Unique Center Cuts 'Pattern for Future'

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last of five articles dealing with Northville's institutions — Our Lady of Providence school, Wayne County Training school, Plymouth State Home and Training school, Northville State hospital, and Hawthorn center. News Editor Margaret Silbar visited each of the institutions, conferred with administrators and hopes through these articles to point out the unique features of each in the field of mental health.

A nationwide attack on emotional disturbances in children is getting underway. One of its major beachheads is an angular bit of land on Haggerty road between Six and Seven Mile roads.

Here, a small army of psychiatrists, psychologists, teachers, social workers, researchers, nurses and occupational therapists are taking on one of the most baffling problems of modern industrial society.

This small army, composing Hawthorn center, is successfully operating one of the first community mental health centers in the nation.

In addition to treating emotionally disturbed children, the center works to develop new educational techniques for these children as well as training special education teachers.

The center, unique in the nation because of its many faceted approach to the problem, doesn't stop there.

It operates a research program which, among other things, is now delving into the possible cause of schizophrenia; an outpatient clinic, an inpatient program and a day school.

The day school, according to Dr. Ralph Rabinovitch, clinic director, is "the pattern for the future."

Such a school, which first gained impetus in England, is exactly what its name implies: the disturbed come for classroom treatment five hours each day, returning to their homes afterwards.

It's planned to care for those children who, because of their behavior or academic deficiencies, are not able to remain in public school, but are not ill enough for a state hospital, Dr. Rabinovitch said.

Began as a pilot program shortly after the center opened in 1956, Hawthorn's school has grown until the converted dormitory it's housed in is bursting at the seams.

What hasn't changed, Dr. Rabinovitch said, is the school's focus as a family program. He explained that many of the 50 youngsters who attend Hawthorn's school are there because their parents weren't able to understand them.

Thus, he said, giving the children intensive help for just five hours a day can't completely ready them for a return to public school.

Instead, parents, are brought in for group therapy, help in dealing with the day to day problems of their children.

Dr. Rabinovitch describes his young students as usually "quite bright."

Yet, some are unable to learn the meaning of symbols and, therefore, can't read. Others are impaired academically because of brain damage. In still others, bizarre and abnormal behavior such as shouting in class and calling the teacher obscene names prevents learning.

The school works with emotionally disturbed youngsters like nine-year-old Paul who, while his name is fictitious, nonetheless represents a real boy.

Paul, like many other Hawthorn patients, first came to the center because he'd been all too successful in outrunning the truant officer. Even when he did appear for classes, Paul couldn't seem to sit still long enough to learn to read.

His teachers concluded that he was mentally retarded. The court, rather than committing him to an institution, decided to send him to Hawthorn for observation.

After eight hours of testing, Paul was found to be of normal intelligence. This in spite of the fact that he was unable to read even a first grade book and wrote a phrase like "The boy came home" as follows: "The boy nor house."

Paul joined other youngsters, some as young as four, others as old as 15 or 16, in the day school.

Most, like him, are "under-achievers," according to Dr. Rabinovitch. "Without motivation or incentive, they are the students who drop out of high school in the tenth and eleventh grades."

Once enrolled in the school, the problem becomes one of interesting the youngsters in learning. The school's five teachers and two reading therapists use a variety of tactics; among them, letting the youngsters choose what it is they'd like to study.

The school's superintendent, Milton Sakorafis, reports an average class wants to study "everything from Woody Woodpecker to elections."

Out of the diverse suggestions, he says, there's usually half a dozen usable ones. The suggestions in hand, he and his corps of teachers then set about writing and illustrating their own textbooks.

"Always, when we write," Sakorafis explained, "we keep in mind the individual children in our classroom and their particular problems."

Thus, a finished work at Hawthorn contains "something for everyone," he said.

"For example, a child with a severe reading problem may not be able to understand the book most of his classmates are using — but he can color the pictures in it."

The idea, Sakorafis continued, is to help these youngsters see that they're not dumb in everything. "Eventually, some may even be able to say: Even if I can't read well, I can understand someone talking about geography. Therefore, since I can listen well, I can keep up with youngsters my age."

Usually, day school students remain at Hawthorn about two years, then are able to return to public school.

Day school students come to Hawthorn, according to Dr. Rabinovitch, from as far away as Ann Arbor and Pontiac since Hawthorn is the only state-operated clinic for the emotionally disturbed child in Michigan.

Most students come from the Detroit suburban area, he said.

"But we can only care for a portion of those who need help."

After explaining that the clinic draws its day school patients primarily from its outpatient clinic, he noted that the outpatient clinic which opened with 600 patients a year now has 1,000 a year, making it one of the largest clinics in the nation.

"Unfortunately, instead of the flow of outpatients diminishing each year as we had hoped, it's increased."

Dr. Rabinovitch attributes the increase in patients to more awareness of the problem, population growth and (Continued on Page 8)

Rotary To Host Visitors

Northville will become the "home" of 200 foreign exchange students next Wednesday evening.

The occasion is the annual farewell dinner sponsored by the Rotary club for exchange students who have attended high schools throughout the state during the past year.

A picnic for the students and their American foster parents will be held at the Wayne County Training school at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Following the program the young visitors will say goodbye to their American parents, stay overnight in homes offered by local residents, and return to WCTS at 1 p.m. Thursday where they will board buses for their port of departure, Montreal.

Co-chairmen of the program are Rotarians Philip Ogilvie and C. A. Smith. Toastmaster will be Dr. Kenneth MacLeod. Rotary District Governor Clifford Ashton will be a speaker.

The students themselves will be called upon to reflect their year's experience in America.

Smith and Ogilvie noted that overnight hosts may call for the youngsters at the Training School at 9:30 p.m. If they are unable to come to the school, Rotarians will drive the visitors to their hosts' homes.

Working with Ogilvie and Smith as members of the program committee are L. C. Sullivan, W. A. Westerfield, E. V. Ellison, J. J. Brummel and James Allen.

Concert Tonight

The first of four summer concerts will be held at 7:30 tonight (Thursday) by Northville's community band.

The annual musical presentations are traditionally held at the city hall park. But because of the construction of the new city hall, the concerts will take place in the large parking lot area behind the high school.

Informality will be the theme of the summer concerts, reports Director Robert Williams. The audience may relax in cars while listening to the music.

The program will feature show tunes and marches plus several guest conductors.

If it rains, the performance will be held in the high school auditorium.

Future concerts are scheduled for July 18, 28 and August 1.

Santa to Bring New City Hall?

Northville's new city hall and library will be "open for business" by Christmas.

This was the prediction of the project's general contractor, Carl Luomo, this week as construction was set to get underway.

It's Colonial

City Manager Bruce Potthoff reported this week that post office authorities in Chicago had given assurances that the proposed new Northville post office would be colonial in design.

Specifications recently released for bids called for a temporary building at the Cady-Wing street site.

Officials admitted it was a slip-up and asked the city manager to submit designs of the recently completed scout recreation building and new city hall as patterns for the post office.

Presumably, new specifications will be released soon.

A meeting was called Tuesday by Architect Harry M. Denyes, Jr., to discuss building procedures with all contractors involved.

City Manager Bruce Potthoff said Luomo was confident the project could be ready for occupancy by Christmas. It had been expected that construction would take eight months.

The $261,000 city hall-library fire hall is being constructed under the federal government's public works acceleration act with matching federal funds.

Colonial in design, the facility will be constructed at Mam and Wing, site of the old city hall.

Contractors were scheduled to begin work this week.

Council Plans Crack Down On Parking

A city council-merchant parking committee set forth a new plan for parking control in the city's business district this week and promised to take steps for enforcement.

Specifically, the joint committee proposes to:

— remove all parking meters from off-street parking lots and limit lots to two hour parking;

— repair and maintain meters in working order on streets in business district where they now exist;

— crack down on parking violators by insisting upon strict police enforcement;

— set aside a limited number of all-day metered spots on least-used areas of city lots;

— warn merchants and their employees against all-day use of street and customer parking lot spaces and fine violators.

The Monday night meeting was called by Mayor A. M. Allen to establish policy before the city opens its new 30-car parking lot on Main street.

The parking problem in Northville has been under fire from all sides.

Some councilmembers have been criticized for off-street parking purchases; some merchants oppose meters; others favor their use but condemn the city for not keeping them in working order and enforcing parking regulations.

Both Mayor Allen and Councilman John Canterbury, second member of the council's parking committee, were openly critical of police control of parking.

They were joined by Councilman Fred Kester, who also took part in the meeting as a member of the merchants' parking committee. Other merchant representatives were Esie Nirider, William Sliger and Earl Wmeman.

Nirider called the meters a "constant complaint."

"If the parking meters don't work, customers just assume the town is run poorly. It makes a bad impression," Nirider pointed out.

Mayor Allen and Councilman Canterbury and Kester agreed. They promised an immediate meeting with City Manager Bruce Potthoff and Police Chief Eugene King to determine what steps must be taken to provide proper patrolling of parking and maintenance of meters.

It's known that differences of opinion exist here. It must be proven to Mayor Allen and Councilmen Canterbury and Kester that the police force needs additional help for parking control.

Not all criticism of the parking situation was aimed at the city Monday night. Businessmen and their employees also were targets of complaint.

Both Mayor Allen and Councilman Canterbury were opposed to turning over the city-owned Dunlap street lot (between Center and Hutton) to all-day parking, a proposal made initially.

"If we don't need customer parking any worse than that, then at least we ought to rent the space to store owners or employees for their own use," Canterbury noted.

"We'd look pretty silly turning lots into employee parking after developing the space to help business," chimed in Mayor Allen.

Canterbury added that the city would be "subject to justifiable criticism if we permit all day employee parking in customer lots."

It was finally agreed that a minimum number of all day meters would be installed in one portion of the Dunlap lot and near the Presbyterian church in the city's parking alley.

The council representatives then agreed to draft a letter to all merchants urging them to keep personal and employee cars out of public lots. They further noted it was "unfair" for downtown employees to use space in large private parking lots such as provided by supermarkets for their customers.

Light Night For Board

Northville's school board whipped through a short agenda Monday night, pausing enroute to discuss a field accommodations' building at the high school football field.

Sparking the discussion was a $500 check from the Rotary club for "a press box," the proceeds from the club's travelogue series this year.

After much discussion, the board unanimously decided the entire check could not be accepted for a press box.

Since the Rotarians rented the school auditorium for the travelogue series, the board decided that the rental fees—totaling $360—would have to be subtracted from the check and returned to the general fund.

The remainder will go into a press box fund.

The board decided that perhaps the "ideal" would be not to just build a field house, but instead an accommodations' building. This building would serve as refreshment headquarters, and contain, in addition to a press box, rest rooms.

In other business, the board approved a teaching contract for Walter Tubbs of Milan. He will teach shop at the high school next year.

Tax Time In City

If you received one of those official-looking notices last week that say you owe the city of Northville money, don't feel bad.

You're only one of about 1,600 property owners who were so notified.

City Clerk Mrs. Martha Milne reported annual property tax bills were sent out last week for a total of $137,452. This year's figure is just $3,064.57 higher than last year's total tax levy of $134,387.43.

The tax rate, however, remains the same: 12.5 mills or $12.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

The tax bills were payable beginning July 1 and must be paid by August 31 to avoid penalty. Beginning September 1, a four per cent collection fee will be levied by the city.

The city will also charge an additional one half of one per cent monthly interest on overdue bills, beginning in September.

Whale Coming

A new business will open in Northville next Thursday.

It's the "Black Whale," a delicatessen which will feature "submarine sandwiches," fish and chips and carry-out service.

Located at 170 East Main street, it has been redecorated in colonial design.

The business will be managed by Frank Hanna, who is also a partner with several other area residents. David Vincent, 584 Reed, conceived the idea and organized the venture.

Pizza will be added at a later date.

Brader's Sold

Long Career in Retailing Ends for Himmelsteib

For 35 years Harry Himmelsteib followed two simple rules of retailing that paid dividends in respect and success.

He always insisted on good values for his customer's dollar. He believed in sharing the success of his business with his employees.

This week the owner of the S. L. Brader department store retires and will soon leave Northville.

The store, which recently completed a sale to reduce inventory, has been sold by Himmelsteib and his partner, Robert Morse, to Aaron Gellerman of Detroit. Gellerman takes over officially on Monday.

In recent years Himmelsteib, now 69, has been in ill health.

He came to Northville in 1928 to join his uncle, S. L. Brader, in the department store business. Brader had owned a dry goods store on North Center street since 1920. The store was moved to its 141 East Main street location in 1928.

Himmelsteib bought out Brader in the mid-forties.

He is without a doubt—one of Main street's best-liked retailers. Everyone knows that Harry "would go along" with any worthwhile project—whether it be a city-wide retail promotion, sponsorship of bowling and baseball teams or a donation for a worthy cause.

Himmelsteib devoted himself to his job. A bachelor, he has few other interests, although he once was considered a shrewd handicapper and enjoyed watching the trotters at the Downs.

He surrounded himself with a crew of loyal, longtime employees. And to the dismay of many of the salesmen who called on Brader's, Himmelsteib always insisted that markups be kept to a minimum—far below the average of other stores handling his lines.

"Harry believes that the working man needs work clothes to make a living and that the cost should be kept to a minimum," notes partner Morse.

Himmelsteib learned his rules for retailing from his father, who owned a dry goods store in Wilkes Barre, Pennsylvania. After working for his father he moved to Detroit for more department store experience before joining his uncle in Northville.

He was also a firm believer in advertising. And he never failed to place an advertisement in The Record each week. Himmelsteib's ads always contained "price values."

Most of Brader's present employees will remain under the new ownership. Morse and his wife, Sally—who is Himmelsteib's sister, will move with Himmelsteib to Southern Pines, North Carolina. Mrs. June Manville will also retire. She went to work for Brader's in 1942 to "fill-in" for six weeks and stayed 21 years.

Maurice Giles manages the shoe department. He joined Brader's soon after graduating from high school in 1935.

Miss Mazzie Markham started out as a baby-sitter for the Brader children and then went to work in the store in 1935. Mrs. Lenna Egloff started in 1949. Her sister, Mrs. Maxine LaRue, worked at the store until recently. She once played with the Brader children and then went to work at the store in the early forties.

Seymour Orr has worked at Brader's for the past six years. His wife, now employed at Stone's was one of the first clerks hired by Himmelsteib.

Griffith - Klocke Rites Performed Saturday

White gladioli and carnations banked the altar where Carol Lee Griffith of Peck and John Klocke of Northville spoke their wedding vows Saturday.

The nuptial Mass uniting the pair was said in St. John's Catholic church, Peck, at 11 a.m.

For her walk down the aisle, escorted by her father, the bride chose a white silk organza gown with pearl and sequin trim highlighting its sabrina neckline. She carried pink rosebuds and carnations on a prayer book, the gift of the groom.

Attired in a white organza gown with white and blue embroidery, the bride's sister, Faye, served as maid of honor. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with the tips of the petals tinted blue.

Serving as bridesmaids were Karen Seres, sister of the bride, and Joan Klocke, sister of the groom. The pair were attired in identical white dresses with blue trim. Cindy Adam, the tiny flower girl, wore a blue dress.

Serving as best man was Gerry Brayman. Ring bearer was Jimmie Seres and ushers were Gary Klocke and Larry Mahaffey.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Basil Griffith of Peck while the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Klocke of Northville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Griffith chose a blue lace over taffeta gown. The groom's mother was attired in a gown of white and pink.

Following the ceremony, he couple were feted at a reception in the Sportsman's club, Yale.

AAUW Sets Program For 2 Years

Returning from a history-making biennial convention of the Association of University Women are Mrs. A. Donald Postma of Northville and Mrs. Richard Fritz of Plymouth, both members of the local branch.

The pair were among 2,000 college women attending the Denver convention from June 24 through June 28. They were also the first representatives of this branch to attend a national convention.

By an overwhelming vote, the delegates adopted the proposal to substitute four topics for the seven subject matter areas within which the program has been developed.

For the next two years, the AAUW program will center on the four following topics: bridging the gap between science and the layman, the American family in a changing world, occient and orient, and expectations for education.

Legislative items adopted by the convention call for support of federal aid to education, for the U.N. and for liberalized international trade, as support of, measurers in the consumers. interest and civil rights.

THIS IS YOUR LIFE — No Northvillian was more surprised Monday afternoon than Mrs. William B. Walker of Eight Mile road. What she thought was to be a routine meeting of the city's lady gardeners in her home turned out to be a surprise party. This Is Your Life style, in honor of her recent 50th wedding anniversary. Members of the National Farm and Garden Association, escorting Mrs. Walker (center) to the seat of honor are, from left, Mrs. William Slattery, Mrs. John Begle, Mrs. Wayne McBride, Mrs. Ernest Wood and Mrs. George Kohls.

News Around Northville

Two young Northvillians came away from home shows Sunday, loaded down with honors.

Rhonda Atchison, daughter of the R. M. Atchisons of South Rogers, rode away from a Swartz Creek show with two firsts and three other ribbons.

Nine-year-old David Earehart, son of the H. Edwin Eareharts of Chubb road, topped two thirds and a fifth in competition at the Morgan Gold Cup show in Bucyrus, Ohio.

Tuesday night, it was Mrs. H. Edwin Earehart's turn to be honored, but at a strict shower, rather than a horse show. She was feted by 15 ladies in the home of Mrs. R. M. Atchison.

Former Northville residents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Stratton of Orlando, Florida, came back to Northville over the Fourth. They stayed at the old homestead on Beal street.

Mr. and Mrs. LaVern Van Horn of West Main left last Monday morning for a week at East Tawas.

There, they'll be the guests of Mrs. VanHorn's son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Ted Cavell.

Northville lost one of its older residents last week when D.M. Luke moved to Jacksonville, Florida.

Mr. Luke, now almost 90, had been living with his daughter, Mrs. T.R. Chisolm on Chigwidden. He has now gone to Florida to reside with his son, Guy W. Luke.

The SS Mariposa sets sail from San Francisco, via Los Angeles, to the South Sea Islands, New Zealand and Australia today.

Among its passengers are two Northvillians, Mrs. Ivan Ely and her son, Frank Friedmund, of 164 East Cady.

It was cake and ice cream Sunday for the family and friends of Kathy Norris, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Norris of 109 Fairbrook. Kathy was celebrating her second birthday.

Saturday at the Fred Wenker home on Sunset street.

Present were Mrs. Wenker's mother, Mrs. Sadie Bush, the senior Wenkers; their son, Frederick, his wife and two children.

The youngest Wenkers will be staying on in Northville for the next three weeks with their grandparents while their parents return to their New Jersey home.

Off on a button hunting trip to Ionia Monday afternoon was Mrs. Fred Carter of 46091 Sunset. There, she said, she hoped to ferret out a few more buttons for her growing collection.

Entertaining 25 guests for the Fourth were the D.A. Wares of Hutton street. The Wares and their guests ate lunch, moved on to the parade, then to Ford Field for the carnival.

They then trooped back to the Ware's for some more picnic, afterwards parading to the James Kipfer's for popcorn and fireworks.

This week, Constance Crump is one of 100 Presbyterian senior high youth attending a conference at the Alma college campus.

Constance is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Crump of 46735 Timberlane road.

Just back from a Tennessee visit is the Paul Hughes family of Harbert street.

During their week's stay in the south, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes and their two sons, Steven, 12, and Michael, 9, visited both sets of parents.

Guest of honor at a Sunday picnic given by Mr. and Mrs. C.M. Hammond of Timberlane was Reverend Harold Fredsell and his family.

Several Presbyterian families attended the potluck affair, honoring their former minister, who now lives with his family in New York City.

Reverend Fredsell is currently director of the department of new church development and building aid of the Board of National Missions, United Presbyterian church.

Word comes from Bridgeport, California, this week that PFC William D. O'Mara has been promoted to lance corporal in the Marine corps. He is the son of Mrs. Mary O'Mara of 226 Linden.

Richard L. Davidson, son of Mrs. Madeline Davidson of 602 Horton, left this week for the U.S. Marine Corps. He will be stationed at Camp Pendleton, San Diego, California.

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wendt were their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Marden of Midland. Accompanying the Mardens were their twin daughters, Carol and Margot.

Marinate Chuck Steak

Like a catchy phrase, recipes travel from one housewife to another until soon it's hard to pin down the origin.

That's the way with this week's recipe contributed by Mrs. Orville Barnes of 1977 Meadowbrook.

The Northville cook is not exactly sure where the recipe she uses for grilled chuck steak came from, but she's positive "it's terribly simple" and "just a little different."

Mrs. Barnes, who's a non-believer when it comes to using frozen foods, suggests her marinated chuck steak be served with baked potatoes, a good tossed salad dressed with Roquefort dressing.

The finishing touch for herself, her husband and four boys — Tom, 13; Rick, 9; Jeff, 8, and Greg, 6 — is a lime pie.

from BRADER'S

To All Our CUSTOMERS

Since 1920 the S. L. Brader Department Store has helped provide thousands of families in our area with dry goods, clothes and footwear.

We believe we can say without boasting that our policy of giving the customer a fair value for his shopping dollar has been one of the principle reasons for our success throughout these many years.

We sincerely appreciate the patronage of our many customers. And in turning over the ownership to new hands it has been our aim to choose a successor who would carry on in this same tradition.

We are therefore pleased to announce that Mr. Aaron Gellerman will be the owner of S. L. Brader's effective July 15.

We know he will continue to serve you in the Brader tradition with the same personnel in attendance.

It is our hope that you will continue your patronage as in the past.

NEWCOMER'S CORNER

I look upon every day to be lost, in which I do not make a new acquaintance.

— Samuel Johnson

The house on the corner lot at 574 Langfield is home to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hadley and (l to r) Sheryl, Bruce and David.

There's a new family in this area that has a vested interest in Northville.

The Robert Hadley family of 574 Langfield, which moved here two weeks ago from Warren, has joined the Northville Swim club already.

It's easy to understand in view of the family's interest. "Every one in the family swims," said Mrs. Hadley.

That includes Sheryl, 17, a recent high school graduate, who will attend Highland Park Junior College, come September, 13-year-old David and even Bruce, who is six.

Mr. and Mrs. Hadley and Sheryl have been swimming for some time; David was a member of a swim club in Warren; and Bruce took swimming lessons in Florida last year when the Hadleys were on vacation.

Their other interests include fishing and tobogganing. But it's not all play for the Hadleys.

Mr. Hadley is an office manager for Michigan Clam

Service of Detroit, an insurance adjustment firm.

"My husband had the same job when we moved to Warren three years ago," Mrs. Hadley explained, "but we liked Northville and had been thinking about moving for quite some time."

Mr. Hadley was employed in Grand Rapids, Mrs. Hadley's home town before they moved to the Detroit vicinity. In fact, it was near Grand Rapids, specifically, Gun Lake, where they first met.

Births

Little Denise Mae Geiger arrived June 26 to former Amerman kindergarten teacher, Nancy Geiger and her husband, Paul.

Denise was born in St. Joseph hospital, Ann Arbor, weighing eight pounds, seven ounces. She's now home with her parents at 6379 Five Mile road, South Lyon.

Anxiously awaiting her arrival were two sets of grandparents: Mr. and Mrs. Drayton Cort of Northville and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Geiger of South Lyon.

Happily announcing the birth of a son are Mr. and Mrs. David Hartner of Williamston. Anxiously awaiting the June 17 arrival of Terry Stephen were two sets of grandparents: Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hartner Jr. of Northville and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bates of Ithaca.

Young Terry was born at Sparrow hospital, Lansing, weighing nine pounds, ten ounces. The Hartners have one other child, Tim, 3.

Indian Girl Guides Like Our Pizza, Freeways

Northville's Girl Scouts and their leaders had a glimpse of faraway India this past week.

The glimpse came in the form of three dark-eyed beauties, exotic in saris, kamiz and salwar.

The visit of the Indian lovelies—two teenage Girl Guides and their chaperone—culminated a two-year project of Girl Scouts in Northville and other cities in the Huron Valley council.

Then, the local area scouts, anxious to stress world friendship during the three-year celebration of the founding of scouting by Juliette Low, dreamed up an unprecedented project.

They would put an "Operation Birthday Present" underway and bring through their 50-cent contributions, three Girl Guides from India to live with them for 12 weeks.

This past week, the three Indian visitors toured Northville and were feted Wednesday afternoon at a tea in the home of Mrs. Robert Hallam of Sunnyside Lane and Saturday, at an old-fashioned picnic at the home of Mrs. James Smyth of West Eight Mile.

Teenagers Sunita Bhargava and Rupa Trivedi were traveling with Violet Caleb, joint national organizing commissioner of Indian Guides.

While the two girls lived with Wayne families last week, Miss Caleb stayed in Northville at the Six Mile road home of Mrs. William Schief, chairman of the Northville reception committee, was Mrs. Archie Moore.

All three of the visitors are having their first look at the world outside India's borders. All three are faced with a score of questions each day about life and Girl Guiding in India.

Young Brownies here—Blubb or Bluebirds in India—first ask about the red dot in the center of our foreheads, 14-year-old Sunita said.

"In India all the Hindu girls place a red mark on their forehead," she explained, "it's a caste mark."

Sunita says she tells the young Brownies that unmarried girls like herself may choose any color for the tiny dot. "We usually use a dot that matches the dress we're wearing—much as American girls choose lipstick that matches their outfit."

Once married, she said, only red marks are permitted. Second-most prominent question, the girls say, is "Do you have a boy friend?"

The answer to this one is an emphatic "no," both Rupa and Sunita chime, explaining that it's not the custom for girls their age to have boy friends in India.

Always, the girls expect to be asked about the number of cars in India and the Girl Guide program.

The thing that seems to surprise our American hosts, says Sunita, is that we're college girls, but still Girl Guides.

This is not unusual, she explained, noting that, many times, the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts share in organizing programs.

Seventeen-year-old Rupa, who often abandons her sari for a hard embroidered black tunic called a kamiz and flowing white trousers called salwar, is a student at Allahabad university where her father is assistant librarian.

Sunita, 18, studies at Lucknow university. There, she hopes to gain her Bachelor of Arts degree next year and then move on to an economics or social work career.

Both girls have earned the honor of being "President's Guides." What this means is that they've qualified for 12 badges beyond the first class rank.

The reason they're called "President's Guides," the girls explained, is because the office of president is the highest one in the country.

The ceremonies where the two girls were awarded this highest of honors are elaborate with perhaps 100 girls from throughout the entire country attending and attaining the rank each year.

Both the "President's Guides" and the Rangers (Guides from 17 to 21) operate much as do scouts in the United States. There is, however, more of a social work emphasis, Sunita says. "Even when we're camping, we go into the villages to distribute milk."

No visit with American scouts is complete, the girls report, without their being asked what, it is they like about this country.

Both Sunita and Rupa say that when they return to India at the end of July, they'll be taking with them a love of pizza (with lots of green pepper, cheese and garlic) and American freeways.

Miss Caleb's central impression on this short tour: It's amazing how hard every one works—even the women.

"The women never seem to sit idle at home," she observed. "There just doesn't seem to be a chance for anyone to sit at home."

This picture of busy-ness is unlike the one presented by most parts of India, she noted.

"Since we've started having five-year plans, it's getting better, but unemployment is still one of our major problems."

Shatterproof Glass Promotes Jendrisak

Shatterproof Glass corporation, Detroit, has announced the appointment of three new vice-presidents, including a Northville man, in a move to meet growing management responsibilities. William B. Chase, president and chairman of the board, named Joseph E. Jendrisak of Northville vice-president of research and development. Jendrisak, a graduate engineer, will begin his new position as director of bending and development engineering immediately. He has an extensive background in the glass industry and has pioneered research in the processing of both laminated and tempered glass.

A former employee of Libbey-Owens-Ford, Jendrisak came to Shatterproof in 1952. Active in research, he has developed various patented methods for processing glass.

Jendrisak is a former member of the American Ceramic society and also served on the management group and planning committee at Libbey-Owens-Ford.

He lives at 986 Grace street with his wife and three children. When time permits, Jendrisak enjoys hunting, fishing, boating and golf.

In Wixom May Allow Quail Hunt

An experimental quail hunting season is being considered for this fall by the Conservation Department to measure the effects of gun pressure on the birds' populations in Michigan.

The short season would be held on state-owned lands within the Department's Rose Lake wildlife experiment station near East Lansing.

Whether the Department will recommend the test season to the Conservation Commission still depends upon a quail population survey to be made at the station from late June through mid-July.

If the study shows that quail came through the severe winter in sufficient numbers, the commission will be asked to approve a Nov. 4-8 season with a daily bag limit of two birds. Hunting would be regulated under a permit system and limited to not more than 50 sportsmen per day. Permits would be issued free on a first come, first served basis.

A close check would be kept on quail numbers in the Dansville, state game area during the season. This would give "control" factor in researching the effects of hunting on bobwhite populations, including the percentage of birds that can be safely harvested.

Quail have been protected in this state since 1911. During recent years there has been growing support among some sportsmen for a short season to hunt these birds in the southernmost part of Michigan.

Henry Madigan is spending the summer with his aunt in Massachusetts.

The Chamber of Commerce will hold their installation dinner at the Alpine club on M-59 Saturday.

The DePodesta horse will run as a trotter for the first time Wednesday at Vassar.

Casterline, Spagy Lead Knotholers

Knothole

At the end of the second week of Knothole play, Spagy Giants and the Casterline Indians are tied for first place in the baseball league with 3-1 records while the Farm Crest Dairy Bears are all alone atop the softball circuit with 2-0.

The previously unbeaten Giants were tripped up 10-9 by the Northville Record Dodgers in extra innings.

Jim Marks climaxed a seven-run Dodger rally with a double to drive in the deciding runs after the Giants had a seemingly insurmountable six run lead.

Meanwhile the Indians were knocking off the Bloom Insurance Cardinals, 6-0, behind the slick one-hit pitching of Brian Myers. Then they eased by the Asher Pure Angels, 7-6, by scoring three runs in the last inning on Victor Szczepanski's triple.

In softball games, the Bears won their only encounter, with the Bob Cole Builders Tigers 10-6 to remain undefeated.

Baseball Standings
Spagy Giants	3-1
Casterline Indians	3-1
John Mach Ford Yankees	3-2
VFW Athletics	2-1
Northville Record Angels	2-2
Asher Pure Angels	1-3
Bloom Insurance Cardinals	1-3

Softball Standings
Bears	2-0
Panthers	2-1
Tigers	1-1
Colts	1-1
Angels	1-1
Lions	1-2
Clippers	0-2

Class D

After forfeiting their third game of the season July 1, the Northville Plumbers finally found a winning formula against the Wayne Monarchs July 2 to top their first win in the class D 18-and-under league, 10-3.

That formula included the pitching, and hitting of Eric Peterson and some heads-up play by the Plumbers.

Peterson twirled the first four frames, giving up one hit, one run, striking out five and walking none. He also led the attack with a double and a triple.

Hustle in the third inning provided the spark. Dave Jerome walked. He went all the way to third on a grounder to third and scored on a sacrifice fly. Thus the scoring gates were open and the Plumbers pushed across seven more runs before they could be closed.

With an eight-run lead at the end of four innings, Pete Sutherland came on to do the pitching. He allowed two runs on three hits and five walks. But the Plumbers had too big a lead.

The game with Livonia D.R.C. was forfeited. Northville could field only eight men.

Class F

Five teams are scrambling for second place in the class F 13-and-under baseball league, including Northville's three entries in the eight-team circuit.

The Northville Orioles clung to a tie for second by splitting a pair of games.

They lost 3-1 to Plymouth Recreation on the strength of the visitors' good pitching and fine defensive play.

Then the Orioles won a free-hitting 15-10 affair from the Casterline Braves. Scott Bergo led the 14-hit Oriole attack with a home run.

The Ely Oilers proved they'll be tough from here on in by winning two decisively. They walloped Diponio Contractors, 11-6, and WCTS, 17-2.

Pat Cayley collected a triple and a single against the Contractors and Randy Simpson was the winning twirler against WCTS.

Pummeling the WCTS also was the Braves, 20-3.

Turning to other action, Finlan Realty lost two contests; 4-0 to Party Pantry and 7-6 to Plymouth Recreation.

League Standings
Party Pantry	8-0
Northville Orioles	5-3
Plymouth Recreation	5-3
Ely Oilers	4-3
Finlan Realty	4-4
Casterline Braves	3-5
Diponio Contractors	2-6
WCTS	0-7

Class E

What was started as the game of the season in the class E 15-and-under league between two undefeated powerhouses, the Northville Plumbers and Loper Firestone ended in a 2-2 tie.

Except for an uncontested foe, darkness, the Plumbers at the present time would probably be sole possessors of first place.

They came up with two runs in the top half of the sixth inning to lead 4-2. But the game was called before the visitors came to bat.

As a result, the game will be replayed from scratch at some future date.

Jerry Inslund homered with a man aboard to account for the Plumbers' tow markers.

In another close contest played July 2, Northville Recreation defeated Fisher shoes 1-0 to win its first game of the year.

A pitcher's duel for four frames, Northville broke the tie by scoring the game's only run on Marty Richardson's perfect bunt down the third base line to score a man from third.

Bob Reganhardt got credit for the win. Twice with runners on second and third and none out he pitched his way out of the jam. He recorded nine strike-outs.

In another tie encounter, Spagy-Thunderbird Inn and Bill's Market battled to a 12-12 score.

Leading 12-6 going into the bottom of the sixth, Spagy-Thunderbird couldn't preserve the margin. Every member of the team, however, got at least one single.

Other scores recorded last week were Kiwanis 18, General Filters 3 and W.C.T.S. 4 and the Novi Flyers 3.

League Standings
Loper Firestone	6-0-1
Northville Plumbers	5-0-1
Bill's Market	4-2-1
Novi Flyers	4-3
Spagy-Thunderbird Inn	3-3-1
WCTS	3-3
Novi Filters	2-5
Fisher's Shoes	2-5
Plymouth Kiwanis	2-5
Northville Recreation	1-6

Novi Little League

Deadlocked for first place in the Novi Little League are the Pillers and Bandits, both with 11-2 slates.

The Bandits vaulted into a tie by defeating the Pillers, 12-3.

William White improved his pitching record (6-0) by keeping the Pillers' hitters in check except for a round-tripper by Buddy George. Leading the Bandits' cause was John Kaminski, who poled a homer.

Cause for the Pillers' dismal showing may be found in their game the night before.

They were extended to the limit by the Jayhawks. Score tied three-all at the end of six innings, the Pillers pushed across six runs to win 9-3.

But the Bandits are nonetheless a tough ball club as indicated by their 3-0 conquest of the Steelers and a 21-3 romp over the Earthmovers. Ronnie Thompson paced the Bandits in the latter game with a triple and a home run.

Other contests and scores were the Pillers 21, Steelers 3; Steelers 11, Eagles 5; Eagles 12, Earthmovers 6; the Jayhawks 11, Earthmovers 3, and the Jayhawks 18 and Eagles 4.

St. Germaine Does It Again

Sixteen-year-old Jim St. Germaine slammed his way into the state finals of the Junior Chamber of Commerce golf tournament with a first place tie for sectional honors Tuesday at the Salem Country club.

He shared co-medalist honors by carding a 79.

St. Germaine will compete in the state finals July 29 at a site not yet determined.

Thus he added more golf laurels to his already plentiful supply. He won the Junior District Golf Association's 36-hole tournament Monday with a 37-38 (75) at the Lakelands golf course. This score, coupled with his previous Monday's 39-34 (73) at the Meadowbrook Country club gave him a low total of 148.

COOL KIDS — There's a way for youngsters to beat the summer heat and learn something at the same time. These children boarding the bus have found it in the Northville Recreation department's summer swimming program. Every week day, two or three buses depart at 1 p.m. from the Community building and Amerman school for Whitmore Lake where the kids learn to swim under the supervision of instructor Phil Jerome and his assistant, Julie Gazlay. Recreation Director Ken Conley reports that an average of 110 children take the trip each day.

Turtle Race, Ball Game Head Recreation Week

A full schedule of special events will highlight the Northville Recreation department's summer program next week, Director Ken Conley announced.

The annual turtle races will be held at Ford Field Monday.

Judging for the most unusually decorated turtle, the prettiest decorated turtle and the largest and smallest turtles will begin at 9:45 a.m. with the races to follow at 10, Conley noted.

He advised that some turtles will be available at the Recreation department office tomorrow morning (Friday) for those who cannot catch their own.

The first of two trips will be taken to Tiger Stadium to see a free baseball game next Wednesday, Conley also announced.

Buses will leave the Community building at 11:30 a.m. and return approximately one and one-half hours after the end of the game. Number of participants is limited to 100 boys and girls from eight to 15 years of age, Conley said.

Parents are needed to chaperone the children and reservations may be made by calling the recreation office.

Report Burglary, Vandalism

A store was burglarized and two rear car windows were broken within the past few days in Northville.

Burglars broke into Schrader Home Furnishings, 111 North Center street, by breaking a glass on the rear door. Removed from a drawer was $20 in cash sometime between 5:30 and 6:40 a.m., police reported.

Leonard Kolp of 410 West Main street reported at 11:45 Saturday night that youths in a light blue car had thrown a pop bottle through the rear window of his car, police said.

Police said a brick was also thrown through the rear window of a car owned by Carol Taber of 537 West Main street around 12 15 a.m. Tuesday.

Both cars were empty and parked in front of the owners' homes, noted police.

Car Cleaned

Race Fan Loses $13,000, But Not at Bet Windows
While an Indiana man was watching the races Saturday night, an estimated $13,000 in stocks, rifles, guns and other articles were stolen from his station wagon in the Northville Downs parking lot. Entry to the car, owned by L. D. Prough of Indianapolis, was made by using a wire to hook a door handle through a small vent window. Stolen from the car were a three horsepower outboard motor, four semi-automatic rifles, an automatic rifle, three hand guns, $8,500 in stock certificates, a wrist watch, miscellaneous expensive jewelry, three suit cases, five suits, two sport jackets and hats, five pair of shoes, a portable radio and gold pen and pencil set, police reported. Prough told police that he had been staying at a motel in Ann Arbor during the past week, and that during that time, he had been attending the Detroit and Northville Downs race tracks. Police said that Prough did not explain why he had the goods in his car.

Six Stake Series Featured at Downs

Michigan's finest two and three-year-old pacers and trotters take over the spotlight at Northville Downs this week with a six stake series headed by the pace and trot for sophomores on Thursday and Friday, July 11 and 12.

Each of the Michigan Colt stakes has a value of $2,500 and the series, which shifts into Detroit for each of the harness meetings in the area, gives followers of the sport a chance to see the state's fastest youngsters in action.

The Downs will present the three-year-old trot and the two-year-old fully pace Thursday and the feature of the week, the three-year-old pace, on Friday.

Myrtle Eblis, last year's state juvenile trotting champion from the Dr. James Balchard stable in Morenci, is the early choice in the Thursday trot.

Roy Laney Dies in Crash

A 38-year-old Salem man was found dead in a cornfield in Northville township Saturday morning.

According to Wayne County sheriff's deputies, the body of Roy Laney of 9330 Clifton, Salem, was found in a field off Napier road at 6:27 a.m. by Jim Watson, a Napier road resident.

The body was some 20 feet from the car, which had apparently hurdled a hedge of bushes and landed on its top 50 feet from Napier road, just north of Six Mile road, a resident told police.

Deputies said they believed the accident occurred around 5:30 Friday night. Witnesses told police that they heard a car traveling south on Napier road at that time, heard a crash, then saw dust, deputies reported.

Police said residents investigated, but found nothing because the car was hidden by the brush.

The funeral of Mr. Laney was held Tuesday in Castertown Funeral home, Northville, with the Reverend Rex Dye, pastor of Salem Baptist church, officiating. Burial was in Rural Hill cemetery, Northville.

Mr. Laney, a resident of Northville until three years ago when he moved to Salem, was employed by Howard Niles stables, Northville.

Born October 2, 1924, in Northville, he was the son of Roy and Viola (Keller) Laney.

In addition to his parents, he leaves his wife, Lila; a son, Roy Laney Jr.; a daughter, Theresa Laney, both at home and a brother, Sidney Laney of Saginaw, and four sisters, Mrs. June Chisholm of Newberry, Mrs. Ida Roozeboom, Mrs. Virginia Rull and Mrs. Myrtle Teatro, all of Muskegon.

Obituary

TRUMAN DECKER

Funeral services for Truman Decker, 31, of 46090 Nieson road, Northville, a retired farmer, were held July 3 in Carter Funeral home, Elsie. Rev. Walter W. Sluys, pastor of the East DeWitt Bible church, officiated. Burial was in Fairfield cemetery, Elsie. Mr. Decker, who retired from his Elsie farm five years ago, made his home with one of his daughters, Mrs. Martha Williams of Northville.

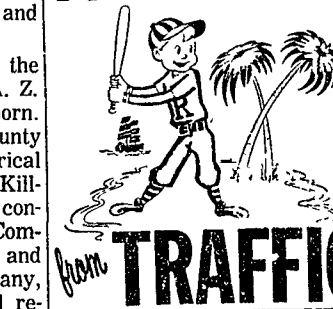

Mr. Decker had been ill for the past two years. He died July 1 in Wayne County General hospital, Detroit.

Born April 13, 1892, near Vassar, he was the son of the late Rodney and Martha (Kelly) Decker.

In addition to Mrs. Williams, he leaves two other sisters, Mrs. Susie Cromwell of Flint and Mrs. Carrie Fisher of Stanton.

Visiting hours were held from July 1 to July 3 in Castertown Funeral home, 122 West Dunlap.

Hawthorn Center

"The greatest frustration to me as an administrator — and one the staff here shares — is to see the waiting lists in every department and be unable to provide the services you know the families on these lists so desperately need."

All Hawthorn can do, he said, is filter out the most severely disturbed patients from the outpatient clinic and keep them in the program — either by admitting them to the inpatient or day school program.

The burden on the day school will be lifted somewhat when a new $700,000 school building and addition to the main Hawthorn building is completed next year.

With this new school building, Dr. Rabinovitch and the day program's director, Dr. Harold Lockett, hope to increase the student population to 85.

This won't solve the problem of waiting lists, however. "What's needed are centers in other parts of the state for these children whose days are now empty and idle."

The advantage of a state center like Hawthorn, he continued, is that the emergency help for the emotionally disturbed child is available when needed, but at a minimal cost. Average cost for each day's care at Hawthorn is $5.50.

Among the other advantages are its close relationships with the university research work. Dr. Rabinovitch credits a University of Michigan professor in educational psychology, Wil-

SUMMERTIME

The North American economy has a tendency to slow down at two times of the year due to weather. One is during the peak of Winter when the temperature reaches its coldest drop. The other time is at the very opposite, when it reaches its warmest peak.

To cite a horrible pun, even the Mexicans have their troubles. They can have it chili today and hot tamales.

Anyway, to bring our long-winded story to a head, here is the point: the hot weather that we're now getting into means that a lot of people are getting out of town to cottages and vacation resorts and leaving car dealers to fight it out alone with the daily overhead.

Any stock market expert will tell you that the time to buy is when no one else wants to. During the slack vacation months our mechanics will give you a royal welcome in the service department and our sales department trying to meet its quota will do likewise. Quicker service, more attention and real savings.

Summertime prices are truly willed by the heat. Wards Automotive Reports, a statistical authority of the car business, consistently reports September prices higher than July and August for the same merchandise.

A "cold war" thought to keep you cool: Russia has one car to every 364 people while we have one car to every three. THEY aren't rushed even in the other ten months.

It was a Glorious Fourth... Both Weather and Fun-Wise

GOOD TURN OUT — Crowds lined the parade route along both sides of Main street.

COOL CATS — Northville's high school band played it cool in shorts instead of uniforms.

BEVY OF BEAUTIES — This Michigan Bell float won first place. Lila's Flowers, K of C and Loomis Battery were runners-up.

COOLING OFF — Northville Swim Club solicited new members with this preview of its soon-to-be-opened pool.

RIVER QUEEN — This water-wheel steam boat entered by the Knights of Columbus won honorable mention.

The sun shown brightly, the skies were blue, the temperature was in the seventies. Everything was perfect for Northville's annual Fourth of July celebration.

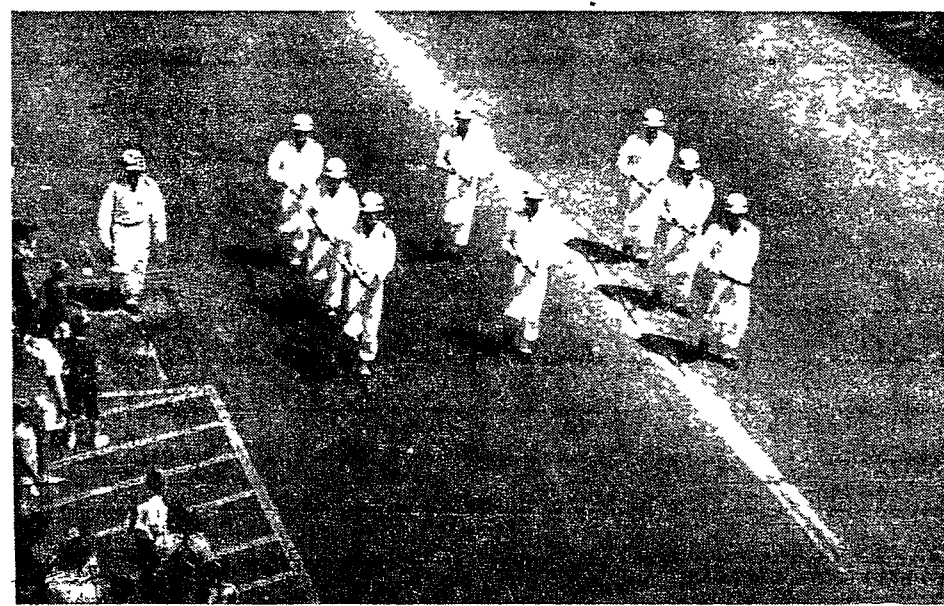

The Jaycee - sponsored event drew good crowds for all the attractions — the sky-diving, parade, carnival and fireworks.

Chairman Karl Knoth also happily reported that the undertaking also proved to be a financial success — at least "it looks like we won't be in the red," Knoth said.

The Jaycees had to pay many of the marching bands and drill teams to appear. But the expense and effort proved well worth it. The parade was one of the finest ever with a good variety of floats, drill units, bands, antique cars and pretty girls.

HEADS UP — Hundreds watched sky divers come in "on target" at noon at the high school athletic field.

IN STEP — Maneuvers by various drill teams brought rounds of applause. This is the Grosse Ile naval air station unit. The Selfridge Air Force team copped top honors.

HELPING HAND — An appeal to "Make Every Day Christmas" for handicapped children brought out Santa Claus.

CARNIVAL CAPERS — After the parade the kids flocked to Ford Field for cotton candy, merry-go-round and ferris wheel rides.

ROLLING ALONG — Keeping pace with the parade was this contingent of antique cars.

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

by the Reverend M. E. Rickert
Willowbrook Community Church

There are those who frequently refer to our world as being divided into what they choose to call the "slave" and the "free" world. Just what meanings these terms have is not always clear. For instance, we sometimes identify our country as being among the so-called "free" countries. This is good and proper for the freedoms of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness are parts of our cherished ideals. However, our "free" country is presently in the throws of constitutionally assuring the freedom of full citizenship to the Negro race which, presumably, had been given its freedom with the winning of the Civil War by the armies of the North. The fact that there is such a pronounced division of opinion in these matters, within our nation and among our lawmakers, is indicative that the term, "freedom," does not carry the same meaning for all who use it. For some, it even carries overtones of "slavery."

Could it be that our difficulty lies in the fact that we have failed to recognize that conditions referred to as "slave" or "free" are NOT matters of national heritage nor of political status. Are they not rather, matters of the spirit? Having failed to exercise the "spirit of freedom" prior to the Civil War and since, we have exercised a "spirit of slavery" and the whole issue, then and now, has become political and governmental. What men did not, nor do not, have in their hearts, they have sought to establish as a pattern of social behavior by a "war," then, and "legislation," now.

In the first century of this so-called "Christian" era, the One in whose honor man's calendar of time was changed said, "Every one who commits sin IS A SLAVE to sin." And again, "if the Son makes you free, you will be free indeed." (John 8:34, 36)

Why are men disposed to oppose or fail to express "freedom" in relation to all men? Is it not because they, themselves being "enslaved" by their own self-centeredness, are not free to accept such truths as God "hath made of ONE BLOOD all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth" and "whoever believes on Him shall be saved."

There are those (may their number increase) who believe that Christ WAS speaking the truth when He said, "if the Son makes you free, you will be free indeed." We believe this because, as it was written of Him, "He was tempted as we are, yet without sin." Being without sin, He was "free" because, not committing sin, He was not "slave" to sin. In this lies the hope that you and I can so relate ourselves to God, as did Christ in His humanness, as to be "free" from slavery to sin and, thus, be free indeed. The things to which man, in his sin, is err — jealousy, bigotry, hatred, envy, ignorance, fear, etc. — are the things which enslave. In participating in them, the "enslaved" becomes the enslaved!

Wherein the love of God in Christ becomes a reality in the personal lives of men, those men are free. Thus, one who is even "politically" enslaved can be "free" because, through the help of God in Christ, he is able to return good for evil and to keep the inner citadel of his soul uncontaminated by the very spirit-forces which would enslave him.

What a "world of freedom" awaits mankind when both the would-be "enslaved" and "the enslaved" experience the reality of "freedom" which is in Christ and, by His help, live in the common spirit of Christian brotherhood!

LEAVE YOUR PILOT LIGHTED

KEEP THE MAGIC BLUE FLAME ON IN YOUR GAS FURNACE THIS SUMMER TO RETARD RUST AND CORROSION!

Leave the clean, quiet flame (that is the heart of your Gas furnace) ON to provide more convenience for you and protection for your heating equipment. The small amount of heat, created by your pilot light will help prevent moisture that causes damaging rust and corrosion from forming in your heating unit. Also, your home will have instant, automatic warmth for a chilly summer evening or cool, fall day.

OUT OF THE PAST

ONE YEAR AGO

July 12, 1962

—All three Northville service clubs initiated new presidents this month. They are: Rotarian C. A. Smith, Optimist Dean Lenheiser and Exchange President James Murray.

—Raymond E. Spear, an elementary principal in the Cherry Hill school system in Inkster, has been selected as principal of the Amerman elementary school in Northville.

—More than 50 persons filled the Wash-Oak school Friday evening and voted 34-20 to send seventh-grade students to Northville.

—Subdivision plats for Shadbrook and Edenberry home developments in Northville township — the first ever to provide sanitary sewer facilities outside the city limits — have had preliminary approval of the township board.

—The city of Detroit has expressed willingness to provide water for Novi if the village can provide a water system.

FIVE YEARS AGO

July 10, 1958

—Dial telephones in Northville will be officially open for use 2:01 a.m. Sunday, July 20.

—Albert E. Jones, athletic director of Northville high school, requested a guaranteed and increased budget ($7,000) for the athletic program at a meeting of the board of education Monday night. Most of the amount, approximately $5,500, would come from football and basketball receipts.

—Northville city councilmen, gave tentative approval Monday night to plans for construction of 42 homes in the second stage of the development of Yerkes Estates subdivision.

—Nearly 150 Grand River merchants Wednesday night heard Governor G. Mennen Williams applaud their new campaign to boost the economic and commercial development of communities along the highway.

—Edward Erwin and William O'Brien will compete for one three-year school board seat at the Novi polls next Monday.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

July 16, 1948

—Maybury sanatorium's 12th annual animal fair will be held July 25.

—Ed Lanning and Cleon Newton will represent the Northville Library Chess club in the U.S. Chess Federation Junior championship tourney next week at Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

—Fred Walker was elected new commander of Lloyd H. Green American Legion post of Northville.

—The resurfacing of Main street from the Ford plant to Rogers street was completed this week.

—Horses that have taken big purses at Santa Anita, Maywood, St. Louis, San Francisco and Toledo have been entered in future meets at Northville Downs.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

July 15, 1938

—Woman republican forces of Northville will be hostesses Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Jean Cole to Ex-Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald.

—Bids on a site for the new Federal building will be opened in the United States Post office here August 4. Postmaster Fred E. Van Atta announced this week.

—Sherrill W. Ambler, Dr. E. E. Cavell and Dr. L. W. Snow were re-elected to their Northville school board trustee posts Monday.

—After spending an average of only three years in the Wayne County Training school, the boys and girls who leave there go out into the world to become self-supporting. Dr. T. G. Hegge, education director, told Rotarians Tuesday.

—A dinner at the Northville Riding and Hunt club will be held Thursday for Dr. H. H. Burkart, who is leaving to live in Atlanta, Georgia.

—During an intense electrical storm Monday night — one of the worst ever seen in Northville — only minor damage was reported in the area.

Art Around Us

By Jessie Hudson

The sixth annual Birmingham Arts Festival has come and gone. This is gigantic operation combining the efforts of Bloomfield Art association, local merchants, Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, Vanguard players, symphonic music, modern dance and folk dancing groups, advertising and ballyhoo. It could, in a way, be compared to the Herculean efforts of Plymouth's Fall Festival workers when you consider the relative size of the two towns. One major difference between the two festivals is in emphasis. In Birmingham there is a heavy accent on art; in Plymouth, on chicken and corn.

There is an important art exhibit featured in the Birmingham festival, and an art market (which sold $5000 worth of art this year) operated and manned by members of the Bloomfield Art association. The correlated program included visits to studios of nearby professional painters, sculptors, architects and to houses of architectural distinction. There was a play, "The High Cost of Loving" in Bloomington, written especially for the occasion and a performance by Vanguard Playhouse for children, "King Midas and the Golden Touch", as well as music by the South Oakland Symphony Orchestra.

Of all this, nothing remains but the art exhibit still on view at the Birmingham Art center, 1516 South Cranbrook Road, through July 14. The exhibit was judged this year by Willis F. Woods of the Detroit Institute of Art, director, in fact. He seems to be a man of catholic tastes. There is an emphasis on texture in this show. Some of the texture is more bas-relief than painting, but all of it is interesting. There are also many fine oil paintings done with less texture, some dreamy, some moody and some downright nightmarish. But an the biggest surprise of all... right among the huge abstractions with paint about six inches thick were several extremely realistic, not at all original, and very calendar-artish paintings. It is hard to understand, logically, how one man can like such far out things as Edith Dine's Persian colors subdued with corrugated cardboard collage, or the aforementioned bas-relief paintings, and these very ordinary still-life or landscape pictures. I know they have their place in the scheme of things, but together? The hit of the show, for me, were two tapestries done by Caroline Hall. These were simple chain-stitched designs in shaded yellow wool on dark linen with buttons serving to emphasize the sculpture, though interesting, was very derivative of better known pieces.

A special exhibition of prize winners from the shows of 1961, 1962, and 1963 will open at this very attractive gallery on September 15. The present exhibit is well worth the pleasant drive to see. Hours are 2-8 weekdays. In the galleries: Hartley-Powers gallery, 116 E. Main street, Northville. Regular gallery artists back on the walls for this week and next; then work done by talented high school graduates from Plymouth and Northville will be featured, July 20 to August 3.

Forsythe gallery, Nickels Arcade, Ann Arbor. Chinese paintings and prints old and new for the month of July. Wheaton gallery, 18928 W. Six Mile road, between Southfield and Outer drive. Summer festival of art. Ten fine artists. Nothing over $60. Closed Mondays, open Tuesday through Saturday 11 to 4:30. (Note: Mrs. Wheaton and Mrs. Hartley of the above mentioned galleries are both represented in the Birmingham show; Mrs. Hartley with two collages, Mrs. Wheaton with downright nightmarish, But an

Area Navy Recruiters

Headquarter in Livonia

The United States Recruiting Service has recently opened a new Recruiting Branch Station in the old building, 33145 Five Mile Road.

Due to the rapid growth of the city of Livonia it was decided to move the existing stations from Redford and Northville area and to activate one in the City of Livonia. The new station will be manned by three U. S. Navy Recruiters, Chief Machinist's Mate George Diorka Boat Swain's Mate Edward H. Baker and Torpedoman's Mate Roland C. Steele. These three Navy men make up approximately 43 years Naval Service.

The Navy Recruiters wish to continue to make their services available at anytime to all organizations in the Livonia, Plymouth, Farmington, and Northville area. At their previous duty stations they were active in helping the Boy Scouts and other youth organizations.

Chief Diorka states—the Navy is stressing the high school graduates training program, whereby high school graduates may enlist and be guaranteed the chance to attend one of the many schools of technical training the Navy has to offer. The Navy also has a "Buddie Program" under this program friends may enlist together and remain together through out recruit training. For information on other Navy programs contact one of the recruiters at 33145 Five Mile Road, Livonia, phone 32-3600.

Western Lakelands Make Scenic Tour

Editor's Note: How to make Eye-ways out of I-ways is the title of a series of travel articles prepared by this newspaper and the Automobile Club of Michigan. They are dedicated to making the 1963 travel season more enjoyable for motorists and more profitable for Michigan's tourist industry. Following is the third of seven articles.

The Western Lakelands of Michigan offer perhaps the most scenic Eye-ways to be easily reached with an assist from the I-ways.

This area is bounded roughly by US-27 on the east, I-96 and I-196 on the south and M-115 on the north.

Here are swift-moving, clear streams to excite the fishermen; a long stretch of Lake Michigan shoreline with its numerous park areas, marinas, fishing sites and magnificent sand dunes and the nearby half-million-acre, Manistee National forest.

Lansing, bisected by multiple-laned US-27, northward beckons with attractions worth the time to visit, including the Capitol building, Potter park's zoo and the State Historical museum.

Adjacent East Lansing is the home of Michigan State university, the oldest land-grant institution in the nation. At the junction of US-27 and I-75, at Clare, many canoeing enthusiasts rendezvous before embarking on the Tittabawassee river to the north and east for the 30-mile float from its headwaters toward the Saginaw river.

With camping vacations high on recreation priority lists, Michigan's state and national forests are the logical choice. The Manistee National forest alone has 19 summer recreation areas. These are places where people may hunt, fish and relax — all free.

At Benzonia, on Rice creek, one mile west of US-31, is located one of the few remaining vestiges of Michigan's fabulous lumbering era still in operation — a water-powered saw mill.

The mill is completely independent of any form of electrical current for its operation and stands much as it did when it was constructed about 100 years ago.

Frankfort and Elbert, just west of Benzonia on M-115, are the terminals for the Ann Arbor railroad car ferries that operate across Lake Michigan. Glider-soaring off the bluffs here is rated as the best in the nation.

Frankfort has its tourist-luring Mineral Springs Park, with a mineral well still flowing as a public drinking fountain.

Arthur C. Frederickson, a car ferry captain, has constructed a marine museum in a barn-like structure on Hurricane Hill in the town.

Frederickson, a noted Great Lakes historian, has more than 5,000 pictures of ships and their histories and what might well be the world's largest collection by an individual of marine items.

In the Udell hills area of the Manistee National forest, on M-55 a few miles north and east of Manistee, is a miniature national forest within a national forest.

A few miles farther east on M-55 is Wellston, site of the large Chittenden nursery of the U.S. Forest Service. The 167-acre nursery has shipped out millions of trees since 1934 in a continuous program aimed toward keeping Michigan green.

Farther south on US-31 is Muskegon, one of the foremost ports on the Great Lakes. One of the sites of historical interest is an Indian cemetery hundreds of years old in the heart of the business district.

North is Ludington State park, 3,000 acres in the sand dunes land close to Lake Michigan and Hamlin lake. An historical marker recalls the lumbering village of Hamlin, which was washed away in 1888 when a dam collapsed.

For those who like books, particularly old ones, a visit to the farm home of Mrs. Raymond Genter on US-10, east of Ludington, would be rewarding. In her barn, on numerous shelves and in packing crates, Mrs. Genter has more than 10,000 books, gleaned through a lifetime of saving and collecting.

For the sightseer there is the Paul Bunyan museum on M-37 three miles south of Baldwin. Another visitor attraction is the ghost town of Marborough. It was built to produce cement, but the speculation bubble burst.

At White Cloud on M-37, one can view a sizable saw mill operation, drawing its timber supply from the surrounding Manistee National forest to produce packing crates and pallets. Three miles away on M-20 is Jugville, founded by that "writer of rhymes," Ernest Jack Sharpe, better known to his many readers as Newaygo News.

Sun Eclipse Due July 20

A partial eclipse of the sun will be seen Saturday, July 20, reminds University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

She also reminds that looking at a partial eclipse without adequate protection can be dangerous.

How much of the sun will be blacked out by the moon, passing directly between the earth and sun, will depend on the location of the observer. "At the peak of the eclipse, approximately 83 per cent of the sun will be blacked out for Detroit viewers with slight deviations from this, amount for other parts of the state, a little more being hidden for the more northern regions."

In Detroit, the eclipse will begin at 3:30 p.m., reach the peak at 4:42 p.m. and end at 5:46 p.m.

"In order to see the sun totally eclipsed, one would have to travel to the narrow path, which curves from Japan across Alaska, Canada, and Maine," Professor Losh says.

The U-M astronomer warns that "looking at partial eclipse can be extremely hazardous. The total light decreases, but any particular area on the exposed part of the solar disk is just as bright as it is when the moon is far from the sun."

"Therefore, heavily smoked glass, dense film or negatives, or appropriate filters must be used for naked-eye observations. To look at the sun through any optical instrument—even the finder on your camera—can burn your eye and cause blindness."

An eclipse of the sun occurs when the moon is far from phase and passes between the earth and the sun. Although the moon at new phase usually passes above or below the sun, at least two solar eclipses occur every year, visible from some part of the earth, and there may be as many as five, Professor Losh says.

Ghost of Dixboro

Who Walked with Candle In Home of Deceased?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of six articles dealing with the once famous ghost of Dixboro. The articles are taken from an historical research paper authored by Russell E. Bidlack of the University of Michigan, and it comes to us through the courtesy of Mr. Bidlack and his friend, Clare Rorabacher of Whitmore Lake, both members of the Washtenaw County Historical Association.

In the last article, readers learned of the steady decline in the health and mentality of Martha Mulholland, who eventually was thought to have become insane as the result of secret danger which threatened her life and which had led to the death of her sister, Ann. Ann's husband, James, it would appear from the previous article eagerly awaited the demise of his sister-in-law.

Now to continue:

Following the death of Ann, Isaac Van Woert, a resident of Livingston County, New York, set out by covered wagon for Ann Arbor in September, 1845. Van Woert was a carpenter by trade, and he had heard that Ann Arbor was a prosperous community where his services would be in demand. He was accompanied by his wife and two little boys.

As the Van Woerts passed through Dixboro on September 24, they noticed the unfinished frame of a house. Inquiring whether the owner might be in need of a carpenter, Van Woert was directed to Jackson Hawkins who immediately hired him to complete the structure. Since the family needed a place to live during Van Woert's temporary employment, Hawkins summoned a fifteen-year-old boy who was unloading stone from a cart and asked whether his mother's house was available for rent. The boy was Joseph Crawford, Martha Mulholland's son by her first marriage. He answered in the affirmative, and by evening the Van Woerts were settled in the house in which Martha had died a few weeks earlier.

What happened next can best be told by quoting from a sworn statement made by Van Woert before William Perry, a justice of the peace, at Ann Arbor on December 8, 1845. This disposition was printed in a number of newspapers, including the Ann Arbor True Democrat of February 12, 1846:

"On Saturday night the 27th of September between 7 and 8 o'clock I was standing in front of the window of said house; my wife had stepped into Mrs. Hammond's about two rods distant, my two little boys were in the back yard, for I had just passed through the house to the front yard and was combing my hair, when I saw a light through the window.

"I put my hand on the window sill and looked in. I saw a woman with a candlestick in her hand in which was a candle burning. She held it in her left hand.

"She was middling sized woman, wore a loose gown; had a white cloth around her head, her right hand clasped in her clothes near the waist. She was a little bent forward, her eyes large and much sunken, very pale indeed; her lips projected and her teeth showed some.

"She moved slowly across the floor until she entered the bedroom and the door closed. I then went up and opened the bedroom door, and all was dark. I stepped forward and lighted a candle with a match, looked forward but saw no one, nor heard any noise, except just before I opened the bedroom door I thought I heard one of the bureau

Poison Ivy Recognizes No Immunity

If you think you're "immune" to poison ivy, watch out. You're building up to a case of the itch, says a University of Michigan dermatologist.

According to Dr. E. Richard Harrell at the U-M Medical Center, almost everyone is "non-reactive" to the glossy-leaved nuisance...but only for awhile.

We do not usually see poison ivy in youngsters before the age 5 to 7 yrs. Kiddies can roll around in the poison ivy patch without developing any reaction at all."

The poisonous effect builds up after repeated exposure to the plant's oil, says the U-M doctor.

"Most people don't realize that poison ivy is an allergic reaction, and the more contact you have with the plant, the greater the likelihood that it will begin to affect you."

Although "poison ivy is probably the most common cause of contact dermatitis of an allergic nature," other plants can produce the same effect. Certain people react to carrot tops, delphiniums, or primroses, all of which can cause a poison-ivy-like allergic reaction, Dr. Harrell said.

The usual symptoms—blistering, red, itching eruptions of the skin—can be soothed and controlled by ointments and medications, but there is no way to change the allergy itself, he said. "Poison ivy shots have been used for a great number of years but they have little or no effect whatever."

Corvair 700 Club Coupe

The hardest part about parking a Corvair is finding a nickel

That may be a slight overstatement, but such jauntiness comes easily when you're a Corvair owner.

And you can usually back it up—as easily as you can back up a Corvair. You'll find yourself doing that occasionally, if only to adjust the brakes—they're self-adjusting. That's all there is to it, and that's a good example of how delightfully easy Corvair is to own, drive and maintain.

But since we began by talking about driving, let's stick with that awhile. A large factor in the fun of driving a Corvair is the location of its engine in the rear. Why the rear? It gives Corvair extra traction on any road surface. It provides a nearly flat floor for more useable interior space. Best of all, it produces steering so light, so responsive, you wonder why no other American-made car thought of it.

Corvair's engine is also air cooled, we might add, which means there's no anti-freeze or water for you to add. Ever. All that pleasure from something so practical almost makes you think Corvair is unique among American cars. Which isn't surprising, because it is!

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

"What's being done to safeguard our water supply?"
"And what would happen if our wells all went dry?"

These questions were asked of the Northville township board at its monthly meeting last week by a resident obviously worried about the level of his well.

Unlike the residents living in the southeast corner of the township who may soon receive water from either Plymouth or Detroit, this citizen resides just west of the city limits.

The prospects of a new source of water for this area in the near future seem dim.

The board had no ready answer for the question. There really isn't one. The township's future water supply will come from Detroit. But the city of Northville must first decide when it is ready to consider the Detroit source.

Even then, the township must install a system of lines to carry the supply to the users. But this is a financial problem, easily solved when water is desperately needed.

Supervisor R. D. Merriam acknowledged the lowering water levels noting that the water problem could become critical the nation over within 10 to 15 years.

The lake and ground levels of water are unusually low throughout the state (and country), a condition that recently prompted an official of the Michigan Water Resources Commission to label the present water situation in Michigan "near critical".

It's been predicted that water use may triple by the year 2000. And although Michigan is ideally located in the center of the world's greatest supply of fresh water, experts see serious problems ahead.

They point to a booming population and increasing demands by industry. They foresee the day when strict rationing will be necessary and "long, lingering showers" will be a luxury of the rich.

But let's get back to Northville.

What can we do to safeguard our supply and provide for the future?

I am of the opinion that this is a community problem that goes beyond any governmental boundaries.

It should be given top priority by both city and township officials and solved cooperatively. The overtone must come from the city.

Presently, the city of Northville enjoys an adequate source of supply.

By resolution, the council is carefully guarding its water. It maintains a policy of supplying only city residents. (A small number of township residents receive city water at double rates through inadequate lines provided many years ago. No new taps are permitted on the line and the city frowns on maintenance expenditures outside the city).

I believe the city council should re-examine its position.

Plymouth once opposed outside sale of water. Now it sells to township residents at double rates. Perhaps if its council had taken this stand 10 years ago, the township of Plymouth would not now be voting upon incorporation as the city of Plymouth Heights.

Further, the city of Plymouth has offered to supply Northville township in areas where Plymouth lines are nearby.

It can also be recalled that the water engineer hired by the city of Northville at the time of the installation of the new tower recommended sale of water outside the city limits — as a source of additional revenue.

It is entirely possible that township residents, and officials, have no desire or present need for city of Northville water. But the day could come. And planning should start now.

Even if the city never supplies the township water from its present ground wells, one day Detroit water will come to Northville. It is logical that the supply to many township areas would be best transported to township borders through city lines. This, too, calls for planning and cooperation.

Because of recent reports that shortages also occur in communities supplied by Detroit water, I talked this week to the city manager of Farmington. He acknowledged that the cost was up approximately 40 per cent, but reported no pressure problems or shortage and noted the advantages of soft water. Farmington has been a Detroit water customer for two years.

Air Conditioning Boosts Business

Babson Park, Mass. I have always been extremely interested in air conditioning, and the summer's first real hot spell prompts me to look again at this industry.

Some years ago I wrote an article on air conditioning in which I said that merchants would have to universally adopt cooling systems during the summer in order to hold their trade. This now seems just about a fact accomplished.

I do happen to know one department store not far from Babson Park that for some reason still has no air conditioning; but it is easy to see on a hot afternoon that customers dash in to buy what they want and then dash right out.

I believe sales totals would be double what they are if the store were air conditioned. This likewise applies to churches and all public buildings.

As air conditioning is now a commonplace in business establishments of all types, it seems to be gradually becoming a necessity in our houses and automobiles. Only a short time ago it was considered a luxury, but those days are already gone. Contractors in climates where the summers are inclined to be warm and muggy usually include a cooling system in original construction plans, as a matter of course.

You can have air conditioning installed in your own home at a considerably lower price than was the case a few years ago. For a medium-size house an efficient system can be put in for $1,500-$2,000. In connection with this matter, I should warn you that the proper size of the system is important. Too large a unit will chill the interior too quickly, then shut off and permit the accumulation of humidity.

Naturally, this means too a high cost of operation for your system. So avoid oversized units.

Even for those who can't afford a completely air-conditioned home, there are inexpensive units that can make a room or two quite comfortable during the sweltering weather. They may be hitched to a window to reduce the temperature nicely in a kitchen, a living room, or a bedroom. Most are sufficiently powerful to cool at least a couple of small rooms. Generations to come will want their homes entirely air conditioned.

Batch of New Laws To Take Effect Soon

The second set of laws affecting Michigan citizens will take effect September 6.

The quirk of having two batches of new statutes take effect in a single year occurred because the 1962 legislative session did not end until last December. By law, statutes enacted in a given session take effect 90 days after adjournment of that Legislature unless otherwise specified during the session.

This year the Legislature gave some 90 bills "immediate effect," so they became law when signed by the Governor on a date specified in the measures. Typical of these are the appropriations measures, which became effective July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Nearly 160 other measures, most of them having more direct bearing on John Q. Citizen, will go into effect September 6.

Among the new laws affecting a large percentage of the citizenry is a measure allowing motorists to drive 70 miles per hour at night on Michigan's full controlled access freeways. Currently the night time limit is 60 miles per hour. The same bill will also set a minimum speed of 45 miles on the limited access highways.

Increased fees are in store for a number of people. Hikes in the marriage license fee, notary public registration, dentists' certificate of practice, registration of unrecorded births, and fees for veterinarians' licenses were all put into effect this year.

Still another group of laws enacted by the Legislature this year become effective in September but will not be used until later dates.

This practice is commonly used to allow implementation of laws by affected individuals and groups between passage of the bill and enforcement of the law.

Examples of this type of legislation from the current session are a measure requiring the installation of seat belts on all new cars sold in the state, and a bill requiring many school districts to provide bus transportation to parochial school students as well as those enrolled in public facilities.

The seat belt requirement will not take effect until the start of 1965, and legislators wrote a July 1, 1964 effective date into the controversial school bus bill.

Pressures on camping facilities in the state continues despite recent additions and improvements made by the Conservation Department. Arthur C. Elmer, chief of the Department's parks division, reports that during 1961, Michigan's camp sites were used "2,270,959 days." This figure is arrived at by compiling the number of days use and the number of campers accommodated.

The division is responsible for 51 state parks and 13 recreation areas spread throughout the state.

Camping facilities are well spread throughout the various sections of the state and are able to accommodate many touring families.

Elmer says his biggest problem is that the division has no way to control the flow of traffic. Too often too many people want to camp at the same time and same place.

Constant increases in the number of campsites registered have failed to keep pace with the heightened interest in camping. In 1956, for example, Michigan listed nearly 96,000 campsites and 7,000 groups were turned away by "No Vacancy" signs. By 1961 the sites were increased to more than 161,000 but 36,736 groups were turned away and both figures were raised again last year, Elmer said.

Michigan ranks at about the midpoint among the states in the educational training provided its children, according to the Michigan Education Association.

Among the 50 states, the average number of years of school completed ranged from a low of 8.7 years in Kentucky and South Carolina, to a high of 12.2 in Utah.

Michigan's standing, as that of many states, was sharply
