It could even be argued that an elementary school location would be preferable! So the decision came back to rest in the laps of administrators and board members.

over, however. There was a written report from the architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach.

It favored the high school. There was Dr. Russell Wilson, consultant in school plant planning and development from the University of Michigan, He gave reasons favoring both locations, said he'd prefer the training at the elementary level, but told the board that it must first determine a "use policy" for the pool before reaching a location decision. His advice appeared to india principal in a junior high school, agreed with Adams. Here are the comments:

From the architect - (favoring junior high school) -- fundamentals of swimming most effectively taught at late elementary and junior high ages;

-- cost of pool less (although the architect appears to have reappraised his first estimate that the cost might be as much as $100,000 more at the high school); (favoring high school) -- more students would use the pool; --need for another physical education station at high

-- inter-scholastic competition:

-- community looks to high school as apex of its school facilities and expects pool at high school;

-- if at junior high it will be implied that future junior highs would need pools;

-- community use of pool simplified and encouraged by parking provided at high school. Dr. Wilson did not believe there would be any difference in cost between the junior and senior high for construction of the pool. He emphasized the need for more physical education stations at the high school level and pointed out that the swimming pool would get full time use.

The U of M consultant said the entire community would make full time use of the pool, if this were adopted as the use policy. He placed great emphasis on swimming instruction and noted that swimming accidents are the third largest cause of deaths among teenagers. He said that classes could be mixed at the pool if multiple instructors were provided, therefore junior high students could be taken to the high school for swimming.

Board members seemed to agree that a full time, community program would be planned for the pool, but board Member Robert Shafer noted that "the school program comes first".

. James Kipfer questioned whether the high school area could handle the expanded facility ... if there is adequate space, boiler capacity, parking, etc. The board has scheduled an-

Sidewalk Sale Set

Northville merchants are planning to stage one of the biggest sidewalk sales in the history of the popular annual summer events.

Date of this year's sale is Friday, August 20 with Saturday as a standby date in case of rain.

Chairman Charles Lapham reports a few new innovations this year. For example, Main street will be blocked off to vehicular traffic from? Center to Hutton. Table space will be sold on the street.

And the Jaycees will conduct auctions at two different times during the all-day (9 a.m. to 9 p.m.) event. The auctions will feature items gathered from the public and sold on a 10 percent commission basis. The auctions will be held the corner of Main and Hutton at the gasoline

Lapham said that organizations wish ing to participate in the sale may make reservations now for sidewalk or street space. Requests should be directed to Lapham F1.9-3677

Kirchmair - Meyer Vows Spoken Here

Charlotte Maria Kirchmair and Patrick Meyer were wed July 17 at the First Presbyterian church of Northville. Dr. Harold F. Fredsell performed the afternoon ceremony.

The church was decorated with white gladiolus and chrysanthemums. Mrs. William G. Williams played the organ while Mr. Williams sang. The bride was given away by Hell of Kirchbichl, Austria. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Meyer of Eight Mile

For her wedding the bride wore a chantilly lace over white satin gown with a cathedral train. Her illusion tulle veil was held by a white pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of white gladiolus and carnations.

Judith Ann Spencer of Rochester was maid of honor. She was dressed in ice blue taffeta, and carried pink carnations and blue Bridesmaids were Sherry Meyer, sister of the groom, Carol Leavenworth and Linda Nelson. They wore lavender taffeta gowns and carried pink carnations and purple statice.

Debi Jo Meyer, the groom's niece, was flower girl. She wore a lavender taffeta dress, and carried a basket of pink carnations and blue statice.

Howard F. Meyer served his brother as best man. Ushers were Larry Meyer, Lee Klopfenstein, Garry Howell, Danny Collins and Jim Ralph.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Meyer chose a pink voile and lace dress with matching hat and shoes. Mrs. Charles Balix of Birmingham, serving as proxy mother for the bride, wore a blue silk dress with matching

The 25-year-old white frame house with its spacious grounds is just to the Gilmers' liking. It's the former Ed Addis' residence. There is comfort, quiet and room for all to roam, especially the two horses and a pony.

The horses, as well as the cowboy boots and hat that the Lions' coach wears, are becoming his trademark. In truth his love of horses is the very reason for the hat and boots. Gilmer stressed that the apparel is appropriate, rather than an attempt at eccentricity.

Although her husband rides, Mrs. Gilmer said he "likes to fool around with horses more." "We watch them in the yard," the Lion mentor said.

Besides this, Gilmer finds solace in talking to the animals. It's been his habit ever since he first bought some horses 12 years ago, his first real acquaintance with them.

Whenever he is able - that's during the off-season - Gilmer rises at six o'clock to feed and off to work for the day to plan for the uncoming season. They became his oldest daughter, Connie's charges when practice began at Cranbrook last dancing.

In her chores around the barn, she gets some help from her two sisters, 16-year-old Fran and Dale, who is 13. Dale will attend eighth grade at Novi junior high school come fall.

Fran, a sophomore next year at the high school, also dances and swims. 'I like to go to the dances in Plymouth," she said, 'and I swim at the Meadowbrook Country club pool."

Drew, a freckle faced nineyear-old who will be a fifth grader at Novi school, has his work cut out for him, too. In the seat of a lawn-mower cart, he cuts the Gilmers' and two neighbors'

"He fools around with anything mechanical," said Mrs. Gilmer, and he's a real good swimmer," She pointed out that Drew has no football or basketball aspira-

Mrs. Gilmer, a modest, laconic woman with the same droll southern humor of her husband, plainly states that she doesn't ride the horses. "I like to bowl," said she, 'but I kept getting worse rather than better. I'm also a very amateur bridge player," she added.

Although Gilmer and his wife have lived in the country much of their lives and call themselves "small town people," they are originally from Birmingham, Alabama. They knew each other in high school, where Gilmer

When the then college neophyte moved to Tuscaloosa, Alabama, the site of the university, Mrs. Gilmer accompanied her future husband as a student. During their freshman year in 1944, they were married.

And it was during the same time that Harry Gilmer led the Crimson Tide to an undefeated season and a trip to the Rose Bowl New Year's day.

He was a tailback in Alabama's version of the single wing. As such, he ran as much as he passed - and he did both with a flare. On defense (there was no platooning then) Gilmer was also standout

With his performance in Alabama's 34-14 victory over Southern California in the Rose Bowl, he gained national prominence thanks to Grantland Rice.

It was Rice, the great sports mogul, who wrote the words of praise. But as Gilmer tells it, his coach pulled Rice aside before the game, telling him to watch Gilmer, the freshman quarterback.

"He told Rice he had a passer," Gilmer said. Pass he did, completing all eight to spearhead the Alabama jaugernaught.

Thus he joined such greats of the era, or "the bunch" as Gil-Layne, Mississippi's Charley Conerly, LSU's Y.A. Tittle, Van-North Carolina's Charley "Choo Choo" Justice.

Although this was the highlight of Gilmer's college career, it and the first five for him. "Mar-Tennessee in 1946 which stands out most clearly in Gilmer's and I was switched to defense." mind. 'It was a tough, rugged game," he said, "but we came out of it with satisfaction. We felt we did something; we gave it all we had."

During the last three years of varsity ball, the Alabamian gain- he said. ed All-American recognition, getting the unanimous nod his sophomore season.

Sparked by Gilmer's passing, the Crimson Tide twice more swept into a bowl game, both times the Sugar Bowl. But the tide had turned as Alabama lost them both, one to Duke in the last moments and the other to Bobby man. care for the animals. Then it's Layne and company from the University of Texas.

Fresh out of college, Gilmer was a bonus choice of the Washington Redskins, and it was Gilmer's lot to play behind Sammy throwing a bullet," he said.

What advise was the rookie quarterback given? "There's mer called them: Texas' Bobby the greatest passer in the world - just watch him.' That's what he told me - heck of a thing for a derbilt's Norm Van Brocklin and coach to say - and that's what I did."

Those were the last five years of Baugh's career, Gilmer said, was the 12-0 loss to arch rival shall (owner George Marshall) gave up on me in the third year,

Who is the greatest quarterback - field general, passer and runner - of all time? That's one that even Gilmer, who associated with most of the greats, declined to answer. "There are so many,"

And he had the mistortune to play behind two of them. Baugh, then Layne when Gilmer was traded to Detroit after the 1954 season. A knee operation ruined his career as a defensive man, so Lion Coach Buddy Parker, who "remembered me as a passer," obtained Gilmer as a relief

Two years later, it was Parker again who gave him another chance; he recommended Gilmer as a coach to the Pittsburgh staff. The following year, he joined Gilmer, Parker assuming the

With the creation of a new franchise at Minnesota, Gilmer took on a new challenge in 1960. He joined Van Brocklin as a defensive coach, bringing his Pittsburgh association to an end. "I called Van Brocklin and asked him for a job," Gilmer said with enthusiasm. "He asked me why would I want to come to Minnesota, which had nothing. I told him that I liked the idea of starting from scratch. It appealed to me. He said, 'Why damn, if I don't feel the same way. Come on

Working with a young and eager team, the coaching staff took the Minnesota Vikings from "dead last" to a second place tie last year. "I worked with four new defensive men each year," Gilmer said with pride, "and it was really rewarding."

Then came the challenge of Gilmer's life, one that he is facing now - making a championship team. That's the problem for Harry Gilmer, head coach of the Detroit Lions.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Gilmer family was interviewed by Record-News writer, Roland Peterson. Next week Peterson will relate in a sports' page story some of the problems facing the new Lion coach and how Gilmer is tackling them.

IOWA BOUND-The Record had to tear a hole in its back wall last week to ship out its Model E Goss 8-page newspaper press. The 16-ton press is shown above as workmen moved it sideways on rollers. Next it was taken from the building and loaded on the truck for delivery to the Mt. Pleasant, Iowa daily newspaper. The Record, Novi News and South Lyon Herald newspapers are now printed on a new 16-page Goss Suburban offset press at Inter-City Press, Inc., in Novi. The area formerly occupied by the press will be remodelled into a composition room for make-up of newspapers and commercial printing pieces.

Summer Shows Beauty of Gardens

The poem above, by an anonymous author, is painted on a sign in the garden of Mrs. William Walker, 39900 East Eight Mile road.

Perhaps it explains why true gardeners work for hours throughout the spring and summer in their yards.

Summer is the showtime for their efforts and our photographer visited a few of the many beautiful yards and gardens throughout the Northville area.

The picture above was taken at Mrs. Walker's home, "Happy Acres", and shows only a portion of her spacious yard. Besides her outdoor gardens, which contain a large variety of flowers and trees, she maintains a green house all year long containing unusual plants.

She was a founder and past president of the Northville branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden association. Her garden and swimming pool have been the scene of the club's annual picnic for over 15 years.

Her love for gardening exemplifies the club's motto, "Gardening for the joy of it."

Our tour of local gardens continues on page 4B.

"And the Lord had regard for Abel and his offering, but for Cain and his offering he had no regard." Genesis 4,4-5 Abel and Cain, Cain and Abel..

Two brothers both bearing gifts to God - but one is not accepted! How fiercely he scowls, the lines of his face turned downward ... a terrible crime will follow. Why has God rejected Cain's worship, Cain's offering, Cain's proffered gift? Was his sacrifice not the equal of Abel's?

Two brothers both bearing gifts to God; Cain from the fruit of the ground (for he was a farmer) and Abel from the firstlings of his flock and of their fat portions (for he was a shepherd), both making a sacrifice of their livelihood. But at the door of Cain's heart there was a monster crouching, gaining control over him: that dark beast was Sin. Sin, because Cain did 'not fear, love, and trust in God above else. That's why God would not accept Cain's offering.

"Be not deceived, God is not mocked." What a foolish mistake it would be for us to take for granted that God must accept our worship of him, just because we offer it. Or hear our prayers, just because we pray. The heart tainted by sin cannot be lifted up in worship to God.

But you need to worship God! Even today nothing so genuinely fulfills a human life as the true worship of God. "Moderns" who try to live as though God were dead are really trying to deny their own true humanity. God knows we need him, and therefore he has created a new possibility for us - a new way to worship him.

The new way is God's gracious

PASTOR'S STUDY

Immanuel Lutheran Church, South Lyon pardon, made visible for us in Jesus Christ. Christ's life, too, was worship of God. He offered God his life as a perfect, wholly acceptable sacrifice on our behalf. Here was pure worship of God, unstained by wrongdoing. God accepted that, and raised Christ up from death.

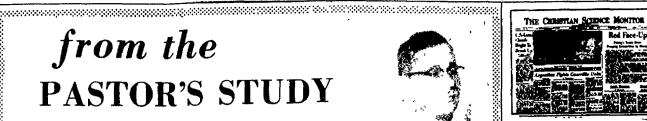

> Now even Cain may come to God, pray to him, bring him gifts. If Christ takes Cain by the hand, then Cain may come. All creatures may come. God made Christ to live again, that's why we believe in his love even for sinners like you

This is our new way.

Puffy has a problem. She's much better at climbing trees than she is at getting down again. Usually someone has to get a ladder and bring poor Puffy back to earth.

People share Puffy's problem. Their fears are forever driving them to do what they can't undo. They run away from reality only to wish they hadn't. We have even coined the idiom "up a tree" to denote the dilemma of a situation from which we cannot free our-

With people, it takes more than a ladder to solve the problem.

Through the centuries men have found Faith an answer to fear. Our churches cultivate courageous Christians. For with confidence in God comes confidence in ourselves.

The man who knows he's never alone doesn't run away.

The upper righthand picture shows a tiny part of the gardens at the home of Mrs. E. O. Whittington of 46945 Stratford Court. She says her gardens have "everything you can think of." Right now lilies and petunias, such as pictured above, are blooming.

The bottom lesthand picture is "down in the Ware Valley," as the sign reads which marks the entrance to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ware of 239 Hutton. The Wares both spend many hours in their garden. Petunias, roses and daisies are blooming along the rock ledges of the stream and pond now. The Wares enjoy their garden from a terrace overlooking it.

Finally, in the lower righthand picture, this little pixie looks like he's trying to snatch a flower from the gardens of Mrs. Walter Couse of 45875 West Seven Mile. Several other charming statues are scattered throughout the garden. Day lilies are Mrs. Couse's specialty. She spends several hours a day working on her garden.

All will appear again today in court, including a Northville girl. Driver of the car, Lyndall Valentine, 25, pleaded guilty to drunk and disorderly behavior, for which he was fined $50 and given five days in jail. He pleaded not guilty and was placed on $100 cash bond on a charge of furnishing beer to minors.

Stephen Hurst, 19, of Northville Downs, pleaded not guilty to having liquor in his possession. He was sent to the Oakland county jail when he falled to post the $100 cash bond.

Two girls were released to appear today on charges of having liquor in their possession. They are Linda Willnow, 18, of 504 Reed street, and Barbara For-sell, 20, of Plymouth.

According to police, Valentine drove his car down a private dirt road on Dan's Dirt Farm, 42053 12 Mile road. Dan Kenny is the Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole reported witnesses saidthat Valentine drove recklessly by the Kennys who were near the road toward the rear of the property. In the process, police reported the car just missed Kenny's oneyear-old child.

Kenny told police he jumped into his tractor and drove it across the road, blocking it. Then he called police who arrived shortly, and found open cans of beer in the car. All were taken into custody.

Troop Canoes Through Canada

Ten boys and two leaders of Presbyterian Church Troop 755 have returned from 10 days of canoeing in Canadian waters with nearly perfect weather.

Haiving driven to Wawa and Hawk Junction east and north of Sault it. Marie they entrained to Franz and then transferred to the Algoma Central RR to the hamlet of Dalton on the Shiquamko River. Seven days and many portages later they arrived back at Hawk Junction and then drove back to Northville.

Fishing was excellent with catches of Walleye and Pike. The new freeze-dry food was found to be both tasty and convenient for this type of camping.

Leaders Billie Thomas and Warren Stoddard were accompanied by Scouts Mark Buoniconto, Leo Cherne, Richard Endress, Mark Gazlay, Philip Kennedy, Dillard Meadows, Chuck Olewnik, Randy Simpson, Billie Thomas and Mike Walters.

Youths Face Draft

BABSON PARK, Mass., Millions of young men are wondering what the continuing escalation of war in South Vietnam is going to mean to them per-sonally - what is the likelihood that they may be drafted. So are their parents, relatives and friends, and in many instances. their employers. Hence, we indicate for our readers the probabilities as well as they can be weighed at this point of crisis in South East Asia.

U.S. forces are now actively involved in the fighting in addition to their earlier role as trainers and consultants-and there will be a steady build-up of both material and manpower in Vietnam for an indefinite period. Almost certainly there will be no slowdown in our shipment of troops for at least several months,-even if unexpected progress shoud be made toward a negotiated truce and a potential cease-fire. Readers can be sure of, one thing: President Johnson does not want to settle for anything short of complete independence and freedom for South Vietnam like that acheived in South Korea. While there are reported to be about 75,000 of our men in Vietnam at this time, more will be needed. The Pentagon has implied that as many as 250,-000 men could be sent to Southeast Asia without our having to increase our over-allarmedforces strength of 2.6 million. But the government knows well that further escalation in Vietnam could prompt the Communist world strategists to complicate matters. They could rekindle trouble in Korea; and they could inflame any number of festering sores in Africa, Malaysia, Cuba, and Central and South America.

So it is wisest for all concerned to prepare for the worst and count on heavier draft calls for some time to come. Up to now, the military has expressed no intention of drafting married men. Nor is there any expectation that students deferments will be revoked; boys already in college can still hope to complete their education and get their degrees. Little has yet been said officially about husiness deferments; but if we should go on any sort of emergency basis, the pattern of World War II would probably be followed. This would mean by-passing those younger industrial workers considered essential to the war effort and not easily replaceable by older men. Specialists in the space program would surely be added to the list for deferment. All inducted men are put through a regular basic and advanced training program of 12 weeks, at minimum, before they can be sent overseas. Until the intensifies. The U.S. Department of Defense reports that 58% of the nation's youth either are serving-or have served-by the time they reach 27, the age when eligibility ceases. About 30% fail to meet physical; mental, or moral requirements. The remainder are deferred in accordance with basic draft-board regulations. The military would prefer a system that would give them the younger men first in-considers preparation. So it is likely that their number will henceforth edge upward proportionately, especially if the war

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

It turns out that winning passage of the $500,000 bond issue for a new swimming pool was far easier than deciding where to build the facility.

Northville school board members must be convinced of this by now.

For more than two hours Monday night they listened to experts, read an advisory report from their architect and tossed around observations of their own.

At the outset there seemed to be two possibilities: either build the pool at the present high school or the new junior high school.

When the evening was over, neither proposal had won a clear-cut decision. What's more, two other suggestions were born... and by that time no one could say whether the advocates were serious or just grasping for alternatives.

One of the experts said "if I were a member of the Northville board of education, I'd vote to take the $500,000 and build three smaller pools, one in each of the elementary schools."

Trustee Bob Shafer, obviously not enchanted by that thought, said he was ready to build the pool on a track and "move it back and forth between the junior and senior high".

The board was reminded by the expert on school plant planning that the board's decision would have long-range implications.

"Put on your big hat for this one", he urged the board,

It was his contention that this was a "system" decision that would attract and reject certain people to the area. He suggested that a pool in the junior high school might mean that when a second, or third, Junior high school is needed a pool must be included. He placed great emphasis on its importance to the system. And he pointed out that in Ann Arbor, where planning for a third high school is underway, no thought is being given to dropping the swimming pool, although space proposed for the building must be cut back sharply to keep within finances. A page one Record story reveals most of the pros and cons on the subject. Why not read it carefully, then tell or write a board member or administrator your opinion.

Do it before August 9. That's when they must decide. They'll appreciate your assistance.

Fire Chief Bud Hartner has expressed concern to the city council over the increasing number of cars following fire trucks to the scene of a fire.

The practice can be dangerous and it definitely interferes with volunteers and police vehicles.
