It Still Lives

The Spirit Of Christmas

Two weeks ago Kathryn Vivian Keating wrote a letter to the editor.

She wanted work in her home. Her nearly-three-year-old son has leukemia and it is becoming increasingly more difficult for her to leave his side.

Mrs. Keating's letter, along with two poems she submitted, were published in the December 9 edition.

The response has been as the true spirit of Christmas would have it. Replies have come from friends unknown to Mrs. Keating and her son, Michael; anonymous donations have been sent or left at her door; offers of work and friendship have been received.

Help has come from area residents -- both businessmen and housewives. And it has come from scout troops and youngsters. A Northville girl attending Jackson Junior College triggered a "demonstration" at that school on behalf of Mrs. Keating.

Christmas will be warmer at the mobile home unit at 10 Hillcrest road where Mrs. Keating and her son live with a lady friend of Mrs. Keating.

As yet she hasn't learned of all the offers of work or assistance, but already she has written to the newspaper to "express sincerest gratitude to: Mrs. Anthony Sincola for work and her sons' companionship for Michael; to a stranger for $2 to buy a gift for Michael; to a stranger for a red jacket and hat with mittens for Michael; Mr. Stanke for 16 hours of typing work; a stranger for an offer of sharing her home and family with us on Christmas; Mary Ellen Kelly for her offer of weekly ironings to be done in my home; Northville Cub scout troop 721 and girl scout troop 223 for opening their hearts to us at Christmas; to the South Lyon Women's Club for making us their Christmas project; to Mrs. Robert Arlen of Northville for a gift book and the thoughtfulness behind it; to a stranger who wants to send something for our Christmas."

There are other groups and individuals planning to help the Keatings at Christmas. Women in two different Northville subdivisions collected gifts and money, several other anonymous calls have been received at the newspaper for information on how to direct their contributions.

Perhaps the most ambitious and unusual response came from Cathy Utley, daughter of Myron Utleys of Northville. She's a freshman at Jackson Junior College and subscribes to The Northville Record. When she read Mrs. Keating's letter, she called upon her fellow students to organize a demonstration quite different from the demonstrations for which many college campuses are receiving publicity these days.

The youngsters mimeographed the letter and poems by Mrs. Keating and distributed them throughout the student body. In two days they contributed $140, and a good share of this money was collected by the hardest worker of all -- a foreign exchange student attending Jackson Junior College from Vietnam.

Mrs. Keating, a kindly woman who wanted work and found that and friendship, too, expressed her thanks with a poem.

Yes, Michael, there is a Santa Claus, says a thankful Mrs. Keating.

TO KINDLY FRIENDS

I'm glad we're from a little town
Where people care about
The needs that one another have
And help each other out.

Had Bethlehem been such a place,
I'm sure there would have been
A true concern for Mary's child
And room inside the Inn.

You could not make your way to Him
That night in Bethlehem's town;
And lay gifts at His infant feet
When Christ, the Lord came down --

And yet, the debts we owe to God
Are payable to man.
His "Inasmuch of giving things"
Was part of such a plan.

And so, in honor of His birth
You took note of our need.
And hastening to help us out Obeyed His holy Creed.

As you have done it unto us,
You've done it unto Him.
Another babe -- a different town --
But CHRISTMAS lives again!

Community Bid Made

Hatchery Land Available Soon

Northville's two United States Congressmen have jointly requested that the Northville fish hatchery property, soon to be declared surplus property, be offered to the city and township of Northville for use as a recreational site.

The 14-acre parcel on Seven Mile road just east of Clement road is divided between the city and township with about 10 acres in the township and 4 acres in the city.

If the request is approved, the property could be purchased by the city and township for a price 50 per cent below the appraised market value.

Weston E. Vivian, representing the township as second district congressman, and Billie S. Farnum, 19th district congressman representing the city, sent the following letter to Howard Greenberg, commissioner of the Utilization and Disposal Service of the General Services Administration:

We are informed that the Northville Michigan Fish Hatchery, located in Northville, Michigan, will soon be declared excess property of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, Department of the Interior. We understand that jurisdiction of the property will pass to the General Services Administration at that time, and that if the property has not been selected for use by another Federal Government agency within thirty days it will be declared surplus and offered to public bodies within the State of Michigan for purchase.

The Hatchery property is located in both the City of Northville and Northville Township, which we represent in the U.S. House of Representatives. Elected officials of both the City and the Township have evidenced great interest in obtaining this land for recreational use, to be administered under joint administration of these two political subdivisions. We understand that if the use proposed for this land is approved by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the Department of the Interior, it may be obtained at a cost fifty per cent below the appraised market value.

We wholeheartedly and enthusiastically approve the proposed disposal of this Federal installation.

We urge you to assist us in our efforts to obtain this property for the citizens of Northville. Would you be good enough to keep us informed on this matter?

Sincerely, Weston E. Vivian and Billie S. Farnum, members of Congress.

Police Chase Ends in Boy's Death

A 16-year-old Plymouth boy is dead and two of his companions lie seriously injured in a hospital this week. They were victims of an auto crash that ended a wild race with a Northville police pursuit car in the early hours Saturday morning.

Eight Mile road on the east side of the old Novi road overpass, the boys' car careening out of control, raking along the guard rail as it descended the grade and then flipping and rolling half-a-dozen times for 330 feet and hurting the boys out.

of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robinson of 9211 Elmhurst, Plymouth, died a half hour later at Botsford General hospital in Farmington.

Chester B. Ogden, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ogden, 998 Arthur, Plymouth, and LeRoy Stultz, 17, of 9275 Marlow, Plymouth, were reported in 'satisfactory' condition by the hospital Monday. Both suffered skull fractures and internal injuries.

Novi Police Corporal Ronald Randolph, in charge of the investigation, said that it could not be immediately determined who had been driving the boys' car, which was a total wreck. Study of the positions in which each landed was undertaken.

A case of beer bottles with one bottle full was found in the car, said Randolph, and "the smell of beer was all over the boys."

He described the events leading to the crash as having started in Northville. Sergeant Louis Westfall and Patrolman Earl VanCise of the Northville force had stated that during their rounds at 3:02 a.m. Saturday they noticed a boy standing on a corner of an alley on Main street, next to the abandoned John Mach's Ford building.

When the Northville police car was swung around to investigate, the boy jumped in the waiting car and it sped off through the streets of Northville at 65-70 mph speeds. It veered all over the road in a very reckless manner, Randolph reported.

From westbound Randolph street in Northville the boys' car headed east on Eight Mile road, went through a warning light at Eight Mile and Center street and was traveling about 85 miles per hour immediately prior to the crash, according to the police.

Since the car and victims landed on the north side of Eight Mile road in Novi village that force was called upon. Ambulances took the boys to the hospital and the parents were notified of the accident, said Randolph.

Council Examines Width Of Proposed Randolph

Northville's city council has adopted a procedure of "compromise and reasonableness" for the improvement of Randolph street, a project which has met with a petition of protest from a majority of the residents of the street.

In a special council meeting last week the council took a position of firmness insofar as application of the 25 per cent assessment. But the members decided to take a personal, first-hand look at the site and see just how close the proposed 33-foot width would come to properties along the route.

The council was scheduled to inspect the route with tape measure Tuesday morning.

At the December 6 meeting of the council a roomful of Randolph street residents appeared to protest the improvement, and specifically the assessment, on the basis that paving and widening would increase traffic, reduce property values and that the improvement is being undertaken to handle increased traffic for the benefit of the community as a whole. Therefore, the protesting property owners concluded, the project should be paid from city-at-large funds with no 25 per cent assessment against abutting properties. Heavy east-west traffic on Randolph has prompted the council to propose concrete paving for the street. But the assessment is being based on asphalt paving, not concrete. Likewise the council is basing its assessment cost on a normal 30-foot street, rather than the proposed 33-foot as well as deleting charges for a culvert improvement on the street.

Councilman Fred Kester noted that "all streets in the city are being improved on the basis of need and Randolph is high on the priority list. I see no reason why it shouldn't be assessed on the same basis as all others."

In general this represents the feeling of the council, although Councilman John Canterbury advocated a "close look" at the street by the council to be certain that variations in the width should not be advocated. This question became particularly pertinent when Mayor A. M. Allen questioned the advisability of permitting parking on the street in the future.

Randolph winds its way through residences that in some instances infringe upon public right of way for sidewalks and lawns. It was noted by the council that some residents might have to give-up this use of public property, but where reasonable distances could be maintained from houses by narrowing the street, it would be proposed.

The first public hearing on the project was scheduled for December 6. It was rescheduled for January 3 when it discovered that two properties were not included in the assessment. Now included on the roll are properties owned by Ada Knight and Harold Hartley.

In other business at last week's special meeting the council accepted changes in the library commission ordinance proposed by the township. The council will insert these changes at its hearing on the ordinance January 3. It is expected to appoint three members to the commission to join the three already appointed by the township. The six-member body will then appoint a seventh member of its own choice.

A $500 per month salary for the acting city manager, Philip Ogilvie, was approved. This is in addition to his retainer as city attorney. Closing of city hall at 1 p.m. on both Fridays before Christmas and New Year's days was also approved.

New Grade School Slated For August 15 Opening

Northville school district is operating like a canny businessman -- and it is a big business with more than $3,000,000 of bond money scheduled for delivery December 22.

A special meeting of the board of education, previously cancelled for the holidays, was held Monday night to determine where the money could best be invested until needed for the district's expansion program. With Federal Reserve increased interest rates, Superintendent Alexander Nelson estimated the district will receive $100,000 in interest.

In a meeting last Thursday with Henry Haberkorn, representing his architectural firm, an August 15 occupancy date was set for the new elementary school to be built on Eight Mile road. Plans were made to culminate the purchase of the site from the Salvation Army December 23. The architects were authorized to take bids for a well on the site with 6 or 8-inch casing at an estimated cost near $2,500. Working drawings for the school are to be ready January 10 with bids to be out January 15.

In a cost-watching analysis, the board reviewed the elementary school blue prints sheet-by-sheet. It is expected the school will exceed original figures by $20,000.

With this in mind the board planned to bank the bond money as advantageously as possible. At signing the bonds with a par value of $3,300,000 and premium interest of $28 with 11 days accrued interest of $38,835 should bring to the district $3,339,363 minus the $60,000 good faith check already placed with the district.

The bonds were to be signed by Donald Lawrence, board treasurer, December 21 in Northville and by Donald Becker, board president, in Detroit the following day.

The board also instructed the architects to plan the junior high school building at Taft road so that it will not be located over the Bernhardt drain, even though it has been abandoned. Work on the junior high and the high school addition is expected to be done concurrently, beginning in May or June.

Nelson reports that, especially at the high school level, the library is receiving number one priority as the instructional resources center. The junior high preliminary plans show 12 academic classrooms with 25 teaching stations, which include the gyms, library and laboratories. It is to have a total of 48,000 to 50,000 square feet and is designed to be expandable. Building costs in the district are expected to be about $18 a square foot.

Nelson reported to the board last week that citizen committee growth projections already are being exceeded in the district. Last Friday, he later pointed out, the figures were still growing -- with 12 new students enrolling that day.

In Our Town

By Jean Day

"THINK of all the ways you can 'spend' yourself," Alice Wessels Burlingame urged members of the Northville branch, National Farm and Garden association, at their annual Christmas luncheon last week as she ticked off year-round Christmas gifts garden clubbers can give their community in civic, conservation and horticultural therapy projects.

In working with the retarded, she suggested, members should keep "reaching up" with growth projects, such as rooting shrub slips or even installing fluorescent greenhouses. She showed book marks, tallies and place mats made of pressed greens as an example of another type of project. Civicly, she felt, garden clubs could concern themselves with beautifying store fronts and used car lots as well as instituting civic planting projects.

She also "introduced" the 100 members and their guests to some of the women from all parts of the world she had met earlier this year as a delegate to the Associated Countrywomen of the World convention in Dublin, Ireland. The speaker, a resident of Birmingham, Michigan, is a garden columnist in newspapers and magazines and is completing a book on 100 horticultural projects. Her description of the new international garden president from India also fits her -- "Cute as Christmas". *****

Mrs. Burlingame's holiday gift to the Northville gardeners was to show a method of forcing tulip bulbs that would bring blooms by February 15. In a clay pot filled with an inch of stones and a layer of soil she placed a ring of bulbs with "the flat side to the outside of the pot." This was filled with dirt and thoroughly soaked. The pot then is to be placed in a plastic bag and sealed, placed in a cold but not freezing place, such as a garage, and left for eight weeks. Then, if taken out and placed in a sunny window, she promised, flowers will bloom.

A CHRISTMAS TIME plea and a different musical gift suggestion were made by Dr. Haydn Morgan as he spoke to the Northville Woman's club at its Christmas program and tea Friday. The retired head of the department of music at Eastern Michigan university strongly advised mothers to teach their children the correct rhythm of songs, citing the danger of losing original forms if tempo is changed.

In addition to the traditional Christmas carols, he said, "The Star Spangled Banner" even is being tampered with and notes changed.

Dr. Morgan reviewed the history of different carols, calling "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful" one of the most universally popular, having been translated into 119 languages. He suggested a book, "Carols, Customs and Legends of Christmas," by Schmitt, Hall, and McCreary company of Minneapolis as a gift for carol lovers. *****

A CHRISTMAS COFFEE Tuesday morning on Haggerty court was co-hosted by Mrs. Charles Fountain and Mrs. Calvin Chen at the home of the latter. In addition to welcoming friends and exchanging greetings during this traditional season of hospitality, the coffee served to introduce many of Mrs. Fountain's friends to her newcomer neighbor. Mrs. Chen moved to the court as a bride six months ago.

A coffee was given in Edenderry last Thursday by Mrs. Leonard Klein and Mrs. Armin Grossmann at the Klein home for neighbors and friends. The December 16 date was chosen so that coffee-goers would continue on to take the Christmas Walk sponsored by the Plymouth branch garden group. By mid-afternoon Mrs. John Stuyvenberg, whose home in Shadbrook was open on the tour, had had more than 400 visitors. Her decorations ranged from vivid red carnations in evergreens to a white tree with pink ornaments in the master bedroom.

INVITATIONS are in the mail for a holiday open house to be given December 30 by Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Weber at their home on Woodhill road. *****

Ramsays Return As Bar Owners

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ramsey have returned to Northville as owners of Ramsey's Bar on North Center street. The Ramseys sold the bar to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Markham 3 1/2 years ago after having operated the business from 1953 until 1962.

Bakery Changes Ownership

After nearly 30 years in business with her husband and her son, Mrs. Daisy Searfoss has sold the Sally Belle Bakery on Main street to Mr. and Mrs. Allen Leone of Redford township. She continues with them, however. Son Harold had been with her since the death of her husband, who started the cozy shop in 1939.

The Leones are just starting in business for themselves. He has been a baker for 20 years, and was once employed by Maybury sanatorium.

Mrs. Leone said that all the regular helpers will continue, including 11-year employee Leona Becoskey and Holly Flavin.

After the New Year they intend to change the name but retain the standby favorite items of Northville customers. Leone said that in addition he will attempt to provide several specialty items and do custom orders of "anything on request, if possible."

Weber told Novi police that he was traveling south on Novi road at about 45 mph when an oncoming car topped a rise in his lane. It was about 1:54 p.m.

To The Editor: Dear Bill, Ed Angove was my friend and it's hard to talk about your friends in the past tense particularly under this set of circumstances. However, Ed was not just MY friend, he was a friend of all of our athletes and students. He was a frequent visitor at our practice sessions and almost never missed any of our games or other school activities. He loved a winner because he was a winner and he appreciated good performance wherever he found it. I humbly would like to propose to our community and school board that the football field at the high school--which Ed loved so much--be named for him as a living memorial.

Sincerely, Al Jones

Remember What Christmas Means

To The Editor, Children, today, do not think about the real meaning of Christmas. We, children, just think about getting presents and of Santa Claus coming. It is not right that way though.

The reason we get presents is because The Three Wise Men gave presents to Jesus. Remember how they saw the star and followed it to the stable where Jesus was born, bringing him their gifts. I think we should give with a satisfaction of joy for giving, and not just wondering what your going to get and if you spent more on a person than they spent on you. Remember Jesus Christ was born that day.

Northville School Hires New English Teacher

Miss Bonnie J. Humphrey will join the Northville high school staff at the change of the semester January 24, Superintendent Alexander Nelson announced this week. She will teach English and French.

She presently is teaching French in the Leelanau public schools in Glen Arbor, Michigan. In addition to French language her special interests lie in skiing, tennis, piano and reading.

Following her graduation from Michigan State University in June, 1965, Miss Humphrey left East Lansing for France where she continued her studies in French language for three months, living with a French family in Grenoble. In addition to furthering her French speaking ability, Nelson reports, the experience provided an opportunity to study and enjoy firsthand French family life.

Miss Humphrey received her MSU degree in Arts and Letters with a major in French and minors in English and social studies. She was born in Bay City, lived in Essexville in early childhood, later moving to Saginaw where she was graduated from Arthur Hill high school in 1961.

In Honorary Music Sorority

Olyvia (Jo) Hildebrand, daughter of Mrs. Ardyce Hildebrand, 17071 Franklin, was one of twelve women recently pledged to the Sigma Alpha Iota, national women's music honorary, at Albion College.

Requirements for membership include a 3.0 grade average in music, 2.5 overall average, three credit hours in music and sophomore standing.

Jo is a 1964 Northville high school graduate and is presently a sophomore at Albion. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority and the German Club.

Local Boys Promoted

Two Northville cadets received honors recently at their military academies. David King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene King of 512 West Dunlap, was presented with awards for excellence in athletics and concert band at Roosevelt Military Academy in Aledo, Illinois.

David, a freshman at the academy, was also promoted to the rank of private.

A promotion was also announced recently for Paul Douglas Lorenz. He is now a Phase II New Cadet in Company "B" at Kemper Military School in Boonville, Missouri. Paul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Douglas Lorenz of 19640 Clement road.

CAP Marks 24th Year

The Civil Air Patrol is celebrating its 24th anniversary this month and the event is being marked by the Northville Squadron of the CAP.

The local unit, under the direction of Major Robert Parmenter, meets weekly on Mondays from 7 until 9:30 p.m. at the American Legion Hall. The squadron is currently conducting aerospace education classes.

An auxiliary of the United States Air Force, the CAP trains its members for public service to its community and nation. The CAP assists in providing rescue and relief in time of disaster. It has trained pilots to fly search and rescue missions and a nationwide communications network of some 14,900 radio stations.

Major Parmenter points out that the international air cadet exchange program is also beneficial in creating better understanding throughout the world.

Debaters Win Crown

Northville's debaters added another honor to their growing list of laurels last week when they won the Wayne-Oakland Conference championship.

Coached by Miss Florence Panattoni, the local squad posted a record of 7-1. Bloomfield Hills and Brighton tied for second with 5-3 records.

Northville clinched the championship by defeating Bloomfield Hills and Clarenceville in the final league tourney. The affirmative team of Glenn Deibert and Larry Thibos defeated Bloomfield. Negative team was composed of Sue Conley and Meg Becker.

To prepare for district competition, the varsity debaters will debate at the University of Michigan on January 15 and at Battle Creek on January 8.

Building Permits

The city of Northville's building report for November, as submitted by Building Inspector C. Oscar Hammond, reveals building activity for the month totalling $292,760.

Largest single permit issued was for an addition to company for $285,000. Other permits were issued for a sign ($450), two garages ($3,000), one house addition ($2,200), patio roof ($110), and one remodeling job ($2,000).

Total fees collected for these jobs was $610.50.

It's 'Merry Christmas' For Templeton Family

The whole family will be together again for Christmas at the home of the William Templetons on Novi road. The Templetons' son, Dennie, who has spent the past seven months aboard the Aircraft Carrier "Independence" on combat mission to Vietnam, is home on leave.

Dennie, an electronics technician petty officer, will be able to tell his brother Pat and sister Sue about his adventures aboard the "Independence". Pat and Sue arrived home last weekend from their studies at Western Michigan University.

The "Independence" has sailed over 75,000 miles in the Atlantic, Indian and Pacific Oceans. Among its notable combat achievements were the destruction of a mobile surface-to-air missile site, the downing of the Kep Highway Bridge and the elimination of a number of vital enemy radar and communications facilities.

The men on the "Independence" were recently awarded the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal for their efforts in the Vietnam conflict.

Another interesting event for Dennie was a telephone conversation he held with his parents while the ship was 2,000 miles off the coast of Africa. A ham radio operator in Florida picked up the ship and called the Templetons so that they could talk to Dennie.

Library Hours

The Northville library will be closed the day before Christmas and New Year's and will be open from noon until 8 p.m. on Thursday, December 23 and 30.

Deibert To Solo In Concert

A Northville man, Glenn E. Deibert, will be the bass soloist when the Schoolcraft College Evening Choir presents its first Christmas Concert Wednesday evening (tonight). The concert will be held in the College Library at 8 p.m.

Other soloists will be Margaret Koskuba, soprano from Detroit and an instructor in nursing at Schoolcraft College, Kathryn Lundsten, soprano from Livonia, and Lloyd Miller, tenor from Detroit.

The program will consist of parts two and three of "The Childhood of Christ" by Berlioz and "The Infant Jesus" by Buxtehude. The Plymouth Symphony will assist in the Buxtehude work.

The public is invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.

Mustang 5 'Jells'- Milford Falls, 68-40

The Northville Mustangs "put it all together" last Friday night for the first time this year. The result? An emphatic trouncing of Milford on the Redskins' home court, 68-40.

The Mustangs, except for a few dry spells, passed accurately, scored when it counted and most of all, rebounded with abandon. In short, they had poise, the poise that could bring them a Wayne-Oakland Conference title.

Right now, Coach Dave Longridge's cagers are perched atop the league with a 3-0 mark. But they're not the only ones sniffing the thin but sweet championship air. West Bloomfield, which beat Holly, 62-56, also has a 3-0 record.

Behind them, scrambling, is Clarkston, a pre-season favorite to cop the title. With Dan Fife leading the way, the Wolves beat last year's champions, Bloomfield Hills, 72-51. Fife tallied 32 points. Clarkston is 2-1.

And surprise of all surprises, the Brighton Bulldogs are coming on fast to make a serious bid in the W-O. They, too, have a 2-1 record, primarily on the performance of a gifted transfer student, Rich Musch, who scored 30 points in Brighton's 86-71 victory Friday over Clarenceville.

League competition, however, will take a back seat during the holiday season. Northville will meet stiff opposition when it enters the River Rouge basketball next week. (See story of tourney on this page).

If the Mustangs play as well in the Rouge round-robin as they did against Milford, Coach Dave Longridge couldn't be happier.

Northville began slowly enough, scoring only four points in the first five minutes of play, but still lead 4-3. Action speeded up in the last three minutes of the first quarter, however, as Northville moved into a 9-7 lead.

Northville's superior rebounding began to tell in the second quarter. The Mustangs clicked for eight straight points to assume a 19-9 margin and the rout was on.

Forward Mark Cushing ignited the spurt by hitting a jumper from the side to give Northville a 13-9 lead. In quick succession Center Jerry Instand dumped in a dog shot, Guard John Jameson scored from behind a screen and Instand tipped one in.

Milford never recovered as Northville took complete control of the boards, and forced Milford to play Northville's game. Long-ridge pulled his starting five with over four minutes left on the clock, but still the Mustangs wouldn't quit. They increased the margin to 68-39, the biggest of the night, just before the game ended.

There was plenty to shout about when the returns were in, unlike the week before when Northville barely squeezed by a weak Clarenceville five by a single point.

"I think they're coming," said Longridge cautiously as his team faces tough competition in the Rouge tourney.

"Jameson played his best game of the year. He reached his potential," the Mustang coach declared. "Cushing really hustled. He, Evans (Forward Steve Evans) and Instand really did the work on the boards. In fact, the whole starting five looked good," he added.

The Mustangs were far from hot from the field, shooting only 37.3 per cent on 28 conversions in 75 attempts. Milford cashed in on 19 of 62 field goal tries.

Scoring balance was the key to Northville's attack, with Instand pacing his mates with 14 points, followed closely by Evans' 13 and Cushing's and Jameson's 12.

No Milford cager scored more than eight points.

Tourney Play Next

The Northville varsity and junior varsity cagers will put their unblemished records on the line during the holiday season. Both will compete in the seventh annual River Rouge Christmas tournament at River Rouge high school, December 27, 28 and 29.

For the second year in a row, Northville will join seven other teams in the round robin tourney. All teams will play three games, win, lose or draw.

Once again River Rouge high school, the perennial state champs in class B, will be the solid favorite to win everything. That's been the story the previous six years.

Tables are reversed this season for the Mustangs. They are undefeated in four games, unlike last year when they stumbled to only one victory in four tries before the Christmas holidays.

Coach Dave Longridge hopes Northville's tourney fortunes will change also. The Mustangs dropped two straight before pulling out a victory in their final game by edging Taylor Center.

The luck of the draw was with Northville this year. Northville will open Monday at 6:30 p.m. against Monroe. Other teams in the same bracket are Thurston and Taylor Center.

Teams in the other bracket, Ecorse, Lincoln Park, Lutheran West and Rouge, are touted as the teams to beat. Anyone, however, could surprise.

If Northville wins its first encounter, it will play the winner of the Taylor-Thurston clash on Tuesday at 9:30 p.m. Another win would vault Northville into the championship round Wednesday at 9:30 p.m.

Should the Mustangs lose their second game, they'll play at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in the winners' consolation round.

A loss in the first round would automatically place Northville in the losers' playoff. Northville would then play the loser of the Taylor-Thurston game at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A second round win would give Northville a berth in the losers' championship battle at 8 p.m. Wednesday. If Northville loses, it will play at 5 p.m. Wednesday in the losers' consolation.

Coach Bob Kucher's high-scoring squad, also undefeated in four starts this season, will play three games in three days. But there are terrific obstacles in their path.

They're in the toughest bracket, which includes Monroe, River Rouge and Ecorse. The Colts will make their debut Monday at 2:30 p.m. against Ecorse.

A first round win would pit the Colts against the winner of the Rouge-Monroe contest on Tuesday at 1 p.m. Another victory and Northville would play in the finals at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

In the event of a second round loss, the JVs would play Wednesday at 11:30 p.m. If the Colts lose their first game, they'll move into the losers' play-off. They'll play Tuesday at 10 a.m. A win in the second round would put them in the losers' finals Wednesday at 1 p.m. If they lose the second round, they'll play at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the losers' consolation.

The JVs lost all three games last year.

It's Close But JVs Win Again

The Northville JVs were put to the first real tests of the basketball season and held their poise to beat Milford, 77-63. Coached by Bob Kucher, the squad will enter the River Rouge Christmas tourney with a 4-0 record.

Northville had a 45-18 lead at halftime, but a fired-up Milford squad came back in the second half to cut the margin several times to just seven points. Milford hit on 70 percent of their shots.

Foul trouble hampered the Colts. Floor leader Joe Andrews picked up his fourth at the outset of the second half, and without him, Milford pressed effectively.

Three other Colts incurred four fouls before Andrews came off the bench to spur Northville on to a last-minute surge.

Forward Bob Hubbert turned in his "finest game" in high school play, garnering 26 points and leading the rebounders. Not far behind was Center Jim Peterson who tallied 21 points and collaborated with Hubbert on the boards.

Hahn, Bennet On Schoolcraft 5

Two Northville boys are members of the 1966 Schoolcraft College basketball squad. They are Lance Hahn, a 1964 NHS graduate, at center, and Ron Bennet, a 1965 NHS graduate, at forward.

The team, under Coach Wilson Munn, will play a full 18-game league schedule. The physical education facilities of local high schools, including Northville's, will be used for home games.

Frosh Can't Find Bucket

It was a dismal week for the Northville frosh cagers. They dropped their second and third games of the season to sink to a 1-3 record. That old bugaboo did them in; they just couldn't find the range.

Matmen Fall In Thriller

Northville was holding on to a slim one-point lead entering the final match of the night. Victory was inches away as the last Mustang assumed a 4-2 lead.

Then disaster struck. Redford Union gained a pin, five points and victory by a 23-19 count last week Tuesday.

Still Coach Jack Townley lauded his matmen for "their fine team effort," which saw the Mustangs go down to their second defeat in four tries.

Nearly flawless performances were turned in by 127-pound Dennis Cook and 133-pound Pat James, Townley said. Both copped decisions.

Only Northville pin was recorded by 165-pound Bob Sprenger. Dave Grondin won by forfeit to earn the only other five-pointers for Northville.

Marty Richardson, at 112 pounds, was the only other winner. He too won by decision.

Trouble in the early stages of the game--inability to hit those field goals, cost Northville last Thursday. Milford won this one, 31-22.

Coach Al Jones' cagers played Milford on even terms in the second half.

'Deck the Halls' Yule Exhibit Featured at Ford Museum

"Deck the Halls," this year's Christmas exhibition at the Henry Ford museum in Dearborn, reproduces seven rooms of documented Christmas decorations of earlier days.

Opening the exhibition is a Victorian corner, showing a parlor similar to those that must have been in many of Northville's older homes in the latter part of the 19th century. The latest setting in the exhibit, this room features a Christmas tree strung with popcorn. Trees were seldom used in earlier days.

Outstanding feature of the exhibit is the elaborate use of greens, often used as swags around the ceiling molding of an entire room. To construct the room decorations the museum borrowed early Christmas prints from eastern museums and duplicated them faithfully.

The exhibition includes period table settings as well as collections of antique Christmas ornaments, candles, decorated cookies and even early strings of lights.

Craftsmen in the museum's adjacent Avenue of Early American shops are producing Christmas cookie cutters and candle holders in tin, bayberry candles, tiny pewter bells and handblown glass tree ornaments, which may be purchased.

The "Deck the Halls" exhibit is complemented by the annual holiday decorations in Greenfield Village where greens and trimmings have been installed in the 17th century Cotswold cottage, the 18th century Secretary house, the early 19th century Noah Webster house, the later 19th century Ford birthplace, Sarah Jordan boarding house and the Wright homestead as well as in the Martha-Mary chapel and Clinton Inn.

The museum and village will be closed December 25 and January 1 except for a New Year's Day performance of "Rip Van Winkle" in the museum theater.

The performance of this comedy by Joseph Jefferson is something new in Christmas entertainment at the museum. The interpretation of Washington Irving's folk tale will be given by the Greenfield Village Players December 27- January 1 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the museum theater.

GREEN GARLANDS decorate the lower hallway of stately Noah Webster house at Greenfield Village where the famed dictionary was compiled. Cedar roping, holly and poinsettias are used here and throughout the village and museum to reproduce authentic early day decorations in a special Christmas exhibit.

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

Roy Pippins, Pastor,
Church of Christ, South Lyon

The Bible says that Jesus was born in Bethlehem in the days of Herod the king. The exact date of his birth we do not know. Of a truth we know that Diety came down and took on human flesh. Shepherds and wise men came to him when he was a little child. They bestowed gifts and honor on him at his birth.

Little is said about the early life of Jesus. When he was 12-years-old, he went with his parents to Jerusalem to worship. When he became lost from his parents, they found him in the temple with the doctors of the law. He said, "It is time to be about my father's business." Lk. 2:49.

He went about doing good. He healed the sick, made the blind to see, lame to walk, dumb to speak, fed the hungry, and comforted the broken-hearted while he was performing many of his wonderful works, to show that he was the Son of God. Many people followed him, some because of the loaves and the fishes, John 6:26.

A great turn in events took place when the leaders of the people stirred up the Jews and turned them against Jesus so as to make them cry out and say that he should be crucified. The Bible tells us that those that had walked the closest to him forsook him and fled. The great crowds that had said, "Hosanna in the highest," now said, "Let him be crucified, away with such a one from the earth." Even though Pilate could find no fault in him, he was delivered to be crucified. The great multitudes of people even chose Barabbas in place of Jesus.

On the place of the skull, Jesus was crucified for your sins and mine. He died that you and I might not have to die eternally. This was truly a dark hour in the history of mankind, when even the sun refused to shine, and God himself had to turn his face. Is it any wonder that the earth trembled, and the centurion would say, "Truly this was the Son of God?"

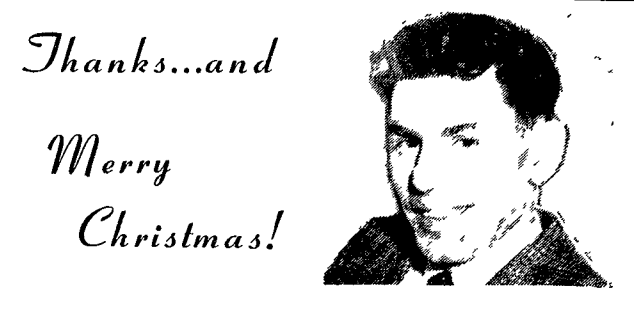

Jesus states that it was for this purpose that he came to this world in John 12:27, but many people wanted nothing to do with him during this time. We notice that a stranger had to be compelled to bear his cross, Lk. 23:26. Where were the five thousand he had fed? The lepers he had cleansed? The blind he had made to see, etc.? Yes, where were those that had brought him gifts when he was born? Can it be that now they are not interested? They had been looking for a saviour hadn't they?

Yes, although there was no shame connected with the manger, there was shame and disgrace on Calvary. This was a death fitting for the worst criminal. Are we guilty today of worshipping him at the manger, but despising him at the cross? Many of those that followed the star may have been among those that said, "Give us Barabbas!" Remember Jesus has been made both Lord and Christ and has all authority in heaven and on earth. Our prayer today is that all men will look beyond the manger and see the Son of God lifted up and be drawn to him. In humble submission, come and say, "Speak, Lord, they servant heareth. Command and I will obey."

He became the author of eternal salvation to all them that obey him, He 5:8-9. Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today, and forever. Be not carried about with divers and strange doctrines. Let us go forth therefore unto him with the camp, bearing his reproach, He 13: 8,9,13. See that ye refuse not him that speaketh. We shall not escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven, He 12:25.

Thanks...and Merry Christmas!

I want to take this opportunity to thank all my friends and policyholders for their valued friendship in 1965. To everyone a Merry Christmas

'Twas the Night before Christmas...

"... And all through the house, not a creature was stirring" . . . except these two little rascals! Christmas is their day . . . dreams of toys, and sweets, and games, and lots of wonderful things!

Christmas is for children, yes. But, Christmas is for grownups, too. It's a time to give, a time to receive. But, sometimes the spiritual side is overlooked; not deliberately, of course, but lost in the delightful chaos of cheer and joy and fun.

Then remind yourself, to go to church—your choice! Pause there to pray, to give thanks for all you have received; especially, that wonderful gift, the gift of God Himself, in His infant Son. Christmas is Christ's day, His birthday!

Proposed for Area Site

Just what is an Atomic Accelerator?

Technical design features of a 200 billion electron volt (BEV) atomic accelerator proposed for location in Northfield township about five miles south of South Lyon and just west of Pontiac Trail, are complicated, to say the least.

The Northfield site has been unofficially rated among the top six in competition for the facility and interest here is running high.

The machine, the biggest and most complex instrument for fundamental scientific research to this stage of development, would lead to a deeper understanding of the fundamental forces that govern the universe. Those are the words of the sponsoring federal Atomic Energy Commission.

For the local area, present community development patterns and projections would be drastically reshaped by the advent of the $300 million facility and its scientist and support resident staff of more than 2,000.

The proposed new facility, for which funds have not yet been authorized, would be open to all the nation's high energy physicists, with experimental time allotted on the basis of the merit of proposed experiments.

The main component of the great accelerator would be a slender, mile-in-diameter ring composed of about 500 electromagnets (three feet square in cross section) spaced at intervals along the circle. A 2-by-5 inch vacuum chamber would thread the magnets.

Protons, the nuclei of hydrogen atoms, would travel over this magnetic pathway 60,000 times in one second, receiving a 3.5 million electron volt boost of energy on each revolution and reaching an ultimate energy of 200 BEV. This is seven times greater than the present highest energy machine, the Alternating Gradient Synchrotron at AEC's Brookhaven National Laboratory.

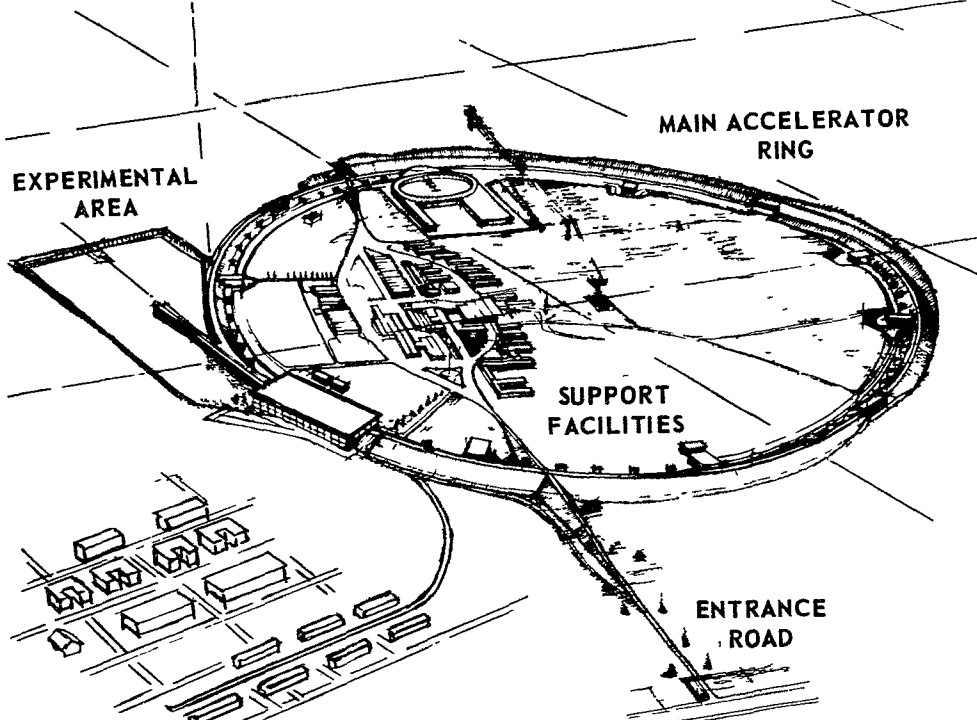

The accelerator would be both a high energy and a high intensity machine. That is, the number of particles accelerated would be about 10 times more than the number available from present major machines.

The magnets comprising the main accelerator ring, weighing about 20,000 tons, would be housed in a tunnel covered by 25 feet of earth to absorb radiation generated by the speeding particles.

Beams emerging from the slender giant -- the primary protons or the secondary particles generated when the protons hit a target in the machine -- would travel to their targets over flight paths up to 2,000 feet in the initial design, with lengths up to a mile contemplated ultimately. The flight paths would take the beams through switching yards where electromagnets could guide selected particles to detecting apparatus.

Within the main ring there would be located a complicated booster system to get particles up to high enough energy for injection into the ring. The injection system would be composed of three accelerators in the following sequence: a 750,000 electron volt Cockcroft-Walton; a 200 million electron volt (MEV) proton linear accelerator; and an 8 BEV synchrotron which would approach in physical size the largest present accelerators. The booster synchrotron would inject particles directly into the main ring.

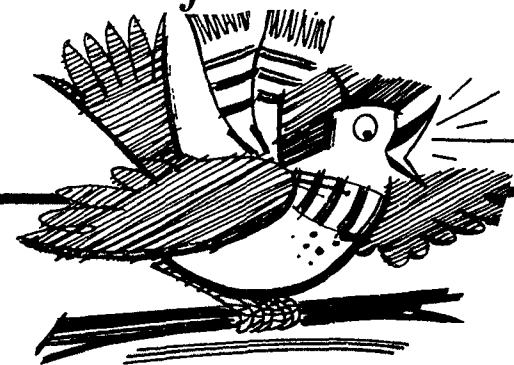

The installed power requirements for a 200 BEV accelerator and its experimental equipment would be about 150 megawatts at start-up and more than 200 megawatts several years later.

200 BEV ACCELERATOR TYPICAL SITE PERSPECTIVE

GROUND PLAN—The long range program provides that the Atomic Energy Commission seek approval for the 200 BEV accelerator in fiscal 1967. The circular accelerator would be three miles in circumference and require six to eight years for construction at a cost of $300 million. The commission expects to make a site selection early in 1967.

Motorist Hits Doe on 8 Mile

Howard Meyer, 48120 West Eight Mile road, didn't have any luck when he journeyed north for deer hunting this year.

But the family will enjoy venison for the holidays anyway, thanks to Louis Van Buren of South Lyon.

Last Thursday evening Van Buren was driving past the Meyer home when a doe darted into the front of his car. Van Buren stopped at the Meyer home to summon Novi police.

The injured doe had to be disposed of and Van Buren said the Meyers could have it. The Van Buren car was slightly damaged.

NEW LIBRARIAN—Mrs. Helen McClatchey is the new head librarian at the Northville branch of the Wayne county library system, replacing Ruth Richwerger who transferred to the county headquarters. Mrs. McClatchey, who lives in Ann Arbor with her husband and six children, has transferred here after eight years as head children's librarian in the Trenton public library. Kathleen Springer will continue as library aide here. Mrs. McClatchey holds a bachelor's degree from Marygrove college and is "still studying". She is interested in library story hour programs for children.

In our last lesson we learned that a set is a collection which belongs together. We found that a set may have several subsets. Elements of one set may be in one-to-one correspondence with the elements of another set. Understanding what a set is, is necessary and useful only if we recognize sets in the mathematics we learn. Sets are put together in what we call binary operations. A binary operation means that we work with only two numbers at one time. For example if we wish to add 2 plus 3 plus 4 equals 9 we add first the 2 and 3 and then say 5 plus 4 equals 9. We have different kinds of sets. If we have two sets with entirely different elements in each we call them disjoint sets. We might, for example, have 2 sets called X and Y. Set X represents the flowers in a vase and Set Y represents the flowers growing in the yard.

$Y = \{marigold, zinnias, petunias\}$
These are disjoint sets because there are entirely different elements in each of the two sets X and Y.

We can put sets together in what we call a union of sets. In any union of sets we do not repeat any element, but of course if we have disjoint sets there are no elements which are the same in both. Therefore we would write the union of X and Y as:

$X \cup Y = \{gladiola, roses, marigold, zinnias, petunias\}$

We will, of course, have sets which are not disjoint. Let us consider a set of boys in fourth grade who live on Lake Street.

Set A = {Bill, Tom, James}

The second set are boys in fourth grade who are Scouts:

Set B = {Bill, Joe, Bob, Jack}

Remember that a union of sets does not repeat any element and we now have

$A \cup B = \{Bill, Tom, James, Joe, Bob, Jack\}$

We read this as "The Union of Sets A and B equals ..." or "Set A in union with Set B equals ...". The symbol looks something like a large capital letter U but is called a cup.

Another operation on sets is called the intersection of sets. This is easy to understand if we consider what constitutes an intersection of streets.

There is a part of the street which belongs to both streets. The intersection is part of South Street if you drive straight north or south. The intersection is part of West Street if you drive only east or west. The intersection is common to both South and West Street.

If we apply the same thing to mathematics we could say

Set C = {a, b, c}

Set D = {c, d, e} c is common to both sets. The intersection of the sets would be:

$C \cap D = \{c\}$

The intersection symbol is called a cap. We would read the answer as "Set C intersection Set D is equal to the set whose element is c."

What would we have as the intersection of disjoint sets? Disjoint sets, you will remember, are sets with all different elements.

Set X = {gladiola, roses}
Set Y = {marigold, zinnias, petunias}

$X \cap Y = \{ \} \text{ or } \emptyset$

X intersection Y is equal to an empty set.

What happens when we have equal sets? Are the union and intersection ever the same?

Set F = {apple, peach, pear}

Set G = {apple, peach, pear}

$F \cup G = \{apple, peach, pear\}$
 $F \cap G = \{apple, peach, pear\}$

We can say that in the case of two or more equal sets, the union and the intersection will result in the same (equal) set. The union of Sets F and G is equal to either Set F or Set G. In the case of union of sets you recall that an element is not repeated. The intersection of the two sets is the same because elements in Set F are common to the elements in Set G.

Reckless driving and a broken fence drew fines for two drivers in the Justice Courts of Novi. Thomas R. Weber of 49730 Pontiac Trail was fined $65 by Justice of the Peace, Emery Jacques for reckless driving on East Lake Drive on November 12. Justice of the Peace Robert K. Anderson ordered Charles Stiltner of 315 Duana, Walled Lake, to pay $77 for the damage to a fence he hit and then fined him $25 for being unable to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Selecting "just the right gift" for Christmas is a next-to-impossible assignment. But if one had the power to perform miracles, just think what marvelous gifts could be provided.

Imagine that we're employed at Santa's workshop and can fill the gift bag with whatever we choose for all our community friends.

We'd send the city of Northville a new city manager. He'd smile when you wind him up and he'd never cross-up the council with business not appearing on the agenda.

He'd have a degree in engineering, business administration, accounting, psychology and criminology and would be willing to work 12-hour days, six days a week for $1.50 per hour.

The township would get a superintendent for its water and sewer department. He, too, would be an engineer with special training in the field of public works. Money would be no object and when you wound him up he would say nothing.

Northville's police department would get J. Edgar Hoover and six FBI agents, all anxious to work 48-hours per week in the pleasant atmosphere of a small town.

They would like their work here so much that a waiting list of FBI agents would fill the police departments in Novi and Wixom.

One of the stockings would hold a giant paving machine that would improve all of Northville's streets absolutely free.

Another stocking would carry the Jackson racing meet for Northville Downs.

Instead of receiving the new "memory" pills, the Christmas candy for city and township officials would contain amnesia potion that would make them forget their differences. And for the future, the Christmas cookies would drug them into forgiving their respective shortcomings.

We mustn't forget the Northville board of education and our school administrators. Their needs are many.

First of all their candy would contain a potion that would enable them to see into the future and thereby accurately predict all our school building needs.

They would find two able principals to fill present vacancies, water and sewer facilities would miraculously become available for the new elementary and an anonymous donor would give them enough money to tear down the old junior high school and replace it with a facility designed for present needs.

The potion would also eject a spray of goodwill that would intoxicate board members, administrators, teachers and even the press.

Finally, I'd include a package for the writer of this column. This selection would be undertaken with great objectivity so that it might truly represent the feeling of our readers, who would be the sender.

It's a beautifully wrapped package. But I'm a little worried about that ticking sound.

Merry Christmas.

I'll Be Home Late, Tonight

ONE YEAR AGO

--A fifteen month drought for 18 families in the Northville township subdivision of Plymouth Gardens ended last week end, when installation of pipes was completed bringing Detroit water to the subdivision. Some residents of the subdivision haven't had water since October of 1963.

--Perhaps the tallest Christmas tree yet recorded this holiday season belongs to the George Norton's of 1087 Allen Drive, Northville. The tree which fills a corner of their living room is 14 feet high, and had to be trimmed from the original 17 feet.

--The Northville planning commission last week granted permission to Glenn Long to build a new building on Dunlap street. The 20 by 100 foot structure will house Long's plumbing and heating business. The new building will take over functions of Long's previous building on Seven Mile road which was sold to Reef Manufacturing. Reef plans to move to Northville from Warren early next year.

--Wixom goodfellows have a message of good cheer: The annual newspaper sale was a success netting $299.08 that will be used by them to purchase food, clothing and toys for the members of 13 families.

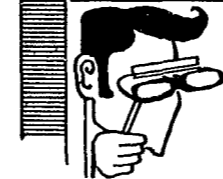

FIVE YEARS AGO

--Work on the new steeple for the First Methodist church is well underway with completion due in three months. When completed the $10,000 tower will contain the old city clock which has been converted to electricity and the bell which will ring every hour.

--Northville Downs gained an extra two nights of racing after a public hearing last week. Racing Commissioner James Ingles announced that the downs will open June 23 and run for 36 nights.

--The Northville Junio Chamber of Commerce plans to restore the old fire truck which for years was used by the department. The

OUT OF THE PAST

Jaycees plan to restore the old and beaten truck and adopt it as a "club mascot" to display at various community functions.

--Nearly 50 baskets of food and dozens of boxes of toys and clothing will be delivered to needy Novi families as a result of the Novi Goodfellows work. The money was raised by sponsoring a pancake breakfast, a newspaper sale and from canisters placed in businesses.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO --The Christmas season was ushered in Sunday evening when the Community Chorus presented Handel's "Messiah" at the Presbyterian church. The chorus was joined by four music students from the U of M and is under the direction of Leslie Lee.

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO --The first Annual Christmas Charity Ball, sponsored by the Exchange club, was held December 20 in the high school gymnasium. Decorating the gym for the event was Tom Edmondson, Fred VanEtta and Carl Ely.

--More than 30 business and civic leaders joined in the selling of the Northville Record for the first Annual Goodfellows sale to benefit Eastlawn and Maybury Sanatoriums.

State Employees Paid More Than Bosses

LANSING — Increased salary rates for state agency heads probably gained a few legislative votes recently when Gus Harrison resigned as director to take a lower, civil service post within the corrections Department.

The legislature has been asked more than once by Gov. George Romney to raise the pay levels of the top state administrators. Each request has been turned down.

Romney contends it is inconsistent with good business practice to have a situation where the head of a department is outranked in salary by one or more of the employees under him.

In the corrections instance, Harrison as director was paid $20,000 a year. He now will take a civil service classified position as deputy director for field services which will pay him more than $20,000 including the fringe benefits and security of the merit rating classification.

Harrison's new position is not the only one in the department which pays at this level. Also to be considered is the fact that civil service rates will be boosted again in July while the director's salary is fixed from year to year by legislative dictate. As director Harrison and other department heads were subject to "the pleasure of the governor" or a board or commission empowered to hire and fire unclassified administrators.

IT WAS pointed out in the pleas for administrative pay hikes that the corrections case is not an isolated one. The same thing is true in several other departments, particularly where professionals are needed below the No. 1 spot.

Legislators have tended to take a rather selfish attitude on the matter. Their primary concern seems to be with their own financial rank; that if they who write the laws administered by department heads are not worth more than the present pay, then the department chiefs must certainly be well enough paid now.

Loss of Harrison, and perhaps others who have left these positions without specifically citing this reason, might bring legislators to the realization that competent professional administrators demand and probably deserve higher salaries than the people they supervise.

INTERESTING results are likely to be seen in 1966 on another aspect of the question of pay rates for public servants.

This would be the individual responses, as well as the collective attitude of legislators regarding their own worth.

A study is in process by a special 12-member commission appointed on a 50-50 basis by the governor and the State Senate. It has been asked to determine what Michigan legislators should be paid.

LEGISLATORS are prohibited from raising their own salary during a term. Since Senate terms become four years long in 1967, any pay change must be passed next year or wait until 1971 to be effective.

Likely the survey being taken by the special commission will provide only anonymous results but it would probably be very interesting to see how specific individuals consider themselves in monetary value.

No doubt there will be legislators, who spend a minimum of time and effort on official business, who think they should be paid twice the present $12,500. On the other side there would be a number of very conscientious men who spend long hours on the job, consider themselves public servants and are happy with the going rate. There are still others who work hard and feel they deserve more money.

The numerical strength of these two extremes and the variations between will give the commission much of the information on which it bases its recommendations to the 1966 legislature.

PRE-HOLIDAY warm spells should have provided a special warning to Michigan residents about the traditional winter recreation activities.

Normally by this time of year ice skating and fishing would be in full swing but this year is considerably different except in the northernmost sections where the cold hit hard, early and remained.

The long-awaited treat of ice on lakes and streams can be a very serious threat to the lives of over-anxious youngsters caught up in the holiday-vacation season.

State Police warn that ice may look thick and safe enough to walk and slide on even when it may actually be too thin to hold even a small child's weight.

Parents must teach winter safety as importantly as traffic awareness. A child must be cautioned against venturing on ice before determining if it is thick enough.

ICE ON DEEP water should be several inches thick, preferably about four. Awareness of rescue devices and method in the event of a breakthrough must also be taught. Even with thick ice, breaks may be caused by underwater currents.

Long branches, poles, ropes or a ladder should be handy in case the unexpected occurs. This advice from State Police holds true for adults as well as children.

Winter drownings are not limited to adventuresome children but frequently also include hunters, fishermen and other adult outdoor fans who travel over frozen lakes or streams.
