

New School Budget Reveals Money Gap

Slashing of estimated costs even before they're firmed up appeared imminent here Monday as the Northville board of education tacked together framework for its preliminary 1964-65 fiscal budget.

In their first long look at next year's projected income and outlay, board members discovered what they have feared since voting a substantial increase in teacher salaries: a sizeable deficit.

On the basis of fixed and projected costs, along with a rough but conservative estimate of income, preliminary examination of the financial picture showed a possible deficit of well over $50,000.

Presently, board members and administrators are predicting a budget increase over the 1963-64 outlay of from $120,000 to $150,000. They see a total budget of more than $860,000 as compared to this year's estimated outlay of $744,480.

Nevertheless, the board appeared optimistic that a near-balanced, preliminary budget will be ready for submission to the county tax allocation board by the April 20 deadline.

Board members noted that this year for the first time all boards of education are required to conduct public hearings on proposed budgets. Locally, the hearing will take place sometime between April 20 and August, Amerman said.

Meanwhile, the board has its fingers crossed in hopes that estimated income will be greater than anticipated. A greater income, plus some reduction in projected costs hopefully will result in a budget acceptable to the allocation board.

Between now and the next meeting administrators are expected to "work over" the budget figures and set the stage for board decision. Priority outlays will be determined, and areas of expense that can be trimmed if necessary will be labeled.

Changes upward of two areas of revenue conceivably can completely change the financial picture, it was noted. These areas include tax income based upon the equalized valuation of the school district and state aid.

If for example, said Assistant Superintendent Kenneth MacLeod, the valuation of the district increases to more than he now conservatively estimates at $30.5 million, the resulting tax income will considerably offset projected increasing costs. Pegged now at $30.5 million, the valuation will produce an estimated $29,000 more in tax revenue than in the present fiscal year, he said.

He and Superintendent Russell Amerman also emphasized that adoption of the most financially beneficial of the two state aid bills now in the Legislature would "go a long way" in offsetting increased costs.

Mention of the state aid sparked a lengthy discussion on the merits of the bills in the Legislature and finally, at the suggestion of acting president James Kipfer, the board agreed to draft a letter to be sent to the legislative education committee urging passage of House Bill 715. This bill, endorsed by all state education agencies and a good many school districts, is considered "more beneficial" than the bill sponsored by Governor Romney.

Individual citizen support of Bill 715, said Kipfer, is needed to insure its passage. He and fellow board members urged that letters be sent to the Legislature asking for its adoption. Letters, they noted, should be sent to the House education committee in Lansing.

Officials gave these three primary reasons for preferring Bill 715: It pegs the percentage of state aid at a definite figure — 55.8 percent; it recognizes effort of the local school district to help itself; and it is geared to the district's ability to support school programs.

Elaborating, the board pointed out that districts should be encouraged to do what they can "on their own" and should be rewarded for these efforts.

In other action Monday, the board —

—Approved participation in a teacher training program at Schoolcraft college;

—Heard a report that the school transportation committee probably will be ready to disclose its findings and recommendations by the next meeting of the board;

—Adopted three new textbooks, "A World History," "Modern Algebra I," and "Modern Algebra II";

—Agreed to post the high school football field;

—Discussed at length various aspects of the newly enacted Teacher Tenure Act.

Northville city council members upheld the dismissal of Andrew Cain, former police department sergeant, in a unanimous decision rendered Tuesday night after a four-hour hearing and another hour of deliberation.

Cain was discharged by City Manager Bruce Potthoff after the officer was found guilty February 10 in the Farmington township court of Judge Allen C. Ingle of a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

The incident occurred Sunday evening, February 9, approximately 1½ hours before Cain was scheduled to report for midnight duty.

At least 100 citizens attended the community building hearing. Although the hearing remained orderly, the audience let its sentiments be known by occasional outbursts of applause for statements by Cain's attorney, Robert E. Childs.

In statements issued after the hearing the attorney was highly critical of the decision, said one member of the council had made up his mind before the hearing and added that Cain would have resigned even if reinstated.

Attorney Childs maintained that Cain was not guilty of the drunk and disorderly charge and stated that the action by Judge Ingle would be appealed in Oakland county circuit court.

Cain admitted having "five or six beers" prior to the auto accident which led to his arrest but insisted that he was neither drunk nor disorderly. He said he had been led to understand by the arresting officer that the charges were to be dropped when he appeared in court. The officer admitted that he pleaded guilty, but said the charge was not read in the court and he was not represented by legal counsel. He paid $10 costs.

The hearing opened with an explanation of the charter provisions giving a dismissed officer the right to seek an appeal before the council. City Attorney Phillip Ogilvie noted that the hearing was not mandatory, but at the discretion of the council. He also noted that they could only "recommend" action to the city manager, who has full authority over city employees.

The city attorney pointed out that such hearings are closed to the public unless otherwise requested by the employee. Cain's attorney requested an open hearing.

After Ogilvie outlined the law and procedure Childs questioned the validity of the ordinance delegating authority to the city manager. He also said the date of the hearing regulations indicated they had been drafted solely for Cain and he called the rules for requiring a list of witnesses unfair.

Mayor A. M. Allen said the procedure was a hearing and not a court of law. He called upon the city manager to read his charges against Cain.

Childs objected to use of testimony of the arresting officer as presented by Manager Potthoff.

The city manager read a statement signed by the Farmington township arresting officer. The police officer said he noted an accident at the intersection of Eight Mile road and Grand River at approximately 10:30 p.m. He said that the car driven by Cain had struck the rear of another car driven by a woman when the latter stopped for a red light. He said that he detected that "Cain had been drinking, speech was very incoherent, was staggering and had a strong odor of alcohol on his breath."

The arresting officer indicated Cain was not injured. The officer called for help to take the woman to the hospital and have Cain taken to the station. It later developed that the woman was "shook up" but unhurt and she did not press charges against Cain.

The arresting officer said he returned to the station and charged Cain with being drunk and disorderly. He said he did not know until he returned to the station that Cain was a Northville police officer. He said his sergeant informed the Northville department that it had Cain in custody.

The officer stated that Cain was not in condition to report for duty. He said Cain was offered the right to make a phone call but that he did not do so for an hour or more. Later the Northville officer called his sister who arrived at 4 a.m. with cash bond for his release. The arresting officer said that it was the opinion of his sergeant that Cain was still not in condition to be released until 5 a.m.

City Manager Potthoff said that his decision to dismiss Cain was based "in part" on the above incident. He then pointed to other disciplinary items on Cain's record.

These included leaving the city to respond to a call from Livonia to assist with a road block on Six Mile road, consuming alcoholic beverage in a local bar while off duty contrary to departmental orders, two citizen complaints and an attempt in January, 1963 "to incite fellow officers into police action."

Here's Statement By Council

The following statement was read by the city council after Tuesday night's four-hour hearing and after an hour in private session:

After hearing and reviewing the testimony and evidence presented by the city manager and Andrew Cain, through his counsel, Robert E. Childs, regarding the validity of the dismissal of Andrew Cain from the Northville Police Department, the Council for the City of Northville:

Finds that Mr. Cain has been given adequate warning in the past and the City Manager did have an adequate basis to dismiss Mr. Cain from the Police Department. Further, it is our judgment that to have done otherwise in view of all of the evidence and the record would not have been in the best interests of the morale and total effectiveness of the City work force.

The City Manager is clearly charged with complete responsibility for personnel administration, including hiring and termination of employment. The Council finds no basis to feel they should attempt to override or to recommend he reverse his decision.

However, in view of Mr. Cain's long years of service to the City, the Council suggests to the City Manager that for the purpose of his record only, the said Andrew Cain be given an opportunity to resign from the Police Department as of the date of his dismissal. Provided, that if Mr. Cain does not wish to submit his resignation as specified, then there is no recommendation by the Council of any further action on this matter.

Head of the metropolitan Detroit campaign in Macomb county is Dr. Gerald Morris of Mt. Clemens. Chairmen in Oakland County are Dr. Worth W. Henderson of Royal Oak, and Dr. Robert Bookmyer of Birmingham.

A donation of 50 cents a dose is asked of each person receiving the vaccine, but no one will be turned away for lack of funds.

Health authorities say that the main reason the oral, attenuated vaccine has proved especially effective is that it not only produces antibodies in the blood stream but also produces resistance to infection in the intestinal tract since the mouth is the normal port of entry of polio infection of naturally occurring infection.

A mass immunization program in Miami, Florida, using Dr. Francis P. Rhoades, chairman of the committee in charge of the Wayne County drive, emphasizes that everyone over the age of one year should take the two doses of oral vaccine — regardless of previous shots.

"We haven't had much polio recently," Dr. Rhoades said. "And the credit mainly goes to polio shots. But for long-range protection against possible future epidemics, it is essential that everyone take the oral vaccine."

Dr. Rhoades said that studies have shown that attenuated oral polio vaccine, the type to be administered during the campaign, will give higher levels of immunity even in those who have had previous polio shots.

He pointed out that European studies have shown that the attack rate among those who have had the attenuated oral vaccine is much lower than among those who took injections of polio vaccine.

The campaign in the metropolitan area reaches its first climax on Sunday, April 19, when some 900 immunization stations all over Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties will be open to feed sugar cubes containing the oral vaccine to all persons in the area.

Oral Polio Vaccine Urged for Everyone

"Why should we take oral polio vaccine? All members of our family have had polio shots."

That's a common reaction to the massive tri-county campaign to immunize 3½ million persons against polio.

Ebert to Direct Polio Drive Here

Dempsey Ebert has been named chairman of the oral vaccine clinics to be held in Northville April 19 and June 14.

The appointment was made by Superintendent of Schools Russell Amerman. School superintendents in the tri-county campaign area have been asked to coordinate the program.

Ebert said Northville's clinic would be held on the two Sunday dates at the community building from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

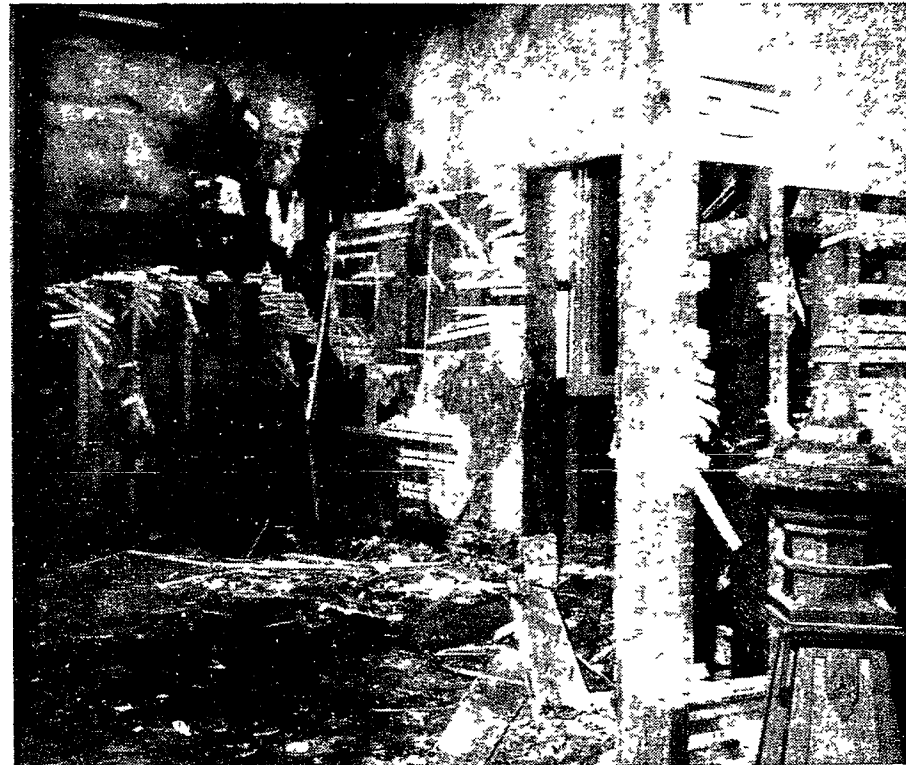

He said that 20 volunteers are needed to serve at each of the two clinics. In addition one doctor and three registered nurses will be on duty. Ebert said he would seek local volunteers for all positions, including the nurses and doctor.

Firemen Foil Firebug

Prompt action by the Northville police and fire departments saved the vacant, three-story home of the late F. E. Whipple at 46001 West Eight Mile road (shown at right) from being destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. Police Officers Louis Westfall and Melvin Roeker noticed the fire through cracks in boarded windows while on patrol shortly after 2 a.m. Fire Chief Bud Hartner and 14 members of his department responded promptly and held the fire in check. Officials reported that the fire had been "obviously set" and noted that there were three small fires in one room. City Manager Bruce Potthoff praised both police and firemen for their alertness. One of the rooms in the huge home is shown above.

High School Girl Wins 4-Year Ford Scholarship

A Northville girl is one of 70 high school seniors in 12 states who marked an academic achievement Sunday by winning Ford Motor Company Fund 4-year college scholarships in a competition of 1,200 candidates.

Dianne L. Haynes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Haynes, 46355 West Main street, was one of only 30 seniors so honored in Michigan.

Dianne will use her four-year scholarship at Wheaton college in Illinois, where she plans to study for a career as an elementary school teacher. Benson Ford, president of the Ford Fund, notified the sons and daughters of Ford Motor Company employees and certain of its affiliates by telegram delivered Sunday. Winners were selected by a nine-member board of leading educators.

The recipients in the 14th competition include 42 boys and 28 girls. Michigan led the award list with 30 winners — eight from Detroit, six from Dearborn and 16 from other communities in the state. The remaining 40 winners came from 11 other states. Ohio had 12 recipients; Pennsylvania, six; California, five; New Jersey, four; Indiana, Missouri and New York, three each, and Florida, Illinois, Massachusetts and Texas, one each.

Dianne's father is an engineer at Ford's Livonia transmission plant. The Hayneses first moved to Northville in 1952. They returned when Dianne entered the eleventh grade after living for five years in Indianapolis, where Mr. Haynes had been transferred.

Northville also had a Ford scholarship winner last year. It was Rosemarie Kaminski, who is now a student at the University of Michigan.

All scholarship winners will be invited to Dearborn June 28-30 for a formal awards conference.

The scholarships pay tuition and a major portion of living expenses. Recipients are selected on the basis of school records, the college entrance examination board's scholastic aptitude test scores, and other potentialities for success in college and post-college life. Winners may choose any approved college or university in the continental United States.

Since the program began in 1951, nearly 1,000 scholarships have been awarded. At present, 262 winners from 25 states and the District of Columbia are attending 94 colleges and universities.

Coordinating Council Decides To Close Books

The Northville Coordinating Council, born in the spring of 1940, has been disbanded.

Decision to disband came at the March meeting of the council attended by a quorum of nine members. Those present agreed that apparently there is no longer a need for the organization in the community.

Officials pointed out this past week that "there now seems to be a lack of interest in the community in the support and work of such an organization. Perhaps some other group can carry on the projects started — such as the Citizenship Dinner, the community calendar, and the Beautiful Northville campaign."

Members voted to present banked funds to the newly formed Northville Historical Society and that the account be closed.

Search for a United Nations flag, made by Mrs. Samuel Geraci, then living in the community and active in the council, was announced. "This flag" according to officials, "was given to the city to be used by any organization. The present whereabouts of this flag is unknown. If anyone knows where this flag is will they please call Miss Ruth Knapp, 349-1829."

Organization of the council was made under the guidance of Dr. Howard McClusky of the University of Michigan, who in 1940 worked several months with the prime movers: Dr. H. S. Willis, superintendent of Maybury Sanatorium; Rev. H. S. Lord of the First Methodist Church of Northville; W. H. Cansfield of the Northville Record; R. H. Amerman, superintendent of schools; and Dr. Wilbur Johnston, commander of the American Legion.

The first citizenship dinner to honor 21'ers took place on October 29, 1940, with Carl H. Bryan introducing Mayor Jeffries of Detroit, who defined the duties of a citizen to 300 persons.

Plan 'Barber of Seville' At Plymouth April 12

"Barber of Seville" by Gioacchino Rossini, performed by the Turnau Opera Players, will highlight the final free concert of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra on Sunday evening, April 12.

The concert will get underway at 8:15 p.m. in the Plymouth high school auditorium. Conductor of the 100-piece symphony orchestra, now in its 18th concert season, is Wayne Dunlap.

The Turnau Opera Players originated in 1955 with a group of former students of the late Professor Josef Turnau and is named in his honor.

In their fifth national tour, the Players are offering "The Barber of Seville", a 19th Century comic opera, to be sung in a new English adaptation which faithfully reproduced the vigor of the Italian Libretto and suggests the flavor of Beaumarchais' original comedy.

Consisting of six young singers, stage manager and musical director, the Players have staged more than 350 performances of 40 operas and have given premieres of five contemporary works. In addition to a busy itinerary which takes them to all sections of the country, the company has resided seasons in Sarasota, Florida and Woodstock, New York.

APRIL MAY BE the dancing-est month of the year in Northville. Dancing slippers will be needed the first three Saturdays of the month. This Saturday will be flats for the "do-si-do" as members of the Family Square Dance club swing out at a potluck-dance at the community building.

Mothers' Club annual Spring Fantasy dance is set for April 11 at Meadowbrook country club. Phil Cole and his orchestra will play for dancing from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Funds from this benefit are used by the club to provide extra equipment for the Northville schools.

Final arrangements will be made at the group's business meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the home of the president, Mrs. Essie Nirider, 985 Grace street. Co-hostesses are Mrs. A. L. Wistert, Mrs. William Wiley and Mrs. Blake Couse.

Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Catholic church has reserved April 18 for a spring dinner-dance at Roma Hall in Livonia. A gourmet buffet beginning at 7:30 will precede dancing to the music of the Rhythm King orchestra.

Co-chairmen Mrs. Harry Crofts and Mrs. Russell Saputo point out that this is to be the annual money-raising event for the League, replacing for this year a spring fair. On the committee are Mrs. Ted Marzoni, Mrs. Nelson Hyatt, Mrs. Edward Zywiec, Mrs. Thomas Purdy, Mrs. Neil Suddendorf, Mrs. Eugene Kampmann, Mrs. James Ossemany, Mrs. Marshall Huff.

The Italian dinner menu will include such specialties as cheese Provolone and Capocollo in addition to four main courses and such desserts as Cannoli (tiny creme-filled sticks) and "angel wings." A pizza snack will be served later in the evening. Tickets are available from the co-chairmen.

SNATCHES OF TIME — such as when her small daughter naps — are put to creative use by Mrs. Thomas Johnson, 22045 Novi road, whose first children's story appears in the April issue of Jack and Jill magazine. (It is "Uncle Sude and the Pink Peppermints" with byline, Emily R. Johnson.)

Two other stories will be appearing in Presbyterian Life magazine, one at Christmas-time. Several others are in the hands of magazine editors.

Somehow, this young mother of son Glenn, 3, and daughter Heidi, 15 months, makes her activities sound effortless. She began her new "career" when her doctor husband brought four writer's magazines home from a newsstand a year ago. Her husband, a second year resident in internal medicine at University of Michigan hospital, Ann Arbor, also serves as her best critic.

Although her children are just approaching the story-loving age, Mrs. Johnson has experience with the eight-to-twelve year old group she mainly writes for: she formerly taught fifth grade at Main street school. She hopes to see some of her former pupils next fall as she has taken training to lead an eighth-grade group in the Junior Great Books course.

Speaker To Attack Pornography

A talk and slides concerning pornography will be presented here Tuesday by an assistant prosecuting attorney of Wayne county.

The presentation will be made by Roman Gribbs at a meeting of the Ladies League of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church at 8 p.m. The program will be open to the public and officials emphasize that men are invited.

Gribbs will show how pornography has made inroads into the daily lives of each and every citizen. According to officials, the program "may shock some of you and it may anger others, but it won't be dull."

The speaker will point out what pornographic literature is available to children under innocent covers and which is many times found in the least suspected places.

"This presentation should help all parents to be more alert to the material their children are reading and also the source of such material."

League officials also reminded members to return their tickets for the dinner dance slated for April 18. Tickets should be returned at Tuesday's meeting.

Already well entrenched in their neighborhood activities at their new home in Willowbrook subdivision are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wilson of 23940 Willowbrook, Novi.

The Wilsons, who hail originally from the Detroit area, lived temporarily in Farmington before moving into their Novi home. Previously, they lived in Kalamazoo where Mr. Wilson attended Western Michigan university.

Center of the young couple's attention, of course, are their two youngsters Michael John, 3½, and James Erin, 1½. Although Mr. Wilson majored in education while in college, he became interested in the business world soon after leaving Western and is now a salesman for the Harrim Crane & Co. of Detroit.

Following his graduation from Redford high school, where he was an outstanding athlete, he tried his hand at semi-professional baseball and eventually attracted the eye of Major League scouts. Then for two years, he played minor league ball for Washington and Minnesota before returning to college.

Sports continue to occupy much of his interest. Presently, he is a member of the Ever Seven Sports Club, a Detroit area organization that devotes much of its time to working with youngsters in the area of sports.

Mrs. Wilson is an avid bridge player. Both are interested in junior chamber of commerce activities in Farmington where Mr. Wilson is a member of the Jaycees.

Plan College Vote Campaign

The Community College Citizens Committee chartered final campaign plans last night (Wednesday, April 1) in the effort to win votes for the June 8 election for an Oakland County Community College.

Detailed plans for reaching voters by telephone, in speeches to organizations, through the newspapers and radio, and through printed flyers during April and May were presented by sub-committee chairman.

Sub-committee chairman reported that letters requesting campaign fund have already been mailed to 1,700 organizations leaders and business firms. Five thousand pamphlets outlining aims, functions and finances of a community college have been printed and distributed and 70 members of a speakers bureau have presented the case for a locally-supported, locally-controlled two-year college to area clubs and organizations.

Council Backs Manager's Decision

tical activity for the purpose of removing the chief." The latter action resulted in reduction of vacation time and a "severe warning," said the city manager.

At this point Attorney Childs took over the hearing. He questioned both the city manager and Police Chief Eugene King. He called upon two witnesses in addition to Cain, both former officers — Sergeant Frank Heintz and Officer Chris Flynn. In deliberate manner, frequently walking about the room, Attorney Childs questioned Pothoff and King. He noted that the manager had not been involved with local affairs or Cain's record before October, 1961 when Pothoff succeeded Manager John Robertson.

He asked Pothoff if he had not told police officers in private talks in February, 1963 that "administration changes would be made." Pothoff denied this.

The attorney then sought to determine how the manager obtained his information of the Farmington incident. Pothoff said he directed the department head (King) to obtain the details.

Attorney Childs then pointed out that the manager reached a decision to dismiss Cain without talking to the officer.

Childs then turned to King. He questioned his police experience. He asked King if he had told the Farmington sergeant about the prior drinking incident on Cain's record. Chief King said he did in reply to the question from the Farmington sergeant.

Childs asked King if he had talked to the arresting officer, King said no, but later Childs called upon ex-officer Heintz who said that the chief, Heintz, who said the arresting officer had discussed the case in King's office and that King had criticized the Farmington officer when the latter suggested he would withdraw the charge if King desired.

Both Heintz and Flynn were critical of Chief King. Most of their testimony served to discredit the chief.

Heintz said King should have gone to Farmington to help Cain. The chief said he felt his duty was to the community and he took over Cain's midnight shift.

Heintz also said that the Farmington officer had told him the day after the incident that Cain was not drunk. Heintz said he called the Farmington officer and had him come to Northville. In answer to a question by Councilman John Canterbury Heintz said that the Farmington police "had no basis for arresting Cain," and stated that they (Farmington township police) were "out to get Cain."

Cain was next to be called by Childs. His service record as a veteran of the marine corps and recipient of a purple heart was brought out as well as citations for service on the police force. Cain had received citations for apprehending a DeHoo escapee and a juvenile gang involved in robberies. He also had citations signed by King and some letters from citizens who acknowledged the service performance of the officer on duty.

Cain defended his action in leaving the city to assist Livonia police in a road block. He admitted he was wrong in drinking in a local bar and said this reprimand was justified. He also defended his action involving two citizen complaints.

Cain then explained the reprimand of January, 1963 when Officer Flynn reported to Chief King that Cain had asked him to meet with Earl Reed, a former city councilman and a candidate for mayor at that time.

Cain said he wanted to get all the officers together and petition the city council for a hearing on grievances. He said department morale was low. He criticized the chief for having an officer answer a bank alarm alone while he (the chief) sat in the office. Cain said there were other problems, but at the last minute two of the men backed out.

Cain said that Reed had been his friend for years. He explained that he was only taking Flynn to Reed's house so that Reed could meet him.

The officer then explained the events of the Farmington incident. He said he had visited his mother in Dearborn during the day and later met his brother at a bar in Lincoln Park. He said he had five or six beers and then left for home. Cain explained that the accident occurred when the car driven by a woman stopped suddenly in front of him.

Cain stated that he was not disorderly and that he did not challenge the charge of drunk and disorderly because "you can't argue with the law."

The officer reported that after he had been released on cash bond he returned the next morning at 8:30 a.m. and learned that his case would not be heard until that afternoon. He said he learned the address of the woman involved in the accident and visited her to see if she was all right.

He said she indicated she was "shook up" but unhurt and that she would not press charges.

Later Cain said the arresting officer indicated that he was dropping the charges but that the judge wanted to talk with him.

"I went into the court on the pretext the charge had been dropped," Cain noted. He said the judge told him he was being charged with being drunk and disorderly, but did not read the complaint or advise him of his rights to legal counsel. Cain said that he replied, "I plead guilty to having a few bottles of beer." He said he was fined $10.

Cain then went to see Chief King who said they would meet with the city manager the next day. Cain said the meeting was not held and that he was handed his letter of dismissal at 4 p.m. the next day.

Officer Flynn then testified. Flynn noted a number of complaints about the manner in which the police department is managed. His comments drew interruptions from Mayor Allen and Councilmen Fred Kester and Canterbury who asked what this line of testimony had to do with Cain's dismissal.

Flynn said that King had told him things were improving on the department but that there was still one "trouble maker" Flynn noted that he had taken suggestions to monthly meetings of the force, such as keeping the resuscitator in the police car instead of the station, but that nothing was done and finally the meetings were discontinued.

He admitted that he objected to becoming "involved in politics" and argued with Cain about this. He said Cain accused him of "being with them," but that he said he was with neither side and felt that election time was not the proper time to act. He said he took his problems to Sergeant Heintz and Chief King.

Flynn said he did not think King was qualified to be chief. He also stated that in his opinion there were no other members of the department qualified either.

He concluded by saying it was a shame that such trouble had to exist in a small community like Northville and that he was sorry it happened when he was on the force.

In final concluding remarks Attorney Childs commended the community, but added, "you have problems." He said that an "immature officer" (the Farmington township officer making the arrest had served one and a half months) could cost the city of Northville a fine police officer who is a valuable asset.

He criticized Northville for having officers on patrol alone in cars. He said the only justifiable reprimand, aside from the Farmington case, was Cain's drinking in a local bar. "He had no business doing that, even off duty," the attorney stated.

He said that the city manager's decision to dismiss Cain was too harsh.

The attorney also warned the council that it might be in an embarrassing position if he is successful in getting the charges against Cain dropped by the Oakland county circuit court.

His concluding remarks brought applause from the audience.

LET'S TALK CARS . . .

What's the Future of Seat Belts?

The evidence is ample and is still piling up that seat belts could save a lot of lives each year if the public could be persuaded to use them.

The American Medical Association, whose members have the job of patching up the victims of car crashes, estimates that 10,000 lives could be saved each year from the 40,000-odd highway fatalities if the victims had been using seat belts.

No less an authority than the California State highway patrol believes that serious and fatal injuries in 1,500,000 road accidents last year could have been cut by 35% if California and New York state vehicles are now equipped with belts.

Evidence that the public is ignoring the advice of safety authorities is the fact that seat belts are sold on only about 2% of automobiles delivered to the public with about one third of these not being used after they have been installed.

Perhaps one reason for the apathy is that the public thinks the belts are designed for high speed only. Statistics show otherwise — that the belts save lives in low-speed collisions. An end-over-end at 80 miles per hour is likely to be fatal no matter how well you're belted in. But a 5 to 15 mile-per-hour intersection crash can kill you too if your head collides with the dash panel, windshield or the pavement.

Any day you're convinced, we'll be happy to install belts in your car promptly.

SHOULDER TO THE WHEEL — To speed the repair of a separated shoulder, suffered during a football game with Wisconsin last fall, Northville's Steve Juday turned this wheel in State's adapted sports room. Juday, now fully recovered, is touring the southland with the Michigan State baseball squad. He was the regular Spartan quarterback last season.

Local Baseballers Give MSU Boost

There's no mistaking the similarity between Kansas City and Northville — both serve as baseball farm clubs for more powerful nines.

Kansas City has been furnishing baseball talent for the powerful New York Yankees, and Northville is fast gaining that distinction with Michigan State University.

Three former Mustangs are making their mark at East Lansing on the varsity and freshmen squads. They are Junior Wade Deal, Sophomore Steve Juday and Freshman Tom Swiss.

Juday and Deal are now members of the 22-man Spartan baseball team that is on its spring training junket through the southeastern seaboard states. They will return to East Lansing sometime this week.

Niles Rides To Record

Rusty Range, a South Lyon colt driven by Willard Niles of Northville, set a world record for a dead heat in California on March 28.

Tied with Rusty in the dead heat at $10,000 San Diego Pace in Santa Anita Park was Mr. Budlong, driven by Jimmy Cruise. It was the fastest mile pace in the nation this year.

The local area colt was Michigan champion colt stake pacer in both 1961 and 1962 and was Northville's top horse of 1963.

Kimball Fires Florida Ace

A Northville resident couldn't wait for spring to open the 1964 golf season. Instead he picked March 14 to fire a 155-yard ace while vacationing in Florida.

Emory Kimball of 390 First street, who came up with a hole in one on June 6, 1951, shot his second ace in Miami, Florida at Ledge Golf course last month. He made the tee shot with a five iron on the eighth hole.

Kimball's first ace was made with a seven iron on the 133-yard 14th hole at Warren Valley Golf Course.

Local 9 Flexes Muscles Indoors

Mustangs Eye Opener

With the opening day of the baseball season only one week off, Coach Chuck Shonta's stalwarts are looking south with envious eyes.

Small wonder — that's where the warm weather is.

With four weeks of practice under their belts, the Mustangs have been chased indoors by inclement weather, with the exception of two days when they took to a muddy field to flex batting muscles.

At this rate, Northville may open its season indoors for the first time.

But there's consolation in the thought that other Wayne-Oakland conference foes have been faced with the same grisly situation. And despite freezing temperatures, the 16 varsity members have been giving "Iron Mike", the mechanical pitcher, a rough time. They have been slugging its offerings all over the gym.

The young hopefuls have also been getting a maximum workout, throwing, running and fielding, not to mention the calisthenics.

There's still something missing however.

"Although we've looked good so far, we'll have to move outdoors to really see what we can do," said Shonta.

One notable weakness which Shonta or any of his players are helpless to do anything about is the absence of one left handed batter. "Everyone of the boys swings from the port side, so we can probably expect to see our share of right handed pitchers," Shonta noted.

Otherwise the Mustangs measure up as a potentially good ball club with the strong point being pitching. Three strong twirlers, veteran star Eric Peterson and Sophomores Steve Evans and Jerry Imsland, will take their turns on the mound.

Both the outfield and infield are fair to good; the infield, however, has the hitting edge by virtue of its experience. Newcomers will probably fill the bill in the outfield. At this late date, the center field post is still up for grabs.

Good speed and bench strength give Northville game winning advantages. At the high school level, where fielding is usually a weakness, speed will not only unnerve the opposition, it also gives a team the defensive edge.

Perhaps the most important consideration in winning ball games, a quantity which the Mustangs seem to have in excess, is spirit.

"They're a spirited bunch of willing ball players," Shonta beamed. "They always want more practice, even though we've put in a full day."

The race for starting positions shapes up in the following manner although none are confirmed:

First base — Dave Jerome, a smart ball player and a good fielder

Second base — Larry Angove, a good stick man who knows his baseball

Third base — John Mach, good speed, good hitter, a hustler

Short Stop — John Jameson, a good hitter, needing experience, Bob Bartski, a good

Center field — Wide open, although Mike Turnbull, normally a first baseman, may work out. A good hitter.

Right field — a platoon situation with pitchers Imsland and Peterson alternating when not on the mound. Both good stick men with power.

Catcher — Doug Swiss, a freshman, good receiver.

1964 THINCLADS — A select group of Northville track men will kick off the spring sports competition tomorrow at East Lansing in the Michigan State university relays — indoors, of course. Team members are left to right (first row) D. Cook, R. Parmenter, D. Karrer, B. Tabor, J. Trotter, J. Hill, P. Jones, C. Konopaski, B. Prodder, (second row) J. Banks, Coach Roy Herald, K. Kipper, B. Richardson, R. Straith, B. Orr, M. Hall, P. Presnell, R. Caliguirri, J. Willis, J. Kaake, (third row) M. Chadwick, P. Soubank, M. Elliot, C. Annett, J. Hines, J. Crawford, K. Boor, T. Winner, J. Blackburn, W. Ritter, (fourth row) R. Forrester, S. Lawrence, T. Bingham, J. McMillan, J. Spietz, D. Cook, G. Adams, J. Burns, K. Puff, J. Gorczynski, T. Krug. Absent is Coach Joe Trickey

Two Hay Brothers Tune Up for Baseball

Dave Hay

Joe Hay

Northville brothers David and Joe Hay, former star athletes at the local high school, are bolstering the hopes of two college baseball teams now engaged in spring tune-up games.

Dave, a 1961 Northville graduate, is playing his third year of baseball at Central College in Pella, Iowa. A sure bet for a starting role in the outfield, the Central Junior currently is in Palm Beach, Florida where the Flying Dutchmen are playing the Florida college circuit before opening the regular season in Iowa.

Dave also is a halfback with the varsity eleven at Central college.

Brother Joe, who graduated from Northville last year, is a freshman at Northwood Institute at Midland, and he's working out now with Northwood's baseball squad in Virginia.

A catcher, Joe is a top candidate for a starting position. Northwood's nine left for Camp Lejeune and Camp Belvoir last week where several double headers are scheduled. The squad will return April 5.

The Hay brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. David Hay of Northville.

budget on page two, section two. Supervisor Merriam noted that the additional money will be used to pay a high library rental fee when the city moves into its new city hall and opens the new library facility, revamp township voting machines so that larger-size ballots can be used, purchase new fire equipment items. Other anticipated increases as reflected in the proposed budget include engineering expenses, fire contract with the city and dust treatment of roads.

The supervisor said that he had been informed by the city that a rental fee for use of the city's fire hall would be added to the charge for fire protection.

In addition the city and township can't see eye-to-eye on use of the dump. The city has protested because the township has permitted institutions to use the dumping facility. The city has notified the township that the present contract will that new terms will be negotiated.

Northville Justice Court

Jack R. Derrick of 21525 Beck road paid fines totalling $80 this past week in Northville justice court.

Arraigned before Judge Charles W. McDonald on Monday, he pleaded guilty of reckless driving on March 21. He was assessed a $50 fine and $5 costs in lieu of a 30 day jail sentence.

At the same time, Derrick pleaded guilty of two outstanding charges of the Wayne county sheriff's department: speeding 60 mph in a 40 mph zone and failure to have a change of address noted on his driver's license.

He was fined $30 and costs were suspended on the former charge, and the fine was suspended on the latter but he was assessed $5 costs.

On March 26, Otis Johnson, a patient at Maybury Sanatorium, pleaded guilty of possession of alcohol and was fined $100 and given a 30-day jail sentence. Judge McDonald further ordered Johnson to serve an additional 30 days if he fails to pay the fine.

Inadequate water lines serving some township residents west of the city limits has prompted the city to propose that new lines be constructed in the area. It was suggested that the township could purchase water from the city and that the new system would be owned by the township and constructed by special assessment, providing the resident users agree.

Sacred Music Concert Planned Here Tomorrow

The choir of the Appalachian Bible Institute of Bradley, West Virginia, will present a concert of sacred music tomorrow (Friday), at 7:30 at the First Baptist Church of Northville.

For the past eleven years, the choir has been under the direction of the Rev. Calvin C. Beukema, instructor in music and Christian Education at Appalachian. He is a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute and Morris Harvey college.

Mr. Beukema also directs the Institute's radio broadcast, "In Word and Song," heard weekly over ten stations in Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Kansas, and Pennsylvania.

The 22 member choir will present a program consisting of hymn arrangements and anthems and will feature several smaller musical groups. Piano accompaniment will be supplied by Mrs. Lester Pipkin, instructor in piano.

The Appalachian Bible Institute is a college level school for Christian young people interested in training for Christian service. Founded in 1950, it is now in its 14th year with a present day school enrollment of 68 coming from 12 states, and an additional 130 in evening classes.

Many of the 125 graduates are now in full-time Christian service as pastors, missionaries, and youth workers. The school is located on a spacious 95 acre campus near Beckley, West Virginia. The Rev. Lester Pipkin has been president of the school since its beginning.

The animal, owned by Ed Asher, suffered what appears to be acid burns of the tongue, mouth and lips. He is being treated for the burns.

Asher told police he fed the animal Saturday night, then returned to feed him the following morning. Apparently, during the night someone put poison in the feed barrel from which Asher took food for the animal Sunday morning.

Samples of the poison have been sent to the Michigan Department of Agriculture for analysis, King said.

Driver Killed

A 20-year-old Detroit man was fatally injured Easter Sunday morning when the sports car he was driving catapulted into the median on I-696 near Haggerty and flipped over several times.

Dead on arrival at St. Mary hospital in Livonia was Kenneth Burkhardt II, a student at the University of California who was home for Easter vacation.

According to Novi police, who assisted state police at the scene, Burkhardt probably was speeding at over 100 miles per hour when he lost control of his parents' car. The vehicle then rolled over several times after leaving the highway, coming to rest just east of the intersection of I-96.

The victim, who was driving west on the expressway, was alone in the car.

GREETINGS — While Easter turned out to be a cold, snowy affair (see below), the tall Jaycee Bunny still had a warm greeting for the youngsters. That's Jaycee Norman Roberts inside the Bunny outfit. He's giving candy to Kelly and Peg Kampmann, while Jill Cunningham clutches his hand. During Sunday afternoon the Jaycees distributed candy to approximately 300 area youngsters.

SNOW RABBITS — Building Easter rabbits out of snow was the favorite sport of many area youngsters Sunday. In the picture above Tim and Tom Butt and Martha Gazlay proudly display the 10-foot-high model they created at the Francis Gazlay residence on Rogers street. It's complete with red ears, pink eyes and a carrot mouth. In the picture below John Myers, Jr., Mark Ruben, Jamie Myers and John Myers, Sr. stand by their snow rabbit on Allen drive. At the Bud Adams' residence on Mayo drive Nancy Adams and Leslie Thomas are determined to protect their rabbit. They threw up a barrage of snow balls, but not before the photographer got his picture.

SHOWING THEM HOW — Ralph Redmond, art teacher at Amerman elementary school, is about to demonstrate the use of a new electric kiln for Mrs. Donald Schwendemann and Amerman Principal Raymond Spear. The kiln was purchased with money donated to the school by the Northville Mothers club. Like other Mothers' club members, Mrs. Schwendemann is busy these days selling tickets for the annual Spring Fantasy dance, which will be held at Meadowbrook Country Club, Saturday, April 11. Proceeds from the dance, and other Mothers' club activities, are used to help the local schools. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

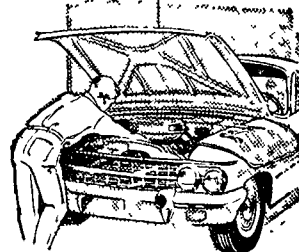

CLEAN-UP CREW — Northville scouts of Troop 731 and 755 did the community a good turn last week when they cleaned up trash and paper along the South Main street boulevard and railroad bank. The project wasn't without its awards. The boys found a muddy dollar bill, two dimes and many bottles which were cashed in. Scouts on the job were Jim Anderson, Dick Adams, Bill Baker, Bruce Cavender, Mike Conley, Mark Gazlay, Boots Gregersen, Bill Harrison, Darryl Holloman, Ed Hammond, Tom Lepper, Paul Lorenz, Mike Pressly, Randy Simpson, Bill and Mike Skelly, Kurt Wiley and Bill Wilcox. Adult help was provided by Howard Fuller, the Reverend Lloyd Brasure and Chris Gazlay. The clean-up project was planned and directed by Francis Gazlay, neighborhood commissioner for the boy scouts.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS TO YOU

CKLW

Sunday 9:45 a.m.
"HOW WELL
DO YOU HEAR?"

SEE THIS IS THE LIFE EVERY SUNDAY 10 A.M., Channel 2

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

by the Rev. S. D. Kinde
First Methodist Church

A man admitted recently that he never had time to attend a service of worship anywhere because he was too busy making a living. Making a living is one of the major concerns of most people. It takes money to live well and money comes by work and the use of one's time. A man's job is his living.

A daily newspaper recently carried a story of a recluse who was found dead outside his home and when authorities investigated his living conditions they were at first impressed by the squalor of his residence.
They made a careful examination of his possessions and soon discovered seven bank books indicating sizeable amounts in as many different banks. They also discovered several war bonds of some worth. This man who lived on scant food and dressed in worn threadbare clothing was in reality a man of considerable means. This lonely old man for whom fellow workers had only pity because of his apparent poverty was indeed a fairly well to do man.

He had worked long years to build up possessions and having amassed a sizable fortune had to die and leave it all for others to enjoy. He had made a living but not a life. He had invested all of his time and talents in the miserly acquisition of things. Death came and he had to leave his hoard behind.

Many people are quite successful in making a living but not as successful in making a life. Your living affects you but your life affects others.

Some have tried to buy a life with part of their fortune. They feel that money is the only language people understand so the way to win friendship is through buying it. But life can not be bought.

One of the few men spoken of in Scripture as a fool was the man who had made an abundant living but who had failed to make a life.
He gave his entire attention to his wealth. Then one day as he sat with his feet on the desk and talked to himself he said, "Soul, thou hast much goods laid up so eat, drink, and be merry." Isn't this a counterpart of someone you know? But do possessions alone satisfy the life of man?

Recently a well known American Actress took her fifth husband. It was said that in a payoff of husband number four she spent over a million dollars. She has possessions but thus far her life appears to be unhappy and void of true love and affection. She envies the wife and mother whose fireside speaks of contentment and joy. Life is not something we buy. A living can be purchased but not a life.
Lives development is, and always must be, above the price of wealth. Making a living is digging ones grave while making a life is building something eternal.

God gives us his best gifts to help us in making a life. He gives us sight to absorb things beautiful;
hearing to grasp things wholesome and pure; speech to express our kindest ghghs. He gave Abraham faith, Moses meekness, Daniel faithfulness, Elijah boldness, Paul earnestness, Job patience, John love. These gifts to you and me for the building of happy and useful lives dedicated to Him.

Are we content with making a living only? Or are we making a life? A good life? A man may lose his living but his good life is eternal. Don't wait until you make a living to make a life. It may then be too late. Better to make them together while keeping in mind that it is more important to make a good life than a good living.

Several years ago I boarded a train at Nestoria in the Upper Peninsula and came to Saginaw after a deer hunting trip. Beside me sat a bearded priest.
"You are an Anglican clergyman?" I inquired. "No," replied the priest, "I am a Jesuit."

We visited for some time and then he said, "When I was a young man finishing seminary training I became very ill. My doctors said that I had but one year to the truth about you

It's not always easy to learn the truth about yourself. But if you look deeply enough, you find the spiritual core of life that was once described to us for all time — "The kingdom of God is within you" (Luke 17:21). There's a one-hour public lecture coming on this subject. Title: "The Priceless Gift of Knowing Oneself," by Theodore Wallach of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. Everyone is welcome.

Legion Post to Emphasize Child Welfare During April

Joining with the more than 16,000 American Legion Posts throughout the nation, Lloyd H. Green Post 147 in Northville will observe Child Welfare Month during April, Post Commander Louis Katzback announced this week.

The local post will participate in the month-long observance in conjunction with a major American Legion program in order to focus the attention of the community to the needs of children and youth.

In observance of Child Welfare Month, The Northville Post will have a dinner on April 14 with Donald Brown as the speaker. Brown is a counselor at Northville high school.

Since 1925, nearly $186 million dollars have been spent by the American Legion and its affiliated organizations for child welfare and related youth work. Commander Katzback reported. Most of these expenditures have been made by local posts such as the Northville post, assisting in the care of children in a Health Program, distribution of toys and gifts to children in hospitals and special schools and to the Legion's Children's Billet at Otter Lake.

Funds extended by the American Legion represent only a part of its Child Welfare Program effort. Of vital importance has been the Legion's endeavors to the revision or establishment of sound state and federal legislation concerned with the protection and care of children. The effects of continuing international tensions are creating increasingly complex problems for today's children. The American Legion's interest and objectives in the area of child welfare are a reflection of these problems, the commander noted.

The American Legion through its posts, departments and national organizations, is concerned with the development of community facilities for the diagnosis, education and treatment of mentally handicapped children and the creation of community progress aimed at reducing school dropouts and improving youth employment opportunities.

The Child Welfare Chairman for Post 147 in Northville is Mrs. Mabel Cooley.

— Out of the Past —

ONE YEAR AGO

April 4, 1963
—In the biggest ballot ever recorded in a local city election, Northville voters returned Mayor A. M. Allen and Councilman John S. Canterbury to office.

They elected Fred P. Kester to fill the other vacancy on the council.

—Novi went all the way, voting approval for a $985,000 secondary school bond issue, establishment of a township library tax levy, and renewal of a 2½ mill school tax for five years.

—Northville township's new board held its first meeting — one day after it had been duly elected.

With Supervisor R. D. Merriam at the helm and Wilson D. Tyler as a new trustee the board held a three-hour session and finally decided to meet again tomorrow night in special session.

—Two hundred Northville township residents sat for three hours, Saturday afternoon at the annual meeting in the Northville Community building and made the following decisions:

—to reject the proposed salary increase for township officials;

—to approve a resolution to township official minutes of township board meetings in the Northville Record;

—to reject a proposal that the township board be requested to charge a minimum of $400 for sewer tap fee;

—to approve a suggestion that the township treasurer make arrangements for payments of taxes during tax collecting period to banks in the area as an optional method to paying the treasurer in person.

Attendance at the meeting was the largest in the memory of any township official. And although several matters stimulated heated discussion, the session remained orderly.

A direct mail campaign opposing the salary increases and proposing other resolutions was apparently responsible for attracting many of the citizens to the meeting.

FIVE YEARS AGO

April 2, 1959

—Northville's new police chief will come from the city's present force of six men. The decision of the council to choose a successor to the retiring chief, Joseph Denton, from within the department, was announced by city Manager John Robertson.

“All members of the department will be urged to take the written examination for police chief,” Robertson stated. He said that an oral examination conducted by police officials from outside the city would be given as well.

—City planners recommended the rezoning of four lots on Cady street to permit construction of a proposed supermarket. Their recommendation has restrictions and also limits the area to be rezoned, but still meets the requirements necessary to erect a supermarket, if the proposal materializes.

—Easter Sunday services marked the first official function of the Rev. Rex L. Dye, as new pastor of the Congregational church, Salem. A former resident of Novi, Rev. Dye was a member of the Novi Baptist Church before moving to Salem with his family.

—Seven Northville students who entered exhibits in the 1959 Detroit Science Fair held earlier this month at the Light Guard Armory carried home several ribbons.

Northville high school sophomores Lynn Kovarik and Jim Petrock, who entered in the physics and photography divisions, respectively, won “outstanding” award ribbons for their work.

Lynn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kovarik, submitted a Van de Graaf particle accelerator, and Jim, son of the Joseph Petrocks, a mineral and rock collection.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

April 7, 1949

—Four hundred and fifty-one ballots were cast in Novi township's biennial spring election. The interest in the election there stemmed on the two propositions being referred to the people.

Proposition one which passed 388 to 49 votes appropriates $20,000 to be used towards completing the township hall, fire department and community building. Proposition two which was passed by a vote of 358 to 46 provides for selling the old township building to the highest bidder upon completion of the new building.

—A new self-service laundry will open at 144 North Center. Owned and operated by Harvey and Richard Ritchie, the store will be known as the Laundromat Half-Hour Laundry and will be equipped with 12 Westinghouse Laundromat Automatic washers and six dryers.

—A total of 582 votes were cast in Northville township's spring election. Township officials ran unopposed on the Republican ticket. Re-elected were Mollie Lawrence, supervisor; Fred Lyke, clerk; Roy Terrill, treasurer; and Del Campbell, E. J. Willis, and G.

Head, justices of the peace. —Walter L. Couse of West Seven Mile road was one of the principal speakers at the 21st annual banquet of the Michigan Road builders association.

—One hundred and twenty five members and guests celebrated the Northville Business and Professional Women's club first birthday at the Methodist church house.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

April 7, 1939

—A feature of the boxing exhibition scheduled for April 10 in the high school gymnasium, is a match between Buzzy Snow and Mystery Man No. 1 in the flyweight division. Other bouts booked for this division are Lloyd Grissom vs. David Schoutz; David Bell vs. Robert Gates; Junior Earehart vs. Archie Niles; and Ed Robinson vs. Jay Daggett.

Lawrence Bogart and Harley Hamm are the only bantamweights and Ralph Bogart and Bud Cook hold down the lightweight card.

—Charles Butzky of South Lyon was elected and installed eminent commander when the Northville Commandry No. 39, Knights Templar, held its annual conclave in the Northville Masonic Temple.

—School spelling laurels were won by Robert Ward of the sixth grade, with James Howarth of the same grade the runnerup. In the junior high school division, the winner was Jean McCullough of the eighth grade, with a classmate, Betty Ann Wagenschütz, the runnerup.

—Miss Irene Fennell's first novel, “Ghost Light”, received a fine review by Irene Hawkins of the Detroit Times. —John J. Hettche and Elmer L. Wiedrick have returned home from the annual spring sale of saddle horses at Lexington, Kentucky with additions for their own stables.

—A WPA project has been approved, providing for the construction of a sanitary sewer other necessary appurtenances from the grounds of the Wayne County Training school to an existing interceptor sewer in the Middle Rouge Park, near the village of Northville.

Part Time Farming Can Produce Profit

EDITOR'S NOTE— Western Wayne County contains many "small farms", estates or small 5 to 10-acre homesteads. Many of the persons who own these acreages are concerned that they should be using this good land for some agricultural or horticultural pursuit. Good soil, good climate, and many nearby consumers make it possible that there might well be some specialty crops that would produce an income from these lands and for these part-time farmers. This series of four articles will deal with four projects: Strawberries, raspberries, peaches and eggs.

The articles were prepared by the office of Edgar C. Kidd, Wayne County Extension Agent in Agriculture. They will deal only with the fundamentals and possibilities of the projects, but will suggest follow-up procedures for local persons who might be interested in looking further into the advisability of getting started in one of these enterprises.

Strawberries are a very short-season, perishable crop. Strawberries, at their best, are consumed or processed on the same day that they are picked. The peak of the harvest season lasts for less than two weeks each year. Local vine-ripened berries are far more tasty than shipped-in berries, and are much more desirable for immediate use or for home processing than those berries that have been picked for even as much as 24 hours. Some method of direct grower-consumer contact is almost necessary to bring about this quick transfer of the crop from field to table.

Strawberries grown and sold on a pick-your-own basis, or grown and sold at the field roadside bring about these quick - delivery opportunities. This can occur only in heavily populated areas such as exist in Western Wayne county. There seems to be no surplus of good berries in this area, and the few good growers state that they are seldom able to fill the demands they receive each year for their crops.

Strawberries are somewhat temperamental as to soil requirements. A well-drained, fertile sandy loam soil seems best. The soil should be slightly acid, if possible, and should contain a wealth of organic matter. Growers should look forward a full year ahead of planting date to get a good supply of organic matter and fertility into the soil, and to reduce the weed problem before planting. Quack grass is probably the worst weed pest. Strawberry crops should be rotated, with a crop growing in a specified area not more than one year in four.

Berries are planted as early in the spring as possible, in well-prepared fertile seedbeds. They must be kept free of weeds all through the first growing season, and blossom buds must be removed frequently so that the growth goes into the runners and new plants. All potential fruit blossoms are determined in late summer, so it is necessary to obtain vigorous, early growth in the berry patch during the early part of the first year. Cultivation and weed control are a constant problem in this year.

The berry plants should be protected with straw mulch during the first winter. The straw is raked from the plants in the spring, and becomes a ground cover between the rows during the harvest season.

The entire crop is harvested during late June of the second year. It is not recommended that the patch be kept over for the second year of harvest. This requires that the grower have three areas of land for the strawberry project: one in the year of preparation to eliminate weeds and to build up fertility; the second area will be in the first-year planting; and the third will be the field that will be harvested in June.

Strawberries do not suffer much from attacks of insects or disease. Nematodes in the soil do a lot of damage at times, and growers must be alert to the appearance of a few possible diseases. Strawberries do not, however, require an extremely complex pest control program.

Irrigation is almost a necessity for strawberry production in Michigan. Berries are very intolerant of drought at or near harvest time. But irrigation is even more necessary with strawberries to prevent frost damage at blossom time. A constant light application of irrigation water during very cold spring nights will protect berry blossoms from temperatures several degrees below freezing. Entire berry crops have been lost in one cold night. This happened in many areas of Michigan in the spring of 1963.

It is necessary to select the correct variety, too. Earldawn, Midway, Robinson, Sparkle, and Vesper are highly recommended. These five varieties are in sequence of ripening and ranked according to percentage grown. Robinson is still our most productive variety, but is superseded by Earldawn and Midway in quality.

Strawberries are planted in 4-foot rows, 18 to 24 inches apart in the row. This requires about 6000 to 7000 plants per acre. These plants should cost not more than $15 per thousand, and at large commercial nurseries. An acre of good berries, properly cared for, should yield at least 4000 quarts of berries, with some growers getting up to 8000 quarts per acre each year. Standard price for a pick-your-own berries seems to have been between $2.00 and $2.50 per quart, with the picker furnishing his own containers. Picked berries run about a dime or so higher in most seasons.

Conclusion: Strawberries will grow and produce well on some of the soils of Western Wayne County. The market is not over-crowded. They require considerable hand labor. Customers will often come in and harvest their own berries.

Irrigation, high fertility and freedom from weeds is necessary. The project requires almost constant attention and study, considerable capital input, and a three-year program. A few more 1 or 2-acre plots of good strawberries, properly managed should yield a sizeable side-line income for a few Wayne County part-time farmers. Persons interested in part-time, commercial production of strawberries under these conditions may receive further information, literature and consultation by contacting Wayne County's Extension Agent in Agriculture, Edgar C. Kidd at the Extension office in Wayne, at 3930 Newberry street, or by telephone, Parkway 1-6550.

Subsequent similar news stories similar to this will discuss raspberries, peaches and egg production in Western Wayne county.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Almost every session of the state legislature brings renewed attempts to change Michigan's racing law. This year was no exception.

One of the prime targets of the lawmakers is the state rebate of racing revenues paid to the city in which the track is located. Presently, this sum is 20 per cent of the state's share with a maximum of $500,000 per year.

The city of Northville receives approximately $100,000 annually from the Downs' meet.

State Senator Raymond Dziedzic informs us that an attempt was made to amend a bill dealing with the percentage of revenue from thoroughbred racing that should be set aside for purses conducted exclusively for Michigan bred horses.

The bill itself would have no effect on Northville or the Downs. And according to Dziedzic, it would stimulate greater participation of Michigan breeders in thoroughbred racing.

But an attempt was made from the floor of the senate to amend the bill so that the rebate to cities would be reduced from 20 per cent to 10 per cent.

Northville would lose $50,000 annually, and Livonia $250,000, if such an amendment won support.

Senator Dziedzic was successful in defeating the proposed amendment, but the bill is now in committee and will return to the senate for action.

Right now the state treasury is in good shape. But in recent years when legislators have looked hard and long for new sources of funds, representatives of communities not having race tracks (and there are only four track cities in the state) invariably eye the racing rebate revenues.

It's a tax plum that could be picked right off our tree.

Track cities would be wise to build strong cases to justify these rebates.

There's an election in Wixom Monday. Incumbent Mayor Wesley McAtee is running on his record of the past two years.

It's a good one that deserves recognition of voters at the polls.

McAtee's enthusiasm and ambition have helped Wixom progress physically — with improved roads and recreation facilities — and as an image wherever he represents his community.

Wixom candidates spoke before citizens last week at a public meeting sponsored by the Wixom Civic Association.

Editor Jack Hoffman covered the affair and came away especially impressed with the performances of McAtee, Incumbent Councilmen Gunnar Mettala and Oscar Simmons, Council Candidate Donald Nissen and Elwood Grubb, candidate for justice of the peace.

I received an editorial clipped from the Japan Times and sent by Northville's globe-trotting attorney, Cliff Hill.

The editorial deals with the alarming increase of juvenile crimes, especially in the 15 to 16-year-old age brackets.

And it blames Americanization of Japan, prosperity, modern entertainment facilities and the failure of the adult world to assume its responsibilities.

While it chides teachers and government for failing to combat juvenile crime, it concludes that "home and parents can never wholly shift this responsibility" and notes that there are "too many well-to-do parents who think their responsibility ends where monetary cares end."

He usually holds a steering wheel...

...but when he isn't holding a steering wheel, you're apt to find him holding on to a fire truck, gavel, bowling ball or golf club, in church, or at a civic meeting.

He's John I. Nelson, 54, a tank truck driver for Michigan Milk Producers Association for 22 of his 25 years of commercial driving... with never a chargeable accident, and only one minor traffic violation in some 1,250,000 miles of driving.

John is chief of the Almont Volunteer Fire Dept., member of the Almont Village Council, where he serves on the Police Commission and Streets and Sidewalks Committee, trustee of Almont Community Project, steward of M.M.P.A. Employees Local 83, attends the Congregational Church where his wife, Ruth, teaches Sunday school, and is sending daughter, Karen, to Port Huron Junior College. A truck driver? You bet! And proud of it. But more than that, Jack is typical of the many thousands of truck drivers who are good citizens, good family men, and who are active in their communities.

Spiritual Revival Needed

BABSON PARK, Mass. — With the rebirth of spring and the hope of Easter still in our hearts, it is a good time to ask what is wrong with this world, — and with ourselves. Why is our nation so beset by scandal and injustice, the international scene so blackened with tension and distrust, and even open hatred?

I have long predicted that we would never be able to realize fully the great blessings of civilization unless we all worked for real spiritual renewal.

Religious faith is the driving force of our very existence; without it there can be no true or lasting peace on the earth. Why are not the words of Jesus put into practice in our everyday life, both social and political? He preached repentance and forgiveness; His prayers were not those of hubris, but petitions springing from His deepest inner impulses.

The followers of Jesus during His lifetime were taught to lead lives of service and self-sacrifice. His one basic principle of action was that men must love one another; He believed in the intrinsic worth of every human being. In His day He was looked upon as unconventional and uncompromising, with His immovable faith in God and His concern for the ultimate goodness of mankind. Every devoted religious person is supposed to agree to this doctrine, and act and live accordingly. But the condition of even the Christian world does not bear this out today.

It seems to me, as we move toward voting day in November, that the most important questions for us to answer are: "Is the religion of Jesus something for us to live by? Is it worth being kept vitally alive? Is it something to guide a Presidential Candidate?"

Many people who do not as a rule concentrate much on religion are starting to wonder how many of our political troubles come from neglect of the Spirit. They are somewhat disturbed by the Supreme Court's decision against prayers in the nation's school.

Remembering back a quarter-century to the New York World's Fair, designed to give us a "Glimpse of Tomorrow," I cannot recall any emphasis whatsoever on religious themes. The Fair showed super-airports, super-skyscrapers, super-highways, and just about super-everything-else. But I do not remember seeing one single church.

Now the new World's Fair is being prepared; the papers and magazines are full of fascinating projects. But here again I have noted only occasional reference to church presentations, but all important emphasis on materialistic advances.

I am convinced that one thing, above all others, is needed to save this old world of ours: A spiritual rebirth such as that which Saul of Tarsus experienced. You will re-

"You went about it all wrong. Now, if you had put on some good top soil first, and if you had put in your seed in the fall you'd have had plenty of grass seed in the spring."

That's typical of the salty advice that kind but flippant friends rub into my green-thumb wounds after a spring inspection of the crop of weeds I've managed to raise around my home.

It isn't bad enough that my vigorous, blue-blooded weeds, have choked out twenty-five dollars of sure-grow grass seed and specially aged fertilizer. Or that my weeds sneak across lot lines at night and reproduce on the neighbor's green.

But these so-called friends must riddle me with "ifs." If I would have done this or had done that. Sure, and if I had tried to raise weeds, I'd end up combining a quarter-acre of Marion every other week.

The truth of the matter is that I'm simply not a landscaper, or a carpenter, or a mason, or a putterer-around-the-house. Fact is, I leave much to be desired while puttering around Bob O Link or Brae-Burn.

Now this inability or do it all wrongness is something that I'd probably be able to take in stride, but it has made me the target of a good deal of ridicule at home.

"Daddy, my little friend's daddy has built her a real nice swing and sandbox." Or, "When are you going to fix my sled?" Or, "Can't you fix that door and window today?" Or, "Oh, never mind, if I don't do it myself, it'll never get done."

These subtle hints and biting comments sting my pride but they seldom stir any innate fibers of handicraft. It isn't that I don't pine after the builders and fixers or putterer-arounders. I do. But for some reason or another, after I've hammered a handsome bloodclot into my thumb or carefully peeled off a hunk of epidermis with a razor sharp plane, the

Michigan Mirror

What GM Expansion Means to State

LANSING — Elation of government officials over the announced expansion plans of General Motors is readily explainable.

Estimates on the new jobs involved in Michigan range around 25,000 over a period of time.

In an undelivered speech prepared for use in the Midwest Governors' Conference in Omaha last November 22, Gov. George Romney spelled out what every 10,000 new jobs means in Michigan.

Every 10,000 new jobs in basic industry means an additional 13,800 jobs in derivative occupations such as barbers, dry cleaners, teachers and retailers. Thus the 10,000 industrial jobs makes 23,800 new positions.

For every employed person in Michigan, Romney said, there are nearly two other persons. This means that the 23,800 persons working as the result of the industrial jobs would represent a population of some 68,300.

Romney noted that the population segment involved is about equal to a city like Ann Arbor. Carrying the impact further, he said the basic new jobs would have the effect of providing new buying income of about $133 million, of which about $81 million would be in retail purchases.

Tax income resulting from the new employment would also be substantial, Romney noted.

These 10,000 new industrial jobs in Michigan would mean more than $8 million in new state tax money and local governments would collect more than $7 million in tax revenues, all without raising tax rates or putting on new taxes.

So 10,000 new industrial jobs would pave a lot of streets and finance a lot of health care and welfare cases and schools rooms," the Governor said.

No firmer advocates of the old axiom, "the power to tax is the power to destroy," can be found in the state than those who work in the beer industry. Brewers have felt the heavy hand of the tax man on their shoulders since 1962 when the state, faced with financial crisis, raised taxes a whopping 430% from $2.50 per barrel to $6.61.

Since then they have struggled valiantly to get the tax reduced. While most legislators, and even the Governor, agreed it was a very stiff tax which might be choking the industry, there was no action.

This year brought hope. Five Senators who felt strongly that the tax is not logically defensible met with the Governor with the result that Gov. Romney recommends that the beer tax be reduced to its former level. Senators involved were Clyde Geerlings, R-Hope; Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis; Paul C. Younger, R-Lansing; Lester O. Begick, R-Bay City; Garry E. Brown, R-Schoolcraft.

Such a reduction would permit Michigan made beer to compete with other beverages, according to Robert A. Schiffer, president of Michigan Brewers Association. The high tax raised the price of beer to a point that buyers thought it more economical to buy stronger drinks. Mr. Shiffer pointed out that always before the sale of beer had gone up in a rising economy. With the $6.60 per barrel tax beer sales did not increase in recent months. But stronger alcoholic drinks did.

Mr. Shiffer believes that reduction of the beer tax will substantially increase beer sales, jobs in Michigan breweries and prevent the strangulation of the beer industry in this state.

It's official now. Michigan held its own in taking advantage of one of the most recent Federal-state cooperative projects.

A study shows more Michigan citizens have been involved in training projects under the Area Redevelopment Act than in any other state, with the sole exception of New Jersey.

More than 13,000 jobless and unemployed persons were involved in the training projects nationally. In Michigan 14 projects included nearly 1,000 persons.

Elmer L. Babb, director for Michigan and Indiana, said 80 percent of Michigan workers who completed training courses during the past two years have obtained jobs.

The individuals filled jobs as nurses aides, floral designers, clerical workers, auto repairmen and mechanics, cooks, waitresses and others.

One black mark was recorded in Michigan's tourist industry picture last year.

The Upper Peninsula's share of tourist spending remained the same as during 1962, although the entire state spending index showed a 7 per cent increase, to a record $727 million.

The story in the Upper Peninsula was not as bad as it sounds, however, because in the preceding three years tourist trade in the North country was on the decline.

Tourist Council officials hope to enliven the U.P. in the industry this year through efforts of research now being done on the potential for growth.
