

Rev. Pankow Called To New York Area

The Reverend Bernard J. Pankow, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church since 1954, has accepted a call to begin a new congregation in Brooklyn, New York.

The Reverend Bernard J. Pankow

Reverend Pankow will conduct his final services at St. Paul's Sunday with farewell sermons at 8:00 and 10:30 a.m.

The Pankow family — Reverend and Mrs. Pankow and their three boys, David 16, James 13 and Noel 3½ — expect to depart January 15.

Specifically, Reverend Pankow will be located in the Brownsville area of Brooklyn, where a large percentage of the population is Spanish-speaking, mostly of Puerto Rican background.

Prior to coming to Northville in 1954 Reverend Pankow had served in Mexico City for 10 years where he organized and served the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd. The church is composed of people of various nationalities, many of whom are foreign diplomats.

He performed missionary work in Mexico and in 1946 and 1947 made four trips to Guatemala to help establish work there.

During his service at St. Paul's in Northville communicant membership has increased from 300 to 500, while the total baptised membership including children numbers 800.

Four parcels of property have been added to the church site and a Christian education and Christian day school building erected.

The voters' assembly of St. Paul's will now begin the procedure of issuing a call for a successor for Reverend Pankow.

State Senate Primary Attracts 12 Candidates

Twelve candidates have tossed their hats into the primary race for the 14th district state senatorial seat left vacant by the death of Senator Elmer Paul Chandler last month.

Six Republicans and six Democrats filed by the deadline date Monday for the February 15 run-off. Party winners will oppose each other in the April 5 election.

The list of Democratic hopefuls includes James P. McCarthy, who was defeated by Chandler in the November election. Other Democrats seeking nomination are: John H. Burke of Farmington; Elsie Gilmore of Livonia; Paul F.

Livingston, Birmingham; Edward H. McNamara, Livonia; and Leo P. Meagher, Farmington.

Former Senator Farrell Roberts of the Pontiac area was the first to declare his candidacy on the Republican side.

Two Republicans who were defeated by Chandler in the primary last fall have decided to try again. They are Paul A. Kern, Jr., of Orchard Lake, and Fitzhugh Prescott of Farmington.

A Novi resident announced his candidacy Monday. Republican George Ames, who lives in Willowbrook and works as a barber in Farmington, filed for the office.

Other Republican primary candidates are Allen C. Ingle of Farmington and Thomas J. McHugh of Sylvan Lake.

Deadline for voter registration for the primary is Monday, January 18. Registrations are taken at the office of the clerk of the city, village or township in which voters reside.

The 14th senatorial district serves a wide area including Highland, White Lake, Milford, Commerce, West Bloomfield, Walled Lake, Lyon township and the city of South Lyon and Wixom, Novi, Northville, Plymouth, Farmington and Livonia.

Don't Forget First Baby

Last call for First Baby, 1965.

The curtain falls on the annual contest for First Baby honors in the Northville-Novi area at noon Friday. A host of prizes await the parents of the first baby of the new year.

Date and time of birth should be reported to the Northville Record by noon Friday. Announcement of the winner will be made next week.

Development Hearing Coming Up Tuesday

A proposed $10 million development of single family residences and multiple dwellings at Eight Mile and Taft roads will be explained to the public next Tuesday evening at a special meeting called by the Northville planning commission.

The project introduces "cluster" development in the multiple dwelling area featuring a park adjoining the apartments. Robert H. Carey, president of the Thompson-Brown land development company, will outline the proposal. Planning Chairman George Zerbelt will conduct the meeting scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at the city hall.

Former Mayor

C. H. Bryan Services Held

Carl H. Bryan, a former village president, school board member and Northville businessman, died at his West Main street home January 1 at the age of 72.

Mr. Bryan had been ill for two weeks but was recovering from a heart ailment when he was suddenly stricken.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Castline Funeral home.

In earlier years Mr. Bryan had been active in a wide range of community activities. He served on the board of education in the early twenties, and in the early forties he was a member of the village council and served as mayor for one term.

For more than 30 years Mr. Bryan was employed at the Northville Ford Valve plant.

He retired in 1953. Before this, on March 1, 1945, he had formed the Northville Realty Company with L. M. Eaton. The partnership continued until October 1, 1963 when the company was purchased by George Clark. Both Mr. Bryan and Mr. Eaton continued their association with the firm as salesmen.

Mr. Bryan was an avid singer and was a member of the First Presbyterian church choir for 50 years. He served as choir director for 30 years until 1944 and continued as a choir member until a little more than two years ago.

On December 13 Mr. Bryan was one of six members of the Messiah choir who had taken part in all 30 of the annual performances at the Presbyterian church.

In addition to his membership in the Presbyterian church, Mr. Bryan was a member of the Masonic Lodge, 186 F. & A.M., the consistory of the Holy Temple and Shrine of Dallas, Texas, a charter member of the Lloyd H. Green Post No. 149 and the Western Wayne County Board of Realtors.

He received a commission during World War I and was a graduate of the Samur Artillery school of France.

Since 1956 Mr. and Mrs. Bryan have travelled extensively visiting South America, Africa, the Orient twice and taking a trip around the world.

Mr. Bryan, who lived at 726 West Main street, is survived by his wife, Louise; one son, Alfred; and a sister, Mrs. Ruth Windhorst of Redford.

The Reverend Lloyd Brasure officiated at services. Entombment was at Rural Hill cemetery mausoleum.

Board Pay Hike OK'ed, 3-2

Pay increases for township board members were approved by a 3-2 vote of the board Tuesday night.

But, to become a reality, they must be approved by township electors at the annual meeting April 3.

In a voting pattern that is becoming familiar, the supervisor, clerk and treasurer approved the proposed hikes, while the two trustees voted "no".

The new salary set-up would boost the supervisor from $4000 to $5000 annually, and the clerk and treasurer from $3200 to $4800. It also provides that trustees would receive $22.50 instead of $20 for each meeting attended. The proposal becomes a part of the 1965-66 budget, which must be approved at the annual meeting.

In October Trustees Wilson Tyler and James Tellam had proposed a new salary schedule. It gave the supervisor $5000, but boosted the clerk to $3800 and the treasurer to $3600.

Tuesday night Supervisor R. D. Merriam proposed the schedule finally adopted. Tyler proposed $5000 for the supervisor, $4500 for the clerk and $4000 for the treasurer. He failed to get a second on this motion, but he seconded a proposal by Tellam which coincided with the Tyler proposal, but boosted the treasurer to $4200.

This motion was defeated, 3-2. Then Clerk Marguerite Young moved to accept the supervisor's proposal, which won support of Merriam and Treasurer Alex Lawrence.

While Clerk Young insisted that work had "more than doubled" in the past four years, Tellam took the position that the hike was too much. Tyler also maintained that the treasurer's job was not as difficult as the clerk's and should be paid less. He challenged the treasurer's estimate of 2,000 working hours per year.

Clerk Young produced a recommendation from the Michigan Townships Association which proposed salaries of $6250, $4875 and $4675 for the supervisor, clerk and treasurer, respectively.

Is Sidewalk Snow Removal Unwise Use of Tax Dollars?

The city council had reason, Monday night, to ponder its wisdom in introducing city-wide sidewalk snow removal on a trial basis.

"If the city has so much money, it should give all residents a tax cut," said Eugene Cook.

In registering his objection, Cook made it clear he was appearing before the council as a taxpayer, not as a representative of the board of education on which he happens to serve.

But in the ensuing discussion, Councilman John Canterbury couldn't resist noting that many taxpayers also feel school dollars (which he called "the big tax") are not all spent wisely, either.

Cook had appeared at the council meeting for two reasons. He wondered what had become of the blinker light that was supposed to be installed at North Center street and Eight Mile road City Manager Bruce Potthoff reported that it had been approved by the county and the city has agreed to pay half the expense. He promised to investigate the delay.

Then Cook tossed in his personal views of the two-time snow removal trial, which had its introduction New Year's day.

He said that he didn't think that it was a normal city service and that some people don't have sidewalks and therefore don't benefit. Later he noted that the service gave rise to the suspicion among some residents that the city had so much money it was looking for ways to spend it. He pointed out that the budget had anticipated $120,000 track revenues and received $150,000. This, he suggested, could be returned to the people in the form of a three-mill reduction.

Canterbury told Cook that more people benefit from snow removal than garbage pick-up, because of the number of disposers in use. He also noted that many school tax dollars spent do not benefit everyone, and he pointed to sports, music, special projects for fast learners, etc.

As a further point in the discussion which was developing into an efficiency competition between school and city, Canterbury said it might be a good idea to hire a consulting firm to trace the use of school tax dollars and determine how wisely they were used.

Cook then reminded the council he was appearing as a taxpayer. Manager Potthoff pointed out that excess track funds had been used to accelerate the street improvement program. It was also noted that the city had held the line on taxes and had not instituted increases.

Councilman Richard Ambler said he liked the snow removal idea, and suggested the city should consider leaf removal.

Mayor A. M. Allen pointed out that city-owned sidewalks had frequently been ignored

Edw. Draugelis Succeeds Littell

A young Plymouth attorney, Edward Draugelis, has been selected by the Northville township board to serve as the township's legal advisor.

Draugelis, 36, has served as attorney for the city of Plymouth for the past 3½ years and also serves as attorney for Schoolcraft college.

He was elected by the township board in unanimous action taken Tuesday night. The board had held four interviews in recent weeks. Members were spurred to a decision after Supervisor R. D. Merriam announced that the township was being sued.

Action has been taken by the Alex Gordon Building company against the township to force the township to permit the company to remove sand and topsoil from a 95-acre parcel of land on the east side of Bradner road, north of Elk.

The township board of appeals refused to issue a permit to the Gordon company last May when it sought removal of some 450,000 yards.

Dimes Drive Starts

The annual January March of Dimes campaign gets underway in Northville this week with the Lloyd H. Green Post of the American Legion spearheading the drive.

General chairman of the campaign to raise funds to combat birth defects is Harold Penn, post commander. John Steimel will be his assistant.

As in past years, the Mothers' March is eyed as the principle money-raiser. It is scheduled for January 26, although a chairman for this event has not yet been named.

Penn said that canisters and dime boards will be placed in business places throughout the community this week. A peanut sale conducted by high school students is planned for February 6.

Originally, the March of Dimes raised funds to fight polio. Penn pointed out that more than $397,600,000 of March of Dimes funds have been devoted to treatment of those suffering from birth defects, arthritis and polio. More than $85,100,000 was invested in a research program that produced both the Salk and Sabin polio vaccines.

The March of Dimes is now leading the fight against birth defects, which kill and cripple more American children than any other human disorder.

In Wayne county, for example, there are approximately 3,900 children born each year with a significant birth defect, approximately seven per cent of all live births.

Last year Northville residents contributed more than $2,000 to the drive. The Mothers' March collected $1,423.65, while the March of Dimes Bowling Tournament at Northville Lanes netted $675.

CHRISTMAS, 1964 wasn't white, but January 1, 1965 was. A day-long snowfall blanketed the area, producing scenes that are like Christmases we hope for. The "Christmas card" above is the home of Mrs. D. Harper Britton, 572 West Dunlap. For more January 1 snow scenes see page six.

In Our Town

By Jean Day

A HOME TOUR of some of the area's outstanding homes will be taken via color slides by members of the Northville Newcomer's club and guests at a luncheon program at noon, Tuesday, January 19, at Livonia Knights Inn, Seven Mile road at Middlebelt.

The slides of interiors of varied houses will be shown by Bruce and Beverly McAllister of McAllister's House of Decorating on East Main street. They plan to use the pictures to illustrate color coordination and also will discuss fabrics and answer questions on interior decorating.

The luncheon is set for 12:30 p.m. with cocktails at noon. Reservations must be made by next Monday with Mrs. Fred Isaac, luncheon chairman, FI-9-2455.

The "tour" will cover houses in Farmington and Plymouth as well as Northville. Bruce McAllister says. New homes in the Shadbrook subdivision as well as some of Victorian vintage in town are included. Some of the slides were made during the holidays just past — showing the livability of their owners' decorating.

When McAllister dropped in at the gambrel-roof home of the Orin Hoves on Pinebrook drive in Shadbrook, his camera caught the glow of red goblets on a festive table. The deep red emphasized the red white and blue-gray scheme Mrs. Hove has followed throughout her year-and-a-half old home. Ironstone and other antique pieces are used as decorative accents with colonial reproductions. Red-and-white candy stripe ticking covers a pair of living room chairs.

Other slides in the McAllister collection will show mellow wood paneling combined with a bold print wallpapers of old cars pattern in the family room of the Frank J. Sullivan family's cape cod home.

A more than a hundred-year-old home, now owned by Hugh and Nancy McKay at Seven Mile road and Clement road, also will be featured. The McKays have furnished their home entirely with antiques, many of which are family pieces, and are using wallpaper extensively.

In the dining room a wine-and old blue floral paper is backdrop for a pie cupboard, dry sink and pine table. Ruby velvet Victorian chairs flank a fireplace in the living room. On the fireplace mantel Mrs. McKay often displays a family collection of Lincoln-drape pressed glass, made during the mourning period after that president's death.

Before the mid-month meeting the McAllisters hope to take a picture of the large sewing room Mrs. E. V. Ellison has decorated in her Dunlap street home. Because the rooms of this Victorian house are large, McAllister points out, they were able to use effectively a large laurel-wreath scenic print wallpaper. He also plans to describe the redecorating and remodeling recently completed by Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Atchison in their Rogers street home.

The McAllisters emphasize that their illustrations of drapery treatments and furniture arrangements as well as color combinations are shown to inspire viewers to adapt the ideas to their own homes, but not to copy.

INTEREST IN HOME DECORATING around antiques and fine art pieces has reached such a peak that both the Detroit News and New York Times have run features on the subject in the past few weeks.

"There's no place like home except the Metropolitan museum," commented the New York Times, adding "Be they ever so homelike there is nothing humble about apartments and houses that contain more than a million dollars of art and furnishings."

The article told how affluent New Yorkers are hanging eighteenth century chandeliers in bedrooms, using eighteenth century porcelains for soap dishes and are running carpeting into kitchens. The latter is an idea already adopted by Mrs. Donald Ware, who extended her gold carpets into the kitchen of her apartment-home on Hutton court!

IN ADDITION to the Newcomers luncheon program on the 19th, the group also has scheduled the monthly meeting of the dessert-bridge club for 12:30 p.m. next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Dean H. Lenheiser on Mayo court. Five tables are expected to be in play.

Mrs. E. O. Weber, bridge chairman, now is completing reservations for Newcomer bridge lessons to be given at 8 p.m. Monday evening at the Northville meeting room of the Detroit Savings and Loan association. Eugene Cushing will instruct. Mrs. Weber announces that the lessons are open to anyone in the community who is interested.

Cancer Pads Available

Michigan Cancer Foundation's Plymouth office, serving Plymouth and Northville, has an over-supply of dressings for cancer patients in the area.

The dressings are free of charge and are available for patients at the office in the Veteran's building, 173 N. Main, Plymouth, along with wheelchairs, hospital beds and items for home care of patients.

Because of the unusual supply of dressings they may be obtained also for patients with other types of illnesses or post-operative patients. There is no charge for any of the items supplied by the foundation.

Office hours are Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Volunteers are on duty at these times to assist with supplies.

He will be part of the research team in the fluid-systems components division. He received a B.S.E. degree in aeronautical and astronautical engineering from U. of M. A 1958 graduate of Northville high school, he has worked part-time the past two years in the propulsion laboratory at the university.

Dishes Out Bitter Tonic

A bitter dose of justice is being dispensed in Novi. Minors, charged with illegal possession of alcohol, feel their "last drink" in the village is the most potent.

An offender told Police Chief Lee BeGole:

"Sure I come out to Novi to do my drinking but it is that last one that is hard to swallow."

"What's that," BeGole said in disbelief.

"It's like I said," the young man stated, "That final drink before Judge Jacques."

"We call it 'Jacques-on-the-rocks!'"

He was referring to the fines handed out by Novi Justice of the Peace Emery Jacques during a session of court Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald VanderMolen

Western Michigan University's campus was the meeting place for this week's Northville Newcomers, Mr. and Mrs. Donald VanderMolen of 22000 Beck road.

The VanderMolens met while students at Western in Kalamazoo. Mrs. VanderMolen was studying for his degree in electrical engineering and Jo Ann was working toward her bachelor's degree. She graduated last June and is now teaching second grade at Amerman elementary school. Don, who continued his studies at University of Michigan, will receive his masters degree in engineering in June.

Both have an avid interest in history and spend summer vacations visiting historical sites. This past summer they drove to Williamsburg, Virginia and are planning future trips to American historical shrines.

Mrs. VanderMolen admits that teaching a second grade class is a "job, and a half" and she has little time for a hobby.

When Mr. VanderMolen is home he turns his interest to his hi-fi and good music. He built his own hi-fi set, and is also an amateur photographer.

The VanderMolens like their new apartment and think

Northville is a "wonderful" community. "Future plans, however, will depend on career opportunities when Don graduates from U of M," commented Mrs. VanderMolen.

DEADLINE

TUESDAY NOON

1—Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our wonderful friends and neighbors for their kindness and thoughtfulness in our time of sorrow. God Bless you.
Bob, Ginger & Debbie Forsyth

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their flowers, thoughts, and kindness in the recent bereavement of our brother and uncle.
Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Forsyth
Barbe, Bill & Beverly.

We wish to thank all of the officials of the Novi schools, especially the Junior High and all the people of Novi for their sympathy.
The Husted Family

I wish to thank all of those who so kindly remembered me during my stay in the hospital.
Lyle Bakestraw

The family of Ivo Musselman wish to express their sincere appreciation to all who were so kind during the loss of our loved one. The Ford Motor company and the many employees who were so kind in their thoughts and sympathy, the Novi police department and Casterline funeral home for their faithful assistance, the many friends and neighbors and for the beautiful flowers. We wish to thank all of you for remembering us and we will always be sincerely grateful.

The House of Jack and Jill wishes to express its thanks to all those who have helped in so many different ways. A special thank you for the holiday gifts to The Methodist Church Sunday School, Mrs. Head, Mrs. Westphal, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Kimberly and Mrs. Atchison.

'White Christmas' Arrives One Week Late

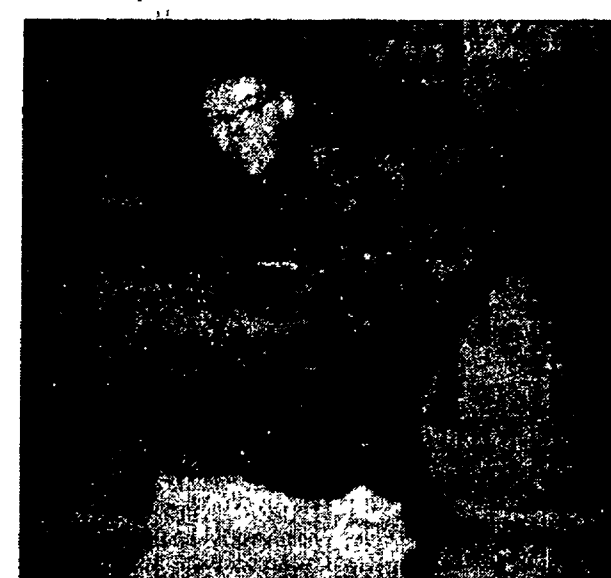

The January 1 snowfall, while it arrived too late for Christmas, gave the area a "look of Christmas" covering trees, bushes and stream banks with a soft white coat.

The snow was "good packing" and resulted in a friendly, but fierce, snowball fight between Daryl Holloman (left) and Bill Skelly.

In Our Courts

Northville Judge Charles McDonald faced a light docket Monday in municipal court after the long holiday weekend. Two of three cases handled were speeding violations. Arthur H. Braun of 984 Al-jen drive in Northville was found guilty and fined $15 for going 50 in a 35 zone December 6. At his arraignment December 21, Braun entered a plea of not guilty and was released on a $25 personal bond.

A Wixom resident, Bill Craigie of 2965 Mimosa, was fined $10 after being found guilty of speeding 50 in a 40 zone on Eight Mile. The offense took place December 11 and he plead not guilty December 21 at his arraignment.

Frederick Treadwell, a Detroit, paid $10 for driving without a valid operators license January 3 on the Seven Mile cut-off. He plead guilty at his arraignment Monday.

OK Pay Hike

came visibly upset. "Neither of you have spent one day in this office. You're both guessing. Spend a day or week here and you'll know what we do," he told the trustees. Two years ago voters turned down proposed salary increases at the annual meeting. An expenditure for additional clerical help in the township's building department was authorized by the board.

In other business Supervisor Merriam told the board steps had been taken to introduce legislation that would place the authority for banning hunting with the individual townships. This authority would be granted on the basis of population in counties. Merriam emphasized, rather than township population. Trustee Tellam proposed that a letter be sent to the Northville city council advising the council of the township's newly appointed committee to study possible industrial development.

CUSHING FOR TWO — High above the outstretched fingers of a Taylor opponent is Forward Mark Cushing, who hit two from the corner late in the ball game to keep Northville out front. Giving Cushing an added advantage is the fact that he towers six-five, the tallest Mustang. Northville won the game, 58-50.

Cagers Carry Hopes To Brighton, Milford

With the beginning of a brand new year, the Northville cagers leave behind a 2-5 record with 1964 and look forward to winning ways in Wayne-Oakland Conference competition.

Perhaps it's not possible to separate the 1964 slate from 1965's, but Coach Dave Longridge indicates that his stalwarts are now ready to make their move in the WOC league. The Mustangs won't have long to wait to prove they are set to win their share of ball games and make their presence felt in the loop.

Northville will hit the road to play back-to-back contests with Brighton Friday and Milford Saturday. Two victories would set the Mustangs' conference record at 3-2, and put them in contention.

Undeclared Holly, with a 3-0 mark, tops the league, followed by West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Hills, and Oakridge, all with two wins and one loss. Clarenceville, Northville's only victim, holds a 0-3 record.

Led by six-five Center Bruce Evenson, the Brighton Bulldogs could give the Mustangs a tussle. Giving the Bulldogs a decided advantage is their crackerbox gymnasium, where they have upset Northville two years in a row.

Like Northville, Brighton has a 1-2 record, its lone victory coming at home over surprising Clarkston.

Milford, 1-2 in the conference, has not lived up to its potential, although the Redskins could break loose for a big night against Northville Saturday.

Leading the Redskin attack is Guard Jack Ward and Center Bob Hackbart, a six-two scrapper.

Longridge feels there will be a distinct difference from now on — the Mustangs have experience, especially the experience of having faced some tough competition in the River Rouge Tournament. In addition, the Mustangs kept in shape over the long holidays.

"We lost two while winning only one game," the Northville mentor said, "but we learned in the process. After it was all over, we felt we were on par or better than most of the teams in the tournament," he declared.

River Rouge's Coach, Lofton Greene, whose cagers swept through the tournament by winning every game by 20 or more points, agreed with Longridge that only experience separates the Mustangs from a winning season.

Even in its two losses, Northville was in contention, losing the first by 10 points, but only when Thurston broke the game open in the final quarter.

And the loss to Lutheran West was by the narrowest of margins, just one point.

Why did Northville lose? The Mustangs were simply unable to put the ball through the loop. In each game, they out rebounded their opponents and took more shots on goal.

At times the Mustangs sparkled, passing with zip, fast breaking with finesse and rebounding off the offensive and defensive boards with authority.

Especially effective were Center Jerry Imsland and Forward Mark Cushing.

Imsland, a veteran junior who must be considered the Mustangs leader, was the work horse on the boards and in the scoring column. He began living up to advanced billing.

Over anxiety, however, got him into trouble as he fouled out of each ball game, sitting on the bench through most of the fourth quarter against Lutheran West, Thurston and Taylor.

Cushing, a gangling six-five junior, has come a long way since moving into the Mustangs' starting lineup after the opening loss to West Bloomfield. He played his best ball of the season in the tournament, leading Northville to victory over Taylor in the finale with 14 points.

Biggest problem confronting Longridge is the search for a consistent back court performer. Guards John Jameson, Tom Bingham and Jim St. Germain have all shown promise, but one must come through as a consistent scorer and playmaker to make the offense click.

Mustangs Win Once at Rouge

By whipping Taylor Center, 58-50, in the losers' consolation game, December 30, the Northville Mustangs saved face in the River Rouge Holiday Basketball Tournament.

The victory eased the memory of two previous losses, the first 63-53 to Thurston in the opening round, and 53-52 to Lutheran West in the second round the following evening, December 29.

Winning was a morale booster for Coach Dave Longridge.

"We had the jitters bad the first night against Thurston, then we had a slight let down against Lutheran West," he said. "But we came out of it in good shape, ready for conference games."

Although Northville led most of the way, Taylor Center put on the pressure throughout the game, closing the gap to just one point, 49-48, with three minutes left.

Northville's chance dimmed with 2:38 remaining in the game when Center Jerry Imsland fouled out. It was the third time in as many games that the Mustangs lost their vital scoring cog and rebound.

But the rest of the local cagers took up the slack and met the challenge. They played a waiting game to win going away as Taylor fouled to get the ball.

Forward Mark Cushing, the most improved Mustang in recent games, potted a soft shot from the corner to re-establish a three-point lead.

Then Forward Rick Milne went to work to pull down two clutch rebounds.

He converted a free throw when he was fouled after grabbing one rebound, and Guard Jim St. Germain flipped in two gift tosses after another Taylor foul to give Northville a 58-48 margin, its biggest of the tournament.

Guard John Jameson stepped to the foul line to convert two more, after Taylor surrendered the ball on a traveling violation, and St. Germain netted Northville's final two free throws to ice the game 58-48, with less than a minute left.

Leading Mustang scorers were Cushing with 14, Imsland with 13 and Jameson with nine. Taylor jumped to a substantial 14-6 lead in the first quarter and held on for a 15-14 advantage at period's end.

The lead exchanged hands six times, before Northville, on the strength of 10 of 12 free throws, forged to the front, 30-28.

Ditto

For JV's

Northville's varsity and junior varsity quintets have something in common — both lost two and won one against the same schools in the River Rouge tournament.

After dropping a lopsided tilt to Thurston, 83-56, in the opening round December 28, the Colts lost a second to Lutheran West, 45-38, the following day.

The only winning effort was against Taylor Center's JV's during the final day of competition, when Northville won, 43-41, in the last period.

Forward Jim Zayit topped the local scorers in each contest with 21, 16 and 13 points, respectively.

28, at halftime.

Northville's big men got up on the boards in the third period to maintain the Mustangs' slim lead, 45-42, before the start of the deciding final quarter.

Lutheran West's victory over Northville the previous night was a significant milestone. It ended the Leopards' 22-game winless streak.

Although the margin was only one point, to the hapless Detroit Westsiders it was every bit as good as a 100-point spread.

In fact, Lutheran West won from the charity line, making good on 21 of 31 attempts, while the local cagers converted only 10 of 16 tries. From the field, Northville hit 21 shots compared to the opponents' 15.

Again Imsland fouled out.

But Northville bounced back with 20 points in the second period, 10 of those by Bingham, to close to within three points of West at halftime.

Balanced scoring by Milne, Jameson, Bingham, Evans and St. Germain sparked Northville to a 45-45 tie at the close of the third period.

In the final stanza, Lutheran West slowed the pace in an effort to get the good shot and the foul. It worked.

this time in the third period which cut down on the Mustangs' effectiveness. Usually a cager who produces around 15 points, Imsland had to settle for 10, second to Guard Tom Bingham's 13.

Lutheran West came out on the court fired up as if in anticipation of an upset. The Leopards raced to a startling 19-11 lead at the end of the first quarter.

But Northville bounced back with 20 points in the second period, 10 of those by Bingham, to close to within three points of West at halftime.

Balanced scoring by Milne, Jameson, Bingham, Evans and St. Germain sparked Northville to a 45-45 tie at the close of the third period.

Little Man With Big Ideas

Carl Algrim, 75, Dies

Carl Algrim — who despised sympathy — was a short man with a long life. Measuring only 42 inches from head to toe, Carl never allowed his deformed shape to stem his zest for success. His self-discipline paid off. In his lifetime, he owned a trucking and real estate business with offices in Wixom.

Carl Algrim was little more than a yardstick high but his size did not stunt his ambitions — and successes.

He was even a showman for a while. Carl died last Thursday at his home at 49345 Pontiac Trail. Born January 15, 1889 in Southfield, he was 75. He had lived in Wixom for 45 years. Burial took place in Mount Hope cemetery in Lapeer Wednesday afternoon. Grave-side services were conducted by members of I.O.O.F. No. 487 of Novi. Carl was a 50-year member of the local Oddfellows and had once ruled as noble grand. Only four nephews survive. Carl's wife died at least 30 years ago and the couple had no children although they raised an adopted boy. Carl fooled everyone with his longevity and accomplishments. One of 16 children, doctors only gave Carl a few years to live. Insurance companies considered him a poor risk. He was generally regarded as an "odddity" who would always need to rely on others. Carl knew they were wrong — and proved it. From boyhood he strived to get ahead. By the time he reached the eighth grade, Carl was earning more money than some adults, selling soap and books door-to-door in the Detroit area. Once a sympathetic woman viewed his twisted frame and offered him five dollars without buying anything. Carl scoffed. Late, he threw the bill to the ground and brought his foot down forcibly. "I don't need that kind of money, lady," he said. And he limped away. About that time Carl got bored with grade school. So he entered Detroit Business University to study law and business administration. Like many students, Carl soon found he was short of money. He then became the short end of a Mutt and Jeff act, appearing around Detroit before World War I. Carl would balance himself on the head of his partner who was 6½ feet tall. Upside down, he would eat a cookie and drink a glass of milk. After five years Carl graduated from business college and married a "wonderful woman" who weighed nearly 250 pounds. The newlyweds moved to an 108-acre farm in Wixom in 1920. Carl ran his own farm but he performed some of his chores in an unusual manner. Instead of driving his team from the rear, he rode atop one of the animals. He didn't walk behind the plow but rode on it. Later, he operated a fleet of 145 dump trucks, bought a confectionary store and tavern and finally settled down in 1935 as a real estate broker. And oldtimers will remember when Carl formed and managed a Wixom baseball team that was the envy of the Southern Oakland county league. Ironically, Carl outlived all his brothers and sister who were born without defects. All died before he celebrated his 75th birthday last year. Carl loved life despite his burden. Just over a year ago, he smiled and reflected: "I don't think anyone has enjoyed life or gotten more from it than me."

'Bud' Murray Buys Nowels Lumber Co.

A longtime Northville business changed hands this week — from Owner Russell W. Nowels to Manager James H. Murray.

Sale of Nowels Lumber and Coal Company, 630 East Baseline, became official Monday. The new owner, "Bud" Murray, has been employed at the firm for 11 years and manager since 1960.

Murray announced that he would change the name to Murray Lumber and Building Center. He said that special emphasis would be placed on the growing home modernization field.

Nowels began in the lumber business in Northville in 1935 when he purchased the Baseline road lumber yard, then known as Redford Lumber. It had been established in 1921.

Nowels also owns lumber companies under his name in Rochester and Oxford, in addition to the Lake Orion Lumber Company and Brown Lumber company in Midland. He is nationally recognized authority in the lumber industry and has served in numerous capacities on nation-wide committees of the lumber industry.

Murray, 38, is married to the former Joanne Gellner of Northville. They have five boys and live at 747 Carpenter.

MAKING IT OFFICIAL — Bud Murray signs the sale agreement while Russell W. Nowels looks on. Nowels Lumber and Coal company will now be known as Murray Lumber & Building Center.

Plan New Sewer For Development

The city council learned Monday night that off-site sewer installations to serve a proposed 70-home subdivision just north of Northville Heights would cost $15,000.

City Manager Bruce Potthoff and Engineer Harold Penn traced the new line from the North Center street site down Hill street to Novi street and the new 42-inch Novi sewer near Novi road.

The city of Northville has permission to use .6 cubic feet per second of capacity in the Novi line. Manager Potthoff said the new line proposed for the subdivision would also serve all homes in Northville Heights and homes north of Hill street. He said it would relieve problems now experienced in the line serving the area.

The council must now decide how much of this off-site expense should be charged to the developer of the new subdivision.

In other business Monday night the council set March 9 and 23 as dates for board of review meetings.

Additional street lighting was also authorized for the new Novi road - Eight Mile road intersection. January 18 was set as the night for the first reading of the proposed rezoning of property on the west side of River street from residential to T-1 and T-1P for track use. The recommendation from the planning commission also proposed removal of existing buildings, and erecting fencing and greenbelt.

Old Opera House Recalled After 15 Years

The main floor and balcony show their age. The benches had deteriorated or been removed and the pillars supporting the balcony were sagging. The opera house was last occupied around 1910.

A remnant of an aristocratic era in the history of Northville came down in a cloud of dust 15 years ago.

The Northville Opera House at the corner of Dunlap and Center streets — believed to be one of the first built west of the Allegheny mountains — was razed.

It stood as a landmark and place of entertainment for over 70 years.

But before the cultural center was doomed, a reporter for The Northville Record viewed the opera house on a nostalgic visit.

In his story the reporter wrote:

"A stroll through the opera house on the second floor of the four-story red brick building brings on a surge of nostalgia which is difficult to stem.

"Although the red, blue, green and orange paint is peeling, the plaster is cracked and the stairs and windows are broken, a visitor wandering through the old building cannot visualize the grandeur of yesteryear for the opera house was once the heart of Northville's social life.

"The stairway leading to the tiny ticket office is thin and creaks with old age and must have carried many of Northville's prominent pioneers to see Uncle Tom's Cabin, Peck's Bad Boy and The Two Orphans.

"The curtain — tattered, dusty and mellowed with age — and the warped backdrops are still intact on the old stage. Over the stage is painted a gigantic black owl, its wings outstretched as in flight."

While sauntering through the decaying structure which had been dark since about 1910, the reporter noticed a sign to the right of the stage.

It read: "Rule of this house. No whistling, stamping of feet, scuffling, throwing missiles or loud talking. This means you. These rules will be enforced."

During his final tour, the reporter was poignant in describing the two opera boxes that flanked the stage.

"They are still there, their carpets worn threadbare. The little red cherubs holding the stage curtains, which are painted above the porticos, look faded, drab and sad.

"The orchestra pit is empty and gives an appearance of ghostliness.

"The carved wooden benches with their battered numerals on the backs are slivered and rotted over the years. The timbers which once held a vast balcony are now sagging under the load. The dressing rooms are empty, save for the faded plaster which has crumbled to the floor or an old magazine or paper lying there."

Then the reporter told the pathetic use of the opera house since the curtain was lowered for keeps 40 years earlier. He wrote:

"For the past few decades it has been a haven for countless pigeons who have come to recognize it as home."

ville attorney who compiles historical data about the area, possesses a withered delicate copy of a program for Friday evening, January 26, 1900.

Performing were the Detroit Light Guard Band and Clipper Quartette under the auspices of the Northville Cornet Band. Admission was 25 cents with reserved seats priced at 35 cents.

Children under 12 years were charged 15 cents.

In the first part of the program such numbers as "Fearless, a march by Heed," "Semiramide," an overture by Rossini and "Fantasie, My Old Kentucky Home" by Dalby were featured.

During the second half, a cornet solo and a medley of "Popular Kentucky Melodies" were heard. Among the melodies were "My Girl's a Hawaiian Maiden," "O! Ebenezer" and "All I Want Is My Chicken."

Some advertisements appearing in the program are delightful reading for a later generation.

In big type a caption said: "LOOK HERE! Call at Ralph's Barber Shop for an easy shave and an up to date hair cut, all for 25c. All work guaranteed. No. 61 Main St."

Another ad asked: Why shuffle about in shoes too large? Or Limp in a pair too small? Comfort, Style, Beauty and Durability are combined in the artistic foot covering sold by Stark Brothers, the shoemakers. Agents for W. L. Douglas $3 shoes.

Remember feather dusters, sweat pads or strap work? Such items could be purchased at Whipple & Son.

R. H. Purdy offered his merchandise at "lowest prices" and his prices were not "inflated with trading stamps."

Trading stamps even flourished then as other ads point out.

Cloaks, capes and collarettes were retailed by "T.G." while B. Freydel, the tailor, made "Suits to Order." Merritt & Company called itself

"Leading Jewelers and Book-sellers" and residents could "Smoke the Leaders" at Hueston Pharmacy Co.

Samuel Little, founder of The Northville Record, was responsible for erecting the opera house literally brick-by-brick.

A paper delivered by Mrs. C. C. Yerkes of Eight Mile road before the Northville Woman's Club in the early 1940s told how Little swayed residents to put up the building.

It was constructed "not out of his pocket book but by cleverly persuading the towns people to subscribe to the same from five cents to $50."

"Dean Griswold told me," Mrs. Yerkes said, "that Mr. Little started this gigantic scheme with only $1 which he earned milking cows for Mr. Griswold's father."

"His father let him have timber for the building although he was very much opposed to the idea of a theatre ... Another told me that when Mr. Little could get a bit of money, he would buy a few bricks, so it was built on the installment plan, so to speak..."

Seating an audience of 800, the opera house was used by the Northville Dramatic club at the turn of the century.

Mr. Yerkes continued: "Brown and Tucker, a stock company, played once every year for several years. One of our prominent men peddled bills so that he might get a pass."

"When Uncle Tom's Cabin came to town some of the boys led the bloodhounds in the parade so they might be given free passes. Many complimentary were given out and one play the participants had to throw dishes every night recklessly on the floor — then friends were admitted free of charge."

Besides being the focal point of entertainment in Northville, many local high school diplomas were handed out in the opera house.

Offices of the Northville Record were housed in the structure at one time as were the Alselum theatre owned by William Thompson and the first saloon operated in Northville. Later a roller skating rink opened in the building.

Henry Ford sought to add the opera house to his world-famous collection of historical buildings at Greenfield Village. But his effort failed.

Sam Pickard, then owner of the building, refused to sell although Ford, as the story goes, said he would erect another building and pay Pickard for the money he would lose while his store in the opera house building was closed.

Once the property was cleared, plans for a new business and apartment building were announced. But it never got off the ground. Financing could not be raised for the project.

A restaurant now rests on the land where "ladies in velvet and lace gowns and patent leather shoes and men in Prince Albert coats, plug hats and canes arrived in horse-drawn carriages to attend the opera."

Featuring World Fair Production

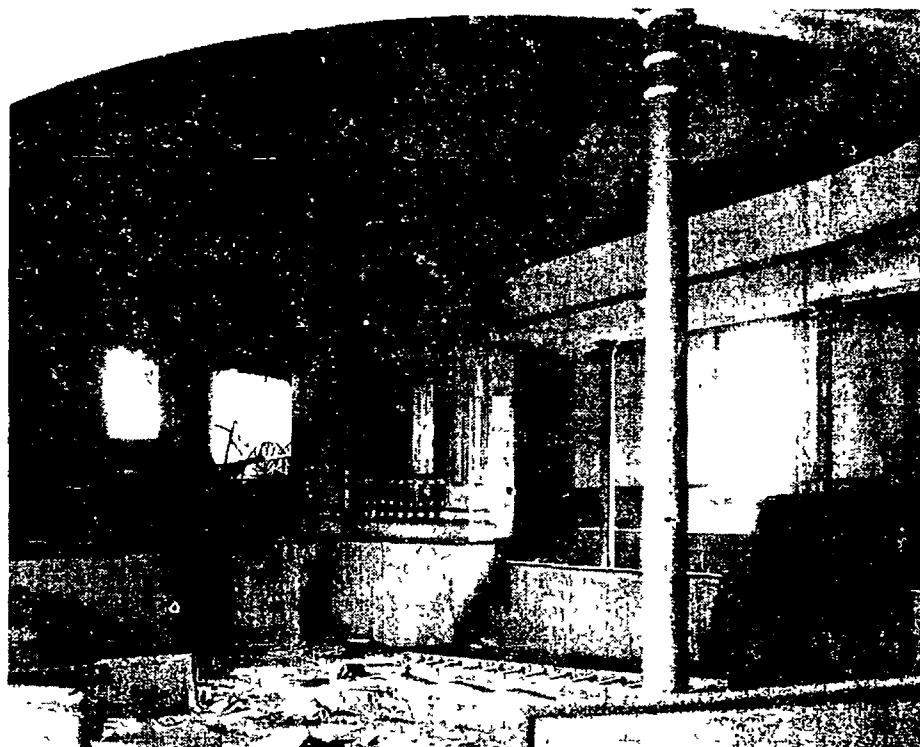

"World's Fair Encounter," a Billy Graham film, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, January 16, at First Baptist Church of Novi.

The church is located at 11 Mile and Taft roads.

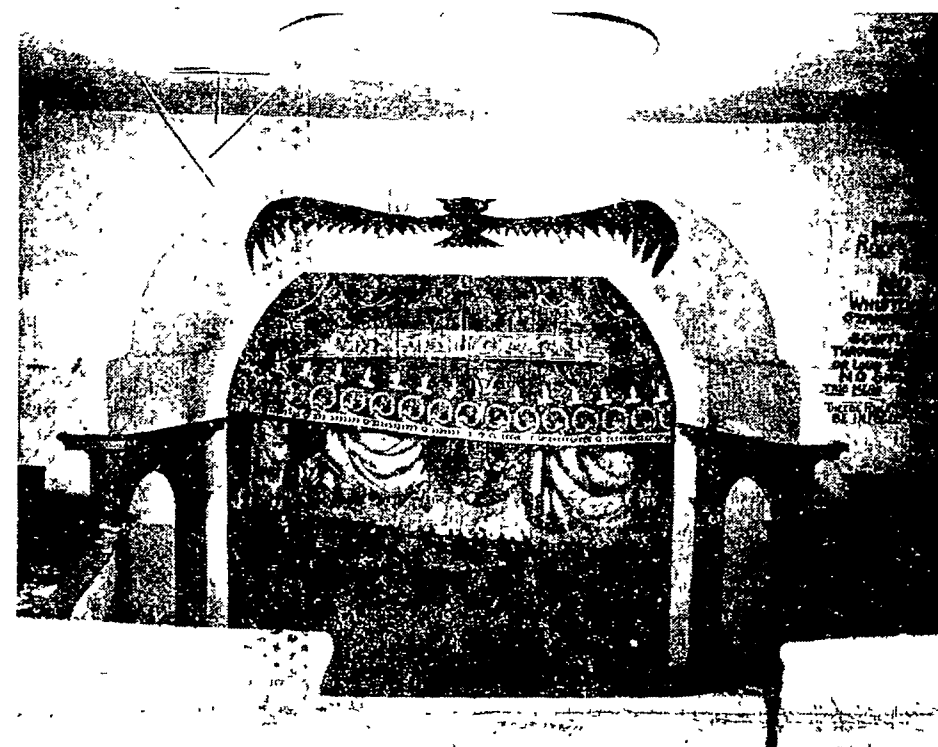

The movie is based on the story of two young people who visited the fair during the first year of its operation.

Culture and heritage of many nations are emphasized including a sequence in Belgian Village, which preserves the charm and old world atmosphere of the continent.

The story concludes in the Billy Graham pavilion where a motion picture "Man in the 5th Dimension" makes its impact on the main characters.

There were two opera boxes. One is seen in the center of this picture. The building was ready for razing when the photo was taken.

A view from the balcony shows the tattered curtain and warped backdrops still intact. A list of "house rules" on the right is enlightening.

new inner city congregation in Brooklyn, New York, will preach his farewell sermon in the 8 and 10:30 a.m. services
Sunday, January 10 at St.
Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, High and Elm streets, Northville. His sermon will be based upon the words in Revelation 2:10: "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown for life." A cordial welcome awaits all in the community who wish to attend.

ence to God's will: "This is the new understanding, of spiritual love. It gives all for Christ, or Truth. It blesses its enemies, heals the sick, casts out error, raises the dead from trespasses and sins, and preaches the gospel to the poor, the meek in heart" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p.

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

By the Rev. B. J. Pankow, Pastor

St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Northville

Since the appearance of this article almost coincides with our leave-taking to begin a new congregation in a vast unchurched area of New York City, we take this opportunity to bid farewell to our many friends. For ten years it has been a privilege to serve the people of Northville and surrounding areas as pastor of one of the churches in the community.

The existence of a church must never be taken for granted. Have you ever given thought to what a community would be without a church?

To properly appreciate a church we perhaps should ask: What is the chief message of the Church? God's Word gives us the answer. The chief message of the Christian Church is the same as it has always been, namely, to tell people, as Jesus Himself did, to "repent and believe the Gospel." (St. Mark 1:15). The message of the Church in two words is: 1) sin, and 2) grace.

The church must make people aware of the fact that there is such a serious problem as sin. Unless a person knows what his condition is and how much he needs God, he will not see the necessity of salvation or of a remedy. In the center of the word "sin" is the letter "I". Every person must realize the fact that he or she is a sinner; for the Bible clearly states "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." (Romans 3:23).

Now there is only one thing to do with sin, and that is, as Jesus said, repent of it. To repent means to be truly sorry for our sinful thoughts, desires, words, and deeds, and be willing to amend our sinful lives.

But to be sorry is not enough. A person must also know of the grace of God. Therefore Jesus said: "believe the Gospel." The Gospel means "good news." The Gospel tells us of the grace, or the undeserved love of God. The Gospel tells us that there is full and free forgiveness for all who through the power of the Holy Spirit simply believe that Jesus, the Son of God, died for their sins and rose again.

Those who become Christ's through faith have a continuing need of the Word of God. The Word of God has help for every condition and phase of life. Christian education is an ongoing process from the cradle to the grave. Thus, the benefits of the Christian day school, the Sunday school, and the Bible classes for youth and adults become apparent.

The Church is people. When people are truly changed within through conversion, this change will reveal itself in their whole life (a Christian life) and in their relationship to those around them. A community cannot become godly unless the individuals in the community first become the children of God. Jesus said to His followers: "Ye are the salt of the earth... Ye are the light of the world." (St. Matthew 5:13-14).

May we all earnestly reflect upon the importance of listening to God in His Word.

Life is too short to postpone the matter of one's salvation even for a day. Jesus said: "He that is of God, heareth God's Word." (St. John 8:47). The doors of the church stand open to all, and Jesus' invitation is just as sincere as it has always been: "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." (St. Matthew 11:28).

Our wonderful and gracious Savior promises: "Him that cometh to Me I will in no wise cast out." (St. John 6:37).

Witnesses To Convene

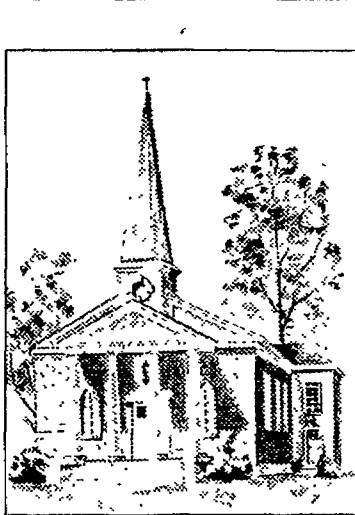

Local area Jehovah's Witnesses will be converging in Gloor of Hillsdale; "Be Liberal, Dundee January 8-10 for a 16 congregation Bible instruction period announced C. Carson Coode, presiding minister of the Plymouth Congregation. "With violence everywhere increasing, with individual "outside - the - law" retaliation against social injustices in homes, in communities and in whole nations because of religion, nationality or race, true Christians need to steer their activities away from this and in a direction pleasing to the Creator," said Mr. Coode.

The assembly theme, "Speak the Word of God with Boldness" will be carried in all the talks and instruction. Such subjects as, "How Youth Can Pay Attention," to be discussed by Robert Puster of Milan; "The Best Attention You can Give," by Robert Buckley of Dundee; "Boldly Declare the Good News," by Edward E. Gloor of Hillsdale; "Be Liberal, Ready to Share," by Richard Krebs, Jr., of Tecumseh; "Maintain A Right Standing with God," by James W. Ely, circuit minister; and "Fortify Yourselves for Future Activity," by J. W. Filson, New York, will be most informative and will help the delegates to be a Christian influence in their respective communities.

"Getting More Done In Less Time"

Simply stone and iron! Our photographer called this "Strength."

Stone and iron are unyielding. But the greatest strength this world has known is a STRENGTH that yields:

God possesses a resolute Will... yet He gives man freedom of will.

God embodies all Power... but He hears and answers prayer. God breathes Holiness... yet He forgives men's sin.

For God is Love... and love is a living Strength... that reaches, inspires, guides, protects, promises, fulfills.

He was a descendant of the Ages of Stone and of Iron... that earnest seeker who cried, The Lord is the strength of my life.

At church, next Sunday, you'll rub shoulders with countless others who look beyond walls and chains to find STRENGTH.

Proclamation

Whereas, Birth defects are a national tragedy resulting in the killing and crippling of more children each year than any other human disorder, and

Whereas, Thousands of these children are threatened with physical disability or mental retardation for life, and

Whereas, Prompt and proper medical attention can prevent disability in many birth defect victims, and

Whereas, the March of Dimes, through its network of medical care centers in Michigan and throughout the nation is offering such exemplary treatment and search supported by the March of Dimes has already uncovered clues which may lead to the control of certain types of birth defects, and

Whereas, the successful development of polio vaccines through the March of Dimes gives us confidence in this great voluntary health agency's ability to deal with the terrible problem of birth defects, now

Therefore, I, A. M. Allen, Mayor of the City of Northville do hereby proclaim January, 1965, as MARCH OF DIMES MONTH and do strongly urge all our people to give this campaign their full support.

OUT OF THE PAST

ONE YEAR AGO —

A 26-year-old Detroit, John Hydron, was killed in a head-on collision Christmas eve near the Wayne County Training School.

Harley Cole, a Northville contractor, who was seriously burned in a flashfire the day before Christmas, was reported in fair condition at his home. He suffered second degree burns on his right arm, shoulder and side and left arm.

R. Douglas Lorenz took over ownership of Gursell's Drug store on Main street. He bought the business from his father-in-law, M. C. "Mike" Gursell. Novi officials said construction of its first sewer trunk line would start this month. The village recently got approval of the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission for the $1.5 million project.

An easement to bring a 30-inch water line into Northville along Baseline road to Center street was granted to the city of Detroit by the Northville city council.

FIVE YEARS AGO —

New faces will appear on the Northville school board. A new state-law says a fourth class district like Northville must have seven members on the board. It now has five. But Novi will retain its five-member board until it becomes a high school district.

Spurred by vandalism, the Northville school board ordered the installation of outside lights at the high school. Several outside doors and windows were smeared with ink recently.

The Northville city treasury got a boost — a $71,000 check was received as the city's share of the 1959 racing take at Northville Downs.

Two Northville residents — Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Holcomb — denied any connection as backers of a proposed race track in Fenton.

Superstructure work was well underway on the new 8 mile bypass bridge over the C&O railroad tracks.

Wilson D. Tyler of 19772 Meadowbrook road was appointed an assistant vice president of the Detroit Bank and Trust company.

15 YEARS AGO —

Lakeside Lodge No. 847 IOOF

of Novi will celebrate its 50th anniversary January 26. Harry Watson, Erwin Martin, William Mairs, Glen Salow and George Atkinson are in charge of arrangements for the event. Thirty-nine members of the Northville Rotary club gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Angove Monday morning for a New Year's breakfast as has been the custom for several years.

Present officers of Depositors State Bank are John A. Boyce, president; E. S. Beard and Charles Walker, vice presidents; A. Russell Clarke, cashier; and Leona Parmenter, assistant cashier.

Age triumphed over youth at the high school as the faculty team edged the students, 28-25. Members of the teacher's squad were Richard Kay, Leslie Lee, Ralph Baron, Charles Yahn, Al Jones and Robert Meneses.

Cloverdale Dairy Bar, 134 North Center, was illegally entered Christmas eve but only a jar of change was reported missing.

25 YEARS AGO —

Two fires broke out in Northville. At the Sherman Hill residence on 8 Mile an overheated furnace charred the basement ceiling January 1 while the office of the Novels Lumber company was gutted in a blaze January 3.

Leo Mainville is the new registered pharmacist at the Northville Drug company.

Following an 8-inch coating of ice, villagers were able to use the Ambler mill pond for skating for the first time.

William McQuarry Holdsworth, Jr. was the first baby born in the new year.

The second boxing exhibition of the winter season will be held at the high school. Several of last year's favorites — Larry Parmenter, Paul Keller, Bud Cook and Mike Spitz — will be on the card. A number of the Cubs, including Buzzy Snow, C. Graham, Lyster Wick and Dick Meyers, have been matched.

For the Gardener

This column on gardening information is compiled by the Northville branch of the National Farm and Garden Club.

Poinsetta — "Flower of the Holy Night" — the Christmas plant so many of us received for the holiday season can bloom again next year.

Start your program when the poinsetta stops blooming. No rest period is necessary, so you can keep it in a sunny window and continue to water and feed. But if you are tired of its lanky growth, move the plant to a dimly lit basement and give it just enough water to keep the soil from getting bone dry.

After the last frost, cut the tops back to about six inches and set the plant in the garden in its pot. Gradually increase the amount of water you give it. Feed with fish fertilizer once a month.

There are two ways to get a stocky plant. One is to pinch back any new shoots that have grown over six inches long. Continue doing this until mid-July or August. The other method is to let your plant have a free hand until mid-July, then cut all the branches back one-third.

Give your plants lots of water (making sure it is of room temperature in winter) but do not keep the soil soggy. And don't overwater the cuttings or the soft wood will rot.

Around the middle of September, move the plant to a sunny window, in a room where the temperature stays just a little above 60 degrees. It is especially important to keep plants out of drafts and to avoid temperature extremes. If your plant is near a window, pull the shade at night to avoid a temperature drop.

To get colorful bracts by Christmas, start a short day schedule in mid-October, moving your plants to a dark place where not even a glimmer of light can penetrate after 7 p.m. Or, instead of moving your plants, you can cover them with a black cloth each evening, removing this about 10 a.m. the next morning. If any light — even that from a street lamp, reaches the plants during the night hours, flowering may be delayed or may not occur at all.

After your plants are in bloom, you can stop shading them, although a minimum of night light will prolong the bloom.

If you continue this program annually, your original gift poinsetta can last for years, and, through cuttings, will produce many offspring for you to give in turn to your friends at Christmas.

If you want to start additional plants, select cuttings 6 to 8 inches long, dip the cut ends in hot water to stop the flow of milky sap, and plant the slips in a sandy potting soil. Do not fertilize the cuttings until they have rooted, but continue to feed the parent plant. Speed up feedings to twice a month by mid-November. Continue this until the colored bracts appear.

Men's Club Speaker

James Z. McClune will be the speaker at the next meeting of the Presbyterian Men's club, Thursday, January 14.

McClune is information supervisor on the public relations staff of Michigan Bell Telephone Company. In this capacity, he develops talk demonstrations for public presentation and trains other employees to present them throughout the state.

The dinner meeting begins at 6:30 p.m. at the church Fellowship Hall.

Express Thanks

To the Editor:

The patients and staff of the Maybury Sanatorium take this opportunity and method to thank each one of the Santas who contributed Christmas gifts for this hospital. The quality and generosity of the gifts were extraordinarily fine. For the patients individually we extend their appreciation to you donors and for the sanatorium collectively our gratitude.

W. L. Howard, M.D.
Superintendent

Please share with your readers our kindest appreciation for the responses to our Christmas appeal in behalf of our forgotten patients. The interest on the part of individuals in your community certainly was widespread and genuine.

Clubs and groups which regularly sponsor parties on wards of our hospital added the spirit and decorations of Christmas so effectively into the December activity. Carolers, and those planning special programs, let all of us know that Christmastime truly is a season for sharing.

Novi First Baptist Gets Flint Estate

William D. Flint, Novi's oldest resident until his death in October, has left his estate to the oldest church in the village.

The church is First Baptist which was founded in 1846. Loren Flint, Mr. Flint's grandfather, was one of the charter members.

Ray Warren, a member of the congregation, was appointed executor of the Flint will. Pastor Barnes said the estate consists of property holdings in the area. Members of the church board said that Mary Flint, his sister, could occupy the family homestead at 12 Mile and Novi roads "as long as she wants."

SPEAKING

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Just which way the Detroit water line continues its path through the city of Northville remains to be settled.

But councilmen know they can't delay a decision long. The extension of the line from its position at the corner of North Center street and Baseline road south to the Five Mile road area is important to both Northville and Plymouth townships. And the city council has no desire to impede the progress of their neighbors.

Councilmen Richard Ambler and John Canterbury recently met with Gerald Remus, manager of the Detroit Water Board, to discuss the problem.

Remus wants to continue the line straight down Center street to Five Mile. He says it's the most practical and economical route.

There's evidence that Canterbury, previously an outspoken opponent of the Center street route, has softened. He's suggested a thorough examination of all possible routes, but told the council Remus' arguments were sound and that the city council "shouldn't be unreasonable." He also noted that it might be to the city's advantage to permit the Center street route.

Ambler appears more wary of the big city. But he told the council that, in his opinion, the sole purpose for meeting with Detroit was to find a way to get the Detroit water line through the city.

This week City Manager Bruce Potthoff and City Engineer Harold Penn are meeting with a water consultant for advice on possible alternate routes as well as consideration of the advantages of the Center street route.

To clear up misunderstandings, these facts concerning Detroit water in Northville should be noted:

- the city of Detroit does NOT now sell water to the city of Northville, although the township recently became a Detroit water customer with service to 18 homes in the Plymouth Gardens subdivision at Bradner and Five Mile roads;
- when the Detroit water line finds its way through the city and water begins to flow through the line, the city still (in all probability) will not be a water customer of Detroit;
- the final decision when to purchase Detroit water (it will happen eventually) may be left up to the voters who must decide if they are willing to pay nearly double present rates for softer Detroit water.

A challenge that could not be ignored will cost Northville one of its fine young men of the cloth next week.

The Reverend Bernard J. Pankow, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, will move with his family to the inter-city area of Brooklyn, New York.

There Reverend Pankow will establish a new congregation in a heavily-populated Spanish-speaking Puerto Rican area.

The beauty and simplicity of life that we take for granted in Northville will be missing in the newly-chosen home of the Pankow family.

But there's important work to be done and the Reverend Pankow is qualified. He speaks Spanish fluently and his background of performing missionary work in Mexico for 10 years makes his selection logical.

His prayers for guidance in this important personal decision led to the acceptance of the challenge.

That he may succeed in his endeavor should be our prayer.

Majority Power to Test Dems

LANSING — Opponents of Sunday business activity who supported the now dead Sunday closing law in 1963 have their work cut out for them in the current year legislative session.

Several leading Democrats, who will hold the ruling hand this year, predict success in 1965 for a long-standing effort to give local government units the option to allow Sunday sales of liquor.

Rep. Edward Michalski, D-Detroit, who coincidentally runs a party store, contends that a series of hearing held throughout the state since the 1964 session indicates strong favor for Sunday liquor sales by local decision.

Democrats have generally favored measures of this type introduced in past sessions. Their Party's voice has never been strong enough in both Houses, however, to gain approval of the proposals.

Lobbying pressures against liberalization of Michigan's liquor laws have been great in past years when this legislation has been before lawmakers.

There is no indication that the lobby efforts would lessen this session because of the change in control.

The only question which prevents Michalski from flatly predicting success at this early date is among his fellow Democrats. This is the question of whether their "yes" votes in the past were just tokens to support a party position, the strength of which was great because they knew the legislation could not pass any way.

This Sunday liquor sales proposal will meet a full test this year as Democrats will be on the spot. The majority members will have to carefully weigh the previous Party support of this idea against the strong opposing sentiment which in past years has been strong enough to kill the proposal.

Unanimity among Democrats this session appears less likely than it has been in the past on other questions as well.

On the income tax proposals introduced in past sessions, for example, Democrats generally stuck together in support of tax reform. Some readily admitted, however, that their position was contingent upon ultimate defeat.

They did not like the income tax idea any more than their GOP counterparts who voted "no", but their Party's stand had to be upheld.

Early indications were the minority Republicans would be operating with at least two distinct factions this year, as they did the last, several sessions.

Even as early as the GOP Senate caucus, held two weeks after the November election, the so-called "Old Guard-Moderate" division was apparent among those who survived the Democratic landslide.

In the House, the shift in majority power appears likely to have the opposite effect on surviving Republicans.

While sometimes sharply divided in past early debates, GOP House members usually were able to iron out their differences in caucus and presented a nearly unanimous front when the final vote was tallied. This togetherness likely will continue in 1965.

Actual observance of Michigan Week is May 18-22 this year but theme committees, under direction of University of Michigan Vice President Michael Radock, rang in the New Year with their campaign and plan to continue it through the next 12 months.

Observance of Michigan Week has been aimed during each of the 12 years to as wide an area as one could imagine, but in the first several years the goal fell short and was basically a statewide occasion.

In the past few years, much greater emphasis has been placed on dissemination of information about Michigan Week beyond the state borders.

This effort was culminated last year in Michigan Week activities at the World's Fair and the publication of a Michigan promotional supplement in the New York Times.

Plans this year call for even broader distribution of Michigan Week information to make the theme heard not only throughout the state, but across the nation and around the world.

The Errol Myers of Border Hill road had dinner guests Saturday evening. Mrs. Ida Bransard of Paradise, Michigan and Mr. Keith Wright of Utica were the guests.

The Robert Birds held a party New Years Eve at their home on Mooringside drive. The guests who saw the New Year in with them were Mr. and Mrs. John Hood also of Mooringside. Mr. and Mrs. Russ Hector, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pohlman both of McMahon Circle and Mr. and Mrs. William Vinson of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carter of W. 10 Mile road were guests of their niece and nephew, the Bill Stephens of Belleville at

Machines Add Jobs

BABSON PARK, Mass., January 7. Since the dim, dark days when the wheel was first invented, every step taken by man to ease his work load and hasten production of goods has been greeted with cries of alarm. The charge has always been the same: Easier, stepped-up output would mean the employment of fewer people, and this would obviously be followed by massive joblessness. So far in human history the alarmists have been completely wrong.

Economists with long-range insight have always recognized that technological improvements may very well mean temporary dislocations. When Henry Ford began his fantastic belt-line automotive operations, the usual alerts were sounded. Unemployment would sweep the country as a result of consequent lay-offs. More highly schooled observers, however, were aware that the making of new mass-production machinery and other associated innovations would more than absorb the men displaced by the installation of belt-lines.

When the stock market crash of 1929 was followed by deep and frightening plunges in industrial production and all other economic factors, the blame was fixed by many on displacement of men by machines. It took a lot of people a long while to realize that the blame actually lay with wild and uncontrolled financial excesses.

Business dropped because production had soared so heedlessly above demand that the Law of Action and Reaction took over to correct matters. It showed, actually, that a bust must follow a feverish boom.

Around 1950, there began a true emergence in the field of electronics, instruments, and controls of a series of machines designed to operate machines. The development was given the term "automation", and without delay the usual chorus of gloom arose: Machines to run machines would mean that millions of workers would be thrown out of jobs as soon as the new concept spread into wider operation. Labor unions at first tried violently to prevent the extension of these "job-stealing" mechanical systems. But ever-increasing demand for all types of goods and sharpening competition on the price front quickened the entry of automation into more and more lines.

So swift was the spread of these labor-saving systems that labor leaders were joined by government officials and many others in a search for ways to soften the blows of anticipated employee displacement. But the underlying law of supply and demand has helped, probably more than anything else, in this struggle. Total economic expansion is dependent on the pace of the rise in productivity, or output per man-hour of work. Automation, like all other efficiency procedures, has enabled industry to turn out more goods at a more reasonable cost. Hence, markets are enlarged and more workers are taken on to fill the steadily increasing demand.

There is, too, the steady growth of automation-oriented industries to supply the machines needed to service them, to replace them when more efficient devices are researched and developed. Naturally, there are temporary reshufflings of personnel, some necessary lay-offs, but retraining and upgrading eventually take care of most of the men and women affected. As always, those lacking versatility and adaptability are the worst off.

And the high degree of skill needed in this age of machines-to-run-machines is steadily upgrading the quality of the nation's "average" employee.

The fact remains, however, that since 1950 more than 10 million more jobs have been created, even though this marks the period during which alarmists assured everybody that millions of jobs would be done away with, not created. Unemployment has risen somewhat during this time, but far less than the gains that have been seen in the country's population and in the labor force itself. There has always been a jobless problem; facts appear to indicate, however, that it has been helped by automation more than it has been aggravated in spite of persistent claims to the contrary.

What would an auto show be like without it? A lot less than it should be! For after all, a Cadillac so dramatically new is sure to provide an element of distinction to intrigue and delight the man with a fine car appreciation. How unfortunate, indeed, if that man were not able to sit in the most comfortable interiors ever designed for a fine car. Or if the lady who accompanies him were not able to inspect the beautifully crafted embroidered fabrics to be found in the "cat of cats" this year. And finally, wouldn't it be a loss to every fine car connoisseur if he couldn't ask the price of this newest and finest of all Cadillacs? For what other car can equal the Standard of the World for investment appeal?

None other, we assure you, than the car that is so new, so right, so obviously Cadillac!

Promoted By A & P

Promotion of Louis F. Hornberger to director of purchases for A & P Food Stores' Central Western Division was announced today by Division President Philip Nyquist.

He succeeds George W. Bird who is retiring under the company's retirement plan after nearly 37 years with the food chain.

A native of Indianapolis, Mr. Hornberger began his food career in 1929 as a mail clerk and spent his first 12 years with A & P in his home town, serving in various capacities in the Indianapolis office.

He came to Detroit in 1941 and was associated with the Division's purchasing and sales departments until 1949 when he was made buyer for the Detroit Unit. He held this post until last July when he was named assistant director of purchases for the division.

In his new assignment, Hornberger will direct purchases for A & P stores in the division's six-state area extending from Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, to Memphis, Tennessee.

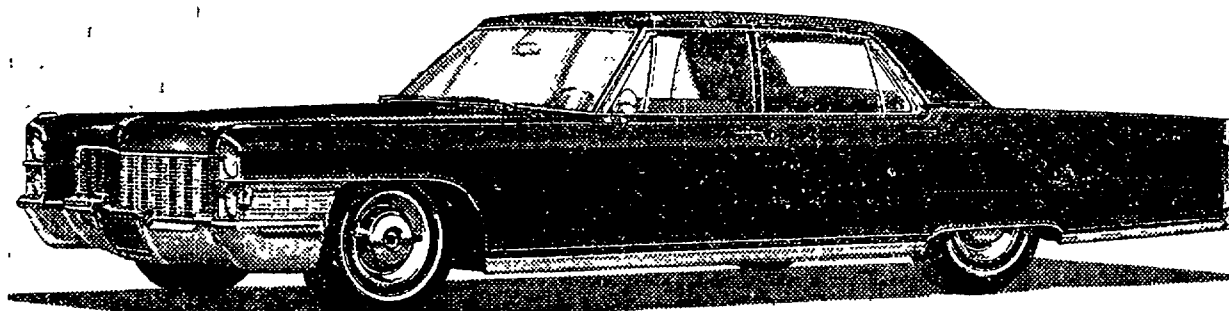

Mr. Bird started with A & P in 1928 as a buyer in Boston. The following year he was transferred to Montreal, Que. and placed in charge of buying operations for Canada. He served in this capacity until 1951 when he was named assistant director of purchases for the Central Western Division with headquarters in Detroit. He has been director of purchases for the division since 1954.
