Earthmover Driver Dies As Vehicle Falls into Lake

A 46-year-old Walled Lake man died Monday when an earthmover he was driving plunged into a Northville lake.

Norman Feuerbacher of 717 Leon road, was pronounced dead at the Sheldon Hayes gravel pit, between Seven and Eight Mile roads, west of Northville road, shortly after a state police skin diver recovered his body in 20 feet of water.

State police are awaiting a report of an autopsy performed Tuesday.

According to Trooper John Aird, Feuerbacher arrived at work at 7 a.m. and began stockpiling dirt with the giant earthmover. Shortly after 9 a.m., co-workers noticed he was missing and began a search.

They discovered part of the earthmover sticking out of the water near where he was working and quickly hauled it out with a bulldozer. But Feuerbacher was missing.

Northville firemen were called to the scene and began dragging the bottom of the lake. After several unsuccessful passes over the area where the vehicle plunged into the water, their search was halted to await the skindiver.

Authorities feared the dragging operation would stir up mud and sand and thus hinder the search.

The skin diver, Trooper Harry Neill, found the body almost immediately after entering the water. It was located about 25 feet from shore in about 20 feet of water.

Francis Krynicki, Wayne county medical examiner, pronounced Feuerbacher dead shortly before noon.

Because Feuerbacher was an experienced driver and because it appeared to state police that the earthmover was well off the pathway along which it had been traveling, an autopsy was ordered to determine the cause of death.

Apparently, no one saw the machine plunge down a short incline and over a low shore lip into the water, authorities said.

Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) from Richardson-Bird Funeral Home at 2 p.m., with burial in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens.

He is survived by his wife, Eva; one son, Charles, at home; his parents of Manchester; and a sister, Mrs. Irene Smith of Manchester.

Group Acts to Form Chamber of Commerce

Twenty-four Northville area businessmen met last Tuesday night and voted unanimously in favor of forming a chamber of commerce.

The group selected a committee to study organizational procedure and named Marvin Partridge as temporary chairman.

Other committee members are: Leo Markham, vice chairman; C. A. Smith, secretary; and John Carlo, George Clark, Dempsey Ebert, Fred McLean, Essie Nirder, Thomas Quinn and Pauline Simms.

It was decided that the study committee would hold its first session next Tuesday evening at Detroit Federal Savings & Loan Association.

The committee will report results of its study at a public meeting to be held January 14 at 8 p.m. at Detroit Federal.

Chairman Partridge emphasized that the January meeting would be open to representatives of industry, business and the professions. The proposed chamber would include the Northville area and surrounding communities, Partridge noted.

Those attending Tuesday night's meeting at the Old Mill were unanimous in their opinion that an active chamber of commerce was needed in Northville, Partridge said.

Others present in addition to the elected committee members were John Paulos, Harry Sedan, C. D. Hill, Jack Gray, Joseph Spagnuolo, Charles Carington, Howard Mitchell, Charles Altman, Ivan Berdan, Russell Palmer, John Macaulay, Fred Kester, Robert Stewart and Rene Hammer.

Jim McGuire Improving

The condition of James McGuire, 21, of 240 Orchard drive, who was critically injured when his car smashed into an embankment and flipped over on Taft road near Nine Mile Saturday, November 16, is reported as improving.

McGuire is a patient at St. Mary hospital and has remained unconscious most of the time since the accident.

The hospital reported that he had been taken off the critical list this week.

When the building at the northwest corner of Wing and Main streets was built years ago, he moved to that location. He remained there until his retirement last Saturday.

In the 51 years that he was barbering here, Charlie said, few things have changed more than the price of a haircut.

"Back in those days," he explained, "you could get a shave for 10-cents and a haircut for 25-cents."

"And the hours we put in. That was really something. I don't know how we'd do it

From 6:30 or 7 in the morning on Saturday until 1 or 2 the next morning."

Barbers didn't do much work during the week, he said, but they stayed at their shops until about 9 p.m. every day to service the men getting out of work or coming in from the farms.

And in those days, he noted, men came in for a shave "because it was only a dime." It was the day too when many men were wearing beards, so there was some trimming to do.

"Oh, there's an awful lot of things that have changed. There's not a single businessman left who was here when I came. Most of them are gone."

Gone, too, now is Charles H. Conklin, the man who watched boys become men, a town become a city, and a trade become a business.

Detroit Water Near For Township Area

Detroit water for 18 homes in Northville township's Plymouth Gardens subdivision near Bradner and Five Mile road moved a step near reality this week.

Township Supervisor R. D. Merriam reported to board members Tuesday night that the Detroit Water Board had assured the township of adequate pressure and supply for the "dry-well" area.

The board decided it would move forward as fast as possible with the special assessment procedure necessary for installation of the water system.

The township had considered obtaining water from either Detroit or the city of Plymouth to solve the water shortage problems of the southeast corner of the township. At least four residences in the area are without water supply.

A city of Detroit water line presently extending through the area to supply the Wayne County Training School will be made available to the township from which to tap its system.

Supervisor Merriam noted that some water rate details remain to be completed before actual contract arrangements may be undertaken with Detroit.

The board is hopeful that engineer's estimates will be completed next Monday so that a special meeting can be called that evening to set a date for the first public hearing necessary under the special assessment procedure. If possible, consultation with bonding authorities is planned for Monday so that the hearing might be called as early as December 27.

The project will be paid completely by benefitting property owners under 100 percent assessment. Costs are subject to approval by the property owners at the public hearings.

Merriam said it is possible work could get underway in early February if the initial public hearing can be held in December. Ten day notice is necessary for the hearing.

In other business Tuesday night the board approved preliminary plat number two of Edenderry subdivision. The second portion of the Walter Couse development includes another 15 homesites.

The board approved payment of bills which included $100 for a truck for the dog warden. The vehicle was purchased from the county civil defense organization. Trustee Wilson Tyler objected to the expenditure because he said the board had not reached a decision to purchase the truck. Supervisor Merriam said funds came from a budgeted account and noted that the purchase had been discussed several months.

No action was taken on resolutions from Van Buren and Taylor townships recommending delay of the next election for townships until November, 1966 to avoid conflict with the 1964 presidential election. All elections will be held in November under the new state constitution.

The board approved inquiries from the state liquor control commission regarding permission to build new club house facilities at Dun Roven Golf Club and to consider a full year tavern license (beer and wine) for Brooklane Golf Club, Inc., Sheldon at Six Mile.

It also authorized payment of $5,921 as its share of the $23,685 grant for development of a master plan under the federal government's "701 planning program".

Downs To Park On River

A project estimated to cost between $40,000 and $50,000 will provide parking for an additional 300 cars at Northville Downs, Executive Manager John Carlo announced this week.

Construction is currently underway to cover some 220 feet of the Rouge River at River street. The concrete-covered area will provide new parking space and an exit onto River street from the track, Carlo pointed out.

The project was originally undertaken to permit construction of an eighth-mile straightaway for the track with the prospect of obtaining a running meet locally.

But these hopes were dashed last week with a denial of a request for running dates submitted by Mark Leach by Racing Commissioner Barry Beeman.

Leach had obtained a lease agreement with the Downs and Northville Driving Club. Commissioner Beeman issued 72 running days to Hazel Park and Detroit Race Course while denying the Leach request. Leach indicated that he would seek legal review before the circuit court and declined a hearing with the commissioner on the basis that the decision was rendered beforehand.

The Downs is now awaiting announcement of the 1964 harness dates. Carlo said he is hopeful that the local harness track will be awarded "at least" 48 nights. Last year the Downs had a 45-night meet.

The newest improvement at the Downs will provide parking facilities immediately around the track from Center to River street.

Board Tackles Space Problems In Grade School

An administrative proposal to solve — at least temporarily — a problem of housing an additional kindergarten class here was approved by the board of education last week.

Approval by the board means —

—That an additional kindergarten teacher will be hired by January;

—That special education pupils will be moved from the basement of Main Street elementary school to the kitchen at Amerman elementary school;

—That pupils from a regular Main street classroom will be moved to the basement of the building;

—That pupils making up the additional kindergarten will take over the classroom of pupils to be moved to the basement.

Move of special education youngsters to the kitchen already has been made and, according to Superintendent Russell Amerman, the new quarters are proving to be very satisfactory to both teacher and pupils. Some 12 youngsters are involved.

The kitchen, which was not being used, is ideal because the special education pupils can make use of the sink and other kitchen facilities, the superintendent said. The room is quite large and well lighted, he said, although its use by special education pupils is "only temporary".

Amerman pointed out that the new kindergarten room, which currently is used by regular classroom pupils, should prove very satisfactory since it was remodeled in 1948 to house kindergarten youngsters. It is located next to the present kindergarten, and it has an outside door to the playground.

The additional kindergarten class was recommended because enrollments have climbed significantly. Administrators noted that present enrollment of 197 is 45 more than the 152 youngsters anticipated this fall.

The estimate was based upon a census of pre-school youngsters; Amerman pointed out, but an influx of new residents boosted actual enrollment well over estimate.

Earlier this semester a new first grade was formed and an additional teacher hired to fill that position at the Main Street school.

With the additional kindergarten, the total number of kindergartens in the Northville school system will jump to four. Presently, there are two kindergarten classes at Amerman and one at Main street.

Now that the immediate classroom problem has been resolved, Amerman said attempts will be made now to solve problems of space that are certain to arise next fall. He indicated that pending recommendations probably will be aimed at solving anticipated problems without turning to a new building program "for a year or two."

One of the proposals is to convert present board of education offices into classroom space. Offices would probably be moved to the old library building.

"But whatever we do," he emphasized, "the needs of the youngsters will be our primary consideration."

Novi Sewer Bids Top Estimates by $120,000

Construction costs for Novi trunkline sewers climbed $120,000 above estimated figures at the opening of bids in Pontiac last week Tuesday.

But with little else to do, Novi and county officials sought approval this week for an increased bond issue, from the original estimate of $1,390,000, to cover the higher costs.

Under the assumption that officials would agree with the latter solution, the county formally requested approval for the increased bond issue from the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission by December 24 so that advertising of bonds can be started January 7.

Meanwhile, the village council voted its approval for the increase Monday evening. A similar vote is expected by the Novi township board.

A trunkline will connect with the Middle Rouge interceptor and extend through Northville to Novi.

Council Covers Variety of Items

Although the official agenda was short, the city council wandered afield Monday night into a variety of subjects requiring three hours to conclude.

It accepted a petition signed by 195 city residents asking that any decision to "raise, remove or sell" the old library building be delayed until ample time is permitted for interested persons to preserve the building.

Councilman John Canterbury proposed that the council properly answer the letter and inquire as to what the petitioners consider "ample time".

He noted that communication in the matter of the library had been poor. The building, jointly owned by the city and township, will be vacated when the new library is ready. It appears that the board of education will use the facility for at least two years, for offices. As yet, the city and township have made no official determination.

John Carlo, executive manager of Northville Downs, appealed to the council to change zoning on track parking along River street. The area is zoned T-PI, which permits parking of motor vehicles only. Residents have complained that horse trailers have been parked in the area.

Carlo pointed out that the intention of the parking restriction was to avoid house trailers with occupants in the area. He said the trailers there were small and un-offensive. Mayor A. M. Allen noted that the zoning had been adopted to protect residents and that it had been agreed to by Carlo several years ago. The mayor suggested that the trailers could be moved to other track areas.

Carlo said he was moving the trailers, but believed the River street lot was most protected from public view and residents. He gained some support from Councilman Canterbury who admitted that the trailers should be moved now because of the existing zoning, but agreed that the intent may have been to avoid occupied trailers.

Attorney Philip Ogilvie was instructed to investigate the covenants of the deed on the land before the council proceeds to consider the rezoning.

Councilman Richard Ambler pointed out that residents of the area are aware of the restrictions and have insisted upon compliance.

In other business the council adopted a resolution to vacate a 6-foot easement on lot number three in Northville Heights and approved the final plat for Yerkes Estates subdivision number six.

Mayor Allen asked the council's opinion on the Wayne county enabling legislation proposal for county home rule. Council members plan to study the proposal for later opinion. Councilman Canterbury said he strongly favored reform of "archaic county government."

He said he believes county government needs modernization and that the city should stand behind the proposal. Councilwoman Beatrice Carlson said her only concern was any loss of local jurisdiction.

For Northville's Charlie Conklin

Half-Century of Barbering Ends

He chuckled, then rather wistfully said, "Yes, it's been a long time, and I've had a good time. But you've got to stop sometime."

Thus ended another chapter in Northville's colorful history. Charles H. Conklin, a barber here for more than a half-century, retired this past week and, with his wife, will move to California on Saturday.

For hundreds of men, his retirement means more than the end of a long and admirably career; it means the passing of an era. For it was Charlie who hoisted them into the chair as youngsters, who shared their lives as parents, and who reminisced with them as grandparents.

Charlie, who will be 78 in January, was born and raised on a farm near Hartford, Michigan.

At 17, like a good many farm boys, he left home to "get out into the world". He tried several kinds of work, including threshing wheat in South Dakota.

But back in Michigan, before he reached the age of 20, he began "working around inside a barber shop, learning the trade."

Eventually, a barber hired him for full-time work at $6 a week. For the next few years he worked in various towns in Michigan, including Three Rivers where he was married in 1911.

In 1913 he and his young wife moved to Northville where he joined the shop of Elroy Murdock. That shop, recalled Charlie, was in an old wooden building where Ramsay's Bar is now located on Center street.

"On the one side was our shop and on the other was a shoe cobbler. Next door was the old Interurban waiting room. 'I'll never forget," he laughed, "when they started digging the basement for the building the Record is now in. It was an old wooden building when I came to town."

"Well, the ground was mostly sand, so when they started digging the basement, the sand started to fall away from our foundation. The building started to tip. I called my boss and, boy, did he get mad."

In the next several years, Charlie worked for several different places in Northville. For a time he also worked in shops in Ann Arbor and in Pontiac. And he also spent some time working on a Six Mile road farm and at the Meadowbrook Country Club.

Among the first barbers with whom he worked here were Lee Shipley, George Hoteling and Al Hickley.

Some of the earliest shops in which he had a chair included: The old Interurban waiting room which later became a pool hall, located where Northville Hardware now stands, in the building now housing Schrader's furniture store, in the shop now operated by Jack Grey, in the basement of what is now The Record, and in the old hotel, now just an empty parking lot at the southwest corner of Center and Main streets.

When the building at the northwest corner of Wing and Main streets was built years ago, he moved to that location. He remained there until his retirement last Saturday.

In the 51 years that he was barbering here, Charlie said, few things have changed more than the price of a haircut.

"Back in those days," he explained, "you could get a shave for 10-cents and a haircut for 25-cents."

"And the hours we put in. That was really something. I don't know how we'd do it

LAST TRIM — Roy Terrill of Northville township, who first sat in the barber chair of Charles Conklin 51 years ago, gets his last trim from the popular Northville barber who retired last Saturday. Four generations from families of Northville have sat in Conklin's chair in the last half century.

Christmas Market Set

Nearly a year of active preparation by a dozen garden clubs in the metropolitan Detroit area will culminate here Saturday with the third annual Christmas market.

Carrying the theme Christmas Magic, the gigantic and colorful presentation will be launched at 10:30 a.m. and conclude at 6 p.m. in the Northville community building.

Co-sponsors with the host club, the Northville branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, will be clubs from Birmingham, Golfview, Holly, Inkster, Livonia, Milford, Northwest Detroit, Plymouth, Redford, Wayne and Westchester.

Highlighting the event will be five demonstrations of special projects, how-to-do-it displays of unusual gift wrappings, and 12 holiday table settings, each designed by one of the cooperating clubs.

In addition, a hot luncheon will be served beginning at 11 a.m. Refreshments will be served throughout the day.

Kicking off the program will be a demonstration of wall and door swags and decorated wall mats by Mrs. Richard Gerathy of the host club, from 11 a.m. until noon.

At 12:30 p.m., Mrs. Arthur Cox of the Milford branch will explain how to make pine cones. Then between 2 and 3 p.m., Mrs. George Schuman of Plymouth will demonstrate the use of greens throughout the house.

LAST MINUTE PREPARATIONS — Busy making last-minute preparations this week for Saturday's giant Garden Club Christmas Market are (l to r) Mrs. L. M. Eaton, Mrs. Orson Atchinson, Mrs. Ernest Wood and Mrs. George Miller.

$188 for UNICEF

Northville youngsters contributed $188.53 to UNICEF this year, Mrs. Walter Murphy, chairman of the annual Halloween drive reported this week.

Youngsters from the First Methodist church sought contributions in "trick or treat" door-to-door style on Halloween. First Presbyterian church youngsters made individual contributions.

Assisting Mrs. Murphy in the effort were Mrs. Rolf Batzer, Lloyd Moore and John Hyde.

Speak Vows in Plymouth

Mr. and Mrs. Ross L. Hahn

Barbara G. Kelley of Plymouth and Ross L. Hahn of Northville were married on November 9 in a 10:30 a.m. ceremony at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church of Plymouth.

Officiating at the wedding ceremony was the Rev. Francis C. Byrne.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne A. Kelley of Plymouth, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hahn Jr. of 420 Griswold.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a nylon acetate gown, featuring a scooped neckline, belle shaped skirt with satin bands encircling the skirt, single strand pearls, and coronet of seed pearls with an elbow length silk illusion veil.

Her flowers included white Fugi mums, baby mums and Johanna Hill roses.

The maid of honor, Diane M. Uloch of Plymouth, wore sheer brown nylon over gold taffeta, gold satin shoes, gold gloves and a crown hat. Her flowers included butterscotch Fugi mums, baby mums, and Johanna Hill roses.

Bridesmaids were Donna J. Kelley of Plymouth and Sharon Beach of Howell. They wore gowns identical to the one worn by the maid of honor.

Serving as best man was Richard Flenner of Detroit. Ushers were Curtis Hahn of Northville and Tim Sparr of Howell.

White mums decorated the church for the ceremony which featured David Conrad as organist and Phyllis Mitchell as soloist.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kelley wore mint green satin brocade sheath with green accessories. Her flowers were butterscotch Fugi mums and Johanna Hill roses.

The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a cranberry metallic knit brocade suit with matching hat and black accessories. She wore white Fugi mums and Johanna Hill roses.

Some 90 guests from Howell, Davison, Chelsea, Indiana, Detroit, Plymouth, Northville and many other neighboring communities attended a reception at Hillside Inn in Plymouth.

Later 60 wedding guests were entertained at the home of the bridegroom's parents in Northville.

For her going away outfit, the bride wore pink wool sheath and matching accessories. The wedding trip took the newlyweds to Niagara Falls.

Upon their return they took up residence at 46225 North Territorial road, Plymouth.

The bride is a graduate of Ladywood high school and is employed by the National Bank of Detroit, while the bridegroom, a graduate of Northville high school, is employed at Montgomery Wards.

Girl Stars In Ballet

A 10-year-old Northville area girl shared the limelight with the famous touring Russian ballet production Sunday at the Detroit Masonic Temple.

She is Sue Olejniczak, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Olejniczak of 44253 Chidworth.

The fifth-grader at Our Lady of Victory Catholic school won her distinctive role in the Stars of the Bolshoi Ballet Production by successfully competing with hundreds of boys and girls, ages 8 to 14, from throughout Michigan.

Her ballet talent won her a similar role last year in special auditioning.

Sue has been studying ballet for the past five years, first at Dearborn and now in Ann Arbor.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Matzen of Encino, California, announce the birth of their first child, Robert Keith Matzen, on November 22, in Encino.

The baby boy weighed 5 pounds, 11 ounces.

Mrs. Matzen is the former Janet O'Shaughnessy of Austin, Minnesota.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Matzen of 21937 Novi road, Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William O'Shaughnessy of Austin.

In Our Town

By Jean Day

CHRISTMAS IS TRADITION — and almost every group in our town has a special Christmas program scheduled for the coming weeks to put members in a holiday mood.

Mrs. John Begle, program chairman for the Northville branch of the National Farm and Garden association, promises a "relaxing Christmas mood" theme for the group's December party to be given promptly at 12:30 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. D. H. Clark, 42150 East Seven Mile road.

Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Herbert Frogrer, Mrs. Laverne VanHorn, Mrs. Richard Martin, Mrs. N. K. Pattison and Mrs. F. S. Jennings. Members are to bring their own services and a passing dish.

Since the potluck meeting follows closely after this Saturday's CHRISTMAS MAGIC greens market at the community building, members will have earned their restful session. Now in its third year, the greens market is becoming one of Northville's most popular "new" traditions. With a dozen area branches of the NFGA participating, there will be an abundance of fresh decorating ideas available for the small ticket price.

MOTHERS CLUB is having its annual Christmas potluck dinner Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Glenn E. Deibert, 9825 Napier road. Co-hostesses are Mrs. Stuart Campbell, Mrs. Grant W. Allen and Mrs. C. W. Rodgers.

New members will be honored. Two exchange students living in the Northville area have been invited to be special guests to share American traditions — and tell of theirs in Ireland and Finland.

A CHRISTMAS TEA AND COOKIE exchange will be held by the Distaff Botanists garden group at 12:30 p.m. next Thursday at the Livonia home of Mrs. Kenneth Driver, 16053 Southampton. This also will be a workshop session.

AN EARLY PRESENT was the occasion for a surprise party in Northville Estates last Friday evening. When Mrs. George P. Hanley, 20800 Chivvinden, received her new Corvair, neighbors in her husband's car pool to the GM Diesel plant planned a potluck surprise to celebrate... and admire.

THE THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS to be given by the Northville Players Guild tonight, Friday and Saturday in the high school auditorium are contributing to the festivity of the month.

The E. O. Webers have invited members of the cast of "The Flattering Word" and friends to their home at 20360 Woodhill road for an "after-glow" Friday night. Bud Weber is "Mr. Tesh" in the comedy.

THE BELL RINGERS of Northville Presbyterian church are much in demand for their delightful Christmas music. They will be heard in their own church December 22 and Christmas Eve. They are playing for the Northville Methodist church December 10. The group also will be playing this month in Ypsilanti, Wyandotte, Plymouth, Detroit.

FAMILY TRADITIONS, of course, are the ones that mean the most at Christmas time. This column would like to hear of long-standing and unusual traditions among your families. If you are thinking of adding a "tradition" we've heard of local families who select and cut their own trees (from a farm at Maple and Haggerty roads).

For the children, a trip down the Hines parkway to Greenfield Village and Museum renews knowledge of early-day Christmas — and is a wonderful chance to see bayberry candles made. (The candles are for sale, too.)

WCTS to Host Rotary Clubs

Northville Rotarians will join members of the Plymouth Rotary club next Wednesday noon for the annual Christmas program presented by the Wayne County Training School. Club members and their wives will enjoy lunch and entertainment provided by the youngsters at the school gymnasium. Northville Rotarian Dr. Pasquale Buoniconti, director of the school, is official host to the Rotarians.

Northville Rotary club will not hold its regular Tuesday noon meeting next week.

NEWCOMER'S CORNER

I look upon every day to be lost, in which I do not make a new acquaintance.

— Samuel Johnson

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown and Daughter

Like so many others who move to this area, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown decided to move here because of the ideal "country atmosphere."

These young newcomers, who have a month old daughter named Erica, recently moved into a large home in Echo Valley subdivision at 4814 Rushwood. They moved here from Royal Oak where they had lived for the past 2½ years.

Mr. Brown is employed at Westinghouse in the industrial sales department. Mrs.

Brown says she's "just a housewife", but she loves her position very much.

Both were graduated from Farmington high school. Later, in 1959, she was graduated from Albion College, and in 1961 he was graduated from Eastern Michigan university.

Among their hobbies are art and painting. In addition, Mr. Brown likes to play golf, and Mrs. Brown enjoys horseback riding.

The newcomers attend the Episcopal Church.

FBI Agent to Speak Here

A special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Northville Woman's Club tomorrow (Friday).

He is Bernard C. Brown, special agent in charge of the Detroit bureau of the FBI.

The meeting will be held in the Northville Public Library, beginning at 2 p.m. The topic of his talk will be "Inside the FBI".

A native of Illinois, Brown received his early education in Montana, took his bachelor of science degree at Montana State College and his law degree at the University of Utah.

He was on active duty with the United States Army as a reserve officer for five years.

In September, 1904 he was appointed a special agent of the FBI and served at Washington Field, Albany and New York City offices before being returned to FBI headquarters in Washington.

In December, 1946, he was appointed assistant special agent in charge at San Antonio and thereafter served in the same position in Atlanta and at the Washington Field Office in Washington, D.C.

He was promoted to the position of Inspector in April, 1951. In that capacity his duties took him to every state of the Union, to South America, Africa and Europe.

In November, 1955, he was appointed inspector in charge of the inspection and planning section at Bureau Headquarters. From 1956 to 1958 he was special agent in charge of the Newark office, and from September, 1958, to May, 1959, he was assistant special agent in charge of administration in the New York office. In May, 1959, he was appointed special agent in charge of the Pittsburgh division.

Since September, 1962, he has been special agent in charge of the Detroit office.

Brown is married and has one daughter. He is a member of the Utah, Georgia, and District of Columbia Bars, and has been admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court and the United States Court of Appeals in Washington.

Shakespearean Seminar Coming up in Plymouth

A program, entitled "King Lear — Shakespeare's Finest?", will be presented at the Dunning-Hough Library (Plymouth) on Tuesday, December 17 by the Wayne State Classic Theater actors.

Sponsored by the Plymouth Theater Guild, the program is open to the public with special invitation to Northville area residents.

Representing the Wayne State Classic Theater at the Shakespearean seminar will be Dr. Leonard Leone and Earl Bettinger.

The coming Classic Theater presentations of "Julius Caesar" and "As You Like It" will be discussed in relation to the new "wrap-around" stage technique to be used by the Wayne State group.

The seminar will start at 8 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at Melody House or from Ticket Chairman Mrs. Conrad Krangel, GL 3-4454.

25 Attend Christmas Festival

Twenty-five members of the Senior High Youth Fellowship of the First Methodist Church, Northville, attended the Christmas Music Festival sponsored by the Metropolitan Churches of Greater Detroit in the Metropolitan Methodist Church last Sunday.

The program was opened at 3:45 with a Christmas musical program by the Bell Ringers of the First Congregational Church, Port Huron.

Many nationality groups in native dress shared in the program with their choirs. Several racial groups also sang, and a 60-voice Youth Choir from the First Methodist church, Royal Oak, presented several carols.

The Rev. Father Diran Papazian, pastor of St. John's Apostolic Armenian Church, gave the invocation. His choir sang Chants of the Divine Liturgy of their church.

A negro choir from Greater Christ Baptist Church presented Negro Spirituals and a Negro minister from Calvary Baptist, the Rev. L. Juan Burt, read the Christmas Story.

The Junior choir from the First Mexican Baptist Church sang in Spanish "Noche de Paz" "Oh, Santísimo, Felicísimo" "Christo Ha Nacido" and the Rev. Felix Galindo, their pastor, gave the benediction.

Transportation was provided by Mr. Oliver Collins, Mr. Claude Morgan, Mr. Richard Ambler and the Rev. and Mrs. S. D. Kinde.

Kimmels Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard D. Kimmel of 46120 Sunset celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on November 20.

An open-house party in honor of the couple was staged by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Heintz of Fredric and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kimmel of Dixboro, at the Salem township hall. Some 90 guests attended.

Mr. Kimmel was born and raised in Northville. His wife was born in Farmington township and has lived here much of her life.

He was retired from the Ford Motor Company in 1948.

Mrs. Kimmel is 76, her husband 79.

They have three grandchildren: Sharon Huyck of New York and Donna Kay and Gary Allen Kimmel of Dixboro.

Camera Club

The Northville Camera Club will meet on Wednesday, December 11 at the home of Elizabeth Beard.

Highlighting the meeting will be the showing of slides of the United States Rocky Mountains by Merritt Meaker.

ALL WINTER LONG ENJOY PROPER RELATIVE HUMIDITY

The most pleasant April day has that fortunate relationship of proper relative humidity and temperature that makes it healthful, comfortable. But, indoors, in winter, heating destroys that formula — results in damaging dryness. Statistics from the United States Public Health Service show high incidence of respiratory diseases during months of low indoor relative humidity.

Robert W. Bake of Northville, a public relations representative for Fisher Body division of General Motors, is making a tour of the West Coast and New Mexico and Texas. He recently was a guest, along with James L. Strange, operations supervisor for Zantop Air Transport, at the Hacienda hotel in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Merriam and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Chapman attended the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Concert at Ford Auditorium on Friday.

Mrs. Greig Chapman (Betty Merriam) is a member of the Rackham Symphony Choir which was featured at the concert.

Mozart's stately "Requiem" Mass served as the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's memorial tribute to President John F. Kennedy.

The younger Mrs. Chapman was graduated from Northville high school in 1958. In 1961 she was graduated from Michigan State university where she attended on a musical scholarship.

She is now teaching music in the Wyandotte School system.

Visiting Mrs. Fred Van Atta of Randolph street for Thanksgiving dinner were her son, Colonel and Mrs. Van Atta and son Peter of Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Van Atta and daughter Jane of Pennsylvania, and Mr. and Mrs. James Howich and children, Michael and Linda. Peter and Jane are students at Michigan State university.

Orient Chapter No. 77, Order of the Eastern Star will hold a special meeting for the purpose of exemplifying the degrees in the Northville Masonic Temple on Friday, December 6 at 7:45 p.m.

Tips to Ease Christmas Rush

A part of the fun of Christmas is the rush of getting everything done, but nobody likes to work under too much pressure. Here are some time management tips to help make Christmas easier for you.

1. Decide what you wish to accomplish and make a written list of all the jobs to be done between now and Christmas. Then try to accomplish at least one or two jobs each day.

2. Address your Christmas cards early, and have a supply of gift wrapping paper and ribbon on hand.

3. Don't leave all of the gift wrapping until the last. You will enjoy the job more if you wrap a few gifts at a time.

4. When you shop for gifts try to avoid making hurried last-minute decisions. Along with your shopping list, know the correct size of the gifts you buy.

5. Check your supply of Christmas decorations early, so you will have time to pick up extra tree lights or balls if needed.

6. Make cookies in advance and store them in tightly covered containers or in the freezer.

Coordinate 'Needy Help'

Persons knowing of needy families in the Northville area are asked to contact Mrs. Carl Stephens of the King's Daughters, which serves as the clearing house for distribution of gifts to needy at Christmas time.

Names of needy families must be turned into Mrs. Stephens no later than December 21. Her telephone number is FI 9-0090.

Chairman of the newly formed Commanders' club each year will be the Immediate Past Department Commander with the secretary-treasurer's position being filled by the department commander of the previous year. Immediate Past Department Commander Joe Paul, Ishpeming, is this year's chairman.

Arrests Close B & E Case Here

With the arrest of two "check artists", one in Alabama and another in New York, Northville police this week closed a breaking and entering case which began here last June.

It was in June that someone broke into the International Diamond Tool company, at 21141 Novi road and stole two blank check books. Entry was made by breaking a pane of glass in a door window and unlocking the door.

Since then more than 200 of the stolen checks have been passed in Michigan and other states. The checks were written for from $40 to $90.

Initially, the checks were signed by an Anthony Longino, who has since been arrested in Birmingham, Alabama. Longino, whose real name is Bruce Wayne Long, is a Florida parole violator and has been returned to jail in Florida to finish out a three-year term.

Once the Florida jail sentence has been served, he will face a federal check passing charge.

According to Police Chief Eugene King, Wayne purchased a car sometime before September and had International Diamond Tool's name painted on the side of the vehicle. In this way he was able to deceive people into believing he represented the firm, the chief said.

Upon his arrest, Long admitted that he had given some of the checks to Lawrence Nacelerio, who also passed some of them under the name George P. Saunders. Saunders has since been arrested and is awaiting trial in New York. FBI agents are still looking for another man, Steven P. Pell, who also passed some of the checks.

Early investigation proved then an employee at International Diamond Tool had picked up Long and a companion who were hitch-hiking in the area. The employee, who was dismissed, took Long to the firm to see about getting a job, King said.

Police have been unable to determine if the employee had anything to do with the theft.

Fire Report

Northville firemen responded to a brush fire call on Sunday at 5:10 p.m. in the vicinity of the Northville State Hospital.

Cakes for Sale

The annual sale of fruit cakes is currently being conducted by Northville's Rotary Club to help raise funds for its charitable activities. Cakes may be purchased from any Rotary member.

W-O FOE LOSES, TOO — Sharing Northville's losing role in the opening games of the season was the Brighton quintet, which was surprised by South Lyon's unexpected strength. (The Lions are in white). The Bulldogs trailed throughout the game, losing finally by a score of 60-42. Brighton travels to Northville on January 10 for an encounter with the Mustangs.

Barons Swamp Mustangs In Cage Opener Tuesday

School was out, but the Northville Mustangs learned a basketball lesson in the school of hard knocks Tuesday night in a 73-40 licking at the hands of the Barons from Bloomfield Hills.

The simple lesson was that the more shots a team takes, the better chance it has of winning.

The Barons rained 71 shots on goal, connecting on 28 of those for a 39 percent shooting average. Northville, on the other hand, could get off only 44 shots, while making good on 13.

The reason for Bloomfield's shooting advantage can be found in their defensive play. Using a pressing zone defense, the Barons swarmed over the Mustangs as they were bringing the ball up court, often intercepting passes and forcing errors.

Northville's inability to adjust to these tactics can partially be attributed to inexperience. This was the Black and Orange's first outing of the season. And the Barons proved to be tough hosts.

But in spite of the inexperience, the debut and the foreign court, the Blue and White was clearly the superior team. Bloomfield took an 18-4 lead at the end of the first quarter. The Barons hit consistently from the free throw circle before the Northville defense could get set. Whenever possible, they capitalized on the fast break.

The second period was no better for the local team or fans as the Barons outscored the Mustangs 17-8 to walk off with a 35-12 advantage at half time.

Mustang mentor Dave Longridge substituted freely, trying to find a winning combination. But even with tall men under the boards Bloomfield controlled the rebounds.

During the second half, the nightmare continued for Coach Longridge as the home team extended its lead to win going away.

There were some bright spots, however.

Of 21 shots on goal, the Mustangs cashed in on 9. And Northville finally showed some rebounding muscle under the boards in the persons of Forwards Lance Hahn and Rick Milne and Center Tom Wick. Sparking the Bloomfield attack was diminutive Guard Greg Riggs, who hit unerringly on jump shots from the free throw circle. Backing him up in the scoring column was Forward Andy Anderson with 14 points.

Yoernian of the Barons was veteran Center Wally Wengren. He took advantage of the Mustangs' inexperience with his quick driving moves and positioning for rebounding. Top man in the scoring column for the local squad was Hahn. He contributed 15 points.

Hockey

A practice session for members of the Ely Oil Kings hockey team and interested joiners will take place today (Thursday) and next Tuesday.

Practice hours are 11 to 12 p.m. at the Garden City Rink. The season begins December 15.

Persons who may be interested in joining the team are asked to call Coach Bill St. Lawrence at FI 9-0708.

Grid Quiz Delayed Another Week

Hold on, sports fans. There's been another delay in determining the winners of the final football contest of the season.

Because four of the games listed in the November 21 edition were later postponed following the assassination of President Kennedy until December 7, contest judges decided it would be in the best interest of all contestants to wait until these games are completed.

The games to be played Saturday are Colorado at Air Force, SMU at Baylor, Penn State at Pitt and Rice at TCU.

Of the 20 games listed in the final quiz only one was cancelled — the Notre Dame-Iowa game.

Thus judges have saved all original entries and will complete correcting them after the four December 7 games.

Winners will be announced in the December 12 edition.

Recreation Gym Starts Saturday

2nd Hootenanny In Uniform On Tap Saturday

Another star-decked hootenanny will move into the limelight here Saturday night.

Sponsored by the Northville Jaycees, this second hootenanny to be staged within a month will get underway at 8 p.m. in the Northville community building.

Most of the entertainers who performed here at the first event will be back Saturday to give teenagers — and adults a swinging good time.

They are Carl Pickett, The Villagers and Mike Wood and Bill Hodge.

New to the local Jaycee hootenanny, but certainly not new to local folk music buffs, are The Lamplighters, who are entertainers at the Northville Hotel.

In Uniform

San Diego, California — Lyle K. Cline-Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Cline-Smith of 7091 Curtis road completed recruit training November 15 at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, California.

The nine-week training includes naval orientation, history and organization, seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, military drill, first aid and survival.

During the training recruits receive tests and interviews which determine their future assignments in the Navy. Upon completing the program they are assigned to service schools for technical training or to ships and stations for on-the-job training in a Navy rating specialty.

Naval training produces the power in seapower by supplying qualified personnel to man the ships, planes and shore stations of today's Navy.

"We're hoping for a bigger crowd," Jaycee Chairman Kenneth Robert explained, "because we have some big Christmas programs coming up to finance."

Among the Christmas projects that the hootenanny proceeds will help finance are:

—A shopping tour for underprivileged youngsters;

—Purchase of gifts for children at Northville State Hospital;

—Sponsorship of the annual Christmas house decorating contest;

—Support for children in a Nigerian hospital.

REUBEN R. JENSEN

F. James McDonald, general manager of Hydra-matic Division of General Motors, has announced the appointment of Reuben R. Jensen as works manager of the division.

Jensen, a Northville resident formerly served as master mechanic.

He attended the University of Nebraska and served overseas with the U.S. Navy before joining hydramatic in 1946 as a junior engineer. He became senior engineer in 1948 and was appointed master mechanic in 1952.

Jensen and his wife, Josephine, reside at 47055 West Chigwidden with two of their three children. A married daughter lives in Connecticut.

Next Up: Lakers Tomorrow Night

To hear Coach Art Paddy of the West Bloomfield Lakers tell it, the Lakers, a team which tied for first place in the Wayne-Oakland conference last year, will not be "nearly as strong as last year."

In fact, if Paddy's contentions are true, then Northville should "take walk to victory" this Friday night on the Lakers' home court.

Paddy bemoans the fact that he has no height. "Our tallest man is pivot man Steve Alix, a five-foot 11-inch letterman," he noted. As a result, the Lakers suffered under the boards against a taller Clarenceville team last Friday as they lost their season opener, 41-35, according to the West Bloomfield mentor.

Not even the savvy of Dan Greig, a returning regular from last year's championship eleven, and the work of letterman Guard Mike Hargreaves could save the Lakers from defeat.

"We'll try to make up for a lack of size with speed," Paddy said.

Perhaps the best explanation of the Lakers' difficulties last Friday could be found in their shooting. "We weren't shooting too well," said Paddy, "and if we hope to improve, we'll have to hit on more of our shots."

With improved shooting against the Mustangs tomorrow night, West Bloomfield could do a complete about face. At least, on their home court, Paddy's charges will probably be ready for anything Northville can throw at them, including size, speed and savvy.

Jayvee Quintet On Short End Too!

In the first outing of the year, the Northville Colts didn't get a chance to enjoy their height advantage as a smaller and faster Bloomfield Hills quintet took them to task, 50-43.

The smaller Barons raced through the local JV's to grab rebounds and to score quick buckets.

After trailing throughout the first half, the Colts took a momentary lead at 28-25 as the second half opened, but the Bloomfield JV's bounced back to gain a 10-point spread.

Largely responsible for the Barons' JV's victory, however, were errors committed by the Colts due to first game jitters.

Top scorer for the Colts was Center Steve Evans with 22 points, more than half of his team's total.

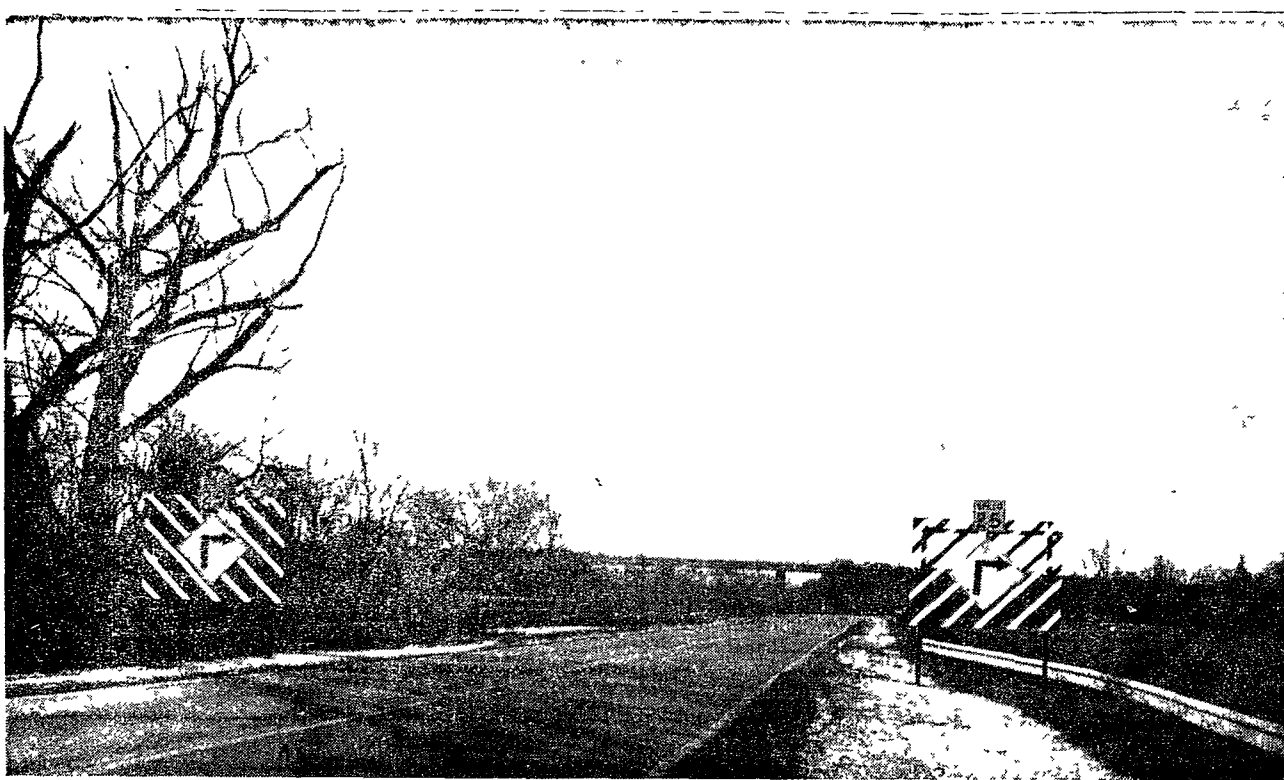

Next game on tap for the JV's is tomorrow at 7 p.m. against West Bloomfield away. The varsity game will follow immediately.

SAFETY EMPHASIS —

A letter from the Northville city council to the Oakland county road commission brought prompt action in providing new warning signs on the Novi road entrance into the city. The curve has been the scene of several accidents. Signs on both sides of the road are shown in the picture above at the approach to the curve. At right a third sign at the curve again cautions the driver to slow to 25-mph. The road commission letter of reply to the city also gave promise of further improvements in 1964. It stated that "construction will take place . . . which will be designed to alleviate some of the existing unsatisfactory characteristics of both the Novi road curve and relocated 8 Mile road."

Wixom Reveals Master Plan

Copies of the recently completed master plan for the city of Wixom have been mailed out.

Prepared under the planning assistance program of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, the plan for future development is one of the first such plans completed in the metropolitan area of Detroit.

In presenting a copy of the plan to The Novi News, Paul DePodesta, planning commission chairman, explained: "As this plan portrays, Wixom looks forward to growth in commerce, industry and housing within a well planned framework."

The 19-page booklet making up the master plan includes an explanation of purpose, recommendations, and details of the study and the future plan, including areas related to the central business district, industrial development, civic center and community buildings, residential areas and the neighborhood, thoroughfare, and recreation.

The plan also explains how it will be put into effect. Here is why officials of the city believe planning is needed in Wixom:

"With its present growth pattern, Wixom has not developed as fast as might be expected of a city of its size and potential. Even with the Wixom plan of the Ford Motor company within its borders, industrial, commercial and residential development has been relatively slow.

"Larger cities and their suburbs close to Wixom are experiencing a much more rapid rate of growth — and even providing a good share of the residences used by people working in Wixom.

"These cities are connected by major arteries that run through and adjacent to Wixom's boundaries. Because of these traffic arteries, the other communities will continue to serve as places of residence unless Wixom itself can provide attractive areas for new development. And this is a major objective of master plan development for Wixom.

"Wixom has a series of fixed problems, some of which are shared by other communities. It has thoroughfares and rail lines that virtually divide the city into small land pockets and offer some obstacles to development.

"There is also the problem of soil condition. Only 35 percent of the total area is adaptable for residential use at the present time. Much land with poor drainage and load-bearing capacity accounts for a large share of the land remaining. In order to make these areas more suitable for development, an adequate sewage system installation will be required.

"A prime objective of the Wixom master plan is to act as a guide for the proper use of all land in the community. This will help to insure that uses made of property will be harmoniously related to all other property. The master plan will serve in the institution of a program of land development whereby every square foot of land contributes properly to the future of Wixom."

Among the significant proposals contained within the plan is the decision to perpetuate the central business district in its present location — despite major problems resulting from the location of Wixom road, Pontiac Trail and the two rail lines.

The decision to maintain the same location is based upon the fact that the location presently contains the main business buildings of the city and because it is centrally located.

Plans for development of the area is included in three stages, representing "its evolution in an attractive and convenient manner. The economic analysis of business potential forecasts that the proposed size of the business center will adequately handle Wixom's future growth."

The major feature of the plan is the gradual incorporation of a loop drive around the area. This loop, according to planners, will permit through traffic to bypass the shopping core, thus reducing potential traffic hazards.

Ultimately, part of Wixom road could be converted to a pedestrian plaza — completely removed from vehicular areas, planners explain.

"The shopping core should be within the major area to the north of Pontiac Trail. The additional facilities to the south could well include a convenience center and office area."

Among the steps to be carried out to implement the master plan, as outlined in the illustrated booklet, "are periodic review of zoning, planning for public improvement programs, development of housing condition analysis for the purpose of conservation and redevelopment and control of development through subdivision regulations."

— In Justice Court —

Three men were handed reprimands and fines in arraignment before Northville Justice of Peace Charles W. McDonald on Monday.

Robert E. Kopka of Union Lake, involved in an accident on the Novi road curve into Northville on November 22, pleaded guilty of driving without an operator's license. He was fined $15 and $5 costs in lieu of a 10-day sentence.

Nineteen-year-old John L. Dowd of 830 West Main street pleaded guilty of being a minor in possession of alcoholic beverage on November 23.

Although it was his second offense, the judge did not give him a jail sentence. He was fined $25 and $5 and told that the next offense would bring an automatic jail sentence.

Wynn Whitehair of 102 Alen Drive, who was with Dowd at the time of his arrest, pleaded guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and was fined $15 and $5 cost or 10 days in jail. It was his first offense.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. VanValkenburgh

Charles R. VanValkenburgh, who celebrated his 60th year in Northville Masonry on November 23, was honored at a testimonial dinner Saturday at Lofy's restaurant in Plymouth.

He and his wife, Edith, were presented with a color television set contributed by lodge members from Northville and throughout the United States.

On hand for the festive occasion were his brother, Milo VanValkenburgh of Detroit, a daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Stevens of Northville, and a son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer VanValkenburgh of Vicksburg.

Guest speakers included Richard S. Smith, supervisor of personnel for the Detroit Edison company; Edgar C. Welch, elder in the Northville Presbyterian church; and A. Malcolm Allen, mayor of Northville.

H. Eugene Niles of Plymouth, P.H.P. Union Chapter No. 55, R.A.M., was the master of ceremonies.

The invocation and benediction were given by Wilfrid J. Lussier, P.C., Prelate, Northville Commandery No. 39, K.T.

Born in Schoharie county, New York on October 11, 1879, he and his family moved to Northville in 1894. In December, 1904, he was married to Edith Clark of Northville.

Mr. and Mrs. VanValkenburgh have two children and several grandchildren.

His honors during his 60 years in Masonry here include:

Symbolic: Master Mason in Northville Lodge No. 186, F. & A.M. in 1903; Worshipful Master in 1921; granted life membership in 1945; Tyler since 1948.

Capitular: Royal Arch Mason in Union Chapter No. 55, R.A.M., 1919; High Priest during 1924, granted life membership in 1952, Sentinel since 1948.

Cryptic: Royal and Select Master in Northville Council No. 89, R. & S. M., 1951; Thrice Illustrious Master during 1957; now serving as chaplain.

Chvalic: Knighted in Northville Commandery No. 39, K.T. 1920; Eminent Commander during 1929; granted life membership in 1953; has been Commandery recorder since 1932.

In 1957, VanValkenburgh was awarded the York Cross of Honor. He also has been awarded the Grand Cross of Colors by the Northville Order of Rainbow Girls.

He was a member of Northville Masonic Temple Association board of many years, member of Orient Chapter No. 77, O.E.S., since 1944 and Worthy Patron in 1948 and he is an honorary member of Plymouth Chapter No. 115, O.E.S.

The VanValkenburghs live at 400 East Main.

School Reduces Rates For Auditorium Use

New rental fee rates for the Northville high school auditorium were adopted by the board of education last week.

Following a review of existing rates, prompted by a request by the Northville Players Guild, E. V. Ellison, director of administrative services, recommended the new fee schedule.

The new rates, which probably will reduce the cost of groups using the auditorium, are based upon actual costs of the school system. The previous rates were based upon estimated costs because little data for the new facility was available at the time.

Here is the recommendation approved by the board:

1. A flat fee of $5 per hour for rehearsal time.
2. If a light board operator is used during rehearsal, add $1.50 per hour to the above rate.
3. On evenings of production with audience in attendance, a fee of $8 per hour plus a flat fee of $6 for clean up. Light board operator fee is included in this rate.
4. Rate subject to change at discretion of the board of education.

In other board action last week, officials voted to pay $360.30 to GMC for settlement of a disputed repair bill, discussed prospects for state aid next year, heard a report that only a few minor errors were discovered in the annual financial report that is based upon a new modified accrual method of accounting, and received a letter from City Manager Bruce Potthoff concerning possible use of the library building for school purposes.

American Legion

Auxiliary News

By Mrs. Oscar Hammond
Publicity Chairman

A busy schedule lies ahead for the local American Legion Auxiliary ladies for December. First on the agenda will be a Rummage Sale on Friday, December 6 at the Veterans Memorial Hall, corner Dunlap and North Center street, commencing at 9:00 a.m. and closing at 8:00 p.m. Donations for the sale must be left at the hall by Thursday, December 5. Proceeds of this sale will be used for sending a girl to Girls State and other programs of the auxiliary and refurbishing the kitchen with much needed dishes and utensils. Mrs. Enid Penn, chairman.

Hall, commencing at 6:30 p.m. with a potluck dinner. Mr. Robert Miller is chairman and promises a fine program with a visit from Santa Claus, further information will follow.

Plans are also underway for the annual Christmas visit and giving of gifts for the 100 veterans at Maybury Sanatorium under the chairmanship of Hazel Wright, the Farmington, Livonia and Plymouth auxiliary members on this program which has been carried out each year for forty years, not only at Christmas but several times throughout the year.

Under the direction of the rehabilitation chairman, Hazel Wright, several auxiliary members volunteered for work at the VA hospital at Ann Arbor this past week and helped veterans select gifts on the Gift Shop program, each veteran hospitalized can select Christmas gifts for his immediate family at no cost to him and the ladies wrap, label and mail them to the family, the gifts are purchased by auxiliaries from the second and 17th district, 19 gifts were purchased from the local unit, each gift costing $3.00.

At the last regular meeting the local ladies voted to purchase a flag for the Parent-Teacher association sponsored Girl Scout troop and also will sponsor a troop of Brownies, with the Americanism chairman, Shirley Holloman as leader.

The Northville American Legion and Auxiliary will host the 17th District Convention at the Veterans Memorial Hall on Friday, December 13 at 8:00 p.m. Mrs. Howard Wright, president urges all members to attend and welcome our guest, Auxiliary State president, Mrs. William Clarahan of Detroit. Mrs. Clarahan will bring a message of importance which will benefit the chairman on their programs of the district and unit.

Another item of interest of the Lloyd H. Green Post and auxiliary membership will be the coming Family Christmas Party on Tuesday, December 17 at the Veterans Memorial

Art Club Holds Sale

The annual Three Cities Art Club Christmas sale began Monday and will continue through December 14.

Times for the sale, which is closed Sunday and Tuesday, December 10, is 3 to 9 p.m.

Located in the shop once occupied by Linda Lee, across from the Stop and Shop supermarket on Forest avenue in Plymouth, the sale features the following items:

Paintings, weaving, ceramics, sculpture, and jewelry.

emphasized in many of the readings, including this Bible verse: "For the kingdom is the Lord's and he is the governor among the nations" (Psalms 22:28).

A corresponding passage from the Christian Science
textbook reads: "When man is governed by God, the ever-present Mind who understands all things, man knows that with God all things are possible" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Others," December 15, and

"The Man Who Became God," December 22.

Last Sunday also marked the opening of the church's new plan for extended sessions twice a month.

Second Service Launched Here

The Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Epiphany initiated a second service beginning Sunday, December 1.
According to the pastor, the Rev. John W. Miller, the time of the new service will be 8:30 each Sunday morning. This will not change the schedule of Church School at 9:45 or the second service at 11.

The new schedule was introduced on Sunday, December 1 with Holy Communion at both the 8:30 and 11 service.

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

by the Rev. S. D. Kinde
First Methodist Church

There is an old saying,
"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." If that quotation is true, and we believe that it is, then it behoves us all to guard our thoughts. They determine what we are to become in the future.

The Apostle Paul, holding a genuine love and concern for people, wrote to the church in Philippi these words of counsel, "Whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is just,
whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is gracious, if there is any excellence, if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things." This is a strong appeal to people to ponder and meditate upon things of abiding worth.

There are so many second rate matters presented to us for our consideration,
many base or sensual ideas
which clamor for our attention. It is increasingly important how we guard our time for thinking about worthwhile things.
As a young man I clerked
in a general country store which sold everything from pepper to mouse traps, from cookies to calico. Each year we took inventory of the stock to depreciate our worn, soiled, out-of-style, outmoded items. After the first of the new year we would hold a special sale

of all items we wanted cleared from the shelves.

Perhaps we too need to take inventory of our personalities and depreciate
the envy, petty hatreds, evil
thoughts, unkind attitudes, malice or other like feelings
we may hold. We need to move these unwanted ideas from our minds and personalities, fixing our thoughts
upon things true, honorable,
just, pure, lovely, gracious.

We are called upon to THINK to calculate on these things, so we place the emphasis here. Let us think our way through prejudice,
precedent, custom, convention, tradition, style, fashion, habits, work, leisure, applying our mental x-rays
to every question and problem.

We will make this discovery — that in thinking upon the better things of life
they become a part of us
and a part of the world around us. We will soon be looking for these qualities in other people too and when we do we will find diamonds in stones.

A man whom I admired
from our first introduction
used to say to the people he knew, "I heard something nice about you" and then he would tell them

something he had heard.

Wouldn't it help us all,
this week when we go into the dairy bar for a coke or into the shop to work, or to school, or to the grocery,
and meet people we know
to say with honesty, "I know something nice about you."

All moral or spiritual truth to be valid must be lived. Virtue cannot be abstracted from action. The qualities of life to which Paul refers — purity, honor, loveliness, excellence, justice, truth, only have meaning as they are lived.

Our minds are battered from morning to night, over the radio and television, and in advertisements, with appeals to commit ourselves to many things. It is a law of psychology that when unconscious suggestions come into conflict with the conscious suggestions, the unconscious almost always win control of our wills
when we are not looking.

Because we respond so automatically to unrecognized suggestions, we require some discipline which delivers the automatic part of us from the powers of evil to the powers of good.
Here we need to deny self and lay hold on God through prayer and meditation. He will guide us by his spirit into all good.

Plan Forum

Plans for a three-day Bible
forum to be held in Tecumseh January 17-19 are now complete. Mr. C. Carson Coonce, presiding minister of the Plymouth congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, announced last week.

The meet, to be held at the Tecumseh high school, will bring together about 1,000 delegates from 16 congregations in southeastern Michigan comprising Michigan Circuit 8.

"The theme, 'Feed My Little Sheep,' will emphasize the urgency of Bible teaching," said Mr. Coonce, "and will point up the need for personal participation in this feature of Christian education. Jesus' command at John 21 verse 15
is just as binding on his followers now as it was nineteen hundred years ago," declared
Mr. Coonce. "This assembly will give us a little more of the
'know-how,' he said.

The principal speaker will be J. W. Filson, of Brooklyn,
New York, whose Sunday lecture, "The Bible Triumphs in widely advertised in the Te-

Farmington Association will meet at 8 p.m., Monday, December 9 at the home of Mrs.
Russell Atchison, 332 South Rogers street, Northville.

At this meeting will be the annual Talent Auction for which each member donates an article of handicraft (sewing, cooking, artwork, etc.)
which she has made to be auctioned to the other members.

Money collected from the sale of the items goes toward

READERS SPEAK:

How Can We Forget?

To the Editor:

Our nation is passing thru a very critical point in our progressing future. It was brought to each of our attentions by a very primitive and barbaric act which seems entirely impossible in this day and age. But, yet, it happened. And to know this, a great and dynamic leader John F. Kennedy had to die to put across the points for which he fought so hard. It is indeed an incomprehensible loss, not only to we Americans, his family, but to the entire world.

I am only 18 years old and up to now, did not fully comprehend the meaning of "American". But now, after this incredible loss, I am beginning to realize this meaning that so many of us have never acquired and so many of you have lost. I saw many "new Americans" last Friday all around me on Michigan State university campus. In that small area 27,000 people all near my age — your future leaders, exhibited a different state of being that, up to now, was completely unfamiliar. It was a real sense of nationalism, united but shown in so many different ways. Along with my personal deep grief I must admit there was a certain pride for my fellowman. Because of this my fears were lessened — but not my sorrow or shame.

But now, one week later, I am confused. Already people are forgetting. How can they ever forget? I realize that John F. Kennedy is dead, and our nation will go on, but do people forget the reasons and results? Already this unity is being disrupted by new prejudices, violent sectionalism and hatred. God took Oswald's life so we couldn't have a material object to hate and blame, but why must we find a substitute? We must never let such a great individual, so truly symbolic of the U.S., die in vain.

OUT OF THE PAST

ONE YEAR AGO —

— What to do with a overcrowded ninth grade next year became a major concern for the Northville school board as it reviewed figures supplied Monday night by Dr. Kenneth MacLeod, assistant superintendent.

The student-bulge will be of one-year duration only, MacLeod pointed out, because the Novi district is scheduled to provide its own junior high school facilities beginning with the 1964-65 school year.

— Although it has not yet reached the halfway mark, Northville drive to collect $12,000 to complete construction of the Scout-Recreation building received two big boosts this week.

Two sizeable contributions lifted the total to date to $5,126.48. The greatest share of these contributions have come from business, professional and industrial sources with the residential campaign to come.

— Northville Mustang grid-ers will be feted at the annual football banquet next Wednesday night, the planners have announced. The dinner-banquet will begin at 6:30 in the Presbyterian church. The Northville Exchange club hosts the annual event, with the team and coaching staff as guests.

FIVE YEARS AGO —

— Northville planning commission met this week with the newly retained, consulting firm of Waring and Johnson to begin a program for a general zoning review of the city.

The firm was hired by the commission to assist and advise planners with technical practices of zoning.

— Northville postal officials and employees are bracing themselves for the deluge of Christmas mail and packages expected to pass through the office within the next few days.

— A Christmas concert by the Northville high school band and choir will be conducted Tuesday, December 9 at the community building at 8 p.m. More than 125 bandmen and choir members will take part in the Christmas program under the direction of Robert Williams and Leslie Lee.

— A question of retirement occupied the greatest amount of time at the city council's regular session last Monday evening.

The result of the "mild haze" was a vote of confidence in the judgment of the city manager and his public works superintendent.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO —

— A large crowd attended the formal dance presented by the senior class at the high school gymnasium last Friday night. One hundred and seventy couples attended and 13 couples chaperoned the affair. For their part the class of '49 chose "Moonlight Serenade" as their theme and decorated the hall accordingly. Eddie Casper and his orchestra furnished the music for dancing.

— Several hundred members and friends of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, corner Elm and High streets, gathered on the church grounds last Sunday afternoon to witness the turning over the first shovel of earth for the erection of a new church and parish hall. Erection of the proposed $150,000 structure will get underway in the very near future.

— The Northville Rotary club has agreed to sponsor a contest for the best decorated store windows and exteriors of homes in the village during the Christmas season.

— The Northville Recreation committee's obedience dog training program got off to an enthusiastic start last Monday evening at the Scout Building with Training Instructor A. D. Swartz putting both owner and dogs through preliminary basic training.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO —

— Rotarians of the village are sponsoring a benefit program at 8 p.m. Thursday, December 15 in the high school auditorium. Harry Cecil, a Detroit magician of amateur standing, will be the performer. Proceeds from the ticket sale (35c each, children and adult) will go to swell the club's student loan fund.

— An encouraging report on the village labor situation comes this week from the Ford factory where 30 men were called back to work, giving work to many of them for the first time in months.

The Ford office asserts that they are gradually able to step up production. At the present time, 250 men are working, making two full shifts.

— The gay Christmas season will be heralded this afternoon when several hundred children of Northville and neighboring communities are the guests of local businessmen and the Penniman-Allen management at the second annual theatre party for kiddies.

— Following the custom of previous years, a number of homes in the village were made festive Thanksgiving Day by fruit and dinner baskets supplied by the King's Daughters to families who otherwise would have had to let the holiday pass unnoticed.

Art Around Us

By Jessie Hudson

Art is indeed all around us. New shows in regular display places and special shows up for Christmas sales.

One such regular exhibit which has been changed is at the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth. The work shown is, as usual, by members of the Three-Cities Art Club. This one features watercolors by Jessie Latter, oils and a portrait drawing by Mina Gardner, some fine abstracts by new member Wayne Huber, three large paintings by me, Jessie Hudson some colorful watercolors by Franklin York and a couple of small ones by his daughter, Ann Gentry. A varied display which will remain up through the new year.

Also changed are the paintings at Northville's Public Library and also by members of the Three-Cities Art Club. This time the featured artist is Irene Wood of Livonia whose monochromatic or analogous cubist paintings are especially attractive. Gilbert Mitchell of Plymouth has a couple of conservative still life paintings also at this library.

The ubiquitous Three Cities Art club will have a Christmas sale of paintings, pots and jewelry in the former Linda Lee shop on Forest avenue. The Plymouth Hardware has graciously relinquished window and store space for this week so that the artists can display and sell their wares. The shop will be open afternoons and evenings from December 2 through December 7. Good chance to buy unique gifts.

Forsythe Gallery, Nickels Arcade, Ann Arbor — Christmas collection of specially priced objects of art by the gallery regulars. Hours — 10-4 weekdays, 10-1 Saturdays.

University of Michigan Museum of Art — to December 1 works of former Detroit Leon Dabo. Starting December 8 to January 12 Primitive Art — Hours 9-5 daily, Sunday 2-5.

Artists Market, Farnsworth, Detroit — Work of students from Wayne university Arts & Crafts, Cranbrook and U of M. Very interesting according to my reporter on the Detroit scene, Doug James.

Wayne State University student show now through the Christmas holidays. Always an exciting show this one should be especially good this year. The McGregor Community building is a treat to visit at any time.

Exchange Sets Dinner Dance

The annual dinner dance of the Northville Exchange club will be held on Saturday, December 14, officials announced this past week.

To be held at Hawthorne Valley Country Club, the social event will begin with dinner at 7 p.m. followed with dancing to the music of Thomas Houghton and his band.

Interested persons are asked to contact Hugh Godfrey at FI-9-1658. Reservations are available at $6 per person.

Northville Home Sought For 'Aunt Jennie' Portrait

A portrait of one of Northville's pioneering women is temporarily on display here — awaiting a new home.

On display at the public library, the large oil painting is of Mrs. Jennie White, known locally by oldtimers as "Aunt Jennie," daughter of Captain William Dunlap, one of the original settlers in Northville.

The portrait was painted in 1925 by Mildred Emerson Williams, now 71 and a resident in Birmingham.

According to George A. Dunlap of Huntington Woods, a great grandson of Captain Dunlap, Mrs. Williams is now in very ill health and mentally incompetent. Her painting of Mrs. White, along with other paintings, are being sold to help pay expenses for her care.

"Because the painting is to be sold, we thought the people of Northville ought to have the first opportunity to buy it. This was her home and she and her family played an important role in Northville's history."

Dunlap said the portrait, professionally valued at $500, will be sold to any resident or group of Northville for $300. Interested persons are asked to contact him at 10024 Vernon Avenue, Huntington Woods, or by telephoning 543-9258.

In recalling the history of the Dunlap family here, the Huntington Woods resident pointed out that Mrs. White lived to be 96 and was one of Northville's most beloved citizens.

He recalled that it was her second husband, Henry White, who as a lieutenant in the Union Army was an aide of General Grant during the Civil War.

"I remember them telling how General Grant sent Mr. White into a farmhouse to fetch the table on which the surrender of the Confederacy was signed."

Mrs. White, an aunt of George A. Dunlap and brother of his father, George, lived for quite some time on a farm located on West Baseline, he said.

"She and my father, children of Captain Dunlap, were born in the building that is now the American Legion Home. The building was not bricked in those days, and it was facing the other direction — Center street I think."

One of the interesting stories recalled by Dunlap concerning the old homestead involved Emmet Dunlap, another son of Captain Dunlap.

"He was sort of the black-sheep of the family but very colorful. After trying his luck during the California gold rush, he returned to Northville. To announce his arrival, he rode his horse right through the front door and out the back. Later, he settled down in Montana."

"Interestingly, one of the characters in Owen Wister's famous book, The Virginian, is based upon the Emmet Dunlap's experiences. One part of the book dealing directly with something out of Emmet's life is the part telling about changing the babies."

According to early history accounts, William Dunlap scouted the area for a home site in 1825. He may have made this initial trip with William Yerkes and Thomas Pinkerton, who also searched for suitable Michigan property.

Unlike the other two men, however, Dunlap did not return until the spring of 1831. With him came his family and several friends, including Robert Purdy, Samuel Blackwood, Peter Larkins, Lewis McCormick and David Clarkston.

Upon reaching the Northville settlement, Dunlap purchased the 180 acres owned by John Miller, including his grist mill. It is Miller who is credited with being the first resident of the Northville area.

In 1832, the first plat of Northville was made by Dunlap and officially recorded. His property included much of what is now the city of Northville.

Novi Highlights

Novi Boy Scouts
Troop No. 54 will have a campout on the Taftalian property in Fowlerville December 7. They will leave Saturday morning and return in time for dinner Sunday. The meeting will center around signaling and lashing.

A Green Bar meeting was held at the home of Mr. Parta Monday evening to make plans for the campout.

Novi Girl Scouts
All Girl Scout meetings were cancelled last week due to the national tragedy. Attention is called to the training course of Junior patrol leaders. The courses will be held on Saturdays from 9:30 to 12:00 January 11, 18, 25 at the Community center, 24366 10½ Mile road, Southfield. Registrations are open for junior scout training at Council headquarters LI 7-0616. Open until after Christmas.

A new group of junior scout girls was re-dedicated last week in Mrs. Skeltis' troop. Diana Ward is the troop consultant.

Blue Star Mothers
Novi Chapter 47, Blue Star Mothers met at the home of Mrs. Clyde Wyatt on Monday, this week.

Two new members were initiated, Mrs. Lois Lehner by transfer from St. Louis, Michigan and Mrs. Florence Wyatt is a new associate member.

The following officers were elected: president, Eileen Webb; vice president, Ruth Pritchard; 2nd vice president, Chloe Larang; secretary, Laney Henderson; treasurer, Gerlie Lee. Appointed officers: Olive Clappison, hospital chairman; Lottie Race, community service chairman; Carolyn McCollum, chaplain; Ethel Smith, patriotic instructor; Marie LaFond, historian.

Those scheduled for shopping Thursday December 12 are Mesdames Clappison, Pritchard, Mandlik, Miller and Webb.

The January meeting and installation of officers will be held at the home of Mrs. Marie LaFond on Twelve Mile Rd. Monday, January 6, 1964.

Here's why you'll tell other people you like it.

Wide-Track, for instance. Wide-Track is what does away with tilting your way around turns. Pontiac's smoother, quieter ride is another thing you might point out. A big 389-cubic-inch Trophy V-8 is standard in each and every Pontiac. You get to choose from 34 engine/transmission teams to harness all that power. (Happy choosing!)

Now then—on to more of the things that make the '64 Pontiac so thoroughly likeable. Frankly, we couldn't think of anything radical to do with this car. Oh, we made the styling even more stylish, as you can plainly see. We lavished even more care on the interiors. We even improved the light bulbs. But as for more vital things, why change? Improve, refine, sharpen—yes. Change—no. And you can tell that to your friends.

CAP to Sell Candy

Cocanut almond and mint candy will go on sale tomorrow (Friday) as part of the annual project of the Northville squadron of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP).

CAP cadets will begin selling with the dismissal of school on Friday.

Although the CAP is an auxiliary of the United States Air Force, it is a completely self-supporting agency. The local sale of candy is the squadron's only source of funds.

The candy sale, explained C.W.O. Anna Jean Parmenter, "is our only means of securing money needed for maintenance and repair of our aircraft, the L-16 which we use for search and rescue missions."

Lt. Andrew Orphan of Northville recently flew the aircraft in a search over Lake Erie for a downed plane in which several men were lost.

"So let's not let the cadets down. Be sure to buy some of our delicious candy. You can treat yourself and also help our CAP Group 10, which in turn helps us all," she said.

County 'Y' Magic Mart to Begin

The Western Wayne County YWCA will hold its annual Magic Mart on Friday and Saturday December 6 and 7 from 10:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. at the association building, 1034 Monroe in Dearborn.

Mrs. David Vincent of 584 Reed avenue, Northville, is general chairman of this combined Christmas Fair and rummage sale.

Booths at the fair include a Yule Shop, Knick-Knack Shop, Import Shop, Jewelry Shop, Americana Shop, Children's Shop, Kiddies Korner, Pantry Shop, and Next-to-New Shop. Luncheon and dinner will be available on both days at the Buffet Booth.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Township Supervisor R. D. Merriam recently supplied me with a resolution passed by the Wayne county board of supervisors which points up the difficulty of providing police protection for out-county areas.

Specifically, the resolution (after noting financial conditions, manpower shortages and necessity for concentrating attention on at-large police services benefitting the county as a whole) resolves that:

"all communities in Wayne county can expect little, if any, 'local' police services from the Wayne county sheriff" . . . and that "each local community which considers its present police protection inadequate should immediately develop a program for providing its own local police protection" . . . and that a formula will be sought which will permit the board of supervisors to determine which local communities, if any, are to receive some 'local' police service from the sheriff . . . "provided it has been demonstrated that the local community has exhausted all possible financing methods, including extra voted millage, and is still unable to provide adequate police service."

I am not aware that the need for police service in Northville township is critical, but if it is not, it is only because demand is not yet sufficient. Residents know that police attention, when needed, is slow.

This is best pointed up by the fact that many auto accidents occurring in the township are covered by Northville city police, who stand by until a sheriff's car arrives. Many times, state police aid is more readily available.

By its very nature, police assistance is extremely important whenever needed. Thus it becomes difficult for one to determine what might be considered adequate service.

Supervisor Merriam is well aware of the problem. He also knows the cost of providing full-time township police. He estimates an annual expenditure of between $50,000 and $75,000.

It's possible that this cost could be cut in half by working out an arrangement with the city of Northville whereby its department could be expanded to cover the township.

But even under the latter plan, township residents would have to agree to pay additional millage.

For the present Supervisor Merriam has been assured service by the sheriff's department at the same level as in the past. But the future seems dim.

It would appear that township taxpayers must ultimately decide upon a course to follow.

Louis Schultdt, director of community relations at Northville State Hospital, notes that each Christmas season there are many individuals and groups interested in remembering patients who might otherwise be forgotten by relatives and friends.

Through a call to the community relations department — FI-9-1800 — a prospective donor can obtain directions and a specific patient's request for Christmas. These are usually three choices by the patient, ranging from $1.50 to $2.00 in cost.

The hospital also has a Christmas fund which permits volunteers to purchase general gifts for distribution on Christmas day, when despite best efforts to provide for all patients, it is discovered some have received no gifts.

Northville's other institutions — Maybury Sanatorium, Plymouth State Home, Wayne County Training School — have similar needs and I am sure would welcome contributions.

Highway Fund Haggling Begins

Lansing — Michigan's Highway Department has been the object of criticism in the State Legislature periodically during the last several years, at least partly because of its financial independence.

Almost all of the Department's monies come from earmarked gas and weight taxes and federal funds. It relies only slightly on the Legislature for money.

The department also is one of the largest of state agencies. This also is a factor in the Legislature's criticism.

Under the new Constitution

such funds will no longer be specifically earmarked, except to the extent that certain monies are designated for use "for highway purposes."

The definition of highway purposes, however, will come from the Legislature. State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie and others concerned in the roadbuilding industry have expressed strong concern about this power given the Legislature.

Mackie recently made an announcement which is likely to turn the tables on him.

One of the suggestions made in the Legislature last year was that state police highway patrols be paid for out of highway funds. Other suggestions included using highway monies for safety and driver education programs.

Mackie disliked these suggestions, but now has announced that between $1 million and $1.5 million will be used annually for a "freeway service patrol."

Under department plans the patrol would assist motorists who become stranded on freeways, thus taking the burden of services off police patrols.

These services would include changing tires, providing gasoline and starting stalled cars.

The barrage of criticism expected in the Legislature has already started. Rep. Russell H. Strange, R-Clare, termed the announcement as "a classic example of how a governmental agency can thumb its nose at Michigan taxpayers by flagrantly violating a law which prohibits the establishment of any new spending programs without expressed legislative approval.

Strange also took a slap at the department's construction of tourist information centers and rest areas as actions outside its jurisdiction.

The Clare Republican's remarks more than likely are just the beginning of many more to come.

Michigan citizens would be the last to question whether they pay their fair share of federal taxes, but for anyone who might have any doubts, records clearly indicate they do.

Federal tax collections jumped over the $10 billion mark for the first time last year. This included individual income taxes, which soared to almost $53 billion; corporation taxes, which jumped to $22.3 billion; and excise taxes, which accounted for $15 billion.

In the categories of individual and business levies, a Commerce Clearing House report highest among six states which forked over more than half the total federal tax bill.

Michigan citizens and business concerns contributed $8.2 billion into the collections from six states which totaled $57.7 billion. Other states in this group were New York, California, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Michigan Week is an annual, but unusual event. It is planned for nearly 11 months and three weeks; finally carried out in the remaining week of the year.

The 1964 observance is set for May 17-23. Its theme will be, "Michigan, Great in Resources and Opportunities."

Gov. George Romney is honorary chairman of the annual brag week next year. He notes the future for Michigan is good.

"Michigan is at the threshold of the brightest era in its history," Romney said recently in announcing the official theme for the 1964 observance.

A Plea for Tolerance

BABSON PARK, Mass. — The appalling explosion of personal hatreds that recently shocked Dallas, the nation, and the world has set me — to thinking of how we can help change the atmosphere that could produce such a chain-reaction of murder and vengeance.

It has been said by some usually sound thinkers that we are all to blame to some extent for the climate that breeds such violence. I agree with this.

But, how do we start to clear the air of this poison? What, exactly, do we do first? It seems to me that the very first step is self-appraisal, an objective and immediate analysis of our social, moral, ethical, and religious attitudes and standards. If we would have the atmosphere of America healthy, adaptable, and conducive to friendly relations, each one of us must make our personal contribution.

Tolerance and understanding must start at home, — inside each of us.

Since the fabric of our moral lives depends upon our religious faith and convictions, our first consideration must be our church and our relation to it. I have long urged people to make their church their second home, a place exactly as important in the development of themselves and their children as is their family home. Anybody who thinks of his church simply as a refuge during times of trial is not truly religious. For many years I have warned that only through a spiritual rebirth can the pitfalls of our world be avoided. Again I say — support your church!

One's church — regardless of the denomination — is always ready to serve as a guide and a support in times of confusion and strife. Spiritual advisers are trained to help rid us of misunderstanding, which is the cause of a great part of our trouble. Misunderstanding, I am convinced, is the worst offender in breeding disagreement and ill will between individuals and between nations. How do we go about reducing — and perhaps eventually eliminating — misunderstanding?

I have felt for a great many years that openmindedness is essential for the creation of a world of friendship and peace. Without this, there are bound to be bitter conflicts between family members, political groups, churches, nations. We must think always of how something looks from another's point of view. We must know the real facts — and all the facts — before we can form an opinion.

Since it is usually impossible for us to know the exact facts we must remain always tolerant and adaptable. Our minds must be open at all times.

You will find that any man who keeps his mind closed against the viewpoints and opinions of all others turns into a kind of machine, with the little that he does know churning endlessly about inside him. He is caught in the trap of his own mind, and he will always believe exactly what he now believes, whether it is right or wrong. With such a person, there can be no desire to learn, to uncover the errors that may be coloring his opinions.

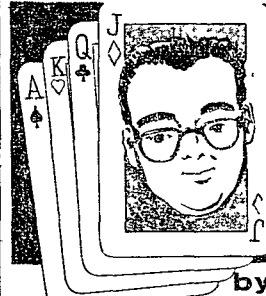

When such intolerance and misunderstanding extend to great groups of people, even whole nations, we are heading toward Armageddon. In a terrible way, it may be fortunate for us that the Dallas catastrophe came in time for us to reappraise ourselves, our country, and the far nations of the earth.

Even the least of us — if he has his mind open — must see that we are hearing a trumpet of warning, a call to do away with half-truths, intemperance, vicious judgments of others.

Now that we live in One

World, made small by instantaneous communications and speed-of-sound transportation, it is time — more than ever before in history — for a spiritual reawakening. It must begin in each one of us, and gain strength enough to move out into the world — even behind the Iron Curtain — and reestablish moral values. We have said too little about this lately; so let the tragedy of Dallas give us new spiritual confidence, new moral strength, new quality of action.

Top of the Deck

by JACK W. HOFFMAN

There's a science to eating I'm told and apparently too many of us are not aware of it or intelligently enough equipped to fathom this age-old art.

Take for instance the ordinary pumpkin pie that a good many of us tackled on Thursday. For most of us it's just a matter of swinging with our right (or left as the case may be) and a swift scoop, and the first forkful is sliding down the trough to our stomachs.

Absolutely not say the experts. Our technique is a sign of immaturity — an uncouth performance.

The correct way to eat pumpkin pie requires patience, a carefully planned attack, and then a delicate maneuver. Only those who really want to get the most out of the pie should attempt it.

First of all, say the experts, the pie must be cut into the proper size wedges. The thinner the wedge the better. Wide wedges spoil the taste. And, of course, all cutting must be done at the table and not out of sight of the eater. Grasp the pie tin with the left hand, and with the knife held firmly in the right, slice the pie into two halves with a swift but delicate motion from top to bottom. Never start the cut at the center and, above all, don't saw the pie. Continue this operation until it has been properly dissected.

Remove the wedges with a thin, narrow instrument making sure that each wedge is lifted out perpendicular to the tin. A good, steady hand is essential to avoid cracks and deep fissures while removing the pie from the tin and placing it on the plate.

A cleanly cut wedge properly removed and placed on the plate ensures the eater a perfect start. Only he can botch it up at this point.

The educated eater will not launch his attack as soon as the pie is placed before him. He will study it for two or three minutes, inspecting it carefully to observe its texture and content. In this way he can plan his next step while enjoying the taste without really demolishing its shape.

Now comes the real test of a mature eater. Recognizing that the apex of the pie is the sweetest, he will turn the pie so that its crust faces him, thus saving the most succulent bite until last. Immature eaters, I'm told, attack the apex first.

The eater who starts at the center of his wedge is either unsure of himself or he's a coward. It's a dead giveaway.

His appetite sufficiently whetted by diligent study, the educated eater will now begin his offensive. The only weapon needed is the four-pronged fork. Three and five pronged forks are taboo.

A little sawing action with the fork, is permissible so long as it is done slowly without damaging the pie or the crust. Do not tear the pie apart. Gentleness is a good sign.

The elbow should be parallel with the table and the arc of the hand perpendicular to the wedge.

Mature eaters will pause briefly before actually placing each bite into the mouth, thus teasing and whipping the taste buds into a frenzied ecstasy.

Finally, place each bite far into the mouth, making sure that the aperture is sufficiently large to avoid scraping collisions. Remove the bite with the roof of the mouth and the lips; never scrape it off by biting down on the fork.

Chewing pumpkin pie is unnecessary but permissible. Well prepared pumpkin pie — the kind mother use to make — will dissolve in the mouth with vigorous tongue action.

While the experts may recommend the correct procedure for eating pumpkin pie, I can't believe they would actually practice their techniques — particularly when my family gets together for Thanksgiving dinner. With so many uneducated eaters around, the mature eater probably would be studying his next move when his illiterates have begun working on our second and third helpings.

THE WORD'S GETTING AROUND!

I'm the Commander of the Michigan American Legion. And each year they furnish me with a new car of my choice. I looked around real good at Olds, Pontiac, Ford, and Chevy. I chose a '64 Dodge Polara, a 4-door sedan. The looks are really something, inside and out. The performance? Exceptional. And my local Dodge Dealer gave me a deal that was just too good to pass up . . . even though it wasn't my money!"

Oscar Hammond, Northville, new owner of a '64 Dodge Polara 4-Door Sedan

"You might say I'm one of The Dodge Girls!"

I'm really sold on Dodge. Particularly the new Dart GT. In fact, I've never felt so much at home in a car before. I used to trade-in for a new car every year, but this one — this one I want to keep."

Ann Marie Allard, East Detroit, new owner of a '64 compact Dart GT

"I didn't believe all that jazz about Dodge not costing any more than low-priced cars. I thought it was a come-on, because to me Dodge has always been a medium-priced car. It sure looks it. And acts it. What a pleasant surprise I got when I saw The Dodge Boys! My new Dodge actually cost less than the other low-priced cars I looked at."

Stanley F. Nemshick, Warren, new owner of a '64 Dodge Polara 4-door Sedan

From Wayne to Oakland to Macomb County, the word's getting around that the deal is Dodge! Result is, we're off and running to another sales smashing year. And we have some real fine automobiles and down-to-earth dealing to thank for it. Most of all, our hats are off to you, neighbor. You started us off with lots of zip, so The Dodge Boys are thanking you.
