Annual March of Dimes Drive Starts

Mothers March Highlights Effort

A host of exciting projects, ranging from the traditional Mothers March to an "ugly man contest," will highlight Northville's annual March of Dimes campaign.

With its January drive the National Foundation -- March of Dimes marks its 26th anniversary.

According to Charles Parton, general chairman of the campaign, fund-raising activities this year will include:

- A benefit basketball game slated for next Wednesday evening, beginning at 7 p.m., with Robert Prom as chairman;
- Bowling tournament at Northville Lanes;
- Peanut sale during the second week in January, with Eugene Quay as chairman;
- Northville high school dance, sponsored by the Student Council;

- An ugly man contest, with Parton serving as chairman;
- An ugly man dance, with John McCollum as chairman;
- Tavern's Contest, with McCollum as chairman.

As usual, the biggest fund raising event of the month-long March of Dimes campaign will be the Mothers March, which is slated to take place on Wednesday, January 15.

Directing the Mothers March will be Mrs. Lorne Dyer. Mrs. Dyer, who urged mothers to "say yes" when they are asked to march, announced that a coffee hour will be held at her home for Mothers March captains on Thursday, January 9 at 10 a.m.

Serving as March of Dimes treasurer will be Mrs. Charles MacDonald.

Details of the other activities will be announced later. In discussing the campaign, Parton pointed out that more than $100,000 was spent in the Wayne county area on patient care last year.

Even though the March of Dimes is responsible for erasing polio as one of the major diseases afflicting citizens of this county, he noted that last year more than $18,000 was spent on nine patients confined to their homes in iron lungs.

March of Dimes funds sponsored research leading to development of polio vaccines, and are now sponsoring research to help the thousands of children who are disabled each year with arthritis or birth defects.

Christmas Eve Car Crash Kills Man Here

One motorist was killed and another seriously injured in a head-on collision near the Wayne County Training school on Christmas Eve.

Dead on arrival at Wayne County General hospital was John F. Hydon, 26, of Detroit.

Reported in "fair condition" at the same hospital last week was Donald L. Neuman, 33, of Ypsilanti, who recently was appointed an assistant manager of the Northville office of Manufacturers National Bank.

Neuman suffered multiple fractures, severe cuts and bruises, and possible internal injuries, hospital personnel said.

According to the Wayne county sheriff's department, which policed the accident, Hydon was driving north on Sheldon road at a rapid speed when his car crossed over the center line and crashed head-on into Neuman's car headed in the opposite direction.

Deputy sheriffs said Hydon probably was speeding, causing him to lose control of his car.

The accident took place just north of Wayne County Training School about 5:30 p.m.

Neuman, who recently replaced William Keith who has been appointed manager of another Manufacturers office, was on his way home from work here when the accident occurred.

He lives with his wife and three children in Ypsilanti. Previous to working here, he served as an administrative assistant at the Bank's Telegraph-Sheridan office in Dearborn and at its Melvindale office.

Skate Rink To Open

The city's new skating rink behind the Cady street Scout-Recreation building was scheduled to be ready for business today.

Public works department employees were flooding the 50 x 150 foot rink early this week.

Stork Race Underway

There's still four days left for proud new parents to enter the annual Record-News "first baby" contest.

Parents must report the birth — if they believe their baby may be the first born here in 1964 — no later than noon on Monday, January 6.

Rules for entry in the contest are simple. There's absolutely nothing to buy. To qualify you must be a resident of either Northville or Novi mailing address.

It's necessary, of course, that your newly born baby is the first born in 1964 and that you report the birth to this newspaper by the deadline.

The winning baby and her parents will be awarded a host of prizes from nearly a dozen local merchants. They and their gifts are:

Brader's Department Store, baby blanket; Northville Drug Co., baby toiletry kit;

H. R. Noder's Jewelry, baby cup; D & C Store, diaper bag; The Little People Shoppe, gift certificate; E.M.B. Food Market, 24 cans of baby food; Cloverdale Farms Dairy, one month supply of milk; Del's Shoes, pair of baby shoes; and Novi Rexall Drug, Playtex nurse kit.

Last year's first baby, Sherry Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Folsom of Willowbrook subdivision, didn't arrive until January 4. But even so, the six pound, seven ounce bundle arrived soon enough to claim the title and the prizes.

Since the first contest in 1957, the "earliest" first baby was Danny Rolph, born to Mr. and Mrs. George Rolph of Novi road at 1:50 a.m. January 1, 1960.

To date, the girls are leading the boys, 5-2.

City Replies To Firemen

Northville's city council met in special session Monday night to prepare a reply to a protest levied by fire department personnel against unification of the police and fire departments.

The council termed the protest the result of "gross misunderstanding" and proposed a second meeting between the council and firemen.

Specifically, the council directed its reply to five points raised by the firemen which the 14 department members said "should be fully observed, and acted upon by January 15. These points were:

(1) We are not interested in the integration of the fire and police departments.

The council noted that under the charter it is responsible for the safety of its citizens. It believes the long-range plan to train policemen in fire fighting techniques and thus create a "public safety officer" is in the best public interests.

(2) We want to be under our own chief or officers at any fire.

The council noted that this has not changed. Fire Chief William McGee is in charge at all fires. In case of his absence the fireman who is second in command takes over.

(3) The voting upon and acceptance by our department on any new applicants.

Here again the council pointed to its responsibility as stipulated in the eight-year-old city charter. It noted that the fire department is a full-fledged department just like the police or public works. It is not a "volunteer" organization, but a part-time paid department. The council further noted the rules and regulations of the fire department adopted and posted more than a year ago. These regulations stipulate that "membership in the department may be obtained only upon the recommendation of the chief of the department and the appointment by the city manager."

(4) The right to elect our own chief subject to your approval.

The council points out that under the charter this is a council responsibility, just as in the case of the police or public works departments. It expressed willingness, however, to seek department advice on selection of firemen and the chief.

(5) A closer relationship with the Mutual Aid Firemen's Association.

The council praised this suggestion and promised cooperation.

Council Grants Easement For Detroit Water Line

An easement to bring a 30-inch water line into Northville along the old Baseline road to Center street was granted to the city of Detroit water board by the Northville city council last week.

But the resolution stipulated that this was not to be interpreted as a commitment for easement rights beyond the Center-Baseline intersection.

Detroit presently has the 30-inch line installed on Eight Mile road as far west as Meadowbrook. Federal funds have been allocated and the contract awarded for extension of the line to Center street.

Construction of the line to Center and Baseline is expected to be completed during January and February.

As its next step the Detroit plan calls for extending a 24-inch line southward along Center street (Sheldon road) to Five Mile road. This would follow immediately upon completion of the installation at Baseline and Center.

City Attorney Philip Ogilvie advised the council that a state statute requires that easement rights must be obtained before utility lines may be installed through city boundaries. Because Center is a county road, there had been some question as to whether or not the Detroit water board needed local permission to install its lines.

Detroit has taken the position that the Center street route through the city is the best possible path for the line to follow. Detroit engineers say that other routes present soil problems, removal of houses and elevation problems. They also assured the Northville council that installation could be completed rapidly with a minimum of disruption in the business district. Engineers estimated about two weeks' work per block.

Northville council members still prefer to examine other possible routes. They admit satisfaction with the location of the 30-inch main at Center and Baseline, a handy site for possible future connection to the city's water tower.

But many questions still remain in councilmembers' minds concerning possible purchase of Detroit water. And Mayor A. M. Allen asked that each councilman submit questions to the city manager for answers at another proposed meeting with the Detroit water board.

In granting the easement along Baseline the council set forth conditions that included a cash deposit for day-to-day repairs in addition to the performance bond, a time limit and a guarantee that the road will be returned to good condition.

Novi Sewer Line Heading This Way

Officials optimistically predicted this week that construction of Novi's first trunkline sewer system will get underway this month or early next.

Predictions were pegged on recent approval by the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission of $1,510,000 worth of sewage disposal bonds.

Ink on the approval communication had hardly dried when the county department of public works immediately served notice that bids will be accepted until January 7 (Tuesday) for purchase of the bonds.

"We were fairly sure the commission would approve the increased bond issue, but we were still pretty pleased when official approval came through," said Harold Ackley, village administrator.

The procedure ought to sail smoothly with little opposition, Ackley said. He noted that if the entire project was scrapped, the village would be left with a $300,000 hole in its budget.

Increased bond issue is approved, all easements have been secured, and chances are we'll get a favorable interest rate on sale of the bonds."

Originally, county engineers had estimated the cost at $1,390,000. But with the opening of construction bids, the actual cost climbed above the estimate by $120,000.

The increase forced local and county officials to ask the Municipal Finance Commission for approval of the higher bonding figure.

Actually, the county and Novi had five alternative solutions including:

Scrapping the bids and re-advertising for new ones; charging the additional cost to developers who spearheaded the initial drive for sewers; raising tap fees to cover the additional cost; spread 2 mills over the entire community for 15 years; or forget the project altogether.

County officials advised against rebidding because they feared new bids probably would run still higher. Furthermore, they noted that if the entire project was scrapped, the village would be left with a $300,000 hole in its budget.

natives, it was decided that an increase in tap fees would be the most equitable solution. Ackley estimated that tap fees would be increased from the original estimate of $435 to $521.

Assuming that the village and township of Novi would approve the larger bonding issue, the county requested approval from the Municipal Finance Commission. Subsequently, both the village and the township affixed their approval to the request.

In discussing the tap fee proposal, Ackley has emphasized that the increased $521 figure is still lower than or equal to similar charges in neighboring communities.

County plans call for the trunkline sewer to travel north through Northville, generally following the route of the Rouge River, crossing Seven Mile west of Northville road and Main street near the Ford plant. It will angle across the Ford parking lot and end at the Northville Lumber company property, a city well on the side of the Rouge River.

OFFICIAL FAREWELL — Mayor A. M. Allen (left), who was the last mayor to serve in the old city hall, and Elmer Smith, first village president to preside in the building, watch as the building was torn down last summer.

These Events Made Area News in 1963

JANUARY

NORTHVILLE ... With the township primary little more than one month away, political activity gained momentum throughout the community as township Republicans announced a "meet the candidates night." City Councilman Richard Juday announced he would not be a candidate for re-election, while William H. Gley, a council candidate in 1961, took out nominating papers.

VILLAGE ... Village Attorney Howard Bond outlined the terms of a water agreement with Willowbrook subdivision developer Paul St. (who died later in the year) which was to be taken to the state board of health. Negotiations for purchase of water system by the village were still underway with the end of 1963.

PRELIMINARY ... Preliminary plans for a $1.3 million junior-senior high school on the Novi school system's 80-acre secondary site at 11 Mile were presented to the school board.

CHARGE ... James G. Gostlin was ordered to stand trial on a charge of ordering a Novi girl after beating her father and mother.

ADVERTISE ... Advertise for bids on soil borings; contact a legal advisor to outline bonding procedure for sewer project.

FEBRUARY

NORTHVILLE ... Newest on the growing list of candidates for the city council was Ed Welch, a former city councilman with a long record of participation in community affairs.

TOWNSHIP ... Northville township Republicans decided that R. D. Merriam and Wilson D. Tyler would be their candidates for supervisor and trustee at the spring election by nominating the men at the primary.

POSTMASTER ... Arthur H. Schnute, assistant postmaster and employee of Northville post office for 40 years, died suddenly at his home at the age of 58.

APPROVAL ... Northville won approval of its $137,000 in application for charging federal government funds to construct a new city hall and public library.

NOVI ... Novi's board of education voted to ask school district voters to renew 2½ mills of operating property tax millage in a special election on April 1.

SEARCH ... With one Oakland county "sniper" in custody, police continued to comb the area in search of the "other sniper" who was a Novi housewife.

LIBRARY ... The library board of directors successfully petitioned the township board to add a two-pronged resolution to the April election. The resolution, if passed, would give the township authority to establish a library and to levy a half mill tax to support the library.

WIXOM ... F. Brooks of 29230 Beck road, 51, former Wixom resident, died suddenly. A resident of Wixom for 18 years, he was the city's mayor from 1900 to 1962.

DISCONNECT ... A note was opened when the Wixom council learned that a note was again attempting to disconnect his service from the city.

MARCH

JOHN JAYCEES ... Bonds were completed for purchase of a 122 North Main house to serve as Northville's temporary city hall during construction of the new city hall - library facility. A saddle of 25 mile an hour winds, South Lyon Jaycees rode to Northville to claim a distance victory in the annual "Jaycees" race.

VALLEY ... Valley community hospital association kicked off a million hospital fund drive in Novi with a noon service at the community building. The estimated cost of Novi's hookup with the Middlesex sewer system was raised $30,000.

Harley Cole Hurt in Fire

Harley Cole, Northville contractor who was seriously burned in a flash fire the day before Christmas, is reported in fairly good condition at his home, 248 South Center.

He was released from St. Mary hospital on Saturday where he was treated for second degree burns on his right arm, shoulder and side and on his left arm.

According to D. J. Stark, Cole — who is a brother-in-law — was helping to remodel the home into which the Starks plan to move at 840 Scott.

A spark from an extension cord apparently touched off the paste used for gluing down the formica counter top on which he was working.

Cole slipped and fell into the burning paste which had exploded and fallen to the floor. He ran from the house and threw himself into the snow to extinguish the flames. Meanwhile, Stark telephoned for the fire department.

Although he was painfully burned, Cole returned to the house and helped put out the kitchen fire by smothering it with snow before leaving for the doctor's office.

Cole was treated first by a local physician and then taken to the hospital.

They're Engaged

Announcement was made this week of the engagement of Cheryl Ann Handley, daughter of Mrs. William Erwin Handley and the late Mr. Handley, to Mr. Dennis John Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Frederick Boyd of Lakeland.

The wedding has been set for February 8 in Mariner's Church, Detroit.

Miss Handley lives with her mother at 504 Reed street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Christensen of Madison, New Jersey have announced the engagement of their daughter, Karen

Around Northville

Louise, to Roger W. Cheeseman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Cheeseman of Novi. The wedding is planned for April.

Miss Christensen attended Bradford Junior College and is at present attending Michigan State University, from which she will graduate in March.

Mr. Cheeseman, a graduate of Northville high school will also receive his Bachelor's Degree from Michigan State in March.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jerome of Dubuque street spent Christmas Day with their daughter and family, the Rev. Richard Hookers of Kalamazoo.

Shortly after their return on Christmas night, they received a Christmas telephone call from their son, Gerald L. Jerome, S.A., who is stationed on board the destroyer USS Robert L. Wilson (D.D. 847) out of Norfolk, Virginia.

Arriving and departing via airplane for the Christmas holiday at the D. J. Starks were Mr. and Mrs. John Stark and son; Mr. and Mrs. David Hazlett (Ellen Stark) and four children; and Mrs. Harry Shafer, all of Florida. Another welcomed guest was Mrs. Mary Cole of Pontiac, mother of Mrs. Shafer and Mrs. Stark.

The Harry Smiths moved into their new home on Orchard drive just in time to welcome home daughter Joan and son Bob Stuber, from Central Michigan university, and daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Hara and their three children from Louisville, Kentucky.

On Christmas Day they were joined by their mothers, Mrs. Bessie Smith and Mrs. Louella Gillen, and son Roger and wife. Except for Dick Stuber, who is in the Philippine Islands, the family circle was complete.

College youngsters home for the holidays enjoyed a progressive dinner party sponsored by the deacons of the First Presbyterian church last Friday evening. The evening began at the church, then dinner at the George Weiss home and dessert at the Crispin Hammonds. Entertainment at the Hammonds' residence included skating and sliding. Sunday evening the junior youth fellowship group of the church were guests at the Hammond home for more winter sports' fun. Dr. and Mrs. Donald Karr were in charge.

The Bernard McIsaacs, 54181 West Eight Mile road, are looking forward to a two-week visit from their daughter, Peggy, now stationed at the U.S. Naval hospital in Jacksonville, Florida as a Wave. She's expected home today or Friday.

Wilson - Juday Wed In Ann Arbor Ceremony

Mrs. William Juday

The First Baptist Church of Ann Arbor was the setting for the Monday, December 23 marriage of Janet Marie Wilson to William R. Juday.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wilson, 21634 Connemara drive, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Juday, 304 Lake street.

The altar of the church was decorated with a large bouquet of white mums with snapdragons. Red poinsettias banked both sides of the pulpit.

For the candlelight ceremony, the bride wore a floor-length sheath of silk taffeta and alencon lace with an overskirt fastening under a band at the waist and following into a six-foot train. Her pillbox hat was of alencon lace with an elbow-length veil. She carried a bouquet of variegated holly with three gardenias.

Mrs. Richard Reiter of Farmington was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Henry Bathey of Plymouth, Miss Mary Verlinde of Middleville, Mrs. Gwyn Galbraith of Chicago and Miss Madeline Magee of Wilmington, Delaware.

The matron of honor carried a bouquet of variegated holly and two orchids, and the bridesmaids carried variegated holly bouquets.

Floor length dresses of red Italian silk faille and sleeveless overblouses of red Italian velvet, complimented with red velvet pillboxes and three-quarter length white gloves were worn by all of her attendants.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Michael Janichick. Ushers were Steven and James Juday, brothers of the bridegroom, Bud Addis and David Nash.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wilson wore a forest green dress that included a fitted top of lace over slipper satin with an Italian silk faille bell skirt, complimented with beige lame accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a rose silk shantung suit, complimented with white accessories. Both mothers wore white rose bud corsages.

For her going away costume, the new Mrs. Juday chose a cranberry suit, topped by a cranberry mohair coat with black accessories.

The newlyweds will make their home in Nashville, Tennessee where Mr. Juday is entering his senior year at Vanderbilt university, majoring in mechanical engineering.

Mrs. Juday, who just recently was graduated from the University of Michigan where she was affiliated with the Chi Omega Sorority, majored in special education. She plans to teach in Nashville this coming semester.

In Our Town

By Jean Day

HAPPY NEW YEAR! Only hours ago this warm greeting was echoing over and over as the Northville area entered Leap Year 1964. We wish it now to all our readers.

The fast holiday-season pace isn't abating in January. It seems only yesterday the Northville Woman's club members entered Northville library for their December 20th Christmas tea — to find it brimming with green garlands, candles and lovely tea table arrangements created by Mrs. William Slattery, social chairman.

Club members will be in the library again tomorrow (Friday) to hear a lesser-known side of Henry Ford's life: His role in the movies. This is a guest day program.

MANY NEW YEAR'S EVE groups dined and returned to homes to await midnight Tuesday. One group gathered first at the George M. any home on Grassmere road for cocktails before dining at the Round Table in Plymouth. Included were the Donald Schwendemanns, Blake Couse, William Secords, Frederick Hartts and Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Yoder. The Hartts hosted the after-dinner party and breakfast at their Northville road home.

A group that New Year-ed together last year went to Ann Arbor for dinner before seeing 1964 at the Robert W. Bretz home on Dunsen road.

Mr. and Mrs. N. George Loeffler, of All drive, celebrated with members of their family and Village Green neighbors at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sterner, Jr. welcomed friends who came to their Beck road home for them after Tuesday evening church services.

BEFORE SNOW-WHITE CHRISTMAS memories fade, there are some carolling notes worth merit mention:

A vivid sight on Center and other in-town streets December 19 was carolling Girl Scout Troop 407. The girls weathered one of the coldest days of the season to sing to shut-ins. They were a bright sight in red capes, ALL made Co-leader Mrs. Richard Chadwick.

Wish-we-had-known: Richard Kay of TH apple lane shares the same December 19th birthday as the Rev. George Jerome. Mr. Jerome thought, and the Jeromes saluted the Grosse Pointe (and former Amerman) principal with carols the telephone.

Mothers Club to See Ford Historical Film

An historical film, taken from the famous collection of Henry Ford, will be presented here Friday afternoon during the guest day meeting of the Northville Women's Club.

Entitled "Henry Ford's Mirror of America," the film represents a small part of the 1,800,000 feet of historical film presented on November 18 to the National Archives of the United States.

The 36-minute documentary includes sequences of Americana from the period between 1914 to 1927. It was produced by the National Archives with the cooperation of Ford Motor company personnel.

Following 1914, Ford Motor company was one of the leading producers of films for 2,000 commercial theaters.

Art Around Us

By Jessie Hudson

The coming of the New Year brings thoughts of beginning again — and beginning again takes me back to the beginning of art again. A book I got for Christmas spurred this interest — it thoroughly examines primitive art — points out its basic sophistication, the universality of their symbols, and the beauty of their decorative design. This book however, is more than a history of primitive art — it creates the art of primeval man to art of today. It takes work by Paul Klee, for example, and relates it to early cave-painting. Fernand Leger, and fellow cubist, Georges Braque are also related to early art through their use of symbols and their seemingly naive compositions. A surprising connection is made between the solid animal forms drawn on the primordial caves and the solid animal and peasant forms of Marc Chagall, the Russian born German Expressionist.

Primitive art is enjoying a great vogue right now. It is being sought and bought by private collectors and by art museums. When originally found it was of major interest to archeological-historical museums but the intrinsic aesthetic appeal of this art gradually appealed to the eye of art connoisseurs. Picasso was an important influence in the popularity of primitive, especially African, art. Much of his work and his sculpture is founded in the origins of art.

An interesting exhibit loaned by the Archeo-historical department of the U. of M. and by several Ann Arbor collectors is now on view at the University of Michigan Art Museum in Ann Arbor. Composed mostly of wooden ceremonial masks it has a few examples of carved totems, woven reed masks with shells and some fetishes. Very interesting.

Also, and always, interesting are the paintings in the permanent collection being in the larger gallery. Usually a new accession or two are hung to add variety to the familiar favorites.

Of special interest to me was the downstairs exhibit of woodcuts by Kiyoshi Saito, Japanese artist who uses his own and untraditional approach to this ancient art. So meticulous is Mr. Saito that it sometimes takes him half a day to produce a single print.

In the Galleries:

Northville Library, Wing street, Northville. Works by 3 Cities members — mostly pleasant pastel cubistic paintings by Irene Wood.

Dunning-Hough Library, Plymouth — More 3-Cities work, Plymouth painters Wayne Huber, Jessie Latter, Franklyn York, Ann Gentry, Mina Yardmen and Jessie Hudson. Through January 15.

Hartley Powers, 116 E. Main. — The holiday exhibit continues until the end of the week. A special sale is planned for the early part of January. Prices really slashed. Hours 12-6 everyday, 12-9 Friday, 9-6 Saturday.

GRADUATES — Charles Hix, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hix of 114 Rayson, was graduated with honors in December from the University of Michigan. Hix, who several months ago was awarded a coveted first-place award in a creative writing contest at U-M, plans to enter the writing field in New York until September when he will enter Columbia University for graduate work in English.

DEADLINE

TUESDAY NOON

2-In Memoriam

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our neighbors for their immediate help and assistance at the time of the fire at our house.

Mr. & Mrs. D. J. Stark
We wish to thank our kind neighbors, friends, and relatives for expressions of sympathy, lovely floral offerings and other courtesies extended at the passing of our devoted husband and father.

The Family of
Frank DePodesta

I wish to thank all my friends and neighbors, Rev. Brasure and Orient Chapter 77 for cards and calls while I was in St. Mary hospital. Mrs. M. J. Mullop.

The family of Otto H. Lamp wishes to thank all who expressed their sympathy and helped during our recent bereavement.

I wish to thank the Rev. Reidel, the bearers, and those who gave such beautiful flowers at the death of my aunt, Maude Gready. Further thanks go to all who were so thoughtful and kind in many ways during the latter years of her life and her illness.

A NEW YEAR-1964

This is the time of year when we should all add up our assets and count our blessings. Some of these are spelled 'a$$es' and some are spelled 'assets'. The 'a$$es' of course, keep a roof over our heads but the other 'assets' of living in a free society and being able to seek happiness in our own way make life under that roof worthwhile.

This is the time of year for pledges. We're going to play safe by sticking to the ones we've made throughout the year. That is, we promise to sell used cars as good as honest reconditioning can make them at the lowest possible price and to spare no effort to help you get the maximum satisfaction out of your new car.

There are a few operators in our business who maintain that the honest approach in advertising doesn't pay. The only technique that works is to outsmart the public with gimmicks they say, and in so operating they encourage the public to attempt to outsmart the dealer. We're still going to go on disagreeing with that thinking.

We'd like to thank our many customers for the confidence they have shown in us by buying their car from us and letting us service it. We'll continue to try to deserve that confidence.

While some parts of our country may have temporary economic distress, the overall picture and future forecasts are very bright. We need only to work together to make them come true.

We wish a Happy New Year to you and yours.

Ex-Mustang Cager Finds Big Ten Fast

It's a tremendous leap from high school to Big Ten basketball, but Northville's Dan Brown has made the transition with plenty of hard work at the University of Michigan.

And his progress is even more amazing in view of the fact that this is only his sixth year of organized ball.

But Dan's capabilities were in evidence here when he led Northville to the semi-finals of the Michigan state basketball tournament in 1962, where the Mustangs lost out to a typical River Rouge power house.

As a member of Michigan's nationally ranked basketball team, Dan has been playing in the company of some top-notch talent.

It's basically a young team, headed by sophomore sensation Cazzie Russell, a six-foot-five, 218-pounder, who, according to Dan, has every move in the book. His size is no handicap, for Russell is one of the fastest men in the Big Ten.

Since Russell and most of the players will be back next year, there's no room for anyone who isn't willing to hustle. Dan fills Coach Dave Strack's must-work bill.

Although Dan did not make the recent trip to California to play in the Los Angeles Classic, he continued to work out at the Northville high school gym to keep in shape. In fact, he participated in the scrimmage with the varsity cagers.

And although Dan is not on the starting five, nor even in the top eight, he's proud to be playing for the Michigan squad.

"I realize that I might see more action with any other ball club, but this is the finest in the Big Ten and I've learned a lot," he noted.

Sage advice, which has especially helped Dan, came from the captain of last year's Michigan squad, Dick Cole, and Dan's been following it ever since.

To wit, "There's no sense in moving in this game unless you're prepared to move fast," Cole said.

"He meant that if you don't move fast, any slow move would be wasted motion," Dan explained. "You have to work to just get the ball in Big Ten play," he added.

A six-foot-five, 205-pound sophomore, Dan learned quickly that if he wasn't aggressive, there would be no place for him on the floor. "Against Western Michigan," he said, "I moved a man out from under the basket until he was out of bounds so I could get position."

"Be aggressive" is Dan's advice to any aspiring high school cage hopeful. He implied that it wins ball games.

The requirements for ball players who hope to play major college ball, however, are imposing. As outlined by Dan, they are size (although not required, it helps), aggressiveness, speed of foot, a lot of self confidence, and a well-developed shot.

For every hour spent on the court, Dan spends two studying his architecture and design courses.

After attending classes during the day, he practices during the hours of three to six. Then, it's normally 7:30 before Dan begins to study. Five to six hours later, he finally sleeps.

It's a grueling schedule, but one Dan's willing and anxious to follow to play ball.

Mustangs Host Milford As Cage Play Resumes

To start the New Year off right, Northville will have to outscrap an outfit from Milford which promises to shoot the works Friday night.

The game will begin 20 minutes after the end of the junior varsity tilt, which is scheduled to get underway here at 6:30.

Like Northville, the Redskins have a 2-3 season mark and are 2-2 in Wayne - Oakland conference play. Both clubs hope to push their W-O records above the 500 mark with a win Friday night.

Milford has beaten Clarenceville, 58-38, and Brighton, 54-38, while losing to undefeated Clarkston, 78-58, Bloomfield Hills, 65-54, and Highland Park, 75-50.

Northville and Milford, then, have played two common foes, Clarenceville and Bloomfield Hills. On this basis, the Redskins should be given the edge Friday night.

Where the Barons from Bloomfield Hills scalped Northville, Milford never trailed Bloomfield by more than four points until the last moments of play. Then the Redskins were pressing to cut the margin and Bloomfield capitalized on free throws to draw away.

And Milford thumped Clarenceville by 20 points, while the Mustangs just eked out a victory. If the Mustangs can run with the Redskins, however, they may walk off the floor the victor, for Northville will have a height advantage. No man on the Milford starting five measures over six feet.

Milford Coach Chuck Schroeder points out that inability to get rebounds has been his team's weakness. And although he has some boys over six feet, none has shown sufficient polish to earn a starting berth.

A five-foot eight-inch fire ball, Tim Barnes, is the Redskins key man. An all-league selection last year, Barnes shoots a lot from outside. He's toting a 15 point average.

Tallest regular on the Milford squad is Bill Allen, a six foot pivot man. "He's a good shot and our best rebounder," noted Schroeder. Allen is a letter winner from last year's team, although he saw limited action.

Handling the chores from the corner spots are Gary Newcomb and Jim Mendham. Both are approximately five feet ten inches, good outside shots and fine rebounders for their size. To compensate for lack of size, Coach Schroeder's charges will be scrapping for rebounds. He also indicates that the Redskins will press Northville whenever possible to get the quick bucket.

"We'll also try to bottle up Hahn (Lance Hahn, Northville's forward)," the Milford mentor said. "He looked pretty good against Bloomfield Hills."

He concedes that the game will be a toss up and that he expects to come away with victory number three.

Coach Dave Longridge is putting the Mustangs through their daily paces to get them into shape for the remainder of the W-O season. They scrimmaged against a group of Northville graduates last Thursday morning.

Included in the alumni lineup were Dan Brown, now playing with the University of Michigan varsity cagers; Craig Bell, an all-league choice on last year's team; Tom Swiss, another mainstay from last year's outfit; and Joe and Dave Hay, to mention a few.

VFW Auxiliary Enjoys Annual Christmas Social

On Wednesday evening, December 18, members and friends of the Ladies Auxiliary to V.F.W. Post 4012 of Northville held their annual Christmas social at Saratoga Farms. Dollar gifts were exchanged and a delicious meal was enjoyed by all.

Sunday afternoon, December 22, the V.F.W. Post hall on South Main was the scene of a Christmas party for the children. Party chairman, Pat Ash, arranged for entertainment which thoroughly delighted the children. Ricky The Clown was present as was that other famous gentleman, Santa Claus. After a program by Ricky, Santa passed stockings filled with fruit, nuts and candy. Refreshments were then served to all the children.

The Mustangs scrimmaged Detroit Thurston this morning at the high school. Thurston is a class A quintet.

Main problem plaguing Coach Dave Longridge has been the lack of a "take charge guy" who can direct the Mustang attack. "We're definitely having troubles getting our offense set up," Longridge noted, "and so I'm looking for a floor leader."

Cager of the Week

JERRY IMSLAND — This sophomore center shows improvement with every game. At 6' 2", he has been instrumental in Northville's two wins this year, grabbing off rebounds and getting the score when it counts. Coach Dave Longridge is high on Imsland, saying "he'll be a good one." Imsland has already demonstrated his ability to mix it up with the best of them in the Wayne-Oakland conference when he lettered as a football end this year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LuVerne Imsland of 19880 Fry road.

To all my friends . . . and those who will become friends and acquaintances "in the year . . . I wish a cordial and very happy holiday season.

Dan Brown

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Last week I talked with Superintendent of Schools Russell Amerman, Township Supervisor R. D. Merriam and Mayor A. M. Allen.

Meeting with them separately, I asked each "what's in store for '64?"

I was pleasantly surprised by what our superintendent of schools had to say. He chuckled the usual list of problems (but admitted that rapid growth in the elementary grades and finances under the new constitution will be of top concern to school administrators and board members).

Instead he talked about "drop-outs" and new techniques in education.

Fortunately, Northville is not presently plagued by the "drop-out" problem. But Amerman noted it is becoming a growing concern throughout the state and nation.

To cope with the problem, Amerman revealed a plan undertaken by the administrators of high schools within the community college district. It's a promising example of cooperation between the systems of Plymouth, Livonia, Garden City, Clarenceville, Northville and Schoolcraft college.

Although the plan is still very much in the embryo stage, Amerman explained that the college board of trustees has agreed to offer the facilities of the college as an area vocational center and accept students of all ages.

It's proposed that high schools in the district, like Northville, might send youngsters to the college for vocational training not available at the local high school. It is even suggested that there might be facilities in one high school not provided in another that would permit inter-exchange of students.

Basically, however, the idea is to establish an "institute" at the college available for high school students in the district who will not attend college and who may, instead of dropping out of high school, develop a skill to enable them to find employment . . . and to become productive citizens.

These youngsters would not leave their high school entirely. They would still have basic courses to complete their own district school and would be required to meet these requirements to receive a degree.

A sub-committee has already been organized to investigate the possibilities for district cooperation in this field. And according to Amerman, its future looks bright.

"These are changing times," observed the Northville superintendent. "Without a high school education, a youngster has little chance for employment."

Amerman concluded by noting that times are changing for the educators, too. And he pledged new emphasis on in-service training for teachers.

"A teacher can't get a degree and certificate and teach for 40 years, anymore," Amerman noted. "He must be alert and flexible to changes in his own field and he must be willing to take additional training on week ends, evenings and summers to keep abreast of these new techniques."

Supervisor Merriam and his board have problems to consider that usually accompany the "growing pains" of townships in the path of metropolitan expansion.

Water is one. Happily, the supervisor thinks that the major obstacles have been eliminated in providing a system for residents of Plymouth Gardens. Eighteen homeowners in the dry-well area in the southeast corner of the township should have Detroit water in the spring under a special assessment program now underway.

But a contract with the Detroit water board must still be settled. And the biggest stumbling block there, says Merriam, is the population projection. The township must guarantee an annual purchase of water from Detroit based upon predicted numbers of users.

And how many users there will be in 1980 is an estimate that may (in fact, does) produce far different sets of figures depending upon whether you're buying or selling.

Problem two, so far as the supervisor is concerned, is a proposed sewer on Seven Mile road between Marilyn and Northville road. Under the latest plan, the promoter of a convalescent home and small subdivision, and Sheldon Hayes, would advance $90,000 for installation of the sewer. Hayes has property along Seven Mile road which he plans to divide into building sites.

OBITUARIES

GEORGE KINGSCOTT, 86, of 10279 Nardin Park, Detroit, died suddenly Tuesday, December 24 at Riverbank Convalescent Home, Livonia. Born October 15, 1877 in England, he was preceded in death by his wife. His only survivor is a niece, Mrs. Marie Potapshyn of Taylor, Michigan. He was a horse trainer by trade. Funeral services were conducted Saturday, December 28 from Ebert Funeral Home with the Rev. Glenn Wegmeyer of Wayne officiating. Burial was in Rural Hill Cemetery.

JOHN BROEGMAN Funeral services were held Saturday at Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth for a former Northville resident, John Broegman, 64, of 7925 Sheldon road, Plymouth. Mr. Broegman died Christmas day at his home. He was born on December 22, 1899 in Livonia to John and Minnie Voss Broegman. Mr. Broegman is survived by his wife, Irene Leona Cooper Broegman; one step-daughter, Mrs. Charles McKenna of Al-Jen Park; three sisters, Mrs. Leonard Kimmel of Northville, Mrs. Merle Franklin of Fowerville, and Mrs. William Higgins of Highland; and two brothers, Frank of Plymouth and Ernest of Dearborn. He moved to Plymouth from Northville in 1932 and was employed at the Packaging Corporation of America. He was a member of IOOF No. 32 of Plymouth. The Reverend Donald Williams officiated at services. Interment was at Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens.

ELLA SOPHIA WATERMAN Mrs. Ella Sophia Waterman, 86, of 43333 Reservoir road, Plymouth, died December 30 at Eastlawn Sanatorium. Born December 15, 1887 in Northville township, she was the daughter of Henry and Ellen (Conners) Smith. Her husband, John, preceded her in death. Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Fred Gotts and Mrs. Harold Merithew of Northville; and three sons Howard of Northville, and Claude and Austin of Plymouth. Mrs. Waterman was born in the same home where she had lived all her life. She was a member of the Methodist church of Northville, Redford Pioneers club, and Waterford Get-together club. Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) from the Casterline funeral home at 2 p.m., with the Rev. S. D. Kinde of the Methodist Church of officiating.

Burial will be at Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens.

DAMON GEORGE Damon George of 48800 West Six Mile road died suddenly Sunday, December 29 at Ridge-wood Hospital in Ypsilanti. Born August 22, 1897 at Steimnja, Serbia, he was married 36 years ago on November 15. His wife, Oka, survives him. A veteran of World War I, he had lived on his Six Mile road farm since 1936. Other survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Mary Bertera of Wixom; a son, Milan George, of Northville; a brother, Milan George of Nashua, Iowa and three grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted yesterday, January 1 from Casterline Funeral Home with the Rev. Elwood Chipchase of the Salem Federated Church officiating. Burial was in Thayer Cemetery.

TIMOTHY R. VANOTTEN Timothy Richard VanOttten, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard VanOttten of 1003 Al-Jen Drive, died suddenly Tuesday, December 24 at Children's Hospital in Detroit, 24 days after his birth. Besides his parents, Richard and Lucelle (Mallette) VanOttten, he is survived by a sister, Suzanne; grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mallette and Mrs. Nellie Van Otten; great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mallette.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday, December 26 from Casterline Funeral Home, with the Rev. Father John Wittstock officiating. Burial was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

MARY ELLEN DIX Mrs. Mary Ellen Dix, 83, of 7290 South Salem road, Salem, died Tuesday, December 24 at her home.

Born June 17, 1880 in Wood County, Ohio, she was the daughter of Elzie Davis. She is survived by her husband, Oliver; son Chester of Salem; sister Mrs. Eva French of Mt. Pleasant; three grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Mrs. Dix, who lived on a Salem farm for the past 53 years, was a member of the Salem Federated Church serving in several lay capacities, including organist.

Funeral service was held at Salem Federated Church, with the Rev. Elwood Chipchase officiating. Arrangements were handled by the Casterline Funeral Home. Burial was in Highland Cemetery, Ypsilanti.

HALLELUIAS rang out as one of the highlights of the holiday season when the Northville community choir performed Handel's Messiah at the First Presbyterian church. It marked the 29th annual presentation of the traditional oratorio under the direction of Leslie Lee.

Doug Lorenz Takes Over Gunsell Drug Ownership

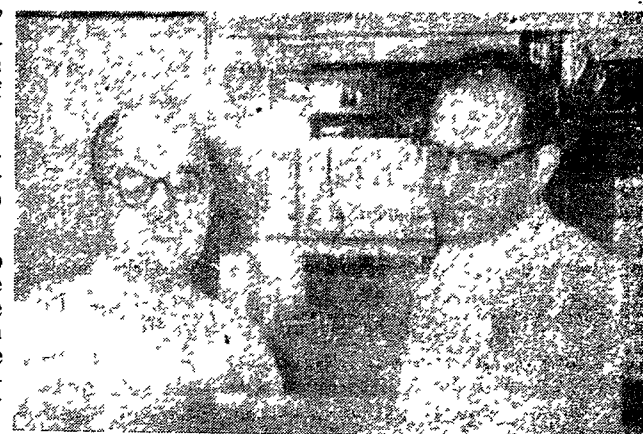

For 30 years M. C. "Mike" Gunsell has owned and operated the drug store that bears his name on the corner of Main and Center in Northville.

This week he announced that his son-in-law, R. Douglas Lorenz, would assume ownership of the store.

Lorenz is no newcomer to the business. He's worked there since getting out of the service in 1945 and actually became a pharmacist in 1949 when he was graduated from the Detroit Institute of Technology College of Pharmacy.

Gunsell started in business in 1934, purchasing the corner store then known as Horton's Drug Store. Turning over the reigns to his son-in-law doesn't mean retirement for "Mike". According to Doug, he'll continue to work, but at less than a full-time basis.

Lorenz and his wife, Marilyn, reside at 19640 Clement with their children, Paul, 14, and Mary, 12. Mr. and Mrs. Gunsell are neighbors at 19390 Clement.

Announce Dividend

Northville, South Lyon and Novi residents who are members of the Wayne County Employees Credit Union will share a 4% dividend which that organization will pay its more than 4,500 members at year's end, H. Ernest, general manager, announced this week. It is the 12th consecutive year in which a dividend has been paid.

The credit union will also distribute a rebate amounting to 18% of the loan interest paid in by its members during 1963. Mr. Ernest said. It is the ninth consecutive year for a loan rebate by the organization.

AL LAUX, R. Ph.
134 E. Main Northville

It was moving day in Wixom. Nearly 10 employees of Ford's International division walked into new offices in the Lincoln Division plant.

Three emergency rezoning amendments, including one which permits construction of a proposed $100,000 development (Aunt Jemima's restaurant), were unanimously approved by the council.

APRIL

IN NORTHVILLE . . .

In the biggest ballot ever recorded in local city election,

Northville voters returned Mayor A. M. Allen and Councilman John S. Canterbury to office. They elected Fred P. Kester to fill the other vacancy on the council.

R. D. Merriam, a former trustee, became the new supervisor in Northville township, topping Democratic Nominee Arthur O'Leary. In the only other contests, Republican Chester Lipa defeated his opponent for the board of review, and Richard Mitchell, GOP candidate for constable, was an easy winner.

Directors of the Northville Swim club decided to go ahead with plans to build a new pool in 1963.

IN NOVI . . .

Novi went all the way, voting "yes" for the new state constitution, a township library and a $985,000 secondary school construction bond issue. Township voters gave the nod to the Republican candidate for clerk, Charles G. Goers, and approved Republicans down the line on the state ballot.

General Filters Incorporated completed its fourth expansion in the company's 10-year Novi history.

IN WIXOM . . .

Wixom maintained its Democratic complexion, voting down the proposed state constitution, 194 to 121.

MAY

IN NORTHVILLE . . .

Petitions for annexation to the Northwest Wayne County community college district were filed with the Northville board of education.

Demolition of Northville's 119-year-old city hall was begun. It was estimated that the project would be completed in less than 10 days. The building was razed to make way for the new city hall - library - fire hall complex.

A salary schedule for Northville school principals was unanimously approved by the board of education.

Northville's economic development corporation learned that its loan application for $185,000 through the Small Business Administration won approval in Washington.

IN NOVI . . .

Both Dr. Walter Ambinder and John MacBride, whose school board terms expire in June, announced they would not seek re-election.

Earl Bailey, a Novi policeman for two years, was appointed "administrative trainee" at a meeting of the council.

In one swoop Tuesday night, Novi's Youth Protective committee lost its chairman and secretary, briefly discussed reorganization and found its summer program may be in jeopardy.

IN WIXOM . . .

The 1963-64 record high budget of $224,132 for the city of Wixom was approved by the council, thus averting a threatened stalemate.

Judge William Walke was elected president of the Wixom Chamber of Commerce.

JUNE

IN NORTHVILLE . . .

Northville has a community college of its own. A total of 715 voters went to the polls and decided that Northville should become a part of Northwest Wayne County Community College District.

Donald B. Lawrence submitted his resignation from the board of education because his work was taking him to Grand Rapids.

The post office department announced it is seeking competitive bids to build and lease a new post office building in Northville.

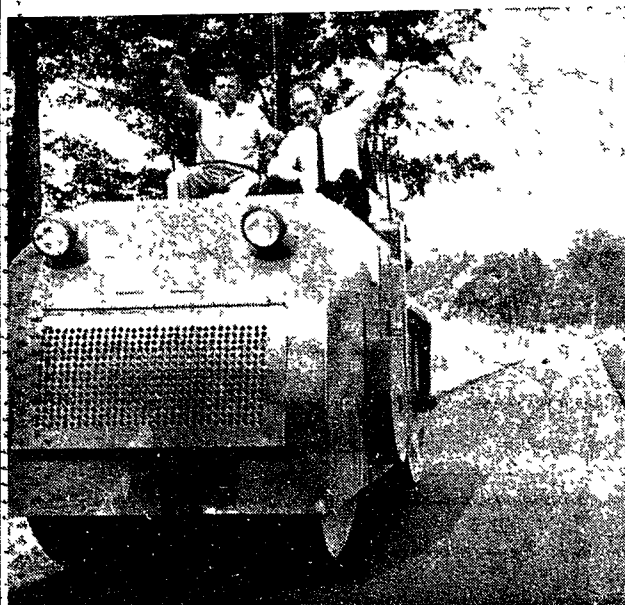

IN NOVI . . .

Sixty-eight Novi eighth graders accepted diplomas at commencement exercises in the community building.

Eighty-one Novi voters filed a petition calling for a recount of the June 10 school district election in protest of "election irregularities." The petitioners contended among other things, that ballots were removed from election headquarters and carried to another room before the counting was completed and that an unidentified person handled and assisted in ballot counting. A subsequent recount ruled out alleged irregularities and the vote stood.

IN WIXOM . . .

"Put the shovel in the ground. That was the word of the Housing and Home Finance association which Mayor Wesley McAtee and Attorney Gene Schnelz brought back from Chicago.

A giant road paving project got underway in Wixom — thanks to a $75,000 grant by the federal government.

JULY

IN NORTHVILLE . . .

Incumbent school board officers returned to the same positions were William Crump, president; James Kipfer, vice president; W. C. Becker, secretary; and Dr. Waldo Johnson treasurer.

Harry Himmelstein, owner of the S. L. Brader department store, announced his retirement, and Aaron Gellerman took over the oldest retail business in Northville.

Post office authorities gave assurances that the proposed new Northville post office would be colonial in design.

Construction of a new industrial building for Anger Manufacturing began. The new plant is located on a 3.7-acre site on old Novi road just south of the Eight Mile road cut-off.

C Oscar Hammond was elected Commander of the Michigan American Legion — marking the first time a local man has assumed the Legion's highest state post.

IN NOVI . . .

Arthur Heslip was unanimously elected president of the Novi board of education by fellow members.

A new industry, Lacy Tool Company, Inc., was launched at 40375 Grand River on property once owned by Henry Bashian.

An eight-year-old Detroit boy drowned July 2 at the Novi township park where he apparently wandered into water over his head.

H. Lloyd George was appointed to fill a township trustee vacancy.

AUGUST

IN NORTHVILLE . . .

Grand opening celebrations were held for Del's Shoes, a new shoe store in Northville operated by Del Black.

Construction of two new bridges along Northville road, south of Six Mile road, were begun.

A reluctant group of property owners with little alternative consented to action taken by the city council for improvement of Orchard drive.

Appointment of Gib Bergstrom as authorized Chrysler, Plymouth and Valiant dealer was announced.

A parcel of land containing some 153 acres on Taft road near Eight Mile road was optioned by the Thompson Brown company, land developers, for a potential subdivision.

IN NOVI . . .

Twelve persons were injured when a station wagon, loaded with youngsters on their way home from a Wixom area day camp, and a station wagon full of picnickers collided at the intersection of 12 Mile and Beck roads.

Novi Party Store was purchased by Hiram Archambeau of Farmington.

IN WIXOM . . .

A new sick and emergency leave schedule for hourly employees of the city of Wixom was adopted by the city council.

Joseph A. Coff was named assistant plant manager of Ford Motor company's Wixom assembly plant.

SEPTEMBER

IN NORTHVILLE . . .

A proposed development of more than 300 homes in Northville's Eight Mile - Taft road area was approved for a "feasibility test" for utilities by the city council.

Twenty-three new teachers greeted Northville students with the opening of school.

Two foreign exchange students, Myrtle Jardine and Terttu Levonen, entered the Northville school system.

The Wayne county road commission has submitted recommendations to the Northville city council for possible correction of the Novi road entrance into the community from the

Marguerite Harmon Bro in her book "Every Day A Prayer" tells an interesting story about the time that London was being bombed daily, when people were short on sleep and long on nervous tension, a shabby man appeared in a crowded area walking up and down the sidewalk deboraing, carrying a placard which read, "Let's be kind to one another. We're having a terrible time."

When one considers some of the tragedy in our world during the past year it seems a fair appraisal to say, "We're having a terrible time."

Perhaps this is the hour for us to say, "Let's be kind to one another."
How often when matters pile up at the office and we are tasked to our utmost with problems and more problems, work and more work, ought we to remember the thought "Let's be kind to one another" for it is so easy at a moment like that to blow up emotionally under the strain and then to be anything but kind.

And how is it at home?
Almost every home has its times of stress when work, bills, illness, guests, even relatives, pile up. Think of the times this past week when perhaps one or more of these problems, plus snow removal, or driving on ice, made a day hectic for you or yours. Perhaps some deep concern kept you awake for hours after retiring for a good night's sleep.
It may be that some total of little problems ruined your appetite for an otherwise tasty meal. Did you have a headache from tension, tension, tension? Ah, then to have a loved one in your family circle carry an invisible placard in family code, "Let's be kind to one another."

St. Paul gave us sound advice for our troubled times when he wrote, "Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and evil-speaking, be put away from you, with all malice:
And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for the Saviour's sake hath forgiven you." —Ephesians 4:31-32.

A woman wrote to the "Detroit News" recently and complained about the treatment children were getting from parents as they Christmas shopped together. After a few hours of rushing through crowds in an effort to shop — both parents and children begin to get on edge and irritable, and some parents jerk their children along to force them to keep pace. This is most regrettable at a time when joy should abound.

Mothers speak harshly to tiny tots whose little feet are dragging from fatigue.
Sure it is hard to keep a sweet disposition in such trying moments but we ought to try. We should make our slogan for the occasion, "Let's be kind to one another."

Often young couples find that tensions in marriage lead toward divorce. A little more kindness by the husband or wife could save the marriage. Many marriages are strengthened and beautified when just a little more kindness is applied.

Several years ago I spent an afternoon on a hot June day on Belle Isle in Detroit where crowds gathered to escape the heat from the city. Boats plied the river and the water seemed to cool the air. Hundreds of people were enjoying the beauty of the parks. We left the Island at 5:30 and within an hour someone started a race riot by making an unkind remark about another person of another race. Like a forest fire in tinder dry regions fanned by strong winds the hate spread quickly over the Island and then on into Detroit resulting in strife, loss of life, and great destruction of property. It took the State Militia to restore order. Oh, the hurt of a little unkindness. We need to practice the good virtue of being kind to other people.

Many young people today will try anything to make themselves popular. The book of Proverbs has a line in it reading, "That which makes a man to be desired is his kindness."

Abraham Lincoln used kindness as a method of winning support for his administration and he once said, "It is an old and true maxim that a drop of honey catches more flies than a gallon of gall." So with people, if you would win them to your cause you must first convince them that you are a sincere friend. Therein is a drop of honey that catches their heart; which, say what you will, is the great high road to man's reason.

Another said, "Kindness in ourselves is the honey that blunts the sting of unkindness in another."
As you relate yourself to society today a little kindness on your part will bring you into a kindly world. The kindness you would hope to receive — show also to others.

Try believing that kindness is the golden chain which binds men together in good fellowship. Will you carry an invisible placard in your life which says,
"Let's be kind to one another!"

Witnesses Plan Conclave

Two area men were among more than 50 ministers from surrounding congregations who met at the Kingdom Hall in Dundee Monday evening to discuss plans for the forthcoming Circuit Convention scheduled for Tecumseh January 17-19.

Mr. C. C. Coonce, presiding minister of the Plymouth congregation, stated that the purpose of the meeting was to make sure all twenty departments conducting the affairs of the convention are in good working order to ensure the smooth operation of the convention.

Assigned to oversee the cafeteria department is Mr. John Badalutz, 45085 Mayo Court, Northville. Mr. Badalutz, who has been looking after the feeding of delegates at conventions for several years, stated that some 1,000 hungry delegates are expected to attend.

"To supply their needs it takes careful planning and a great deal of hard work. All this work is done by volunteers and is an expression of love for our fellow Christians,"
Mr. Badalutz stated. Mr. Thomas Bloxsom, 662 Adams street, Plymouth, will assist
Mr. Badalutz in this depart-

In order to have a successful, interesting and comfortable convention, much planning and work is necessary.
To ensure the smooth operation of these things, and that necessary manpower is available, Mr. Robert Bangham of the South Lyon congregation will look after the volunteer service department. This department, under Mr. Bangham's supervision, will direct volunteers to one or more of the twenty departments.
"The purpose of the assembly," Mr. Coonce said, "is to help each minister to increase his ability to aid his students in learning God's will." The climax of the assembly will be Sunday, January 19, at 3 p.m.
when Mr. J. W. Filson of Brooklyn, New York will address the assembly on the subject "The Bible Triumphs In A Scientific World." All sessions are open to the public.

REVIEWING plans for the upcoming Jehovah Witnesses assembly are (l to r) Tom Bloxsom, Robert Bangham and John Badalutz.

Site development of Novi's new junior high school was begun.

IN WIXOM...

Paving of Pontiac trail in Wixom neared completion.

OCTOBER

IN NORTHVILLE...

Debentures were sold, agreement signed and construction set to start on the $185,000 expansion of Foundry Flask & Equipment company.

Petitions seeking the removal of the early morning and afternoon parking ban between Main and Dunlap streets were presented to the council by two Center street businessmen.

Mary Logeman was chosen as Northville's Homecoming Queen, and the Mustangs won the coveted homecoming title with Milford.

Sixteen-year-old Michael Reece was accidentally shot and killed by a hunting companion.

IN NOVI...

Ralph Kent Mullins was named to the Novi police department as a patrolman.

Blood bank officials expressed extreme disappointment and predicted the end of the local bank program as relatively few persons contributed blood.

Groundbreaking ceremony of the new Novi junior high school took place.

Although the number of opening day pheasant hunters was up considerably over the previous year, fewer complaints were received by the police department.

Douglas Straith was re-elected president of the Echo Valley Civic Association.

IN WIXOM...

A long-standing dispute between the city of Wixom and Gus McCreedy, operator of the landfill adjacent to the expressway, was settled by court decree.

NOVEMBER

IN NORTHVILLE...

Citizens pushing for the preservation of the Northville Library building received the backing of a Michigan historical official.

Northville's seventh annual United Foundation drive went "over the top".

A bid to bring thoroughbred running races to Northville Downs was submitted to Racing Commissioner Berry Beaman for the 1964 season.

Township board members voted 4-1 to approve issuance of a landfill permit to Sheldon Hayes, following several weeks of heated controversy.

IN NOVI...

Calling it one of the most brutal crimes he had encountered, Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Frederick Ziem sentenced James Gostlin to life imprisonment for slaying 11-year-old Shirley Huston.

A decision in favor of the village was handed down in Oakland county circuit court on a disconnection matter concerning the property of George Kovacs.

Construction of the addition to the Novi public library was begun.

IN WIXOM...

An exquisite restaurant and service station opened in Wixom, representing an investment of approximately $120,000. The new facility is located between the expressway and Grand River, off Wixom road.

DECEMBER

IN NORTHVILLE...

A 46-year-old Walled Lake man died when an earthmover he was driving plunged into an artificial lake in the Sheldon Hayes gravel pit.

Twenty-four Northville area businessmen met and voted unanimously in favor of forming a chamber of commerce.

Charles Conklin ended 51 years of barbering in Northville upon retirement.

A project estimated to cost between $40,000 and $50,000 will provide parking for an additional 300 cars at Northville Downs, Executive Manager John Carlo announced.

C. Oscar Hammond of Northville was elected state commander of the 'American Legion'.

Wixom, representing an investment of approximately $120,000, sold to Ray Garrod.

IN NOVI...

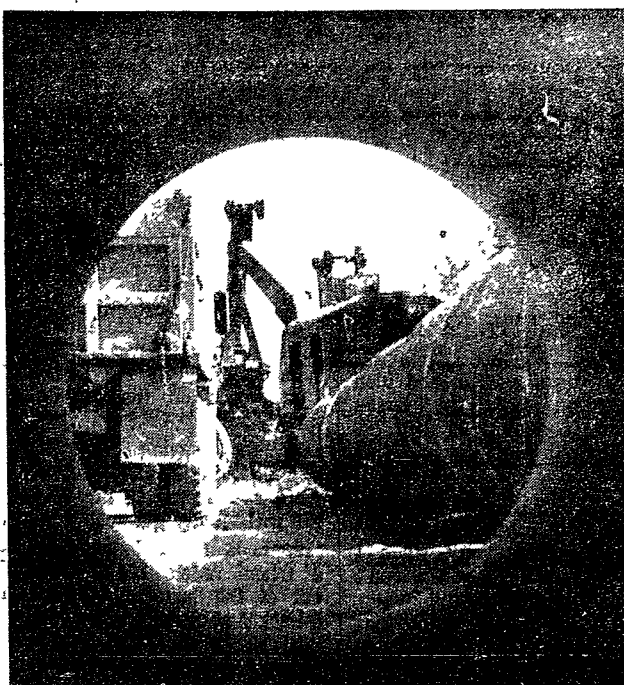

Construction costs for Novi trunkline sewers climbed $120,000 above estimated figures at the opening of bids, prompting officials to seek an increased bond issue.

Frank Moharak was elected chairman of the Novi Youth Protective committee.

Approximately one-dozen acres of property for which a motel complex is planned was rezoned at a joint public hearing of the village council and planning board.

IN WIXOM...

More than 1,000 signatures were obtained on petitions asking that the Wixom public playground be named in memory of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Detroit water became a distinct possibility for the Northville-Novi area as the water line advanced along Eight Mile road.

My New Year's Resolutions:

1. Pause, reflect, and then forget all resolutions I made at the beginning of 1962.
2. Remember the name of the person I met and shook hands with five minutes ago.
3. Stop saying "it's been nice meeting you" when I really mean "If you weren't so big I'd kick you."
4. Never again agree that one breed of horse is superior to another in order to impress a horseman.
5. Absolutely and positively never again judge a queen contest — particularly where parents are involved.
6. Refuse to walk the upper floors of the Northville State Hospital unless I'm carrying identification.
7. Return Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole's antique truck.
8. Catch a bigger fish, card a better 18-hole score, and roll a better game than my boss.
9. Never brag about my distance-walking abilities, nor ever again take part in a walking contest.
10. Always turn right when my wife says turn left.
12. Never poke my hand into a cage containing a innocent-looking, but frightened squirrel.
13. Fix the back door, the window, the downstairs rocker and seed the backyard sometime reasonably soon — but not too soon lest the neighbors think my wife has put her foot down.
14. Remember that the car rides better when the emergency brake is in the "off" position.
15. Never camp out in a single tent containing eight children and four adults.
16. Don't pet the cat before kissing my wife or at least saying hello upon returning home from work.

17. Beat down this feeling that the mechanic is mentally adding up my bill before I've turned off the car engine.

18. Stop saying "it looks fine" to the barber when I can't see myself in the mirror without my glasses.

19. Look nonchalant when a friend meets me coming out of the laundromat with a basket of clothes.

20. Never again urge a six-year-old son to poke me in the stomach to show him my strength.

21. Remember that when introducing a guest speaker it's a good policy to have his name written down somewhere close at hand.

22. Smile when it hurts ... but refuse to accept the bill.

23. Never debate with Wixom Postmaster Herb Abrams before consulting my books on philosophy.

24. Be kind but refuse entry to the next salesman who comes to the door.

25. Don't join any more organizations unless I'm looking for another wife.

26. Say no when I mean no and not yes when I mean no but somehow end up saying yes.

27. Never write about history from memory.

28. Eat snacks at breakfast, dinner and supper but never in-between.

29. Don't get upset when I lose a card game or a few thousand bucks at Monopoly.

30. Don't pretend I'm somebody that I'm not when I meet somebody who thinks he's somebody that he isn't.

31. Refuse — just once — to eat and pay for a sandwich I did not order.

32. Don't scream at my children when I find them practicing artwork on the walls of our house.

33. Speak up when someone asks: "Does anyone object?"

34. Surprise my wife by taking a picture of my own children.

35. Never again smoke a cigarette.

State Political Battles Loom for New Year

LANSING — The moratorium on major political activity ends. The battles begin.

With new Congressional districts already in sight and new state legislative districts likely before the 1964 elections, political aspirants are well aware that an early announcement of intentions is important.

Even veterans of Congress will have a big campaign job ahead of them. Knowledge of a district and its people, even in a "safe" district, is the most important thing an incumbent possesses. In 1964, few Congressmen will have full use of this tool because the districts are changed.

Initial challenges in a district are usually the most successful, so the 1964 election will be an important one.

State legislators planning to challenge Congressmen in the 1964 election are many. This means there will be several changes in the lineup in the State House because Michigan law does not allow a person to run for two offices simultaneously.

The coming election will be a most vital one for voters to know about: who is running; how he stands on issues important to the individual and his community.

Infighting among Democrats for the right to challenge Gov. George Romney (if he runs again) will probably provide the most interesting and damaging activity of the year.

Neil Staebler, a peacemaker in the party for many years during the reign of G. Mennen Williams, assumed a new role in recent months as he goaded others into making their decision on the race. A part of several individual decisions hinged on the possibility Staebler himself might enter any gubernatorial primary.

The damage forthcoming from a multi-member primary within the party would deepen a split which started early in 1963 when former Gov. John B. Swainson installed Zolton Ferency as party chief.

An unfortunate sudden illness left Secretary of State James M. Hare out of the possible candidates. He previously was considered as only a slight possibility, however. Hare went the primary route without success against Swainson four years ago.

Still on the list, however, were Swainson, Staebler, Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie, Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, and even Williams himself.

While each speaks of the need for party unity if Romney is to be defeated, each has enough political ambition and personal confidence to believe he could emerge the victor in a vote-splitting primary.

A unique effect of the new Constitution will be seen in the Legislature this year in the area of salaries for civil servants.

At stake will be hikes for about 32,000 state employees averaging slightly over 3 percent.

The new Constitution provides the Legislature may reject or reduce any pay increases authorized by the Civil Service Commission on a two-thirds vote within 60 days of submission by the Governor.

Pay hikes averaging 4 percent went into effect at the beginning of the current fiscal year, more or less with legislative blessing.

In several past years, however, agency heads had to adjust other costs to cover payroll expenses because legislative appropriations did not provide funds for raises approved by the Constitutionally-independent Commission.

With a new hold on the civil service pursestrings, the group of Legislators who think state employees are getting raises too quickly now have a tighter control over the multi-million dollar payroll.

Odd as it might seem, state police records show the incidence of traffic accidents follow a general pattern but not the one which might be expected.

Confusion in unfamiliar surroundings do contribute to some accidents, as would be expected. Statistics in Michigan, however, support the old saying that "familiarity breeds contempt."

Thus, here in the state and apparently throughout the country, better than half of the fatal traffic accidents occur in the driver's home county.

One theory is that motorists are more careful driving on a new stretch. Nearer home, the driver thinks he knows the road. Too often, this overconfidence is a fatal mistake.

Jobs and Automation

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Whenever there is a new surge in technological efficiency, there is an immediate outcry that this will mean less employment and reduced earnings. It has long been my opinion that technical improvements — even in the radical form of modern automation — do not mean fewer jobs or lower wages.

On the contrary, more rapid and cheaper methods of doing work mean more jobs in the long run. I believe this is proved by the statistics that chart the progress of employment and earnings over the more than 50 years that I have been forecasting economic changes in the U.S.A. Unions and workers are naturally upset when they see jobs taken away from men and women and given to machines. But they are looking at the short-range problems, not the long-range benefits.

It would be foolish to deny that there are serious immediate difficulties posed by automation. Retraining, replacement, and other programs are necessary to cushion the initial impact. Management, union, municipal, state, and federal authorities will recognize the temporary confusion that must be alleviated. For one thing, there is more need for workers of high skills, less for those with no training.

When Henry Ford, long ago, started his fantastic belt-line going, many economic observers and the working groups generally were positive that the result would be wholesale unemployment and lower pay.

Mr. Ford answered the last part of the charge by immediately paying his employees the biggest hourly wage in history; and the prediction of wholesale unemployment was proved wrong by history itself. At each step during the "industrial revolution" when new ways of speeding production were undertaken, the same alarm was sounded. But, each time, there turned out to be more jobs in the long run rather than fewer — better pay instead of "sweatshop" rates.

It is often forgotten that when new labor-saving machines are brought out, these products themselves have to be manufactured, serviced, and repaired. This opens up a whole new web of jobs. Even a casual examination of fundamental statistics will reveal the vast increases in employment that have paralleled history-making technological advances and greater efficiency in all lines.

Many of you will remember the dark time in the 1930s when unemployment constituted about 25% of the labor force. Even after the pump-priming and business aids of the New Deal, the jobless in 1940 still made up about 15% of the work force.

Vice President Henry Wallace wrote a book called "Sixty Million Jobs", a hopeful work which many economists considered unrealistic and visionary. But — and this is my point — even though the ambitious efforts to meet competition during the recovery years brought about ever-greater technological changes, jobs actually became more and more plentiful.

So with the spectacular influx of automation in recent years, the number of jobs has steadily increased. Total civilian employment stands now at better than 69 million, a figure that nobody would have believed if it had been predicted only 15 or 20 years ago. A gradual but definite change in the pattern of employment has helped the situation: Not only have new industries sprung up — such as electronics, instruments and controls, and aerospace — but more workers have been absorbed by trade, finance, service, and government.

Moving up with employment have been earnings. Back in 1909, manufacturing workers were making less than 20 cents an hour, on average; but now they are making $2.47. The trend is still upward and will be as far ahead as we can see.

The weekly take of such employees amounted to $9.74 in 1909; it has now passed the $100 mark. So those who expected that fewer jobs and lower pay would result from belt-line processes and automation have been wrong thus far. It is my feeling that they will continue to be proven wrong over the years ahead.

Look for the handy new INDEX in your 1964 Northwest Area Yellow Pages!

Shopping the Yellow Pages way will now be faster and easier than ever before. For now there's a handy cross reference Index at the beginning of your new Yellow Pages... to show you exactly how everything is listed, and how to find it fast.

Even gives you the page number to turn to!

Suppose you want to rent a tuxedo for the big party coming up. No need to wonder if the Yellow Pages calls it a tuxedo, a dress suit, or a dinner jacket. Just look in the Index for the first heading that occurs to you... "Tuxedo Renting," for example. The Index will refer you to the correct classification ("Dress Suit Renting") and will tell you the page you'll find it on.

Turn there and presto!... a complete list of all the rental shops in your area.

Speed your shopping. Always look first in the new Index of your Yellow Pages.
