

Board Eyes Teacher Pay Increase

A teacher salary increase is in the offing — but just how much that increase will be has not been decided.

Northville school board members reached this conclusion in their meeting Monday night while discussing financial data, census projections, and state aid proposals affecting teacher salaries.

The members informally agreed that teacher salaries must be increased if the local school system is to remain competitive with neighboring districts. However, the board deferred discussion of amount until after it meets informally with the teacher salary committee next Monday evening.

Invitation to attend next week's meeting was extended to the board by Donald Brown, teacher salary committee representative.

"There's little disagreement among us," Trustee Robert Shafer said in expressing the sentiment of the board, "that some kind of increase can be expected."

But the trustee failed to attract support for his suggestion that the matter of salary be postponed "for about a month" — or until after more is known about the state aid formula that is expected to be changed during the current legislative session.

Wondering aloud if postponement might be the wisest course of action for the board, Shafer pointed out that with more definite information about state aid the board "could make a better educated guess" in deciding how much of a salary increase the school can afford.

Trustee James Kipfer argued that little more of real significance will be known even after a month's wait, and therefore he advised against a delay.

And according to the administrators, the school will soon go into the market for new teachers and renewal of contracts with present Northville teachers, meaning that some kind of indication of salary should be ready by March 1 — "at the latest."

Based upon the data and projections discussed Monday, it appeared to board members that any increase in salaries will have to be made "on faith" that some increase in state aid will be determined in the next few months. And some of the members expressed the opinion that the increase "probably" will be higher than proposed by the Governor but not as lucrative as the most liberal state aid plans now under consideration.

Specifically, it was pointed out that unless the state aid is increased the board will have to look elsewhere for funds if it still wishes to increase salaries.

Dr. Kenneth MacLeod, assistant superintendent of schools, pointed out that even if the equalized valuation of the district increases by an estimated $1 million, even if the present teacher salary scale isn't increased, and even if the estimated increase in the number of pupils in the school an additional $18,900 the board may face a deficit.

He said five additional teachers will be needed next year for a estimated cost of $25,000, the school will lose about $16,146 in tuition because Novi will open its own junior high school, and cost of meeting prements will approximate $19,800.

These costs, he continued, when compared to estimated revenue point to a deficit of more than $2,000.

Nevertheless, he and members of the board reemphasized that increasing salaries in neighboring school districts make it necessary that steps be taken to put Northville in a better competitive bracket.

Results of a survey of 50 metropolitan school districts by Farmington, MacLeod noted, disclosed the following:

AB minimum range of $4,800 to $5,400 with Northville at $4,800; AB maximum, range of $6,800 to $8,585 with Northville at $6,800; MA minimum, range of $4,992 to $5,800 with Northville at $5,100; and MA maximum, range of $7,900 to $10,100 with Northville at $7,900.

OVER THE TOP — Northville's March of Dimes campaign wound up a financial success. In this picture Angie Gadioli is happily displaying the response of his Northville lanes' bowling leagues. Its members participated 100 per cent and gave $675. Sunday in the township and Tuesday night in the city Marching Mothers collected $1,423.65 to top last year's drive by nearly $100. Mrs. H. L. Dyer headed the Mothers March, while Northville's Jaycees with Charles Parton as chairman headed the over-all campaign. Saturday night an "Ugly Man" dance is being staged at the Community Building with proceeds going to the Dimes drive.

Organizational Meeting Set by Historical Society

The first general membership meeting of the newly organized Northville Historical Society has been set for Tuesday, February 18. Preliminary plans for the meeting were made last week Tuesday when organizing members met to study and approve the society's constitution and bylaws.

Although the place of next month's membership meeting has not yet been determined, temporary officers of the society hope to secure room enough to house a "large number of prospective members."

At that meeting, a nominating committee appointed last week will submit a slate of officers for election. Nominations also may be made from the floor. Members of the committee are Mrs. W. H. Camfield, Mrs. Ada Bloom, and Richard Lyon.

Memberships in the organization of the constitution last week, are: General, $1; students, 50 cents; and life, $25.

Purpose of the society as also outlined in the new constitution is:

"To bring together those people interested in history, and especially in the history of the Northville, Michigan region.

"The society's major function will be to discover, collect, preserve, advance, and disseminate knowledge of the history of the Northville region."

"It may hold property, both real and personal, in any amount; may lend, sell, lease or rent such property provided such action be consistent with the terms of gifts, bequest, or other conveyance under which title was originally acquired. It may hold exhibits, stage pageants, erect markers, sponsor or engage in activities of any kind consonant with any other agencies, local or otherwise."

Hope for Compromise Wanes

CITY SET TO TRAIN NEW FIRE SQUAD

Committee efforts to find ground for compromise between disgruntled firemen and the city council appear hopelessly deadlocked after two meetings.

Word that mass resignations seemed a certainty unless a new fire chief is named prompted Mayor A. M. Allen to order immediate preparation of a stand-by fire force.

City Manager Bruce Potthoff told councilmembers Monday night that a fire-fighting team headed by Chief William McGee has already been alerted. He said at least five of eight members were experienced and hinted that "some members" of the present department would stick to their jobs.

The council acted to provide for the fire safety of the community after Councilman Richard Ambler and Fred Kester reported Monday night on results of the first meeting with firemen.

Ambler and Kester along with Fireman Ward Schultz and Stanley Smith were appointed as a study committee to help resolve differences after 11 members of the city's 14-man department threatened to resign two weeks ago.

After their second meeting Tuesday night all four members of the committee agreed that the principle issue of difference was Chief McGee.

The city members proposed to maintain McGee as a chief but to free him from all police duties during fire calls by having him relieved by Police Chief Eugene King. Previously, firemen had protested that McGee could not attend fires in the township and might have to leave fire duty in the event of a police emergency.

In a counter proposal the firemen called for the removal of McGee for 30 days. They asked that an acting chief be appointed, either by the firemen, the council or by order of existing rank.

The protesting firemen said this would boost department morale and result in a smooth operation.

Neither side was willing to accept the other's proposal.

In reporting progress to the council Monday night both councilmen agreed that "what they're really after is to get rid of McGee as chief."

McGee was recently appointed to the police force. The protesting firemen admit that they oppose any move to integrate police and fire departments or create a department of public safety.

Schultz and Smith said after Tuesday night's meeting that the firemen had agreed not to take any resignation action before January 31 if committee efforts to resolve differences failed.

The firemen were scheduled to meet last night (Wednesday). Ambler and Kester said they would also attend the meeting.

The committee reported that the firemen want to elect their own officers and members, subject to council approval. They further ask for police traffic control at the Main-Center street intersection at fire calls, better maintenance of equipment and more emphasis on training.

Ambler and Kester told the council that they had taken the position that the city could not turn over the responsibility of naming the fire chief, officers and members to the department, although recommendations would be sought.

Ambler and Kester also refused to drop McGee, chief for 16 years.

In the other areas of concern there appeared to be no problems in agreement.

The council backed Ambler and Kester and endorsed Mayor Allen's decision to get ready for an emergency.

Councilwoman Beatrice Carlson pointed out that both firemen and councilmembers had agreed to meet again before any decision was reached. She expressed hope that this meeting would be called.

In the event the protesting firemen should decide to resign, Mayor Allen asked that each member be required to sign a resignation form individually.

He also directed the city manager to make arrangements with neighboring communities for assistance training new fire personnel and help in case of fire emergency.

Northville Wins Planning Grant

Word that a federal grant had been awarded the city of Northville to complete its master plan was received this week from Congresswoman Martha Griffiths.

In a telegram to Mayor A. M. Allen Monday the congresswoman confirmed approval of $15,578 for the city's comprehensive planning program. The federal government pays three-quarters of the total cost.

Street Assessments Pack Plenty of %

Initial steps were taken Monday night by the city council for improvements to West, Butler, Pennell, Center and Maplewood streets.

Routine "initiation resolutions" were adopted to start the special assessment procedure, but in the case of Center and Maplewood streets it appeared the council might be in for something more than "routine" developments.

Specifically, the city street improvement projects include storm sewer, curb and gutter and paving on West street from Randolph to Dunlap and on Butler and Pennell streets.

Next year.

Water lines and sanitary sewers are needed on Maplewood as well as curbs, gutters, paving and storm sewer from Horton to Center. This project is essential to the development of a 28-home section of Village Green north of Maplewood and east of North Center street.

These improvements must be continued from Maplewood north along Center street to the city limits.

It is in this area that the city faces complications. If Center from Maplewood to the city limits were to be paved, it would leave a single block on North Center — between Ely drive south and Maplewood — unpaved. Center street is now paved all the way to Ely Drive south.

The council was informed by City Manager Bruce Potthoff that most residents of this single block oppose the improvement.

It was also made clear by City Attorney Philip Ogilvie that special assessment along this block of Center street would present problems.

The council's assessment problems revolve around a multiplicity of percentages which apply to different subdivisions.

For example: new subdivisions and annexed portions of the city not within the original boundaries must pay 100 per cent of street improvements; properties in the old city limits are assessed 25 per cent with the balance coming out of general funds; a third classification is undeveloped, unplatted, sections within the old city which are assessed at 80 per cent.

The formula becomes further complicated when side-lot improvements are involved. They are charged at one-half the normal front-lot line assessment.

Add to all this the fact that storm sewers are assessed under a formula based on area benefit and other improvements on the basis of front-footage on the basis of front-footage and you have a series of special assessment projects guaranteed to keep a city manager tied to his desk.

Ironically, everyone in these conditions exist in the Maplewood-Center street area.

In the block on Center street between Ely Drive south and Maplewood, for example, residents on the east side (who don't want the improvement) live in the "old city" and would be assessed 25 per cent of the total improvement cost. Their neighbors across the street would face 100 per cent assessments. City Attorney Ogilvie frowned on this arrangement.

On Maplewood one of the major property owners on the south side of the street would face 80 per cent assessment — old city, undeveloped, but platted land. His neighbors on two other lots on the same side would pay 25 per cent. Across the street the developer would pay 100 per cent of his move.

The council decided to move ahead with the projects and instructed the city manager to develop costs based on several methods of procedure.

It appears certain that the city will comply with the wishes of residents on North Center between Ely Drive south and Maplewood and skip improvements along this block.

But Mayor A. M. Allen — and perhaps a majority of the council — favors completing all improvements on the remainder of Center. Some consideration was given to installing all improvements but paving on Center north of Maplewood. But the fact that the improvements are 100 per cent accessible north of Maplewood gave the council second thoughts on delaying pavement.

Total cost estimates for the projects as presented Monday night by Manager Potthoff include: West street — storm sewer, $5,570; curb & gutter, $8,635; paving, $4,000; Butler and Pennell — curb and gutter, $9,098; storm sewer, $11,600; paving, $5,675; Maplewood — curb, gutter, paving, $14,816; storm sewer, $7,800; Center — (Maplewood to city limits) curb, gutter, paving, $9,622; and water lines and sanitary sewer to serve Maplewood and Center, $17,594.

The council plans another meeting to study alternatives before calling initial public hearings.

'De-Watering' Precedes Sewer

They use water to get rid of water.

Sounds peculiar, but that's the method the Northwest Construction company is using to rid the ground of water along the sewer trunkline route into Novi.

The de-watering process began last week just east of the C&O railroad tracks paralleling the Rouge River branch creek between Eight and Nine Mile roads at the city limits.

DOWN IT GOES — With the force of tons, water shoots down the inside of a bit casing, tearing a hole into the earth.

Digging of trenches into which the sewer line will be laid until after some four to five thousand feet (in length) of ground has been de-watered.

However, Northwest has moved equipment into the area just south of Seven Mile near Northville road and in the area of Nine Mile. Work in these two areas may begin soon and probably will be done simultaneously.

The Novi trunkline will stretch through the city of Northville to Nine Mile, with the branches extending from there west to Center street and north to 10 Mile road. Cost of the project, slated for completion by early summer, is $1,510,000.

The unusual method of ridding the ground of water by using water consists of sinking 20-foot lengths of well points into holes bored deep into the ground with a pile driver through which a steady pressure of water is forced.

Workmen first laid a 10-inch pipe on the ground along the general route of the sewer line to be installed. This pipe stretches for hundreds of feet along the ground and from it project numerous nipples to which the 20-foot length well points are attached.

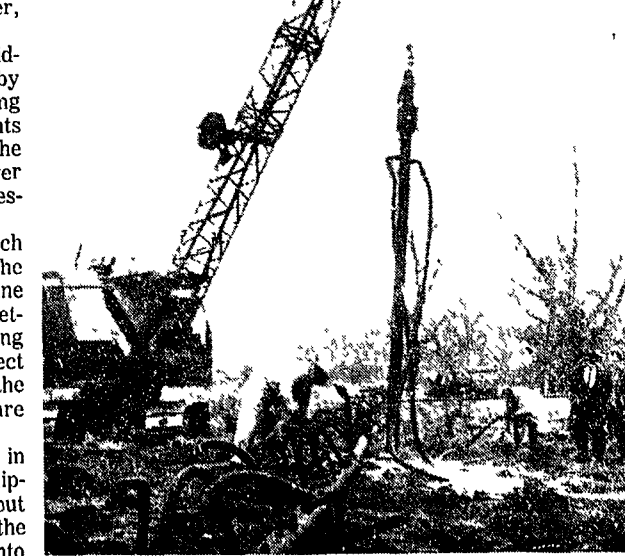

Once all well points are in place and coupled to the nipples, a giant pump will be put into operation, pumping the water from the ground and into the nearby creek — the same creek from which water is being drawn now to drill holes into the ground.

The pumping operation will continue until the water table has dropped below the level of the water line to be installed. Purpose of removing the water, of course, is to permit workmen to dig the water line trench a few feet away but parallel with the pump line.

Pumping will continue through the digging operation.

De-watering, a spokesman pointed out, is necessary only where water tables are above the level of the line to be laid.

It is a costly, time-consuming process that is avoided when possible, he said.

UP IT COMES — Through many 20-foot deep sections of pipe water will shoot up into the main line and into the creek.

In Our Town

By Jean Day

NORTHVILLE'S FUTURE may well lie in the past — if its lure as a "charming old town with antiques and art" could be expanded.

The suggestion to capitalize on the thriving hobby of antiquing is given strong support by Mrs. James F. Green, 126 E. Cady, who is wintering at Delray Beach, Florida.

On a "briny breeze" from the south she sends news of former Northville residents Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ely, who opened Broward County's first antique shop 18 years ago. Now there are 14 antique dealers in the little town of Dania, Florida, on a six-block strip along Federal highway.

The town and its "heirloom boom" were featured three weeks ago in the Miami Herald. In the article Mrs. Ely explains, "We wanted something we could enjoy... We'd always like antiques and had a houseful of them. My mother used to say we'd have a lovely home if we'd just get rid of all those old things."

"When we decided to open an antique shop here, people thought we were crazy," Mrs. Ely continues in the article. "They told us Florida people just weren't interested, but that's not true."

The Elys went to Florida when Mr. Ely retired as an electronics engineer for the Ford Motor company. Their shop attracts residents as well as tourists, says the Herald in its picture-story, which shows an English plate warmer and Victorian hanging lamp from the Ely shop.

Support for the suggestion that Northville also could become a mecca for antique-seekers comes from Betty Beckel (Mrs. Earl F. Beckel) who opened Heritage House at 114 N. Wing street in April, 1962.

Mrs. Beckel handles both antiques and resale merchandise and finds most of her customers come from Plymouth, Ann Arbor or Detroit. She feels more people would travel some distance to "spend the day in Northville" if there were more antique shops in which to browse. Many of her customers mention stopping also at the Spinning Wheel shop and the Hartley-Powers gallery in town.

"I can't get enough oak furniture," she said, indicating the most popular trend in antiquing is toward "primitives." Picture frames and trunks also have been in-demand items. Merchandise — taken on consignment — fills two floors and covers the porch. There are handsome brass beds next to roll-top desks as well as china and glass pieces many antique-lovers pick up as accessories.

Mrs. Beckel's future plans are indefinite as her husband is invalided with multiple sclerosis. Before opening Heritage House Mrs. Beckel had operated a tourist home at the same location for 18 years.

NORTHVILLE PLAYERS GUILD also is looking for "some things old." In this case it's costumes and props for the next play, "East Lynne." Both men and women's clothes of the period 1860-1880 are needed for the English story to be presented February 20, 21 and 22.

Mrs. E. O. Wheeler promises that extremely good care will be taken of everything borrowed. This seems a good chance for residents who enjoyed the fledgling group's first performance to lend an encouraging hand. Mrs. Weber may be reached at FI-9-9971.

SOCIAL BRIEFS: Pleasantest way to celebrate a birthday is with a surprise party, decided Robert Hallam, who invited 40 friends to surprise his wife at a buffet party last Saturday night at their home on Summerside lane.

NEWCOMER'S CORNER

I look upon every day to be lost, in which I do not make a new acquaintance.

— Samuel Johnson

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wangeman, Debra, David and Rebecca.

Newcomer Glen Wangeman and his family moved to Northville from Brighton. He, his wife Rosemary, and their three children, Rebecca, 8, Debra, 3 and David, 10 1/2 months, now live at 360 Cady Street.

Glen and Rosemary grew up and went to school together in Boyne City, a little town in the heart of Michigan skiing country.

He now works with Price Brothers in Livonia. The family attends the First Presbyterian church in Northville, and Rebecca is enrolled in the Main Street elementary school.

Most of the Wangemans' interests, and pastimes are centered about family activities, especially picnicking and swimming in the warmer months.

Mrs. Wangeman reports that their family is pleased with the friendliness of Northville. She especially appreciated the Welcome Wagon services for introducing her and her family to her new neighbors. After a few months in town, she says the family feels "right at home."

Players Guild Names Actors

More than a dozen persons have won parts in the forthcoming melodrama to be presented by the Northville Players Guild.

The play, "East Lynne," an English novel that enjoyed widespread public acclaim as a stage melodrama, will be presented by the guild on the nights of February 20, 21 and 22 in the Northville high school auditorium.

Members of the cast and their parts are:

Coy Sandrock, Isabel; Walter Avery, Archibald; Mary Freydl, Barbara; Mrs. Fran Biss, Cornelia; Bud Weber, Levison; Fred Farrah, Richard; Jack Sweeney, Lord Seavern;

George Richards, Joyce; Terry LaRue, Wilson; John Hyde, Dill; Timmy McDonough, Willie; Dwight Grayson, Justice Hare; and Charles Freydl, the officer.

According to the director, Dr. Hans Kolbe, the production will be a sentimental, lachrymose type play. The dictionary meaning of lachrymose: tending to cause tears.

Written by Mrs. Henry Wood in 1861, the story focuses on Lady Isabel Vane, who after running off with another man, returns to her remarried husband as a nurse hired to care for her own children. The novel was adapted for the stage by Ned Albert.

Tickets for the play already are on sale and may be purchased at either Freydl Cleaners & Men's Wear or Stewart's Gifts & Art Supplies.

Eight Mile Residents Get Water Line Notices

Notices have been delivered to residents in the Eight Mile area informing them of the approaching Detroit Water Department water mains.

The schedule of installation from Meadowbrook along Eight Mile road to Northville has not yet been announced.

The written notices read: "In order to provide better service for present customers and extend service to new customers, the Detroit Water

Department is constructing new water mains throughout much of the metropolitan area.

"Our development program which is financed entirely from water revenue, includes construction of a new 30-inch transmission main in the Northville area. This new main will extend approximately 2½ miles westward along Eight Mile, from the intersection of Eight Mile and Haggerty roads to Sheldon road. Construction to Meadowbrook road is underway and the final phase (approximately 1½ miles) will begin within a very short time.

"We realize that the construction will cause you some inconvenience, and we apologize for it. We will make every effort to see that the contractor's crews keep this inconvenience to a minimum. As soon as weather and working condition permit, your street will be returned to normal.

"We hope you will agree that better water service for the metropolitan area and your neighbors is worth a temporary inconvenience, and we sincerely appreciate your patience and cooperation."

Smoke But No Fire

The old saying about "where there's smoke, there's fire" was disproved last Sunday by Ernest McGregor, 111 East Main street.

The alarmed owner contacted the fire department immediately. When firemen arrived they discovered that an overheated transmission was responsible for the smoke and that no fire had occurred in the vehicle.

In Justice Court Northville

Two local residents were tried on two counts last Saturday in Northville justice court. Charles E. Klocke, 45601 West Nine Mile road, was tried for assault and battery and driving under the influence of alcohol; Robert H. Krumm, 41201 Six Mile road, was brought to court for reckless driving and malicious destruction of property.

Klocke was charged by Christine Martin on January 4 for assault and battery. The assault took place in the Bel-Nor parking lot at 9:45 p.m. He stood mute at his arraignment January 13, and was released on a $100 bond. At his trial, his attorney entered a plea of guilty. Klocke was fined $50 and $5 costs and was put on six months probation.

Three hours and thirty minutes after the Bel-Nor incident, Klocke was picked up for driving under the influence of alcohol. Pleading innocent at his arraignment on the 13th, he was tried on January 25. The case was dismissed on the evidence of blood tests.

Krumm was charged with two offenses on January 9. He stood mute at both arraignments on January 18 and was tried for both counts last Saturday.

He was charged by Jeri Gammel of Walled Lake for malicious destruction of property, specifically the destruction of a radio antenna on Gammel's car. Krumm's attorney offered to settle out of court, and the case was dismissed on condition that the defendant make full restitution to the complainant for the damage, and pay $20 court costs.

Krumm also was charged with driving 40 in a 25 mile zone on East Main street. He was found guilty and was fined $15 and $5 court costs or five days in jail.

This new legislation establishing a four-member board of canvassers for each city, township, village and district within the state. The term for regular appointees will be four years, beginning the January 1st next following their appointment. For the first board, one member from each party will be appointed for a term ending December 31, 1965. One member from each party is also provided for a term ending December 31, 1967. New members are to be notified of appointment within 5 days thereafter by the local clerk.

SAME; QUALIFICATION, AFFIDAVIT REQUIREMENTS; COUNTY CLERK, NOTIFICATION, MEMBERSHIP; VACATING THE OFFICE.

No person may be appointed unless he files an affidavit approved by the Election Bureau and containing at least the name, home address, political party affiliation, date of birth, employment and physical disability, if any.

The county clerk must be given names, addresses and party affiliation of all new board of canvassers members. The county clerk is thereafter required to keep this file current for public inspection.

An office is vacated during the term if a board member or any member of his immediate family serves as an election inspector, becomes a candidate for public office canvassed by his board or serves as a member of the governing body of the unit for which his board is established.

Parents Eye Social Rules Of Conduct

A representative of the Northville board of education was expected to meet yesterday (Wednesday) with a high school parents' committee which is seeking to establish a set of social ground rules for their high schoolers.

Representatives of the group appeared before the school board Monday evening to outline their objectives and to invite board members to the meeting. The representatives were Douglas Straith and Frank Bosak.

According to Straith, parents are determined to set up the rules to discourage students from taking part in objectionable activities — activities that take place after school sponsored functions.

Without free flow of information between parents, he said, it has been difficult for one parent to discourage a particular activity if she or he was not aware of the accepted standard of another parent. He implied that some students win approval for certain activities by telling their parents that most other parents approve.

Straith and Bosak agreed with Board President William Crump that responsibility of a student's behavior belong to the parents of that student. But he noted that through cooperation parents can take appropriate action that is neither timid nor unjust.

Specifically, the proposed purpose of the group is to — Establish social guidance; —Help coordinate and control high school student social activities in relation to dances after games, Junior-Senior banquet, skip day, house parties (stemming from high school functions), and Senior Prom.

The group hopes to reach some common agreement on matters of formal or semi-formal wear, how late the student should stay out, where dances are held, what bands are employed, chaperones, cost to young men, and attendance.

The parents expressed the belief that the committee should include interested parents, P-T-A representative, board representative, student representatives, and the principal or his representative.

It's unfortunate, said Straith, but the students have a far better communicative system than do their parents. And this breakdown in parental communication often results in the breakdown of student behavior, he added.

Northville Chamber Starts Signing Charter Members

A drive for 125 charter members was launched here Tuesday evening by an enthusiastic group of business, industrial and professional men and women determined to establish a Northville Chamber of Commerce.

More than two-dozen persons attending the meeting at the Detroit Federal Savings conference room were each charged with securing the signatures of seven prospective charter Chamber members.

Nearly 20 of those attending signed prospective membership cards, while the majority of the others indicated they probably will become members but must first confer with the businesses that they represent.

According to John Macauley, who was elected membership chairman, signature of these cards does not commit the signer to dues or any other obligation but simply indicates that the signer wishes to become a charter member.

The deadline for charter memberships has been set for Tuesday, February 18.

Between now and the deadline, the group will meet each Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. to continue discussion of various matters related to the proposed Chamber and to answer questions new persons may have concerning the organization.

Meanwhile, a nominating committee is to come up with a list of 30 members for election to 15 board of directors seats by the entire charter membership.

Appointed to the committee were: Pauline Simms, John Macauley, George Clark, John Carlo and Dempsey Ebert.

A suggested dues system along with a proposed budget for the Chamber was introduced to the group Tuesday for its consideration. Adoption of this or any substitute procedure, Committee Chairman Marvin Partridge has pointed out, will not take place until the Chamber is ready for chartering.

Specifically, the proposed dues system calls for a $25 fee for those firms or professional organizations with from one to 10 employees, for $50 for those with from 10 to 25; and for $200 for those with 50 or more.

The proposed budget makes the following suggestions:

Office space, $65 per month; part-time Chamber secretary or business manager, $100 per month; telephone, $25 per month; advertising, $20 per month; mailing, $35 per month; and miscellaneous, $300 per year.

The total cost of such a budget would be $3,240 per year.

Concerning the purpose of the proposed organization, Dr. R. M. Atchison, committee member, explained that the Chamber ought to represent its members in a professional, dignified manner with a broad aim of community betterment. It should not, he emphasized, concern itself primarily with projecting promotion and rather to its members while guiding the development and betterment of Northville.

Another committeeman, Dempsey Ebert, added that businessmen should not join the organization with the idea of "grinding a personal ax."

Specifically, it was pointed out that the Chamber can assist in attracting more good business and industry to Northville while helping to maintain and improve the financial picture of existing organizations.

The Chamber, continued Ebert, will not mean that cash registers will immediately begin ringing but it may mean that the prospective customer will be less likely to turn out of his driveway in the direction of Plymouth, Livonia and other neighboring communities.

Still another committee member, Leo Markham, suggested that the Chamber can lend assistance to the existing Retail Merchants association.

Harold Bittner, representative of Foundry Plank & Equipment company, noted that a substantial increase in residential construction is in the offing and that, through the Chamber, Northville should do its best to keep the potential trade in the community rather than sacrifice it to the increasing number of nearby shopping centers.

Those persons representing local businesses or professions who pledged themselves to membership Tuesday night were:

Donald Duvall, A&P Tea company; Wynn W. Wakenhut, engineering and surveying; Pauline Simms, restaurant; Dorothy Baker, beauty salon; Fred McLean, fabrics; Reinhold Hammer, hair stylist; Herman Hankey, glass replacement; Clifford J. Gray, barber shop; Richard Ritchie, laundry and cleaning; Dempsey Ebert, funeral director; Marvin Partridge, manufacturers agent; Leo Markham, bar owner; H. Thomas Quinn, refrigeration and air conditioning; Nicholas Zander, barber shop; Ivan L. Berdan, used cars; C. A. Smith, manufacturer; R. M. Atchison, MD; M. Szczepanski, manufacturer of diamond tools.

Fire Destroys Trailer Office

Fire destroyed the trailer office of the Northville Trucking and Excavating company, located on Gerald avenue, early Wednesday morning.

The blaze was started when an oil stove exploded.

According to Aubrey French, co-owner of the business with Al Stevens, all of the company's files containing contracts and records were destroyed along with office equipment. He estimated damage to the equipment — not counting the trailer — at $1,500.

French said the site will be cleared immediately and construction of a new office begun soon.

Winter's No Time to Loaf For Race Horses, Trainers

The Michigan racing season is still months away, but there's no loafing for either horses or trainers who wait for winter to pass in the Northville Downs barns. There's work to be done from morning to night.

A typical winter morning begins before the sun has risen high enough to pitch shadows on the empty and silent stands and before the city bursts into its hum of daily activity.

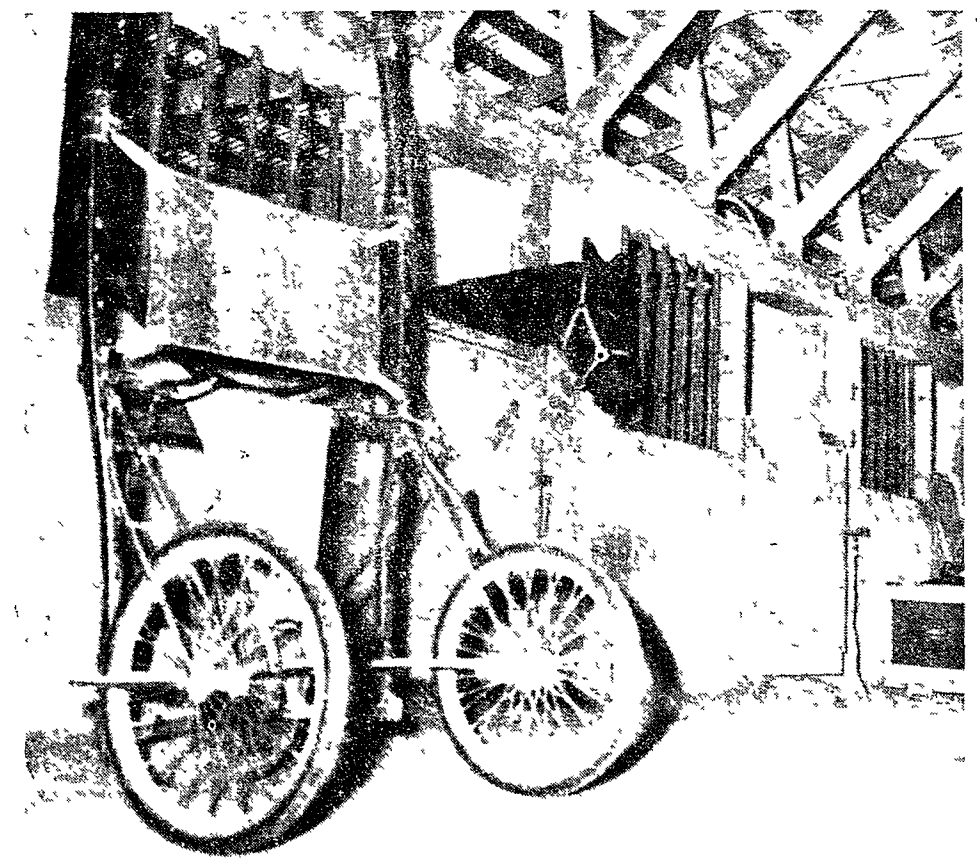

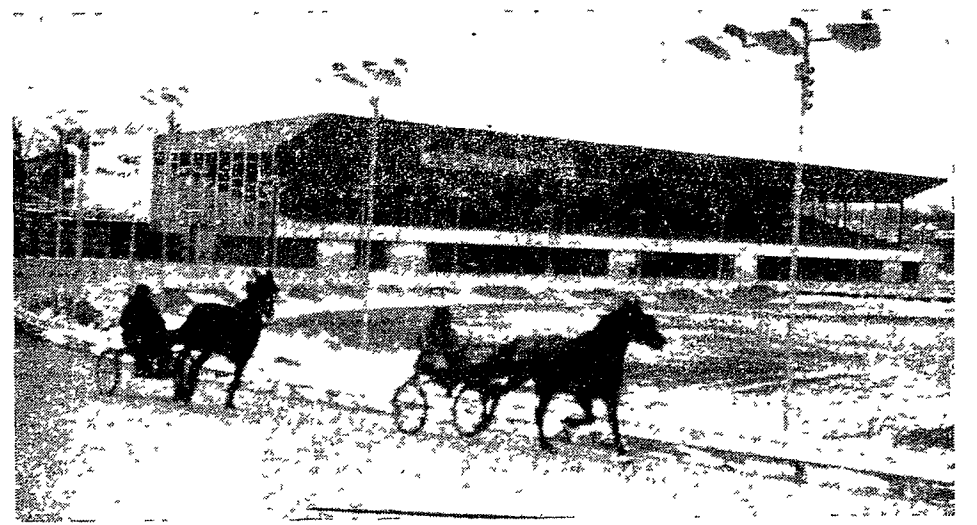

Stirred from their night's rest, the horses are fed and watered by the men and women assigned to the barns located on both sides of Seven Mile road near Center. And there are stables to be cleaned and fresh straw to be put down.

Then when these menial tasks are out of the way, the animals are dressed, one by one, in their cold, stiff harness. And then it's out onto the track — either the workout track around the barns or the official Downs track — for several miles of exercise and training.

Winter can be cold and snowy (top left) or cold and dry (top right) but this business of exercise and training, training and exercise goes on. Around and around the track they go, animals puffing but seemingly enjoying the workouts and the trainers gulping icy wind as they sit on the speeding sulks and issue their commands.

Then its back to the barns where, steaming as their bodies sweat from work (right), the horses are undressed, rubbed dry and returned to their clean stables to eat and sleep and wait for the next day's workout.

But even then the work is not done. With exercising and training usually out of the way by 1 p.m., the grooms and trainers spend the remainder of the afternoon caring for the animals, cleaning and mending equipment and keeping the barns ship-shape.

SEE THIS IS THE LIFE EVERY SUNDAY 10 A.M., Channel 2

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

by the Rev. S. D. Kinde
First Methodist Church

God has been described as the "Heart at the heart of things." We like to think of Him as the hub about which all of life revolves. We share His blessings and from our heart we thank God for God.

But some men deny Him. The Psalmist wrote in Psalm 14:1, "The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God." This seems strange too, for the man who is blind does not say that beautiful sunsets do not exist, nor does the man who is deaf say there is no grand music because he does not hear it.

It appears to be foolish for folk to deny or despise things they know nothing about. It is foolish to condemn the Church, if you take no part in its worship services. It is foolish for a citizen to complain about the government if he doesn't take the trouble to vote. It is foolish to say that Christianity has failed, if you never did anything to make it succeed.

Those of you who have had dealings with God know well His presence and blessing. You know Him even as you know a member of your family.

After a time of prayer there comes the assurance of sins forgiven; there is a lift to your spirit when you worship, you experience the joy of obedience to His will, you have the consciousness of His breath upon your soul as you walk through the day together. Folk who have tasted of spiritual things are sure of God. An individual tastes of chicken and says it is good, but he could not know this without tasting it. So Scripture says, "Taste and see that the Lord is good." Give Him a try in your life and you will come to know how good He is and how completely He satisfies your soul's need.

When we are tempted to sin, it is God who lifts us and keeping them out, sets feet from the miry clay, and keeping them out, sets us free.

A man used to say, "I once thought there was no God. But now it seems to me there is nothing but God." May Lent be a time when we quest anew after God and seek his love and care. He will come to us along lifes way and bestow His blessing upon our lives, our homes, our families, our business, our world, if we afford him the opportunity to do so.

Township Tutoring

To the Editor,

Oh, oh, oh! Look, look, look! at our funny, funny Northville Township Board. They want to know what citizens think about Mayor Allen's request for annexation. Gee! I never thought they'd ask. The three officers of the township board have displayed callous indifference to a heap of public opinion on a recent, important issue. While they jump, jump, jump to catch the public pulsebeat on this piddling little matter, money-wise, I shall march to the head of the class and instruct them thusly:

"Children, put your thinking caps on and pretend you are great big grown-ups. Run, don't walk to the Franklin Road Romper Room. Now look, look at the map. See the map? Look and see the nice map on the wall. The map shows the township boundaries. Look and see what the map tells you to do. Remember, in this instance (case), Mayor Allen is a plain citizen, a nice-type man citizen. If the map tells you that Citizen Allen's case is like that of other citizens, you must say no or risk mass efforts at secession (pulling out). If Citizen Allen's case is unique (one of a kind) then you be nice little neighborhood kids and say yes. You township kids ought to try a little harder to be buddies with the city kids.

All right children, pick up your pencils and paper. It's time to write your notes of apology (you're sorry) to Citizen Allen for letting him dangle while you conduct a public opinion poll. After all, you keep telling your constituents (voters) that you were elected to decide these matters. It is very wise to postpone a decision until you have all the facts. Since you have the facts, it is very childish to stall until you find out the way the wind is blowing. That's our lesson for today. After you have tidied up your desks, you are excused.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Some months ago Northville School Superintendent Russell Amerman gave me a copy of School Management magazine.

It contains numerous articles dealing with school administration. But I suspect the story meant for my eyes is the one entitled "How to Deal with the Local Press".

It's cleverly and expertly written by a school-employed director of community relations who formerly worked as a newspaperman and had once served as a principal and teacher.

The author's "common sense rules" are equally applicable to all public officials. And he uses a reverse twist type of humor to uncover the sensitive areas in a newsman's armor, thus leaving the press with food for thought, too.

Here are a few excerpts that I liked best:

(A telephone call to the author from a reporter) — "I just talked with one of the principals to ask if he is in favor of corporal punishment as a means of disciplining students."

"What did he tell you?"

"I'm not sure. I have three pages of quotes which I'm trying to translate; but I think he's either for it or against it."

(Another phone call a few minutes later from the principal) — "A reporter just called to ask my views on corporal punishment as a disciplinary measure."

"What did you tell him?"

"I'm not sure. I'll have to read the paper to find out."

"Every reporter is not an ogre. (Actually, I have known a few who are only mediocres.)"

"To all reporters be honest."

"When a reporter calls, don't tell him you are busy. He expects you to be busy, and the day he finds you aren't busy, he's going to have a better story than the one he was looking for. Sometimes they ask for — and expect to get in 15 minutes — information that normally would take two days to compile . . . talk him into giving you 20 minutes."

"Don't tell a reporter how to write his story — it's better to let the editor discover that his reporter doesn't know how to write."

"Don't be too quick to claim you've been misquoted in a story. Most of the time a reporter writes what you say, rather than what you think you said, or what you later wish you had said."

Finally, the author consoles the official who, try as he might, still finds himself and the newspaper in a perfect state of blissless incompatibility.

His advice: save your money, buy the newspaper and run it the way you think it should be run!

While on my magazine-reading kick this week, I ran across a test for that frustrated feeling.

How do you accept a set-back?

Just check the appropriate box after each of the following questions and see yourself as others see you. After a reversal — Yes No

1. Do you keep talking about your "rotten luck" to anyone who will listen? () ()
2. Does it take you several days — or longer — to snap back. That is, does your work suffer as a result of the frustration? () ()
3. Do you vociferously "rationalize" it with alibis like "Jones has always had it in for me" or "It's all politics around here"? () ()
4. Can you enjoy a good meal? () ()
5. Do you grow listless and lose your ambition for projects? () ()
6. Do you try to analyze the causes of the set-back and seek ways to prevent it from recurring? () ()
7. Are you satisfied anyway if you are convinced that you acted wisely? () ()
8. Can you see any humor at all in the situation? () ()
9. Do you take it out on others through humiliating or shouting at them? () ()
10. Can you forget about it after a reasonable length of time? () ()

The correct answers are NO to questions 1, 2, 3, 5 and 9, YES to the others.

How to score yourself: 10 right answers — you cheated; no one is that perfect! 8-9 right — nothing (well, almost nothing) can throw you. 6-7 right — your "frustration tolerance" is above average. Emotionally, you can afford to take calculated risks. 5 right — don't feel bad; the majority of people react in about the same way. 3-4 right — you're a trial to friends and family. 2 or less right — get out of town! You're driving everybody — including yourself — crazy!

(See you next week. I'm leaving town.)

State Library Facilities Need Boost

LANSING — More than half Michigan's population had no library service at all in 1962 and one million more had inadequate service. Records of the State Library Board also show that more counties had no service than received service.

In a time when knowledge is increasingly important, this is considered a sad situation, indeed. Consequently, a plan is proposed to the Legislature which would make the valuable benefits of books available to more people.

At present the state directly supports only $1.5 million of the $13.2 million needed to operate libraries at their existing level. The difference comes from local sources, penal fines and federal funds.

The plan proposed would double state support over the next three years. The cost would average about 37 cents per person per year, or about $2.9 million if all areas of the state organized library systems which qualified for the program.

This would call for specific grants for individual libraries and book systems which served areas of high population.

Intent of the detailed plan proposed by the MLA and State Board is to encourage improvement of the quality of library service and expansion of this service to areas not now reached by libraries.

Last year's attempt to get a state aid formula for libraries through the Legislature didn't get far. There was little apparent interest voiced by the public, and other legislative proposals which drew more attention gained precedence.

This year advocates hope more individuals will provide local support for libraries and will write or call their Senators and Representatives about the library bill.

The State Board argues that library needs are left out in the cold so far as financial assistance is concerned. Statistics seem to support this contention.

The Board notes that about $2.5 billion is allocated annually for public services in Michigan such as sewers, water, police protection, health, education and welfare benefits at all levels of government. The Board believes its province should get more than $13.2 million of this public service expenditure; and that the public sorely needs services of libraries.

A decision to set a flexible quota system on out-of-state students from certain areas at Michigan State University should make many members of the State Legislature happy.

A recent announcement by MSU President John A. Hannah was basically what some legislators have been attempting for several years.

Hannah said studies indicated four Eastern states were not doing their share in providing public higher education for their college age youth.

The states he listed were New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

The new policy at MSU is to limit enrollments from applicants from these four states. Hannah said an overload of Eastern region students would not benefit the University population.

Legislators have objected to the number of out-of-state students, particularly from New York, for several years. There have even been threats of decreased appropriations if some method were not found to cut down out-of-state enrollments, which legislators believe increased Michigan costs.

Basically, the legislators used the same argument, Hannah has cited. They said New York and several other states did not provide sufficient public education, and the influx here of Eastern students was due to the cheaper tuition rates here as compared to private Eastern institutions.

While legislators likely will be pleased with Hannah's decision, it is also possible it could result in heavy pressure for all other Michigan colleges and universities to set similar quotas.

The alternative to this pressure for a quota system could be the imposing threat of the wrath of the legislative purse-string holders.

Each individual would undoubtedly deny it, especially at the end of the month when bills roll in, but Federal statistics show Michigan is a wealth of public higher education for their college age youth.

Liquor flowed and spirits were high on that October 13 — the day they laid the cornerstone.

A few hours earlier men and women of considerable means had joined with those who seldom had food enough on the table to watch as the symbolic stone was cemented into place.

The setting was one of depressing squalor that prompted this feminine eye of professional appraisal: It is the "very dirtiest hole I ever saw for a place of any trade or respectability of inhabitants."

Now with symbolism and the chilling reminder that not all enjoyed the luxuries of gracious living behind them, men and women laughed and waxed serious, alternately, as they lifted glasses to their lips in 16 magnificent toasts.

The joyous occasion marked the close of disturbing delays in planning and it marked the beginning of what would prove to be a lengthy and arduous construction period.

Ironically, the man who perhaps more than any other was responsible for turning the building from paper dreams into reality never occupied it himself and, in fact, failed to live long enough to see its first inhabitants occupy the yet unfinished rooms.

Designed by an Irishman of little distinction named James Hoban, who emigrated to the United States shortly before the War, the house earned for its architect a $500 prize.

Original plans called for a Georgian style mansion of three stories befitting a gentleman of class, but because its first rightful occupant feared cost of construction might force postponement; together, he persuaded Hoban to top off the top floor. With that floor, officials had estimated the total cost at $400,000. Without it, Hoban hoped the initial grant of $200,000 would sufficiently cover construction costs.

But even without the third floor, cost of building the mansion exceeded the initial $200,000 grant, so lots within the city were auctioned off to help raise additional money. But funds for the project continued to lag and construction slowed painfully. Weeks turned to months, months to years until nearly a decade later the first occupants of the house prepared to make the move.

Had the mansion been completed perhaps the ride up the dirt road, across the open sewer and past the piles of repulsive debris and construction material would have been less depressing. But for the family which first called it home, the interior was equally disturbing. It was without plumbing, plastered walls were still damp and smelly, workmen continued their quiet but irritating duties, and the furniture was hardly adequate.

It would be many more months before the house was finished. Indeed, the work has never completely stopped. From one family to another has fallen the task of changes, additions, redecorating, and remodeling.

Yet, despite early inconvenience amid a sordid setting, despite wars, despite gutting by fire, despite death and painful memories, despite major overhaul, the white sandstone walls that give it its name still stand as they did in 1800 when John and Abigail Adams first called it home.

Obviously, the only President never to occupy the mansion who can rightfully be called its creator and who stood with the others in 1792 on that day they laid the cornerstone, had far reaching vision when he wrote:

"The doubts and opinion of others . . . have occasioned no change in my sentiments on the subject. They have always been, that the plan ought to be prosecuted with all the dispatch the nature of the case will admit, and that the public buildings in size, form and elegance, should look beyond the present day"

President Washington looked beyond the day when he proposed the White House.

What We Can Expect in 75 Years

BABSON PARK, Mass. — I have a friend in Lake Wales, Florida, Mrs. William Jones, who specializes in authentic antiques. Some time ago she gave me a book, which I have just finished looking over. It is entitled "The History of Mankind," and was printed many, many years ago before the time of photography.

The book first impresses me with the great courage of the people of long-ago days, when very few of the commodities existed which we think important today. The skins of animals provided clothing to keep people warm day and night. They cut down their own near-by trees to provide heat. Their only need was for food; and the essentials for producing food are seed to grow it and offspring to continue the harvesting of it . . . both of which the people provided.

Their idea of the function of government was to educate and to protect people from sickness. Hospitals were almost non-existent, and people sent to one were treated as if they were in a house of correction. As time went on, families gradually started to unite into groups, thus marking perhaps the beginning of the United Nations Organization, which I feel sure is here to stay.

This book also suggests how the sun, the moon, and the stars were sufficient to give free light, heat, and someday perhaps free power to everybody.

As I go out at night and look at the heavens I am impressed with the fact that the sun is today the source of everything, including food; but that some day the moon and the stars will likewise play a great role in the lives of those on this planet. This is why so many are intelligently interested in the study of space. We surely will reach the moon before 75 years of exploration.

Basing the future on the past, I should say that within 75 years there may be no stock exchange, and even "over the counter" trading may be forbidden. I hope I am wrong; but I feel that almost every one may be working for the government under some sort of socialistic system. This would not provide opportunity for investment, other than in the form of buildings. These would be primarily for the education and health of the people. It is quite likely that employment will come from three sources: (1) government, requiring personnel to run it; (2) education, calling for teachers and doctors; and (3) construction, creating demand for those who have a trade.

How will these buildings be financed? My guess today would be that the community would issue so-called "municipal bonds" to provide the funds necessary to build hospitals, schools, and other community facilities. These bonds would be sold to the people; they would pay a very low interest rate; and would be perfectly safe. They would be redeemed gradually through taxation. Whether we are living under socialism or communism on some other "ism," taxes will be unavoidable.

In short, municipal bonds may be the safest investment even today. I do not mean that there are not other safe investments, but I should place municipal bonds used for buildings as the most acceptable. Toll road bonds may be all right for a reasonable time into the future, but ultimately all highways will be free of tolls.

This book shows clearly that religion in many of its primitive forms was a kind of "magic." There gradually followed the rise of many different denominations. Along the way — between the "quackery" with which it started and the several hundred church denominations we have acquired today — there developed what is called "theology".

Let me make it clear that

I believe in one God and one church; but it is the family and home which must establish this faith — it cannot be left to legislation or church organization. Let me add, in closing, that I feel the future must depend also on courage and self-control such as marked the pioneers of old. We do not have to fight wild animals for our very existence; but we do have other things to face which take courage. Faith in God will help us to succeed

CHEVY II by Chevrolet

You don't need a big car to get big performance. Not any more. You'll quickly see why when you check the '64 Chevy II. There are two new higher performance optional-at-extra-cost engines for you to pick from. One is Chevrolet's strapping 195-hp Turbo-Fire V8. The other is a new chrome-trimmed 155-hp Turbo-Thrift Six.

If you've got a mountain to climb or a truck to pass, these are the engines that can leave either one safely behind you. In fact, this new Chevy II packs a wallop everywhere but in your wallet.

New brakes match this power, too. Bigger, to dissipate heat faster. Self-adjusting, to save you money. Other easy-care features include Delcotron generator and a fully aluminum muffler.

Chevy II is smartly styled outside, comfortable inside. There are a lot of models to choose from. A lot of extra-cost accessories to customize it just about any way you'd like. And a whole lot of fun to look forward to. At a very low cost. Test drive Chevy II at your Chevrolet dealer's soon. You'll like it!
