Principals City to Seek Grant Want Pay Boosts For Land Purchases

A proposal that ultimately may lead to an increase in salaries for principals will soon be presented to the Northville board of education.

Word of the proposal was disclosed by Northville's principals in a letter read here Monday night. In that letter the principals noted that the gap between teacher and principal salaries has narrowed to a point where there is little, distinction between the two levels.

In view of this situation, the principals said they are preparing a proposal for the board's information in which some criteria for principal salaries are spelled out. Board members were invited to sit in with principalsas they work on the proposal.

Questioned Tuesday, Board Presi-Wilfred Becker said similar studies are planned at the board level in considering the even narrower gap between salaries of principals and higher level administrators. Some time ago the board looked at this problem in "our work sessions" and agreed to study it in depth prior to January, Becker said.

"We've never really come up with some rationale in establishing administrative salaries. It's something we've got to do," he said.

Here are the present salaries of principals and top administrators:

Superintendent Alex Nelson, $15,600; Assistant Superintendent Raymond Spear, $14,300; Administrative Assistant Elroy Ellison, $13,700; Main Street High School Principal Fred Holdsworth, $14,000; Principal Harry Smith and Junior High Principal Donald Van-Ingen, $12,500 each; Moraine Principal Milton Jacobi, $12,000; Amerman Principal Roy Stoddard, $12,000; and Assistant High School Principal Ron Horwath, $11,000.

Four Tapped

Four appointments to fill vacancies on city boards were made Monday night by the city council.

Named to the board of appeals were James Allen and David Biery. They succeed Jefferson Baker and Alfred Parmenter. James Cutler succeeds Charles Carrington on the board of review and Mrs. Louese Cansfield was named to take the place of Mrs. E. A. Chapman on the library commission.

A joint city council-planning commission meeting prompted by planners' rejection of a rezoning request to permit expanded operation of a service station within the central business district triggered a new proposal last week. As planning commission members defended their stand against rezoning, seriously consider purchase of some 107 feet of Main street property that would have been sold to an oil company for the station expansion. City Manager Frank Ollendorff re-

it was proposed that the city should vealed that "advance acquisition grants" are available from the federal government to assist communities which need certain sites for future development so that they can buy them as they become available.

The council-planner problem involves property on Main street adjacent to the Pure Oil station at Wing and Main. It extends from the station to the entrance to the city's parking lot. Formerly the Rathburn Chevrolet agency, the building is still owned by Rathburn. Pure Oil representatives have taken an option on the site and had sought rezoning to permit rebuilding and expansion of the service station. Planners rejected the proposal on the basis that it was not good use for the

Police to Enforce Parking Limits

A program of strict enforcement of parking restrictions in the city of Northville will begin Monday.

The objective of the councilendorsed move is to provide more available parking in the business district for both shoppers and commercial area employees.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff announced that three new metered lots would be ready Monday. These lots will contain meters that will register up to 12 hours. They are specifically designed to accommodate employees and persons who expect to spend several hours in the downtown district.

The lots slated for meters that will be ready Monday include the North Wing street lot, which has already been paved; the alley-lot adjacent to the Presbyterian church; and a non-paved lot on Dunlap street near Hutton.

Other city-owned lots slated for long-hour meters as soon as they are leveled include a Dunlap street lot from which a house will soon be moved, and the Main street lot where the former John Mach building is currently being razed. By next spring all the off-street, metered lots will be paved, the city manager stated.

All other city-owned parking lots. located nearer stores, will remain unmetered but two-hour parking limits will be enforced.

City Manager Ollendorff noted that the city now has a full eight-man force under Police Chief Samuel Elkins, In the past the city has been criticized for its haphazard parking enforcement, which oftentimes permitted violations to continue days, while short-period overtime parkers were fined.

Thorough, regular enforcement is now promised.

Employees will be encouraged to use the metered lots to permit shoppers to use more convenient lots and metered spaces at the curbs..

A new fine schedule, which will boost overtime parking fines, has been approved by the council. It will not become effective until new tickets are printed, however, which will be February or March, Manager Ollendorff

Under the planning commission's central business district plan the area would be converted to offstreet parking. Service stations are placed on the perimeter of the CBD.

While most councilmembers have expressed agreement with the planners' stand, Mayor A. M. Allen has been reluctant. At last week's joint session he sought to learn "how soon" the site would be needed for parking; he wondered how the tax base would compare with the proposed service station improvement; and he suggested that money for CBD development might have to wait for more important projects, such as a north-south route.

He also warned that care should be exercised in rejecting business proposals for fear of discouraging busi-

Planning Chairman George Zerbel pointed out that the city's central business district is already limited. He said that if a new building were to be erected on the Rathburn site the city's chances of qualifying for urban renewal would be endangered. Planners also noted that many rezoning requests threaten to damage the central business district.

Manager Ollendorff was instructed to explore acquisition of the property by the city. He said this week that a government field agent is slated to be in Northville December 7 to discuss federal programs as they apply to Northville. The manager explained that grants to pay interest on advance acquisitions are available. He noted that such parcels (as Rathburnis), if available at a fair price before actually needed by a city for its urban renewal program, could be acquired with assistance so long as the proposed program

Poet, Cabinetmaker Harold Hartley Dies

Harold S. Hartley, a cabinet maker who used the music of Bach and other masters as the catalyst in writing thousands of poems, died suddenly of a heart attack Saturday night at St. Mary

He was stricken earlier in the day while working at a school in a neighboring community.

The 59-year-old Northville resident who lived with his wife, Catherine, and son, Harold, Jr., at 630 Randolph, had been a resident of the community for the past 21 years.

Born October 10, 1907 in New York City, he was the son of George and Eleanore (Deering) Hartley, both of whom preceded him in death.

He was graduated from Gorton high school in Yonkers, and after a few years of working at a variety of jobs, attended New York university and spent 2,1/2 years at the University of Wisconsin under a Zona Gale literary scholarship. He was forced to give up his studies during the Depression, but later attended Wayne State university for advanced literary studies.

Early in life he had been involved in union organization work and Democratic politics, and for a brief while had been a radio commentator.

In more recent years he turned to carpentry as his livelihood. Several years ago he was named manager of the Secretary of State's office here, a job he combined with that of assisting his wife in operating Hartley-Powers Art

But his real love was poetry - an avocation he took up at the age of 48. He wrote thousands of poems, most of which are yet unpublished. Perhaps his most famous, though not his favorite nor his best, was a tribute to a poet, inspired following an appearance at Wayne State university of Salvatore Quasimodo, Italian poet and Nobel Prize

The poem, which thoroughly impressed the Nobel Prize winner, was published in a book entitled, Poetry From Hidden Springs.

As a memorial to Mr. Hartley, the local area Writers' Group of which he was founder and president, has launched a fund for financing the publishing of many of his poems.

Only recently Mr. Hartley had combined his love for poetry and carpentry in turning out wood art pieces, one of which was recently selected for display at the Detroit Institute of Arts. One critic called it one of the two finest pieces of art exhibited in the show by Michigan artists.

Besides his wife and son, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Eleanor Molloy of Los Angeles, California, and three brothers, Eugene of Yonkers, and George and Norman of New York City.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday from the Casterline Funeral Home, with the Rev. Lloyd Brasure officiating. Burial was at Rural Hill Cemetery.

Office to Re-Open

Because of the death of Harold S. Hartley, the secretary of state's auto license plate office has been closed this week.

Broken Main Story Wouldn't Hold Water

A report that water would be cutoff here last week because of a broken main in Livonia was too full of holes to hold any water.

And even if the story had been leakproof, chances that Northville would have been affected are pretty slim, according to City Manager Frank Ollenappear on page 8-A. Like the busy preparing for Christmas, too. candymakers, most merchants are Stores are now open evenings til 9.

Nevertheless, because television and daily newspapers advised residents of an impending water crisis based upon reports of Wayne county officials, area residents stored up water and deluged officials here with telephone Northville's DPW Director Herman Hartner reported that he wasanswering questions of worried citizens "for over an hour". In neighboring Plymouth, some 300 calls were received. And even in Novi, a community not mentioned in the report, citizens called to inquire about the "stoppage".

The break Wednesday at the intersection of Farmington and Five Mile roads, residents were told, would affect some 40,000 people in Northville, Northville township and Plymouth township. Residents were advised to store up water because the line would be shut-down to permit repair of the dam-

Later, however, the report was labeled a false one.

According to Ollendorf, there's little reason to believe that a break of this kind would ever affect the water supply of the city. He gave several reasons:

 Detroit water is supplied to Northville by two different lines. - A 24-hour supply is located in the water tower and the reservoir.

- The city's own wells, which are maintained on a standby basis, could supply residents with water during an emergency.

Flower Shop Owner To Speak Tomorrow

"Getting the Most Out of Your Christmas Flowers' will be demonstrated for Northville Woman's club members and guests by Harold G. Hutchings at the club's tea meeting at 2 p.m. Friday in Northville Presbyterian church.

Associated with the floral industry since 1928, Mr. Hutchings opened his own shop in 1943 and has been in his present Grand River location since 1952.

He has a country-wide reputation in floral circles and is active in the Florists' Transworld Delivery association, serving on numerous committees of the association. At present he represents region four, including Michigan, Ohio and portions of Kentucky and Ontario, on the association board of directors. He was general chairman of the association's' international convention which brought 3000 florists and their families from all over the world to Detroit and which was the first convention held in Cobo hall. The speaker has been a guest designer and commentator at state and national design schools. He has served on the board of directors of the Michigan State Florists' association for 15 years and is a past president.

EDITOR'S NOTE-Following is the first of a series of biographical sketches of the men and women who make up the Northville police department. The first concerns Northville's new police chief.

******

Milkman to patrolman to detective to police chief - that's a synopsis of the young man who heads up the eight men and five women of the Northville police department.

Chief Samuel Elkins, 30, was born and raised in Dearborn, lived for a time in Taylor township and finally moved to Inkster where he started his police career less than a decade ago.

While attending high school, Elkins worked for the Taylor township department of public works. Upon graduating, he became a milkman for the Detroit Creamery. Four years later, at the age of 22, he joined the Inkster police department.

After receiving the regular interdepartmental training supervised by the chief and the lieutenant in charge of Inkster's uniform division, Elkins quickly impressed his superiors with his desire to learn and his willingness to accept responsibility. Soon, though still a patrolman, he became an acting desk sergeant, filling in for men on vacation and sick leave.

Meanwhile, he took classafter class in police work. He attended an FBI school, took a 16-week course in police practice, procedures and science at the Dele Hanty Institute in New York, a police law course at Wayne State university, two courses at the Detroit Police Academy, a police administra-tive course at the University of Michigan, a basic casualty care class through Wayne county, and classes through the Southeastern Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police.

Twice during the five years as a patrolman, Elkins took an examination for rank of sergeant and scored tops in the department. But because he had little seniority, he was bypassed in favor of men with more seniority but with lower examination scores.

Finally, however, because of his exceptional police work, he was promoted to the detective bureau. After attending a fingerprinting and photography school, he became the department's expert in these two areas.

But it was his work in combating vice that most impressed his superiors. Gaining his experience as a patrolman while assisting four other officersafter regular working hours, Elkins was a key in nipping a growing vice rate in Inkster, particularly in the area of narcotics.

By the time he became a detective, his experience in combating vice was almost as great as that of the veteran detectives with whom he worked. The Inkster police chief was about to name Elkins to head up a five-man vice squad when he accepted the police chief's position here early last summer.

A former tank crew chief with the rank of staff sergeant, Elkins met his viie, Ella, in Tennessee where she was attending the University of Tennessee. Married in 1957, they have a six-yearold boy, Donald, who attends Amerman elementary school.

The Elkins live at 943 Carrington.

Steal Tools

Tools valued at $800 to $1,000, $110 worth of cigarettes and about $10 in coin were stolen from two separate Novi business establishments last week.

The tools and the box containing them were stolen from a shop building on the Erie Trailer Manufacturing company property, 25701 Seeley road. There was no forced entry, police said. The theft was reported at 4:02 p.m. on November 22.

Monday night included the approval of an after-school and Saturday morning intramural program for high school girls and boys, and instruction to the architect to prepare and submit an overpass proposal to the Oakland county road department.

Although the intramural concept was approved, James Kipfer and Eugene Cook questioned the advisability of conducting this activity on Saturday. However, Superintendent Nelson pointed out that the added day was needed. Furthermore, he and Stan Johnston noted that by conducting intramural activities Saturday morning it will help alleviate over-crowding of the city-township recreation program by attracting away high-school age students.

Nelson said neither the times nor the supervisory personnel for the program have been established. He said the program, worked out by the athletic director, would include a variety of sports such as basketball, ping pong, volley ball, etc.

After reporting the steps necessary for installing an overpass at Moraine elementary school to Northville Estates subdivision, Architectural Representative Robert Tucker was instructed to prepare a survey of the area, determine the "best" location of an overpass, and submit it together with a plan of the facility to the road department.

Only after the road department has given its approval can an overpass become a reality, Tucker told board members. He said he was not aware of the kind of investigation that county officials would then conduct nor could he estimate the time it would take for the investigation.

(Latest architectural estimate for the opening of Moraine is sometime in January.) Tucker, who has been reviewing various plans of manufacturers, estimated the cost at $25,000. The overpass, he said, would be of steel construction with woven wire sides and top. Specific location of the overpass, he said, must meet county road requirements. Nevertheless, he is to show representatives of the subdivision association the site location he comes up with prior to submission to the county.

--Ratification of a contract to John Bentley, who is working on his doctorate at the University of Michigan, for teaching instrumental music here for the balance of the school year. --Approval of a $50.31 per-student

Other board matters included:

charge for transportation of non-district school children (it involves some 12 students from the Wash-Oak school district). -- Adoption of a resolution of intent

Senior Prom Headed Back to Meadowbrook

It's a pretty safe bet that the senior prom will be held again at Meadowbrook Country Club this school year. An earlier student request for permission to hold the prom at Botsford Inn was withdrawn Monday night.

Students substituted an alternate proposal that the prom be held on a Thursday at Meadowbrook with seniors being dismissed from classes on the afternoon of the event and on the following day.

Deemed an administrative matter by the board, the proposal was referred to Superintendent Alex Nelson, who indicated Tuesday that it probably would receive "favorable" action. A decision was to be made Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the board is weighing the possibility of adopting a policy to govern future prom locations.

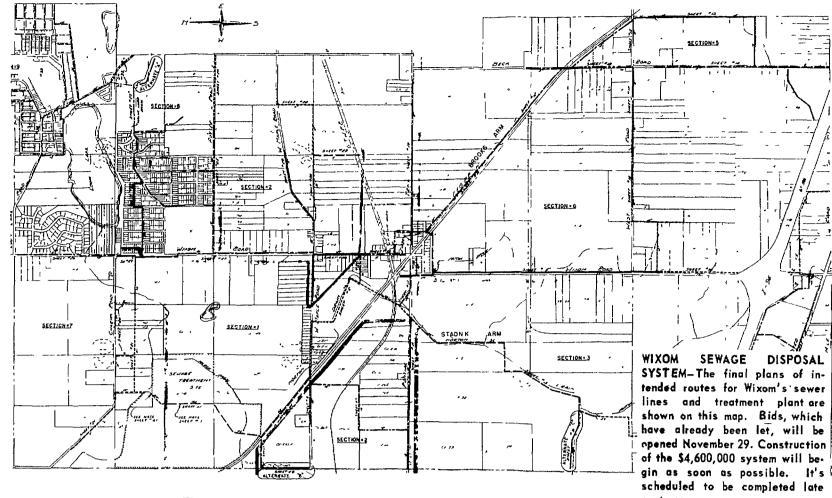

The Botsford suggestion had sparked objections of the board because of the distance involved and because of an undesirable atmosphere. At that time seniors had explained that Meadowbrook was not selected because there were no Friday or Saturday dates open at Meadowbrook in May.

Exam Set In 'Torture' Case

Examination of a 21-year-old Detroit woman, charged with torturing a child at the Plymouth State Home and Training school, was adjourned Friday in Northville Municipal court until December 19.

At her arraignment last Friday, Miss Lapsley, an employee at the school, pleaded not guilty to the charge and bond was set at $2500. Examination, which was originally scheduled for last Monday, was then postponed.

On November 14, a 14-year-oldgirl who lives at the training school suffered multiple injuries, bruises and abrasions, apparently the result of a beating inflicted with a hair brush and fists, officials state.

Panel to Discuss College Aid

Workships and field trips will take Schoolcraft College administrators and trustees to Washington, D.C., and Florida next week.

Dr. Eric J. Bradner, Schoolcraft president, and Howard Kahn, assistant to the president, will attend a workshop on federal programs for junior college administrators in Washington, December 5-6.

The two-day meeting is sponsored by the American Association of Junior Colleges and involves panel discussions on existing and projected federal programs related to junior and community colleges.

From December 6 to December 10 three Schoolcraft administrators and three trustees will participate in a field trip that will take them to the campuses of five colleges in Miami, Boca Raton, Fort Lauderdale and Palm Beach, Florida.

Attending from Schoolcraft will be Dean of Student Affairs Edward V. McNally, Business Manager W. Kenneth Lindner, Dean of Academic Instruction Robert K. Stenger, and college trustees James Boswell, Livonia; Leroy C. Bennett, Livonia and Sam Hudson, Plymouth

The field trip is an annual activity sponsored by the Midwest Community College Leadership Program, a cooperative agency of the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University, and supported in part by the W.K. Kellogg Foundation.

Horse Owners Kick Up Their Heels

Township planning commission members learned last week that Northville township is still very much a "horsey community".

About 100 horse-owners jammed the township hall to overflowing causing a last-minute switch of the November 22 meeting to the high school cafeteria.

They left no doubt about their feelings regarding the newly adopted amendment to the zoning ordinance dealing with the keeping of horses: it's too restrictive, they state flatly.

The group's spokesman, Frank Angle, told the planners this and presented them with a proposed amendment to replace the existing amendment.

Planning Chairman Gunnar Stromberg promised that the commission would consider their recommendations for revision and suggested that members of the horse-owners committee meet with planners in discussing possible changes.

Biggest thorn in the sides of horseowners is the acreage requirements for the keeping of horses. Formerly, it had been one acre per horse. Under the newly adopted amendment it is three acres for the first horse, two additional acres each for the next two horses, and five additional acres each for each horse thereafter.

The planning commission got involved in the amendment for keeping horses when the subject was not covered in the township's new zoning ordinance adopted last March. Omission of the section covering the keeping of horses meant that the old ordinance, which had allowed one horse per acre, no longer existed.

Planners then set out to draft a new proposal. A public hearing was called for May 31 to consider an amendment that provided for a minimum lot of two acres for one horse in a one-family residence area, and one additional acre per additional horse.

In study sessions following the May public hearing planners decided to increase the restrictions, however. Their recommendations were passed on to the township board and finally approved at the October 4 meeting.

When horseowners became aware of the tighter controls, they let their feelings be known, both verbally and by petition.

Supervisor R. D. Merriam, who voiced reservations about the new amendment when it was adopted, immediately appointed a study committee to come up with some new recommendations. Next the township board returned the matter to the planners for reconsideration.

Township Attorney John Ashton explained at last week's meeting that planners could now act to amend the amendment, or return it to the township board unchanged. He said the board has the final authority to accept or reject the recommendations of the planning commission.

It was agreed the planners would turn their attention to proposed revisions at their regular December meeting, which normally falls on the final Tuesday of the month.

In his presentation to planners last week spokesman Angle called the new amendment "unreasonable and unduly restrictive." He pointed out that 586 non-horseowning residents of the township had signed petitions against the amendment as well as 112 horseowners who own some 267 horses. He estimated that this was only about 60% of the owners involved, but that time had not permitted contacting them

Angle's report further claimed that the ordinance would diminish the value of property. He stated that present township residents desire to "maintain the rural atmosphere" and that the amendment marks "a major step toward urbanization."

Angle, as well as several other horseowners, told planners that enforcement was needed more than stricter ordinances. They stated that the original ordinance, if enforced, would have been adequate.

Several of the horse-owners were visibly angry. "Without horses, Northville would be off the map," one stated to spontaneous applause. Others pointed out that they had purchased acreage in Northville solely for the purpose of keeping horses, either for recreation, show, or as a business. One horse-owner pointed out that he had erected a 22-stall barn at a cost of some $50,000 that would be restricted to six horses under the new amendment. Still another said that she had invested $25,000 in land that could not be used as planned under the new ordinance.

Planners defended their purpose in tightening the horse-keeping ordinance by noting that many people do not like horses near their residences and that they must be protected.

But horse-owners insisted that adequate protection could be provided with a more lement acreage requirement and better enforcement.

Specifically, the horse-owners recommended the following amendment for the keeping of horses, donkeys, mules and ponies as an accessory use to a one family residence:

1—One horse shall be allowed per acre.

2-An accessory building to be used as a private stable shall be no less than 25 feet from any lot line and no less than 100 feet from any dwelling located on an adjoining lot

3—The horses shall be confined in a suitably fenced area, or paddock, in such a manner that they may not approach any closer than 50 feet from any dwelling on an adjoining lot. The fenced area or paddock shall be placed no closer than 10 feet from the lot line unless the express written consent of adjoining landowner is obtained.

4-Stables shall be kept clean and manure shall be treated and handled in such a manner as to control odor and flies and shall be suitably screened from view.

5-Non-conforming uses existing at the time of passage of this ordinance shall be allowed to continue. Such nonconforming use shall continue through abandonment or disuse for a period of 12 consecutive months from the date of abandonment or disuse.

6-Two (2) ponies of up to but not including 56 inches shall be permitted in place of each horse as per ordinance.

7-No horse shall be allowed to run at large.

last quarter to win over South Lyon, 64-53, in the opening basketball game of the season Tuesday.

South Lyon led until two minutes had expired in that final period, and enjoyed a 10-point lead midway in the third period. Then the Lions seemingly ran out of gas, scoring only three free throws and none of 13 field goal attempts in the finale.

Coach Dave Longridge of Northville pointed to a double switch of Mustang defensive tactics which capitalized on South Lyon's weariness. For the final four minutes of the third period Northville zone pressed. Then in the fourth period they employed a running man to Mustang forward Jim Peterson provided two quick set shots from the corner to bring his team to within one point, 52-51, and then Chuck Frogner, opposite forward, hit a free throw to tie it up with six minutes remaining. Guard Joe Andrewsflipped in a jumper from the top of the key and Frogner swished a long set shot while South Lyon went scoreless.

With the score standing 58-52 then in Northville's favor, Northville stalled and South Lyon saw the score mount against them as the Lions fouled desperately to get the ball.

High point honors were shared by Peterson and Lion forward Bruce Taylor with 17 each. South Lyon guard Chuck Bayol was next high with 15. Mustangs Glenn Deibert, with 12, and Jim Zayti, with 10, were the only others in double figures.

South Lyon center Don Deaton was game-high rebounder. He led a threeperiod defensive assault on the backboards that was a large measure of the Lions' early success. His defensive work played a large part in limiting Mustang center Zayti to just two field goals.

Zayti and Lionforward Larry Brown both ran into early foul trouble, accumulating four each in the first half. Zayti fouled out just before the Northville press that signaled the turning point. Brown scored eight points while playing less than half the game.

Bill Thomas, South Lyon coach, cited weak overall defensive work and apparent tiring as the downfall of a quintet that showed "potential."

Longridge said he thought his players were "coming along" and that the play of reserve guard Pat Hall in the final minutes while substituting for Dennis Mathews provided the turning

Problems? He's Got 'em

So you think you've got problems? Then consider for a moment the headaches of Schoolcraft's head basketball coach, Bob Leggat:

- The local quintet failed to win a game in 18 outings last year.

- Over a two-year period, Schoolcraft won but two of 32 games.

 After winning the first two games in their own invitational tournament here two weeks ago, Schoolcraft cagers dropped the final championship game.

- Two starters, the tallest members of the team, were injured in the semifinal game of the tourney and may be lost for a good part of the season.

- Buoyed by a relatively good showing in that tourney, optimism proved premature as Schoolcraft dropped its opening game of the regular season with Dearborn Community college, 106-62, last week Wednesday.

Prospects Dim

As Wrestlers

- Because of injuries or sickness only seven players dressed for last week's game.

- Of the seven, only one was a starter from previous games.

- And next week Wednesday Schoolcraft opens its home stand here against a squad considered to be one of the finest small college teams in the state.

Says Leggat: "I don't like to sound like a continual complainer, but we have some real problems."

Nevertheless, Leggat sees better times ahead. An unexpected 'bright spot", according to the coach, developed in last week's lopsided loss in Dearborn, Fred Neil, 5' 9" Clarenceville grad who just joined the squad after competing on the college's crosscountry team, made an impressive first showing.

Neil, who had only a few practice sessions under his belt, was the second highest scorer for Schoolcraft, picking up seven field goals and a free throw.

The leading scorer was John Felmet, who scored 15 points. Normally a forward. Felmet was pressed into a backcourt position because of the player shortage, said Leggat, and did a good

Dearborn, which had little difficulty in disposing of Schoolcraft, led at halftime, 52-29.

"It wasn't much of a match," concluded the coach, "but I was plenty proud of the kids. They did very well in view of the situation."

Schoolcraft, which was scheduled to take on Concordia JC last night in Ann Arbor, will open its home schedule at the Northville community building next Wednesday night with the powerful quintet from Flint JC.

Local Horses Win String of Honors

"They're practically out of the same pasture."

That's become a pretty standard observation of folks who attend the annual Hi-Point Awards Banquet of the Justin Morgan Horse association,

And why not? It's a fairly accurate comment, judging from the way Morgans from the Northville-South Lyon area dominate the awards circle year after year.

Take the ninth annual banquet held on November 19 at the Stratford room of the Inn America in Ann Arbor. Nearly half of the 19 award winners from throughout the state were from this

And the biggest prize - the Billy B. Geddes Hi-Point Perpetual Trophy went to a South Lyon Morgan owner. It's significant, too, that the top prize derives its name from a champion Morgan from Northville that died a couple vears back.

Winner of the ton prize, originated by Eddie and Edie Earehart of Northville and awarded to the high-point winner each year, was Deerfield's Pamela, owned by Walter Kane of South

Deerfield's Pamela also garnered champion awards in the saddle and fine harness divisions.

Two other Morgans from the Kane farm, located on Pontiac road at Nine Mile, also captured prizes. Kane's Baby Doll won the championship award in junior fine harness, and Kane's Show Bar, captured the reserve championship award in the English pleasure

David Earehart of Northville was awarded the reserve championship award in the western equitation championship; Gladgay's Grand March, owned by T. H. Roberts of Plymouth took the reserve championship award in saddle and the reserve saddle championship award; and Ruthven's Kay Ann, owned by R. J. Stambaugh of Walled Lake captured the championship award in the western pleasure class.

The awards, presented by Emcee David C. Batton of South Lyon as 160 persons watched, are made on the basis of points earned in showsover the year.

The Justin Morgan Horse association is Michigan's Morgan horse club. It holds a regular monthly meeting in the Salein township hall - the last Saturday of each month.

One of the club's big events of the year is the All-Morgan Horse Show that it sponsors each year usually in August. The last three of the shows were held at the Washtenaw County Farm Council Grounds in Saline.

The club also conducts trail rides and two annual banquets.

One of the founders of the club, Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven of Ann Arbor, also is considered the founder of the Morgan breed in Michigan.

The original Morgan breed has been traced back to an itinerant teacher, Justin Morgan, who in 1791 found himself the owner of a three-year-old gelding and a two-year-old bay colt "tossed for good measure" as payment for work done for a Massachusetts farm-

Little is known of the gelding, but the colt was the beginning of a famous breed that today includes well over 8,000 registered Morgans.

Young Novi Faces Tough '66-67 Slate

There's no place for weak hearts in Novi's remaining eight games. The all-sophomore Wildcats will play West Bloomfield, a member of the Wayne-Oakland conference, twice.

To carry the Novi banner, Coach James Ladd, who formerly coached the frosh at Sandusky, will rely on 11 cagers. There's his starting five of Jon Van Wagner, Joe Morrison, Gary Boyer. Lee Snow and Ken Osborn, plus reserves Pat Haley, Jim Poole, Chris Bowman, Doug Keith, Paul Faulkner and Randy Beach.

At 6'1" Van Wagner, whom Ladd tabs "the best all-around performer," will get the call at one guard, while Boyer, at 5'8", will be at the other "We need two strong boys at guard who can beat the press." Ladd said, "that's why I'm going with Boyer and Van Wagner at the guards."

Morrison and Snow, both 6'2", give Novi some needed height on the front line. Morrison, Ladd says, is a rugged rebounder who will handle the pivot. Snow and Osborn will be playing for-

Novi's jayvees, all of whom are ninth graders, will have a tough go against other jayvees, made up of ninth and 10th graders. Besides the preliminary jayvee contests, the ninth graders will also play four ninth grade teams.

Coaching the jayvees (ninth graders) is Milan Obrenovich.

Eye Opener Chances that Northville will have its first winning wrestling season are dim at this point. So says Coach Jack Townsley, who has been putting 30 to 35 grapplers through tough practice sessions, preparing for tomorrow's opener at Farmington, a class 'A' high school. "I had hopes of having the first winning season in Northville's history," he moaned. 'thut if we can't fill in properly in the heavier weights, we'll be in trouble." That was Northville's weakness last year - lack of beef that could consistently bring home the bacon. It cost Northville in the won-loss column, for the Mustangs posted a 6-9 record. But it's not all gloom at the high school. According to Townsley, "We'll definitely be stronger in the lower brackets." In fact, there's an overflow of lighter talent. Townsley rattled off a string of promising wrestlers. There's Dave Grondin, a 95 pounder,

Co-captain Chuck Keagen at 103 pounds,

Letterman Bob Baber, Jon Gustaf and "a real goodprospect," Chuck Olewnik, all at 112. Olewnik may also get the call at 120 pounds. There's Letterman Bob Hove and Co-captain Marty Richardson, also at 120 pounds.

It's the same story from 127 to 145. Letterman Tom Wright at 127 is sure to see ample action, as are Kurt Olewnik and Don Sasse at 127 or 133 pounds. Looking better with each practice is Kerry Ludtke, 138, and Letterman Dale A shbey at 145.

Although they lack the polish of trained veterans, the freshmen are helping to boost Townsley's spirits. "They're good, tough kids," the coach said. Unfortunately, they too don't have the needed weight to dispel Townsley's foreboding. Prime prospects for years to come are Mark Griffin, 95 pounds; Jim Armstrong, 112, Brian Jones and Ed Beller, both 127; Randy Marburger, 138, and David Wicke, 165. Heavyweight Dan Conklin, the football tackle, is the only youth in the heavier classes who is a proven veteran. Unless the "light weights" score consistently and heavily, the burden of pulling the team into the winner's circle will fall to the untried, but willing shoulders of Bob White and Greg Wikaryasz, both at 154 pounds, Bob Beason

"We're too thin in the heavier weights. We need more bigger boys,' Townsley moaned. Northville will host Dearborn Crestwood Tuesday for the home opener.

at 165 and Rick Hammond at 180.

National Recognition for Riddering

He's Named Top Teacher

A Salem man has been picked as one of the 10 most outstanding foreign language teachers in the United States.

Donald L. Riddering, 9706 Six Mile road, who heads up the foreign language department at Cooley high school, was chosen as one of 10 Master Teachers in the recent American Classical League Master Secondary School Latin Teach-

The coveted award was presented by the American Classical League coun-

Awai ds were based upon the findings of six judges, following a three-month search. Judges were professors of six different colleges and universities in the United States.

A former member of the South Lyon board of education, Riddering has been a member of the Cooley staff for a dozen years, the last six as head of the school's foreign language department.

Each of the candidates, according to The Classical World publication, "without exception, merited the titled Master

"There are, however, 10 programs among the 32 considered for the award possessing distinctive features which make them worthy of special attention ... The choice of these 10 teachers and programs is a subjective one ... but the basic criterion for selection was an affirmative answer to the query: Is this a different approach and does it hold something for others?' The answer was 'yes' in the case of these 10."

Cooley is a large, comprehensive high school, offering four year programs in French, Latin, and Spanish. Within the general program of fouryear Latin with the usual authors, the high school has a group of 30 students involved in a special honors program.

The goal of the honors program, Riddering explains, is to provide an opportunity for selected pupils to study both Latin and modern foreign languages - since both experiences should be a part of superior liberal arts

Under this format, youngsters selected by junior high schools take second-year Latin three days per week while also taking beginning French the other two days.

Students are expected to cover the regular requirements of Latin without actual acceleration. Cooley also has a comparable group of French students who continue with second-year French on a three-day schedule and study beginning Latin on the other two days. In this way, foreign language students are given an opportunity of studying two languages without being compelled to resort to the two-year sequence.

'We have tried to remove that terrible choice of either Latin or a modern foreign language," Riddering explains. "It should be both!"

To the Editor:

In view of the recent letters about the United Nations, it seems that some of us are getting misinterpreted international facts. It also seems that too many Americans have become iconoclasts, advancing our own cause and ideas over others. We are becoming a self-centered society rather than being open to opinions and views of others. Perhaps these letters of objection come from those who are examples of this - perhaps these people are too American orientated to understand what the United Nations is.

We would like to make some comments on certain objections on some of last week's (Nov. 23) letters. To begin with, it was an American idea to establish the League of Nations, the forerunner of the present-day United Nations. The idea - and control - of a world peace organization has been in Western

If an adult is going to read one book about the U.N., he had better read them all, so he can form his own opinion. If we are going to use G. Edward Griffin's book for an exam-

It is a shame that some of our society has to depend on such people and not on themselves. If people can't stop and make factual opinions for themselves, it must be too late to help the American society.

Some Americans are so abscessed in their fear of Communism that they will not take time to reason out a proper attack. The United Nations has to have elements of Communism in it because it is a world organization, and Communism, unfortunately, does exist in our world society. It is a known fact that the United Nations is not controlled by Communists, but rather by the "Capitalists". There are facts to prove this. In order for a Communist sponsored resolution to become passed, it must have appeal for the Western powers, or it is doomed to failure. For about 21 years, the Communists have been saying that they have had little, if any, political power in the United Nations. The United Nations is not a stopping place for 'foreign spies', but for people who have an objective of reaching world peace and the best existence for all

Citizens Oppose Zoning Change For 'Retirees'

The initial fate of a nursing home, clinic, professional offices and retirement village complex is now in the hands of the Northville township planning commission following Tuesday night's stormy public hearing.

Recommendation to approve or disapprove the complex is expected to be reached by the commission's next regular meeting on December 27. It will then be up to the township board to make the final decision.

The zoning change request is that of Dr. Waldemar E. Gizynski, who plans the unique development on a 57-acre site on the north side of Seven Mile road, west of Marilyn. In addition to asking for a multiple family residential (RM) classification for the "retirement village" on the rear portion of the property, Dr. Gizynski also seeks an office service district (OS-1) classification for property fronting on Seven Mile road.

The entire project will cost an estimated $2 1/4-million, exclusive of land and sewer costs, James Littell, attorney for the doctor, said Tuesday.

In describing the project to the commission and to some 25 persons in the audience, Littell said it would include a 100-bed nursing home, clinic for treatment of patients, and a number of onestory ranch-type apartments with some 630 living units for elderly residents.

It is this latter proposal that sparked most of the citizens' objections Tuesday. Basically, they oppose the apartments because they claim they would adversely affect the value of adjoining property and create traffic problems. However, several voiced concern that if rezoning is granted there is no assurance that Dr. Gizynski will not resell the property to someone for development of standard multiple dwellings.

The fact that no detailed plans indicating apartment size have been developed for the property also drew criticism. Some citizens voiced concern too over the fact that the apartments would be open for rental to anyone, even though they are primarily intended for elderly persons needing diagnostic care.

With rental cost estimated at $125 per month or more, it was pointed out that the apartments will not be for families. Furthermore, Littell contended the complex would maintain the character of the surrounding area and be compatible with the township's master plan.

If the rezoning is granted, construction of the nursing home is expected to get underway next spring.

A Farmington man cited for reckless driving, two Detroit House of Correction escapees and a bundle of minors in the possession of liquor.

These were the signal cases brought before Judge Charles McDonald in Northville Municipal court last week.

Norman E. Fultz, 31, of Farmington pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and paid a fine of $75 and $10 costs. The infraction occurred November 10 on Griswold street and Eight

Lewis Krese, 25, and Henry E. Dean, 18, both of Detroit, were each sentenced to 30 additional days in the Detroit House of Correction for escaping from that institution. Originally sentenced May 24 to six months on a charge of contempt of court, Krese was reported escaped on September I. He was apprehended November 5 in Detroit. Dean, who was first sentenced August 2 to 60 days on a charge of disturbing the peace in Detroit, escaped August 6. Detroit police captured him on November 7.

Daniel Morrison, 18 and Robert F. Ference, 19, both of Detroit, were among four youths, including a North-ville 17-year-old, who pleaded guilty to having liquor in their possession.

Morrison was ordered to pay $15 costs for a violation that occurred November 23 on Seven Mile road near the Fish Hatchery. Fine and costs were suspended against Ference, who was involved in the same incident.

Robert E. Sanderson, 20, of Detroit paid a $22.50 fine and $5 costs for a drinking infraction that took place November 14 on Seven Mile road near Sheldon road.

Kerry Luedtke, 226 Church street. was fined $16.50 for having liquor in his possession on November 14 on Griswold street near Main street.

Cited for speeding 50 miles per hour in a 25 zone on East Main street from Hutton street to Seven Mile road, John C. Carver, 17, of 616 Oakland pleaded guilty. He paid a $25 fine and $5 costs. Fred Kehr, 18, of 41821 Quince Drive, Novi, paid a $25 fine on a charge of careless driving November 12 on Church street. He pleaded guilty at his

A Detroit man accused of armed robbery was bound over to Wayne county circuit court Monday by Judge Charles McDonald in Northville Municipal court.

William M. Scott, 22, pleaded not guilty during examination and bond was continued at $5,000.

He is suspected of holding up Herbert Koester, a Novi resident, at gun point in the parking lot of the Northville hotel. About $160 was stolen from Koester's wallet, it was reported.

Scott was later identified in the police lineup in Redford, police said. He had been picked up November 1 as a suspect in the theft of a coat, police reported.

Bond was set at $500 on Michael A. Gallagher, 19, of Detroit who is being charged with escape from the Detroit House of Correction. He was bound over to circuit courtafter standing mute. The court entered a plea of not guilty.

Gallagher was originally sentenced to one year in prison when he was found guilty of violating the state narcotics law. He began serving his term in September, but was reported escaped on October 7. He was apprehended October 12 in Hamtramck, and returned to the Detroit House of Correction, it was reported.

Bradley Foster, 21, of Walled Lake was found guilty of driving while his license was revoked. At his trial Monday. Foster was fined $50 and sentenced to two days which he has already served. it was reported.

Found guilty of having liquor in his possession on Maybury Sanatorium property, Mary A. Russell, 42, of Detroit was ordered to pay $25 costs. William Barry, 25, of Plymouth was found guilty on a reduced charge of reckless driving and was fined $75 and $5 costs.

Richard J. Schroeder, 18, of Detroit pleaded guilty to two counts. He was assessed a $20 fine and $10 costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 50 zone on Seven Mile road and $10 costs for driving a defective vehicle.

Walter A. Wittrick, 20, of Plymouth pleaded guilty to having liquor in his possession last Friday on Northville road and paid costs of $25.

Frederick H. Hovis, 18, was also cited for having liquor in his possession and was fined $38.50 and $15 costs. He pleaded not guilty at his arraignment November 21 and at his trial Monday. Case against David K. McCotters, 46. of Whitmore Lake was dismissed. He had been charged with violation of a basic speed law that resulted in a property damage and personal injury accident on Seven Mile road.

One night, while traveling, we stopped at a motel. In the stillness of the room, I heard my young son reading to his younger brother. I listened, surprised, for he was reading the motel's Bible. He stumbled over some of the words, but still there was a clarity to their meaning as he pronounced them. Passages, spoken in his childish voice, had a certain simplicity.

Children approach things directly, with open minds and hearts. In this fashion, my young sons were approaching the Bible. In this fashion, so should many of us return to it again. Bring the Bible back into your life. You will find a guiding light to help you in the church of your choice.

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

Rev. R. A. Mitchinson New Hudson Methodist Church

The four Sundays preceding Christmas for the Christian is known as the season of Advent. During this time, Christians prepare themselves to celebrate the birth of Christ. What kind of preparation will we make for the coming Christmas Day? Will our preparation take the form of worship, prayer, study, and sacrificial service to others? Or, will we prepare for the birthday of our Lord by frantically buying gifts, sending cards to others who we anticipate will send to us, only to find that our strength has been sapped leaving us incapable of entering into the real joy of the season? We are all caught up in this wild frenzy. Few of us with a clear conscience can say that we are

Many of us are missing out in sharing in that powerful love of God that comes to us in the birth and life of Jesus. The writer of John's Gospel describes the event in these words: "And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth. We beheld the glory as the only son from the Father." (John 1:14) What is meant then is that in Jesus Christ we see God. which is the Christian doctrine of the incarnation. In short, the life of Christ bears witness to the fact that the Word did become flesh - God among us "full of grace and truth."

We must do more than get a little sentimental over a baby in a manger or the coming Christmas Day will mean very little. When we bow in worship, we worship more than a baby in a manger; we worship the Christ who dies on the cross. At this season of the year we see a baby in a manger and hear the words of the angels, "For to you is born this day in the city of David, a Savior, who is Christ the Lord." Yet, we also see an empty tomb and hear the angels speak again of another birth into eternal life. "He is not here. He is risen." So our lives must reflect the fact that the babe is God, for the Church exists to testify "that the Word became flesh and dwelt among us."

The only meaningful way to celebrate this season of Advent is for the Word of God to become flesh in our lives. Those who have never seriously considered the Christian life might prepare themselves for a more meaningful existence by acquainting themselves with the life and teachings of Jesus. Go with him through the pages of the Gospels as he gives himself untiringly for others. Watch him heal the sick and cause the lame to walk. Sit with him as he visits the tax collectors and sinners. Stand with him before his accusers and agonize with him in pain upon the cross. Follow the disciples to the empty tomb and hear the angels say, "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" If one will seriously do this, he will discover what Jesus did for man through the all inclusive love of God and what God is continually seeking to do for us. So whether this season will be different than any other depends upon our response. For the Christian it demands a deepening of faith and a new experience of Christ if the presence of Godis to be felt by others. For the non-Christian it demands an honest search and hopefully a change in attitude and a birth of

Sell Candy To Brighten Christmas

With an eye towards helping youngsters have a merrier Christmas, the Double N Riders 4-H Club has launched its annual candy

Made up of boysandgirls from the Northville-Novi area, the club uses part of the money raised through the sale to purchase Christmas and birthday gifts for "forgotten" children at the Plymouth State Home and Training School. This project is a continuing one.

Selling candy house-tohouse, the 4-H'ers are offering caramel pecantorte, Mr. Michigan barkandhard candy in a Christmas tree bank. Persons who may be missed in this canvas are asked to call either 349-2076 or 349-0342.

The 4-H'ers also will be selling candy in the Manufacturers National Bank. Northville, December 12-14 from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. and all-day, December 15-

One of those days when your phone means so much

Whoops! The folks. And earlier than expected. So, you call the neighbor for the roll-away bed you borrowed last time. The butcher for a bigger roast. The girl next door to pick up the children. Five calls to cancel the Neighborhood Mothers' meeting. And finally, you call your sister-in-law to tell her that they've arrived. What else in your home does so much tor you, and costs so little?

WINTER OIL CHANGES

ARE VITAL

If there was over a time when "Preventative Maintenance" returned a profit on the investment, that time is now.

When the temperature declines below 0 degrees F., an important change takes place in your engine. Water that stoys in the air as humidity in warm weather, changes to liquid in cold. It forms as frost on crankcase walls and melts into the oil.

This water in your oil creates acid that eats into cylinder wells. And sludge — a sticky vernish that gums up oil passages and cuts off oil flow. Both build up quickly with start-ston runs.

Malicious Damage Tops Novi Blotter

The busiest October in the Novi police department's history was topped by 40 cases of malicious destruction of property. There were 365 cases investigated, 45 more than last year's previous high.

Complaints of loose animals, mainly horses, continued to rise, with 10 separate incidents being reported in a 24-hour period during October 7 and 8. "Perhaps we need a local ordinance to make animal owners realize their responsibility to their neighbors," Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole declared.

There was a bright spot in October's police report. "As a result of continuous enforcement of our hunting permit system, we only received three trespass cases involving hunters, the lowest ever," BeGole explained. Over 900 hunting permits were issued, it was reported.

Novi police also handled 40 accidents, a high number, BeGole said. Fines assessed by Justices of the Peace Robert K. Anderson and Emery Jacques also hit a high for October -

Total number of traffic tickets issued, however declined to 172. Peak -year was reached in 1964 when 228 motorists were cited. There were 287 verbal warnings in lieu of traffic tick-

"Due to the great amount of time spent by officers investigating cases, taking them to court, etc., the man hours available for general patrol and traffic law enforcement were greatly decreased," the chief explained.

sult in 14 to 15 families per acre. It was originally proposed that 312 multi units be allowed on the 22 acres. With this figure in mind the 19 acres would contain 275 multi units.

2. Traffic Congestion-Allowing each apartment unit one car would result in 275 automobiles being congested in this small area. The people were opposed because of this traffic congestion.

3. Loss of the wooded area and the scenic area in which they live-Mr. Healy quoted Vilican-Leman, saying that this was a major conservation area and that apartments would afford a transition between Commercial and residential, that what was proposed here is a setting of high concentration that is going to take something from the adjacent owners. The very thing that attracts the developer to this site is the very thing that he destroys for his neighbors. He further stated that some consideration might be given to a green belt buffer next to the Simpson property. He referred to an article which had been printed in the Northville Record which stated that approximately 13,210 people would be living on a 130 acre site and the land would be completely developed in five years. From this it is contemplated that the planning would be 14 families to the acre. The petitioners would like to be assured there would be no further multiple zoning in this area. Mr. Healy then presented a petition with 25 signatures from the Plymouth Township residents who were opposed to this zoning, stating that in the face of the 170 original petition signatures from Northville Township residents, one would wonder if any place in the Township would be free from a developer wanting to change the zoning of the Township.

Mr. Healy thanked the Boards for their kindnesses.

Supervisor Merriam read into the record a letter from Wayne County Coordinating Zoning Committee referring to a special meeting held on Nov. 10. 1966, to review Northville Township's proposed rezoning in the southwest corner of Section 14, from R-4 to R-M. It was the Committee's unanimous opinion that this proposed zoning should be considered as an internal matter without recommendation. Also, letter from the Detroit Regional Planning Commission stating that it was their opinion that this site had adequate land area and access to permit the zoning change provided that A...The proposed use would be a residential development; B-That the height, setback, land coverage and density requirements as set forth in the Northville Township Zoning Ordinance were fully adhered to.

Mr. Littell, attorney for the Greenspan Builders, spoke on their behalf and reviewed the background of the requested zoning. He stated that the points made by Mr. Healy were almost wholly points that had been made before the Planning Commission at previous meeting but he would review

1. Population Density-Mathematics would establish the maximum number of housing units. If 19 acres are rezoned for R-M use, they will be constructed according to the Zoning Ordinance and the balance of these acres would, as stated time and time again, be single family residences. Multiply the number of single family residences by the family percentage factor and multiply the number of apartments by that factor and it will not be any 13,000 persons. He further stated that Greenspan had no intention of seeking any more multiple zoning in the future.

2. Automobile Traffic-Traffic hazards by themselves do not have any bearing in zoning.

3. Loss of Scenic Beauty- Couldn't understand the basis of such an objection. When Greenspan builds on the 12 acre site, they will have to remove trees to build homes. In the reverse, they might add scenic beauty. From the start, the builder planned on building green belts and when Greenspan goes to the Planning Commission with their plans for developing, that is the time when the green belt requirement may be made.

When referred to, Mr. Ashton said he did not feel that it was necessary for him to comment on any of the arguments of Mr. Healy or Mr. Lit-

Mr. Stromberg asked to be able to explain the drawing of the proposed R-M Zoning. The 22 acres that were asked for had been cut to 19 acres, that green belt buffer areas

Mr. Healy suggested that the Township Board ask for an eight foot green belt in addition to the zoning set back. Supervisor Merriam asked if Mr. Healy was requesting that the Township Board condition their rezoning and request an eight foot green belt.

Mr. Ashton stated that the Township Board had no power to condition any rezoning. If the Ordinance did not have the green belt, the Board could not require the green belt as a condition to granting the zoning.

Mr. Baldwin referred to Mr. Healy's reference to the Area being considered a Major Conservation Area. He pointed out that by definition of the Planner a "Major Conservation Area is one that contains a number of substandard dwellings which if allowed to further deteriorate would convert the area to a redevelopment area subject to a costly redevelopment pro-

15% Increase In Mail Volume

Acting Postmaster John Steimel reminded Northville residents this week that there are only 25 mailing days before Christmas.

"While that may seem like a long time to most people, it is frighteningly short to those of us in the postal service," he said.

"We are asking everyone to start thinking about their Christmas shopping and mailing now. If all the holiday mail were to hit the postal system at one time, it is obvious that we'd have difficulty delivering every piece on time."

The Northville post office expects to handle 15 percent more pieces of mail during the holiday rush, the postmaster said.

Last year the public cooperation was "tremendous", according to Mr. Steimel. Virtually every piece of holiday mail was delivered before Christmas day. This year with increased volume because of the continuing strength of the economy we are hoping to see that fine cooperative spirit again. Postmaster Steimel offered these mail-

- Use ZIP codes on all mail. "If there are some ZIP codes that you still need for your mailing list come to the post office and look them up in our ZIP Code directory or call.

- Prepare your gift list right away. The earlier you do your shopping, the better chance you have to get exactly what you want while the stores are still full of merchandise. That way, you can mail earlier too.

- Be sure to have enough boxes, tape, string and wrapping paper on hand.

- Wrap your packages well. Include sufficient padding. Remember, that your parcel may be shipped in a mail sack with a set of the encyclopedia riding on

Include a card or piece of paper inside the package with your name and address and that of the person you are sending the parcel to in case the wrapping should be loose and come off.

That way you can be assured your gift will not wind up in the dead parcel office. Also, insert a list of the package's contents.

- Address your gifts and greetings clearly so that postal workers will have no difficulty in reading the destination. Use firstclass postage on greeting cards. This assures their being forwarded if the recipient has moved. Cards that are undeliverable will be returned to you when you include a return address on the envelope.

- Most important, mail early.

School Reports On Curriculum Study

tion of the Northville public schools have been taking a good hard look at the instructional program provided for children during recent curriculum work sessions.

To date, work sessions have been conducted, one on October 5 and another on November 2. The next is scheduled for December 7.

An attempt to establish guidelines was the prime concern of the initial meeting, officials note in a progress report. The session featured a talk on "Meeting the Needs of All Students" by Dr. Virginia Svagr. Following her address, teachers met in grade level or department groups for the purpose of identifying the areas in the curriculum needing immediate attention.

On October 26 the grade level and department chairmen met with Raymond Spear, assistant superintendent, to discuss the concerns of the staff submitted in their minutes of the October 5 meeting - in an attempt to establish district-wide committees to study areas of greatest concern.

Dr. George Mills of the University of Michigan was the guest speaker at the second work session, November 2. His presentation established evaluative criteria which the staff should consider in working on curriculum improvement.

This presentation was again followed by grade level and department meetings to continue study of curriculum concerns and problems.

Currently, two committees are made up of teacher representatives from each grade level in the elementary school and each department in the junior and senior high schools. One committee is studying the local curriculum as it relates to meeting the needs of slow learners, and the other committee is concentrating on the development of philosophy, goals and objectives of the instructional program.

These two committees, officials note, "should provide us with an excellent evaluation of our over-all curriculum."

While these committees concentrate on the total curriculum, the grade level and department committees will be concentrating on specific problems at their level of assignment.

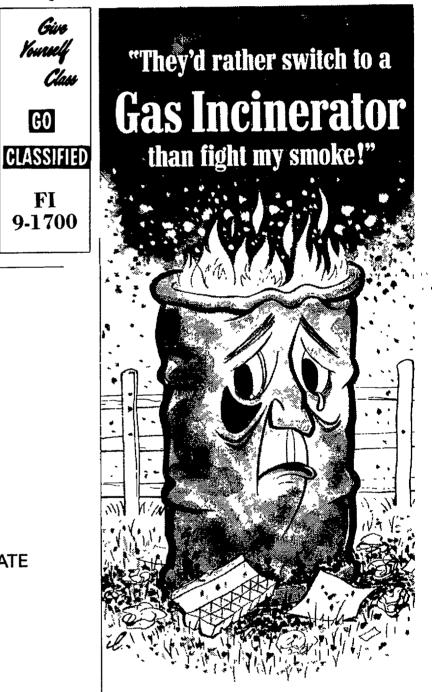

'It will be our objective of the curriculum work sessions (December 7. January 11, February 1, March 1, April 5, and May 3)," officials explain, "to establish curriculum content and direction in order that up-dating, strengthening and improving of the curriculum may take place in the coming year."

A final report will be developed at the end of the current school year. Parents may call at the superintendent's office to borrow a copy for review.

"We appreciate," conclude the report, "The support of the board of education and the citizens of our school district in providing time for us to concentrate our efforts on the curriculum, and would like to inform you of what we are doing and what progress is being

News About Schoolcraft

The first two of three Christmas season musical programs will be presented December 7 and 8 by the Schoolcraft College creative arts series. All programs are free to the public.

On Wednesday night, December 7, the 60 voice Schoolcraft College Evening Choir will offer its annual Christmas concert at 8 p.m. in the Waterman Center. Directed by Wayne Dunlap, the choir will present two Christmas cantatas and a group of Spanish Christmas carols. The cantatas are "Good Christian Men, With Joy Draw Near," by the 17th century composer Buxtehude, and a work entitled simply "Christmas Cantata" by the young American composer Daniel Pinkham.

The choir will be accompanied in the Pinkham cantata by two brass instrumental choirs composed of students from the college and members of the Plymouth Symphony.

Allen Shaffer is assistant conductor of the choir.

At II p.m. on Thursday morning, December 8, the Beaumont String Quartet composed of faculty members at Michigan State university, will perform three quartets in a concert in the li-Quartet members are Romeo Tata and Theodore Johnson, violin; Lyman Bodman, viola; and Louis Potter Jr., cello.

A musical group of distinction with a growing reputation throughout Michigan, the quartet will perform the Beethoven Quartet in G Major, Opus 18, No. 2; Quartet, Opus 11 by Samuel Barber; and the Quartet in F Major by Maurice Ravel.

"Hiroshima, Mon Amour," will be the final film offering on Schoolcraft's college fall semester Creative Arts on the Campus series when the brilliant French cinema masterpiece is shown at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., Friday, December 2, in the amphitheatre in the Forum.

Regarded as a landmark in the history of the film form, "Hiro-shima" has won a number of awards and is on the "10 Best" lists of The New York Times and Time Magazine. Both performances are open to the public without charge. ******

Planning for a membership campaign on behalf of the recently organized Schoolcraft College Foundation has begun with the appointment of a membership committee headed by Kenneth E. Hulsing of Plymouth.

Hulsing and other committee members, Mrs. Alex Nelson of Northville, and Robert K. Barbour of Plymouth, will meet with Schoolcraft President Dr. EricJ. Bradner on December 12 to develop a membership plan and begin organization of a campaign.

The committee was appointed by Foundation Vice President Philip R. Ogilvie, Northville attorney, who presided at a meeting of the group's board of trustees on November 17.

Residents of the college district organized the Foundation as a non-profit corporation to aid Schoolcraft by developing trust and endowment funds for the institution.

Among its projects are the development of funds to match a $10,000 grant, nowheldinescrow, for student aid by Sheldon Haves of Northville, and funds for the construction of a fine arts center on the campus.

McIntosh's Plug for Romney Forecasted

are often as deceiving and uncertain as weather forecasts, but occasionally even long-range projections written by journalists in the political field can be favorably reviewed.

One such example is a prediction made over a year ago when Gov, George Romney appointed Robert J. McIntosh, a former Congressman from Port Huron, to head the strategic State Department of Commerce.

Long-time capitol observers noted this post, newly created through the reorganization of state government, was one which would allow McIntosh to do quite a bit of traveling on behalf of Romney personally as well as on official business.

POLITICALLY ASTUTE McIntosh could get the new department in good 1966 election, the pundits said, and then he would be free to resign, turning the department over to a trained assistant and directing his efforts at the Governor's 1968 potential.

Having come back into state government as a trouble-shooter for Romney, McIntosh had quickly become one of the few really close confidantes of the Gov-

With these observations and predictions set down in October, 1965, when McIntosh was appointed to Commerce, it came as little surprise this year when McIntosh resigned from the department less than a month after Romney's sweep at the polls.

Romney remained coy about Mc-Intosh, but the former Congressman openly admitted he intended to direct his future efforts at boosting the Gover-nor as a potential Republican Presidential nominee in 1968.

Coyness on Romney's part came as no surprise. In each of his previous political steps, he has waited for what he considered the right moment to announce his intentions even if his announcement was what everyone else had been stating as fact for months.

With the prospect of a serious third party candidate, Alabama's ex-Gov. Georg- Willace, Republicans soon will be pinning down prospects such as Romney so the troops can be brought in line for the '68 battle.

DEMOCRATS announced their legislative program two years ago when they took majority control. The proposals were unveiled just days before Republican Governor George Romney made his program known to the legislature.

The two programs who wary similar, both in general and specific terms. That they would be similar was known to the Democrats. Their early introduction was aimed at being able to take credit for ac omplishing "their pro-

This year the Democrats lost the majority, but one of the few remaining office-holders from the Party has again jumped the gun on the Governor.

NOT QUITE NEW, but with a few fresh proposals, the traffic safety progiam announced by Secretary of State James M. Hare contains many of the ideas pushed unsuccessfully in previous years by him . I, the Governor, the State Safety Commission and several other agencies.

Implied consent legislation in drunk driving cases, state-sponsored annual vehicle inspection, more leeway in applying the point system in certain cases, periodic physical examinations for drivers, and generally stricter enforcement of laws against delinquent drivers were among the priorities on Hare's list.

Since there has been an implied threat against Michigan's federal highway funds if some substantial traffic safety legislation is not enacted, many of the segments of Hare's legislative program are sure to be included in Gov. Romney's "State of the State" address to the legislature two months hence.

SURPRISE was expressed by some political observers that the 18-year-old vote referendum did not fare better with Michigan voters than it did.

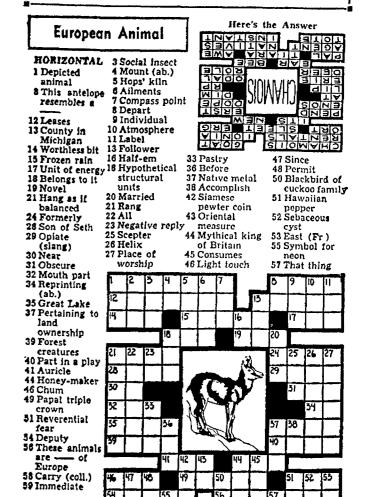

After all, they noted, the Republican Governor was behind it, as were many leaders of the Democratic Party, And it sailed through both houses of the legislature with almost no opposition on its way to the ballot test.

The key to defeat seemed to lie in two factors. Lowering the voting age by three years would be a rather radical move and Michigan voters, in the main, tend to be conservative in change.

A second factor, well known to the politicians who had to vote on it before it could be considered by the people, was that history tended to foreclose

Why the overwhelming supportfrom political leaders? It could do no harm to support a proposal they were quite sure would lose, but failure to endorse it could prove fatal if by some quirk it

'67 Labor Fireworks

BABSON PARK, Mass., - Things will be rough and tumble with management and labor during the coming year. On this, both antagonists agree ... what with growing worry, on the one hand, about a mounting squeeze on profit margins and determination, on the other, to keep pay rates pushing constantly high-

There were fireworks aplenty during 1966, but there will be considerably more over the twelve months ahead. For one thing, upwards of 2,000,000 employees in forms having 5,000 or more workers will be involved in contract negotiations in 1967. This compares with less than half that number for 1966. Looming head and shoulders above the rest are next September's auto agreements, covering more than 614,000 employees of the Big Three. Negotiations will begin by midyear.

While autos will doubtless catch the limelight, plenty of big-scale confrontations will be seen in other industries too. In March, contracts covering some 336,400 regional teamsters are due to expire, so that sparring in this line can be expected to become brisk soon after New Year's. There will be wage negotiations also during 1967 in telephone service, women's clothing, processed foods, hotel service, rubber (the Big Four), building, electronics (RCA), meat packing, office equipment, farm equipment, and machinery.

THE PRODUCTIVITY guidepost sanctioning wage increases of 3.2% a year has long since been scrapped by both unions and employers. Perhaps the most convincing funeral dirge for the guidepost was sung when the airlines accepted a settlement providing a 6.5% annual pay boost earlier this year, just about twice the guidepost percentage. And there have been lots of other big annual pay increases that will spur unionists to go for all that the market will bear in both wages and fringes during 1967.

It should not be forgotten, either, that the federal minimum wage faces a hike from $1.25 to $1.40 an hour next February. This will not only give fresh encouragement to union negotiators seeking new concessions for low-pay workers in general, but will also start a whole new upspiral of wage adjustments to maintain differentials at all higher-pay levels. Rising living costs have already acted as a lever to hoist union demands, and they will continue to do so as long as the fundamental trend is toward higher ground. Unions will not hesitate to call strikes where they do not get what they consider a fair share of the profits pie. Nor will employers always give in easily during 1967, especially since the boom is showing signs of flagging. Stiffening on both sides when employment is at such high levels could mean quite a rash of strikes ... despite indications that workers dislike to take the income losses caused by walkouts.

IT IS NOT safe to ignore the possibility of new legislation that would involve forced arbitration if deadlocks are prolonged. England tried such tactics, and the lid was clamped on by a Labor government. It could conceivably happen here. Meanwhile, neither management nor labor is going to act as though it might happen. Every possible wage hike will be sought during forthcoming bargaining, and at least part of the ensuing rise in product and service costs will be passed along in higher prices.

It is possible that rising costs and tight money will hold back capital expenditures over coming months enough to dampen the inflationary fires a bit. And there is still the possibility of tax increases, both personal and corporate. that could bring some deflationary influence. In any event, the coming battle will be a big one; and this time, labor as well as the public - could be the

Which costs more—oil heat or gas?

Gas does, if you now have oil heat equipment. Consider these things. You can pay hundreds of dollars to have a new gas heating system installed. Your pilot light can cost about $10 a year. You can be penalized for late payment of monthly gas bills. You have none of these with oil. Besides, you get 4% less usable heat with gas per BTU purchased as compared with oil. Now you can get a 2-yr or 50,000 mile power train warranty when you buy a 1,2, or 3 year old used Ford car!

Eliminate the possibility of high-cost repair bills . . . on '64, '65 and '66s . . . Ford Motor Company now takes the doubt out of buying a used car. The factory-backed warranty will cover your purchase of any used 1964, 1965 or 1966 Ford Motor Company car that has been certified and registered by a participating dealer.

Here's what we mean by it being good for 2 years or a total of 50,000 miles of operation. Say you buy a car with 30,000 miles. Then you're covered for another 20,000 miles. For a total of 50,000 miles. But maybe you don't drive that much. Maybe it would take you several years to run up a total of 50,000 miles. If so, we measure your warranty period in time. Northville lost one of its wealthiest residents when Harold Hartley passed away suddenly Friday evening.

The carpenter-poet-license bureau operator led a life that was rich in doing the things that he enjoyed with friends and family. An extremely sensitive man, Mr. Hartley set goals for humanity that were measured not in dollars and cents, but in understanding and brotherhood.

"Push-pulls, ovals-penmanship," I barked, "your writing class. How are

I needn't have asked. It was obvious by the geography report I had just read that she was ready for a remedial-writing course. Some sentences struggled unsuccessfully to climb peaks, others stumbled wildly downhill, and still others sort of jumped into a big pile near the center of the page. A naive' parent, perhaps, I wasn't prepared for the answer.

'We don't have that."

Restrained, considerate, polite, I dodged the answer and calmly sought an explanation.

"Don't sass me, young lady. You know perfectly well what I'm talking about. Your writing is atrocious. Obviously, you're not taking your writing class seriously enough.

Whereupon I launched into a lengthy discourse on the importance of a good 'hand', noting eloquently that penmanship was akin to good grooming and winding up with something about winning friends, marriage and happy life.

Unfortunately, the tears she offered up were not triggered by my elo-

"Now look what you've done. Can't you ever do anything right," the girl's mother came to her defense. "She doesn't have a class in penmanship. They don't have that sort of thing anymore. Now tell her you're sorry."

Wives have a habit of butting in just when a guy's making a little headway. But since she insisted in joining the lecture, I figured I could take on both of them and maybe mend a fence along the way.

"I would remind you," I said sweetly, "that our courtship was carried out by mail. I'm not suggesting that I fell in love with your writing, you understand, but it was attractive and influencing. And I've a hunch that's why you're saving my old letters." "Well! If that's all you care about ..." and off she went to join her pouting daughter.

By now I was a little sorry that I'd read the geography report. What did it matter? She could always learn to type. Nevertheless, that part about 'no penmanship class' nagged me. So I did a little investigating and learned that penmanship has indeed gone the way of pledging allegiance to the flag, morning prayer, and marbles shooters.

Oh, sure, they still give kids lessons in printing and writing, I'm told, but nothing like those rituals in penmanship that we used to enjoy. An hour a day, every day. Push-pulls, ovals, curves. Pages of 'free hand' until your fingers ached.

'Don't carve your letters; loosen up. Okay, now, one-two, one-two, onetwo." Gone, I'm afraid, forever.

The loss is especially meaningful to me because, as I recall, the penmanship mark on my report card was probably what saved me from a more frequent meeting with the razor strap.

As for the two pouting females, I was able to regain their friendship while proving my point about a good 'hand'. I simply slipped a note under the bedroom door. The note? Why, 'I love you,' of changed.

We know that the only way to prevent war is to eliminate the causes of war. To this end the United States took the lead in creating, and today wholeheartedly supports, the United Nations. The United States was the first nation to ratify the charter of the United Nations. The Senate approved it by the overwhelming vote of 89-2. This could not have come about without our precious heritage of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States of America. The Bill of Rights of the Constitution is projected into the United Nations Charter which was unanimously approved by the United States, Great Britain, France, China, the Soviet Union and twenty-four other states and became effective Oct. 24, 1945.

President Kennedy said, "The fact that our Constitution already assures us of these rights does not entitle us to stand aloof from documents which project our own heritage on an international scale. The United States can not afford to renounce responsibility for support of the very fundamentals which distinguish our concept of government from all forms of tyranny."

In its short life the U.N. has not brought an end to world tensions and the threat of a third world war. Because of this some say the U.N. is a failure. But these people overlook a most important fact. The U.N. is not a world government. The U.N. can only be as effective as we will make it, we the United States, and the other nations of the world. At another critical time in our history, Abraham Lincoln reminded his countrymen of their previous heritage when he described the United Statesas, "a nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all menare created equal". Today, a century later and in a time even more precarious, how well and how hard will you work to carry on what has been "thus far so nobly advanced? Respectfully yours,

$\star$ $\star$ $\star$ Cheer a Patient

To the Editor:

Each year at this season we receive requests from individuals and groups interested in remembering our patients at Northville State Hospital.

Relatives, of course, assume the major responsibility of remembering our patients. There are a limited number, however, without relative or friend, who indeed would appreciate a gift from a donor.

Often of much greater value and of a durability beyond the Christmas Season itself are worthwhile gifts to ward areas and departments - gifts which make much more effective our efforts in patient care. Appliances of many kinds, musical instruments, sewing machines, recreational equipment - these are a few which have been well received. Frequently several donations can be combined into the purchase of a real resource for more effective treatment plans.

If interested in our hospital's 1966 Christmas, please call or write a card or letter to the Community Relations Department.

Sincerely, Louis J. Schuldt, Director Community Relations Dept. Northville State Hospital

The house wasn't packed. There was a decided lack of formality. No applause shook the auditorium. But what took place last week at Northville high school was hardly a failure.

The Wayne County Intermediate office of Education, namely, Bob Wall, brought the Eastern Michigan University Lab theatre to town to stage two contemporary plays, "The Tiger" by Murray Schisgal and "Things That Go Bump in the Night" by Terrence Mc-Nally.

To the aficianado, the plays, good or bad, were rewarding; it was a chance to see two disparate but controversial plays. That was merely the immediate effect. The evening had far reaching implications.

Theatre in the United States is experiencing a revival. Not so much through the production of new plays, although there are many prolific, daring new playwrights: Edward Albee, Frederick Durrenmatt, Harold Pinter and Murray Schisgal, to name a few. Revival is coming about through a new movement that is sweeping the nation and gaining momentum.

Just as the novel came to roost on the college campus, where the seeds of creativity can grow unsullied by pressing financial worries, so is the theatre. Universities are serving as proving grounds, as experimental stations for the nurturing and perpetuation of dramatic talents of playwrights and actors, amateurs and professionals.

"We don't have to concern ourselves with popularity," Professor James Gousseff of Eastern's speech department said. This is the cornerstone of today's movement. In the rarified, subsidized air of the campus, the theatre escapes the constricting controls of popularity. Broadway no longer has a life-and-death grip on the theatre.

Evidence of this new revival abounds. Repertory companies, such as the University of Michigan's professional theatre program, sprang into existence, and are growing in popularity. The John Fernald company, the first resident professional company in Michigan, will make its debut January 4 at the Meadow Brook theatre at Oakland University.

To a lesser degree, perhaps, but nonetheless significantly, Eastern Michigan University's Lab theatre is a part of the new movement - injecting new life into the drama on the college level. Previously, drama was simply discussed or playfully acted out in the classroom. Now, Eastern Michigan university, like other universities, is seriously attempting to turn out playwrights, actors and directors.

This school year, the Lab theatre is presenting its first full-scale series of plays. "It's a faculty experiment,"

Gouseff explained. "We focus on quality acting and directing in the lab," Professor Gousseff stated, About 114 students are studying under his direction. "We stage experimental scenes and Fridays we have 'free-for-alls', production of plays or bits of plays in class." "The Tiger" and "Things That Go Bump in the Night" were originally classroom projects. "They were two of the first three classroom-directed exercizes of any length that proved popular enough," Gousseff said. Encouraged by Wall, Professor Gousseff and the students brought the plays to North-

"The Tiger," directed by Pat Patterson, is a comedy which exposes the plight of the professed non-conformist, Ben (Ted Mills), who actually conforms in his non-conformity. Although all of the humerous subtleties of the play did not come across, the play was provoc-

Ben, a frustrated, 32-year-old who failed his college entrance exam, captures a trollop house-wife, Gloria (Linda Siglin), in hopes of asserting his masculinity and defying the order. He's a Tiger who proves to be toothless. Gloria is just as shallow as the frustrated female. The two fall to infatuation under the guise of love.

Mills, who began weakly, warms up to his part. Miss Siglin seems to stay on the periphery of her role; she's a bit too girlish and mannerly.

Only a selected slice of "Things That Go Bump" (normally about a twohour drama) were staged to give the audience a taste of something different. Directed by David Siglin, the foreshortened production was somewhat confusing, but stimulating. It did provide some promising acting.

It's a futuristic play of despairing hope. Illusion is confused with reality. An imaginary, yet real-in-the-mind fence of fear threatens a family of four who live in a dismal basement. What's better? To romantically brave the outside and perish or to passively cloister inside the basement and live. The author's answer; better to live.

George McCould as Sigfrid, the rebellious son, explodes on the scene and gives the play its needed intensity and fury. Marie Miller as Ruby, the ruling matriarch, does a creditable job, especially since she was a fill-in.

The evening's entertainment didn't end with the plays. Adding to it was an informal discussion, moderated by Wall. Questions were asked by the audience and answered by the two student directors.

As experiments, the plays were a success. The university, educators, budding actors, actresses and directors should be lauded for their contribution.
