

Detroit Water Lines Approaching Northville

COMING OUR WAY — This 42-inch Detroit water line is presently one mile from Northville township on Eight Mile road and moving westward at the rate of 400 feet per day. Just what route it will take once it reaches the city is undecided. A request by the city of Detroit for easements along old Baseline road to Center street and southward on Center (Sheldon road) through the city met some opposition by the city council Monday night. Mayor A. M. Allen suggested study of alternate routes — perhaps along the same path planned for the new Novi sewer line through the city. While the city has no immediate plans for purchasing Detroit water, the township is negotiating for homes in the southeast section near Bradner and Five Mile road.

Halloween Program Set for Youngsters

Plans also are underway for the annual Halloween party co-sponsored by the Northville Recreation department, the Retail Merchants Association, the Optimist Club, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The two-part party will be held on October 31 in the community building.

Leading off will be the party for elementary grade school youngsters or younger children. It'll get underway at 5:45 p.m. with refreshments in the meeting room.

Judging for junior division costumes will begin at 6:15 p.m. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes in many categories, according to Recreation Director Ken Conley, and games will follow the judging.

The second session for all junior high and senior high school age boys and girls will begin with a dance at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served throughout the evening and prizes will be awarded to dancers in costume.

The dance will conclude at 9:30 p.m.

Local Committee Seeks UNICEF Contributions

A community effort to raise money for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) is currently being conducted under the chairmanship of Mrs. Walter Murphy of the First Methodist church.

Cooperating in the program observed annually at Halloween are Our Lady of Victory and the First Presbyterian churches.

Emphasis on the project will be highlighted by the painting of UNICEF posters on nine display windows in local retail stores this Saturday. The posters will have been prepared by three youngsters from each of the participating churches. Senior students will paint the designs on the windows.

Mrs. Murphy reports that 35 UNICEF collection boxes have been placed in Northville stores for contributions.

Youngsters from the Methodist Sunday school classes will call door-to-door Halloween night "trick or treating" for UNICEF.

Funds collected through this United Nations agency are used to provide food, clothing and medicine for needy children throughout the world.

Members of Mrs. Murphy's committee include Mrs. Rolf Batzer, Lloyd Moore and John Hyde.

On Customer Lots

Day-Long Parking Hit by City Council

Parking — off-street and on — came up for discussion and occupied a giant portion of the city council meeting Monday night.

And council members agreed that:

— meters should be removed from all off-street lots;

— two-hour parking limits should be enforced on the city's three main lots on East Main across from the bank, East Dunlap across from Kroger's and behind the Methodist church;

— that meters should be properly maintained and enforced on the streets.

Temporarily left for non-restricted parking will be the alley lot by the Presbyterian church.

But councilmen jumped into the subject of parking because of the all-day parkers and more action seems likely to follow in this area.

Mayor A. M. Allen brought the subject up.

"When we have to buy and improve offstreet parking lots with public money for the benefit of storekeepers' employees, there's something wrong with the system," the mayor declared.

He pointed to the heavy use of the East Main street lot on all all-day basis and noted that it defeated the purpose of the lots — to provide convenient, improved parking for shoppers.

Councilman John Canterbury was quick to note that the real blame for the condition rested with the city itself. He agreed the lots had been provided for customers, but pointed out that the city had been negligent in enforcing regulations.

Admittedly, part of the city's delay has been due to the shortage and change in police personnel. But the council hinted that this would, soon be corrected and suggested to the city manager that greater emphasis should be placed on parking control even now.

Uniform fines for parking lots and street parking were also discussed, but the council left the decision for another time.

Councilman Canterbury pointed to the heavy expense to the city in providing lots, but noted that merchants had helped finance the Methodist lot and had indicated that more contributions would be made.

The city now faces the cost of tearing down the temporary city hall and providing alley access to the Methodist lot from Wing street, Canterbury recalled. This area will also provide more offstreet parking.

The council then discussed the possibility of leasing a portion of the temporary city hall parking as a means to off-set costs with the double advantage of removing employees' cars from key customer areas.

The possibility of installing four or eight hour meters in out-of-the-way lots (near the Presbyterian church, for example) was also aired.

Final decision of the council was to have the lots properly posted as soon as possible, all lot meters removed, and street meters put in working order with strict police enforcement.

High Bids Stall Storm Sewer

Monday night the city council opened bids for installation of the new Orchard drive storm sewer.

The project is the first step in plans to improve the road from Thayer to Fairbrook with curbs, gutters and paving scheduled to follow.

Bidding was heavy and wide spread. Seven bidders ranged all the way from $48,975.32 to $88,392.06.

Unfortunately, the city's preliminary estimates had indicated that the job would cost around $37,000.

And special assessment hearings to date had been based on this figure.

Unless City Engineer Harold Penn finds an error in the specifications that could account for the high bids, it appears unlikely that the project can be undertaken this fall as planned.

City Attorney Philip Ogilvie informed the council that such a change in cost would require all new public hearings in the assessment procedure. Benefitting property owners in the area will be assessed 25 per cent of the cost. They had already been given estimated costs on the basis of estimates.

In other business Monday night the council set two public hearings for Monday, November 4. Both hearings involve the adoption of amendments to the zoning ordinance. One sets forth a parking district zone within residential areas and establishes greenbelts and lighting requirements. The second deals with

Working with Knott will be Mayor Allen, City Manager Potthoff, and Supervisor Merriam. Their aim will be to provide every City and Township employee an opportunity to contribute a "fair share" toward the 195 United Foundation health and community services.

Women Rally To Save Landmark

Members of Northville's Woman's Club, some 200 strong, have adopted the preservation of the old library building as a project. In four "letters to the editor" this week they outline their reasons (page six, section one). "Speaking for the Record" makes some comments, too, on the back page of section two. Library facilities will be moved into the new building currently under construction as part of the new city hall.

Leaf Litterers Beware

Leaves and fires are an annual concern of the city.

Leaves in the gutters and fires on paved streets, that is.

At the suggestion of the council Monday night City Manager Bruce Potthoff issued the following reminder to residents:

- it is unlawful to burn leaves on paved streets;
- leaves should not be raked into gutters;
- violation could result in a fine under the city's nuisance ordinance.

Potthoff noted that leaves will be picked up by rubbish collectors if placed in proper containers.

FIRST SHOVEL TURNED — J. A. Weber, president of Foundry Flask & Equipment company, officially broke ground last week on the $185,000 building addition to his Cady street plant. The project was accomplished through Northville's economic development corporation. Looking on (l. to r.) are P. H. Kitzens, J. W. Weber and H. E. Bittner, all officials of Foundry Flask, and C. A. Smith, president of the community development corporation.

Will Apply To Hayes Request

Northville township moved swiftly last week to "set its house in order" to handle requests to operate landfills.

In special session Wednesday evening the board adopted a landfill ordinance (published on page two, section two).

And in another special meeting Saturday morning the board unanimously adopted a set of regulations governing the operation of any landfill permit that may be granted under the ordinance.

The action was triggered by a long-standing request from Sheldon G. Hayes that has been under consideration by the board of appeals.

It is Hayes' proposal to fill three swamp areas near the Manning & Locklin gravel pit area between Seven and Eight Mile roads. Hayes declares the entire 325-acre area would eventually be converted into high-priced homesites and the "filled" sites would be used for recreation, not buildings.

He proposes to fill the swamps with trash collected by contract from the city of Detroit.

The township board's latest move changes the status of the Hayes' request:

— according to Supervisor R. D. Merriam Hayes must submit a new request under the conditions of the newly-adopted ordinance to the township board;

— the board of appeals has no role in the landfill request under the new ordinance. Previously, such a request went to the appeal body because no ordinance existed; the appeals board handled the request as a "variance in land use".

— under provisions of the new ordinance the request for a landfill permit now goes to the board, and if in proper order, is forwarded to the planning commission for consideration. It then returns to the township board for final approval or rejection.

Supervisor Merriam said this week that Hayes' attorney had been informed of the new ordinance.

The new ordinance leaves specifics of landfill operation up to the provisions of the regulations. It merely sets forth procedure, which states that requests for landfill permits must be filed with the clerk; that the township board then refers applications to the planners for investigation and recommendation, which must be completed within 45 days; that the board may then grant or deny the permit; and that the board may restrain any landfill operation through circuit court if a nuisance is created.

The 16-page set of regulations was only completed last week. Revised copies were given board members Wednesday. The regulations set forth type of fill — rubbish, rubble, etc., but no garbage, dead animals, sewage solids, etc. — areas that may be filled fees, compaction, cover, etc.

Conversing with the Town Hall speaker, Nila Magidoff, are Chairman Mrs. George P. Hanley (right) and Mrs. Grace Richardson of Farmington who introduced the guest speaker (center).

First Town Hall Speaker Takes Audience on 'Trip'

A sapling which began as a seed of curiosity in the Soviet Union has blossomed into a lovely tree of freedom for Nila Magidoff, the Russian born lecturer who opened the 1963-64 Town Hall series in Northville Thursday morning.

Speaking to a capacity crowd of women who filled the P&A theater with laughter and applause, the naturalized United States citizen took her audience on a humorous but poignant trip to the West and then on her return trip to Russia as "an American."

Freedom of choice, said Mrs. Magidoff, who met and married a National Broadcasting Company correspondent in Russia before World War II, has been her most precious discovery since first dreaming of America as a crudely clothed Russian teenage girl.

And her "first smell" of that freedom took place at a San Francisco hotel on the day that she first set foot in the United States — just before Pearl Harbor. Laughing as she recalled the incident, Mrs. Magidoff said she showed her visa to the hotel clerk upon registering — "but he didn't even look at my name."

Curious, the newly arrived visitor told the clerk as he busied himself with filling out the registry that she might really be someone else since he didn't bother to check the name on the visa. "What difference does it make, who you are?" asked the clerk in reply.

Back in Russia, before her discovery, she lived with her parents in a small Russian village. And like any girl with a curiosity she dreamed of "going to the big city — to Moscow." Then when at 18 she made the trip, her curiosity grew still more. She wanted to see how people lived in other countries, especially in America.

Stalin was in power, she said, and travel was restricted. But finally she found a way to see the world. She became a sailor — Merchant Marine Third Class. She visited many countries then, but the trip to America never came.

Later she met and married an American and her curiosity became even greater. To help equip herself for the eventual trip she studied the language and the customs and, through her husband, became acquainted with American couples in Russia. Meanwhile, she applied for a visa and waited.

During that wait, her husband made three trips to the United States. And each time he returned he brought back "American gadgets", fascinating things which intrigue Russian people.

One of these gadgets, she recalled, was an electric toaster — something Americans seldom notice. Not so in Russia. Mrs. Magidoff called together her Russian friends, they placed the toaster in the middle of the table and together they ate "10 pounds of American toast."

After the war, she returned to Russia for a visit, thinking that the conditions, particularly the political climate might have changed. But her hopeful expectations quickly crumbled. The Russian people, she said, have a "most beautiful" curiosity about America, but after years of listening to propaganda many were unwilling to believe her stories about this country.

Her return visit became suspect, and secret policemen followed her daily, watching her apartment night and day. Frightened for her life, she gave an American friend her most precious possessions — her American passport, her wedding ring, and a letter denying any statement she might later be forced to make by the police.

Then her husband's secretary disappeared. Two days later, letters written by the secretary appeared in the newspapers claiming that her husband was an American spy. They were ordered to leave the country within 48 hours.

Throughout her talk, which was filled with humorous incidents concerning her travels, Nila Magidoff demonstrated her enthusiasm for life and her deep sense of patriotism for this country.

She attempted, by giving her audience a glimpse at her life in Russia and the United States, to show Americans how fortunate they are to have freedom and the small byproducts of freedom that Americans so often take for granted.

In Our Town

By Jean Day

GIRL SCOUTS IN TROOP 209 are hoping that Saturday they can outdo Cinderella — for whom a pumpkin was turned into a mere coach — by turning pumpkins into a spring trip.

To finance such an enchanting outing they will be selling pumpkins from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in three Northville-area locations. Mothers of the troop will be manning stands at the John Mach used car dealership on Center street, at the George Whitefield home on Seven Mile road, and at the Edward Long home on Eight Mile near Beck road.

Pumpkins for the venture were grown at the Napier road home of Troop Leader Mrs. Glenn Deibert, who is donating the whole acre of them to be sold at bargain prices — 10, 25 and 50 cents!

INDIAN LORE BADGES are being earned by a group of Girl Scouts from Troops 209 and 407. They performed a harvest ceremonial, the green corn dance, last Sunday in a program at St. Paul's Lutheran church under the direction of Mrs. George Whitefield.

TODAY IS "FLY UP" for the former Brownie Troop 407 of Amerman school. The troop of 26 girls will become Junior Scouts under the direction of Mrs. Eugene Guido.

Their Brownie leader was Mrs. Donald L. Nicholson, who will be saluted at the ceremony. Parents are to be guests at the program as well as Girl Scout officials and members of the Jaycees, who will sponsor the Junior Scouts. Co-leaders of the troop are Mrs. John Rogers and Mrs. Ruth Chadwick.

"One hundred-twenty little girls waiting in a row
Eeny, meeny, miny, mo —
Tell us, which can Brownies be?"

In poetic language, that is the very real problem facing Mrs. Philip H. Nauman, Northville Brownie troop organizer, these days.

Early this fall, notices were sent to all seven- and eight-year-old girls at Amerman, Main Street and Our Lady of Victory schools, to see who were interested in becoming Brownies — and which mothers would be leaders. More than 120 little would-be Brownies sent in applications — as did two mothers.

Therefore the problem: With 25 in a troop maximum, how do you select? Mrs. Nauman met Monday with Scout organizers and consultants preparatory to sending out a letter to all mothers of would-be Brownies for a meeting next week. Since the two leaders are available at Amerman school, she is hoping to organize two troops there. She also is hoping two or more mothers will come forward at Main Street. She has one volunteer there now. Co-leaders also are urgently needed.

THERE ISN'T A SINGLE BROWNIE in Northville at this moment. This is because Amerman Brownie troop "flies up" to Junior Scouts today as did the Main street troop last week.

A major reorganization of the Girl Scout program being carried out this year caused this situation, as well as the large supply of potential Brownies.

Under the new plan of "open end" troops, seven- and eight-year olds become Brownies (in brown uniforms). As soon as a girl becomes nine and knows her Girl Scout laws, aims and history, she may become a Junior Scout (in green dress-type uniform).

When she reaches 12, and passes requirements, she goes into a Cadet troop (in a white blouse and green skirt uniform). Three years later, she may become a Senior Scout (in a green suit-type uniform).

Although they have a year to make the transition to the new program, Northville's 11 Girl Scout troops already have moved smoothly into it. Except for the leader shortage, all signs are "GO."

The only other senior scout attending from the Huron Valley Council is Pamela Sekaros of Ann Arbor.

Barbara, who left Sunday for Miami, has been a member of the Girl Scout movement for the past eight years. Currently, she is a member of the council, which is made up of representatives of troops throughout the council.

She is a member of the high school band, the Forensic club, and this year is working on the Year Book.

Local scouting officials expressed pride in Barbara's selection. "We are very proud of her," a spokesman said. "It is a great honor to be so selected."

The convention theme is "Girl Scouting — A Promise in Action."

Also attending the convention are these board and committee members: Mrs. Max Hileman of Wayne, Mrs. Melvin Decker of Brighton, Mrs. Howard Holden of Ann Arbor, and Mrs. Harold Sole of Ypsilanti.

Readers Speak Up ... Mostly on Library

Dear Mr. Slinger:

At a meeting today of the Northville Woman's Club, we discussed the possibility of setting up a historical commission in Northville to preserve for our future citizens some of the few remaining examples of early Mid-West architecture in town. We realize that the present library building is hardly another Greek temple. However, it does stand as a memorial to the stark simplicity dictated by the rugged life of the early settlers.

We feel that although we represent only roughly 200 families, there are undoubtedly many more who have come to make their homes in our community because of the pervading Early American charm of Northville. A place to give children a feeling of having roots in an established order that will go on after us. To lose all our old buildings and erase this feeling of continuity of the society in which we live is to do our descendants a grave disservice.

We would like to issue a call to all organizations in Northville to see what may be done before such a tragedy occurs.

Let's start NOW to preserve our precious heritage!

Sincerely yours
Marion A. Crump
Recording Secretary
Northville Woman's Club

Dear Mr. Slinger:

I am concerned about the future of the Northville library building on Wing street. It is my hope that no decision will be reached hastily on what is to be done with this lovely old building. We have so few historical treasures to pass on to our young people that I feel we should look well into this matter. I know I speak for many people in our community.

I suggest that we try to plan some program that would either preserve the building as a historical museum or that the many organized groups in the community form together to perhaps use it as a city club. There would be many arrangements to be worked out in either of these ideas, but I do not think it is an impossibility.

Our Government, through a charter by Congress, has set up a National Trust for Historic Preservation. It has been formed to facilitate public participation in preservation of sites, buildings, and objects of national significance or interest. Persons interested in the effort to save historical and architectural treasures in their own areas are invited to join as either organized groups or as individuals by writing to the National Trust for Historic Preservation, 2000 K Street,

N.W., Washington D.C.
Before any decision is reached on our library building, it might be wise for us to join this group and use their help and suggestions in working a plan to keep our lovely old building for the future pleasure of our community.
Jean B. Johnson
800 W. Main street

Dear Bill:

Your editorials are wonderful! Sometimes I agree with your viewpoint, occasionally I disagree, but I always enjoy reading them.

Now, I am wondering if it is time to get opinions on the disposition of the old library building. As you know, I am usually progressive in my thinking, and am not one to keep something merely because it is old. However, I believe this building has a value to the entire community. It has a charm which most modern buildings lack, and could serve as a comfortable and adequate meeting place for various community (and perhaps, private) groups. Perhaps, the J.C.'s could make it another of their very worth-while projects, and later they might derive some small income from it.

Whatever the details, I believe that members of the community will be ready to respond with opinions and votes if the case is laid before them. How about an editorial? It could even include a coupon to be returned to you, and the interest of the community would be determined.

Yours very truly,
Beth Lapham

To the Editor:

Ode to the
Northville City Council
Council, council spire that hall.

Touch not a single slat!
We ladies, now, are up in arms
Against a thing like that!

Inside those austere portals,
Which belie the warmth within,
Our founding fathers worshipped,
Begged forgiveness from their sin.

There, young folk came to marry,
Brought their babies to the font.

To pave the way to tear it down
Is asking for a "haunt"!

'Twas giv'n in love and loyalty,
In nineteen thirty-six,
To ladies "literary",
If they would paint and fix;

And to the Northville Woman's Club,
To be its cherished home.
(That's why on Friday afternoons
You can't acquire a tome.)

Our landmarks, full of history,
Are fast becoming few.
Please don't allow this one — so loved —
To be dissected, too.

Don't let it be partitioned
For business use, we pray,
For that is following the trend
To tear it down some day.

Surely, some way can be found
To use it as it stands,
And our Library, lovingly,
To keep in women's hands.

Defense Falters As Mustangs Lose

Football spirits descended on the gridiron at West Bloomfield last Friday night and all but scared the living day lights out of Northville.

It was no pre-Halloween stunt. Just ask the Mustangs, who probably will be haunted by the performance of a determined Laker squad that upended the local gridders 25-13.

West Bloomfield would not be denied. That was the margin of victory, and simply that.

As a result of their victory, the Lakers are tied with Northville and Clarkston for the Wayne-Oakland conference lead with a 4-1 record.

The Green and White, spearheaded by all-league quarterback Dan Grieg, scored four times against a Northville defense which was touted as the toughest in the league.

Time after time a Laker back would twist away or run over a defender for long yardage.

In fact, West Bloomfield, rambled for 259 yards on the ground and 67 through the air. Its four touchdowns were scored on a series of 43 and 17 yards and scampers of one and 22 yards.

Northville marched at will, too. It evened the score at six- all early in the second quarter when right halfback Jerry French scored the first of his two TD's on a five yard plunge off right tackle.

French also made a circus catch of a five yard toss in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter to end all the scoring.

In moving the ball with abandon between the two goal lines, Northville amassed 213 yards, rushing and 128 passing, its highest output of the season.

Quarterback Gary Stobbe threw with unerring accuracy as he connected on 11 of 16 attempts, especially in the late stages of the game.

But with the exception of its two touchdowns, the Orange and Black just couldn't push the ball over.

Fumbles on the West Bloomfield 15 and 47 — which led to Laker rallies —, the clock and an intercepted pass on the goal line thwarted other Mustang TD bids.

The Lakers were never headed as they exploded for a TD the first time they had the ball.

After recovering a Mustang fumble on their 15 to stymie an opening 40-yard drive by Northville, the Lakers drove to the Northville 43. Then Grieg unleashed a lofty pass to End Rick Hacht, who strutted into the end zone with the ball.

Try for the extra point was no good.

The Orange and Black took the ensuing kick-off and rolled 61 yards in 15 plays to pay dirt. No play consumed more than nine yards, with Fullback Ron Rice, French and Tailback Dave Cummings carrying the ball.

Another fumble recovery led to the second Laker tally shortly before halftime.

With the ball resting on the Northville 47, West Bloomfield charged to the goal line. Two 14 yard rushes on traps up the middle accounted for most of the 47 yards. A one yard plunge capped the drive.

Pass for the extra point was complete to make the score, 13-6.

Time ran out on the Mustangs on their next thrust.

Cummings went into action after Coach Ron Horwath's charges received the ball on the 26. He slugged for 12 and 18 yards before catching an 11 yarder on the West Bloomfield 19.

But a last second pass into the end zone on first down was bobbled, then fell to the ground as the half ended.

West Bloomfield quickly scored touchdowns back-to-back to ice the game early in the second half.

It received the second half kick-off and marched 60 yards for a TD. On a first and ten situation on the Northville 17, Quarterback Grieg fired a pass from the pocket, hitting Halfback, Tim Ruen. He had flared right and was all alone in the end zone.

After Northville punted to its own 44, a seven yard gain, a 15 yard personal foul penalty, and a sterling 22 yard TD run by Halfback John Nemyer gave the White and Green its final marker in the third period.

Northville didn't give up, however.

It mustered a scoring drive in the final stanza after recovering a Laker fumble on the West Bloomfield 45. A Stobbe pass to End Lance Hahr for 13 yards, a 19 yarder to Tailback Mike Hall and finally, an Allen Oop pass to French in the end zone covered most of 45 yards.

Later in the fourth period, the Mustangs drove from their own 29 to the opponent's six. But an intercepted pass on the goal line ended the threat.

Less than a minute remained in the game.

Results of games last Friday night juggled the W.O. standings. Clarkston walloped Brighton, 38-0; Milford hit its winning stride again by tripping Bloomfield Hills, 31-20, and Holly won its second tilt of the season, beating Clarenceville, 19-6.

The next hurdle, to a share of the W.O. football title for the Mustangs is Brighton. Game time at Brighton is 8 p.m. tomorrow. Another important game on tap is the Clarkston-West Bloomfield affair.

Another Battle Shapes Up Friday

Tomorrow will be the day of decision for the Northville Mustangs.

They will travel to Brighton to take on the Bulldogs.

Although Brighton is not the toughest outfit in the W.O. loop, it nevertheless has the potential to upset the local gridders.

While the Mustangs may be hard pressed to win the game, they will have their ears attuned to another contest being played farther north.

West Bloomfield and Clarkston, both tied with Northville for the Wayne-Oakland conference lead, will square off at Clarkston.

The Mustangs will be rooting for Clarkston. If it should win over West Bloomfield, Northville will be in a good position to take the crown.

Then the spotlight would be on the Black and Orange's encounter here with Clarkston in the final game of the season.

But the Mustangs will have to take care of first things first — namely, Brighton.

The Bulldogs, hard hit by an injury to their starting quarterback, are of an unknown quantity. And with many veterans in the fold, Brighton will be shooting the works to upend front-running Northville.

The Mustangs will be trying to pick up the pieces after their loss to West Bloomfield. In an attempt to do so, Coach Ron Horwath said, "we'll throw the ball."

If Quarterback Gary Stobbe is on target, it would improve the effectiveness of the attack. Without his pinpoint passes, the local gridders will have to rely on their running game and the defense. In the past, they have been unable to move the ball with any consistency on the ground.

Duffy Applauds Juday's Play

Sitting on a dressing room bench, the husky football mentor chomped on an apple and contemplated.

"Sure, but he's good and he's getting better every game,"

Hugh Duffy, Daugherty, head coach of Michigan State's football team, was talking about Northville's ace quarterback Steve Juday, following State's 20-3 win over Indiana, Saturday afternoon at East Lansing.

Juday, who piloted the Spartans to their second-half triumph, was receiving some not so favorable comments from a covey of sports reporters from around the state. And now Daugherty was defending his quarterback.

Referring to Juday's past passing performance, Daugherty said: "He's been the victim of circumstances. Nobody can throw through defensive linemen — they just shouldn't be there. It takes experience to throw so you don't have to throw through somebody. He'll pick it up, don't worry."

When somebody suggested that he ought to throw the pigskin with more "arc" so the ball can sail over the heads of the linemen, the coach explained that he and his staff had considered this possibility. Daugherty said they had viewed films made during spring drills when Juday was completing most of his passes. "We found he was throwing the ball exactly the same way he's throwing it now," the coach said.

"He throws with a lot of tone — very hard," he continued. "Don't forget, he doesn't have many interceptions. That's because he throws hard and straight. Besides, he had a pretty good passing game today, didn't he?"

Considering the fact that everyone had difficulty holding onto the ball on the wet field, his passing performance was indeed "pretty good". In eight attempts, Juday completed five and lost one by interception. Going into Saturday's game Juday had made good on 15 of 44 for 341 percentage.

"Did the wet field affect State's play?"

Daugherty: "Not too much. I don't think we had fumbled all year until this game. We just weren't sharp. We had a good second half, but we didn't have the ball long enough in the first half to make any yardage. It wasn't Juday's fault. He played a good game."

Juday: "The ball was real slippery. They put some sticky stuff on it, but that's just as bad."

The turning point in Saturday's game took place about midway through the third quarter with the Hoosiers out front, 3-0.

Juday had piloted his club from State's 20 to the Indiana 18. On the fourth down, the Spartans moved into a kicking position. The ball was snapped but instead of kicking, Substitute Quarterback David McCormick passed to Fullback Roger Lopez on the 12 and he ran over for the touchdown.

"We called it (the play) from the sidelines," Daugherty explained. "We let our quarterbacks make most of the decisions, but his was obviously one of those we'd call."

Two things gave State an extra element of surprise on the play, he said: One was the fact that Louis Bobich, the Spartans' kicker who is considered one of the best in the Big Ten, and the other is that McCormick had never before thrown a pass in college competition.

What about the remainder of the season?

"We're not going to overpower anyone," the coach said, "we've got to rely on quickness. We're far from being a great team. Our players must really be aroused to play well, and it's tough to keep them up all the time."

Up or down, State will have its hands full Saturday.

LET'S TALK CARS . . .

The Age of The Automobile

Some traffic researchers have come up with figures to show that motorists slacken their highway speed for two main reasons: (1) When curves on the roadway with reduced sight loom up ahead; and (2) the appearance of built-up areas of commercial and residential areas. They never mentioned the appearance in the rear view mirror of that red flasher dome, most police cars carry. We may all now adjust our halos.

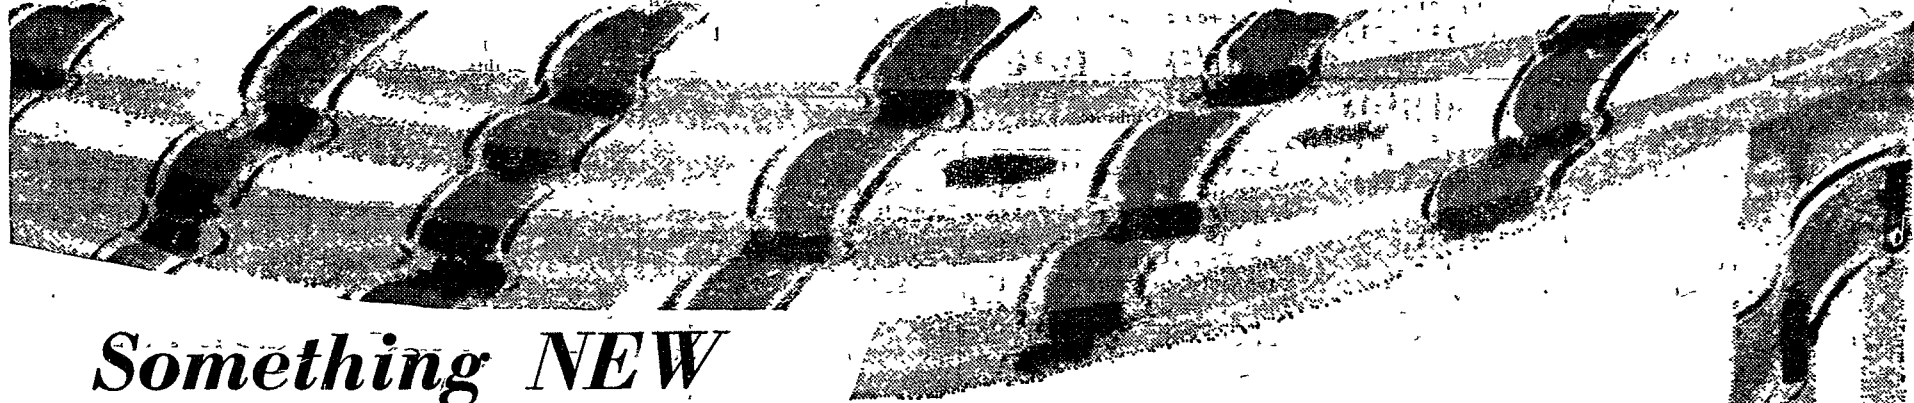

At any rate, the researchers reached the conclusion that "Drivers respond logically and safely to changes in the roadway and surrounding area so speed limits should be established on the basis of actual speed characteristics of the traffic" — which may be a worthwhile point at that.

More automobiles are born in the country each year than people but they die faster than people (I'm happy to say). This being so, the rate of rise of the car population over the next twenty years will be slightly under the rate of rise of the human population.

The British have come up with an idea that could solve two problems at once — parking and the shortage of time. Getting your haircut takes about the same amount of time as getting your car lubricated. So male customers telephone for a single appointment for car and head.

The number of auto dealers is levelling off these days after the decline of a few years back. The dealers who survive the future though will be those who offer fair dealing, reliable service and all around customer satisfaction. We said it and we're trying to practice what we preach.

Mother Loses Third Son

An accident claimed the life of a Novi mother's son early Saturday morning.— her third and last son to lose his life by an automobile.

Carl Neely, Jr., 17-year-old senior at South Lyon, was fatally injured when a car struck him and a companion as they were changing a flat tire on the shoulder of Telegraph highway near 13 Mile road.

Carl died at William Beaumont Hospital, and his companion, 18-year-old Roland Church of Farmington, was pronounced dead upon arrival at the hospital.

Carl's brother, Ronald, was killed in an automobile accident near Commerce last year, and another brother, Donald, was killed at the age of 18 in an accident on Farmington road in 1954. His father, Carl Sr., died of a heart attack last year.

The driver of the car that struck the two boys Saturday has been arrested. He is George Paulson, 31, of Pontiac.

Born February 20, 1946 at Rocklick, Kentucky, he had lived in Novi for 16 years. His mother, Surilda, lives at 43831 Grand River. He had been living with a sister, Mrs. Bulah Chapman of South Lyon.

He also is survived by four other sisters, Mrs. Reva Taulbee of South Lyon, Mrs. Fay Cogar of Tiffin, Ohio, Mrs. Lillian DeFrain of Miami, Florida, and Miss Judy Neely at home in Novi.

Two men were injured Saturday afternoon when their car crashed into the rear of a truck at the intersection of Eight Mile and Beck roads.

Injured were John Andrewbrooks, 39 Woodland Place, Lyon township driver of the car, and Robert Moore of Livonia, a passenger.

Andrewbrooks was treated for cuts and bruises and then released at St. Mary hospital. His companion was reported in good condition at the hospital Wednesday. He suffered a leg fracture and cuts.

According to Northville police, Andrewbrooks said he lost control of his car which crashed into the rear of a truck, driven by Gladwin Olsen of Warren who was about to make a turn off Eight Mile onto Beck.

Plan 'Hootenany'

A "Hootenany" is coming to town.

Officials of the Northville Junior Chamber of Commerce announced this week that plans are underway to stage the event—fashioned after the popular television program—here next month.

Although plans are still incomplete, Jaycee Ken Roberts said the musical program is tentatively set for Friday, November 15, and that probably four or more bands will be on hand for the event.

Tickets at $3.50 per person may be obtained in Northville at C. R. Ely & Sons, 316 N. Center.

Franklin high school is located east of Merriman on Joy road (east of Joy Road—Edward Hines intersection), convenient to scouters of Garden City, Inkster, Wayne, Livonia, Plymouth and Northville, the communities comprising the Sunset District.

Grass Fires Hit Local Area

Grass fires continued to plague the Northville-Nowi area this past week.

In Novi, firemen battled four grass fires, three of them last Thursday and another on Tuesday of this week.

They included:

Woods and grass fire of undetermined origin near 25325 Haggerty, orchard and field fire caused by burning trash, resulting in $400 damage, at 24003 Heartwood, and return to woods fire on Haggerty several hours later, all on Thursday; and grass and brush fire caused by sparks from workman's welder, near Haggerty and 14 Mile road, on Tuesday.

Novi Sniper Not Guilty

A Southfield man, charged with shooting at a Novi woman last January, was found not guilty by reason of insanity last Thursday.

The jury's decision ended the five-day Oakland county circuit court trial of Gary S. Goodrum, a former divinity student. The 22-year-old man had admitted shooting at Mrs. Gerald Race through a bedroom window of her Novi road home.

Last spring Goodrum was judged sane enough to stand trial.

Northville Firemen Responded to Three Fires on Thursday

Determination Pays Off for Local Scientist

Listen to him and you're amazed. Watch him and you're fascinated. Read about him and you're impressed. Consider for a moment the man:

Marian Szczepanski, 46200 Frederick street, born in Zwolen, Poland on August 13, 1920, married with one son, imprisoned by the Germans at Auschwitz, served with the Polish Underground, participated in the 1944 Warsaw Uprisings, imprisoned again by the Germans, liberated by the 7th U.S. Army which he joined and "rendered valuable service", and served in the Polish Army which occupied Germany as a part of the British Army of the Rhine.

There's more. In 1944 he received a diploma in mechanical engineering at Warsaw university, in 1952 a University degree (mechanical engineering and metallurgy) in London, in 1956, a post-graduate diploma in advanced technology at Battersea College of Advanced Technology, London, and in 1956 a Master of Science degree at the University of London.

After the completion of his education, achieved after three interruptions because of the war, he began his professional career — at first in England and then in this country. Starting as a foundry worker, within a few years he occupied positions of laboratory manager, chief metallurgist, director of research and technical director.

Pretty impressive, to be sure, but this is the story of Marian Szczepanski now an American citizen, the man determined to play a major role in the diamond tool industry. Not much more than a year ago, Szczepanski — then the director of research and development for the world's largest diamond tool company — decided to launch his own diamond tool firm, an ambition he had harbored for many years. He sought financial assistance and found none.

"It can be stated as a fact, that I have the highest technical qualifications in the diamond tool manufacturing industry, here and abroad," he wrote of himself in a proposal used in seeking financial backing. He wrote it not as an egotistical braggart but as a professional engineer who now as then stands ready to demonstrate that knowledge.

What he proposed was equally profound. He would start with a manufacturing plant in the Detroit area, establish a plant in Windsor, Canada, and later build manufacturing facilities in other countries and other parts of the "United States. Unable to secure financial backing under conditions acceptable to him — "Nobody is rich enough to buy my freedom because I risked my life to be a free man" — he mortgaged his house, pooled his own limited resources and rented a building at 2141 Novi road in Northville, purchased some used machinery, and with a determination to succeed established the International Diamond Tool Company.

With his wife, whom he trained as a diamond tool setter, and one employee to assist him, the new business was started.

For the first several months there were few sales and even less income. Nevertheless, he continued to manufacture only the highest caliber diamond cutting tools, using his own methods, special metal alloy compositions and the most perfect industrial diamonds.

"I base the future of this company on the quality of products manufactured by us. I will sell only the best," he explains.

Suddenly, as if by magic, things changed. Buyers wrote glowing reports and redoubled their orders. Now, just a little over 12 months later, his company is receiving more orders than it can handle, and Szczepanski is as confident as ever.

Success is crystalizing in other ways too. His company is fast gaining the respect of diamond tool users from throughout the world.

A few days ago, the biography of this man and the listing of his new firm appeared in the 1964-65, 13th edition of "World Who's Who in Commerce and Industry," published by Marquis who also publishes "Who's Who in America". Interestingly, only two of the more than 100 such industries throughout the world were selected — the largest and the International Diamond Tool Company, at present one of the smallest.

Listing in the book can neither be purchased or requested. According to the publisher, executives and the firms they represent "have been selected, under standards painstakingly developed to insure inclusion of the most outstanding business leaders ..."

In addition, the Northville scientist's name only recently appeared in the equally prominent publication called "American Men of Science". Meanwhile, he has become a consultant for several private industries in the United States, including the Detroit Testing Laboratory.

But of all of these none is perhaps as personally satisfying as the success of his book, "The Brittleness of Steel", published this year by John Wiley & Sons of New York and London, considered the most reputable publishers of scientific books.

Although their reviewers deemed the manuscript "well-written and the material presented of value," for economic reasons they declined to publish it. "Our current study of the market and our experience with Professor Earl Parker's book on 'Brittle Behavior of Engineering Structures' indicate that the sale we could expect would be marginal at best..." wrote the publishers.

Undaunted, Szczepanski, who spent 10 years writing the book at night and during weekends, telephoned the publishers and suggested that, because he was confident in its saleability, he would put up half or — if necessary — all of the money required to publish it. "I am not a rich man but I will do it because I know its value," Szczepanski told them. "I am also prepared to resign from my author's royalties."

The book was published, but Szczepanski's offer was declined. He paid nothing, and he receives the royalties. "With such confidence, how could we refuse," they told him.

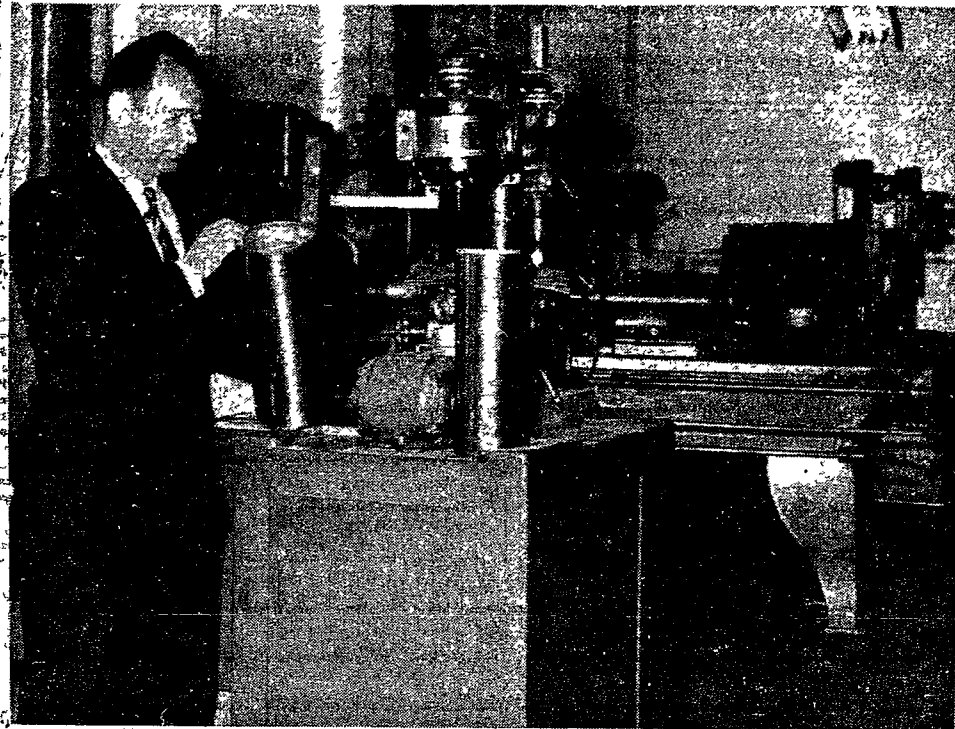

Today, the 460 page book — which incidentally sells for $17.50 per copy — is one of the best selling scientific works of this kind published by the international firm. And letters and reviews from the States, Europe, Japan, Russia, Brazil, Australia and other parts of the world praising it as a "remarkable piece of work ... an invaluable service to the scientific world," are received by the happy publishers. Just as he was confident of the book's success, Szczepanski is equally confident in the success of his new company.

"Some people think my plans too fantastic to be realistic," he said. "But when they see how — step by step — my plans materialize and that I have a definite program for the next 20 years, they change their attitude."

"Believe me, it was much more difficult to get out alive from the worst German concentration camp, Auschwitz, in which several million people were exterminated, or to write a book and have it published by the most reputable publisher of scientific books, than it is to create the International Diamond Tool Company."

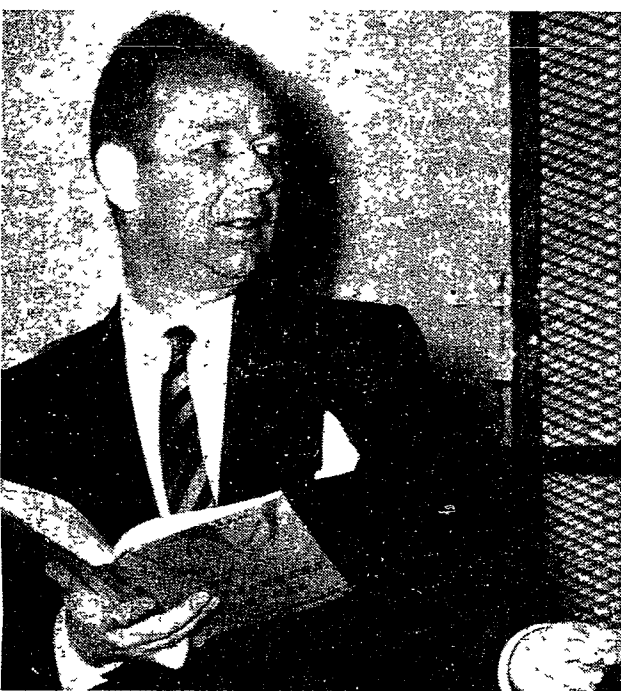

"I had confidence that I would get out of Auschwitz alive — and this is the reason that I did, and I spent 10 years of my spare time writing a book which nobody promised to publish. I have the same confidence that my company will become the most progressive diamond tool company with plants scattered all over the world."

INSPECTS DIAMOND TOOL — Marian Szczepanski, president and technical director of the International Diamond Tool company in Northville, inspects a diamond masonry drill bit in his plant.

DIAMOND BITS — This close-up picture shows the cutting edge of two diamond masonry drills manufactured at one of Northville's newest industrial plants. The diamonds, all of which must be set individually at a particular angle, are combined with a special alloy in the round molds shown next to the bits.

NORTHVILLE AUTHOR — Discussing his book, "The Brittleness of Steel," which has received very favorable reviews from scientists and engineers throughout the world, is Northville author Marian Szczepanski.

New CHEVELLE! by Chevrolet

Only this could come between Chevrolet and Chevy II. The Chevelle is a highly polished car on a trim 115-inch wheelbase. Remarkably agile and easy to handle and park. But it's roomy inside, with many of the comforts you'd expect in a bigger car.
Its ride comes from the people who developed the Jet-smooth kind. Its four engines—V8 or 6—carry that irrepresible Chevrolet spirit all the way up to 220 hp*. Its lively, graceful styling and Body by Fisher craftsmanship make its modest price all the more remarkable. And it comes in three series and eleven models—wagons, sedans, sport coupes, convertibles.
Want to check further? Consider this your invitation for a real hood-raising, door-slaming, seat-bouncing, wheel-turning time of it at your Chevrolet dealer's.

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

By the Rev. James F. Andrews
Full Salvation Union Chapel

It is God's plan that each one should work out his or her own salvation knowing that it is God that worketh in them both to will and do of His good pleasure. However, it should be constantly remembered that no one knows how to do this — work out his salvation unless and only as God reveals it unto him.

The natural tendency of the human mind is to understand the things of the spirit in a carnal way. When this is done we go about to establish our own righteousness and do not submit to the righteousness which is of God by faith. We make effort to work out our own salvation in the understanding that fills us instead of allowing God to work in and through us to will and do of His good pleasure. This is the mistake that has produced so much vain and fruitless effort in religion. Every sect or religious group feels that they know how to work out their own salvation and they are sure that if you will accept their understand- ing in regard to this matter that you too will be able to be saved. That is why so many are compassing sea and land to make a pros- elyte and when they have succeeded they make him two fold more the child of hell than they themselves simply because they do not recognize in deep, spiritual consciousness the need of God opening up the eyes of their understanding that they might know how to truly work out their own sal- vation according to God's understanding rather than according to their own.

We recognize as we write that every religious group in the world would claim that their understanding of how to work out their own salvation is not their own but God's understanding, and as long as a hard, dog- matic attitude is maintain- ed in regard to this matter there can be no seeing and flowing together of God's people. We must relax. We must not be so tense, so dogmat- ic. We must realize that no matter how convinced we are that still we may not know in God's understand- ing that which we assert. Oh people of God, let us endeavor to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace until, until we all come to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God; Let us not fail of the grace of God. Let us not make shipwreck of all that God has done for us in this regard by jumping the gun — by an- choring in a fixed concept of doctrine before we all come to the dawning of that new day where we shall all be joined together in the same mind and judg- ment and be able to speak the same thing.

You see, the point is that working out your own sal- vation is a thing of the Spir- it—that is not discerned by the natural man even as faith or believing to the sal- vation of your soul is a thing of the Spirit. Oh Christ, help us to know this. Open up the eyes of our understanding. Give us spiritual discernment that we may not spend our mon- ey for that which is not bread and our labor for that which satisfieth not.

We know that all religious groups are willing to pray this prayer. But the tragic thing is, we look into the glass, and then straightway go away and forget what manner of men we are. Oh, we must surrender our minds, our understanding, our views, our ideas, our doctrines, that we may have the mind of Christ, that the prayer of Jesus will be answered where we are all made one in God. Oh God, Oh Christ, Oh Yahweh, Oh Joshua, Oh — — — Put in whatever word or sound your own childish under- standing insists upon, but let us pray together in sin- cere surrender, "not my will, but thine be done," that that kingdom of peace on earth, good will toward men, for the lack of which we perish, may come.

That woman with the issue of blood who for 12 long years, sought relief and found none, did not quibble about the Jews ideas con- cerning the Messiah when within herself she knew that, "If I may but touch the hem of his garment, I shall be made whole."

The blind man sitting be- side the wayside begging did not trouble his mind with the disputations of the Pharisees when Jesus passed by but cried out loudly, "Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me."

Oh may God grant that "We ourselves who have re- ceived the First fruits of the Spirit," who make up a part of this blind world bleeding to death, may likewise leave the filthy rags of our own understanding and efforts and turn our face to the Sun of righteousness that is rising in all its glory, that its rays may purge out the old, leaven and give us life more abundant. A new day is here. The dawn has come. We shall be like him, and be satisfied, for we shall see him as he is.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

This week my mail box runneth over. Among others, four letters (one a poem!) from four ladies all concerned with our old library building. (See page six, section one).

I suspect conspiracy, but I'm happy. These citizens are genuinely concerned and they represent countless other residents who value old landmarks and want examples of America's architectural heritage preserved.

Some weeks ago I had reason to expect that the library building might become a subject of public concern. Attorney Ed Yerkes, a life-long Northville resident and authority on local history, took exception to my casual regard for the old building.

He returned with an article by William Pahlmann of the American Institute of Interior Designers entitled "They're Tearing Down Our Landmarks".

Included with the article were instructions from Yerkes to "pin this on your wall and read twice a week".

Pahlmann points out that, while our legacy as a young country may not be enormous, "there has been no civilized nation with so little feeling about its heritage and so little insistence on wisdom in the construction of new monstrosities."

He also says that the wrecking of these architectural monuments for gain is a "challenge to every woman in the United States. No one is in a better position to cope with city councils and high commissions and others in authority than the woman voter."

True, Mr. Pahlmann. And, I suspect your article has found its way into the hands of many Northville women.

I'll admit that when I take a long-range look at the business block in which the library building is located I find it difficult to fit into the pattern for future planning.

Yet I hate to visualize myself as a self-seeking commercial monster, as Mr. Pahlmann would have one believe. He calls present planning in cities "an offense to the eye and spirit". (I wonder what George Zerbel and his planning commission would have to say about that.)

Maybe the library building could be moved (I'm hedging, now).

Presumably, the decision will be reached by the city council and township board. The city and township share in ownership of the building with the city holding approximately 54 per cent title.

But before these officials take any action, I'd suggest they read this week's letters.

Then it would be my guess that they will take the route usually followed by elected officials when such issues arise: appointment of a citizens' study committee.

Meanwhile, why not follow the suggestion of Beth Lapham?

What should we do with the old library building?

Send your ideas to: LIBRARY, Bill Sliger, Northville Record. You don't have to sign your name . . . (particularly, if you're a male with a contrary opinion).

In a week or two, I'll report the results.

We might have had a page one headline this week: "Youth Killed By Shotgun Blast".

It would have happened this way. A city resident would have heard an explosion in his backyard. When he ran outdoors there would have been another explosion . . . near his porch.

He would run back into the house thinking someone was firing at him. He called police, turned off all the lights; huddled his family into the living room and returned to the back yard with a shotgun.

There was another blast and the man returned the fire with his shotgun. True, he was careful to fire into the ground. But he was frightened and protecting his family.

The police arrived and the pranksters had vanished, undoubtedly badly shaken by the gun blast.

Police are investigating remnants of firecrackers that are reported to be "giant size and power," comparable to a good portion of dynamite.

Fun . . . at Halloween or any other time of the year . . . should be just that.

As parents, it is our responsibility to see that our children do not flirt with tragedy under the guise of "having fun".

The unpleasantness of enforcing discipline does not approach the unhappiness of injury or death.

Top of the Deck

by JACK W. HOFFMAN

Some might have considered him a pest, but not I. In my book he was the symbol of determination despite overwhelming obstacles. And save for the opposition from the distaff side of my family, he was a welcome guest.

Max came to visit our home during the dying months of summer two years ago when hearts were beginning to sag in anticipation of winter. An unpretentious fellow with an uncanny ability for sensing the moods of the household, his presence probably would have gone unnoticed but for his singular fault of keeping late hours.

Although some might classify him as an introvert, he nevertheless had a curious habit of ignoring the clock. When most were resting their tired bodies, the still water within him, huddled, over and he became an incorrigible extrovert.

Despite this failing, he might have escaped the wrath of my wife had he learned to control himself. But as the days and weeks wore on, his nocturnal spirit swelled until my wife demanded his exodus. My protests were ignored. He had overstayed his visit, my wife declared, and she would have none of his or my excuses.

The task that faced me was an uneasy one. Max, it seems, sensed my wife's alienation and my uncomfortable position. He secluded himself in his little room like a banished criminal, knowing full well that I could not turn out someone filled with so much contrition. Somehow I managed to convince my wife of his obvious attempt to repent, and to my surprise, she accepted my word.

Life in our home became peaceful once again and Max kept to his room. He bothered no one, although I must admit that it pained me to see such a noble spirit so completely shattered.

Little did I know that he was just bidding for time.

When finally the holiday season was upon us and the family filled with merriment — it happened!

My wife, as I recall, was seated in the family room watching a favorite television program. Max slipped out of his room unnoticed and crept into the room. Then in an untimely display he swagged past my wife singing his most brazen tune.

His act of triumph was almost disastrous. My wife heaved a book at him screaming for me to turn him out. Max ducked the book, flaunted back past her, uttered a few more bars of his surly music and slipped back into his room.

Max's welcome had come to an abrupt end, but the old fellow barricaded himself in his room and refused to budge. I tried forcing his door, but the attempt was useless. He was too well fortified. And to add to my wife's discomfort, he continued to sing his insulting song.

As stated at the outset, I admired his determination. And to me his singing was an encouraging link between the warm summer months and the cold, miserable winter. He was a king just daring us to throw him out, and I might not have taken such drastic action — poison — but for the doubt raised by my wife:

"Do you know," she said with a tactful smile on her face, "that crickets eat paper and your books in the family room are made of paper?"

Roger Babson

Something for Nothing Government

BABSON PARK, Mass. — My very good friend, Fred Conn of Tampa, has sent me an interesting little book entitled "The Cat Can Yield But Its Skin". This was written by Currie B. Witt and Lavania Lee Witt. Its purpose appears to be to change the present tendency in Washington to help more people in this country "get something for nothing".

The book is based on the life and days of Benjamin Franklin. Its authors seem to feel that the nation could turn back to the time of Franklin; but the history of all nations shows that this is impossible, or at least improbable. History and governments have always changed in cycles, not "turned turtle" and reversed.

Today I would like to tell readers about another important work in which I am interested. For many years Edison E. Shrum of Scott City, Missouri has been studying ancient history, going back to the Persians, covering in detail the history of the European countries. His book is only formed a republic in the United States. This consisted of thirteen colonies which gradually got their independence from England. It shows that the trend with people in every nation has been to get something for nothing; but they have never far different from the form of government we have today. Voters had to be properly owners; and color, sex, and religion also entered into qualifications for voters. Congress consisted of two houses: (1) the House of Representatives, theoretically elected by the people; and (2) the Senate, made up of members chosen by the legislatures of the various States.

Ever since the Civil War, railroads, public utilities, and all other corporations in which people invest their money have been getting exclusive franchises or privileges. This applies to doctors, lawyers, and "Indian Chiefs" as well. There are nearly a thousand separate "offices" in Washington which offer, directly or indirectly, these special privileges.

This is a long, long way from the freedom of which Washington and Jefferson dreamed. The point of my article is that these laws granting special franchises or privileges — by the Federal Government or by the separate States — will not be cancelled by legislation. The clock cannot be turned in reverse.

Mr. Shrum shows, in his careful study, that the only way other countries have gotten rid of special franchises and privileges has been by the appointment of a dictator. I do not mean that Mr. Kennedy will become a dictator; but I do mean that he can cancel what is already in operation only by being a dictator. History shows that dictators finally lose their powers and a Republic is started again — to be followed by a repetition of what this country has gone through via amendments to our Constitution and other legislation which have brought us to our present condition. Then we will start over again and experience another two hundred years of similar changes.

of schools even with federal aid. He said one alternative to this problem could be the creation of "area schools equipped and staffed to offer specialist training and technician training for a large geographic unit."

"Man must keep pace with his invention," said Bement. "We can neither afford nor can we tolerate a tomorrow in which a skilled elite dominates a technologically illiterate mass."

"Our only assurance that future generations will live as free men in a peaceful, abundant society is our ability to teach and to train this and future generations in the technical skills and sciences that make man the master of his creation."

Liquor is a big business in the forthcoming year-end holiday period. The Liquor Control Commission has ordered more than $26 million worth of alcoholic beverages for the annual holiday sales spurt. Commission Chairman Don S. Leonard said the purchases recommended for the holidays totaled $78,425 cases. This was about 23,000 cases more than were sold in the last two months of 1962.

Justification for the increased purchases this year probably can be seen in Commission report which showed that late-summer sales this year were up more than 7 percent over the same period of 1962.

Vaccines are available for most of the childhood diseases today, but the leading killer of children goes unabated, according to Dr. Goldie B. Corneliuson of the State Health Department.

"It's too bad we don't have a vaccine to protect against accidents," notes the director of the maternal and child health division.

"Immunizations have reduced childhood diseases to the lowest point in history, but accidents are continuing to take a needless toll of life."

In the age group of 1-15 years, accidents last year killed 472 Michigan children. This represented more than one third of the deaths from all causes in this age group.

"We know that accidents don't 'just happen,'" the Health Department spokesman said. "They are the results of sequence of events: a chain reaction. If we are aware of the factors that lead up to accidents we can do a great deal to prevent their occurrence simply by eliminating one or two of the links in this chain."

For example, Dr. Corneliuson noted that most childhood accidents occur in the late afternoon, when children are apt to be tired and hungry, and a mother's attention is on preparing the evening. The stress present to the mother daily is also great at this period. She may be hungry, tired, or in a hurry.

"Half the battle in preventing childhood accidents is knowing the danger signals, and taking extra precautions during critical times," she said.

Do Schools, Parents Cause Drop-Outs?

LANSING — A bad attitude may not be entirely to blame for a youth's decision to drop out of high school before he completes the four years.

This is the conclusion of Ken T. Bement, Burroughs Corp. vice president. Bement notes that a youth who concludes that the school will not adequately use his potential to prepare him for the next half century of his working life may be right.

"Our schools, reflecting the wishes of parents, emphasize academic subjects, glorify the undisputed virtues of higher education, and under-staff, under-finance, under-program, and under-value vocational training," he said.

Bement has expressed his view on the dropout problem to educators on a number of occasions so it is not being thrown to the wind as criticism without construction.

"We have been and still are victimized by the fixed idea that our schools are intended to produce college students," he says. He urges that "equal time" be devoted for vocational training of the 70 per cent of high school students who do not go on to college.

Bement contends that unlike the "old days when a wood shop and metal working shop would suffice," today schools need a dozen or more shops to train needed technicians and specialists.

Realistically, Bement admits the cost of adequate vocational training facilities is beyond the means of the vast majority of schools even with federal aid.

He said one alternative to this problem could be the creation of "area schools equipped and staffed to offer specialist training and technician training for a large geographic unit."

"Man must keep pace with his invention," said Bement. "We can neither afford nor can we tolerate a tomorrow in which a skilled elite dominates a technologically illiterate mass."
