

JAYCEE QUEEN — Linda Gombasy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gombasy of Novi, will reign as Northville's Jaycee Queen in the Fourth of July parade.

New Program Aids Mentally Ill Children

It was shortly after midnight. Calm lay over Northville State hospital except in one out-of-the-way corner in the main building.

There, four husky young fellows, looking more like football players than anything else, were sitting around a card table.

A night supervisor, passing by, stopped to stare. One boy turned, holding a nine of hearts carefully in the center of his forehead and asking, "Can I help you?"

The supervisor, a look of disgust spreading over her face, fled . . . right into the office of her supervisor to complain about "those young upstarts of attendants, sitting around, acting foolish."

In due time, the culprits were called on the carpet. Asked for an explanation, they said they were learning a card game called High-Low, the newest fad among 90 of the hospital's 150 youngsters.

Object of the game, they said, is to guess what card one's holding in the center of his forehead by the remarks of his opponents.

No one was disciplined. Instead, the four were told to resume their game.

This incident illustrates how Northville State is putting into practice the philosophy of treating mentally ill kids like kids with young desires and needs, not like little adults.

Prime movers in developing a young world in a hospital setting are these four card players, all young men with at least two years of college under their belts. They're living with the mentally ill kids round the clock.

They eat with the 90 boys and girls in the unit, help them with homework, sleep with them, learn their games, philosophize with them. And, if young Johnny, diagnosed like most ward youngsters as schizophrenic, begins charging up and down the ward in a fit of anger — they help calm him.

Technically, the four are called child care workers. Actually, because of their backgrounds and youth, they qualify as a radical first for a state hospital.

The child care workers, newcomers at Northville State as are a corps of young nurses and social workers, are just one step in remodeling the children's unit.

The unit is essentially an experimental one today.

Officials there are interested in finding out what can be done for youngsters such as these, ranging from 7 to 18, in a hospital setting, according to Miss Ada Jacox, nursing supervisor.

"If we had $4 million, we could do wonders," she said. "But we don't. Thus, it's become more important to us to find out what we can do within the budget limitations placed upon us."

The first experiment, that of creating the position of child care worker in accordance with suggestions made by Hawthorn Center, has been under way four months.

How do the child care workers differ from an ordinary attendant?

First, says Dr. Eleonora Woloy, child psychologist affiliated with Hawthorn and director of the Northville unit, "they're a rather superior group of people."

The workers, averaging 26 years old, must have had two years of college work in some field related to the work they're undertaking at Northville. Among the accepted fields are physical education, social work, education.

In addition, they must, at the time of employment, be attending some college, taking at least six hours of classes.

The advantage of these workers, according to Dr. Woloy, is fourfold:

- Because of their backgrounds, they're able to stimulate youngsters toward greater interest in their surroundings;
- They're more perceptive to the youngsters' needs;
- They offer examples in behavior and dress;
- They pick up a psychiatric background very rapidly.

The objects of the child workers' days at Northville State are 90 youngsters who may have been called troublemakers, who spent a lot of time in the principal's office while attending public school.

Some hear voices; others may live in daily fear of death; others may be convinced everyone's out to get them; still others may, in the flash of a second, burst out of a quiet mood into one of loud laughter and swearing.

The majority of the youngsters are as bright as folks outside the hospital. Most, however, like over half of the nation's 500,000 mentally ill youngsters, are afflicted with a disease called schizophrenia.

As psychiatrists, define the illness, schizophrenia is a condition where the child finds himself unable to relate to other people or situations.

In developing a program for the "helpable" among the hospital's 150 children, there have been some "severe handicaps," according to Dr. Philip Brown, hospital superintendent.

Dr. Brown explained that the hospital, not set up to treat children, has had to convert three valuable adult wards into a children's unit.

"Ninety kids have been using up materials over 2,200 adults should be using," he continued.

"Since the superior wisdom of the legislature dictated that the children's unit should go to Pontiac this year, we decided to do something about it."

Jaycees Plan 'Bang Up' July Fourth

A Fourth of July celebration that will open with sky divers and close with fireworks with a parade and carnival sandwiched in between promises to provide one of the biggest holiday attractions ever staged in Northville.

The annual event is again sponsored by the Northville Jaycees with Karl Knoth as general chairman.

Activities get underway at 11:30 a.m. when three members of the 82nd Airborne Sport Parachute Club are scheduled to perform above the community.

Specifically, the sky divers will be flown over the city at 11:30 a.m. at an altitude of 2,000 feet. Smoke flares will be dropped at this level to determine wind directions and speeds. The plane will then climb to 5,500 feet. At 11:55 a.m. the first diver is scheduled to bail out.

Target of the divers is the high school baseball diamond.

The sky divers, fall free from 5,500 feet to an altitude of 2,000. Two divers will jump at once in the second demonstration and pass a baton in the air. One of the second two divers is a former Northville resident, Mike Madigan.

At 1 p.m. Knoth noted that all area church bells will ring for four minutes. It is part of a nationwide "Let Freedom Ring" celebration that will originate at Independence Hall and the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

Parade activity starts at 1:30 p.m. The parade will form at the Old Spring marching up Main street to Rogers then east on Dunlap to Hutton. Chairman Knoth says the three-mile-long parade will be one of the finest displays of drill teams, drum and bugle corps, unique marching units and floats ever to perform in this area.

The parade line-up will include more than 100 different units.

It will be headed by Parade Marshal Joseph Denton, former Northville police chief. City and township officials, as well as state and national officials, are scheduled to participate in the parade.

Congresswoman Martha Griffiths, State Senator Raymond Dzendzel and State Representative Paul Chandler will definitely be on hand. Congressman William Broomfield of Oakland county may also be able to attend, Knoth stated.

The Jaycees 'Michigan Junior Miss' will be an attraction. She's the winner of the state competition for Jaycee beauty queen. Linda Gombasy of Novi, the Northville Jaycee representative in the state Junior Miss contest this year, is the official Northville Jaycee Parade Queen.

Other parade attractions include the Northville high school band, the Tars and Rifles drill team of the Grosse Ile Naval Air Station, Selfridge Air Force Base drill team, Loomis Battery, Blue Water Fire and Drum Band, 8th Michigan Cavalry, Windsor Sherwood Band of Can-da, Royal Canadian Sea Cadets and the Oakland County Sheriffs posse.

The parade will also include numerous floats representing various community organizations and businesses, as well as police, fire and scout units.

Immediately following the parade attention will be turned to the carnival at Ford Field. It will provide a variety of rides, games and refreshments.

The day's activities will conclude with the fireworks display at 9 p.m. from the high school athletic field area.

Somebody Goofed!

There's a mystery surrounding Northville's proposed new post office.

While bidders are busily preparing cost estimates which the post office department has stated must be submitted by August 8, it was revealed this week that they may be figuring on the wrong building.

Designs and specifications as released by the department's regional real estate offices in Detroit call for a flat-roofed contemporary building.

Local officials point out that it was definitely understood that the building would be colonial in design. The city has followed this motif in its new scout-recreation building. The new city hall-library also follows the early American theme.

Proposed for construction in the same area — the southwest corner of Wing and Cad — the post office plan is strictly modern.

City Manager Bruce Potthoff discussed the matter with John Jewhoski, the department's regional representative in Detroit, Monday. Jewhoski noted that his original instructions to the Chicago office had stipulated colonial.

Where the goof-up occurred no one knows. But Potthoff was instructed by the council Monday night to follow-up Jewhoski's suggestion that an answer should be sought in Chicago or Washington.

New Industry Coming Here

Plans for construction of a new stamping plant facility were revealed to the city council Monday night.

Although still tentative, Richard Beniecke of the D & R Building company, called the plans "90 per cent definite."

The proposed plant would be located on a three-acre site on Novi road directly behind Warren Products. The plant would be constructed by D & R, developers of Yerkes Estates subdivision in the same area, for Anger Manufacturing company.

Beniecke said the plant would have a shop section measuring 183 by 82 feet and offices 26 by 50 feet. The firm would employ from 35 to 50.

Work to Begin Next Week On New City Hall - Library

Northville's city council awarded contracts for the new city hall-library Monday night to the three lowest bidders.

Architect Harry M. Denyes, Jr., scheduled a meeting with major contractors Tuesday to outline building procedure. He said construction could begin immediately.

Upon Denyes' recommendation the council awarded the building contracts to: Carl Luomo, general contractor, $165,164; Inter Lakes Mechanical Contractors, plumbing and heating, $59,450; and Gillis Electric, electrical, $22,684.

Total construction cost was thus set at $247,298 with architectural fees bringing the sum to $261,298.

The federal government will provide half this sum under the public works acceleration act. The city will pay the other half from funds received from sale of the community building to the school district.

The colonial design, two-level building is expected to take eight months to complete.

Perhaps one of the more appreciated features of the new building, so far as the council is concerned, will be air conditioning. Monday night's meeting in the temporary city hall was a sweltering, 74-hour affair.

In other business Monday night the council voted to move ahead as fast as possible on the improvement of Orchard drive from Thayer to Seven Mile road. First project for completion this year, if possible, will be installation of storm sewer.

Engineer Harold Penn estimated cost of the project at $36,000. The project would be undertaken by special assessment with a 25 per cent levy against property owners.

Next steps, to follow one year apart, would be installation of curbs and gutters and then paving.

Two other projects were turned over for committee study. Councilmen Richard Ambler and Fred Kester will work with Police Chief Eugene King in determining the need for new street lights throughout the city. The parking committee, composed of Mayor A. M. Allen and Councilman John Canterbury, will meet with the merchants' committee to decide upon time limits on off-street parking lots.

The council also made appointments to the board of appeals and planning commission.

William Bingley, Paul Palmer and Harvey Ritchie were reappointed to the board of appeals. W. W. Nichols was switched from the board of appeals to the planning commission, trading places with L. M. Eaton.

Charles Ely, Jr. replaces Donald Hannabarger on the planning commission.

An agreement with the D & R Building company to have the city take over engineering of a portion of Yerkes Estates subdivision number six where the development borders on city streets was approved.

THEY WANT WATER — Residents of Northville township's Plymouth Gardens submitted petitions last week requesting installation of water lines by special assessment. The area, at Bradner and Five Mile overlooking Phoenix lake, will be served by either a Detroit or Plymouth supply. Wells in the subdivision of $30,000 to $40,000 homes are running dry. Two other subdivisions just east of Plymouth Gardens have also taken out petitions, but they have not been filed. Supervisor R. D. Merriam said the board would wait two weeks for word from these areas before moving ahead with the project. He indicated that a development of homes on Bradner, proposed by the Gordon Building company and delayed after installation of sewer lines because of the water shortage, will also enter the assessment plan. In the picture above Supervisor Merriam is shown examining the petitions while Clerk Marguerite Young records the document. Looking on (l. to r.) are Treasurer A. M. Lawrence, and D. H. Dodge and C. A. Holdreith, residents who circulated the petitions.

School Board Keeps Same Officers

At a special organization meeting of the Northville school board Monday night the board re-elected a slate of officers and appointed a new trustee.

Incumbents returned to office were President William Crump; Vice President James Kipper; Secretary W. C. Becker and Treasurer Dr. Waldo Johnson.

Appointed to fill the unexpired term of Trustee Donald Lawrence was William Templeton. (See adjoining story)

The board also passed a re-

Templeton Replaces Lawrence

Northville's school board this week appointed William B. Templeton to fill the board seat vacated by the resignation of Donald B. Lawrence.

Templeton, a senior engineer at Burroughs corporation will serve until June, 1964.

At that time, an election must be held to fill the remaining year in Lawrence's term. Lawrence, who resigned because of a company move to Grand Rapids, was elected to a three-year board term in 1958 and re-elected in 1961 to a four-year term which would expire in June 1965.

Templeton, who lives at 21875 Novi road, once served as moderator of the former Chapman school district board. He worked on the committee which studied the possibility of Novi district merging with Northville district.

He is married and has three children, a son with the U.S. Navy and twins in high school.

solution to borrow against anticipated tax receipts and state aid for the purpose of meeting operating expenses.

A normal school procedure, $200,000 will be borrowed against taxes. Bids will not be opened before July 24.

Borrowing against state aid, which would amount to $100,000, will be held in abeyance until funds are needed in late September or October.

Turning to other business the board accepted Wash-Oak students, proposed a more complete study of bus transportation problems and discussed the possible purchase of a new building to house administrative offices.

Entering the seventh grade will be 17 students from Wash-Oak school district.

The board also is considering purchase of the Northville library as a site for new administrative offices in 1964. Present library facilities will be moved to the new city hall building upon completion.

The next meeting of the board was scheduled for Monday, July 8.

Nine-year-old Northville State hospital houses 150 mentally ill youngsters, over 2,200 adults.

Novi Bachelor Airs Cooking Views, Gripes

"The trouble with distaff cooks," declares one of Novi's confirmed bachelors, "is that they're not spicy enough."

"In their cooking, that is," Arthur Morte of Grand River avenue added quickly.

An advocate of spices, wines and beers in cooking, Morte maintains "most American women are afraid to experiment."

And, the 42-year-old engineer adds, most husbands encourage their wives to keep on making the same old dishes year in and year out.

The result? "Boredom with one of the world's pleasantest pastimes — dining." Morte's cooking philosophy is a simple one: "Every time I see a new spice or discover a different cut of meat, I put them on trial."

It's amazing the number of things that can be done with spices, observed Morte, the proud possessor of four spice cabinets brimming over. Two of Morte's innovations are tarragon chicken livers and chuck roast in beer:

TARRAGON CHICKEN LIVERS
2 Tbs. butter
one-third cup finely chopped onion
1/4 cup finely chopped celery chicken livers for four
1 and one-third cups mushroom gravy or mushrooms in white sauce
2 Tbs. dry white wine
1/2 tsp. dried tarragon leaves
1/4 tsp. salt
pepper

Melt butter in skillet, add onion, celery, cook until tender. Add chicken livers and cook about five minutes until lightly browned.

Add mushroom gravy, wine, tarragon, salt and pepper and complete cooking. Serve over hot rice if desired.

CHUCK ROAST IN BEER
1 cup salad oil
2 cups ale
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 cloves crushed garlic
1 1/2 tsp. salt
2 bay leaves
1 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. basil
1 tsp. oregano
1 tsp. thyme
chuck roast

Combine oil, beer, lemon juice and seasonings; pour over chuck. Refrigerate at least overnight. Place in roasting pan, brush in marmade. Roast in oven at 425 degrees.

On Tuesday, July 16 at 8 p.m. a feature length film in full color, "The Ancient World: Egypt" will be shown, free, in the lecture hall. The next Tuesday, July 23, also at 8 p.m. "Egypt: The Magical Land," a lecture by Dr. Milton Covenkov of Wayne State University will be given.

Another featured exhibit related to the first one will begin August 1 and continue to September 1. This one is Tutankhamun Treasures. This one will cost 75 cents for adults, students 50 cents and children 25 cents.

Every week through July and to August 16 there will be special guided tours of special galleries and coordinated lectures on Tuesdays.

An Art Institute is not the sort of place that you can visit once then ignore saying, "That's that, I've seen it." True, the permanent collection of each museum is trotted out between special exhibitions or moved about from gallery to gallery to put special features in the limelight. But even though you may have seen the permanent collection several times the nature of good art is such that you can see it time after time and not tire of it. Change it to different surroundings and it looks different.

The Detroit Institute of Art is one such museum which houses many visiting exhibits and is the owner of an extensive collection which bears seeing often. It is also the center for special features not apparent to the casual visitor. July's program for instance is a clue to what goes on behind the scenes. Two special exhibitions are planned for the summer months. July 9 to September 1 a free display will depict Art and Life in Ancient Egypt, and on Tuesday July 9 at 8 p.m. in the Lecture hall a lecture "Art in Ancient Egypt" delivered by Bernard Bothmer, Associate curator of the Department of Ancient Art of Brooklyn Museum will correlate with the Egyptian exhibits.

NEWCOMER'S CORNER

I look upon every day to be lost, in which I do not make a new acquaintance.

— Samuel Johnson

THE MASONS — Newcomers to Willowbrook are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mason and their two daughters, Cheri (left) and Martin.

A couple from Pennsylvania, who have recently made Willowbrook their home, are anxiously awaiting a very special occasion.

Soon Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mason will be the proud parents of a brand new baby. With the new addition, the Mason family will number five.

Already making the new home at 23890 LeBost a lively place to live in are their two girls, four-year old Mari and Cheri, two.

The three youngsters will keep Mrs. Mason—who is an expert seamstress from Erie—even busier than she is now.

"I make all the family's clothes," she explained, "except when we have clothes given to us as presents. It's a fascinating hobby and almost a full time job."

Mr. Mason is employed as a supervising manager for the Ben Franklin Reading club, a division of the Curtis Publishing company. He has been with the firm 11 years.

For a longer time, sports have been Mr. Mason's hobby. "He likes to play softball and bowl," noted Mrs. Mason. "When he's watching a sports event on TV, you can't drag him away."

A business transfer brought the Masons to Novi. And since

Mr. Mason's brother, who lives in Willowbrook, vouched for the village, the Masons took the suggestion.

Now they hope they can stay for a long time in their new home.

Perhaps the only thing that will prompt them to leave for a short time will be the birth of the newcomer.

Gloria Hollis In Plymouth Queen Vote

One of the 20 girls competing for the Miss Plymouth title today is Gloria Hollis of 410 Beal avenue.

If chosen for the title, Miss Hollis will reign over the city's Fourth of July parade tomorrow.

Miss Hollis, a 1962 graduate of Northville high school, is employed by the S.S. Kresge store in Plymouth, her sponsors for the contest.

One More Word

In reporting last week that Marianne King received a grant in Russian area studies at the graduate school of the University of Wisconsin, we called it a Ford fellowship. What we should have said was Ford Foundation fellowship.

Goodwill Pickup

The next visit of Goodwill Industries pickup trucks to Northville is scheduled for Monday, July 8. Goodwill trucks collect household discards of clothing, shoes, hats, toys, most types of furniture and other household discards. To arrange for a Goodwill Industries truck pickup ask the operator for toll-free Enterprise 7002.

Ex-Collegian Discusses Pupil Styles

A man who serves nearly a quarter of a century as president of a major university is well qualified to comment on students and the process of educating them.

Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president emeritus of The University of Michigan (in office 1929-1951), describes three major types of students in his autobiographical book "Naturalist in Two Worlds" published by the U-M Press.

The noisy ones: "From the time they enter college they are determined to be heard. Posing as authorities on almost everything at home and abroad, they insist they should run the University. They are so vociferous that they sometimes annoy the public, the alumni and the legislature. They usually claim to be liberals and boast of disrespect for authority. Common status symbols are — soiled shoes, jeans, shorts, untidy hair, and occasionally mahogany beards. These students should disturb no one. One can usually assume that their activities represent growing pains. My disappointment with them as I have seen them later as alumni is that very few become liberal leaders and many become distressingly ultraconservative."

The playboys (and girls): "Much has been said and written about the young people who go to college only on the insistence of their parents or because it is 'the thing to do.' Complaints are often heard about the waste of money and time of instruction in trying to educate those whose ambition is to get nothing more than a 'gentleman's grade' or to get married. In my experience this group has always been a small one at Michigan. The critics fail to take into consideration the number of these students who find themselves after they have entered college and go on to success as alumni and citizens."

The dedicated ones: "The student who more than any others make life worth living for their teachers, are those who come to college with their eyes firmly fixed on at least a general goal. They refuse to be discouraged by adversity or diverted from their course by the college sideshows. Once called 'grinds' by the playboys and considered poor college citizens by the noisy ones, these men and women have in later years gained the more respectable title of 'eggheads.' Neither of these terms is appropriate."

Whatever their type, students tend to remember best those teachers who made them work, Dr. Ruthven declares.

"A few years before I retired I made a discovery about university teachers which surprised me. As every college man knows, students have ways of rating instructors. They are said to require more or less work, to mark low or high, to be strict or lax about class attendance, and in general to be easy-going or tough. In visiting with alumni it gradually dawned on me that with the passing of the years memories of the 'popular' professors tended to become dim — often even their names could not be recalled. On the other hand the hard taskmasters — even those who were said to be 'hated' by the students — were often remembered not in resentment but in sincere appreciation."

Ladies to Vend Ice Cream In Old-Time July 4 Social

OLD-FASHIONED FOURTH — Members of the Women's Society of Christian Service ready a sign for an old-fashioned ice cream social tomorrow under the big top at the First Methodist church, Northville. They are (l. to r.) Mrs. E. J. McClendon, Mrs. W. R. Murphy, Mrs. Robert Gotts and Mrs. Fred J. Hicks. Ice cream and homemade cup cakes will be sold from 3 to 7 p.m. at the social, which is chaired by Mr. and Mrs. Murphy.

Northville Scouts to Fete Foreign Guests Saturday

Saturday is the day set aside for Northville's Girl Scouts to greet their three visitors from India at an old-fashioned picnic.

The picnic, planned for 3 to 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. James Smyth at 5100 West Eight Mile, culminates a novel idea in international friendship carried out by girls in the Huron Valley council.

Two years ago, area Girl Scouts, including those in Northville, started planning. They would invite three foreign girls to come visit awhile.

Since the idea would take money, the Michigan girls chipped in 50 cents each. Suddenly, they had $4,000 to cover air transportation for their guests and even a little left over for spending money.

Saturday, these guests, in Michigan for the summer, will be welcomed by Northville Scouts.

The program for the day includes games and relays from 3 to 5:30 p.m.; a potluck supper from 5:30 to 7 p.m., and singing from 7 to 8 p.m.

Each troop will be responsible for food and each girl is asked to bring her own silverware, plate and cup.

Knotholers Open First-Round Play

Knothole

With temperatures soaring into the 90's, Knothole baseball and softball swung into the first week of play last week.

The only baseball team with a clean slate, Spagy's Grocery Giants, won two well-played contests, 5-2 over the V.F.W. Athletics and 4-0 over the Asher Pure Angels.

Steve Hughes singled home Bob Lanning and John Tam in the first inning of the Athletics game to start the scoring. He wound up with a perfect two for two at bat.

Other scores of last week's games were Dodgers 14, Indians 1; Yankees 6, Angels 3; Cardinals 4, Dodgers 2; Indians 9, Yankees 6; Angels 3, Dodgers 0, and the Athletics 8, Cardinals 0.

Class D

In class D 18-and-under league, the Northville Plumbers have yet to win a game in six tries.

With the return of some seasoned baseball veterans, however, the local boys have shown some improvement.

Eric Peterson, mainstay of the Northville high school pitching staff this past season, lost two squeakers.

He was charged with a loss June 24 to Redford when the Plumbers forfeited a tight battle between opposing catchers broke out. When Jim Mazel of the Plumbers was thumbed out of the game the Plumbers were unable to field another catcher.

Up to that point, Peterson had allowed only two scratch singles. He struck out six and walked two, but his efforts were largely nullified by seven Northville errors.

Peterson also lost a 3-2 decision Thursday to the Livonia Bisons. He permitted only four hits, walked none and struck out eight. Eight errors opened the door for the Bisons.

Victim of another close decision, 4-1, Tuesday against the Livonia D.R.C., was Tom Swiss.

In losing, Swiss gave up seven hits, walked two and struck out 10.

Class F

The Northville Orioles suffered their second setback of the young class F 13-and-under baseball season Wednesday, 12-2, at the hands of the Ely Oilers and slipped farther behind front-running Party Pantry.

The Oilers, on the other hand, moved up to fourth spot.

Winning pitcher Bill Skelly held the Orioles to four hits while slashing out a double and a single to help his own cause.

The Orioles were leading until the sixth frame when the Oilers came up with seven big runs and added five in the seventh to win going away.

Northville's other entry in the league, the Casterline Braves, lost a high-scoring tilt, 20-11, to Emlen Realty.

Braves' pitchers, Skip French, Jim Fox and Craig Turnbull were unable to stem the tide of hits as the opponents banged out 11.

In other action, Party Pantry slugged its way to a 28-1 win over the Wayne County Training school and DiPino Contractors upset favored Plymouth Recreation, 9-7.

The Northville Plumbers continued on their winning ways last week with two lopsided victories in the class E 15-and-under baseball league.

They trounced Fisher Shoes, 20-6, and Plymouth Kiwanis, 18-8.

Perhaps the most surprising turn was Spagy Grocery-Thunderbird Inn's two victories to pull into a tie for the fifth spot.

Spagy-Thunderbird clubbed cellar-dwelling Northville Recreation, 12-2, then eased by W.C.T.S., 9-6.

Although all scores were not available at press time, the following victories were recorded: Bill's Market 10, Plymouth Kiwanis 8, and Loper Firestone 6, Novi Flyers 1.

Northville Cheerleaders Walk Away With Honors

Six Northville high school juniors cheered themselves into a first place in the fifth summer camp session of the United States Cheerleading association.

The girls, led by their coach Miss Patricia Dorrman, will compete later this week at Hartland Woods with winners from all six camp sessions for the grand championship of the association.

Squad members are Judy Insland, Sandy Parmenter, Sally Winner, all high school varsity cheerleaders; Joan Brevik, a reserve cheerleader, and Jackie Henschel, and Gail Nirider, both newcomers to cheerleading this summer.

Taking the second individual at Hartland Woods for the second year was Judy Insland.

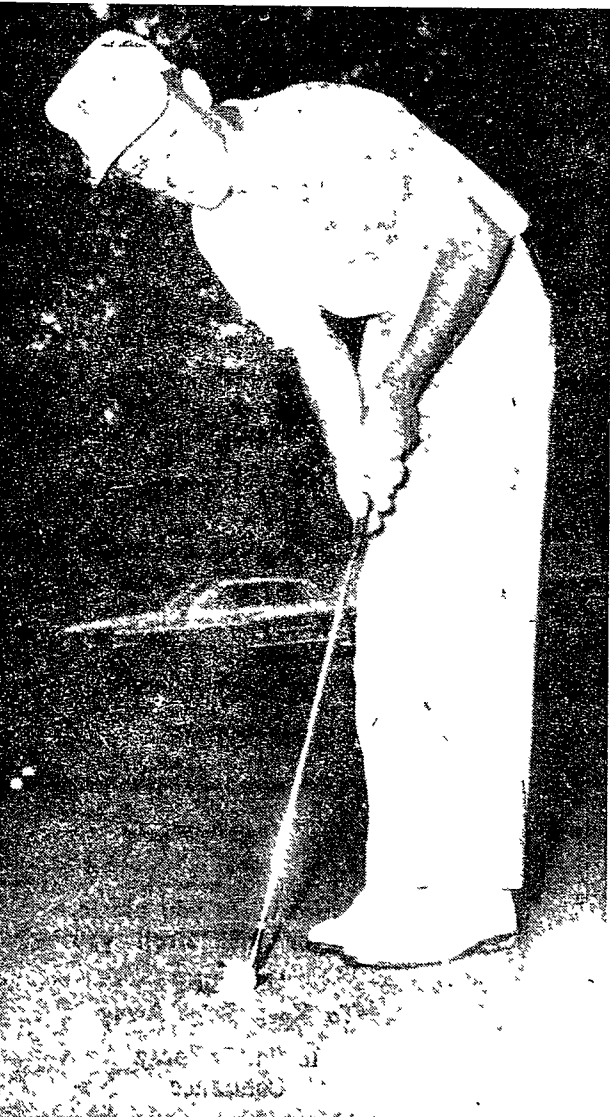

The Northville squad won the grand championship in 1959, took first place in its session in 1960 and second place, the following year.

Prizes earned by the local contingent in this year's session also included a second place championship for skits and a fourth place for camp performance.

Northville's cheerleaders competed against cheerleaders from Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Ontario in coping these awards.

The camp, sponsored by the USCA, is being conducted this year by Miss Pauline Hess, Michigan State university cheerleading instructor.

St. Germaine Cops Jaycee Golf Honors

Northville's Jim St. Germaine picked up where he left off in high school competition by taking open bracket honors last Tuesday in the seventh annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Golf tournament.

In carding a 36-38 (74), three strokes over par, St. Germaine topped a field of 60 entries at the Burroughs course.

Closest rival was Roseville's Dick Drayer, who was one stroke behind.

Those finishing among the top three in the open and novice ranks will advance to the USGA state junior sectionals July 9 at the Salem Country club. The first three sectional finishers will then compete in the state finals July 29 at a site not yet determined.

During the past school season of golf, Northville high school sophomore St. Germaine led his Mustang teammates to their first regional championship and the class B championship in the Pontiac tourney.

Kids Enjoy Day Camp

For the Northville mother or father who are wondering what their youngsters can do during the summer vacation, there's a constructive solution in the offing not far from home.

It's the Day Camp, part of the Northville Recreation department's summer program.

No camp at all as the name usually implies, it's nonetheless a worthwhile venture in the outdoors.

Every week-day morning 9-11:45 at the two day camp sites, Amerman school and Ford Field, arts and crafts and games are taught to children five and over by a competent corps of instructors.

The participants work with leather, plaster of paris, plastic thread and jersey & to mention a few materials — to fashion anything from coin purses to pot holders.

Some exhibit their creativity by starting from scratch with a few strips of leather and cut, perforate and piece them together into some useful item.

Others mold something esthetic out of plaster of paris with their hands. It's fun, too, to use rubber forms to make a pig, penguin or Abe Lincoln out of plaster.

And when the kids get a yen to run around and flex their muscles, there's games like baseball, frizbee, tether tennis and croquet.

Under the supervision of instructors, Mary Welch, Karen Hill, Rita Bradford and Karen Peterson, the children will also take a trip to the Detroit zoo and possibly, tour Kensington park on a future nature hike.

Mary Welch, a Northville girl who teaches in the Farmington school system, has been an instructor for six years. Her view of recreation work is shared by the other instructors.

"Activities of this nature keep the kids busy doing something constructive. It's amazing what some of them accomplish," she noted.

Jaycees Rout First Opponent

The Northville Jaycees won their first start of the softball season here Sunday night with a 17-2 romp over Nankin township in the Junior Chamber of Commerce district number six league.

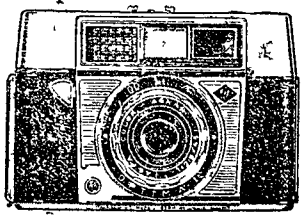

The game, which was played at Ford Field, was strictly no contest.

Members of the newly formed league beside Northville and Nankin township are Romulus, Dearborn township, Inkster, Livonia, Plymouth, Redford township, Garden City, Belleville and Wayne.

Providing the opposition in Northville's next Sunday encounter on the road will be Romulus.

Bus will load at 9 a.m. at the Amerman school and the Community building and will return at 12 noon Conley noted.

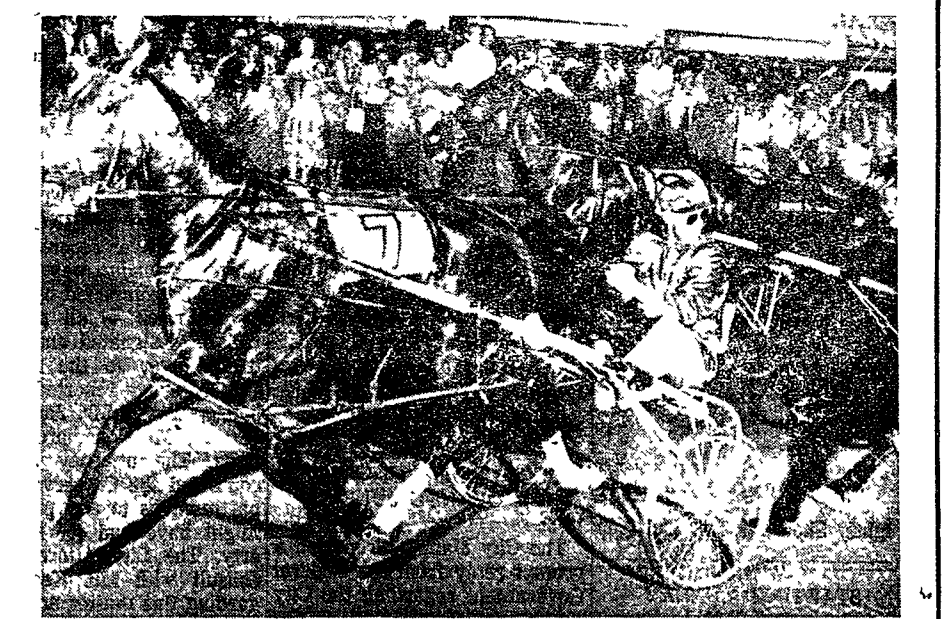

There will be no charge and children need not bring a lunch.

New Program Aids

In addition, he said, "most of the kids here have an academic retardation. They may know how to multiply, but perhaps they were out of school when the class was covering borrowing in subtraction."

"Most have a lot of academic holes like this," he explained. "It's tough for kids to get out of here without first filling in these holes."

The school has, for the fall, scheduled a teaching staff of 10 people. When such a program is begun, the school's 90 youngsters will be running a normal school day, "comparable to public school," according to Austin.

Some of these teachers will be practice teachers, Austin noted, to bring Northville State more into line "as a training institution."

Most of the new teachers' efforts will be expended, as are the current teachers' efforts, in "motivating the passive, disinterested children," Austin said.

"The biggest misconception is that these kids are raving maniacs; kids, that, like in early England, you go and poke a stick at on Sunday afternoon."

"Focus of the school is put on motivation by finding some area where these kids can succeed, building from there."

"These kids know all about failure, but not too much about success," Austin concluded.

While the school is trying to inundate the youngsters with success, Dr. Woloy, two resident psychiatrists and a corps of just under 20 child care workers are attempting to help the youngsters solve their problems.

One such worker, Simeon James, a 29-year-old who's held such diverse jobs as membership secretary for the Boys' School of Detroit and that of bank teller, calls the job "challenging."

"If you don't like children in general, there are bound to be personality clashes," he maintains, and "all the good that's been done for the child while he's been here is undone."

A child care worker, James feels, "shouldn't get involved personally to the point where he loses his judgment."

"Someone may spit on you. You can resent it or get mad. Or you can say he's got a problem and try to identify it.

"My own feeling is that a child care worker must control his temper at all times," but, James continued, "he should let the child know that he doesn't approve of a particular action because it's wrong morally."

"Then he should give the child the feeling that the next day is a new day."

For instance, James said, suppose Bill has a temper tantrum. "We can only let it die down, but then maybe we can sit down with Bill and have a talk, covering such points as why people have tempers, what's bothering him."

"Perhaps, we can even give a bit of our own philosophy about how we control tempers."

It's still much too early to assess the effectiveness of child care workers in the scheme of things at Northville State.

But, says Miss Jacox, "the youngsters are just looking better physically these days."

Part of the new look, she explained, can be credited to the unit's doing its own laundry; part, to the fact that the youngsters are spending "much more time in appropriately planned activities."

These activities, according to the hospital's director of nursing, Fred Galli, give the children a far greater chance for recovery than many of the over 2,000 adult patients.

He noted that some days the hospital's staffing is "risky and dangerous" in maximum security wards.

To keep these wards reasonably well staffed, attendants must be pulled from other areas, Galli noted.

"So, here's the situation you face in say, a geriatrics ward, there are two on duty and 65 patients. The attendants are so busy doing janitorial jobs — that they're not paid to do — that they have no time to sit down and do the important job of relating, talking with people."

"What happens: an elderly woman withdraws, begins to deteriorate, all because there's not someone to listen to her for 20 minutes now and then," Galli concluded.

To Try College Vote Again

The Oakland County Community College is still a live issue.

Meeting last week, the Oakland Schools Board of Education unanimously approved a resolution to place the community college question on the ballot in June 1964.

In addition, the county school group requested the Citizens Advisory Committee on the community college to reconvene in the fall to assist in the campaign for the two-year institution.

Dr. William J. Emerson, superintendent of Oakland Schools, told the board he had received "all kinds of encouraging calls" since the June 10 vote.

The community college idea was accepted in the June 10 election by a 2,000 majority, but an equal majority rejected a one-half tax levy for support of the institution. According to state law, if one of the proposals fails, both fail.

Readers Speak:

A Matter of Dignity

To The Editor:

In last week's Record Harold Hartley issued a bold appeal for racial integration and the extension of constitutional rights to the Negro. I call Mr. Hartley's summons bold not because he advanced any new solutions to the racial problem but because he exhibited the courage to air his opinions on a controversial issue in the public press.

While I cannot be as brave as Mr. Hartley and prefer to remain anonymous, I would like to comment on his letter.

I believe the philosophy of his position is tenable; however, I feel his appeal blurred the gravest obstacle to integration: human attitude. Constitutional provisions, favorable court decisions, freedom marches and dollars to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People do not guarantee human dignity. Not one of these outward gestures can reshape minds distorted by prejudice and inculcated with the belief that dignity is only as deep as a person's skin color.

What is crucial is that the hatred and contempt that erupt into racial violence at lunch counters and on college campuses are learned attitudes and not inherited traits. No genetic patterning makes a white man contemptuous of a black man. He is taught prejudice, subtly and overtly, and his teachers can be found in the home, the school and even the church, places where love and understanding should instead prosper.

The parent who dishes up race prejudice with the evening meal shares the blame along with the teacher who consistently calls on the "outstretched white hand" before the "outstretched black hand" and the church council that decides that a Negro can dust the pews but cannot worship in one on Sunday morning.

Here then are the areas that should be the integrationist's prime targets. No Caucasian child—for that matter no Negro child—will snub or badger anyone because his skin is a different color until someone he respects and trusts tampers with his still malleable attitudes.

You cannot buy dignity. You cannot march to dignity. It's carved out of attitudes that are implanted in the heart, in the mind, and in the home.

'Bugaboo' Kills Humans

Lansing — An old "bugaboo" is back on the scene. State Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis today warned the public that a certain type of bug-killing device, which is dandy for its intended purpose, can effectively dispatch humans as well.

Recalling a similar situation 10 years ago, Dr. Heustis said that the devices — there are several employing the same technique — produce an insecticidal vapor of benzene hexachloride by heating either pellets or crystals of the compound. He warned that too high a concentration of this vapor over a prolonged period of time could produce harmful effects on humans.

Some of the devices are also advertised as deodorant dispensers or medicated vaporizers, but don't appear to be clearly labeled as to directions and the wrong substance — such as the insecticide — could be used accidentally in place of the deodorant or vaporizing agent.

In addition, since the pellets are similar in appearance to pills, such as aspirin, and the crystal form of the insecticide looks like sugar or salt, the presence of these substances in the home is an invitation to accidental poisoning.

The maximum allowable concentration of this toxic vapor is listed as one gram per 15,000 cubic feet of air per 24 hours. One unit tested, dispensed two grams in less than an hour.

Such devices are acceptable in public establishments and places of employment where no one is subjected to the fumes on a continual basis, but are not recommended for installation in homes.

Ghost of Dixboro

Martha Discloses Secret In Exchange for Death

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of six articles dealing with the once famous ghost of Dixboro. The articles are taken from a historical research paper authored by Russell E. Bidlack of the University of Michigan, and it comes to us through the courtesy of Mr. Bidlack and his friend, Clare Rorabacher of Whitmore Lake, both members of the Washtenaw County Historical Association.

The second article recounted the death of Ann, sister of Martha Mulholland, and of the death of John Mulholland, husband of Martha and brother of Ann's husband, James. Readers were told that before Ann's death she was bothered by some "secret care" and, following the death of Martha's husband, Martha too became upset by some "secret" danger. James, readers learned, attempted to gain possession of Martha's estate left by her husband.

Now to continue: As the years passed, Martha's health continued to decline and she became more and more an object of pity in the neighborhood. Although the record is unclear on this point, it appears that she was attended by a medical friend of her brother-in-law's, a peddler who carried a stock of patent medicines.

Finally, in the summer of 1845, she was attended by a physician whom A Spectator, Dr. D— found Martha's symptoms such as he could not account for — that her state frequently approached insanity.

She complained of incessant pain in the stomach and chest, which she believed to have been caused by drugs administered earlier, and insisted upon seeing Dr. D— alone. She then informed the good doctor that she had a proposition to make, explaining that she "had long been laboring under the misery of concealing something which she was anxious to divulge before she died."

However, because she did not wish to survive the disclosure, she demanded that Dr. D— agree to bleed her to death in exchange for the secret — the secret that had been the cause of her sister's death and now her own.

To humor her, Dr. D—consented. He listened to her ghastly story, apparently dismissing it as the nightmare of a woman insane, but pretended that his lancet was broken when it came his turn to fulfill the bargain.

Bursting into what A Spectator called "most pitiable lamentations," Martha cried: "They will murder, they will kill me." Dr. D— then pledged himself to keep her secret, and she became calm enough for him to depart.

An incident occurred the night before Martha's death that was to have later significance. Somehow, she found her way to the house of one of her close neighbors where she fell into what was described as a fit of delirium. Her brother-in-law carried her home and, believing that she was breathing her last, he cried out: "She is dying. She will die."

Were it not for the subsequent events, we might close our sketch of Martha Mulholland by saying that on a summer day in 1845 she found in death the peace of mind that she had failed to find in life. But this is not the end of her story.

Oldtimer Pinpoints Eerie Site

Haunted House Replaced By Lush Wheat Fields

If anybody were to look for an 1845 haunted house in the sedate little hamlet of Dixboro, near Ann Arbor, they would come away disappointed.

There once was such a house. No one living has ever seen it, but residents of the neat-as-a-pin community have passed the story of its fame from generation to generation. In 1930 one Freeman Shuart, then 86, led an inquiring reporter to the eerie site. Weeds and a trace of the foundation stones were all that remained then.

Today only memory of childhood tales remains to identify the spot. Gottlieb Schmidt, 82-year-old life-time resident of the community, pointed out a wheat field diagonally across from the general store, and said, "It sat in a hollow there."

It's pretty hard to see the hollow now. The lush wheat has covered the area once known as the Mulholland Eighty. Schmidt related how he had never glimpsed the awful structure, but had heard about it from his father.

Schmidt's father and brother had operated a blacksmith shop on Plymouth road only a couple hundred yards north of the Dixboro Ghost house. Even the blacksmith shop is gone now — a rusting long-handle hand pump the only evidence of its location.

And the home Gottlieb Schmidt was raised in has been remodeled so that only the foundation gives a hint of its century plus age.

If, while standing on the back stoop of the old Schmidt home, anyone were to look directly south, between a small barn and a tool shed, they would gaze upon the hollow where once stood the haunted house.

Shuart reported in 1930 that the haunted house had gone up in flames on a night years earlier. The ghost of Mrs. Hattie Mulholland apparently has not bothered anyone since.

Trip Through Highlands

Lookin for something to do? How about a trip through Michigan's history-filled southern highlands area?

Editor's Note: How to Make Eye-ways out of I-ways is the title of a series of travel articles prepared by this newspaper and the Automobile Club of Michigan. They are dedicated to making the 1963 travel season more enjoyable for motorists and more profitable for Michigan's tourist industry. Following is the second of seven articles.

The southern highlands — a strip running across the entire state, bounded on the north by I-94 and on the south by the state boundary — combines scenic country with early history.

One can start and finish any place in this segment, but let's start our tour in the southeastern portion at Monroe, easternmost Michigan port on the St. Lawrence seaway.

This area is rich in early Michigan history. Monroe's associations span the War of 1812 to the era of colorful General George Armstrong Custer of Civil War and Indian fighter fame.

Along the top of Lenawee county runs the Old Sauk trail, once traveled by Indians and later the Chicago-Detroit post road of stagecoach days, now US-12 (formerly US-121).

Clinton Inn, an 1832 stagecoach stop on this route, now stands in Greenfield village, the 200-acre outdoor museum of Americana founded by the late Henry Ford in Dearborn. The old Bauer Manor at Evans lake is a stately colonial building that has served wayfarers continuously for a century.

There, are twin observation towers nearby that permit a view of as many as 20 lakes at a glance.

At an intersection of US-12 and M-50 is Walker Tavern, an early stagecoach hostelry that once counted Daniel Webster and James Fenimore Cooper among its distinguished guests.

Colon, on M-86 midway between Coldwater and Three Rivers, is headquarters for magicians.

Centerville is famed for having one of the three covered bridges of Michigan still in use, spanning the St. Joseph river.

From Three Rivers, one can move along US-131 to Schoolcraft which boasts a James Fenimore Cooper home. There, it is said, he gathered material for his "Oak Openings." To the east from Kalamazoo is Climax, the place where the rural free delivery system was started.

Where M-60 and US-12 meet at Niles there is a unique historical spot, the site of old Fort Joseph, over which have flown the flags of four nations — French, Spanish, English and American. Predating the fort, however, was the mission of Allouez, which is marked by a large white cross.

North of Niles along M-40 the little village of Pokagon contains a country churchyard with a stone recalling that the famous hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross," was written while its author, George Barnard, was Methodist pastor there.

If one follows US-12 to the end he comes upon Three Oaks, site of a Jesuit mission in the 17th century.

On past Brooklyn, northern gateway to the hills section, is the intersection of US-12 and M-99. There, the traveler is faced with two choices, south to Hillsdale or north to Litchfield. The latter has the curfew marker recalling Rose Hartwick's Victorian classic, "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight."

Hillsdale, home of Hillsdale college, is where Will Carlton wrote his tearful "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse." This also is a maple sugar center. M-60 leads to Union City at the junction of the Coldwater and St. Joseph Rivers — the site of a Potawatomi Indian Village and even earlier of ancient mound builders.

"Power belongeth unto God." These words from Psalm 62 will be the Golden Text for the Bible Lesson entitled "God" which will be read at Christian Science churches this Sunday.

The story of Daniel's triumphant reliance on the power of God during his captivity under the Babylonians will be read from the Bible.
Related readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include this: "The power of God brings deliverance to the captive. No power can withstand divine Love." (p. 224).
Zeigler also stresses, "There is an imbalance in our 'civilized society.' The years from six to 16 are being increasingly burdened from an 'excess of mental application' as the tempo of civilization increases.

"We are told that the Western world is engaged in a fierce struggle for its very existence and that life is a serious business. Our answer appears to be the encouragement of intensive application to the 'important subjects' in the curriculum.

USS Valley Forge — John L. Lamp, boatswain's mate third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Lamp of 49300 West 9 Mile road, is serving aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Valley Forge which participated in operation "Wind Sock" off the coast of California June 3-14.

Designated a regimental landing team exercise, Wind Sock involved some 3,000 Marines off-loaded via helicopter in daylight and nighttime flight operations.
The Valley Forge has a crew of 1,200 men and 75 officers. When operating at sea she usually carries a Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron of approximately 30 aircraft and 50 pilots.
A Pacific Fleet unit, the Valley Forge is homeported in Long Beach, California.

Advices More Play Time Exercises
Physical exercises for boys and girls should develop spontaneously from play and sport activities, says Earle F. Zeigler, University of Michigan supervisor in physical education for men.
"Artificial exercises negate the factor of amusement and a state of happiness that should accompany a natural kind of exercise," says Zeigler.
"It would seem reasonable to assume that the introduction of a 'play element' into gymnastics would go far toward making them more palatable."

Zeigler also stresses, "There is an imbalance in our 'civilized society.' The years from six to 16 are being increasingly burdened from an 'excess of mental application' as the tempo of civilization increases.

"We are told that the Western world is engaged in a fierce struggle for its very existence and that life is a serious business. Our answer appears to be the encouragement of intensive application to the 'important subjects' in the curriculum.

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

Robert K. Spradling, Pastor
First Baptist Church of Northville

When folk establish a home, they should accept the responsibilities which go along with such a relationship. It is the God-ordained duty of parents to provide for their children. However, this sacred trust goes beyond the provision of physical goods for the welfare of children. God expects parents to train their children in the things of the Lord: "And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." (Ephesians 6:14). The words "nurture" and "admonition" in this verse refer to the total education process, including such things as discipline, teaching by word of mouth and example, all of which is supposed to be "of the Lord." In other words, the education of our children should be Christ-centered. One might well ask, how can this be done? Proper Christian education for a child should include a time each day for family worship such as reading the Bible and praying together. The time & schedule for such a procedure would depend upon each individual family. Saying "grace" or "returning thanks" at the table before meals is another way of instilling into young impressionable minds their dependence upon and thanksgiving to the Lord. The reading of Bible stories at bedtime, and the encouragement of parents for their youngsters to have their own personal Bible and to read it regularly, all contribute to the total program of training youth in the things of the Lord. These suggestions presuppose that moment of time when the child will of his or her own volition understand the gospel of Jesus Christ and accept Him as personal Savior.

Many of the above mentioned practices do not exist even in supposed Christian homes. Activities and amusements of various kinds have crowded these things completely out. It is not uncommon for a child to go all through life and never hear his parents utter His name in prayer. The only religious training many children receive is that lone hour each week in Sunday School. Sad to say, however, there are parents who do not see the necessity to make an attempt to interrupt their Sunday morning sleeping schedule long enough to see that their children receive this minimum of Christian training and influence. Such a slothful attitude is taking its toll among American youth. We have forgotten the words of our Lord when he said: "Man shall not live by bread alone." Our Lord was not given to idle statements. It is absolutely impossible to find real satisfaction in this life and hope for eternity apart from Jesus Christ and His proper place in our hearts and homes. To neglect this important life principle leads down a path in life where there is no sure resting place.

Area Witnesses Off to Assembly

C. Carson Coonce of Plymouth left by car with his family this week for an eight-day international convention of Jehovah's Witnesses scheduled for Yankee stadium, New York, July 7-14. Mr. Coonce is presiding minister of the local congregation of the religious group.

A total of 55 members of the Plymouth Congregation will serve as delegates at the assembly. Convention officials have estimated 125,000 persons from the eastern United States, South and Central America, Canada and the Caribbean are expected for the meeting.

"All meetings of the local congregation will be cancelled until after the convention," Mr. Coonce said. "Since there is no special selection of delegates for assemblies of Jehovah's Witnesses, whole families attend. In most cases, the entire congregation will go. This requires suspension of our local services for the next two weeks."

Bad driving comes from bad thinking. Thus, a great preventive of highway tragedy is sound driver education—like that which most of the 150,000 youths graduating from Michigan's high schools this month fortunately will have had. But the brain as well as the reflexes should be used in driving regardless of whether you've ever attended a formal driving class. Study your own driving habits, today.

Babson — Employed Must Pay

Babson Park, Mass. I am not arguing with the census bureau as to how our population has increased. This is covered carefully in several pages—beginning with page 251—of the "1963 World Almanac," which book I have already referred to in a previous release (February 21, 1963). These figures show that there has never been a real population "explosion" in the United States.

There is a little decline in the birth rate during a war. This applies to our country and to every other country. But immediately following the war, nine months or more after the soldiers get home, there is a heavy increase in births. These show up clearly in about sixteen years, when the babies have grown up enough to be seeking jobs. Sixteen-to-seventeen years after the end of World War II brings us up pretty close to the present — at least to 1961.

I once asked Thomas A. Edison who was the world's greatest inventor, and he replied: "The inventor of compound interest."

This applies to births of babies as well as to money. This should also apply to jobs, but in reverse. This question of jobs is especially interesting—and very upsetting—to graduates from schools and colleges at present, for a number of reasons. Let me explain:

The last war forced industry to accept women as employees. Not only did industry find women capable workers but the women enjoying their own money and being able to do such things as taking trips and buying autos, refrigerators, radios, etc., which their husbands used to tell them they could not afford.

Up to the time of the war, advertising was directed to the men; but it was soon learned that better results came from directing advertising to the women. This started in the magazines that women read, then spread to the daily and weekly newspapers and finally to radio and television. My own feeling is that this trend is well under way and will continue to grow for some years to come. I have great faith in the power of advertising, especially newspaper advertising.

Now we can discuss a real explosion — as witness today what the Negroes are doing in certain large cities. Comparatively speaking, there are no more Negroes today in proportion to the entire population than there have been.

The explosion which we are hearing so much about today is due to the following facts: Men are no longer needed for digging in roadbuilding work, or even in building construction. Picks and shovels have practically gone out of business. The machine age in general, rather than automation, is responsible for most of the unemployment amongst Negroes and unskilled and poorly educated Whites. Work on roads, water and sewage systems, and other municipal improvements — as well as farm work — that was formerly done by common labor is now done by machinery.

The Negro problem will not be solved by mob demonstrations. No community can give the Negroes the jobs for which so many of them are presently fitted. It will take time to train them to fill jobs that are now held mainly by Whites.

The problem will not be solved either by speeches such as that which Walter W. Heller, Chairman of the President's economic advisers, gave in Kansas City recently. He told his audience that he believes every family having a cash income of less than $3000 a year should be classified in the "poverty" group.

This would amount to around 20% of the country's families. It seems to me that it should be frankly recognized that the "pick and shovel era" is long since over and that we are in a new era of super machines... which these young people could be taught to operate, but this means increased taxation for municipal and state improvements. For a while, the government may be compelled to supplement the family income of these people to get them out of the "poverty class" which Mr. Heller is talking about.

But I believe education and training may be the real answer. Perhaps inflation may help to solve the matter, but it is possible that those of us who now have jobs may need to be taxed to help those who cannot find jobs.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Earlier this year — May 30 to be exact — the city of Northville adopted a code of ordinances.

Actually, the code is a compilation of ordinances brought up to date and presented in a single manual in a systematic manner.

Many of the ordinances are new; others dating back as far as 1889 have merely been modernized.

City Manager Bruce Potthoff recently compiled a report designed to explain new and changed provisions of the code as they apply to the average citizen or businessman in Northville.

Knowledge and understanding of these ordinances should prove helpful to all citizens.

General Licensing Procedure — The purpose of this chapter is to standardize all business licenses required by the city. Currently the types of activities required to obtain licenses are: Contractors, Food Establishments, Peddlers, Solicitors and Canvassers, Taxicabs and Restaurants.

There is, however, a provision whereby all persons engaged in any business, trade, profession must first register on a form provided for in the City Clerk's office.

There is no fee or charge connected with this registration.

Solicitors and Canvassers — This ordinance requires that any solicitor or canvasser obtain a license from the City Clerk's office before taking or attempting to take orders for goods or services within the city limits.

Any solicitor or canvasser must exhibit his license upon request of any private citizen or police officer. The hours during which solicitations may be made are from sunrise to sunset.

Violators or suspicious persons should be reported immediately to the Police Department.

Exempted from this ordinance are organizations whose sole purpose is education, charitable or philanthropic.

Nuisance — Public nuisance is defined as whatever annoys, injures or endangers the safety, health, comfort or repose of the public; interferes with or destroys or renders dangerous any street or highway; allows accumulation of junk or obnoxious matters or private property, specifically included is excessive noise from horns, radios, musical instruments, shouting, hawking, domestic animals, sirens (public excepted), exhausts, construction, handling merchandise and sound trucks.

Other specific nuisances are noxious weeds, deposit of unwholesome substances, injurious substances and improper drainage of lots or property.

Swimming Pools — Courts have ruled that private swimming pools may be attractive nuisances unless certain precautions are taken to prevent possible hazards. Likewise without proper facilities to clean, purify and otherwise maintain the pool it may create a hazard to public health.

To insure proper installations each pool is to obtain a permit approved by the City. Specifications as to placement on the property, security and general operations are spelled out by the ordinance.

All pools presently in existence are required to obtain a permit. Any proposed pool must have a permit prior to construction so that plans may be approved by the City and County Health Departments.

The permit cost is $5.00 and is good for the life of the pool and need not be re-issued as required of licenses.

Bicycles — Every bicycle rider on public streets or public places must obtain an annual license from the City. The cost of the license is 25c.

The principal purpose is to assist the police department in the recovery and identification of the numerous bicycles lost or stolen each year.

At the time of licensing, a plate will be issued to the owner. Said plate is to be attached to bicycle.

The ordinance also covers traffic laws as they apply to bicycle operators. The license period for bicycles is from July 1st to June 30th of each year.

Offenses — Heretofore many of the offenses handled by the police department were done so under the state law. The result was that the state received any resulting fines. Under this chapter the police may cite persons under city ordinance for the following offenses: disorderly conduct, noisy or riotous assemblage; disturbing the peace, discharging firearms, gambling; possession of dangerous weapons, loitering.

Air Guns — Whereas, in the past airguns were part of another ordinance, this code sets aside a full chapter to handle the question of airguns. The provisions of this chapter make it unlawful for the sale of airguns to persons under the age of 16. It is also unlawful for any person under 16 years old to carry any airgun on public ways unless the gun is unloaded.

Minors — Several of our previous ordinances contained provisions concerning minors. In this new code, however, one chapter is devoted to this subject in conformance with the state law.

It is unlawful for persons under 12 years of age to idle or congregate in public ways between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless accompanied by a parent or guardian.

It is also unlawful for persons under 16 years of age to idle or congregate in public ways between the hours of 12 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless accompanied by an adult designated by the parent.

State Plans For Emergency

In the event of an enemy attack do you know where Michigan's seat of government would be?

Paul Lutz, aide to Secretary of State James M. Hare, is one of a very few people concerned about this little-known problem. Hare's office is responsible for making and keeping ready a plan to be used to shift state government operations if this should ever be necessary.

Lutz, a crusader of sorts, points out that probably not one person in a hundred Michigan citizens is aware of the fact that the state capital would be moved to Mt. Pleasant.

State officials are well acquainted with the emergency operations plan because they have already been called upon to prepare for its use.

Each of the top state officers has named up to five emergency successors to serve if he is unable. Gov. George Romney, for example, recently named Wilber J. Brucker, former U.S. Army Secretary, as his No. 1 replacement. Romney also recently paved the way for implementation of the emergency plan by naming a 12-man board to be sure Michigan has adequate supplies of food, power, gas, solid fuel, telephone communications, transportation means, water and other necessities.

Romney's emergency planning board also will coordinate such things as manpower mobilization, public health efforts, and public information.

The 12-man board, of which Hare is a member, can do much to make things easier if major cities in Michigan received extensive damage.

Lutz's point, however, is that if Michigan's citizens are not informed, and do not inform themselves of what must be done in an emergency, all the detailed planning of a top-level board would be for naught.

Extensive tests designed to detect one of the possible causes of mental retardation in children are being conducted by the Michigan Health Department and similar units in other states.

The praiseworthy effort is being directed by an Eastern university in cooperation with health officials throughout the country. These state health officers in turn gain the samples for research through cooperation with hospitals and parents of newborn infants. The disease under scrutiny is phenylketonuria, more commonly known as PKU.

In recent years medical scientists discovered that certain babies are born with a defect in their ability to use some protein elements in their food. This defect, PKU, may lead to mental retardation.

Recently, however, research has shown that mental retardation may be prevented if a special modified milk is started during the first few weeks of life.

A single blood or urine test may detect the presence of PKU in an infant and use of the special formula can combat the rare condition.

Michigan health officials hope to enlist the help of all parents in hospitals now participating in the pilot testing program, and eventually develop a statewide detection program.

A state lottery is expected to get intensive study in the near future.

In past years the voice of Rep. Edwin A. Fitzpatrick, Detroit Democrat, has stood alone in urging his colleagues to create a state lottery or sweepstakes to alleviate tax and budget problems.

Now the adoption in at least one state of a government-run sweepstakes, Fitzpatrick's cause has gained some support, at least for study.

Sen. John T. Bowman, Roseville Democrat who previously served in the House with Fitzpatrick, has suggested a bipartisan legislative study of the question.

"It seems reasonable and fair that the membership of the legislature should be informed on the question of a state lottery," Bowman said. Emphasizing he did not necessarily advocate a lottery, Bowman said it should be considered this fall when the legislature is seeking ways to raise money.

The idea of even a study, however, also has its opponents. Sen. Harry Litowich, R-Benton Harbor, has been quick to indicate that he will oppose any move toward creating any type of lottery or sweepstakes.

"The concept of a state lottery is the concept of legalized gambling," said Litowich, voicing one of the chief arguments against such a plan for financing state spending.
