5 percent on all persons, is designed to raise $35 million a year for the city.

But at least two court cases in opposition to the tax on non-residents are planned, and state legislative action could prohibit any city from taxing non-residents.

The Bowman bill, which has passed both houses of the state legislature and is now on the desk of Governor John Swainson, would make it unlawful for any city to tax persons living outside the city.

One court case opposing the non-resident tax has been filed with the Wayne county circuit court. It was brought by a Detroit area attorney, and has been scheduled on the court docket for next month.

The other court case is threatened by the Mayors Vigilance Tax committee, a group of community heads mainly from the suburban Detroit area. The group met in Livonia Saturday to organize and lay plans for its court action.

inate decisions marked the four-hour meeting.

In the final analysis the future status of Novi students attending Northville high school rests solely with the Novi school district voters.

In boisterous language, the Northville board told Novi it will not accept its students next year unless the Novi system wins sufficient additional operating millage at the polls.

The Novi board unanimously agreed to take another millage proposal to the voters — probably in July. A proposed 6-mill hike was soundly defeated April 16.

The meeting was attended by all members of both school boards; Northville Superintendent Russell Amerman and his assistant, Dr. Kenneth MacLeod; Novi Superintendent Tom Culbert; Wayne County Superintendent of Schools Charles Brake; and William Sliger, publisher of The Northville Record-Novi News.

The two boards adjourned to separate rooms half way through the meeting to prepare resolutions of position.

Northville admitted it was taking a calculated risk in refusing to guarantee admittance of Novi students next year.

But it cannot delay longer its hiring of teachers for next year. And therefore, it will proceed on the basis that there will be an estimated 260 tuition students from Novi.

Loss of these students would put a $130,000 dent in the Northville budget (this figure includes approximately $88,500 from Novi and state aid based on enrollment). Obviously, the system would suffer from a shortage of funds and surplus of teachers.

The Novi board attempted to solve Northville's predicament by guaranteeing payment of tuition fees on schedule next year even though additional operating millage was again turned down by district voters.

Each Novi board member pledged himself to adoption of a balanced budget for the coming year — at the risk of half-day sessions and curtailment of transportation service.

Northville refused this offer on the basis that it did not want to be cast in the "role of the villain."

Board President Robert Shafer noted that Novi citizens would have reason to look with disfavor on a program that called for sharp curtailment of educational services for grades kindergarten through eight so that funds could be made available to benefit 260 high school students.

The joint board meeting was called initially to solve two problems:

1. Payment of the current tuition bill of $74,267.92 which was due April 1;

2. An answer to Northville's demand that proof of ability to pay for next year's tuition students be provided.

As host district, Novi's Superintendent Culbert opened the meeting.

He guaranteed Northville full payment of this year's bill by May 15.

(The bill was actually paid this week. Novi received a combination of advance and regular state aid payments totalling $56,250 and $5,524 in tax monies from the township treasurer.

Added to a general fund balance of $14,090.59 the Novi district was able to pay Northville $74,267.92, Farmington $195, and Walled Lake $637.89 — leaving a balance of $700 in Novi's general fund. A $68,300 loan against next year's property taxes has been okayed by the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission and will be obtained May 10 to meet the May 15 payroll and provide operating funds until fall, Culbert reported.

Culbert said that he was not aware that the tuition bill to Northville was due April 1 and that the money could have been paid on time if he had applied for the anticipated tax loan sooner.

Northville Board Member Donald Lawrence explained Northville's action in demanding immediate payment by stating that the board "became alarmed when it learned Novi was in a deficit position and adopting a deficit budget."

Discussion then moved to the matter of future tuition students.

Novi Board President Walter Ambinder stated that another proposal for an operating millage increase would be taken to the voters soon. "If it fails, we may have to cut to half days, eliminate transportation," he stated. He said that Novi would have to seek every economy it could and suggested that perhaps students could be sent to Walled Lake high school where tuition rates are lower.

At this point Northville board members probed to find out exactly how the Novi board felt about the matter of increased millage. President Shafer and Members James Kipfer, Edward Angove and Lawrence joined forces in this effort.

Kipfer called for all Novi board members' opinions. Angove challenged the board's sincerity in the April millage election noting that some members had not supported the board program. "We have to know what you're going to do," said Shafer.

Lawrence then posed three questions and asked that each Novi board member answer:

1. Is the board going to hold another millage vote?

2. Is the board going to support the proposal?

3. If the proposal loses, is the board going to operate on a balanced budget?

Novi board members expressed general agreement. They would call for another millage vote; they would adopt a balanced budget, win or lose.

But a question remained as to what members considered an adequate millage request. It appeared that members Ambinder, John MacBride and David Fried considered one mill, for physical education and music or art important.

"People of Novi don't want half day sessions or reduced bus transportation", Member A. J. Heslop stated. He explained that the school attorney had advised the board it could use a surplus (Continued on Page 6)

Closed for Repairs

ROAD CLOSED — The Wayne county road commission this week closed Eight Mile road from the intersection of Griswold street and the Eight Mile cutoff to Haggerty road. A road commission spokesman said the 1/2-mile section would be closed from 60 to 90 days to permit repaving of the two-lane road. He said local access to Eight Mile property would be provided during the closure. West-bound traffic will be detoured down Haggerty to Seven Mile, where signs will re-direct traffic through Northville and back to Eight Mile road. East-bound traffic will be re-routed from the Eight Mile cut-off down Sheldon road to Seven Mile and down Griswold to Northville road, which will carry traffic to Seven Mile road.

Council Likes Plan For Traffic Control

A traffic control plan to reduce the high vehicular use of residential streets in the northeast section of the city was submitted by a five-member study committee last week.

The report won praise from councilmembers, who promised to consider its recommendations for application as soon as possible.

The traffic study committee, formed several months ago by the city council and headed by John Stubenvoll, directed its attentions to the alleviation of north and south traffic problems caused by the new Eight Mile road cut-off in the area south of the cut-off and east of North Center street.

Specifically, the committee offered a nine-point control plan:

1. Prohibit southbound vehicular traffic from Novi road via Novi avenue to cross 8 Mile road cut-off and enter Novi avenue during the hours of 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. daily;

2. Prohibit left turns from 8 Mile road cut-off at Horton, Carpenter and Grace streets between 6 a.m. and 9 a.m. daily;

3. Install electric traffic signals at 8 Mile road cut-off and N. Center street with green arrows to allow westbound traffic on 8 Mile road cut-off extra time to make left turn, also allow northbound traffic on Center to make right turn east during known heavy traffic periods; electric pedestrian signals should be installed to allow safe passage time for heavy school children traffic;

4. Remove southbound stop sign at Baseline road and N. Center street, provided that a sidewalk is installed on the east side of N. Center between Baseline and the cut-off; fencing at the curb edge is recommended as a safety feature;

5. Increase speed limit from 25 to 30 m.p.h. for both north and south traffic from Baseline road to a point 100 feet north of Randolph; in the school area on N. Center street warning mannequins with 25 m.p.h. speed limit suggested;

6. Prohibit parking on west side of North and South Center street between Cady and Dunlap for southbound traffic from 6 a.m.-9 a.m. and the east side from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday through Friday;

7. Prohibit left turn for northbound traffic on N. Center at Randolph from 4 p.m.-6 p.m. daily;

8. Prohibit right turn for northbound traffic from Hutton to Rayson between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. daily and extend no parking signs to include all east side of Hutton from Rayson to Dunlap;

9. Install two additional stop signs at the intersection of Grace and Hill streets, making a four-way stop.

Landfill Plan Still Opposed

More than 60 area residents crowded into the Northville township hall Monday night to attend a public hearing on the newest proposal for rehabilitating gravel pit areas.

Some were there to listen, others to support the plan, but most to oppose it and even threaten legal action if it is approved.

Specifically, the meeting was called by the township board of appeals to consider a request from Sheldon G. Hayes for a permit to fill three gravel pits with rubbish from the city of Detroit.

The request was termed a "trial plan" and is confined to three holes totaling some 21 acres between Seven and Eight Mile roads in the Manning & Locking gravel pit area.

The appeals board was asked to approve the operation of a sanitary fill in the three pits for a period not to exceed six years.

Hayes withdrew a similar request — that would have included the entire 370 acre area and a 12-year landfill plan — just three months ago because of public opposition.

He has stated that it is his intention to develop the gravel pit area into a community of homesites, lakes and recreation sites.

Authority for issuing the landfill permit rests with the appeals board. It is known that Chairman Gunnar Stromberg and Member Roy Terrill favor the plan. Member John Miller has favored consultation with neighboring communities and voted against issuance of the permit when the original request was approved by Stromberg and Terrill last December.

After two-and-one half hours of public discussion and the audience had left, Miller proposed that the plan for redevelopment of gravel pits be discussed with the planning commissions of the city of Northville, Novi and Northville township.

Terrill voted against the suggestion, but Stromberg agreed to ask township board approval of the proposed meeting.

Tuesday night the township board declined to grant the request, however.

Chairman Stromberg opened Monday's hearing with a brief explanation of the plan. He explained that the rubbish would be hauled in from northwest Detroit and that garbage content would not exceed one per cent. He said the operation would be conducted under strict landfill regulations, that Hayes would provide a performance bond and that the contract would be on a year-to-year basis.

He said that there would be no burning and that a pump would be provided in case of accidental fire. Chemical sprays would be used to prevent insects and rodents and control odor, he added.

Later Stromberg introduced a representative of Moshey Associates, the township's consulting engineers, who rendered an opinion that "a properly designed and conducted landfill can be made without producing objectionable conditions and with no health hazards, through ground water or otherwise."

Many members of the audience challenged these statements, however.

James Cornelius, manager of Meadowbrook Country Club, spoke in behalf of the membership of the Eight Mile road golf club and pointed to the unpleasant aspects of a landfill "which is nothing more than a dump," he added.

R. S. Howell, whose home is adjacent to the gravel pit area and who has been an opponent of the proposal since its introduction, called for a month's delay "to organize forces." He said that he had just learned of the renewed effort on Friday. Howell also noted that on the basis of 29 trucks per day hauling fill, it would only take one year to fill the three pits in question.

Hayes explained that it would take 16 to 20 months to fill the pits.

the contract, but that application must be made now. Howell also suggested that a $25,000 performance bond was insufficient. "Let him put up $30,000. Then if he makes a mistake he'll lose real money", Howell stated.

Wilson Tyler objected to consideration of "half a loaf when we've turned down the entire project". He also questioned the desirability of rehabilitation for the sake of more homesites. He said it was a well known fact that homes do not pay for the services that must be provided by government.

H. B. Putnam, secretary of the township planning commission for 10 years, announced that he had resigned his position this week "because there are things here I cannot agree with". Putnam noted that previous engineering and consultant reports had opposed the Hayes plan.

Putnam called for a comprehensive report to include the entire area and provide "a good, sound rehabilitation program." He also called for consideration of the opinions of the people.

Others voiced similar objections.

Attorney Earl Demel of Plymouth announced that he still represented the 178 signers of a previous petition objecting to the landfill plan. He said he also represented Meadowbrook Country Club. Demel said his clients would not object to rehabilitation of the gravel pits if hardfill were used.

Donald Robinson, Chester Lipa, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Clark and W. P. Cook spoke in favor of the proposal. Lipa said he believed the plan would help property values, while Robinson noted that township experience with the courts had proven that it would be better to approve the operation and invoke strict regulations to maintain control.

No definite date has been set for a formal vote by the appeals board.

NORTHVILLE

What could be the most complete collection of Hummels in the United States — possibly in the world — is the prized possession of a Northville woman.

Just what are Hummels? Most people know and describe them as porcelain figures, winsome little china people, bright-eyed and ruddy-cheeked, clad in homespun clothes. In short, a family of charming peasants who live on a checkered shelf in the world.

No so, corrects Elizabeth Etz, school teacher, minister and owner of 500 "real" Hummels, including four originals.

AUTHENTIC Hummels, explains Miss Etz, are pictures; they are poignant sketches, mostly of people, done by Berta Hummel, a German girl who devoted her life to the church. Though the name Hummel is popularly associated with figurines, Miss Etz points out that the artist actually made only one three-dimensional figure, a representation of the Christ child called the Infant of Krumbach. She fashioned this while a nun — Sister Innocentia — at the Franciscan convent in Siessen.

As far as she can determine, Miss Etz is but one Hummel away from having a complete collection. While studying a book containing sketches by the German artist, she discovered one drawing of an infant which she does not have.

Those she has accumulated represent years of sleuthing punctuated with hope, success, irony and even death. Her inquiries for the treasured prints have spanned the ocean, generated new friendships and brought her as close as letters can to the loved ones of the talented Sister Innocentia.

Miss Etz teaches at the Wayne County Training School. An ordained minister in the Universalist-Unitarian church, she is also the school's Protestant chaplain.

Her interest in Hummels started with a gift of two prints from Mrs. Marcella Douglas, the woman with whom Miss Etz shares a home at 212 South Rogers. Slowly, whenever she chanced upon others, Miss Etz added to those first two. She got her first real lead nearly 15 years ago through an article in Hobbies magazine.

The article told of a Sister Mary Callista at Mundelein College in Chicago and the vast number of Hummels she had acquired. Miss Etz wrote to Sister Callista, beginning a friendship, and prodigious stream of letters that continued until the nun's death four years ago.

Sympathizing with what she recognized as another "bad case of Hummelitis", the sister contributed to her Northville friend's collection. She forwarded duplicates from her own collection and still others which she obtained from Germany.

SISTER CALLISTA, Miss Etz explains, had continual contact with the convent at Siessen. Sister Callista entered Siessen in the early thirties and died there in 1946 at the age of 37.

She had studied art at the Simbach secondary school and later went to Munich to attend the State Industrial school. She did the majority of her drawings after joining the convent, said Miss Etz, and might have continued on for several more years had it not been for Hitler's rise to power in Germany.

"In 1940 the Nazis took over the convent. The nuns were relegated to small quarters and many of them were dispersed to their homes, including Sister Callista. At her home in Massing, Berta appealed to her mother superior for permission to return to Siessen.

"She was permitted to return, but with the poor living conditions — the nuns had only the barest necessities — she contracted pleurisy and died."

Sister Callista's death in 1958 was a double loss for Miss Etz. Not only did she lose a friend, but her link with the artist's home was severed and her primary source of prints no longer available.

Her collection came to a virtual standstill, recalls Miss Etz. She did get some help, nevertheless, from three German girls who stayed in this country a brief time on exchange programs.

"After returning home, they carried my list of cards and sent me Hummels which I did not yet have," added Miss Etz gratefully.

Finally in 1960, Miss Etz contacted the Siessen convent. A Sister Mary Laura Brugger answered her letter. She sent along four of Berta Hummel's original sketches and a religious medal taken from the artist's paintbox.

Sister Laura wrote that she and another nun had studied with Berta in Munich.

Save for a letter from Berta Hummel's brother this was perhaps the closest Miss Etz had come to knowing the artist. It was to be a brief friendship, however.

Sister Laura's letter to Northville was her last. She died suddenly and unexpectedly the day after mailing it.

Miss Etz learned of the sister's death from another nun, Sister Wiberger, with whom she is still corresponding.

"My big dream now," says Miss Etz, "is to go to Germany and visit the convent."

Northville has its own answer to Betty Crocker, Ann Pillsbury and Duncan Hines in Marie Knapp, manager of the Northville high school lunch program.

Although she doesn't lay claim to any nationally famous line of ready to make package mixes bearing her name, Mrs. Knapp does belong to an ever-narrowing circle of cooks whose culinary bravado and skill separate them from the everyday chef.

Mrs. Knapp still experiments, still cooks via the long recipe route (instead of the add water and bake school) and still concocts her own dishes.

Recipes she's dreamed up in her 18 years of cafeteria management have been endorsed by the state and are used in school lunch programs all over Michigan.

The latest feather in Mrs. Knapp's chef's cap is a first place award in a recipe contest conducted by Delsoy Products. Mrs. Knapp turned out 14 originals using Delsoy's Dream Whip, a variety of whipping cream, and won a check for $50.

She wrote the recipes using amounts large enough to feed either a school or restaurant population, but agreed to scale some of her favorites down to family size. They appear below along with a formula for an oft-requested salad dressing.

Mrs. Knapp, who has headed Northville high's lunch program since the cafeteria opened three years ago, lives in Livonia.

She says baking's her line and calls cake decorating her hobby. She teaches the latter in adult education programs at Plymouth, Livonia and Ypsilanti. During the summer Mrs.

Knapp escapes the heat of the kitchen stove by supervising the arts and crafts in Livonia's summer recreation program.

Chocolate-Torte

3 egg whites
1/2 tsp. almond extract
1/4 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups light brown sugar (firmly packed)
1/2 cup finely-chopped nuts
1 tsp. colored sugar
1 6-oz. pkg. softened cream cheese
1 tbsp. milk
1-8 tsp. salt
1 cup whipping cream (whipped stiff)
1 tsp. vanilla

Beat egg whites with almond extract and salt until blended and foamy. Beat in three-quarter cup brown sugar gradually, until stiff and glossy. Fold in chopped nuts.

Spread on four 8-inch brown paper circles. Sprinkle one circle with colored sugar. Bake on ungreased baking sheets in a slow (300-degree) oven for 35 minutes. Cool. Peel off paper gently.

Melt chocolate over hot water. Cool for about 10 minutes. Beat cheese until creamy. Blend in milk. Beat in remaining three-quarter cup brown sugar and salt. Gradually fold cream cheese mixture, whipped cream and vanilla into cooled chocolate.

Spread three-quarters of filling on three plain meringue circles. Put circles together and top with trimmed circle. Cover sides and one inch around edge of top with remaining filling. Chill for several hours. Cut in wedges.

Serves about 16.

PRIZE-WINNING COOK — Peeking into ovens, home-size and the commercial giants, is old hat for Mrs. Marie Knapp, manager of the high school lunch program. Mrs. Knapp proved her culinary prowess recently by winning a recipe writing contest conducted by a food products company.

"We started out looking for home on the lake," says Bun-ny (Mrs. Robert) Holmes. "They've been friendly and thoughtful, even including us in their social get togethers."

Bob Holmes wasn't exactly a stranger to the Northville-Novi area. The native of West Branch is a tennis buff and has spent many afternoons on the Cass Benton clay courts. Formal opening of the convention is scheduled tomorrow (Friday) evening with a colorful International Flags ceremony. An International Fiesta and social hour will follow with consuls from representative countries as honored guests.

All club presidents will receive tribute, and recognition will be given to those whose membership rolls have shown the greatest increases at a pre-convention luncheon.

Dr. Eugene Jennings, business administration psychologist in Michigan State university's graduate school, will speak on "The Future of Working Women" at Saturday's luncheon. At the banquet later in the evening Helen Krauss, past world affairs chairman of the National Federation, will discuss "Expanding Horizons".

The Reverend Russell Hopkins will officiate at the traditional 'Sunday memorial and devotional service.

Grade Schoolers Rocket To Broadway in Musical

Some 100 Main Street Elementary school youngsters are taking a fling at show business this week in an original musical entitled "Dream Rocket to Broadway".

The production, which blends hit songs from some of the Great White Way's most popular musicals and original dialogue, is being presented today (Thursday) and tomorrow. Today's performance at 1 p.m. in the community building will be for the cast's fellow students at the Main street school. A performance tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium is for parents and the public. There is no admission charge.

Directed by Main Street music teacher Daisy Middleton, "Dream Rocket to Broadway" stars the "Choraliers", made up of fifth and sixth graders, and a second grade class. Mrs. Leland Mills is the accompanist.

Students have been working on the production for nearly two months. Costumes and scenery have been made to heighten the effect of the dancing, singing and comedy.

TOPS Lose, But too Little

The Plymouth "Pare Weighters" lived up to their name by out-losing Northville "Eater Beaters" chapter of Take Off Pounds Sensibly (TOPS) in a six-weeks' reducing contest.

For letting Plymouth out-trim them, Northville "Eater Beaters" will entertain the winners Monday night at a low calorie supper at the American school Mrs. William Schlect is in charge of meal preparation.

Speaking to the group will be the Michigan TOPS queen who lost 132 pounds last year to win the title. She is coming here through the efforts of Mrs. Victor Lon.

plus of $85,000 from construction of the Orchard Hills school to retire principal payments on the bond for the building. This would permit the board to reduce its bonded indebtedness millage — now at seven mills — by one or two mills, he noted, thereby reducing any overall millage hike that might be gained for operating purposes at the polls.

"I don't think we should go back to the people with the same plan. We must give them one they can understand. I'll do my best to sell it and I'm convinced that the people will go along," Hesch concluded.

Member Russ H. Taylor concurred with Hesch.

Before the meeting closed the Northville board also strongly criticized a letter circulated in Novi prior to the April millage election which urged a "no" vote and stated that "a member of the Northville board" had given assurance that Northville would again honor its agreement to admit Novi students.

The Northville board members branded this statement as untrue. The letter had been signed by some 29 Novi individuals and families.

Northville Assistant Superintendent MacLeod emphasized enrollment increases in the Northville system and called upon Novi to prepare to take its own ninth graders as soon as possible.

It is generally planned that Northville will continue to take Novi ninth graders through the 1963-64 year and grades 10 through 12 until about 1968.

Northville adopted resolutions to cover the present problem and a policy for the future providing the immediate financial problem is solved.

Specific resolutions as adopted by both Northville and Novi are as follows:

Northville (Present Policy) —
1. Northville will proceed with the hiring of teachers on the basis that Novi students will attend.

2. This should not be construed that Northville will accept Novi students, even though Northville may proceed with enrollment of Novi students.

3. Northville's acceptance of Novi students is contingent upon Novi guaranteeing payment with out jeopardy to Novi's own program in the elementary school.

This decision on acceptance of students will be made after the Novi budget is finally determined giving consideration to any possible increase in receipts for operation of the Novi schools.

4. The position taken in Point Three arises because the Northville Board of Education does not want to accept responsibility for the curtailment of funds available for elementary education in Novi in order to receive tuition students.

Northville (Future Policy) —
1. We will honor the agreement that we made to accept your Ninth Grade students through the year 1963-64.

2. We urgently request, however, that consideration be given to accelerating your school building program in order to retain all or a major part of your Ninth Grade students for the year 1963-64.

3. Northville will continue to accept Novi Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth Grade students as long as possible, even though Novi makes provision for their Ninth Grade students.

Mustangs Continue With Winning Ways

Northville ball players clubbed their way to two more wins, downing Bloomfield Hills 1-1 and West Bloomfield 7-4. Despite two delays and a continued threat from rain at West Bloomfield Monday, the Mustangs managed to get in five innings to pick up their sixth straight win of the season. Tom Swiss went the distance in the mound, to take his third victory. He gave up only four walks and struck out nine opponents. Steve Juday connected for his first home run — Northville's third — and doubled, scoring two runs. Brother Jim Juday doubled, picking up an RBI. Jim Anderson, Joe Hay and Dave Jerome also singled, while Roy Rice and Jeff Crawford doubled. Northville players struck out only four times, and had no bases on balls. Lanky Dan Brown went for the first five innings Thursday against Bloomfield Hills, which had been the only other undefeated team in the Wayne-Oakland league. He gave up five walks and fanned seven Bloomfield-Hills batters. Eric Peterson took over in the sixth, giving up only one walk. Batting contributions Thursday came from Jim Juday, who singled, Jim Anderson, with two hits, Craig Bell, who tripled, Jeff Crawford, who added three singles, Roy Rice, who singled and tripled and Joe Hay, who added two hits. Today (Thursday) the Mustangs travel to Holly to end the first round of Wayne-Oakland league competition. Holly has lost only to Bloomfield Hills this year.

Thinclads Race To First Victory

Northville thinclads took their first win from the victory this week, but dropped two meets before they got to it. Tuesday afternoon the trackmen pulled ahead to 86½ points to win over South Lyon (55) and Brighton (15½) in a triangular meet. But last Wednesday they were in the middle of the scoring in a triangular meet with Milford and West Bloomfield. Northville earned 33 points, while Milford had 90 and West Bloomfield 24. And Friday they lost out to both Lutheran East and Oak Park in further triangular competition. Lutheran East led the way, with 55, while Oak Park scored 43 and Northville 39. Despite the lopsided 1-4 record, Coach Paul Mack sees a glimmer of hope for a good season. He explained that he's expecting his sprinters — thus far the Mustangs' weakest performers — to "start making better showings. Lack of power in the short distances also hurts because of sprinter participation in relay events. Mack pointed to second and third places captured Tuesday in the 100 yard dash by Bob Turnbull and Pete Wharton, and to second place in the 880 and mile relays. Northville strength in distance competition has been carried by Don Biery — who set a new school record of 2:06 in the 880 Tuesday — and Russ Straith, who took first in the mile Friday and Tuesday. Hurdler Dick Batthey, missing from the Mustang line-up in the first two meets, took first in both highs and lows during last week's two meets, and captured first in the lows Tuesday. He took second in the high hurdles Tuesday. In field events, shot putter Jerry Biddle added points for Northville with first last Wednesday and Tuesday, and a second on Friday. Bill Krist has backed Biddle with seconds and thirds. He explained that he's expecting his sprinters — thus far the Mustangs' weakest performers — to "start making better showings. Lack of power in the short distances also hurts because of sprinter participation in relay events. Rain Ruins Plans Of Local Netters

Northville tennis Coach Keith Krause managed earlier this month to so schedule his team's meets that they missed nearly all of the bad weather that hampered other spring sports squads. But the devious demons that control the elements evened the score with Krause earlier this week, causing the netters to reschedule two meets because of rain. Monday's competition with Bloomfield Hills was rescheduled for yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon, while a late-scheduled match Tuesday with Ypsilanti Roosevelt was postponed until next Tuesday. Last week the Mustangs were more fortunate, being able to play their matches with Clarenceville. Northville took the meet 5-0, leaving only Bloomfield Hills as undefeated competition for Northville in the Wayne-Oakland league.

Jim Jiggins took the first singles competition, with set scores of 6-1 and 6-2. Gary Grynsiewicz copped second singles for Northville with 6-2 and 6-0 play. Only Mark Byard, playing third singles ran into any difficulty. He had to go the distance, with set scores of 6-2, 2-6 and 6-2. First doubles players Paul Rumble and Scott Palmer edged out their opponents with 6-4 and 6-4, while second doubles team mates Dave Clark and Dennis Gilbert breezed to 6-0 and 6-1 scores for the win. Today the Northville squad travels to Holly to take its second look. In the season opener, the Mustangs downed Holly 5-0 Friday they play host to Oak Park.

Krause said the three days of competition this week should help strengthen Northville netters for the league meet in two weeks. It is at this meet that the Wayne-Oakland standings are decided for the year. Northville will be defending champions at the May 18 meet, and Krause said he thinks the Mustangs stand a good chance of a repeat performance. He pointed out that the local squad has taken all its matches with W-O teams, and all were by 5-0 scores. He said he's pretty confident about winning the singles competition, but has some doubts about doubles.

Duffers Even Their Record

Northville golfers evened up the tally sheets Monday afternoon when they played hosts to a triangular meet at Meadowbrook country club. The Mustang duffers scored in the middle, losing to Brighton by two strokes but winning over Clarenceville by 43 strokes. This brought their season score up to a balanced 2-2. Northville scored 168 Monday, with Bob Hallam shooting the day's low of 40, Tom Slatery 41, Ed Beard 43 and Dave Zielinski 44. Bill Weidner also shot 44, but Coach Al Jones explained that in a triangular meet, only four players' scores are used. Brighton took both matches Monday, shooting 166. Clarenceville over-shot to a 211. Brighton scores were 39, 42, 42 and 43. Clarenceville shot 50, 52, 53 and 56. Last week, the Mustangs undershot Clarkson 175-178 to tally their first win. They had lost their opener to Milford the day before. The linksmen were slated to travel to Brighton for a return match yesterday (Wednesday). They will face competition again next Monday when they play hosts to another triangular meet, against Milford and West Bloomfield.

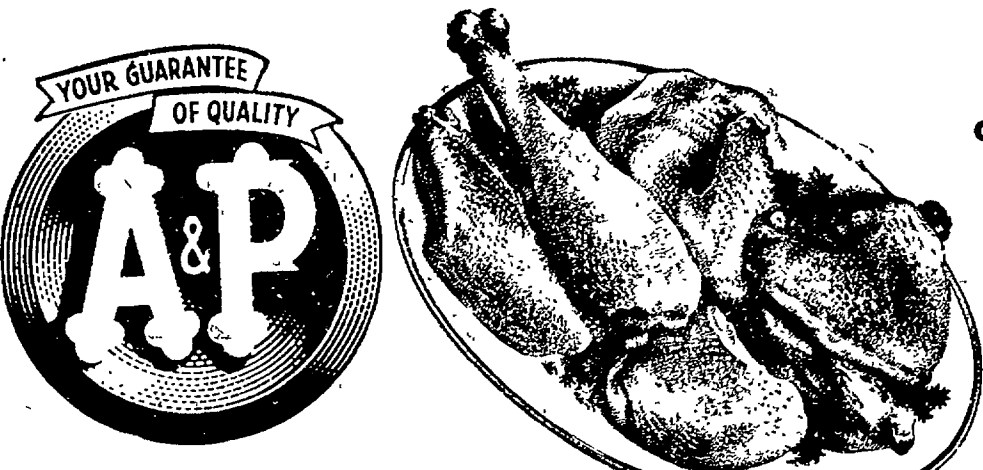

Correction

The parents of Dave Hay were incorrectly reported in last week's issue. They are Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hay, of Sunset street.

LET'S TALK CARS . . .

"The Priceless Ingredient"

I heard one of those ancient fables the other day that have a way of making more sense than a lot of our modern editorials. The "moral" of the story is as timely today as it was in ancient times — perhaps even more so when you consider how modern manufacturing and selling techniques have a way of making shoddy products and not-quite-honest business dealings look good.

Anyway, here is my little "fable". I'm sure you'll agree with me it makes a good point.

In ancient times in the city of Bagdad lived a wise old man called Hakeem. A great many people went to him for advice, which he gave freely to all.

One day there came to him a man who had spent much money but had received little for his wealth, and he said: "Tell me Wise One, what should I do to receive honest value for what I spend?"

Hakeem answered by saying: "A thing which is bought or sold has no value unless it contains that which cannot be bought or sold. When you are dealing in the market place you must always look for the Priceless Ingredient."

"But what is the Priceless Ingredient?" asked the man.

Spoke the Wise One: "My son, the Priceless Ingredient of every product in the market place is the honor and integrity of him who makes it. Consider his name before you buy."

We do our very best to put that Priceless Ingredient in all our dealings.

Judd Arnett to Address Presbyterian Men's Club

The Northville Presbyterian Men's club's annual ladies night — highlight event of the year for the organization — is slated for next Thursday evening, says Club President Philip Nauman.

The dinner event, catered by Cregar's, will get underway at 6:30 in the fellowship hall.

Following dinner, program Chairman Ed Welch will introduce as the evening's speaker Judd Arnett, Detroit Free Press columnist.

Arnett, who typically started his newspapering career at the age of 12 as a "printer's devil" in the back shop of his uncle's paper in Liberty Center, Ohio, has been a member of the Free Press staff since the fall of 1959.

Besides owning three weekly papers during his professional career, he has served in various capacities on weeklies, small dailies and metropolitan papers.

Arnett traveled to Africa for the Free Press last year, and has just recently returned from

Resident's Action Helps Police Capture Four Vandals at OLV

Alertness and cooperation on the part of a local citizen aided Northville police in the apprehension this weekend of four Plymouth youths involved in vandalism at Our Lady of Victory school.

Shortly after midnight Friday a wooden saw horse was used to smash a window at the school.

Richard M. Jennings witnessed the act from his home on Orchard drive across from the school and called police. He said he heard a car stop outside and went to the window to investigate. Although unable to get the license number, he did furnish police with a description of the car which Plymouth police identified as one they had seen earlier. They furnished a license number that led to discovery of the Plymouth youths.

Pleading guilty to malicious destruction of property in court action Saturday morning were: Quincy McCullough, 19, 44067 Gordon; Barry McCullough, 17, also of the Gordon address; Gerry Brent Canup, 17, 5825 Sheldon road; and Lyle Avery, 18, 6133 Canton Center road. Justice Charles McDonald fined each of them $25 and $5 cost and ordered them to share payment of $9 restitution for the broken window.

Junior Play

Members of Northville Junior High school Drama club have been busy sewing, painting and rehearsing for their production of "A Slice of Melon" Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the community building.

Directed by teachers Carolyn Burkman and William Mandt, the play is a one-act comedy in pantomime. It focuses on a Chinese family and the problems it encounters when the daughter reaches the age of 12 and, by Chinese custom, is ready to choose a husband.

Grass Fires Hit Again

Grass fires continued to be an area hazard last week as an unusually long dry period brought repeated fire warnings from state officials.

Novi experienced its largest grass fire of the season Friday afternoon when an area estimated at larger than 200 acres on the Paul Chargo farm, 21591 Garfield road, was burned over. Both Novi and Northville fire departments turned out to fight the blaze.

Northville also had a small back-yard grass fire near the intersection of Center and Rayson streets Friday morning.

Last Thursday a grass fire on Seven Mile road, near the fish hatchery burned over a small area, and fire burned about 10 acres of grass on Bradner road, near Six Mile Saturday.

At Northville State Hospital

Open House Starts Mental Health Week

More than 450 visitors toured Northville State Hospital Sunday as the newest of the state's mental institutions opened its doors to start its observance of Mental Health Week.

The week-long observances also include tours and career opportunity discussions this week for some 250 high school students from six Wayne county schools. These are just part of the many students who visit the 10-year old hospital each year.

loom with which patients produce many articles as part of the hospital's occupational rehabilitation program.

At lower left is the hospital's huge geriatrics section for the older mental patients. This view is from the sun deck atop the hospital's main medical building.

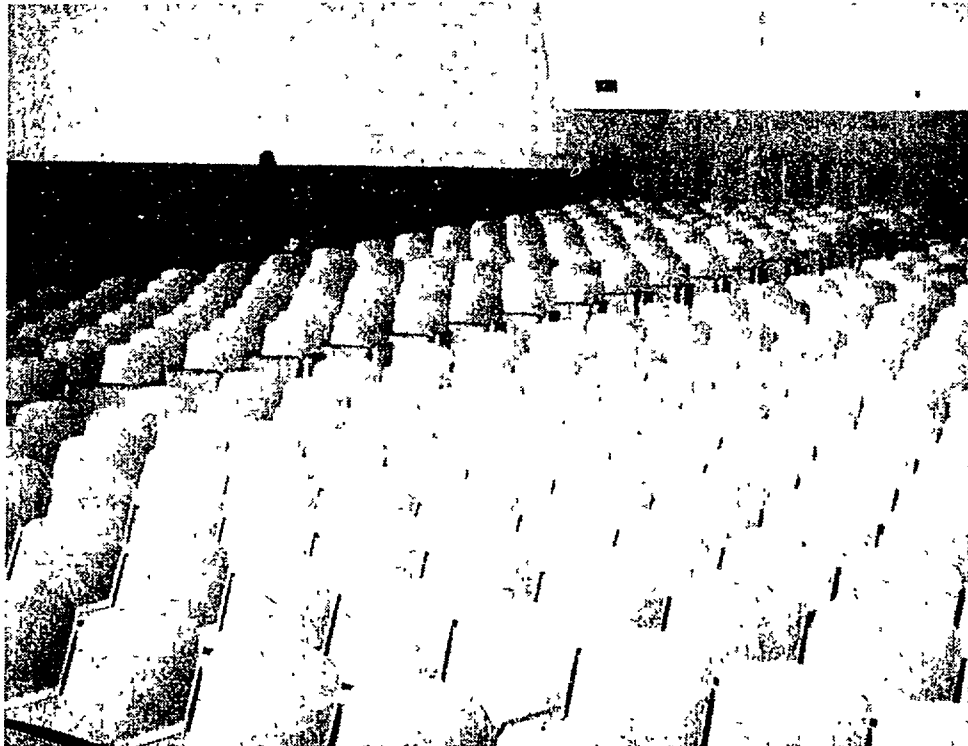

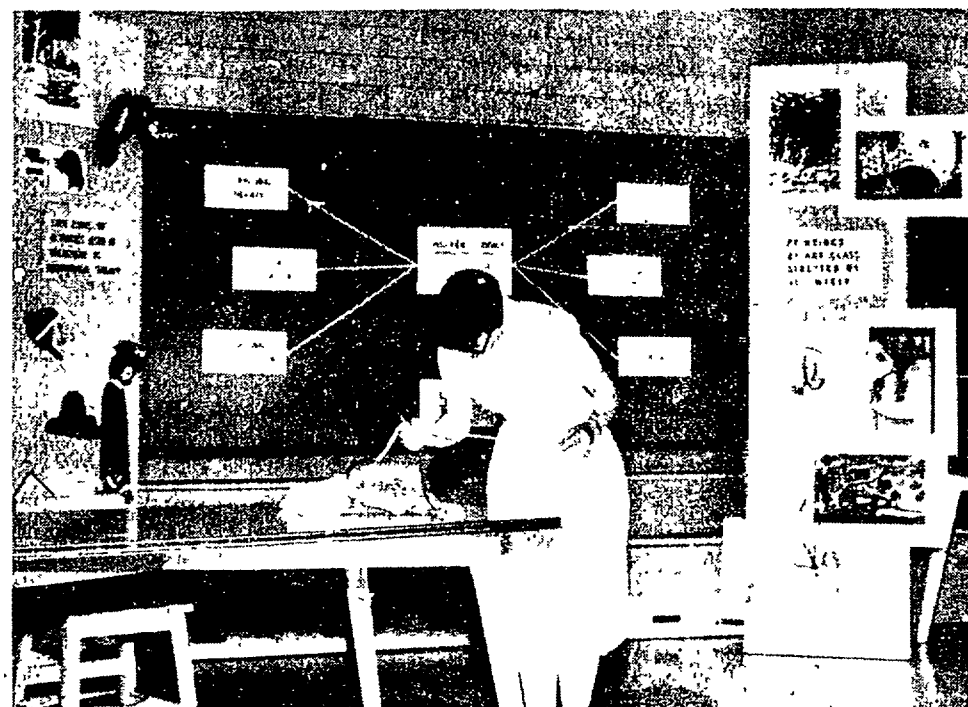

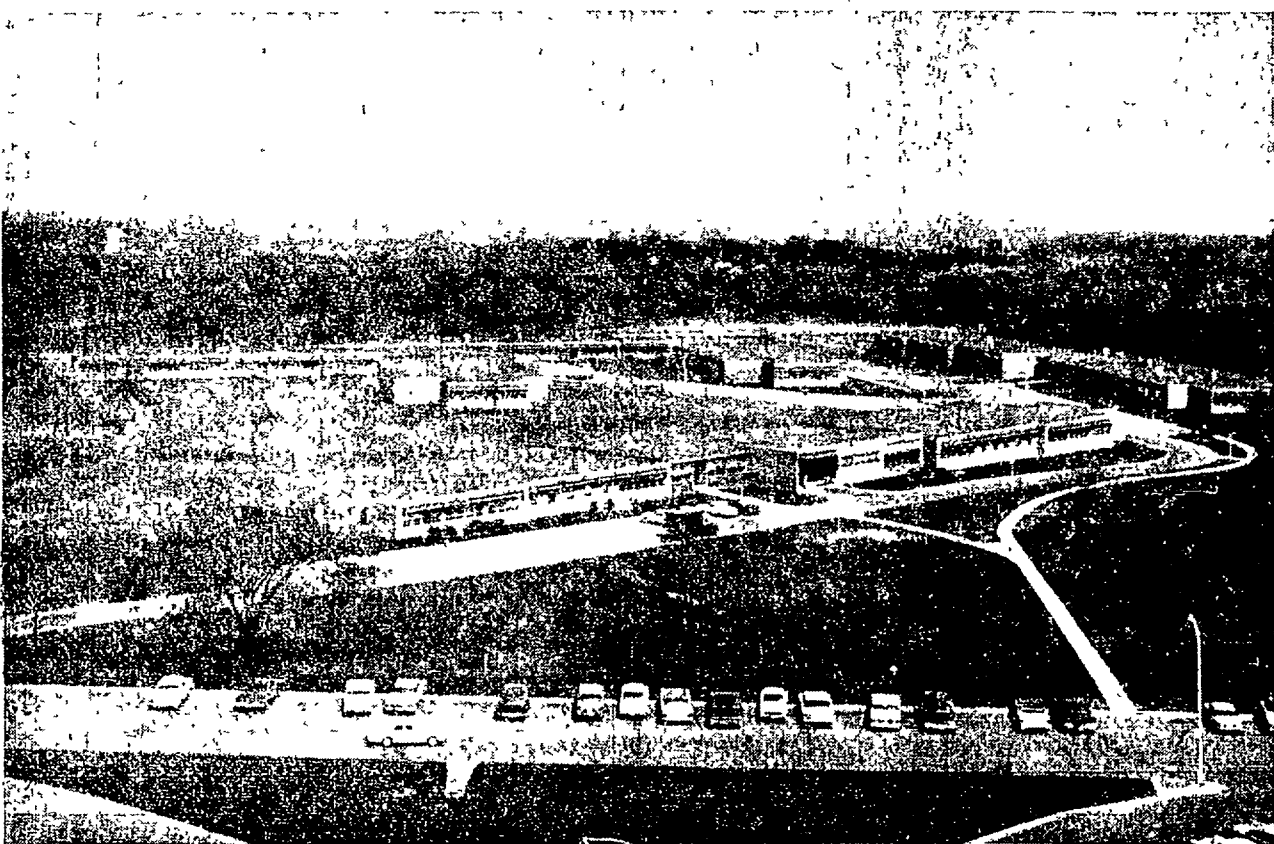

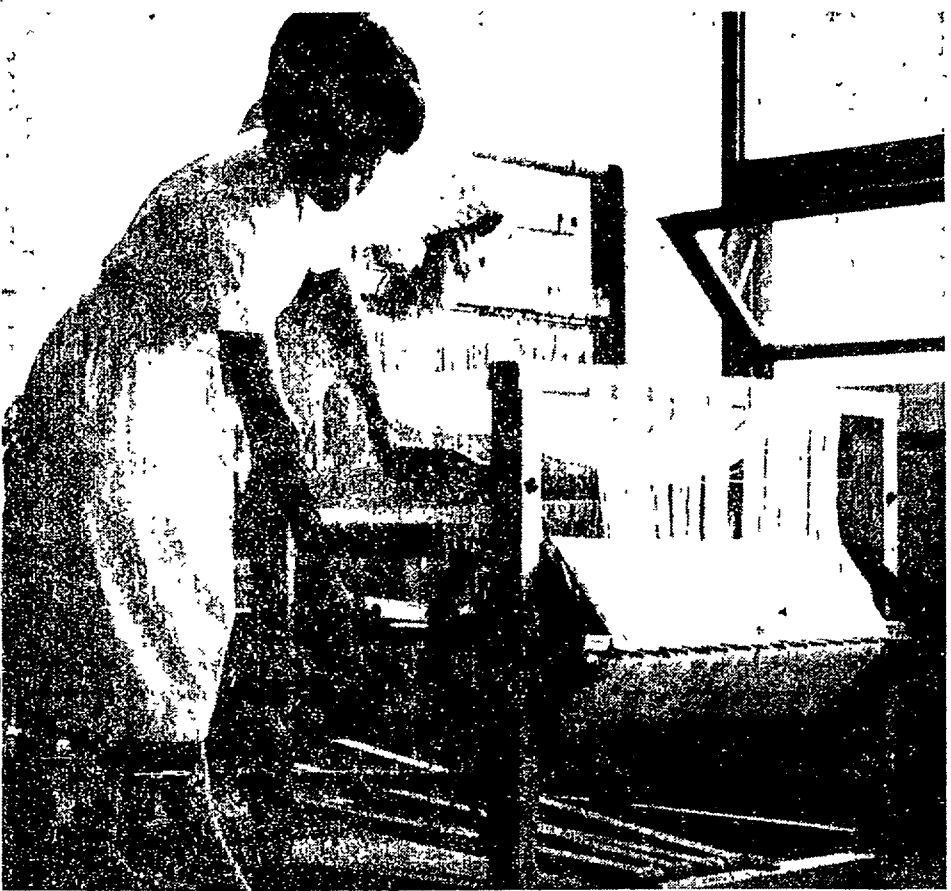

Below, a patient mans the very complete broadcasting system that provides listening pleasure throughout the hospital. The system is used for music and live radio shows produced by patients.

Also below, Mrs. Marie Pruntz, a licensed beauty technician, puts finishing touches on a patient's hair in one of the hospital's beauty shops. The shops are supervised by licensed technicians, with patients working as beauty operators.

At upper right, Mrs. Gretchen Rusch, OTR, prepares one of the displays visitors saw in the Occupational Therapy building's gymnasium. Northville is the only state hospital to have a separate building to house its occupational therapy program. Community Relations Director Louis Schults looks over the hospital's large auditorium. The auditorium features a modern stage with full lighting equipment and high quality movie projection facilities.

The Plymouth State Home and Training school will observe Mental Health Week with an open house tomorrow (Friday). The state-run facility for the mentally retarded is located at Sheldon and Five Mile roads.

Featured in the Scriptural of Jonah. The Lesson-Sermon is entitled "Everlasting Punish-

This selection will be read from "Science and Health with

Try Using Fiberglass For Paneling

A versatile building material that can be used in any room or area and for a variety of remodeling or improvement projects is reinforced fiber glass paneling.

Light in weight and easily handled and installed by do-it-yourselfer or professional contractor, this paneling lends itself to creative use.

Among its numerous interior applications are room dividers, screens, windows or shutters, shower enclosures, decorative walls and ceilings, sliding or swinging doors, soffits and cabinet fronts.

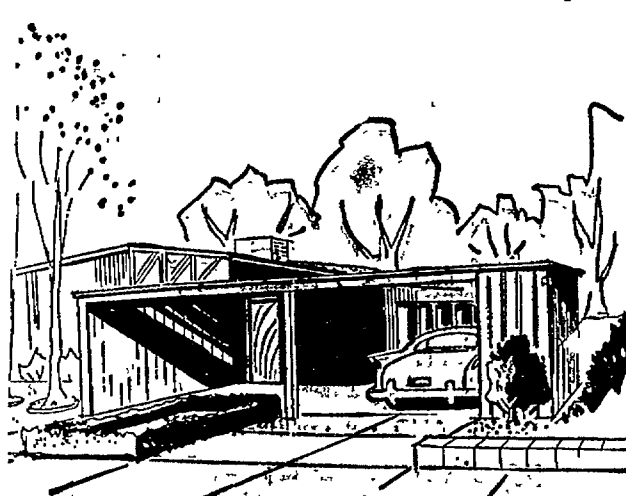

Because the panels are translucent, dramatic decorative effects can be created by installing them to allow the transmission of natural or artificial light. The light passes through the panels softly, evenly diffused and without glare.

Decorative possibilities of fiberglass paneling have been multiplied by the recent introduction of designers' sheets in which various pattern and effects are created by permanently fusing actual leaves, fern, butterflies, gold lace and other fabrics into the panels. Other designs simulate street scenes or colored stained glass.

The panels' decorative and functional features are matched by the advantages of durability and ease of care. They are shatterproof, and moisture, stain and heat resistant. An occasional wiping with a damp cloth or sponge is all the cleaning usually required.

The panels may be worked with ordinary hand tools. A fine tooth saw should be used for cutting. Edges may be filed or sanded.

Carport Adds Beauty

Handsome carport can up-date a small or ordinary house. This one, in block shape, creates a front entrance court, as well as shelter for the auto. Walls are designed in tongue-and-groove siding, and outer wall contains storage cupboards for garden equipment. Flat roof features exposed beams.

Helpful Hints

CLOSE-QUARTER TIP

When a regular saw frame will not fit into a work area requiring a hacksaw cut, split a heavy dowel in half lengthwise. Insert blade and wrap dowel and sandwiched blade with friction tape, to provide a workable temporary handle.

PREVENT SPLITTING

To keep the far edge of a board from splitting off while you're planing across the end grain, clamp board in a vise with a piece of scrap tight against it. Any splitting will occur on the scrap.

USE FOR CLAY

Two lumps of modeling clay make a wonderful holder when soldering or gluing two small awkwardly shaped pieces. Just push each part into its lump of clay, then line up in the desired position.

NEAT TRICK

Suspend small objects to be painted by a string from an overhead support. This provides out-of-the-way drying space while allowing rotating while painting all sides.

SAWING "SANDWICH"

Clamp a thin sheet of plastic to be sawed between two pieces of scrap plywood to prevent chattering, chipping or tearing.

KEEP ANTS OUT

Using a residual spray of roach and ant killer every month around cracks and crevices; near doorsteps will discourage ant invasion.

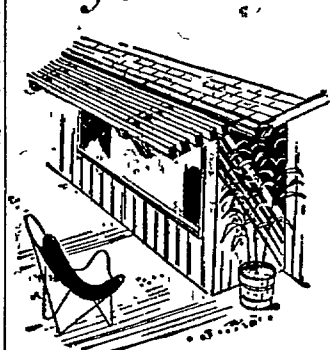

WRIST SAVER

A rubber band, crisscrossed as it's wrapped around the cap of a stubborn screw-top bottle or can provides enough tension and grip to make removal easy.

CORNER PLANTINGS

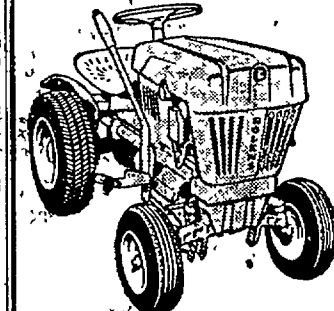

Angular, uneven property lines can be smoothed and softened with massive plantings of evergreen and deciduous shrubs.

Window Eyebrows

Here's an eyebrow that keeps your house cool 24x7, with 2x4 block spaces, form sun shade for window, act like an awning. Eyebrow can be attached to roof eaves or house wall.

6-hp HUSKY 600 the tractor with the HALF-MINUTE HITCH

May's the Time to Plant Annuals and Vegetables

Except in the northernmost part of the state, late May is the time to plant annuals — flowers, and tender vegetables like tomatoes, peppers and eggplant — out of doors. Frost danger is over for the season.

There's a technique to transplanting annuals, either from flats bought from the garden supply store of your local member of the Michigan Association of Nurseriesmen or raised by you in your own home. This operation starts the night before.

At that time, using a putty knife or similar straight, sharp tool, cut down through the soil in between the plants in both directions to the wood flat. This isolates each plant from the others in its own "island" of soil.

After cutting, soak the soil with a solution of one of the wilt-deferring plant hormones like transplantone, following directions on the package for mixing with water.

Pray for a sunless day the following day, for its if far easier on you and on the plants to move them to open ground when the sky is overcast. If the day is sunny, try to wait until late afternoon to transplant.

Mark rows with a piece of cord stretched between two stakes if you are planting in rows. Set out one plant at a time, taking the first from a corner of the flat, where the plant comes out easiest without breaking the soil around its roots. Set the plant a quarter of an inch deeper in the soil than it was in the flat.

Don't stint on holes you dig for the plants: dig them a bit deeper and wider than the plant roots spread to make it easy for roots to penetrate soil near them.

After placing the plant, firm the soil around it with your fingers so it makes good contact with the soil attached to the plant roots. Water each plant with a cupful of the same solution you used the night before.

If the day was sunny and you had to transplant early in the day, shade the plants until nightfall. If they are not tall, an empty berry box popped over each will furnish shade. A tent of newspaper will do the same. A shingle stuck into the soil on the side of the plant from which sunlight is coming also will shade it.

After the first day, water plants daily for a week, the next week water 3 times. By that time the plants should need no additional water unless the weather is dry. Obviously, if it rains every day during the week after you transplanted, there is no reason for watering.

If you are a new gardener and this is the first time you have tried growing annuals, you'll want to know what to look for if you buy plants.

Look for short, stocky plants. Pass up the tall, spindly ones — they're overgrown or had too little light. Choose flats with fewer plants in them rather than crowded flats. Too many plants to a flat mean roots which are interwoven one with another so that transplanting annuals.

By willing to pay a bit more for the newer hybrid varieties. You'll be repaid in larger fruits and finer flowers. The nurseryman from whom you buy will be glad to tell you which are the newer varieties of each kind of annual.

Cold Won't Hurt Spring Planting

Should the weather be rainy or cold during the spring don't put off planting, because it is no hindrance and, in fact, can be an aid to gardening success. It also saves work by not having to water the plants that are set out, providing the soil has plenty of moisture.

Water and good soil are the primary requirements for good plant growth. Especially where plants are at a distance from watering facilities planting should be done early when the soil is full of moisture and will remain in this condition for a considerable length of time.

House for Golden Years Should Provide Handiness

A house for their golden years — this is the dream of hundreds of American couples who have reached retirement age and who want to continue living in the privacy and comfort of their own home.

Acquiring a home for the golden years usually means building anew for these couples because, generally, the house in which they've reared their children is simply too large for their present needs. And, too, the golden years home should be especially designed for a minimum of upkeep and a maximum of easy living.

What basic elements characterize the home for the golden years?

First, it should be built all on one floor, with the carport connected to the house and on the same level so that shopping trips won't necessitate getting out in the weather and carrying packages up and down steps. Outdoor living areas, too, should be on a level with interior floors to eliminate steps. On either flat or hillside sites, lovely, livable patios can be provided with wide, handsome wood decks that require no maintenance.

Landscaping should be extremely simple. A few slow growing, hardy shrubs and ground cover of some type will create a lovely garden atmosphere. Flowers should be grown in high planter boxes so that they can be tended without stooping, and handsome wood fencing can be installed to assure the garden's privacy while acting as a windbreak and a foil for the plantings. If the fencing is a good, tough outdoor wood like western red cedar and if it is stained a wood color or allowed to weather, it will require no touch-ups in future years.

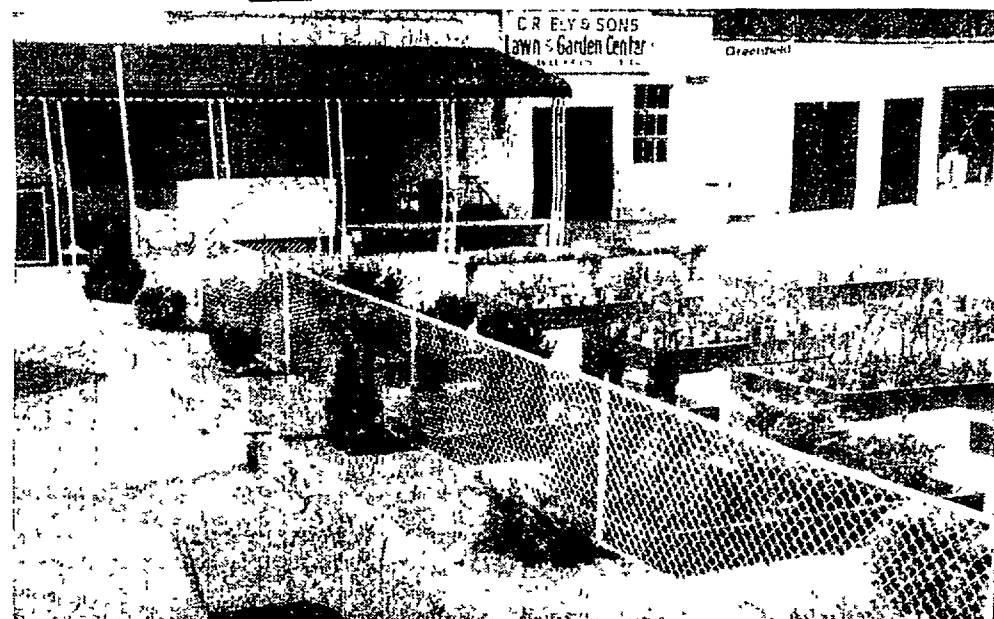

Staining the house siding, which should be a durable wood like cedar or fir, will eliminate future maintenance, for good exterior stain weathers beautifully and, unless the couple wishes to freshen the color after a few years, the stain will not need renewing.

SPEAKING for the Record

by Bill Sliger

It is beginning to dawn on most of us that the things we do in our personal lives, and as families, communities, states and nations have a bearing on others about us — on the job, at home, in the immediate area and finally, throughout the world.

One day soon, if it has not already arrived, the activities of our world may directly effect whatever exists in outer space.

A psychologist might label this process of considering personal behavior on the basis of what our actions do to others as simply "learning to live together".

Actually, that's what the United Nations is striving to accomplish. Its success is a matter for debate; nevertheless, the effort continues.

THIS THOUGHT comes to mind as the result of two recent experiences. One concerns an area official who declined inter-community consideration of a problem with the words "what we do in our community is none of their (neighboring communities) business". His opinion did not prevail with fellow officials, however, and he was out-voted.

The second, not at all connected with the first, involves the problem between the Northville and Novi school districts.

Full details of a joint meeting between the two school boards appear on page one this week.

WHAT IS important here is that, like it or not, Northville school officials have had to involve themselves in Novi school business.

And they are taking a $130,000 gamble in an action that they believe to be correct.

But it remains for Novi to determine this.

In short, Northville has said to Novi: "we cannot take your tuition students in our high school next year if you do not obtain additional operating millage; we are not willing to become a party to a one-sided austerity program in which your elementary students face half-day sessions so that you will have funds to pay us tuition for your high school students".

Northville board members are firm in this position; yet they do not want to be misunderstood. They have taken every precaution to stay out of Novi affairs.

Tuesday an assembly of Novi high school students was called and the problem explained. Superintendents of both systems were in attendance along with Northville Board Members Ed Angove and James Kipfer.

The Northville-Novi tuition student problem is a serious and delicate issue. Board members of both systems acknowledge this and have talked frankly, yet cordially, in an attempt to reach understanding.

In the face of rumors contradicting Northville's seriousness, this has been difficult.

But all taxpayers — in both Novi and Northville — should realize the consequences.

If a satisfactory solution is not reached, Northville will lose an estimated $130,000 of its 1962-63 budget and will have a surplus of teachers.

Novi will be forced to look elsewhere for high school accommodations.

It's true that parents of high school students could deal directly with the Northville system and pay their tuition. But this seems like a poor solution.

Some 280 students are involved. Northville receives approximately $500 per student on the basis of $168 from the state, and $332 from Novi (of which Novi is reimbursed $150 per student from the state).

More accurately, however, it can be said that the education of all children of both systems is dependent upon the solution.

And this places a heavy responsibility upon the shoulders of the Novi school board. For suddenly they must realize that they are not acting for one system alone.

Upon their decisions, and support of their district voters, rests the future welfare of two school systems.

It is difficult, indeed, to live alone in our modern world.

Beware of Bikes

Warm weather months pose very special problems to motorists.

In addition to the increase in auto traffic, the strain of driving during warm temperatures, and the glare of pavement from the sun, children become a major hazard on the roadways, according to State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs.

Bicycle riding is a favorite youthful pastime from the first sign of spring to the first snowfall. On a bicycle a youth can forget his cares and be carried away with the power he controls.

This carefree attitude of many a bicyclist is the major concern of State Police, where traffic is involved.

During 1961, State Police records showed 29 persons were killed in car-bicycle accidents and another 1,847 were injured. A total of 2,302 accidents of this type were reported during the year.

"The principal contributing causes of bicycle accidents include violations of law," Childs said. Others were entering the roadway without stopping, sudden starting or stopping, or riding double on a single-seated bicycle.

The law violations which caused accidents included disregarding stop signs, which apply to bike riders as well as operators of motor vehicles, and riding at night without proper lighting on the bicycle.

The burden of prevention of car-bike accidents lies on three parties, the State Police chief said.

"Bike riders, parents and motorists should all be concerned about it," said Childs. Childs points out three reminders, one for each of the parties concerned, which could help lessen chances for auto-bicycle crashes.

Bicyclists should obey all traffic laws and signs.

Parents should oversee bicycle use and restrict it when children violate laws or safe practices.

Finally, motorists should be extra cautious when near bike riders, constantly alert for the unpredictable actions of some of them.

Historical museums and landmarks greatly increase the tourist potential of a community.

Solon Weeks, director of the State Historical Museum at Lansing, reports that a recent study showed 57 per cent of the tourists are drawn to the state by historical and scenic attractions.

This type of tourist venture can also be a money-making one, according to statistics compiled by the U.S. Department of Commerce. Weeks said the study indicated 28 tourists a day visiting a town with a historical museum or other attraction would bring in as much revenue as a new industry with an annual payroll of $100,000.

The theory advanced by Weeks gains full support of at least one man who should know.

Dr. Eugene T. Peterson, director of historical projects for the Mackinac Island State Park Commission, says a total of 330,000 tourists visited Fort Michilimackinac and Mackinac Island State Park last year. This was very favorably compared with the estimated 400,000 tourists who annually visit the colonial village at Williamsburg, Va.

Michigan now boasts at least two major accomplishments in highway construction.

The state has led the nation for two years in Interstate freeway construction. Now, a milestone has been reached in the history of state highways. Every mile of state highway has been paved.

Less than five years ago, more than 800 miles of state highways were gravel covered. In the years since this mileage has been cut down in lots of hundreds of miles.

Just recently, however, the last contract was awarded for the modernization of the last gravel road, an 18-mile stretch of route M 48 in Chippewa county in the Upper Peninsula.

College graduates in elementary teaching, science, engineering and accounting, very likely will find themselves in great demand this year.

In teaching, particularly, John R. Kinney, placement director at Michigan State University, notes that "there just are not enough teachers to meet the demands, even within this state."

The scarcity of teachers is especially acute in smaller communities, where the salary ranges are lower than the state average. Teaching pay scales are expected to be up again this year, somewhere around $100 higher than last year, Kinney said.

Increases in salaries from last year are also being noted in the other three general fields where scarcities exist.

The only negative factor in a generally bright employment picture for June college graduates appears to be the military situation, Kinney said.

"Graduates with a military commitment are having a very difficult time finding employment unless they are in a 'critical skills' area where they can be deferred," he said.

By June, however, the currently increased hesitance by employers to hire men with military obligations could be expected to return to normal, if reserve troops called to duty last year are released on or ahead of schedule.

Roger Babson

Stock Buyer Wrong Half the Time

Babson Park, Fla. One half of this man's opinion on investments was given serious consideration.

When this well-known man died, he left two sealed trunks in his attic. One contained Russian rubles and the other German marks. He left a note stating that he had paid nearly $2,000,000 for this foreign money. As he had always been very kind to his neighbors they took up a collection to pay his debts; his young wife (a second wife) went to work.

I once knew a Massachusetts bank director who founded a successful machinery company which is now listed on the New York Stock Exchange. He was a very generous man and provided a four-acre Golf Club in New Hampshire for his friends and summer residents.

Many fine homes were built there and are now occupied in the summer by very prominent people. In Boston financial circles this famous man was written up in the magazines during the 1920's as "America's Richest Man."

Well, he told me shortly before he died: "I made $50,000,000 sitting in that chair in 1928-29; then I lost $45,000,000 in 1929-30, sitting in the same chair." He did his business by telephone; never wrote a letter.

I give the above illustrations not to criticize anyone. During my fifty years of active life I have never met any man (or woman), except Hetty Green, who would claim never to have lost money speculating. The lesson, however, which I want to drive home to readers is the importance of knowing when to stop.

The time to retire from the stock market is when things look good and your friends are all bullish, and you are "walking on air." That is the time to stop. What this stock market will do before 1962 is over no one knows; but I do earnestly advise that you sell enough and take profits enough to pay up all you owe.

Corporation Officials Note

This is an era when corporations are making foolish "splits." After you receive a stock dividend your original stock, plus the new stock, is worth no more than before. Yet the price goes up even on the rumor that such a stock dividend will be paid.

Since the Securities & Exchange Commission has been organized, many men with money have refused to be directors of corporations. The officers are given "options" and other incentives to compensate for the risks they are taking.

Surely nothing could have prevented the two men described above from losing their money. Furthermore, I could give many other similar illustrations. These men had economic education, robust health, honest intentions, and were as good men as any reader of this column.

Securities & Exchange Regulations

I fully approve all the steps being taken to make stocks and bonds safer for investors to buy. I advise my clients to cooperate with the SEC. But no laws can eliminate speculation. It is an instinct which seems inherent from birth, and endures through education, marriage, and to death.

People will bet on horse races if they cannot bet on Wall Street. Furthermore, if it had exercising critical judgment. Nothing, I know of can persuade, cajole, or force him into a reasonableness he does not possess. He is, no doubt, frightened by the tragedy which has descended upon him, but is unable to act effectively nor to recognize the validity of your advice, nor the truth of the doctor's evaluation of his wife's condition.

As a satisfactory solution to this problem just doesn't seem possible, you can only hope no one gets hurt. There is, unfortunately, no legal action that you can take to prevent what you fear may occur.

Sincerely,
Sander Mudd, M.D.

I wish there was something positive I could suggest to help this poor woman and especially to protect her children. Her husband seems to be a person of unfeeling emotional stability and certainly is incapable of

I know of one instance where a doctor, in the best interests of the patient and her family, had a woman hospitalized and treated without her permission and with only the implied permission of her husband. After she had been treated, she became just well enough to demand her release and promptly obtained a lawyer and sued the doctor. He had done something that was humanly and clinically indicated and proper, but unfortunately, illegal.

They got four real nice kids. The oldest is about 7, I guess, and the littlest is maybe one year old.

She's been getting worse lately. Some days she comes home and she's sitting in the middle of the living room floor not doing anything. But just like a piece of dough or something. But then other days she'll be OK again. Lately she's been saying she's going to drown the kids and one day she called him at work and told him that and he got scared and came right home and sure enough, there she is filling the bathtub with water.

Things like that go on all the time but he don't do anything about them. Last Sunday she tried to kill him, I guess, and he took her to Eloise. The doctor said it was a good thing he brought her there instead of waiting and that they would try to help her. But then next day when my cousin went to see her, she told him she didn't love him and that if he didn't take her out of there, she would hate him all the rest of her life.

So even though the doctor said not to, he took her home. She talks all the time about killing the kids. He came home yesterday and there she was in the middle of the living room floor cutting all her clothes up with a pair of scissors.

I'm afraid she is going to do something to those kids and I want to know what I can do. My cousin listens when I tell him to take her back to Eloise but he just won't do anything about it.

Sincerely yours,
Willie

Dear Willie:

I know of few situations so frustrating as having the knowledge of what should be done in a matter where you care and at the same time, being helpless to do anything about it.

Your hands are tied. And there is no doubt in my mind that your estimate of the situation is entirely correct and that your cousin's wife should be hospitalized immediately.

Theoretically, she could be hospitalized upon your petition to the Probate Court. But practically speaking, your petition would probably be denied if your cousin opposed it. Furthermore, in the eyes of the law, not been for this instinct, Columbus would not have discovered America; yes, and the Pilgrims would never have landed at Plymouth Rock.

I believe in the Regulation Statements which the SEC requires to be prepared, printed, and distributed to prospective stock buyers; but there is no way of compelling these prospects to read them. Moreover, they are quite a burden to young and growing companies, as the cost of lawyers and accountants fees, plus printing, amounts to from $25,000. to $50,000.

It is even more important that small investors read the annual reports and proxy statements which every stockholder receives free — once a year.
