Extension-Research Information Department of Information Services Michigan State University, East Lansing

Seed New Lawns Now

One of the hottest times to be out in the yard is between August 15 and September 15. It's also the best time to seed your new lawn.

Weather conditions are ideal at this time and those hot temperatures are excellent for proper seed germination, according to James Tyson, soil scientist with the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service. Also, there are few hard rains which can wash away the seed during this period. The soil needs to be moist to develop a good stand of grass "Don't let the surface soil dry out after the seed once begins to germinate," cautions

The development of god turf is much easier with generous fertilizer applications. A soil test will accurately determine just the kind of fertilizer to be used. One pound of nitrogen per 100 sq. feet of lawn should be applied to Kentucky Bluegrass three times during the growing season. Merion Bluegrass requires twice this amount of nitrogen.

Home owners seeding a new lawn this fall can get some timely tips and hints from County Extension Service offices. Just ask for extension folder-211entitled "Making a New Lawn".

It's in the high school, however, where the real drama begins; Unless the prep mentor's hopes are bouyed up by a full roster of returning veterans, there is woe in the making and plenty of it in the pre-season assessment.

Money, trades, recruitment? They're out, Reality dictates that the devoted high school coach stick with the situation; like a bride, he is wed to it for better or for worse.

But out of reality comes the most romantic of visions, the stuff, the very innards of high school football. The coach must build a champion. It's the oldtime romance, a story akin to tales of Robin Hood and King Arthur, the possibilities of which have long been ruled out by the very nature of college and pro football.

The 1965 version of the Northville football story, like so many others elsewhere, begins anew each year, long before the football season. It begins at graduation and for Northville's Head Coach Ron Horwath, graduation is the villian.

It has decimated the interior offensive line. Gone is 230-pound Tackle Bob Tuck, who led the spirited charge of the forward wall. Gone is Northville's twotime, all-league center, Dave Out of Tourney Kerr. Gone, too, are the likes of Guards Tim Krug and Greg Penn and Tackle Jerry Burns.

Horwath comes to grips with the problem. Exhibiting some of the slight-of-hand talent of Hougiful and the imagination of a Tom Sawyer, he comes up with a revised script.

John Jameson he moves from an end spot to guard on offense. Center Daly Hill gets the call at one guard and slightly tried Dan Bongiovanni at the other: Bill Sliger gets consideration too.

Letterman Tackle Neil Brasure is assigned to his old post, and up onto the firing line Horwath moves Dave Karrer and Jim Kleinsorge in the hope of finding another solid tackle.

With no lettermen at center, the Northville coach weighs last season's performances of untried reserves, Bob Hardesty and Bill Bailey. It's a tough task; they've seen spot action, but very little. That done, Horwath scans the list of offensive ends. Three lettermen, Jerry Imsland, Mark less enervating.

On to the offensive backfield ... June graduation, the villian, loses this battle scene. True, the most valuable player, fleet halfback Kent Kipfer departed, and three entries in the fruit cateonto Seven Mile road from Cle-

Neither auto was damaged extensively, and both of the drivers came out unscathed, except for Miss Smith's bad case of jitter's. In fact, she drove back home for moment to "get my wits together." "I was shook up," she I hit the gravel and skidded the darn thing and walk."

MacDonald sometime soon. The second accident took place at 3:26 p.m., but under slightly stranger circumstances.

Miss Smith headed out once more for work at the Maybury Sanatorium, this time successfully turning west onto Seven Mile road. No sooner had she done so, however, than the second mishap occurred.

She told police she thought she saw a car passing another one, and both were coming toward her . So she went off the road to avoid hitting the vehicle in her lane, she testified. Police reported her car stopped when it hit a telephone pole. 'It looked to me like it was a headon collision," she said.

The fact that she hit a telephone pole came as quite a sur-'They have on the ticket that I prise to Miss Smith. 'It was a telephone pole or a tree. Telephone poles don't have leaves, do they?" she queried. |

"They say that women drivers are usually at fault, but I definitely wasn't that time," she said, talking about her first accident at the intersection of Middlebelt and Plymouth roads. On her way backfrom Wonder-

Reverend Lloyd Brasure First Presbyterian Church of Northville

In the good old summertime most people get away for some time at the beach, or in the mountains, or a visit to some point of particular interest. This is a good thing in our busy world of schedules, tensions and some frustrations. We need a time to rest and relax, to pursue some hobby or interest, and even more, to look at the reasons for all this business the world calls from us. Have you looked at some of your reasons lately? There is much to be said for a life oriented around a theme and a purpose.

A Sunday school teacher is reported to have made a phone call to a home to inquire about the children, whether sickness or accident, or whatever, was keeping them from attendance in the Church school class. The parents reply was of this nature, "We told them they could get up and get their breakfast and go any Sunday they wanted to attend." Now without trying to press a point too far, don't you suspect that these people needed a little bit of self-examination? Paragraph one mentions vacations and relaxation, and paragraph two gets down to such a little thing as parents who enjoy sleeping in on Sunday morning. However, there are far greater implications here than meet the mind at first thought. Multiply these "sleep-ins" by the thousands when limited to just fun and kicks rather than the whole bit that includes self-examination and admission of guilt and neglect, we are headed for very serious trouble.

Parents who bring their children, leading them into the places of teaching of the laws of the Eternal God, and working with them in the whole process, are giving the sacred trust a value that was intended. May this summertime be a rewarding experience for you and your family. Our prayer is that you will enter your Church home faithfully with your children and carry forth Christ's great work of redemption and reconciling power as a disciple.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. Now, less than two years after the new basic document took effect one of the more influential writers of that constitution is calling for a change in this area.

Gov. George Romney, who served in the important No. 2 spot at the Constitutional Convention, worked with Attorney General Frank J. Kelley to put on an early ballot the question of restoring the Governor's power to fill state judicial vacancies by appointment.

It becomes apparent in this short 'time that it is not feasible to live with the constitutional court posts to be filled until the next election by a temporarily-appointed retired judge.

SPEAKING

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

NOTE-While the Sliger family takes a motor trip along the New England coast Superintendent of Schools Alex Nelson has consented to write this week's "Speaking"

Most everything we see in Northville is interestingly beautiful. People we meet are genuinely friendly. The community appears to support education admirably. All around us we see evidence of growth and progress. Northville appears to be the community in which living and working would be most enjoyable.

Still, with two brave men in orbit making history, what do we do to motivate ourselves to greater achievement! One of the most difficult things for an individual, a group, an organization, a profession, or a community to accomplish is the act of self-examination that can lead to self-renewal. While difficult, it is a primary need. Whether we take Socrates' admonition that "the unexamined life is not worth living" or a more recent statement by the Commissioner of Education, Mr. Francis Keppel, when he said, "Education is the only profession which has not had the guts to look at itself," we recognize the challenge and the need of such a reality assessment for all of us, including the public schools.

Lets review very quickly, in a brief way, some of the major changes in our present society. My function is to lift them up into focus. I do this without any implication that I have any easy answers.

You wouldn't start any list of change in today's society without agreeing that one of the major problems that the world faces today, outside of the danger of a world war, is the population explosion. In the United States -- we already have a population imbalance where the greatest number are in

What are the implications for the public schools? We have more youth to serve, and more who do not see the public schools as meeting their needs. One of the things that it means is that the public schools had better do some long-range planning, which it has tended to avoid. Are we prepared to double the size of our public schools in the next five to eight years? Some public-school people are worried about securing the order for new automatic pencil sharpeners, in lieu of taking a good hard look at what the ten-year plans should be for programmed instruction, split sessions, round-the-year schooling, teamteaching, ungraded schools, individualized instruction, improved library facilities as instructional resource centers, etc. in the public schools of tomorrow.

But what does increased technology placed back to back against the population explosion mean to the public schools? Well, it means that we had better prepare for greater utilization of technology in our own public schools. It also means that people in the youth education field will have to realize that there will be more pressures for technical training; that there is going to be more confrontation of the issues that automation is bringing to modern education, the renewing issues about the need for second careers, and what kind of person is going to be best for the society of tomorrow.

There are many other problems. This explosion of man's knowledge is exciting and disturbing to me. It creates all kinds of personal insecurity about my ability to keep up even in my own field.

The implication of this is that both you and I, and frequently our schools are out of date with what is now known. Perhaps, another time, we might discuss these implications again.

FAMILY FLIERS-Wixom Police Chief D'Arcy Young and his young son, Tom, 16, both received their solo permits last week. Here father and son exchange mutual congratulations as Instructor Doug Wells looks on. They logged eight hours to get the permit, and there's more in the offing. Both will continue flying until they qualify for a pilot's license. Instruction was given at Spencer airport in Wixom.
