

Bull Elk Bagged

By Mike O'Leary

Michael O'Leary of Northville was one of the lucky 300 hunters in Michigan who received a permit to hunt elk during the nine-day season which began Saturday. And he took full advantage of his opportunity. Sunday morning he bagged a 10-point bull.

The elk hunt marks the first season in Michigan in some 100 years and the first two days found 173 of the hunters reporting kills. Elk steaks and other cuts will soon be on the O'Leary dinner menu. The elk's head featuring the spread of antlers, will be mounted. And Mike is skinning the animal's hide so it can be tanned and a jacket made. "Elk doesn't have a real wild-game taste," Mike told a reporter. "Instead it is succulent like roast beef."

Mike brought down his 425-pound field dressed bull Sunday morning near Onaway in the lower peninsula. It took two .308 caliber slugs to "bring home the meat."

"On the first shot I hit him and he fell to the ground," Mike related. "The bull lifted its head, looked around and screamed."

"The second shot in the neck finished him off."

Mike's catch was the second to be displayed in the backyard of his parents' farm in two days. His brother-in-law, Herman White of Plymouth, exhibited his elk Sunday afternoon. It weighed about 450 pounds, Mike said, and was a nine-pointer.

Michigan elk were exterminated before 1870. But elk returned to Michigan in 1918 when eight were released near Gaylor. In the interim, the herd has grown to about 3,500.

Chamber Joins Jaycees In Decorations Contest

Northville residents planning to decorate the outside of their homes for Christmas should take extra care this year.

Cash prizes, as well as a plaque, await the best efforts.

For several years the Jaycees have conducted the Christmas decorations contest. This year they're getting assistance from the Northville Area Community 19.

Chamber of Commerce. In addition to the plaque given by the Jaycees, gift certificates totaling $25, $15 and $10 for first, second and third place will be offered by the Chamber.

Jaycee Dick Kernozeck is in charge of the competition. His committee of judges will check area homes Saturday evening, December 19.

Carol Time For Choir

The Northville high school choir will present a collection of Christmas carols and songs Tuesday evening at eight o'clock at the high school auditorium.

The traditional Christmas season performance will be under the direction of Leslie G. Lee and will be open to the public.

The special concert highlights a busy season for the choir and glee club girls.

On Tuesday, December 1 the group performed for Our Lady of Victory women's society and the next day entertained the Northville Service Club at its noon luncheon.

Next Monday the group will perform for a meeting of the Northville Mothers Club at the Wing street home of Mrs. Donald Hannabarger.

The concert follows on Tuesday evening and then performances for the Novi Mothers Club on December 21, the Northville Rotary club December 22 and finally the Christmas chapel December 23 at the high school.

Sale of Water to State Institutions Seen as Spark to Township System

The possibility that Northville township's water system might literally explode overnight into a booming business became very strong this week with the revelation by Supervisor R. D. Merriam that two state institutions are interested in becoming water customers.

Northville township has hardly "gotten its feet wet" in the water business.

Its first system supplying water purchased from the city of Detroit is presently being installed in Plymouth Gardens subdivision in the southeast corner of the township. The 13 homeowners there are scheduled to turn on their faucets for Detroit water this week.

But this is hardly a dribble compared to the 600,000 gallons a day that Northville State Hospital would like to purchase; or the quantity that would be consumed at Plymouth State Home.

Both institutions have indicated they would like to convert from wells to the Detroit source. And now that Northville township is buying water from Detroit, the institutions must deal through the township as agent.

Supervisor Merriam said that local institution officials have contacted Lansing on the matter. In turn Lansing officials wrote the Detroit Water Board, which said sale of the water would be possible. But Northville township must provide the system and becomes the supplier so far as the state is concerned.

Merriam pointed out that one possibility for supplying Northville State hospital would be a water main from the source at Eight Mile road across Meadowbrook Country Club.

He said the golf club was also interested in buying Detroit water, as were many residents in the Meadowbrook-Seven Mile road area.

The prospect of discontinuing the use of ground wells by state institutions is also attractive to many township residents who believe their wells are being lowered by the huge institution consumption, Merriam stated.

Last week the Northville township board appointed a water and sewer commission. The members are William McDermott, Frank Arlen and Supervisor Merriam.

This week the commission has its first job: how to get water lines to Northville State Hospital.

The township's ability to supply Plymouth State Home (Sheldon near Five Mile) depends upon settlement of the controversy between the city of Northville and Detroit Water Board.

Detroit wants to take its water line, now as far as Baseline and North Center street, southward to Five Mile along Center street.

But the Northville council balks at the prospect of the huge Detroit water line tearing up the heart of its business district.

One meeting on this matter was scheduled for this week between Councilmen Richard Ambler and John Canterbury and Gerald Remus, Detroit Water Board manager.

City Hires Mall Plan Study

Consultant to Determine Feasibility of Proposal

Northville councilmembers decided to take a plunge into the practicality of the planning commission's proposed central business district plan.

Monday night the city council hired Ralph J. Stephenson "to assist the city with an analysis of the comprehensive business district plan."

Specifically, the council expects Stephenson to decide whether or not the shopping mall and circular traffic pattern designed by Northville's planning commission and its consultants, Waring and Johnson, is feasible for the community and what it will cost.

The council voted to hire Stephenson for one year at a fee of $3,000.

Commercial development plans are not new to Stephenson. He was employed as an engineer by the firm which designed and created Northland. He also took part in the development of the Kalamazoo mall and is currently project coordinator for the new medical center on Woodward avenue.

When the council gave its final approval Monday night to the hiring of Stephenson, Mayor A. M. Allen was absent because of illness. Mayor Pro Tem John Canterbury called the move "a judicious expenditure of money."

"The stakes are high and we want to be sure of what we're doing," said Canterbury.

"The time and effort spent on this project by the planning commission deserves the addition of a professional study," chimed in Councilman Richard Ambler. "In relation to the total project it's a small expenditure."

Stephenson is scheduled to begin his study in January.

In other business Monday night the council waded through a long agenda of matters.

— decided to seek a meeting Monday night with State Senator Paul Chandler and Representatives Marvin Stepien and Clifford Smart to discuss pending state legislation;

— approved a $1-per-year lease with the Presbyterian church for public use of the church's new parking lot;

— appointed Chief Eugene King and Patrolmen David LaFond and Louis Westfall constables; — authorized closing of city hall at 1 p.m. on December 24 and 31;

— heard an accident report from the city manager on the Dunlap - Wing street intersection and decided to make no changes in traffic control but urged added emphasis on the Wing street stop signs;

— tabled action on proposed amendments to the zoning ordinance which would establish a central business district, a CBD parking district and a municipal parking authority until the full council was in attendance.

30th Consecutive Year

Choir to Present Messiah Sunday

Sunday evening a community choir will present its 30th consecutive annual performance of Handel's Messiah at Northville's First Presbyterian church.

Six of the members will have participated in every one of the traditional Christmas season oratorios. They are Director and Mrs. Leslie G. Lee, Russell Amerman, Carl Bryan, Mary Kissel and George Lockhart.

Featured soloists will be music majors from the University of Michigan including: Grace Hanninen, soprano; Phy-lis Rice, alto; Bruce Wilson, tenor; and John Henkel, bass. Accompanists will be Sam Chizmar, organist, and Kathleen Bosch, pianist.

The performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. and is open to the public without charge. A collection will be taken to defray the costs of soloists.

Winter Tax Notices Sent to Over 3,000

One of the two things no mortal can escape is arriving these days in mail boxes throughout the city and township.

They're the 1964-65 school, county and township tax notices, generally known as "winter taxes" to city residents who also receive city tax levies in July.

Winter taxes are payable beginning December 1, although most notices had not been sent that early.

Deadlines for payment vary between the city and township. City residents must pay their school and county tax bills at the city hall no later than February 14 or a four per cent penalty is invoked. Township residents have until the last day of February.

Township Treasurer A. M. Lawrence reported that some 1,500 tax notices had been sent to township residents. The total township levy on real and personal property is $502,619.04, up from $445,000 last year.

The total levy in the township is down, but very slightly, from 40.70 mills last year to 40.42 this year.

The levy breakdown in the township is as follows: 28.53 mills in Northville school district accounting for $314,210.75; 28.67 mills for Plymouth school district residents in township accounting for $35,306.89; 1.2 mills for Schoolcraft college and 1.2 mills for township accounting for $14,803.13 each; and 9.49 mills for the county, or $117,282.06.

Township residents may mail their payments to the township hall, pay Treasurer Lawrence at Manufacturers National Bank in Northville during banking hours on Tuesdays and Fridays or pay at any teller window at the bank.

City Clerk Martha Milne reports that 1,750 tax notices have been sent out to residents of the city.

Total levy this year is $467,403.02 compared to $431,288.58 last year.

City residents pay the same school, county and community college tax as the township, but do not pay the 1.2 township millage.

Clerk Milne noted that 1,150 notices go to Wayne county residents of the city where the total tax levy for real and personal property is $350,461.19. In the Oakland county section 600 tax bills total a levy of $116,942.13.

City residents may pay their taxes at the city hall any time during regular daily office hours.

Eat with Santa

The Old Mill Restaurant, 130 East Main street, has come up with a new twist.

It's serving "breakfast with Santa Claus." Owners Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mitchell have come up with a special breakfast menu for youngsters and they've made arrangements with Santa Claus to have him greet and treat them.

The Santa breakfasts will be held from 9 until 10:30 a.m. daily from December 14 through December 23.

Meeting Here Tuesday

7-Mile Interchange Eyed for New I-96

Northville residents will have an opportunity to get a first-hand report on the new I-96 Jeffries Freeway which barely touches Northville township at two proposed interchanges.

Township Supervisor R. D. Merriam announced this week that two road commission officials will discuss the route of the new freeway next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the township hall.

One of the representatives will be Oscar Gunderson, planning engineer of the Wayne county road commission. The other, unnamed, will be a representative of the state highway department, Supervisor Merriam stated.

Specifically, the $214.7 million dollar project connects the Ambassador Bridge with the I-96 Freeway at the I-96 and I-696 interchange in Novi.

The recommended alignment of the I-96 route, from the interchange of I-696 and I-96 north of Grand River Avenue, runs southerly approximately 1000 feet east of and parallel to Haggerty Road.

At Eight Mile Road, I-96 curves slightly westward to miss two developed subdivisions. From Eight Mile road the alignment turns slightly eastward to avoid the new Schoolcraft college, and continues southwesterly toward Schoolcraft road where it will interchange with I-275. The alignment then proceeds easterly, utilizing the existing 204-foot Schoolcraft road right-of-way, through the city of Livonia to Telegraph road.

First construction on the project is expected to begin in the fall of 1967 with the schedule calling for completion by the end of 1971.

So far as Northville is concerned, the only objections voiced to date surround the proposed interchange locations.

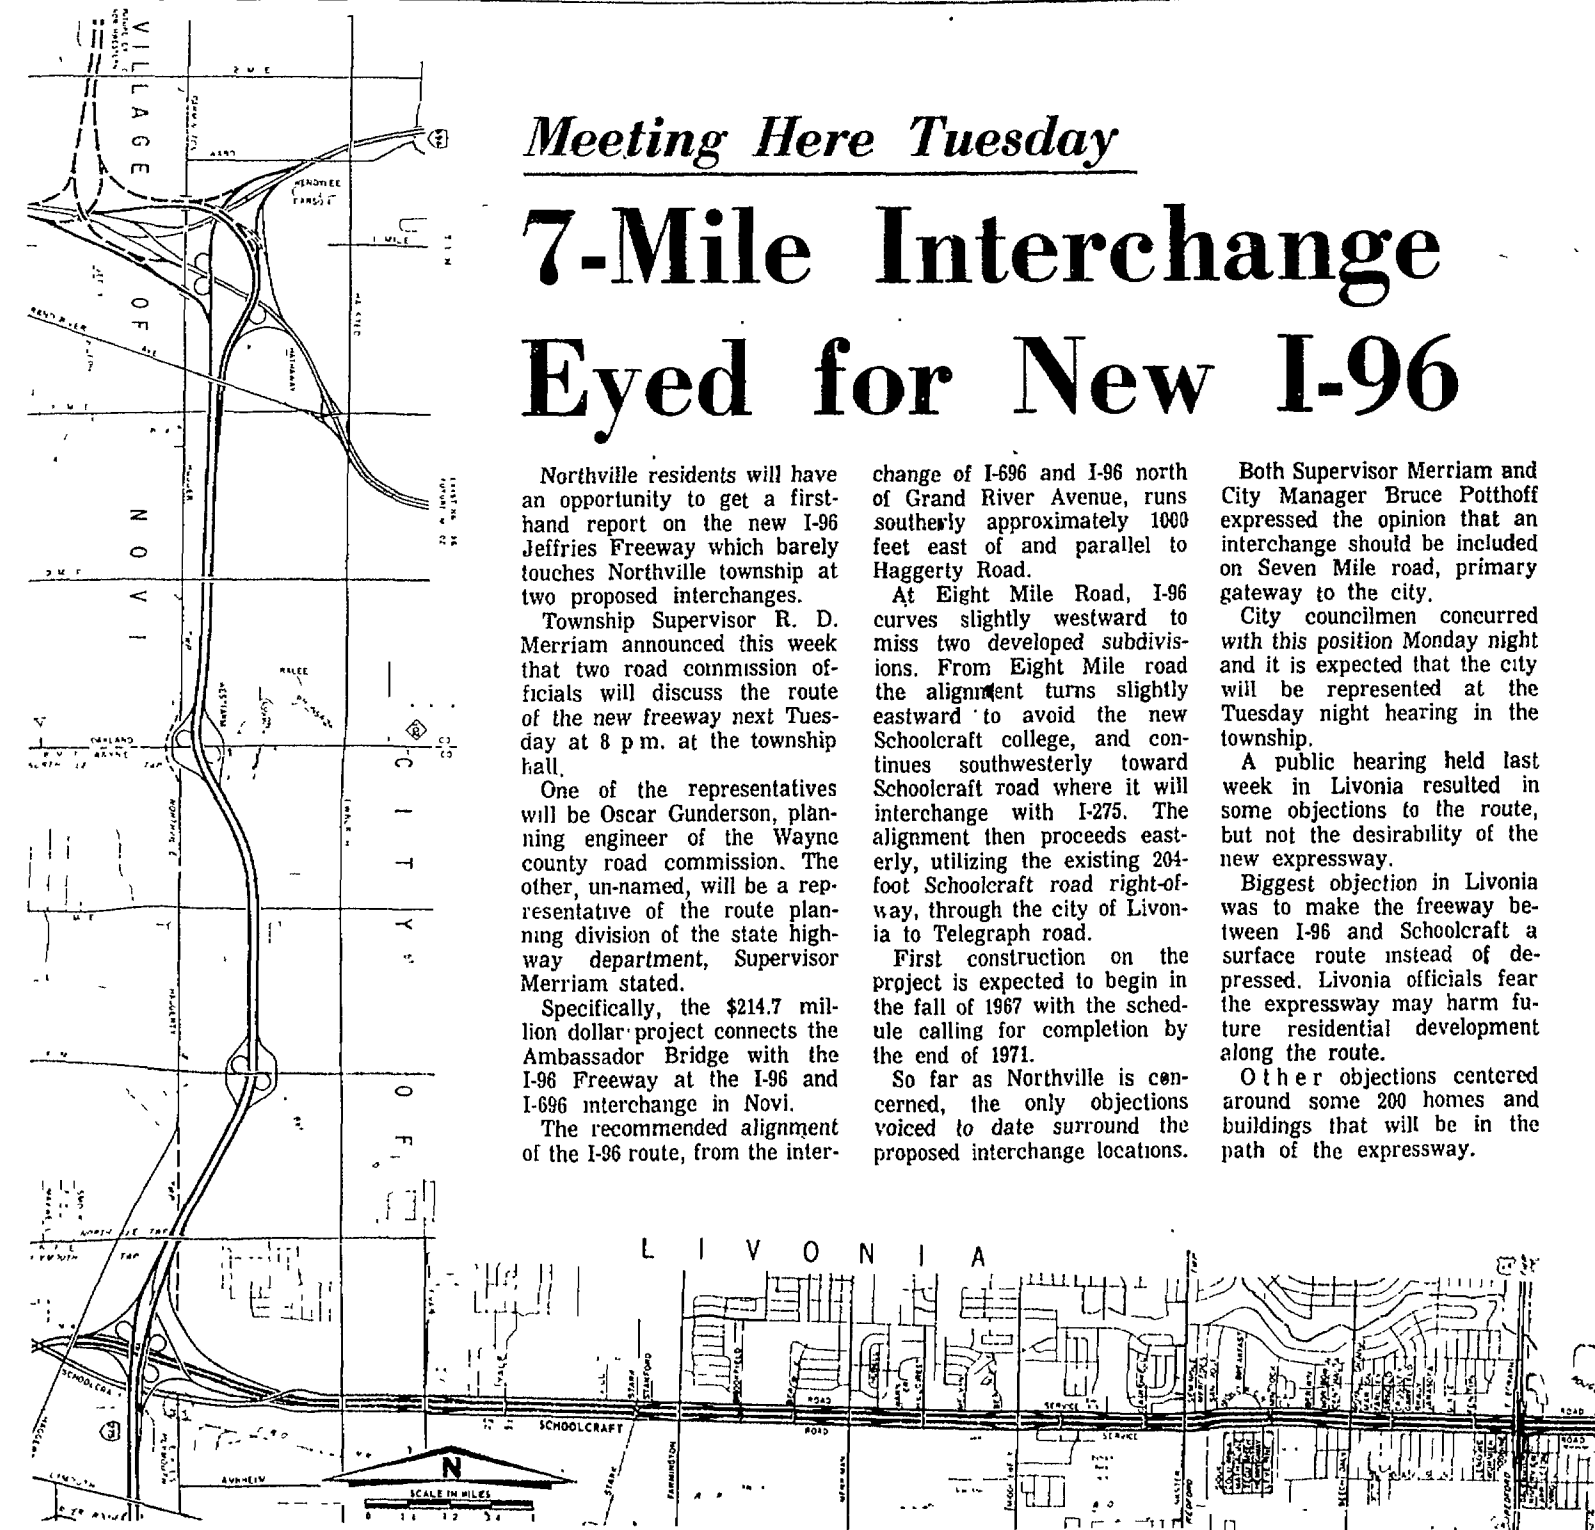

Both Supervisor Merriam and City Manager Bruce Potthoff expressed the opinion that an interchange should be included on Seven Mile road, primary gateway to the city.

City councilmen concurred with this position Monday night and it is expected that the city will be represented at the Tuesday night hearing in the township.

A public hearing held last week in Livonia resulted in some objections to the route, but not the desirability of the new expressway.

Biggest objection in Livonia was to make the freeway between I-96 and Schoolcraft a surface route instead of depressed. Livonia officials fear the expressway may harm future residential development along the route.

Other objections centered around some 200 homes and buildings that will be in the path of the expressway.

POPCORN CHAINS and paper stars will be among the old-fashioned decorations for the Christmas Trim-the-Tree party at the Northville Historical Society being given at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Kathleen Edgerton and her daughter, Linda, on Randolph street.

For this first party of the newly organized society, members are invited to carry out the theme of early-day Christmas in Northville by coming in old-fashioned garb. From pinafores and pantalettes to holly berry red vests if promises to be a gay evening in the Edgertons' studio-home. Amidst kilns and looms belonging to the artistic mother-daughter team, Historical Society members will create paper birds, stars and chains to trim the tree.

This week Mrs. Edgerton has been experimenting with taffy batter recipes in preparation for a good "pull" at the party. Assisting with arrangements are Mrs. Carl Johnson and Mrs. W. E. McCarthy.

A STRAW ANGEL purchased at the Christmas Frostings market of the 13 branches of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association Saturday will provide the appropriate tree-top ornament for the Edgertons' tree.

Again this year attendance at the annual garden club market topped 1,500. Mrs. E. O. Whittington, chairman, reports. Members now are searching out unusual ornaments and decorations to bring to the Christmas tea at 12:30 p.m. Monday in the social hall of Northville Presbyterian church. For this guest-day meeting members have received written invitations from Mrs. William Slattery, program chairman, to avoid confusion in the change of location for the tea.

NORTHVILLE MOTHERS CLUB, both active and life members, will hold their annual Christmas party Monday at the home of Mrs. Donald E. Hannabarger on Wing street, beginning with a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m. Co-hostesses are Mrs. Stuart S. Campbell, Mrs. H. O. Evans, Mrs. George Zerbbe.

Each member is asked to bring a gift she has "created" for the gift exchange. This may range from holiday decorations to aprons and cookies.

New members who traditionally are honored at the party are Mrs. Eugene Cook, Mrs. Walter Gall, Mrs. Thomas McDonough, Mrs. Edwin Mueller and Mrs. C. W. Whittlesley. A program of Christmas songs will be presented by a group of five girls from the Northville high school choir.

"WORDS FITLY SPOKEN bring a certain beauty and worth," Dr. L. LaMont Okey, associate professor of speech at the University of Michigan, told members of Northville Woman's club who braved last Friday's slick weather to hear him gather literary "gems" on a Christmas theme.

Dr. Okey's fine-honed selection, beautifully presented, exemplified his opening remark and showed why Mrs. George Jerome, program chairman, was introducing Dr. Okey "by popular request."

His varied Christmas readings ranged from the story of Mary and Joseph in a "cutting" from "A Woman Wrapped in Silence," to Truman Capote's "A Christmas Memory" from "Breakfast at Tiffany's" in which making fruitcake opens the Christmas season.

Memories of depression days were evoked as Dr. Okey gave Francis's account of getting a Christmas tree from Betty Smith's "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn." For a change of pace there was Ogden Nash and his J. B. Dawes for those who would "sneer at tradition" and "Wise Men From the University."

Finally, "Yours in Friendship" spoofed gently the selecting and sending of greeting cards but concluded that it is "your name on any card that rings a Christmas bell for your friend."

AN EARLY PRESENT for Mrs. Ernest J. Shave of Fairway Three drive was a post-Thanksgiving week-end in New York with Mr. Shave with the highlight of hearing Verdi's Otello at the Metropolitan opera.

An opera lover and a member of the Detroit Grand Opera Association, Mrs. Shave said she wanted to attend the Met before the old building is torn down. The Shaves caught a glimpse of the future for the Met as they spent their Sunday morning in New York going out to the Lincoln Center at Broadway and Sixty-Fourth, which is destined to be the coordinated music area for New York City. The Shaves also saw the Broadway production of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

Mrs. Shave points out that Detroit and Northville music lovers will have opportunity to see the same production of Otello as they did during the Metropolitan opera's visit to Detroit the week of May 24.

Optometrist Joins National Academy

Dr. Stuart F. Campbell, Northville optometrist, will be received into the membership of the American Academy of Optometry, convening in Columbus, Ohio this week.

Dr. Campbell has been affiliated with the Michigan Academy of Optometry for over 20 years. He had an office in downtown Detroit for 17 years before moving to Northville in 1948.

Plymouth AAUW To Hear Professor

The Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women will meet December 10 at the Dunning Hough Library in Plymouth.

Program chairman, Mrs. Wendell Smith, has invited Professor Thelma G. James of Wayne State University to speak on the subject, "Christmas Folklore." Serving as hostesses this month are Mrs. R. M. Larson, Mrs. Richard Hagmayer, Mrs. Hugh Harsha and Mrs. David Schlick.

Professor James has had an academic interest in folklore for over 40 years.

Novi Chorus Slates First Yule Concert

A Christmas Concert will be presented by the Novi Junior high school chorus, Tuesday, December 15, at 8 p.m.

The concert is under the direction of Keith Rolston of the music department. An afternoon program is slated for the students.

Sport Shop Opens Here

A new business opened on Main street in Northville this week.

It's Smith's Sport Shop, owned and operated by Claude Smith of 47850 West Seven Mile road.

Smith owns the building at 105 East Main street which now houses The Little Drummer Shop in addition to his sport shop. He's now handling a variety of sports' equipment including hunting, fishing, archery, etc., items. Smith said that the demand of the public will determine how extensive and what lines of sports' equipment his store will handle.

"Run-Away Toy Shop" and a reading of "King John's Christmas" will be pantamined by the members of the dramatics class.

Included in the evening program will be such yule favorites as "The Little Drummer Boy" and "O Tannenbaum," sung by the newly-formed chorus.

The program will be held in the commons area of the junior high. Everyone is invited and there will be no admission charge.

Some Taxes No Longer Deductible

Some of the taxes previously deductible on Federal income tax returns will not be deductible by individuals under provisions of the 1964 law.

These are the state and local taxes on alcohol, cigarettes and tobacco, and certain auto license and driver fees and a few miscellaneous taxes.

Taxes that are still deductible are real estate and personal property taxes, general sales and certain use taxes, state and local income taxes and gasoline taxes.

According to R. I. Nixon, Detroit District Director of Internal Revenue, the changes in tax deductibility should not have a major effect on Michigan taxpayers.

These non-deductible taxes accounted for only 12 per cent of tax deductions taken last year. He added that there is no change at all in the taxes that may be deducted on business returns.

Nixon noted that although 47 states tax alcoholic beverages, in just 16 states are these taxes paid directly by the consumer and therefore deductible by him under previous law. Cigarette taxes had been deductible in 25 states of the 47 which have these taxes.

In Justice Court

A Northville resident pleaded guilty to a charge of indecent exposure Monday in Judge Charles McDonald's court. Leo Hollis, 654 Thayer boulevard, was fined $35 and put on six month's probation. The offense took place November 25 and Hollis was arraigned the same day. At that time, he pleaded not guilty to the charge and posted a $250 bond.

SHOW FEATURE — Greeting card scenes were reproduced in niches by the community building stage as a feature of the Christmas Frostings market. The Northville entry (top) with a sleeping mouse is by Mrs. Edward Frutchey, a club member from Milford. The Kern Lake Garden club entry (middle) depicts the three kings while the Milford niche (bottom) is a cornucopia of tree ornaments.

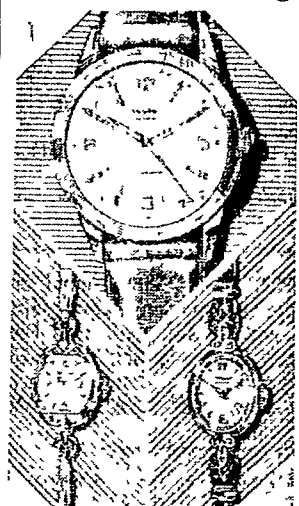

COMING DOWN — This old apartment building at 123 West Main street will soon be removed. Wreckers expected to complete the job this week. The building was purchased by the Northville Area Economic Development Corporation. It will be sold to the city for the cost to the corporation and used temporarily as public parking. Long range planning calls for commercial redevelopment of the area.

Auditions Friday

The Northville Players Guild will hold auditions at 7 p.m. Friday in the Scout - Recreation building for the musical "Rumplestiltskin". The play will be presented next month in conjunction with the Northville PTA.

Mustangs Bow to Lakers In W-O League Opener

Rick Hacht, West Bloomfield's, one-man show, turned his football fury loose on the Northville high school basketball court Friday night to lead his teammates to a 60-50 victory.

If spoiled Northville's 1964-65 cage debut, and in the process, the Mustangs suffered their first Wayne - Oakland Conference loss.

Hacht, a rugged all-conference end who stands six-two, controlled both boards and scored 22 points to pace all scorers. He was uncanny on offense and defense.

Surrounded by the equally tall Mustang forwards, Hacht would snap up a rebound to spike a Northville scoring threat or to give his teammates another crack at their own bucket.

With the Mustangs employing a zone defense through three quarters of the game Hacht worked his way free to score from 10' to 15 feet out on a soft jumper. In the late stages, he scored with ease under the hoop as Northville switched to a man-to-man defense to press for the ball.

That was essentially the story of the ball game — basket by Hacht, rebound by Hacht.

Except for a short-lived lead 4-3, early in the first period, Northville trailed throughout. The Mustangs, however, played tough and go several times, narrowing the gap to just one point midway in the second period.

But the Lakers rebounded each time to regain a substantial lead. In the closing minutes, with Northville cagers sprawling over the floor to get the ball, West Bloomfield increased its lead as men broke loose under the basket.

Surprisingly, the Mustangs outshot West Bloomfield, from the floor 55-54, but the visitors cashed in on four more two-pointers, 23. From the free throw line West Bloomfield converted 14 of 21 attempts. Northville 12 of 18.

Hurting Northville's chances for victory was the Mustangs' inability to generate a sustained offense or to hit when it counted. Even more damaging was the absence of rebounding strength despite the fact that the Mustangs had the weight and height edge up front.

As Northville Coach Dave Longridge put it, "They beat us where we were supposed to be strong — rebounding. With our big men in there, we should be getting two or three shots — but we weren't."

"We've got our work cut out for us if we expect to make a strong showing this year," he declared. "But remember, this was only the first game. We learned a lot. Now we have to do something about it," he added.

Sparking the Mustangs was Guard John Jameson, a scrappier up from last year's reserves. His defensive play fired the Mustangs' frantic efforts to get the ball and his 10 points, most of them in the third period, almost pulled Northville even.

Other top scorers for the local five were Jerry Imsland with 12, Steve Evans, another of last year's reserves, with 11 and Rick Milne with eight. Northville jumped in front, 4-3, on baskets by Imsland and Jim St. Germain, but West Bloomfield surged back for a 10-4 lead in the first quarter.

A jump shot by Jameson and Milne's lay-up on a screen by Imsland cut West Bloomfield's lead to just 10-8, before the visitors spurred to a 14-9 edge at the end of the first period.

Northville came back fast 18-17, at the outset of the second period.

cond period on two buckets by Jameson, one by Evans and a free throw by Imsland, but again the Lakers jumped to a big lead, 29-21, this time on the wings of the fast break as the half ended.

The teams traded baskets through half of the third quarter to run the score to 38-30. Then Jameson hit on two jump shots and Milne fired a backhand through the nets to close the gap to 41-37, before Hacht cashed in on a three-point play to give West Bloomfield a 44-37 margin at the end of the period.

Hacht was instrumental during the period, scoring 10 of his team's 15 points, as Northville used its big men to better advantage under the hoop.

Evans tallied on a drive-in and St Germain netted two free throws to move the Mustangs within three points, 44-41, with six minutes left in the contest. But Northville's man-to-man strategy backfired as West Bloomfield won going away.

Cagers Play Weekend Double Bill

Waiting in the wings for Northville this weekend are two bitter foes who would like nothing better than to knock off the Mustangs.

The Mustangs will journey to Holly Friday to take on the Colliath of the Wayne-Oakland Conference, Holly, which has its eye on the league title, and rightly so.

Braced by a string of veterans that would make any opponent blink its eyes, Holly spells nothing but trouble. Clarenceville found that out last Friday night when Holly raced to an easy 65-48 opening victory.

Pacing the gritty Broncos is hard-driving Forward Tom Fagan, a six-foot hustler, the tallest man on the squad.

But the Broncos' size is no handicap. They more than make up for it with a hard-driving offense and a staunch zone press. Other aggressive cagers are five-eight Mark Phalen, a chunky guard, and Jeff Jones, a forward.

Plymouth will furnish the opposition here Saturday night.

Although the Rocks are not especially strong this year, they promise to be tough in this traditional battle of "neighbors." Last year they poured it on the hapless Mustangs to win by a 40-point margin.

In other W-O encounters Friday, Bloomfield Hills came up with a convincing 71-56 win over Brighton and Clarkston upset Milford, 58-46. Milford was a pre-season favorite to give Holly a run for its money in the conference race.

MUSTANG MAULER — Wrapping his opponent in a virtual knot is Northville's Mike Horner, one of its leading matmen. Horner won a close decision in his team's loss to North Farmington.

Wrestlers Break Into Win Column

In a closely fought match with South Lyon Monday the Northville matmen posted a 29-21 triumph, their first of the season and the only one in four outings.

With the score tied by Mike Horner's win by decision, Bob Orr and Jerry Burns came through to nail down the victory.

Burns, a heavyweight, extinguished any chance for a South Lyon victory by pinning his opponent in just eight seconds.

Hörner and Orr won by decision as did 133-pound Bob Steeper earlier in the evening. Pinning their men were 95-pound Bob Baber, 100-pound Marty Richardson and Dennis Cook, a 127 pounder.

"We moved better than we have in the past," Coach Dick Gray said.

It was strictly a case of being outclassed in the battle with River Rouge December 2. With four state champion wrestlers on the roster, Rouge posted a 39-11 win.

Only Northville winners were Baber, 103 pounds, by a pin and

Colts Win

Flashing mid-season form at times, the Northville Colts edged West Bloomfield, 53-50, to win their opening game of the cage season.

Coach Alex Klukach's charges spurred to a quick 8-1 lead but then fought for their lives before pulling this one out with three minutes left in the game.

Glenn Deibert gave the Colts a three point lead by scoring on a driving buck. Both teams had many opportunities to change the score, but they went by the board.

Leading the Colts in scoring was Sophomore Jim Zayti who tallied 21 points. Though erratic, Zayti frequently flashed top form on offense and defense to spark the attack.

Backing him up in scoring were Jeff Crawford, a jumping jack who tallied 12 points and Deibert and Chris Holman each with seven points.

Forward Ted La Pratt topped West Bloomfield's JVs with 23 points for game honors.

Northville won the game at the free throw line, where it converted 19 charity tosses. West Bloomfield had the edge in the field, hitting 19 of 43 shots to only 17 of 45 for Northville.

Kerr, Tuck Win Honors

Additional honors were heaped on two Mustang linemen this week when the Detroit Free Press selected its suburban all-star teams.

Center Dave Kerr was named to the West All-Suburban eleven, while Tackle Bob Tuck was given honorable mention.

Both gridgers were honored earlier by being placed on the Wayne - Oakland Conference All-Star team, selected by league coaches.

JUMPING JOHN — Northville's John Jameson makes like a jumping jack as he springs high to flip in two of his 10 points. His aggressiveness was a bright spot in the Mustangs' opening game defeat, 60-50, by West Bloomfield. Teammate Steve Evans (30) watches two approaching Lakers.

Grandma's Cookie Recipes Make Big Hit at Booms'

Christmas at the Richard Booms' residence on Grasmere drive creates all the excitement that naturally accompanies such an occasion where there are five youngsters in the family.

It holds a special treat, however, for each of the youngsters, as well as Dad. For that's the time of year Mrs. Booms gets out the Christmas cookies recipes handed down by Grandmother Anna Booms, who baked the same treats in her kitchen at Christmastime many years ago.

Mrs. Booms doesn't confine her cookie baking to mere family-size portions. She also bakes some 20 dozen which are given to patients at Northville State Hospital, schools and churches.

The aroma that fills the kitchen when all this baking is going on usually attracts an audience, specifically: Ray, 14; Richard, 7; Tommy, 6; Ruth Ann, 5; and Timmy, 3.

For mothers who would like to try their hand at attracting a crowd to their kitchens this Christmas Mrs. Booms' Christmas cookie recipes follow.

ORANGE ALMOND COOKIES

1-1 3/4 cup sifted flour
1/4 cup blanched almonds
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup brown sugar, sifted and packed
1 egg yolk
1/4 tablespoon grated orange rind

1 tablespoon orange juice.
Reserve one half cup flour and mix with almonds. Mix and sift remaining flour, salt and baking soda. Cream butter well, add sugar gradually and continue creaming until light and fluffy; add beaten egg yolk and orange rind and mix well. Add flour, salt and soda mixture. Add orange rind and flour almond mixture. Form dough into four rolls about two inches in diameter and chill in refrigerator overnight. Slice thin and bake on baking sheets in a preheated oven, 400 degrees four about six minutes. Makes four dozen cookies.

BUTTERSCOTCH COOKIES

1 1/2 cup butter
2 cups brown sugar

DATE COOKIES

1 1/2 cup brown sugar
1 cup margarine or other shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Enough flour to make a stiff dough. Mix ingredients in order.

Filling
1/2 package of dates cut fine
3/4 cup sugar
1 cup water
Cook until soft and place between cookies as filling. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees.

COCOANUT BALLS

1 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
shredded cocoanut
Cream butter and sugar, add vanilla and beat until fluffy. Sift flour with salt and gradually blend into creamed mixture. Shape dough around a nut, date or candied cherry. Roll in chopped shredded cocoanut. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in slow oven, 325 degrees about 20 minutes. Cool on racks and store in loosely covered containers.

SPICE DROPS
6 tablespoons of margarine
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup chopped nuts
2 cup chocolate bits
2 tablespoons milk

Cream margarine, the two sugars and vanilla. Beat until fluffy, adding egg. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Stir in nuts and chocolate until lightly coated. Combine two mixtures, adding milk. Stir until blended. Drop from teaspoon on greased cookie sheet, bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 36 cookies.

Richard, Tommy, Timmy and Ruth Ann Booms agree that their mother's cookies are "just great".

Zip Makes Good Despite Cold Nose

Zip — described as $2 worth of dachshund, beagle and labrador — is a status-seeker.

She is always dressed up. But she should be. For nearly two years, she has worked regularly at Lapham's Men's Shop on Main street in Northville.

Her salary — "Three white collars plus plaid bow tie and all she can eat."

Charles Lapham claims Zip is an asset to business. "Sometimes I think she has a better clientele than we do," he laughed. "People bring in their youngsters to see the dog.

"In a way she was a left-over promotion from a January sale in 1962," Chuck related. "We had six pups in the window to advertise a 'dog-day' sale.

"All the others were sold and Zip was left. Terry and Scott, my children paid $2 for her. Now I wouldn't take $100 for Zip."

While he is making a sale, Zip has a knack for keeping children occupied.

"With her around, the youngsters stay out of the windows and off the merchandise turnstiles," Chuck said.

Usually Zip can be found resting or napping under the men's suit racks but when a customer enters the store, she perks up her ears and strolls out to meet him.

Zip has her own way of getting acquainted, according to Chuck. She nudges on the leg with her cold nose.

"It doesn't bother the men because they cannot feel her nose but women —

"One woman was shocked," Chuck explained. But Zip is considered well mannered and only three complaints have ever been lodged against her.

Zip has another attribute. She is regarded as a "time clock" by Lapham employees. Chuck elaborated:

"At about 5:50 p.m. she starts racing up and down the aisles. Everyone then knows it is almost time to go home.

"If we don't leave on time, Zip will try to take off her collar. She gets bewildered if she stays late during the pre-Christmas period when the store remains open until 9 p.m."

Another merchant in Northville, Del. Black, has featured animals at his shoe store.

Right now, he is without one. But in the past he has displayed an alligator, rabbit, and even a tame decorated skunk.

"The alligator was on loan from a local resident," Del said. "He finally got too big. An alligator grows a foot a year.

"It is now in the Detroit zoo.

"I had a rabbit until last summer but one morning I found he had hanged himself in his cage. So at the moment we are in between animals."

Del indicated he would like to purchase a parrot next. No reason was necessary. He offers a line of shoes showing a "parrot" on the label.

NEWCOMER'S CORNER

"I look upon every day to be lost, in which I do not make a new acquaintance."

— Samuel Johnson

Mrs. John Colden, sitting in front of the fireplace, (left to right) Grace Claude and Charles John and Mr. Colden.

A large older home on tree-lined Thayer boulevard was the choice of the new residency for the John Colden family who moved to Northville recently from Plymouth.

The main attraction of the house, explained Mrs. Colden, is the large formal dining room which holds a long stately oak table and king-sized chairs. The crystal chandelier is a focal point of the room.

The Coldens and their three children, Calude 10, Grace 7 and Charles John 4, (the older children attend Main street elementary school) like living in town and being in the "center of things".

Mrs. Colden's family dates back to the early homesteaders in Ohio, as a girl she was a member of the 4-H club and is a graduate of Ohio University.

She has had an interesting career in the advertising business and was the first woman to be employed by the airlines. Mrs. Colden was a ticket agent and passenger representative for TWA not too many years back when the major airlines were flying out of the old City Airport at Conner and Grafton.

She was a member of the Civil Air Patrol while living in Los Angeles and her enthusiasm for flying has never laid dormant.

Mrs. Colden held her pilots license until recently. Also an avid flyer, Mrs. Colden, who is sales manager and buyer for Roy O'Brien's automobile dealership in St. Clair Shores, was a Marine pilot during the World War II and held the rank of aviation crew chief.

An unforgettable memory of his experiences as a pilot was that Colonel Charles Lindberg flew with his wing. He relates that Lindberg, a very religious man, was often seen in his cockpit reading his bible before taking off on a mission.

Mr. Colden still flies his own plane. He attended Wooster college in Ohio and Cornell University. Port Huron, is his home town.

How do such aviation-minded people spend their vacations? With a long flight to the Virgin Islands. Last June the Coldens flew down to the islands for relaxation and shell collecting. They visited San Juan, St. Thomas and a visit to the somewhat utopian Caneel bay plantation which is a mecca for shell collecting.

"This year," said Mrs. Colden, "we are looking forward to another trip to the islands and hope to show the children the wonderful sights."

"We shall obey and adore in understandingly, warring no more over the corporeality, but rejoicing in the affluence of our God" (p. 140).

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

by the Rev. S. D. Kinde
First Methodist Church

No text of Scripture tells us the meaning of Christmas quite as well as John 3:16 "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

The coming of the Christ as a baby was the direct result of God loving the world. The message of Christmas is that God loves the world; his foolish, blundering, wayward, sin-sick world; and he cannot bear to leave in the troubles, sins, disasters in which it has involved itself; but has unreasonably thrown in his all, God's all, to right things for it, if it will.

How God can love us as he does, or indeed at all (he being what he is and we being what we are) is indeed a mystery. Some would say that this is a God-forsaken world and deserves to be. But is it? Not at all! This is God's world and he loved it, and still loves it, to the point of coming to us in the person of Jesus Christ to save us from sin and death.

Often a hymn expresses well a great truth. Consider how Christina Rossetti sets forth the very message of Christmas through poetry:

Love came down at Christmas, Love all lovely, Love Divine;

Love was born at Christmas

Star and angels gave the sign

Worship we the God-head,

Love Incarnate, Love Divine;

Worship we our Jesus: But where-with for sacred sign?

Love shall be our token,

Love be yours and love be mine,

Love to God and all men
Love for plea and gift and sign.

Mr. and Mrs. David Quino are newcomers to Willowbrook. They just recently moved here from Peoria, Illinois and now reside on Border Hill road. They have a son Kirk, who celebrated his second birthday, just last month. Mr. Quino is assistant group supervisor of the Great-West Life Assurance company. His hobby is golf and music. Mrs. Quino also enjoys music, but her hobbies are rather limited at present to little Kirk and getting settled in their new home.

Mrs. Andy Simkanin Jr. of Maude Lea Circle has just returned from a weeks trip to New York. She met her husband there, as he is a seaman on the S. S. President Garfield, and was in port at New York for a few days before leaving on a trip around the world. While in New York the Simkanins visited a nephew, Don Chavey. He took them to some famous eating places, The Four Seasons, Tower Suite and Club 21. Mrs. Simkanin then flew to Boston and met her husband where they visited a niece Gerri and her husband Jack Dobbs.

Mr. Jack Carter of West 10 Mile returned home Sunday, from Detroit Osteopathic hospital. He underwent major surgery, just a week ago.

Kay Buck of Le Bost drive had a small coffee for Edie Seerst on Monday evening. The Seerists are leaving Willowbrook. Dee McKeon, Virginia Conrad, Jackie Frere, Skip Boyer, Pat Harter, Ness Kucinskis, Helen Wshaw and Kay presented the Seerists with a going away gift.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Duck and sons Ron and Jon of Le Bost, spent Thanksgiving week end with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Fortune of Park Forest, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Conrad and daughter Elizabeth of Willow Lane, celebrated Mr. Conrad's birthday last Thursday, by having dinner at Hillside Inn in Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin West and daughter Elizabeth Ann of McMahon Circle, moved last week to their new home in Celina Ohio.

A nativity play was presented in the social hall at Our Lady of Victory in Northville, after a buffet dinner last Tuesday. Peggy and Theresa McKeon, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKeon of Willow Lane, participated in the play. Linda Polak daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Polak of Border Hill road was soloist with the Northville Girls Glee Club which sang that night in the social hall. Linda sang two selections, The Virgin's Slumber Song and Sweet Little Jesus Boy.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beadle of Border Hill road attended the Saturday evening marriage of Sandra Bracken of Dearborn to Mr. Theodore Hoffman of San Francisco, California, at the Cherry Hill Presbyterian church. The reception following the wedding was at Baja's Dining Room-Cocktail Lounge in Dearborn.

This thoroughly delightful play is especially adapted for children to perform and only runs for 15 minutes, but it manages to appeal to the adults of make believe also.

The E. C. W. at the general meeting December 1st. decided to have a rummage sale with white elephant table, general store and coffee stand in January. They also planned to have a valentine day square dance in February when the availability of the community hall permitted. Mrs. Lutes, president stressed again the necessity for having an E. C. Fudge Flowing Faster At Northville Laboratories Production has stepped-up at Northville Laboratories, 501 Fairbrook.

Installation of new equipment for filling jars of fudge and butterscotch ice cream topping has streamlined this process into one operation that has the empty jars entering by conveyor and leaving on the same line, filled and boxed ready for the warehouse and shipping.

The empty jars are filled two-at-a-time at an automatic filling machine. Then the jar is capped — the lid tightened — and the jar labelled. Next the jars are packed, the boxes taped and the conveyor ends up in the warehouse.

In addition to toppings, which are marketed under the brand name of Langfield's Gold Label, Northville Laboratories makes vanilla and other flavored extracts. The products are purchased by national ice cream manufacturers as well as leading retail supermarket chains.

The spotless Northville Laboratories has grown steadily during the past 45 years under the supervision of C. E. Langfield, a pharmaceutical chemist who is president of the firm.

Still highly active in his business, Langfield also has a long record of community service which includes being mayor of the village and a principle booster of the Northville high school band.

and learned how a newspaper operated from the time the stories are written until the finished product comes off the press.
Here are their reactions to their tour through the Record:
"I enjoyed what you told me in the newspaper office," commented Scott Anton. "I learned that you use ink in the paper."
Timothy Butt remarked: "We liked it very much. I learned how the paper was made and how the machines run. Thank you for showing us the machines."
Said Kathleen Lockwood, "I had a good time. I learned some things about newspapers. I learned how the paper goes through the press how you put the paper on the press and how you make the headlines."
Like the others, Barbara Lang was exposed to a new experience Barbara reflected:

"I learned about the big press. I learned how it works. I learned a lot about newspapers."
Jeff Bell agreed and added: "I learned how the headlines are printed, how the press works, how the pictures are taken and why we should always proofread."
Jeffery Cusson was terse. "Thank you for teaching us about machines. I was glad to come."
Observed Thomas Abrams: "I learned how they write and how they print."
"Thank you for showing me through the post office. I learned how you make the papers we get in the mail and how the press runs. I learned how you print pictures and the headlines," wrote John Klauer.
Charles Dickey noted: "Thank you for teaching me all about machines. I learned a lot about making newspapers."
"We had a very nice time and we learned how the machines work. Then we saw how they (the papers) were printed and many other things," said Terri Durham.
John Regenhart brought out that "I saw the machines that scoop up the paper that goes through the rollers. Then it comes out printed on one side. I learned we should proofread first."

"I learned that you put the articles that are supposed to go in the paper in backwards," said Lydia Sanders, "but they come out frontwards."
We always hope so, Lydia. Linda Ross's letter was revealing. She said "I know how words are made for the news. I learned how you make the headlines. I learned all about the way machines work to make the news."

"Now I know how the newspaper is made."
In her comments, Regina Henson pointed out that "I learned how you print papers. How a press runs and how a proof-reader proofreads a copy of what you're going to sell." Complimenting his guide, David Meadows stated: "Thank you for teaching us about your work. I enjoyed it very much. I liked the way you make newspapers, too."

John Pacific remarked: "I learned that a lady types at a big machine and type comes out for the newspaper." Gary Puckett's correspondence was succinct but penetrating. Gary said: "We learned about printing newspapers. You must do a lot of things. You must be tired."

Did you hear that, boss?

Farnum Appoints Executive Aid

Congressman-Elect Billie S. Farnum today announced appointment of a veteran newspaperman, William J. Coughlin, as his executive aide. Coughlin has resigned as Detroit Free Press Planning Editor to direct Farnum's Washington staff.

"Bill Coughlin has unusual qualifications for helping me serve the people of the 19th Congressional District in a variety of needed ways," Farnum said. "I intend to see that he gets an opportunity to use each facet of his experience for their benefit."

Farnum's district covers Pontiac, western Oakland county, including South Lyon and Lyon township, and — in Wayne county — Livonia, Northville and Redford Township.

Coughlin, whose Free Press posts included those of Sunday Editor and Associate Editor, has also been a radio writer, program moderator and broadcaster. He has been a Wayne University lecturer and special instructor since 1946 and for over 15 years has written a widely read income tax guide.

The Northville Jayettes, a community-minded organization, wish to hand a bouquet and say a big "thank you" for a job well done to another group of community-minded women.

Headed by Mrs. MacLaine of the Spinning Wheel, the ladies spent many hours preparing a "dream come true" for Northville youngsters — Santa's workshop.

It is located in the American Legion hall and every child should be sure not to miss it.

This project was not something thrown together but many hours of thought and work were involved. We urge everyone to find time on their busy holiday schedule to stop and enjoy the "dreamland."

It will add to their Christmas and the children are sure to go away in ecstasy.

Manufacturers Bank is looking for people to open savings accounts

People like Joan Miller. Occupation? Secretary. Hobby? Collecting travel folders and dreaming about vacations that never seem to come true. Because the vacation she wants usually costs more than the cash she has on hand.

So ... last year, she didn't go to Hawaii. The year before, she didn't go to Europe. And this year, she isn't going to Mexico.

Yet, any one—perhaps, all three vacations—could have come true. If she had started a savings account at Manufacturers Bank.

Joan Miller is one of the people Manufacturers Bank is looking for. A person who should be saving money, but isn't.

The savings habit is a good one. An important one. Particularly, when you really want to go places.

SPEAKING The Record

By BILL SLIGER

A little of 'this and that' starting with a pet peeve.

It's the neat way many public officials have of climbing off the hook. Their favorite phrase is, "I was mis-quoted".

The typical offender is usually like a tiger at a meeting. But when his words appear in print and a few disgruntled constituents call up to complain, he hides behind the old reliable shield.

I confess that any opinion from this corner is strictly prejudicial. But I will admit the press is not infallible. It has mis-quoted and it will again and again.

However, the press is right more than it is wrong. And the percentage is one of which it can be proud.

A reporter attends a meeting, listens and takes notes. He is not thinking of what he is going to say next while another person is speaking. He is concentrating on the speaker. And he writes down what the speaker has said.

If one can assume the reporter is honest and reasonably intelligent, it seems logical that his record of the evening's procedures should be the most accurate.

And when an official stands before an audience and says that he has been misquoted but not, when confronted 15 minutes later, point out the error, it becomes evident that officials, not newspapers, must re-examine their responsibility.

Santa's workshop at Northville's American Legion building has become a popular haunt of the small fry. More than 450 youngsters visited Santa last Saturday.

If you haven't taken your children, do so. A group of local women, headed by Mrs. Fred McLean of the Spinning Wheel, did a most imaginative job in creating the elf workshop.

It's open Fridays 3-8 p.m. and Saturdays noon - 8 p.m. Christmas week it will be open each afternoon, 3-8.

Sports' observers report Dan Brown is better than ever this year as a member of the nation's number one basketball team at the University of Michigan.

Dan's a junior and was a varsity squad member as a sophomore. He's seen action in U of M's opening games and would undoubtedly be on the "first five" at any other school in the country.

He's the son of Dr. and Mrs. P. N. Brown and played on Northville's undefeated football and basketball teams in 1961.

Reorganization Struggle Ahead for State

LANSING — A long, long session of the 1965 legislature is almost assured by several factors, not the least of which is the impending state government reorganization.

Odd-year sessions are traditionally longer than those in election-years, but the Democratic majority-Republican administration situation makes for an even more intensive fight over reorganization than was previously anticipated.

The 1963 constitution gave the legislature until 1966 to set down new government divisions, sharply lessening the number of independent agencies. I this is not done by the lawmakers, it then becomes an executive responsibility of the Governor.

Democratic leaders in the two houses would like nothing more than to draw their own plan for the administration of state government.

To turn this job over to Republican Governor Geo. Romney could be disastrous to many of the Democratic appointees still holding top-level jobs in various departments to which they were named in the Williams and Swainson administrations.

Considerable time will be needed to accomplish reorganization, however, because the initial recommendations made to the Legislature next year may not meet with Democratic approval.

Joint House-Senate committees have been working on implementation of the new Constitution the past two years, including the interim period between sessions.

Because the Republicans controlled the 1963-64 legislative session, the top men on these committees were not Democrats and there were more GOP members on these working units.

Thus, the original recommendations to be made next session likely will be the result from these GOP-controlled committees which have been in consultation with Romney's office during their deliberations.

Some agencies with Democratic-named chiefs likely would be made sub-divisions of other units if Romney and GOP legislators had their way but Democratic lawmakers will be out to preserve the high rank of those administrators who share their political persuasion.

Attention must be given to an underlying problem if a major cause of traffic accidents is to be reduced, according to Secretary of State James M. Hare.

Hare notes that it has been estimated that the drinking driver causes up to 75% of all fatalities and personal injury accidents. This includes both the alcoholic and the so-called social drinker.

"In many cases, the real problem of alcoholism and its underlying psychological causes are completely ignored," said Hare. "Perhaps what is necessary is a law which would provide for automatic referral of such a person to an alcoholic treatment center and a suspension of his license until he is given a clean bill of health."

Tougher laws dealing with drinking drivers are definitely needed in any event, said the secretary of state.

Hare emphasizes 'punitive action without treatment of the real problem would be valueless, however. Under present law, a person's license is taken if he is convicted of drunk driving, twice in a year, but many get a lighter penalty if they prove a need for the license.

A considerable number of Michigan citizens are affected annually by the drunken driving law. In the first 9 months of this year, Hare's department revoked or suspended 4,635 licenses under this law, and 5,487 persons lost their licenses during all of 1963.

School dropouts and other reluctant learners are not, an invention of the 20th Century but communications and other factors have made it seem so.

State School Superintendent Lynn M. Bartlett says citizens just hear more about these youngsters now because today's world no longer provides a place for the person who fails to get an education.

Cooperative programs designed to teach reluctant learners desirable skills for available jobs are beginning to provide a bridge between the gap opened by changing times and technological advances.

National studies have shown that reluctant learners often make remarkable progress toward the normal level when placed, at an early age, in a favorable environment for mental, emotional and social development, said Bartlett.

Thus, encouraging a positive attitude toward education among so-called culturally deprived youngsters can help produce beneficial results as they progress through the grades.

— Out of the Past —

One Year Ago—

By unanimous action, the Northville board of education approved a recommendation of the superintendent to move sixth grade classes to the junior high school next fall. The proposal represents another attempt to solve classroom shortages that are fast becoming critical.

Northville's new city hall is now more than 50% complete and about four or five weeks behind schedule. But it is expected to be finished by the March 5 deadline, according to city officials.

E. M. B. Market, downtown grocery and meat store in Northville for more than 30 years, has been sold. Ray Garrod is the new owner. He bought the business from Leland V. Smith, "Butch" LeFevre retired as manager of the store.

Five Years Ago—The first step in a $40,000-$50,000 drive for football field lights and bleachers was taken by the school board at its regular meeting Monday. A special fund of $450 was set up from closed accounts.

An announcement that Northville Downs would have a total of 39 racing nights next year — three more than 1959 — wasn't good news, according to John Carlo, executive manager of the track. He said three bad days — Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday — were gained and are "unprofitable" to the track.

For the 25th time, the Northville Community Chorus will perform Handel's Messiah. In the 65-voice choir are eight members who have taken part in all performances. They are director Leslie Lee, Mrs. Lee, Russell Amerman, Carl Bryan, Mary Kissell, George Lockhart and Mr. and Mrs. Ray VanValkenburg.

Joe Soule and Judith Leavenworth of Northville are members of the Wayne State University concert band.

Fifteen Years Ago—One of Northville's oldest landmarks — the Opera House — is about to be torn down to make way for the New Center Building. With the razing of the opera house, Northville will lose its last tangible trace of an aristocratic era.

Northville's parking meter system, designed to alleviate the congested business section will become effective this weekend.

Drum majorettes of the Northville high school band are Joyce Wick, Geraldine Shamee and Ardith Bidwell.

The Northville fire department was called to the Philip Anderson residence on West Eight Mile Monday afternoon. The barn had caught fire due to a spark from a nearby grass fire. The blaze was quickly extinguished.

Twenty-Five Years Ago—

Kayo Morgan, leading contender for the world's bantam weight title, is making his headquarters at Dr. L. W. Snow's residence in the village. Harry Baxter, Kayo's manager, is trying to arrange a match with George Pace, the champion in his class, to be held at Olympia in Detroit sometime this month. Morgan has fought the best in his division for the past 10 years. Some of his greatest successes were in England and Scotland.

Christmas Sales Up

BABSON PARK, Massachusetts. There has been wide-spread speculation as to how much unfavorable downpressure the burden of labor troubles in autos and other fields may have on total pre-holiday retail trade. When the final tally is made, our answer is that the impact will be relatively slight.

Before the rash of strikes, it looked as though Christmas business as a whole in 1964 would surpass that of the preceding year by as much as 7%-8%. Now that the auto dislocations appear to be at an end, consumer buying psychology in nearly all parts of the country seems to be brightening again.

Weighing all the optimistic factors basic in the current economy, it is probable that retailers will still do, on average, some 5%-6% better than they did during the record-breaking pre-Christmas weeks of 1963.

Personal income is pushing up against an all-time-high ceiling and promises to average $503 billion for this last quarter of the year. Salaries and wages continue to edge consistently toward higher ground, while dividends and interest are climbing steadily. This means an unusually large reservoir of liquid assets, always an incentive for customers not only to buy heavily but also to move up the scale to higher-priced items.

There is considerable talk about the overextension of consumer debt, especially in sections of the nation which depend heavily upon just a few industries. Actually, the debt situation is not yet generally dangerous. It is true that consumer debt is at an all-time peak; but, even so, the asset-to-debt position of buyers is not fundamentally unhealthy.

Also, repayments on installment credit have been keeping a favorable balance with the volume of retail credit extended; and the debt position of consumers is being offset by a continuously rising backlog of personal and family savings. We feel confident that there is plenty of leeway for new pre-holiday debt extension without fear.

The slice in taxes this year has done a lot to boost both dollar sales and physical turnover at retail outlets, and of course, to encourage the purchase of big-ticket items. The knowledge that take-home pay will be even better in coming months, because of a further tax-cut step and because of the many raises in wages, will mean still another shot in the arm for consumer buying attitudes. With both spendable income and buyer psychology rosy, the customary holiday-season expansiveness could receive added zest.

There is a question just how much effect the anticipated excise-tax cuts will have on the sales of luxury items in the time before Christmas. Some believe that prospective buyers of expensive articles will wait to make their purchases until such a measure is actually passed. However, spendable income is so ample that hold-backs should be relatively slight on most articles and the repercussions on pre-holiday business as a whole should be negligible.

Retailers who are on the ball over the next few crucial weeks may snail up gains over a year ago substantially higher than the 5%-10% increase expected for the national average. Chances are that heaviest holiday buying will be even later than it was last year (that's the way the trend has been moving in recent years) with the really big explosion of buying likely in the final days before Christmas. Those who have intelligently built up inventories keyed to today's more sophisticated tastes could easily top pre-holiday 1963 by 10% or more.

Finally, it should be stressed that the upsurge in retail trade will not quiet down to any great extent after the holiday splurge. Turnover should continue to ride high above year-earlier levels at least well into the first quarter of 1965.

LET'S TALK

WHERE TO BUY GOOD USED CARS

It's easy to get into "business". All you have to do is pick up a few cars at a wholesale auction, rent an lot, put up your sign, and you're ready to go. I wouldn't suggest you buy a good used car by accident. It is obtained first by an experienced estimator from what his ears tell him about it. With "rough" cars thus eliminated, it must be completely reconditioned.

This includes a road check of all electrical equipment, brakes, tires, front and rear suspension. The pressure is then tested, engine tuned up. In where the general customer justifies it and it is new we may rebuild the motor.

If the car requires painting, this is done, dents and scratches are bumped out and sandpaper is then ready to be anteed as a quality used car and go on our lot.

The cars eliminated first appraisal are wholesale. As the dealer generally possesses garage facilities which (that's the type of operation mentioned in the first graph), his only concern is to sell them. Since the use of reputable franchised car dealers are compared with those lots, it is easy to see the bargain lies.
